V. 7. The manna was as coriander-seed—Not for colour, for that is black, but for shape and figure. And the colour as bdellium—A gem or pearl, wherewith the manna agrees both in its colour which is white, and in its figure which is round.

V. 8. The taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil—Of the most excellent oil, or like wafers made with honey (Exod. xvi. 31.), The nature and use of manna is here thus particularly described to shew the greatness of their sin in despising such food.

V. 9. When the dew fell, the manna fell upon it—And then the dew fell again upon it and covered it (Exod. xvi. 13, 14.), so the manna lay hid as it were between two beds of dew. Hence the phrase of hidden manna, Rev. ii. 17.

V. 10. Moses heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent—They were not ashamed of their sin. They expressed their discontent before their families, and at their doors to all that saw or heard them. Are those that live about me, or with me, witnesses of my discontent and sorrow at what God is pleased to order concerning me? Surely a deep sleep has come upon us, when we feel ourselves dissatisfied with any thing God is pleased to send or take away, and are without fear of danger, and without cries for mercy, and that God would renew right spirits within us. Let us do ourselves the justice to consider what must be the condition of a soul taken away from this life of trial, in a state of displeasure under the very government of God on earth. Will that soul enter his sacred courts above with praise, and rejoice that the same God for ever reigns? Can a mind discontented with God dwell with God? Surely not. But my discontent and sorrow is not against any thing that God has done? It is if that discontent and sorrow is not confined to sin as the sole cause. God is the author of all things but sin—disobedience to himself. There is not a blessing which his mercy does not bestow; there is not a suffering which his justice does not inflict. The anger of the Lord was kindled greatly—Against their discontent. Moses also was displeased—At their great ingratitude.

V. 11. Moses said unto the Lord, Wherefore hast thou afflicted thy servant—For what cause am I to be thus afflicted? Wherefore have I not found favour in thy sight? That I thus suffer by seeing the sinfulness of this people, over whom I am placed by thy appointment. Why didst thou not hear my prayer, when I desired thou wouldest excuse me, and commit the care and government of this unruly people to some other person.

V. 12. Have I conceived all this people? Have I begotten them—Are they my children, that I should be obliged to provide for them. That thou shouldest say unto me, Carry them in thy bosom (as a nursing father beareth the sucking child)—Which expression shews the tender care and affection that governors, by the command of God, ought to have to their people.

V. 14. I am not able to bear all this people—The burden of providing for and satisfying of them.

V. 15. Kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, and let me not see my wretchedness—My evil, my intolerable anguish and torment, arising from the difficulty of my office, and work of ruling this people, and from the dread of their utter extirpation which they will bring upon themselves, and the dishonour which thence will accrue to God and to religion.

V. 16. The Lord said unto Moses, Gather unto me seventy, whom thou knowest to be the elders—Whom thou by experience discernest to be elders, not only in years, but in wisdom and authority with the people.

V. 17. I will come down—By my powerful presence and operation. I will take of the spirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them—I will give the same spirit to them which I have given to thee. But as the spirit was not conveyed to them from or

Before Christ 1490.

with thee, that thou bear it not thy self alone.

18 And say thou unto the people, Sanctify yourselves against to morrow, and ye shall eat flesh (for you have wept in the ears of the Lord, saying, Who shall give us flesh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt) therefore the Lord will give you flesh, and ye shall eat.

19 Ye shall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days;

o Psal. 78. 29. & 106. 15. ‡ Heb. month of days.

20 o But even a ‡ whole month, until it come out at your nostrils, and it be loathsome unto you: because that ye have despised the Lord which is among you, and have wept before him, saying, p Why came we forth out of Egypt?

p Chap. 21. 5.

21 And Moses said, q The people amongst whom I am, are six hundred thousand footmen; and thou hast said, I will give them flesh, that they may eat a whole month.

Before Christ 1490.

q Exod. 12 37. and 38. 26. Chap. 1. 46.

22 r Shall the flocks and the herds be slain for them, to suffice them? or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to suffice them?

r See John 6. 7.

23 And the Lord said unto Moses, s Is the Lord's hand waxed short? thou shalt see now whether my word shall come to pass unto thee, or not.

s Isa. 50. 2. and 59. 1.

24 ¶ And Moses went out and told the people the words of the Lord, and gathered the seventy men of the elders of the people, and set them round about the tabernacle.

25 And the Lord came down in a cloud, and or through Moses, but immediately from God, so the spirit or its gifts were not by this means impaired in Moses. The spirit is here put for the gifts of the spirit, and particularly for the spirit of prophecy, v. 25. whereby they were enabled, as Moses had been and still was, to discern hidden and future things, and resolve doubtful and difficult cases, which made them fit for government. It is observable, that God would not, and therefore men should not, call any persons to any office for which they were not sufficiently fit and qualified.

V. 18. Say thou unto the people, Sanctify yourselves—Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel, in the way of his judgments, and to receive the punishment which God will inflict upon you, for it is evident, from v. 20. that God answered them with a curse instead of a blessing. Prepare yourselves by true repentance, that you may either obtain some mitigation of the plague, or whilst your bodies are destroyed by the flesh you desire and eat, your souls may be saved from the wrath of God. Sanctifying is often used for preparing. For ye have wept in the ears of the Lord—Not secretly in your closets, but openly and impudently in the doors of your tents, ver. 10. calling heaven and earth to witness to your cries and complaints.

V. 19, 20. Ye shall eat, until it be loathsome unto you—Being glutted with the abundance of it. Because ye have despised the Lord—Ye have lightly esteemed his bounty and manifold blessings, you have slighted and distrusted his promises and providence after so long and large experience of it. Which is among you—Who is present with you, to observe all your carriage, and to punish your offences. This is added as a great aggravation of the crime, to sin in the presence of the Judge. And have wept before him, saying, Why came we forth out of Egypt—Why did God do us such an injury? Why did we so foolishly follow and obey him in coming into this place?

V. 21. Moses said, the people amongst whom I am, are six hundred thousand footmen—Fit for war, besides aged men, women, and children. That Moses speaks this as doubting God's word, is evident enough from ver. 22, 23. And that Moses was not remarkably punished for this, as he was afterward for the same sin, Numb. 20. next to God's good pleasure, may be imputed to the different circumstances of this and that sin: This was the first great offence of this kind, and therefore more easily passed by, that was after warning and against more light and experience. This seems to have been spoken secretly in Moses's breast; that openly and publicly before the people, and therefore it was to be openly punished, to prevent the contagion of that example of unbelief and distrust of the mercies of God, and of his power and faithfulness.

V. 22. Shall the flocks and the herds be slain, Or the fish of the sea be gathered together?—Is it possible that this should be done, and how can such a vast multitude of people be supplied but by some such means? How liable are those that have seen most of the power and goodness of God, to forget what they have known of both. Could it be that He who had divided the sea wanted power to do what he promised; or that had delivered them from the cruel bondage of Egypt, want goodness to do that for his people which was best for them. This language of Moses is that of a person who thought the Almighty could not perform his word; and this reasoning from appearances against the faithfulness of God, is written to prevent men from grieving the Holy Spirit of God, by distrusting his promises, when they are proceeding with care in the ways of his will, and of their duty.

V. 23. The Lord said unto Moses—In answer to his doubts. Is the Lord's hand waxed short—Less able to work great and glorious miracles than those thou hast already seen. Thou shalt see now whether my word shall come to pass unto thee or not—That it may be known that all that I have promised, and every word that I have spoken, is as much to be depended on, as if that which is promised or spoken were already performed; and that there is no difference between the promise and the performance with God, as all that believe in all ages shall find to their inexpressible comfort and support in the difficulties, opposition, and temptations, which all will meet with in living to God. And when Moses was referred by the Lord, to what Moses himself had known of the Lord's mighty and gracious works, then his faith appears to have revived; thus beneficial is it to be led to look back on the faithfulness of God as the same is recorded in the Scriptures, and as we have known it of a certainty from the experience of others, and our own.

V. 24. Moses went out—Of the tabernacle, into which he entered to receive God's answers from the Mercy seat, (Numb. vii. 89. And told the people the words of the Lord—As a servant delivers the message of his master. And then Moses gathered the seventy elders round about the Tabernacle—That the awe of God might be imprinted upon their hearts, that they might more seriously undertake, and more faithfully manage their high employment, and to gain them the more authority and respect from the people, and principally, because that was the place where God manifested himself and gave his blessings, and therefore there he would bestow his Spirit upon them.

V. 25. The Lord came down—Appeared in a cloud, and took of the spirit—Of government and of prophecy, that was upon Moses and gave of the same spirit to the seventy elders—And when the spirit and ſpake unto him, and took of the ſpirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the ſeventy elders: and it came to paſs that [t] when the ſpirit reſted upon them, [u] they propheſied, and did not ceaſe.

Before Christ 1490.

t See 2 Kings 2. 15.
u See 1 Sam. 10. 6, 10.

26 But there remained two of the men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad: and the ſpirit reſted upon them (and they were of them that were written, but [x] went not out unto the tabernacle) and they propheſied in the camp.

x See 1 Sam. 20. 26. Jer. 36. 5.

27 And there ran a young man, and told Moſes, and ſaid, Eldad and Medad do propheſy in the camp.

28 And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of Moſes, one of his young men anſwered and ſaid, [y] My lord Moſes, forbid them.

y See Luke 9. 49. John 3. 26.

29 And Moſes ſaid unto him, Envieſt thou for my ſake? [z] would God that all the Lord's people were prophets, and that the Lord would put his ſpirit upon them.

z 1 Cor. 14. 1.

30 And Moſes gat him into the camp, he and the elders of Iſrael.

Before Christ 1490.

31 ¶ And there went forth a [a] wind from the Lord, and brought quails from the ſea, and let them fall by the camp, § as it were a day's journey on this ſide, and as it were a day's journey on the other ſide, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high, upon the face of the earth.

a Exod. 16. 13. Pſa. 78. 26. and 105. 40.
§ Heb. as it were the way of a day.

32 And the people ſtood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails: he that gathered leaſt, gathered ten homers: and they ſpread them all abroad for themſelves round about the camp.

33 And while the [b] fleſh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed; the wrath of the Lord was kindled againſt the people, and the Lord ſmote the people with a very great plague.

b Pſa. 78. 30, 31.

34 And

ſpirit reſted upon them—Acquainting them with the mind and will of God concerning the people, they propheſied—declared to the people the things they were thus taught of God.

V. 26. There remained two of the men in the camp—Not going to the tabernacle, as the reſt did, either modeſtly declining that high employment from an humble ſenſe of their own inſufficiency, or not having ſufficient notice to repair thither: or, being detained in the camp, and in their dwellings, whether by uncleanneſs, or ſickneſs, or ſome urgent occaſion, not without God's ſpecial providence, that ſo the miracle might be more evident, and their call and authority more unqueſtionable to all the people. They were of them that were written—By Moſes, who by God's direction nominated the fitteſt perſons.

V. 27. There ran a young man, and told Moſes—Fearing leaſt his authority ſhould be diminiſhed by their prophecying, and thereby taking authority to themſelves without his knowledge and conſent. If we think it our duty to our ſuperious to carry information to them of abſent perſons, it is our duty to report with great care what was ſaid or done, as it was ſaid or done.

V. 28. Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of Moſes, one of his young men—One of his choice miniſters, a choſen or excellent perſon: which may be emphatically added, to note that even great and good men may miſtake and miſ-judge about the works of God. My lord Moſes, forbid them—He feared that by their uſurpation of authority, the power and eſteem of Moſes might be leſſened, as the next words ſhew.

V. 29. Moſes ſaid unto him, envieſt thou for my ſake—Art thou grieved becauſe the gifts and graces of God are imparted to others beſides me? (Job. iii. 26.) Would God that all the Lord's people were prophets—He ſaith prophets, not rulers, for that he knew could not be, but Moſes knew that it was the will of God, that all the children of Iſrael ſhould be partakers of the ſpirit of God, by which they all for themſelves are enabled to underſtand the will of God and their own duty in all things, and by the influence of the ſame ſpirit, be enabled to love God with all their heart; that they ſhould be able to inform their children and ſtrangers of the inexpreſſible bleſſedneſs there is in poſſeſſing the knowledge and love of God; and Moſes being acquainted with the gracious deſigns of God, in giving his ſpirit to all fleſh, (Acts ii. 17.) he anſwered with a greatneſs, which beſpoke his having much of the ſpirit of God reſting upon him; and that he had no honour or intereſt to be injured, if the knowledge of God was but ſpread among the people.

V. 30. Moſes gat him into the camp—Among the people, to exerciſe the gifts and authority now or formerly received.

V. 31. There went forth a wind from the Lord—An extraordinary and miraculous wind, both for its vehemency and for its effects. And brought quails—A delicious and very nouriſhing food, which, conſidering their greedy appetite, and the newneſs and plenty of it, diſpoſed them to ſurfeits and other diſtempers of body, and prepared the way for the following plague. Two cubits high upon the face of the earth—But the meaning is, that the quails came and fell down round abont the camp, for a whole days journey on each ſide of it, and that in all that ſpace they lay here and there in great heaps, which were in places two cubits high.

V. 32. The people ſtood up—Roſe up, which word is uſed for beginning to do any buſineſs. All that night—Through greedineſs. He that gathered leaſt, gathered ten homers—Ten aſs loads. The gatherers were probably not all the people, which could not be without great confuſion, and other inconveniences, but ſome on the behalf of all, poſſibly one for each family, or the like, while the reſt were exerciſed about other neceſſary things. They ſpread them all abroad for themſelves—That ſo they might dry them, and preſerve them for their future uſe. But where could ſuch quantities of theſe birds be found? Where were the materials found of which the globe on which we live is formed? Human reaſon is within its province, whilſt it is conſidering what it is poſſible for human power to perform; but when reaſon ventures to judge of the Almighty's power, it is the day of boaſting itſelf againſt the hand that formed it.

V. 33. While the fleſh—Of the quails was not yet made uſe of, The wrath of the Lord was kindled againſt the people—For their diſcontent amidſt all the bleſſings he was conſtantly beſtowing upon them. The Lord ſmote the people with a very great plague—That they might humble themſelves under the mighty hand of God, and repent of thoſe evil deſires and murmurings to which they had given way; and that the example of their ſufferings under this plague, might be made the merciful means of cautioning others againſt the ſame ſin, of being diſſatisfied under whatever circumſtances it might pleaſe God to place them. And the crime

Before Christ 1490.

34 And he called the name of that place, ‖ Kibroth-hattaavah: becauſe there they buried the people that luſted.

‖ That is, The graves of luſts.

35 [c] And the people journeyed from Kibroth-hattaavah, unto Hazeroth: and † abode at Hazeroth.

c Chap. 33. 12.

† Heb. they were in, &c.

CHAP. XII.

AND Miriam and Aaron ſpake againſt Moſes, becauſe of the * Ethiopian woman, whom he had married: for [a] he had † married an Ethiopian woman.

* Or, Cuſhite.

a Exod 2. 21.

† Heb. taken.

2 And they ſaid, Hath the Lord indeed ſpoken only by Moſes? [b] hath he not ſpoken alſo by us? And the Lord heard it.

b Exod. 15. 20. Mic. 6. 4.

3 (Now the man Moſes was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth)

Before Christ 1490

4 And the Lord ſpake ſuddenly unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation, And they three came out.

5 And the Lord came down in the pillar of the cloud, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth.

6 And he ſaid, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the Lord will crime of which the Iſraelites were now guilty, ſeems to be no other than that of men, who have all that their neceſſary wants require; and who will not reſt without ſuch things as God has been pleaſed to withhold from them; which at once diſcovers ungovernable deſires, diſcontent, and declares their ignorance of that which it is the great duty of all men to know—That God is the alone poſſeſſor and governor of all things, and has a right to give or withhold what he pleaſes, and that to murmur or complain is no other than to charge God himſelf for not doing to them as he ought, and as they think they deſerve: And money being now the ſign of the generality of our poſſeſſions, this ſin of the Iſraelites ſhews itſelf in longings after an increaſe of property to enable us to gratify our wiſhes: And the puniſhment of the people of Iſrael is the ſame with that we ſo frequently ſee amongſt men—Of their having more given to them than at ſome times even they themſelves deſired, and yet more miſerable in the midſt of their abundance, than when their wants were ſupplied by the daily labour of their hands: The very deſire after fulneſs of living, and diſſatisfied longings for abundance or variety, is leanneſs of ſoul: And this plague with which this people was viſited, is no other than an evident diſcovery of that inward miſery of the mind, which ever follows as the natural conſequence of the deſires of the heart being placed on objects of ſenſe; and in vain do we endeavour to cure this inward plague, by gratifying our appetites, or increaſing the quantity or ſum of the things we poſſeſs, from which we muſt be taken; and leave all that we once called our own, to be uſed by others. Bleſſed is the man whoſe God is the LORD, and whoſe ſoul delights itſelf in him; ſuch ſhall have all their immortal deſires at once ſatisfied, and bleſſed with thoſe pure and holy delights which proceed, as pure water from a fountain, from the Redeemer of men, to all that love him: As on the other hand, endleſs miſery muſt attend the ſouls that long after things that can afford no comfort, or return to worldly deſires, and from which they will be for ever ſeparated.

V. 34. He called the name of that place Kibroth-hattaavah—The graves of luſt, of the men that luſted. There they buried the people that luſted—This plague did not ſeize upon all that did eat of the quails, for then all had been deſtroyed, but only upon thoſe who were inordinate both in the deſire and uſe of them.

V. 35. The people journeyed from Kibroth hattaavah—How different the lot of thoſe that gave way to their murmurs and immoderate deſires, and thoſe that received with thankfulneſs, and uſed with moderation, what God was pleaſed to give them: The former were now buried in the graves of luſt, and the latter were going under the guidance of God himſelf, to that Canaan of reſt which he had promiſed; and this is but a faint reſemblance of that vaſt difference which there will be for ever between thoſe that die impenitent and enemies to God, by living and dying in unpardoned guilt, and thoſe that have humbly fled for refuge to the hope ſet before them in the only Mediator; and are received by him at death, into thoſe glorious manſions which the Redeemer of men has gone before to prepare for all them that love him.

CHAP. XII.

V. 1. Miriam and Aaron ſpake againſt Moſes, becauſe of the Ethiopian woman—Miriam ſeems to be firſt named, becauſe ſhe was the firſt mover of the ſedition. They did not quarrel with him for marrying her, becauſe that was done long ſince, but for indulging her too much, and being ſwayed by her and her relations, by whom they might think he was perſuaded to chooſe ſeventy rulers, by which government they thought their authority diminiſhed, eſpecially as no notice was taken, nor uſe made of them in the choice, but all was done by the direction of Moſes, and for his aſſiſtance in the goverment. And becauſe they durſt not accuſe God, who was the chief agent in it, they charge Moſes, his inſtrument.

V. 2. They ſaid, Hath the Lord indeed ſpoken only by Moſes? hath he not ſpoken alſo by us—Are not we prophets as well as he? Why then ſhould he take all power to himſelf, and rule and make rulers as he pleaſeth, without conſulting us. The Lord heard it—Obſerved their words and carriage to Moſes.

V. 3. Moſes was very meek—This is added as the reaſon why Moſes took no notice of their reproach, but was as one that heard it not, and why God did ſo ſpeedily and ſeverely plead his cauſe, becauſe he did not avenge himſelf. Did it become Moſes thus to commend himſelf? The holy penmen of Scripture are not to be meaſured by profane writers, becauſe they are guided by the will of God in all they write, and as with one voice they aſcribe to God all the good they poſſeſs or do, and all their writings and carriage made it evident, that they were exalted above the affectation of men's praiſes, and the dread of men's reproaches. How was Moſes ſo meek, when we read of his anger. True meekneſs does not exclude all anger, but only ſuch as is unjuſt, or immoderate, or implacable. Moſes was and ought to be angry where God was offended and diſhonoured.

V. 4. The Lord ſpake ſuddenly—To ſhew his great reſpect unto Moſes, and unto the grace of meekneſs; and to ſtifle the beginnings of the ſedition, that this example might not ſpread amongſt the people. Moſes, Aaron, and Miriam, come out ye three—Out of your private dwellings, and from amongſt the people, both that you may not infect them by ſuch ſcandalous words, and partly that you may know my pleaſure and your own doom.

V. 5. The Lord ſtood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam—Where they ſtood without, not being admitted into the tabernacle, as Aaron uſed to be; which is noted as a ſign of God's diſpleaſure.

V. 6. Hear now my words—Which implies that they had not liſtened to the dictates of His Holy Spirit, in their recent conduct to Moſes. If there be a prophet among you—If you be prophets, as you pretend, yet know there is a difference among prophets, nor do I put equal authority and honour upon all of them. I will make myself known unto him [c] in a vision, and will speak unto him [d] in a dream.

Before Christ 1490.

7 My servant Moses is not so, [e] who is faithful in all mine house.

8 With him will I speak [f] mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark speeches; and the similitude of the Lord shall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to speak against my servant Moses?

9 And the anger of the Lord was kindled against them, and he departed.

10 And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle, and [g] behold, Miriam became [h] leprous, white as snow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold, she was leprous.

11 And Aaron said unto Moses, Alas, my lord, I beseech thee, lay not the sin upon us, wherein we have done foolishly, and wherein we have sinned.

12 Let her not be as one dead; of whom the flesh is half consumed, when he cometh out of his mother's womb.

13 And Moses cried unto the Lord, saying, Heal her now, O God, I beseech thee.

14 ¶ And the Lord said unto Moses, If her father had but spit in her face, should she not be ashamed seven days? let her be [k] shut out from the camp seven days, and after that let her be received in again.

15 [l] And Miriam was shut out from the camp seven days: and the people journeyed not, till Miriam was brought in again.

16 And afterward the people removed from [m] Hazeroth, and pitched in the wilderness of Paran.

CHAP. XIII.

AND the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, 2 Send c Gen. 15. 1. and 46. 2. Job 33. 15. Ezek. 1. 1. Dan. 8. 2. and 10. 5, 16, 17.

d Gen 31 10, 11.
1 Kings 3 5.
e Heb. 3. 2
f Exod 33.11. Deut. 34. 10.
g Deut. 24. 9.
h 2 Kings 5 27.
i See Heb. 12. 9.
k Lev. 13. 46. Chap. 5 2.
l Deut. 24. 9.
m Chap 11.35. and 33. 18.

the Lord will make myself known unto him in a vision—Whereby God represents things to the mind of a prophet, when he is awake. And will speak unto him in a dream—By which God manifests his mind to them in a dream.

V. 7. My servant Moses is faithful in all—Whom I have set over all my house, my church and people, and therefore over you, and who hath discharged his office faithfully, and not partially and self-seekingly, as you falsely accuse him.

V. 8. With him will I speak mouth to mouth—Distinctly, by an articulate voice; immediately, and familiarly. This is called speaking face to face. Even apparently—Plainly and certainly. Not in dark speeches—Not in parables. The similitude of the Lord shall he behold—Not the face or essence of God, which no man can see and live, but some singular manifestation of his glorious presence; the son of God appeared to him, that he might give him a foresight of his future incarnation. Were ye not afraid to speak against my servant Moses—Who is so in such an eminent and extraordinary manner.

V. 9. The anger of the Lord was kindled, and he departed—From the door of the tabernacle, in token of his great displeasure, not waiting for their answer, and judging them unworthy of any further discourse.

V. 10. The cloud departed from off the tabernacle—From that part of the tabernacle, whether it was come, to that part which was directly over the Mercy-seat, where it constantly abode. Miriam became leprous—She, and not Aaron, either because she was first or chief in the transgression, or because God would not have his worship interrupted or dishonoured, which it must have been, if Aaron had been leprous. White as snow—This kind of leprosy was the most virulent and incurable of all.

V. 11. Aaron said unto Moses, alas, my Lord, lay not the sin upon us—Let not the guilt and punishment of this sin rest upon us, upon her in this kind, upon me in any other kind, but pray to God for the pardon and removal of it.

V. 12. Let her not be as one dead—Either naturally, because her flesh was putrified and dead, and not to be restored but by the mighty power of God: Or morally, because she was cut off from all converse with others.

V. 13. Moses cried unto the Lord—As soon as Aaron beseeched him not to lay their sin upon them; and thus did Moses represent the Mediator between God and men; and as their crime was against Moses and against God, so is every sin against Jesus and Jehovah the Lord Almighty; and as Aaron intreated Moses not to lay the sin he and Miriam had committed upon them, so must every convinced sinner cry unto Jesus not to inflict the punishment due to their offences against him. Moses cried—Heal her now, O God—Forgive her sin against thyself, and against me whom thou hast appointed the head of thy people; and thus when Jesus is intreated to pardon sin, he neither turns his face away from penitent minds, nor leaves them to suffer the consequences of their folly and their sin; but he, free from all resentment, and full of compassion, as an High-Priest, makes atonement and intercedes for mercy to forgive the sin, and heal the sinner's soul; that restored to the favour and image of God, they may live to him whom before they pierced by their sins, and in the possession of his grace have power over sin, and with minds filled with peace and joy, praise the greatness of redeeming love. Moses said, Heal her now; and now is the accepted time; to morrow, an hour hence may be too late; because within that hour sudden death may finally close our state of trial for a blessed immortality, which cannot be possessed by souls stained with unpardoned guilt, sins unwashed by that blood which alone cleanseth from sin: And when once we have heard of Jesus's power and willingness to save, of all the deceits of satan, none are more fatal than those that divert from coming now to that fountain which is opened for sin and uncleanness: Not applying to the Divine Physician being the same thing to them that perish, as if there was none to be applied to: The devil, his angels, and all the convinced sinners, careless, wicked, worldly-minded kindred and acquaintance, will give their full and free consent to intend to repent, forsake your sins, and apply to God for mercy to morrow; but then when to morrow comes, satan and the world must have it to morrow still; till at last this day the sinner sinks unpardoned where hope never comes.

V. 14. The Lord said unto Moses, If her father had but spit in her face—Expressed some such token of indignation and contempt. Should she not be ashamed—And withdraw herself, from her father's presence. Though God healed her according to the request of Moses, yet he would have her publicly bear the shame of her sin, and be a warning to others to keep them from the same transgression. Let her be shut out from the camp seven days—The time appointed for cleansing the unclean.

V. 15. The people journeyed not, till Miriam was brought in again—Which was a testimony of respect to her both from God and from the people, God so ordering it, least she should be overwhelmed by such a public rebuke from God, and least, she being a prophetess, together with her person the gift of prophecy should come into contempt.

CHAP. XIII.

V. 1. The Lord spake unto Moses—In answer to the people's petition. (Deut. i. 22.) V. 2. Send

Before Christ 1490.

2 [a] Send thou men, that they may ſearch the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Iſrael: of every tribe of their fathers ſhall ye ſend a man, every one a ruler among them.

a Chap. 32. 8. Deut. 1. 12.

3 And Moſes by the commandment of the Lord, ſent them [b] from the wilderneſs of Paran: all thoſe men were heads of the children of Iſrael.

b Chap. 32. 8. Deut. 1. 19. and 9. 23.

4 And theſe were their names: Of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the ſon of Zaccur.

5 Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the ſon of Hori.

e 1 Chron. 4. 15.

6 [c] Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

7 Of the tribe of Iſſachar, Igal the ſon of Joſeph.

8 Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oſhea the ſon of Nun.

9 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the ſon of Raphu.

10 Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the ſon of Sodi.

11 Of the tribe of Joſeph, namely, of the tribe of Manaſſeh, Gaddi the ſon of Suſi.

12 Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the ſon of Gemali.

13 Of the tribe of Aſher, Sethur the ſon of Michael.

14 Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the ſon of Vophſi.

15 Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the ſon of Machi.

16 Theſe are the names of the men which Moſes ſent to ſpy out the land. And Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun, Jehoſhua.

17 ¶ And Moſes ſent them to ſpy out the land of Canaan, and ſaid unto them, Get you up this way ſouthward, and go up into the mountain: Before Christ 1490.

18 And ſee the land what it is, and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be ſtrong or weak, few or many;

19 And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in ſtrong holds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be fat or lean, whether there be wood therein or not. And be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land (now the time was the time of the firſt-ripe grapes.)

21 ¶ So they went up, and ſearched the land, from the wilderneſs of Zin, unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath.

22 And they aſcended by the ſouth, and came unto Hebron; where [d] Ahiman, Sheſhai, and Talmai, the children of Anak were (e now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt.)

d Joſh. 11. 21, 22. & 15. 13. Judges 1. 10.

e Joſh. 21. 11.

23 [f] And they came unto the * brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs.

f Deut. 1. 24.

* Or, valley.

24 The place was called the † brook ‡ Eſhcol, becauſe of the cluſter of grapes which the children of Iſrael cut down from thence.

† Or, valley.

‡ That is, a cluſter of grapes.

25 And they returned from ſearching of the land after forty days.

26 ¶ And they went and came to Moſes, and

V. 2. Send thou men—Do as the people preſs thee to do. Every tribe ſend a ruler—A perſon of wiſdom and authority, which might make his witneſs more conſiderable with the people.

V. 8. Oſhea the ſon of Nun—Called alſo Joſhua.

V. 11. Tribe of Joſeph—Of that part of the tribe of Joſeph, which is peculiarly called the tribe of Manaſſeh.

V. 16. Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun, Jehoſhua—Oſhea, notes a deſire of ſalvation, ſignifying, Save, we pray thee; but Jehoſhua, or Joſhua, includes a promiſe of ſalvation, that he ſhould ſave, or that God by his hands ſhould ſave the people. So this was a prophecy of his ſucceſſion to Moſes in the government and of the ſucceſs of his arms.

V. 17. Moſes ſent them to ſpy out the land of Canaan, and ſaid, Get ye up ſouthward—Into the ſouthern part of Canaan, which was the neareſt part. Go up into the mountain—Into the mountainous country, and thence into the vallies, and take an exact ſurvey of the whole land.

V. 18. See the land what it is—Both for largeneſs, and for nature, and quality.

V. 19. The land, whether it be good or bad—Healthful, or unwholſome, fruitful, or barren. What cities they dwell in, whether in tents or in ſtrong holds—In walled villages, or expoſed to an enemy.

V. 20. Be ye of good courage—Doubt not but God will preſerve you in this dangerous journey, and be not diſmayed nor diſcouraged if you find the people numerous and well fortified.

V. 21. They went up from the wilderneſs of Zin—In the ſouth of Canaan, differing from the wilderneſs of Sin, which was nigh to Egypt. Unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath—From the ſouth they paſſed through the whole land even to the northern parts of it, Rehob, a city in the north-weſt part, and Hamath, a city in the north-eaſt part. And that they might more expeditiouſly and ſecurely perform this office, it is probable that they divided themſelves into parties, and informed themſelves not only by their eye, but alſo by the information of perſons, of whom they enquired about the nature and condition of their land.

V. 22. The children of Anak—A famous giant ſo called. Now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt—This ſeems to benoted to confront the Egyptians, who vainly boaſted of the antiquity of their city Zoan above all places.

V. 23. They cut down a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff—Either for the weight of it, or for the preſervation of it whole and entire.

V. 24. The place was called the brook—Or valley. Eſhcol—That is, a cluſter of grapes.

V. 26. They

Before Christ 1490.

and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Israel unto the wilderness of Paran, to [g] Kadesh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruit of the land.

g Chap. 20. 1. 16. and 32. 8. and 33. 36. Deut. 1. 19. Josh. 14. 6.

27 And they told him, and said, We came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth with [h] milk and honey; [i] and this is the fruit of it.

h Exod. 3. 8. and 33. 3.
i Deut. 1. 25.

28 Nevertheless, [k] the people be strong that dwell in the land, and [l] the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover, we saw the children of Anak there.

k Deut. 2. 10, 21.
l Deut. 1. 28.

29 [m] The Amalekites dwell in the land of the south; and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains: and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan.

m Judg. 6. 3.

30 And [n] Caleb stilled the people before Moses, and said, Let us go up at once, and possess it; for we are well able to overcome it.

n See Chap. 14. 6, 30.

Before Christ 1490.

31 But the men that went up with him, said, We be not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we.

32 And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had searched, unto the children of Israel, saying, The land through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and [o] all the people that we saw in it, are † men of a great stature.

o Amos 2. 9.
† Heb. men of statures.

33 And there we saw the giants, [p] the sons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight.

p Deut. 2. 10. and 9. 2.

CHAP. XIV.

AND all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept that night.

2 And

V. 26. They came to Moses, Aaron, and to all the congregation of Israel, to Kadesh—So called by abbreviation, for Kadesh-barnea, (Deut. i. 19.) They were in this Kadesh in the second year, and before they received the sentence of their forty years abode in the wilderness.

V. 27. They told him—Moses, in the audience of the people.

V. 28. Nevertheless, the people be strong—In the strength of their body, the valour of their minds, and in their situations.

V. 29. The Amalekites dwell in the land of the south—Where we are to enter the land, and they who were so eager and fierce against us, that they came into the wilderness to fight with us, will, without doubt, oppose us when we come close by their land, and are about to settle in their neighbourhood. The Hittites, the Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains—In the mountainous country in the south-east part of the land, so that you cannot enter there without great difficulty, both because of the noted strength and valour of those people, and because of the advantage they have from the mountains. The Canaanites dwell by the sea—Not the midland sea, which is commonly understood by that expression, but the salt or dead sea, next to Jordan: The Canaanites dwelt principally in those parts, and not near the mid-land sea. So these guard the entrance on the east-side, as the others do on the south.

V. 30. Caleb—Together with Joshua; but Caleb alone is here mentioned, possibly because he spake first and most, which he might better do, because he might be presumed to be more impartial than Joshua, who being Moses's minister, might be thought to speak only what he knew his master would like. Stilled the people—Which implies that they had begun to murmur, or that by their looks and carriages they discovered that grief and anger which boiled in their breasts. Before Moses—Towards Moses, against whom they were incensed, as the man who had brought them into such sad circumstances. We are well able to overcome it—In moral probability, because we are one people united under one head, whereas they are divided into several nations and governments of different counsels, and interests, and inclinations, and principally because of the assistance of the Almighty God.

V. 31. But the men that went up with him, said, We be not able—All of them, Joshua excepted. For they are stronger than we—In stature of body, and numbers of people. Thus they wickedly question the power, and truth, and goodness of God, of all which they had such ample testimonies.

V. 32. They brought up—Uttered a reproach. An evil report of the land—Against, or concerning the land. The land we have gone to search, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof—Not so much by civil wars, for that was likely to make their conquest more easy; nor by the barrenness of the soil, for they confessed the excellency of the land, (ver. 27.) but by the unwholesomeness of the air and place, which they guessed from the many funerals, which they observed in their travels through it; probably that came to pass from the singular providence of God, and his judgment on the people for their sinfulness.

V. 33. We saw the giants, and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers—Small and contemptible. This report of the ten spies shewed that the land was indeed good, but reasoning from appearances, they concluded against the promise of God, that possession of it could never be obtained. If instead of spies being sent to bring information of the nature of a distant country, messengers were sent to any people to bring information of the blessedness of those whose sins are forgiven, (Rom. iv. 7.) and on whom the Lord had poured out his holy spirit, (Acts ii. 17.) and cleansed the thoughts of their hearts from all evil desires and wrong tempers and passions; if such messengers saw the great depth of inbred sin, and the force of sinful habits, as the spies saw the mountains and strongholds in Canaan; and if they also saw wicked spirits going about seeking whom they might devour as the spies saw the giants in the promised land; reason could only conclude that these opposers to the obtaining possession of the spiritual Canaan could never be subdued, driven out and resisted; and that however great the blessedness must be to possess pardon and peace from God, and to live and walk in his spirit, yet such a state could not be obtained: and this reasoning against the very end and design of redeeming love, and against the plain words of Scripture, could not be received by human reason in any other way than that in which the thousands of Israel received the report of the ten spies.

CHAP. XIV.

V. 1. All the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried, and wept—Except Moses, Caleb, and Joshua, and some few others; the whole being put for the greatest part. They felt the distress of their present state and they despaired, from the credit they gave to the report of the spies, of ever being able to enter the country they had been promised the possession of.

V. 2. All

Before Christ 1490.

2 And all the children of Israel murmured against Moses, and against Aaron: and the whole congregation said unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt, or [a] would God we had died in this wilderness.

[a] See Verse 28. 29.

3 And wherefore hath the Lord brought us unto this land, to fall by the sword, that our wives and our children should be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt?

4 And they said one to another, Let us make a captain, and [b] let us return into Egypt.

[b] See Deut. 17. 16.

[c] Chap. 16. 4.

5 Then [c] Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

6 ¶ And Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of them that searched the land, rent their clothes,

Before Christ 1490.

7 And they spake unto all the company of the children of Israel, saying, [d] The land which we passed through to search it, is an exceeding good land.

[d] Chap. 13. 27.

8 If the Lord delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us; a land which floweth with milk and honey.

9 Only rebel not ye against the Lord, neither fear ye the people of the land; for they are bread for us: their * defence is departed from them, and the Lord is with us: fear them not.

[e] Deut. 20. 3.

* Heb. shadow.

10 But all the congregation bade stone them with stones: and [f] the glory of the Lord appeared

[f] Exod. 24. 16, 17. & 40. 34. Lev. 9. 23. Chap. 16. 19, 42. & 20. 6.

V. 2. All the children of Israel murmured against Moses, and against Aaron—As the instruments and occasions of their present calamity. The whole congregation said, would God that we had died in this wilderness—It was not long before they had their desire, and did die in the wilderness. But how slowly did God allow that very evil which their sins produced, and their impatience made them wish for, to fall upon them. God's holy word shews mercy descending from him to his creatures swift as lightning, but where final justice is to be executed, it advances slowly, that his offending creatures may yield to the convictions of his grace, and escape by true repentance, that misery which is sooner or later the consequence of all sin, if not repented of.

V. 3. Wherefore hath the Lord brought us unto this land—From the instruments they rise higher, and strike at God the chief cause and author of their journey; by which we see the growth and progress of sin, when it is not resisted. That our wives and our children should be a prey—To the Canaanites, whose land we are made to believe we should possess.

V. 4. Let us make a captain—Instead of Moses; one who will be more faithful to our interests than he. This was but a purpose or a desire, and yet it is imputed to them as if they had done it, as Abraham's purpose to offer up Isaac is reckoned for the deed, (Heb. xi. 17.) Let us return into Egypt—What madness! Whence should they have protection against the many hazards, and provision against all the wants of the wilderness? Could they expect either God's cloud to cover and guide them, or manna from heaven to feed them? Who should conduct them over the Red Sea? Or, if they went another way, who should defend them against those nations by whose borders they were to pass? What entertainment could they expect from the Egyptians, whom they had deserted. Thus desperately are men prepared to act, who are discontented with the dispensations of God; and how often has his goodness, prevented us from running upon our own ruin.

V. 5. Moses and Aaron fell on their faces—In prayer to God; the only refuge to which Moses resorted in all straits, and who alone was able to still and govern the people. Before all the assembly—That they might be awakened to apprehend their sin and danger, when they saw Moses at his prayers, whom God never used to deny, and never failed to defend, even with the destruction of his enemies.

V. 6. Joshua and Caleb rent their clothes—To testify their hearty grief for the people's blasphemy against God, and sedition against Moses, and that dreadful judgment which they easily foresaw this must bring upon the congregation and people of God.

V. 7. They—Caleb and Joshua, spake unto all Israel, and assured them that the land was, as the Lord had said, a good land.

V. 8. If the Lord delight in us—If, by our rebellion and ingratitude we do not provoke God to loath and forsake us. He will bring us into this land, and give it us—For what are the power of the people of Canaan any more than those of Egypt with the Lord? He can as soon drive out the one as he drowned the other: God has promised Canaan to the children of Israel, which he would not have done, had not his infinite wisdom seen, that it would be as consistent with his justice to drive them out, as it was to destroy the Egyptians. Our obtaining possession of the promised land, does not therefore depend at all upon the power of any opposition that can be made to us, if God delight in us, which he assuredly will do, if we fear him and hope in his mercy. And what has any one to do more than this, who would possess their souls in patience, and receive that grace by which they may be enabled to live in a state of peace and joy, and love, till they live with God, their Redeemer, in eternal blessedness in the heavenly Canaan above.

V. 9. Only rebel not ye against the Lord—Only avoid offending God by any known sin, or by distrusting what he has promised. Neither, fear ye the people of the land—For this would be to distrust God, and nothing is to be feared that is opposed to God. For they are bread for us—We shall destroy them as easily as we do our bread or common food. Their defence is departed from them—Their counsel, conduct, and courage, and especially God, who was pleased to afford them his protection till their iniquities were full, is utterly departed from them, and hath given them up as a prey to us. The Lord is with us—By his special grace and Almighty power to save us from them, and from all our enemies.

V. 10. But all the congregation bade stone them with stones—Why? Because they presumed to hold out what they thought were delusive expectations to all Israel; and to propose that to them as grounds of comfort, which was no less contrary to reason, than that weak people should drive those that were stronger before them. Caleb and Joshua had the promises of God on the side of what they said, but both the promises, and those that believed them, being opposed to human reason, the natural enmity of the human mind against God, expressed itself by that contempt, and indignation which all the congregation of Israel shewed to those two believers in the faithfulness of God, by the

Before Christ 1490. appeared in the tabernacle of the congregation, before all the children of Israel.

11 ¶ And the Lord said unto Moses, How long will this people provoke me? and how long will it be ere they believe me, for all the signs which I have shewed among them?

12 I will smite them with the pestilence, and disinherit them, and [g] will make of thee a greater nation, and mightier than they.

[g] Exod. 32. 10.

[h] Exod. 32. 12. Deut. 32. 27.

13 ¶ And [h] Moses said unto the Lord, Then the Egyptians shall hear it, (for thou broughtest up this people in thy might from among them.)

14 And they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land: [i] for they have heard that thou Lord art among this people, that thou Lord art seen face to face, and that [k] thy cloud standeth over them, and that thou goest before them, by day-time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night.

[i] Exod. 15. 14. Josh. 2. 9. and 5. 1.

[k] Exod. 13. 21. and 40. 38.

15 Now if thou shalt kill all this people, as one man; then the nations which have heard the fame of thee, will speak, saying,

Before Christ 1490.

16 Because the Lord was not [l] able to bring this people into the land which he sware unto them, therefore he hath slain them in the wilderness.

[l] Deut. 9. 28.

17 And now, I beseech thee, let the power of my Lord be great, according as thou hast spoken, saying,

18 The Lord is [m] long-suffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression, and by no means clearing the guilty, " visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation.

[m] Exod. 34. 6. Psal. 103. 8. and 145. 8. Jon. 4. 2.

[n] Exod. 20. 5. and 34. 7.

19 Pardon, I beseech thee, the iniquity of this people, according unto the greatness of thy mercy, and as thou hast forgiven this people, from Egypt, even † until now.

† Or, hitherto.

20 And the Lord said, I have pardoned according to thy word:

21 But as truly as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord.

22 Because

resolution to stone them with stones. And when spiritual blessings are proposed to us, even in our distress, which appear to be beyond the reach of any power of our own to attain for ourselves; such is the pride of human reason, that it thinks itself insulted by being supposed to be in a state of such entire dependance; and when Heaven, like Canaan, is proposed to us as the free gift of God, till we feel ourselves unworthy of every mercy, we shall be offended at nothing so much as to be encouraged to expect blessings, which we are as unable to obtain the possession of by our own wisdom or strength, as the people of Israel were to drive out the inhabitants of Canaan. The glory of the Lord appeared—Now in extremity of danger, to rescue his faithful servants, and to stop the rage of the people. In the tabernacle—Upon or above the tabernacle, where the cloud usually resided, in which the glory of God did appear upon occasion, and now in a more illustrious manner, as the state of things required.

V. 11. The Lord spake unto Moses, How long will this people provoke me? And how long will it be ere they believe me?—All crimes conclude themselves in unbelief; and to distrust the faithfulness and love of God, for the sake of his Son, is to believe satan, the father of lies, and to offer the highest provocation we can offer to God. He that believeth not shall be damned. (Mark xvi. 16.)

V. 12 I will smite them with the pestilence, and disinherit them—This was not an absolute determination, as the event shewed, but only like that of Nineveh's destruction within forty days, with a condition implied; except there be speedy repentance, or powerful intercession; but final unbelief draws upon itself misery, as a pestilence from God himself; and that soul that will not believe all the proofs God has given of his power and willingness to save, for the sake of his son, is at last disinherited, and cut off from all the present and eternal blessings which God has promised to faith in Christ Jesus the Lord; that only foundation of all love and good works; of inward holiness, and active and patient obedience.

V. 13. Moses said unto the Lord, Then—In case thou dost utterly destroy it. The Egyptians shall hear it—And thy name will be dishonoured; and the deceiver of the souls of men will gain advantage of the thousands we have left behind in Egypt, who, in a degree, believe in thee, and they will be led to think that this people perished not for their sins, but because thou couldest not, on whom we depend, save to the uttermost.

V. 14. They will tell it to the inhabitants of this land—For there was much intercourse between these two nations.

V. 15. If thou shalt kill all this people as one man—Altogether, or to a man, and suddenly, as it were by one blow.

V. 16. The Lord was not able to bring this people into the land which he sware unto them—His power was quite spent in bringing them out of Egypt, and could not finish the work he had begun, and had sworn to do.

V. 17. I beseech thee, let the power of my Lord be great—Discover its greatness, or the power of his grace and mercy, in pardoning of this, and their other sins: for to this the following words restrain it, according as thou hast spoken, where the pardon of their sins is the only instance of this power, both described in God's titles, verse 18. and prayed for by Moses, verse 19. and granted by God in answer to him, verse 20. Nor is it strange that the pardon of sin be spoken of as an act of power in God, because undoubtedly it is an act of omnipotent and infinite goodness; whence despairing sinners sometimes cry out, that their sins are greater than God can pardon, as some translate Cain's words. And since power is applied to God's wrath in punishing sin, it is attributed to God's mercy in forgiving it.

V. 18. The Lord is long-suffering, forgiving iniquity, and by no means clearing the guilty—Moses uses these words together, because he would not sever what God had put together, and to shew that at the same time that he desired pardon for the penitent, he did not expect God to reverse his own laws, and clear them, who, against all they had heard and known, would not come unto God for mercy, and put their trust in him.

V. 19. Pardon, I beseech thee, this people, as thou hast forgiven them, from Egypt, even until now—After many and great provocations; shew thyself still to be the same sin-pardoning God.

V. 20. The Lord said, I have pardoned, according to thy word—So far, as not utterly to destroy them, as I threatened; and as thou didst fear and beg the prevention of.

V. 21. But truly as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the Lord—With the report of the glorious and righteous acts of God in punishing this rebellious people in manner following.

V. 22. Because

Before Christ 1490.

22 [o] Because all those men which have seen my glory, and my miracles which I did in Egypt, and in the wilderness, and have tempted me now these ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice;

o Deut. 1. 35. Psal. 95. 11. and 106. 26. Heb. 3. 17.

23 [p] ‡ Surely they shall not see the land which I sware unto their fathers, neither shall any of them that provoked me, see it:

p Chap. 32. 11. ‡ If they see the land.

24 But my servant [q] Caleb, because he had another spirit with him, and [r] hath followed me fully; him will I bring into the land, whereinto he went; and his seed shall possess it.

q Josh. 14. 6, 8, 9, 14. r Chap. 32. 12.

25 (Now the Amalekites, and the Canaanites, dwelt in the valley) To morrow turn you, [s] and get you into the wilderness, by the way of the Red sea.

s Deut. 1. 40.

26 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

27 How long shall I bear with this evil congregation which murmur against me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Israel, which they murmur against me.

28 Say unto them, [t] As truly as I live, saith the Lord, [u] as ye have spoken in mine ears, so will I do to you:

t Chap. 26. 65. and 32. 11. Deut. 1. 35. Heb. 3. 17. u See Verse 2.

29 Your carcases shall fall in this wilderness; and all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured against me,

30 Doubtless ye shall not come into the land concerning which I § sware to make you dwell therein, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

§ Heb. lifted up my hand.

Before Christ 1490.

31 But your little ones, which ye said should be a prey, them will I bring in, and they shall know the land which ye have despised.

32 But as for you, your carcases they shall fall in this wilderness.

33 And your children shall ‖ wander in the wilderness [x] forty years, and bear your whoredoms, until your carcases be wasted in the wilderness.

‖ Or, feed. x See Deut. 2. 14.

34 [y] After the number of the days in which ye searched the land, even forty days (each day for a year) shall ye bear your iniquities, even forty years, and ye shall know * my breach of promise.

y Chap. 13. 25. z Psal. 95. 10. Ezek. 4. 6. * Or, altering of my purpose.

35 I the Lord have said, I will surely do it unto all this evil congregation, that are gathered together against me: in this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.

36 And the men which Moses sent to search the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur against him, by bringing up a slander upon the land;

37 Even those men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, [a] died by the plague before the Lord.

a 1 Cor. 10. 10. Heb. 3. 17. Jude 5.

38 [b] But Joshua the son of Nun, and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to search the land, lived still.

b Chap. 26. 65.

39 And

V. 22. Because all those men which have seen my glory—My glorious appearances in the cloud, and in the tabernacle. And my miracles which I did in Egypt, and have tempted me now these ten times—Many times. A certain number for an uncertain; though some reckon ten times precisely, wherein they did eminently provoke God.

V. 24. But my servant Caleb—Joshua is not here named, because he was not now among the people, but a constant attendant upon Moses, nor was he to be reckoned as one of them, any more than Moses and Aaron were. Because he had another spirit with him—Was a man, faithful, and not influenced by that evil spirit of unbelief, unthankfulness, and disobedience, which ruled in his brethren, but by the spirit of God. And hath followed me fully—Universally and constantly. Him will I bring into the land, whereinto he went—Canaan, and particularly Hebron. His seed shall possess it—Shall expel its inhabitants.

V. 25. Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley—Beyond the mountain, at the foot whereof they now were.

V. 26, 27. The Lord spake, saying, How long shall I bear with this evil congregation—Pardon, or spare them, which words are implied. It is a short and imperfect speech, which is frequent in case of anger.

V. 28. As truly as I live, saith the Lord, as ye have spoken—When you wickedly wished you had died in the wilderness. So will I do to you—I will bring your imprecations upon your heads.

V. 30. Ye shall not come into the land which I sware to make you—Your nation, for God did not swear to do so to these particular persons.

V. 33. Your children shall wander—Live like the shepherds of Arabia, in tents, and removing from place to place, having no certain dwelling. In the wilderness forty years—So long as to make up the time of your dwelling in the wilderness forty years. Bear your whoredoms—The punishment of your whoredoms, of your apostacy from your Lord, who was your husband, and had married you to himself. Whence idolatry is called whoredom.

V. 34. Forty days (each day for a year)—So there should have been forty years to come, but God was pleased mercifully to accept of the time past as a part of that time. Ye shall know my breach of promise—That as you have first broken the covenant between you and me, by not believing in me, so I will make it void on my part, by denying you the blessings promised in that covenant. So you shall see that the breach of promise wherewith you charged me, lies at your door, and was forced from me by your perfidiousness; and you shall feel, by experience, how sad your condition is, when I withdraw my grace and favour from you.

V. 37. Those men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, died by the plague—By some sudden and extraordinary judgment. Before the Lord—Sent from the cloud in which God dwelt, and from whence he spake to Moses, and wherein his glory at this time appeared before all the people, who then were all, and these spies amongst the rest, before the Lord.

V. 38. But Joshua and Caleb lived still—As those will live for ever, who continue in a faithful dependance on the mercy and love of God their Saviour unto death.

V. 39. The

Before Christ 1490.

39 And Moſes told theſe ſayings unto all the children of Iſrael: and the people mourned greatly.

40 ¶ And they roſe up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the c Deut. 1. 41. mountain, ſaying, Lo, we [c] be here, and will go up unto the place which the Lord hath promiſed: for we have ſinned.

41 And Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do d Verſe 25. you tranſgreſs [d] the commandment of the Lord? but it ſhall not proſper.

e Deut. 1. 43. 42 [e] Go not up, for the Lord is not among you; that ye be not ſmitten before your enemies.

43 For the Amalekites, and the Canaanites are there before you, and ye ſhall fall by the ſword: becauſe ye are turned away from the Lord; therefore the Lord will not be with you.

44 But they preſumed to go up unto the hill-top: nevertheleſs, the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and Moſes departed not out of the camp.

45 Then the Amalekites came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and f Deut. 1. 44. ſmote them, and [f] diſcomfited them, even g Chap. 21. 3. Judges 1. 17. unto [g] Hormah.

CHAP. XV.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, a Lev. 23. 10. 2 [a] Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and b Lev. 7. 16. & 22. 18, 21. * Heb. ſeparating c Lev. 23. 8. 12, 36. Chap. 28. 16, 27. & 29. 2, 8, 13. Deut. 16. 10. ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you,

3 And will make an offering by fire unto the Lord, a burnt-offering or a ſacrifice, [b] in * performing a vow, or in a free-will-offering, or [c] in your ſolemn feaſts, to make a [d] ſweet ſavour unto the Lord, of the herd or of the flock:

Before Christ 1490.

4 Then [e] ſhall he that offereth his offering unto the Lord, bring [f] a meat-offering of a tenth-deal of flour mingled [g] with the fourth part of an hin of oil.

d Exod. 29. 18. e Lev. 2. 1. & 6. 14. f Exod. 29. 40. Lev. 23. 13. g Lev. 4. 10.

5 And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering ſhalt thou prepare, with the burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, for one lamb.

6 Or for a ram, thou ſhalt prepare for a meat-offering, two tenth-deals of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oil.

7 And for a drink-offering, thou ſhalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

8 And when thou prepareſt a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or [h] peace-offerings unto the Lord: h Lev. 7. 11.

9 Then ſhall he bring with a bullock a meat-offering of three tenth-deals of flour mingled with half an hin of oil.

10 And thou ſhalt bring for a drink-offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

11 Thus ſhall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid.

12 According to the number that ye ſhall prepare, ſo ſhall ye do to every one, according to their number.

13 All that are born of the country, ſhall do theſe things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the Lord.

14 And if a ſtranger ſojourn with you, or whoſoever be among you in your generations, and

V. 39. The people mourned greatly—That they had expoſed themſelves to the wrath of God, by their ſinful diſtruſt of God's power and goodneſs, after all they had ſeen of both.

V. 40. They roſe up early in the morning, and gat them up—Deſigned or prepared themſelves to go up: for that they were not yet gone up appears from verſe 42.

V. 41. Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do ye tranſgreſs the commandment of the Lord?—That command, verſe 25. turn ye and get ye into the wilderneſs, which was a courſe directly contrary to that which they took.

V. 44. They preſumed to go up unto the hill top—Guilty both of raſhneſs and rebellion, thus running from one extreme to another. Their crime before was in not believing what God had promiſed, and now they ſaw the danger of unbelief, they would ruſh forward in their own wiſdom and ſtrength, without regarding the will of God for the preſent: before they miſtook as to the end, now they went wrong as to the means of purſuing it. The bleſſings promiſed are given to them who now live by faith in God, and keeping their minds ſtayed upon him patiently, and ſtedfaſtly walk according to his will.

V. 45. The Amalekites, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill—Or placed themſelves in ambuſh, expecting their coming. And diſcomfited them, even unto Hormah—A place ſo called afterwards, from the great ſlaughter of the Iſraelites at this time. And thus are they overcome, who, from themſelves, expect to get poſſeſſion of the bleſſings promiſed by God to faith in his name; which faith is not to be ſeparated from a careful regard to the will of God, and to an humble reſignation to his will.

CHAP. XV.

V. 2. When ye be come into the land which I give unto you—Will certainly give you, notwithſtanding this great provocation, and for their better aſſurance hereof, he repeats the laws of ſacrifices, as expreſſive of their faith in a mediator, by whom alone they were pardoned, and God reconciled to them, notwithſtanding all the crimes they had committed.

V. 3. A burnt-offering, or a ſacrifice—A peace-offering.

V. 14. If a ſtranger—A prolelyte: for ſuch offerings were not accepted from others. No ſacrifice being pleaſing to God from any who do not approach him through a Redeemer. And this cannot be too deeply rooted in our hearts, that we are either acting on the principle, that we have a title to or on ſome account or other, we can obtain for ourſelves the bleſſings we ſtand in need of; or that by our ſinfulneſs we have expoſed ourſelves to the wrath of God, and that his juſtice might be for ever vindicated in Before Christ 1490. and will offer an offering made by fire of a sweet savour unto the Lord; as ye do, so he shall do.

15 [i] One ordinance shall be both for you of the congregation, and also for the stranger that sojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, so shall the stranger be before the Lord.

16 One law, and one manner shall be for you, and for the stranger that sojourneth with you.

17 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

18 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land whither I bring you,

19 Then it shall be, that when ye eat of the bread of the land, ye shall offer up an heave-offering unto the Lord.

20 Ye shall offer up a cake of the first of your dough, for an heave-offering: as ye do [k] the heave-offering of the threshing-floor, so shall ye heave it.

21 Of the first of your dough ye shall give unto the Lord, an heave-offering in your generations.

22 ¶ And [l] if ye have erred, and not observed all these commandments which the Lord hath spoken unto Moses,

23 Even all that the Lord hath commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day that the Lord commanded Moses, and henceforward among your generations:

24 Then it shall be, if ought be committed by ignorance † without the knowledge of the congregation; that all the congregation shall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering, for a sweet savour unto the Lord, with his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the ‡ manner, and one kid of the goats for a sin-offering.

25 And the priest shall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them, for it is ignorance: and they shall bring their offering, a sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord, and their sin-offering before the Lord, for their ignorance.

26 And it shall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Israel, and the stranger that sojourneth among them; seeing all the people were in ignorance.

27 ¶ And [m] if any soul sin through ignorance, then he shall bring a she-goat of the first year for a sin-offering.

28 And the priest shall make an atonement for the soul that sinneth ignorantly, when he sinneth by ignorance before the Lord, to make an atonement for him; and it shall be forgiven him.

29 You shall have one law for him that § sinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born amongst the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them.

30 ¶ [n] But the soul that doeth ought ‖ presumptously (whether he be born in the land, or a stranger) the same reproacheth the Lord, and that soul shall be cut off from among his people.

31 Because he hath despised the word of the

Before Christ 1490

[i] Exod. 12. 49. Chap. 9. 14.

[k] Lev. 2. 14. & 23. 10, 16.

[l] Lev. 4. 2.

† Heb. from the eyes.

‡ Or, ordinance.

[m] Lev. 4. 27.

§ Heb. doth.

[n] Deut. 17. 12.

‖ Heb. with an high hand.

in condemning us; and that we have no foundation to hope for pardon of sin, and acceptance of our persons, and our services with God, but in that way which God alone hath provided to shew mercy to men, consistent with his justice; and that is by the sacrifice made by his only Son, who was the Lamb that was slain for the sins of the world, and the only Saviour of men. Reader, on which of these principles are you acting? The way which God hath provided is the way of salvation; all besides, no matter how fair a shew they make in our own eyes, or those of other men, are ways of death.

V. 15. As ye are, so shall the stranger be before the Lord—As to the worship of God; his sacrifices shall be offered in the same manner, and accepted by God upon the same terms, as yours.

V. 19. Ye shall offer up an heave-offering unto the Lord—To the priest of the Lord And every return of duty and praise must be made to God, in the same way in which we receive all our mercies—through that high priest, who ever appears in the presence of God, in behalf of men. (Heb. iv. 15.)

V. 22. If ye have erred, and not observed all these commandments—Those now spoken of, those which concern the outward worship and service of God, or the rites or ceremonies belonging to it.

V. 24. If ought be committed by ignorance, all the congregation shall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering—In Lev. iv. the bullock is for a sin-offering, here it is for a burnt-offering, either because they are different laws, or, because here is added as a new penalty, to produce the greater caution and diligence in the Israelites, who had given many instances, and now a fresh and eminent instance, of their heedlessness in observing the commands of God.

V. 28. The priest shall make an atonement for the soul that sinneth ignorantly—And did the Saviour of men, who is represented by these sacrifices, suffer for all the sins that are ignorantly as well as wilfully committed? Who can begin too early and too carefully to consider those Scriptures from which we err by not understanding them? And what motive for avoiding all sin, is equal to that which arises from a consideration of the sufferings of Christ Jesus the Lord for sin?

V. 30. But the soul that doeth ought presumptuously—With an high or lifted up hand, knowingly, wilfully, boldly, resolvedly, deliberately, designedly. The same reproacheth the Lord—He sets God at defiance, and exposeth him to contempt, as if he were unworthy of any regard, and unable to punish transgressors.

V. 31. His iniquity shall be upon him—The punishment shall be confined to himself, and not fall upon the congregation, as it will do, if they neglect to cut him off.

Before Christ 1490. the Lord, and hath broken his commandment; that soul shall utterly be cut off: his iniquity shall be upon him.

32 ¶ And while the children of Israel
o Exod. 35. 2, 3. were in the wilderness, o they found a man that gathered sticks upon the sabbath-day.

33 And they that found him gathering sticks, brought him unto Moses and Aaron, and unto all the congregation.

p Lev. 24. 12. 34 And they put him p in ward, because it was not declared what should be done to him.

q Exod. 31. 14. 35 And the Lord said unto Moses, q The man shall be surely put to death; all the congregation shall stone him with stones without the camp.

36 And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and stoned him with stones, and he died; as the Lord commanded Moses.

37 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

38 Speak unto the children of Israel, and bid r them that they make them fringes in the borders of their garments, throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribband of blue.

Before Christ 1490.

r Deut. 22. 12. Matth. 23. 5.

39 And it shall be unto you for a fringe, that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the Lord, and do them: and that ye s seek not after your own heart, and your own eyes, after which ye use t to go a whoring:

s See Deut. 29. 19. Job. 31. 7. Ezek. 6. 9. t Psa. 73. 27. Jam. 4. 4.

40 That ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God.

41 I am the Lord your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the Lord your God.

CHAP. XVI.

NOW a Korah the son of Izhar, the son Kohath, the son of Levi; and Dathan and cir. 1471. a Chap. 26. 9. & 27. 3. Jude 11.

V. 32. A man gathered sticks on the sabbath day—This seems to be added as an example of a presumptuous sin: For as the law of the sabbath was plain and positive, so this transgression of it must needs be a known and wilful sin.

V. 33. They brought him unto Moses and Aaron, and the congregation—To the rulers of the congregation, who, as they represented, and governed the congregation, are called by the name of the congregation.

V. 34. And they—Moses and Aaron, and the seventy rulers last mentioned. Because it was not declared what should be done unto him—In what manner he was to be cut off, or by what kind of death he was to die, which therefore God here particularly determines: Otherwise it was known in general that sabbath-breakers were to be put to death.

V. 36. And stoned him with stones, as the Lord commanded Moses—The word of God declares what is required of all men, and then presents us with examples of persons being punished for their offences against the law of God; and though infinite mercy through the Redeemer is ever waiting to be gracious, and is slow to punish, yet the examples that are made of offenders in the Scriptures sufficiently shew, that sooner or later all that have offended against the law are condemned; and that however offenders against human laws may escape the penalties of them; none can avoid suffering the penalties annexed to all offences against the divine law, but such as have accepted of grace, and fled for mercy and forgiveness to the only Mediator. And who are they that have never offended against any of the great Creator's laws. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, is his command. Have I lived to understand this is required of me, and that it is no other than my most reasonable duty to Him, to whom I am indebted for life and all things? And have I fulfilled this law? have I loved God with all my heart? have I not, so far from loving him, forgot him, and the obligation I owe him for days, months, and even years together? What shall I then say in judgment, in answer to the law which requires me with all my heart constantly to love the Author of my being. For every deficiency of duty, as well as for every wilful offence, what am I to plead to save me from the punishment? Shall I say I did not know that I ought truly to love him who made me, and by whose power I live, and from whose bounty I receive every blessing: ignorance of the indispensible duty of loving God, none can plead, whether they have heard or read the declared will of God in the Scriptures or not: the duty of loving God is written in every thing in our very being. And shall I be convinced that I have not done so, and carelessly deceive myself with the groundless hope, that God will not punish every transgression against what he requires? To prevent this dangerous self deceit, is surely the design of the example that is here given us, as well as of the many examples that are recorded in the Scriptures of the severity of God against every offence, and of the frequent declarations that are made of that final judgment and punishment which awaits the guilty in the world to come; and from which there is no other refuge, no other way of escape, but by that Saviour which God has provided for all them that will but come unto him for mercy. And every instance we become acquainted with of other men's offences, and the punishments that were inflicted, are at once to inform us of the danger of all sin and disobedience to the will of God, and of the necessity we are under to have the help of his grace, which alone can preserve us blameless from one hour to another.

V. 39. It shall be, that ye may remember all the commandments of the Lord, and do them—That by looking upon it you may remember, that your eye may affect your mind and heart; or, inquire not for other rules or ways of serving me than I have prescribed you. And that ye seek not after your own heart—Neither after the devices and inventions of your own minds or hearts. After which ye use to go a whoring—To depart from me, and to prefer your own fancies before my commands, and to live only by present sight or sense, and not at all by faith in my promises. This was the Divine design in ornaments of this kind, the business of the tempter and deceiver of men is to lead us to use every thing for the very contrary purpose to that which God has commanded.

V. 40. That ye may be holy unto your God—This is the end of all, because without this no man shall see the Lord.

V. 41. I brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God—All that I have shewn you, and done for you, is with this design, to lead you to love me, which is no less your duty than it is your happiness I will not cast you off, but will continue to be your God, to preserve and provide for you, and bring you into Canaan, if you believe in me; and by this example of my faithfulness, all men may know that I will never leave nor forsake them that put their trust in me, but both in life and death, as well as for ever, I will be their God.

CHAP.

Before Christ 1471. and Abiram the ſons of Eliab, and On the ſon of Peleth, ſons of Reuben, took men.

2 And they roſe up before Moſes, with certain of the children of Iſrael, two hundred and fifty princes of the aſſembly, [b] famous in the congregation, men of renown.

b Chap. 26. 9.

c Pſa. 106. 16.

3 And [c] they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron, and ſaid unto them, * Ye take too much upon you, ſeeing all the congregation are holy every one of them, and the Lord is among them: wherefore then lift ye up yourſelves above the congregation of the Lord?

* Heb. It is much for you.

d Chap. 14. 5. & 20. 6.

4 And when Moſes heard it, [d] he fell upon his face:

5 And he ſpake unto Korah, and unto all his company, ſaying, Even to morrow the Lord will ſhew who are his, and who is holy; and will cauſe him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath choſen, will he cauſe to come near unto him. Before Christ 1471.

6 This do; Take your cenſers, Korah, and all his company;

7 And put fire therein, and put incenſe in them before the Lord to morrow: and it ſhall be that the man whom the Lord doth chooſe, he ſhall be holy: ye take too much upon you, ye ſons of Levi.

8 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye ſons of Levi:

9 Seemeth it but a ſmall thing unto you, that the God of Iſrael hath ſeparated you from the congregation of Iſrael, to bring you near to himſelf, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the Lord, and to ſtand before the congregation, to miniſter unto them?

10 And he hath brought thee near to him, and

CHAP. XVI.

V. 1. Korah—The firſt and chief author of this rebellion. The ſon of Izhar—Amram's brother; therefore Moſes and he were couſin germans. Dathan, and Abiram, and On—Theſe are drawn into confederacy with Korah. Took men—Two hundred and fifty, mentioned verſe 2.

V. 2. And they—Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. Roſe up—Conſpired together, and put their ſeditious deſign in execution. Before Moſes—Openly and boldly, not fearing nor regarding the preſence of Moſes, who was an eye-witneſs of their conſpiracy. Princes of the aſſembly, famous—For place and birth.

V. 3. They gathered themſelves together—Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, and the reſt. Againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron—Againſt Aaron, to whom the prieſthood was confined, and againſt Moſes, both becauſe this was done by his order, and becauſe before Aaron's conſecration Moſes appropriated it to himſelf. For whatever they intended, they ſeem not now directly to ſtrike at Moſes for his ſupreme civil government, but only for his intereſt and influence in the diſpoſal of the prieſthood, as may appear by the whole context. Ye take too much upon you—By perpetuating the prieſthood in yourſelves and family, with the excluſion of all others from it. All the congregation are holy—A kingdom of prieſts, an holy nation, as they are called, a people ſeparated to the ſervice of God, and therefore no leſs fit to preſent themſelves before God, and to offer ſacrifice and incenſe for themſelves than you are. The foundation of all is laid in that unbelief which regards not what God has ſaid of our deſerving his wrath, and leading us preſumptiouſly to think that we have a right to the mercies of God: And they that act from this principle, act againſt God; the language of the mind and of the conduct is then to demand and expect what we deſire as by a title in ourſelves; and this ſelf-righteous ſentiment in the ſoul leads to every evil, becauſe it leads from ſeeing our need of the mercy and grace of God our Saviour, as his purchaſe and free gift. And upon one or the other of theſe principles—ſelf-confidence or dependance on the mercy of God, we are every moment proceeding in our minds, and in the conduct of our lives; the two principles cannot reign in the ſame mind at once; where there is faith in the mercy of God in a Redeemer, then ſelf, and all its lofty and flattering ſelf pleaſing notions, are renounced as filthy rags, and all that is good is humbly looked for from God of his own meer mercy; and this leads to God, and is the way to life and glory: the other is the way of death, and final ſeparation from God and bleſſedneſs. The Lord is among them—By the tokens of his gracious preſence, and therefore ready to receive all their ſacrifices and ſervices from their own hands. Wherefore then lift ye up yourſelves—Thou Moſes, by preſcribing what laws thou pleaſeſt about the prieſthood, and confining it to thy brother, and thou, Aaron, by uſurping it as thy peculiar privilege.

V. 4. Moſes fell upon his face—Humbly begging that God would direct him and defend and vindicate him from this falſe and odious imputation. Accordingly God anſwers his prayers, and inſpires him with this following anſwer to Korah, and ſtrengthens him with new courage and confidence.

V. 5. To morrow the Lord will ſhew who are his—In the morning, the time appointed for adminiſtering juſtice, and choſen by God for that work. Some time is allowed, that Korah and his company might have ſpace for conſideration and repentance. And who is holy, and will cauſe him to come near unto him—He will by ſome evident and miraculous token, declare his approbation of him and his miniſtry.

V. 6. Take your cenſers, Korah, and all his company—Since ye will be prieſts, take your cenſers, and act as prieſts, at your peril.

V. 7. The man whom the Lord doth chooſe—Declare his choice and appointment of them for that work. He ſhall be holy—None, by any holineſs of their own, can offer unto God any acceptable ſervice; and thoſe that are appointed by God himſelf to miniſter unto him in ſacred things, are, of all others, required to poſſeſs the mind that was in Jeſus; God only admitting into his preſence thoſe that are what he requires them to be.

V. 8. Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye ſons of Levi—Conſider what I ſay before it be too late, and repent of your great wickedneſs.

V. 9. Seemeth it but a ſmall thing unto you, that God hath ſeparated you from the congregation of Iſrael, to bring you near to himſelf—Nearer than the other tribes, though not ſo near as the prieſts. To ſtand before the congregation, to miniſter unto them—In their ſtead and for their good. So they were the ſervants both of God and of the church, which was an high dignity, though not ſufficient for their ambitious minds.

V. 10. Seek ye the prieſthood alſo—There being at this time but very few prieſts, and the profits and privileges belonging to them being many and great, they thought it but fit and reaſonable that they, or ſome of the chief of them, ſhould be admitted to a ſhare in their work and advantages.

V. 11. Thou and all thy company are gathered together againſt the Lord—Whoſe miniſter and choſen ſervant Aaron is. You ſtrike at God through Aaron's ſides.

V. 12. Moſes

Before Christ 1471. and all thy brethren the ſons of Levi with thee: and ſeek ye the prieſthood alſo?

11 For which cauſe both thou, and all thy company are gathered together againſt the Lord: and what is Aaron, that ye murmur againſt him?

12 ¶ And Moſes ſent to call Dathan and Abiram the ſons of Eliab: which ſaid, We will not come up.

13 Is it a ſmall thing that thou haſt brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderneſs, except thou make thyſelf altogether a prince over us?

14 Moreover, thou haſt not brought us into [e] a land that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou † put out the eyes of theſe men? we will not come up.

15 And Moſes was very wroth, and ſaid unto the Lord, [f] Reſpect not thou their offering: [g] I have not taken one aſs from them, neither have I hurt one of them.

16 And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the Lord, thou, and they, and Aaron to morrow:

17 And take every man his cenſer, and put incenſe in them, and bring ye before the Lord every man his cenſer, two hundred and fifty cenſers; thou alſo and Aaron each of you his cenſer.

18 And they took every man his cenſer, and put fire in them, and laid incenſe thereon, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moſes and Aaron.

19 And Korah gathered all the congregation againſt them, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and [h] the glory of the Lord appeared unto all the congregation.

20 And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 21 [i] Separate yourſelves from among this congregation, that I may conſume them in a moment.

22 And they fell upon their faces, and ſaid, O God, [k] the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſhall one man ſin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation? 23 And e Exod. 3. 8. Lev. 20. 24.

† Heb. bore out.

f Gen. 4. 4, 5.
g 1 Sam. 12. 3. Acts 20. 33. 2 Cor. 7. 2.

Before Christ 1471.

h Exod. 16. 7, 10. Lev. 9. 6, 23. Chap. 14. 10.

i See Gen. 19. 17, 22. Jer. 51. 6. Rev. 18. 4.

k Chap. 27. 16. Job 12. 10. Eccleſ. 12. 7. Iſai. 57. 16. Zech. 12. 1. Hebr. 12. 9.

V. 12. Moſes ſent to call Dathan and Abiram—To treat with them and give them, as he had done Korah, and his company, a timely admonition. Which ſaid—Unto the meſſengers ſent to them by Moſes. We will not come up—To Moſes' tabernacle, whither the people uſed to go up for judgment. Men are ſaid in Scripture to go up to places of judgment; but becauſe they would not now go up, therefore they went down quick into the pit. And thus do they who refuſe to hear the truth of the danger to which they, by their conduct, expoſe themſelves, wilfully leave themſelves expoſed to the conſequences of their guilt.

V. 13. It is a ſmall thing that thou haſt brought us out of a land that floweth with milk and honey—Out of Egypt, a place indeed of great plenty, but to them, a place of torment and intolerable ſlavery. They invidiouſly uſe the ſame words wherewith God, by Moſes, commended the land of Canaan.

V. 14. Wilt thou put out the eyes of theſe men—Of thoſe who are confederate with us, and of all the people, who are of our mind. Wilt thou make them blind, or perſuade them that they do not ſee what is viſible to all that have eyes; that thou haſt deceived them, and broken thy promiſe to them? wilt thou lead them about like blind men whither thou pleaſeſt, one time towards Canaan, another time towards Egypt again? We will not come up—We will not obey thy ſummons, nor own thy authority.

V. 15. Moſes was very wroth—Not ſo much for his own ſake, for he had learnt to bear indignities as for God's ſake, who was highly diſhonoured, blaſphemed, and provoked by theſe ſpeeches, in which caſe he ought to be angry, as Chriſt was, (Mark iii. 5.) Lord, reſpect not thou their offering—Accept not their incenſe which they are now going to offer, but ſhew ſome diſlike of it. He calls it their offering, though it was offered by Korah and his companions, becauſe it was offered in the name, and by the conſent of all the conſpirators, for the deciſion of the preſent controverſy between them and Moſes. I have not taken one aſs from them—Not any thing of the ſmalleſt value. Neither have I hurt one of them—I have never injured them, nor uſed my power to defraud or oppreſs them. I have done them many good offices, but no hurt: Therefore their crime is inexcuſable, as it is without any cauſe or provocation on my part.

V. 16. Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the Lord to morrow—At the door of the tabernacle; which place is ſaid to be before the Lord, might now lawfully offer it by Moſes's direction upon this extraordinary occaſion and neceſſity, becauſe this work could not be done in that place, which alone was allowed for the offering up of incenſe, not only for its ſmallneſs, but alſo becauſe here the people, who were to be inſtructed by this experiment, might ſee the proof of it.

V. 18. They took every man his cenſer, and put fire in them—Taken from the altar, for Aaron might not uſe other fire. And it is likely the remembrance of the death of Nadab and Abihu deterred them from offering any ſtrange fire.

V. 19. Korah gathered all the congregation—That they might be witneſſes of the event, and, upon their ſucceſs, which they doubted not of, might fall upon Moſes and Aaron with popular rage, and deſtroy them. And it ſeems by this, that the people were generally incenſed againſt Moſes, and inclined to Korah's ſide. The glory of the Lord appeared—In the cloud, with brightneſs and majeſty, as a token of God's approach and preſence.

V. 20, 21. The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, Separate yourſelves from among this congregation—Korah, and his two hundred and fifty men, and the people whom he gathered againſt Moſes and Aaron.

V. 22. They fell upon their faces, and ſaid, O God, the God of the ſpirits—Of ſouls, as the word ſpirit in Scripture is often uſed. And this is no empty title here, but very emphatical. Thou art the maker of ſpirits, deſtroy not thy own workmanſhip, O Thou who art the preſerver of men, and of their ſpirits; who as thou mayeſt juſtly deſtroy this people, ſo thou canſt preſerve whom thou pleaſeſt: O deal mercifully with thy own children: the ſearcher of ſpirits, thou canſt diſtinguiſh between thoſe who have maliciouſly raiſed this tumult, and thoſe whoſe ignorance and ſimple credulity hath made them a prey to crafty ſeducers. Of all fleſh—Of all mankind. Shall one man ſin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation—Korah, the ringleader of this ſedition. Let not this man's ſin bring many into condemnation.

V. 23, 24. The Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, ſpeak unto the congregation

Before Christ 1471.

23 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

24 Speak unto the congregation, saying, Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.

25 And Moses rose up and went unto Dathan and Abiram; and the elders of Israel followed him.

26 And he spake unto the congregation, saying, [l] Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, lest ye be consumed in all their sins.

[l] Isai. 52. 11. 2 Cor. 6. 17. Rev. 18. 4.

27 So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, on every side: and Dathan, and Abiram came out, and stood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their sons, and there little children.

28 And Moses said, Hereby ye shall know that the Lord hath sent me to do all these works: for I have not done them of mine own mind.

29 If these men die † the common death of all men, or if they be visited after the visitation of all men; then the Lord hath not sent me.

† Heb. as every man dieth.

30 But if the Lord ‡ make a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and swallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick into the pit; then ye shall understand that these men have provoked the Lord.

‡ Heb. create a creature.

Before Christ 1471.

31 ¶ [m] And it came to pass as he had made an end of speaking all these words, that the ground clave asunder that was under them:

[m] Chap. 26. 10 & 27. 3. Deut. 11. 6. Psa. 106. 17.

32 And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up, and their houses, and all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods.

[n] See Ver. 17. and Chap. 26. 11. 1 Chron. 6. 22, 37.

33 They, and all that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit, and the earth closed upon them: and they perished from among the congregation.

34 And all Israel that were round about them, fled at the cry of them: for they said, Lest the earth swallow us up also.

35 And there came out a fire from the Lord, and consumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incense.

36 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

37 Speak unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, that he take up the censers out of the congregation—Whom, for your sakes, I will spare upon the condition. Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram—And On too, who is mentioned verse 1. though some think he desisted and repented, and therefore is not now mentioned.

V. 25. Moses went unto Dathan and Abiram—Because they refused to come to him, he goes to them. The elders of Israel followed him—The seventy rulers, whom he carried with him for the greater solemnity of the action, and for his own better vindication, because he lay under such calumnies, and to encourage them in their work, notwithstanding the obstinate and intractable nature of the people they were to govern.

V. 26. Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men—Shew your dislike of them, and their wicked ways, by a speedy removal of your persons, and tents from about them. Touch nothing of theirs—Because they, and all that was theirs, was under a curse, and therefore not to be touched. Lest ye be consumed in all their sins—Lest being guilty of their sins you perish together with them. And God being no more reconciled to sin now than he was at that time, it is no less displeasing to God, that we should choose his enemies for our friends.

V. 27. So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram—Whose tents were not far asunder, being both on the south-side of the tabernacle. Dathan and Abiram came out, and stood in the door of their tents—An argument of their confidence, pride, and impenitency, whereby they declared that they neither feared God, nor reverenced man; and made themselves ripe for the approaching judgment.

V. 28. Moses said, Hereby ye shall know that the Lord hath sent me to do all these works—Which I have done, and for which I am traduced; as the bringing of the people out of Egypt; the conducting of them through, and the keeping of them so long in the wilderness; the exercising of power and authority over them; giving of laws to them; as about other things, so concerning the priesthood, which is the ground of the present quarrel; and, that which vexeth them most, that when they were upon the borders of Canaan, and ready to enter in, I should cause them to go back into this wilderness, and fix them there for forty years. I have not done them of mine own mind—By pretending an authority which God gave me not, by feigning words or messages from God to establish my own inventions, and to comply with my own will or interest, as I am now accused to have done.

V. 29. If these men die the common death of all men—A natural death. If they be visited after the visitation of all men—By plague, or sword, or some usual judgment. Then the Lord hath not sent me—I am content that you charge me with falsely pretending to be sent of God.

V. 30. But if the Lord make a new thing—Do such a work as was never heard before. And they go down quick into the pit—Into the grave which God thereby makes. The word sometimes signifies hell, and sometimes the grave. Then ye shall understand that these men have provoked the Lord—By making his words and works to be nothing but my devices and artifices.

32. The earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up all the men that appertained unto Korah—All his family which were there, women, children, and servants.

V. 33. All that appertained to them, went down alive into the pit—Into the earth, which first opened itself to receive them, and then shut itself to destroy them.

V. 35. There came out a fire from the Lord—From the cloud, wherein the glory of the Lord appeared to give sentence in this cause.

V. 36, 37. The Lord spake unto Moses, saying, speak unto Eleazar—Rather than to Aaron, lest Aaron should be polluted by going amongst those dead carcases; for it is probable this fire consumed them, as lightening sometimes doth others, by taking

Before Christ 1471. the burning, and ſcatter thou the fire yonder; for [o] they are hallowed.

o See Lev. 27. 28. 38 The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar: for they offered them before the Lord, therefore they p Chap. 26. 10. are hallowed: [p] and they ſhall be a ſign unto the children of Iſrael.

39 And Eleazar the prieſt took the braſen cenſers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar:

40 To be a memorial unto the children of q Chap. 3. 10. Iſrael, [q] that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the Lord; that he be not as Korah, and as his company: as the Lord ſaid to him by the hand of Moſes.

41 ¶ But on the morrow, all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, ſaying, Ye have killed the people of the Lord.

42 And it came to paſs when the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and behold, the cloud covered it, and the glory of the Lord appeared.

43 And Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation. Before Christ 1471.

44 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

45 Get you up from among this congregation, that I may conſume them as in a moment: and [r] they fell upon their faces. r Chap. 20. 6.

46 ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a cenſer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incenſe, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: [s] for there is wrath gone out s Chap. 8. 19. from the Lord; the plague is begun.

47 And Aaron took as Moſes commanded, and ran into the midſt of the congregation; and behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incenſe, and made an atonement for the people.

48 And he ſtood between the dead and the living, and the plague was ſtayed.

49 Now they that died in the plague, were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred, beſide them that died about the matter of Korah.

50 And Aaron returned unto Moſes, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and the plague was ſtayed.

CHAP.

away their lives, and leaving their bodies dead upon the place. That he take up the cenſers out of the burning—From among the dead bodies of thoſe men who were burnt. Burning put for thoſe who are burnt. Scatter thou the fire—The cinders, or aſhes, which are left in or near their cenſers. Yonder—Far from the altar and ſanctuary in an unclean place, where the aſhes were to be caſt; by which God ſhews his rejection of their ſervices. For they are hallowed—By God's appointment, becauſe the cenſers were preſented before the Lord by his order: and nothing that is preſented to, or belongs to the Lord, can be loſt; and that fire which ſhall diſſolve the elements, will not conſume one hair of their heads who belong to God.

V. 38. The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls—Their own lives; who were the authors of their own death and deſtruction. This is ſaid for the vindication of God's juſtice, and his own miniſtry, in this ſevere diſpenſation. They ſhall be a ſign—A monument or warning to all ſtrangers to take heed of invading the prieſthood.

V. 40. To be a memorial that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the Lord, that he be not as Korah, and as his company—That he do not imitate them in their ſin, and therefore bring upon himſelf the ſame plague. The Lord ſaid to him—To Eleazar. Eleazar did as God bade him.

V. 41. But on the morrow all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron—Prodigious wickedneſs and madneſs ſo ſoon to forget ſuch a terrible inſtance of Divine vengeance. Ye have killed—You, who ſhould have preſerved them, and interceded for them, have pulled down God's wrath upon them, for the maintenance of your own authority and intereſt. The people of the Lord—So they call thoſe rebels againſt God; which ſhews the power of paſſion and prejudice, to corrupt men's judgments. This ſpeedy forgetfulneſs of the judgment of God by the Jews, is no other than that which the human mind is prone to; as may eaſily be proved by the evidence of common hiſtory and experience, of the ſhort time which the remembrance of danger, or great calamities, remain with any force on the minds of men; and which is proof that nothing leſs than the Spirit of God can awaken the human mind to the fear of God, and preſerve it in that ſtate.

V. 42. When the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes, and Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle—Moſes and Aaron, in all their diſtreſſes, made God their refuge; they looked to him.

V. 43. Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle—To hear what God, who now appeared, would ſay to them.

V. 45. They fell upon their faces—To beg pardon and mercy for the people, thus rendering good to them for evil, which the people requited with evil for their kindneſs. And in this they repreſented that bleſſed Mediator who laid down his life for us; and who, notwithſtanding all the neglect and contempt with which he is treated every day, is ſtill interceeding with his Father, in behalf of them that are expoſing themſelves to his wrath.

V. 46. Take a cenſer, and put on incenſe—Which was a ſign of interceſſion, and was to be accompanied with it. Go quickly unto the congregation—With the incenſe, to ſtir up the people to repentance and prayer, to prevent their utter ruin. This he might do upon this extraordinary occaſion, having God's command for his warrant, though ordinarily incenſe was to be offered only in the tabernacle. For there is wrath gone out from the Lord; the plague is begun—In cutting off the people, by a ſudden and miraculous ſtroke.

V. 47. Aaron took, and ran into the midſt of the congregation—Hazarding his own life to obey God, and to do this people good.

V. 48. He ſtood between the dead and the living—As a mediator with God on their behalf.

CHAP.

Before Christ 1471.

CHAP. XVII.

AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

2 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and take of every one of them a rod, according to the houſe of their fathers, of all their princes, according to the houſe of their fathers, twelve rods: write thou every man's name upon his rod.

3 And thou ſhalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod ſhall be for the head of the houſe of their fathers.

4 And thou ſhalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation, before the teſtimony, [a] where I will meet with you.

[a] Exod. 25. 22.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs, that the man's rod [b] whom I ſhall chooſe, ſhall bloſſom: and I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, whereby they murmur againſt you.

[b] Chap. 16. 5.

6 ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, and every one of their princes gave him * a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers houſes, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods.

* Heb. a rod for one prince, a rod for one prince.

7 And Moſes laid up the rods before the Lord, in the tabernacle of witneſs.

8 And it came to paſs that on the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs; and behold, the rod of Aaron for the houſe of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds.

Before Christ 1471.

9 And Moſes brought out all the rods from before the Lord unto all the children of Iſrael: and they looked, and took every man his rod.

10 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Bring [c] Aaron's rod again, before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the † rebels; and thou ſhalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not.

[c] Heb. 9. 4.

† Heb children of rebellion.

11 And Moſes did ſo: as the Lord commanded him, ſo did he.

12 And the children of Iſrael ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Behold, we die, we periſh, we all periſh.

13 Whoſoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the Lord, ſhall die: Shall we be conſumed with dying?

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the Lord ſaid unto Aaron, Thou and thy ſons and thy father's houſe with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary: and thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood.

2 And thy brethren alſo of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be [a] joined unto thee, and [b] miniſter unto thee: but thou and thy ſons with thee, ſhall miniſter before the tabernacle of witneſs.

[a] See Gen. 29. 34.

[b] Chap. 3. 6, 7.

3 And

CHAP. XVII.

V. 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael—That I may finally ſatisfy all their ſcruples, and take away all pretence of murmuring on the ſame account. Take of every one of them—Not of every perſon, but of every tribe. A rod—That rod, which the princes carried in their hands as tokens of their dignity and authority. According to the houſe of their fathers—According to each family, proceeding from the patriarch, or father of that tribe. Write thou every man's name—Every prince's.

V. 3. Thou ſhalt write Aaron's name—Rather than Levi's name, for that would have left the controverſy undecided between Aaron and the other Levites.

V. 4. Thou ſhalt lay them up before the teſtimony—Before the ark of the teſtimony. Where I will meet with you—And manifeſt my mind to you, for the ending of this diſpute.

V. 8. On the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs—Into the moſt holy place, which he might ſafely do under the protection of God's command, though otherwiſe none but the high-prieſt might enter there, and that once in a year.

V. 10. Bring Aaron's rod again before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the rebels, that they die not—For if, after all theſe warnings, with ſuch miracles and judgments, they ſhall again offend in the ſame thing, they ſhall aſſuredly die for it.

V. 12. The children of Iſrael ſpake, ſaying, Behold, we die, we all periſh—Words of conſternation, ariſing partly from the remembrance of theſe ſevere and repeated judgments, and from the ſenſe of their own guilt and weakneſs, which made them fear leſt they ſhould relapſe into the ſame conduct, and thereby bring the vengeance of God upon themſelves.

V. 13. Whoſoever cometh any thing near—Nearer than he ſhould do, to the tabernacle ſhall die: ſhall we be conſumed with dying?—Will God proceed with us in theſe ſevere courſes, according to his ſtrict juſtice? will he ſhew us no mercy nor pity, till all the people be cut off and deſtroyed, with dying one after another?

CHAP. XVIII.

V. 1. The Lord ſaid unto Aaron, Thou and thy ſons, ſhall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary—Shall ſuffer the puniſhment of all the uſurpations or pollutions of the ſanctuary, or the holy things by the Levites or any of the people, becauſe you have authority and power from me to keep them all within their bounds, and I expect you uſe it to that end. Thus the people are in good meaſure ſecured againſt their fears, alſo they are informed, that Aaron's high dignity was attended with great burdens, having not only his own, but the people's ſins to anſwer for, and therefore, they had no ſuch reaſon to envy him, as they might think, if the benefits and incumbrances and dangers were equally conſidered. And thou and thy ſons, ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood—Of all the errors committed by yourſelves, or by you permitted in others, in things belonging to your Prieſthood.

V. 2. Thy brethren bring thou with thee, that they may miniſter unto thee—About ſacrifices and offerings and other things, according to the rules and limits I have preſcribed them. The Levites are ſaid to miniſter to Aaron, to the church, and to God, they ſhall not contend with thee for ſuperiority, as they have done, but they ſhall be ſubordinate and ſervants to thee. Thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall miniſter—Before and in the tabernacle.

V. 3. They ſhall keep thy charge—That which thou ſhalt command them, and commit to them. The charge of all the tabernacle—Of the

Before Christ 1471.

3 And they shall keep thy charge, and [c] the charge of all the tabernacle: only they shall not come nigh the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, that neither they, nor you also die.

[c] Chap. 3. 25, 31, 36.

4 And they shall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the service of the tabernacle: [d] and a stranger shall not come nigh unto you.

[d] Chap. 3. 10.

5 And ye shall keep [e] the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the altar; [f] that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Israel.

[e] Exod. 27. 21. and 30. 7. Lev. 24. 3. Chap. 8. 2.

[f] Chap. 18. 46.

6 And I, behold, I have [g] taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel: [h] to you they are given as a gift for the Lord, to do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

[g] Chap. 3. 12, 45.

[h] Chap. 3. 9.

Before Christ 1471.

7 Therefore thou and thy sons with thee, shall keep your priests office, for every thing of the altar, and within the vail, and ye shall serve: I have given your priests office unto you, as a service of gift: and the stranger that cometh nigh, shall be put to death.

8 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Aaron, Behold, [i] I also have given thee the charge of mine heave-offerings, of all the hallowed things of the children of Israel; unto thee have I given them, [k] by reason of the anointing, and to thy sons by an ordinance for ever.

[i] Lev. 6. 16, 18, 26. and 7. 6, 32. Chap. 5. 9.

[k] Exod. 29. 29.

9 This shall be thine of the most holy things, reserved from the fire: every oblation of the boards, and hangings, and utensils of the tabernacle, to take them down, and carry them, and set them up again. They shall not come nigh the vessels of the sanctuary, and the altar—Which therefore were to be covered by the priests, before the Levites might meddle with them. That neither they, nor you die—They for presuming to touch them, and you for your negligence in not covering them, or not looking to them.

V. 5. Ye shall keep the charge of the sanctuary—Of the holy, and of the most holy, place. That there be no wrath any more upon the children of Israel—For coming too near the holy place, or for usurping any part of your sacred function, or for any other miscarriage which they may be guilty of, through your carelessness or remissness, in which case they shall perish for their error, but their blood will I require at your hands, who should have advised them better, or over-ruled them. Honourable indeed it is to be employed in sacred things, but great is the danger; the ways of offending by an omission of duty, are much more numerous than in a private station, he that takes upon him any public office amongst any part of his fellow creatures in the church of God, must either be greatly blessed, or greatly miserable, blessed, if it is as his meat and drink to do his master's will; miserable, if he is remiss in the duties of his station, careless about the faithful discharge of what God in every particular requires of him, and unconcerned about the success of the work of the Lord—the salvation of souls and the glory of God the Saviour of men, who so loved them as to die to redeem them. And when it is considered what authority is required on one hand, and what humility on the other, what caution and what compassion, well may it be said, Who is sufficient for these things? But they surely need not be troubled, who are in the most difficult stations, and are charged with the eternal interests of men, who only remember that their sufficiency is of the Lord, whose power to help and support is boundless, and whose willingness to communicate spiritual wisdom and strength, is as great as his love, which being his nature, can be no less than infinite.

V. 6. The Levites to you are given as a gift for the Lord—For the service of the Lord, to assist you therein, in the servile and troublesome parts of it. All the help and assistance that is given us by our fellow creatures, is surely thus to be considered—A gift from God. And how is he to be praised for the blessings bestowed upon us, by those that his grace has inclined to serve us, and whose providence has provided such mutual helps as the human race are to one another. Through what channel, or by what means, could the Divine compassion convey temporal blessings to us, to make them more pleasing to us, than that they should be brought to us by the hand of our kindred, and such as we know and love? And as our happiness depends on loving God, and for his sake all our fellow creatures, to receive and look upon any assistance that is given us by others, as brought us from God, all things, the very water that is brought us to quench our thirst, furnishes with increasing motives to love God and our fellow creatures also.

V. 7. Thou and thy sons shall keep your office for every thing of the altar—Of burnt-offering. Within the vail—Both the vails, both the holy, and the most holy place. I have given your priests office unto you as a gift—As a gift which I have freely conferred upon you, and upon you alone; and therefore let no man henceforth dare either to charge you with arrogance and usurpation, in appropriating this to yourselves, or to invade your office. Our very employments are the gift of God, the sole disposer of all events; but not to be held independent of him; as we are in all things accountable to him, for the use we make of them, so has he reserved to himself alone, the power to make our employment a blessing to us; happy are they, who in their common labours are conscious in every step, and in all they set their hands to—This I do, because I believe he requires it of me, who only requires me to discharge the duties of the station in which his providence has placed me, because he intends to bless me in the discharge of them; and one day to bestow endless blessedness upon me, if I only continue for the short remainder of my course. faithfully devoted unto his will, in whatever he calls me to do on earth.

V. 8. I have given thee the charge of all the hallowed things—Not only the charge of them, but the use of them. By reason of the anointing—To the priestly office, because thou art priest, and art to devote thyself wholly to my service, which that thou mayest perform more diligently and cheerfully, I give thee this recompense. And every blessing that is bestowed upon all, is by reason of the anointing; the blood and righteousness of CHRIST JESUS, being the sole meritorious cause of our salvation, and of every blessing we can possess or hope for. As the charge of all hallowed things came to Aaron, by reason of the anointing, so by the anointing of the Holy One, are all initiated in all spiritual blessings. Do I look upon any thing of my own as the cause and reason of the mercies I am now favoured with? Do I think that for this I am indebted to none but myself? In whatever degree we separate in our views, the advantages and comforts we enjoy from God, as purchaser and giver of them, in that degree we deprive ourselves of that supreme delight—The blessing of a grateful heart—A spirit of praise to God, who is ever meeting those with new mercies that rejoice under a sense of his unmerited goodness to them.

V. 9. This shall be thine of the most holy things—Such as were to be eaten only by the priests, and that in the sanctuary. Reserved from the fire—Such sacrifices, or such parts of sacrifices as were not burnt in the fire. And to the great high priest, is reserved

all

Before Christ 1471.

of theirs, every [l] meat-offering of theirs, and every [m] sin-offering of theirs, and every [n] trespass-offering of theirs, which they shall render unto me, shall be most holy for thee and for thy sons.

10 In the most holy place shalt thou eat it; [o] every male shall eat it: it shall be holy unto thee.

11 And this is thine; [p] the heave-offering of their gift, with all the wave-offerings of the children of Israel: I have given them unto [q] thee, and to thy sons, and to thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: [r] every one that is clean in thy house, shall eat of it.

12 [s] All the * best of the oil, and all the best of the wine, and of the wheat, [t] the first-fruits of them which they shall offer unto the Lord, them have I given thee.

13 And whatsoever is first ripe in the land, [u] which they shall bring unto the Lord, shall be thine; every one that is clean in thine house, shall eat of it.

14 [x] Every thing devoted in Israel, shall be thine.

15 Every thing that openeth [y] the matrix in all flesh, which they bring unto the Lord, whether it be of men or beasts, shall be thine: nevertheless [z] the first-born of man shalt thou surely redeem, and the firstling of unclean beasts shalt thou redeem.

16 And those that are to be redeemed, from a month old shalt thou redeem [a] according to thine estimation, for the money of five shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary, [b] which is twenty gerahs.

17 But the firstling of a cow, or the firstling of a sheep, or the firstling of a goat thou shalt

l Lev. 2. 2, 3.
m Lev. 4. 22, 27. & 6. 25.
n Lev. 5. 1. and 7. 7. and 10. 12. and 14. 13.
o Lev. 6. 29. and 7. 6.
p Exod. 29. 27. Lev. 7. 31.
q Lev. 10. 14. Deut. 18. 3.
r Lev. 22. 2.
s Exod. 23. 19. Deut. 18. 4.
* Heb. fat.
t Exod. 22. 29.
u Exod. 22. 29. and 23. 19. and 34. 26. Lev. 2. 14. Chap. 15. 19. Deut. 26. 2. x Lev. 27. 28.
y Exod. 13. 2. and 22. 29. Lev. 27. 26. Chap. 3. 13. z Exod. 13. 13. and 34. 20.
a Lev. 27. 2.
b Exod. 30. 13. Lev. 27. 25. Chap. 3. 47. Ezek. 45. 12.

all that presented themselves as living sacrifices unto God; the fire of God's wrath shall leave them to their living head who redeemed them. Every oblation—Oblations in general. Every trespass-offering, which they shall render unto me—For a trespass committed against me. Shall be most holy for thee, and for thy sons—Thou shalt esteem it as a most holy thing, and shalt use it accordingly.

V. 10. In the most holy place—In the court of the priests, where there were places for this use; which is called the most holy place, not absolutely, as the place within the vail was, but in respect of the thing he speaks of, because this was the most holy of all the places appointed for eating of holy things, whereof some might be eaten in any clean place in the camp, or in their own houses. And God would have these things eaten by them in an holy place, as in God's presence, and that they might learn to eat this and their other food with thankfulness to God the giver of it, and with respect to his service and glory, which all are required to do. (1 Cor. x. 31.) Every male shall eat it—And they only; of peace-offerings the females might eat.

V. 11. This is thine: the heave-offering—The right shoulder, which was the priests. Their gift—Their peace-offerings. All the wave-offerings—The breasts of the peace offerings, which were waved. I have given them unto thee, and to thy sons, and to thy daughters with thee—If they were married to strangers, they might not eat of them. Every one that is clean in thy house shall eat of it—As fixed members of thy house. The children of Israel could not, except they were clean, be partakers of these offerings; neither could strangers. And those that appear to belong to the church of God at this day, who are living in any manner of uncleanness or wickedness, or under the influence of any evil temper, passion, or desire, cannot be partakers of those spiritual blessings which God is willing to give, but which are not to be enjoyed by those that will not cease from all evil, and truly by the desires of their souls come unto him to be made clean: And all strangers, all that are living far off from God, and seeking peace to their souls in the things that perish; these have no part in those comforts which the bread of life imparts; not for any want of willingness in the Author of Life to bestow spiritual life, but because they will not yield to his grace, and come unto him, that they may first be partakers of his mercy, and then of his holiness.

V. 12. First fruits of them have I given thee—As well those which were offered in behalf of the body of the people at the solemn feasts, as those which were required of particular persons, whereof the precise quantity is not determined, but left free to the giver, as an exercise for his piety and charity, only they are enjoined to give the first and the best of them.

V. 13. Whatsoever is first ripe—Not only the first fruits of the oil and wine, and wheat now mentioned, but all other first fruits of all other grains, and all fruit-trees. Every one that is clean—And none else, because these were first offered to God, and then given to the priests.

V. 14. Every thing devoted shall be thine—Dedicated to God by vow, or otherwise. God choosing to himself every one that accepts of his offered grace through the one Mediator, and freely given to all that receive it for his sake alone; and such as do so, they are as much the Lord's, as every clean and devoted thing is thus declared to belong to the high-priest; and so long as they continue to be devoted to God, so long does he deal with them not as with his enemies, the careless, the wicked, and the impenitent, but as with sons and heirs; and in this life he bestows upon them whatever is best for them, and only withholds mercies, and chastens, when doing so is better for them than such things as are more commonly known by the name of mercies.

V. 15. Every thing which they bring unto the Lord shall be thine—Which were offered to God, and to his service and disposal. The first-born of man, and the firstling of unclean beasts, shalt thou redeem—How often must the people of Israel have been reminded of the fallen state of the soul of man; every time they went to the priest under the law to redeem their first-born, or the first-born of every beast that was declared to be unclean; and yet how often did they forget that they were sinful in the sight of God, and murmured, because they had not what they themselves desired, instead of seeing that the smallest of God's mercies were more than they deserved.

V. 16. Those that are to be redeemed—Of men only, not of unclean beasts, which were to be redeemed with a sheep, and that after it was eight days old. According to thine estimation—According to the priest's estimation, though a certain rule be added, because the priest was to apply that rule to each person, and to put that price upon him. God also appointed the price that was to be paid for man's redemption, by the death of his beloved Son; the application of which redemption from the sentence of God's holy law, was, and is as much made by the great High-priest to every soul, as that the priest was to apply this rule in the case of every one that was redeemed under the ceremonial law.

V. 17. The firstling of a cow, or of a goat, they are holy—Con-

Before Christ 1471. shalt not redeem, they are holy; thou shalt sprinkle their blood upon the altar, and shalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a sweet savour unto the Lord.

18 And the flesh of them shall be thine, [c] as the [c] wave-breast, and as the right shoulder are thine.

c Exod. 29. 26, 28.

19 All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer unto the Lord, have I given thee, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee, by a statute for ever: [d] it is a covenant of salt for ever, before the Lord, unto thee and to thy seed with thee.

d Lev. 2. 13. 2 Chro. 13. 5

20 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Aaron, Thou shalt have no inheritance in their land, neither shalt thou have any part among them: [e] I am thy part, and thine inheritance among the children of Israel.

e Deut. 10. 9. and 12. 12. and 18. 2. Josh. 13. 14, 33. Ezek. 44. 28.

21 And behold, [f] I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Israel, for an inheritance, for their service which they serve, even the service of the tabernacle of the congregation.

f Lev. 27. 30.

22 [g] Neither must the children of Israel henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation, lest they bear sin, † and die.

g Chap. 1. 51.

† Heb. to die.

23 But the Levites shall do the service of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they shall bear their iniquity: It shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel they have no inheritance.

Before Christ 1471.

24 But the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer as an heave-offering unto the Lord, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have said unto them, [h] Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

h Deut. 10. 9. and 14. 27, 29. & 18. 1.

25 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

26 Thus speak unto the Levites, and say unto them, When ye take of the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye shall offer up an heave-offering of it for the Lord, even a tenth part of the tithe.

27 And this your heave-offering shall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threshing-floor, and as the fulness of the wine-press.

28 Thus you also shall offer an heave-offering unto the Lord, of all your tithes which ye secrated to an holy use, even to be sacrificed unto God, and not to be redeemed, nor alienated to any other use.

V. 18. The flesh of them shall be thine—All the flesh of them, and not only some parts, as in other sacrifices.

V. 19. It is a covenant of salt—A durable and perpetual covenant, so called, because salt is a sign of incorruption, as being of singular use to preserve things from corruption; or, because it is confirmed and ratified on their part by salt, which is therefore called the salt of the covenant, for which the priests were obliged to take care, that it should never be lacking from any meat-offering: And this promise or privilege conferred upon the priests is called a covenant, because it is given them conditionally, upon condition of their service, and care about the worship of God, and sacrifices, which were commonly accompanied with meat-offerings, and therefore with salt.

V. 20. The Lord spake unto Aaron, Thou shalt have no inheritance in their land—In the land of the children of Israel, you shall not have a separate portion of land, as the other tribes shall. The reason of this law was, because God would have them wholly devoted to and employed in his service, and therefore free from worldly incumbrances and business; and because God had abundantly provided for them, as he does for all them that are made partakers of his love, and dedicate themselves to his service, to promote the knowledge of his power and willingness to save lost mankind: Those who by the influence of his holy spirit are lovers of souls, have the Almighty Redeemer of souls ever as certainly charging himself with all that concerns them, as that it is said, I am thy part and inheritance. God would have their worldly comfort and happiness depend singly upon him and his service, and so would oblige them to use more zeal and diligence in the advancement of piety, even for their own interest, which was either better or worse, as true religion flourished or decayed; that this might be a firm bond of hearty love and affection between the people and their teachers the Levites, who, as they performed religious services for the people, so they received their subsistence from them; and that by this means being dispersed among the several tribes, they might have the better opportunity for teaching and watching over the people, which was their indispensible duty. (Deut. xxxiii. 10. 2 Chron. xxx. 22. Mal. ii. 4, 5, 6, 7.)

V. 21. I have given the children of Levi all the tenth—For the tithes were all given to the Levites, and out of their tithes the tenth was given to the priests.

V. 22. Neither must the children of Israel henceforth come nigh the tabernacle—So nigh, as to do any act proper to the priests or Levites.

V. 23. The Levites shall do the service, and bear their iniquity—The punishment due, not only for their own but also for the people's miscarriage, if it be committed through their connivance or negligence. And this was the reason why the priests withstood their king Uzziah, when he would have burnt incense to the Lord, (2 Chron. xxvi. 17, 18.)

V. 24. The tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer unto the Lord—As a rent-charge, or an acknowledgement, that they hold all their lands and the fruits of them, from God's bounty. And they who pay tithes, from a principal of gratitude to God the giver of the ground, as well as of all that it produces, must so long as they continue to act from that motive, have an happiness above all that the world can bestow upon them, and too well secured to them either to be abated, or taken away by any visible decrease of property, or by any neglect of other men, in the discharge of the duties of their station.

V. 25, 26. The Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the Levites, and say unto them, Ye shall offer for the Lord, even a tenth part of the tithe—So that they that received the tithes were themselves to give a tenth of all they received from the people to the Lord, who, by his providence, has left a part of mankind in all ages in a state of poverty, to receive the Lord's part at the hands of Before Christ 1471. ye receive of the children of Israel; and ye shall give thereof the Lord's heave-offering to Aaron the priest.

29 Out of all your gifts ye shall offer every heave-offering of the Lord, of all the ‡ best thereof, even the hollowed part thereof, out of it.

‡ Heb. fat.

30 Therefore thou shalt say unto them, When ye have heaved the best thereof from it, then it shall be counted unto the Levites, as the increase of the threshing-floor, and as the increase of the wine-press.

31 And ye shall eat it in every place, ye and your households: for it is [i] your reward for your service, in the tabernacle of the congregation.

i 1 Tim. 5. 18.

32 And ye shall bear no sin, by reason of it, when ye have heaved from it the best of it: neither shall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Israel, lest ye die.

CHAP. XIX.

Before Christ 1471.

AND the Lord spake unto Moses, and unto Aaron, saying,

2 This is the ordinance of the law which the Lord hath commanded, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring thee a red heifer without spot, wherein is no blemish, [a] and upon which never came yoke.

a 1 Sam. 6. 7.

3 And ye shall give her unto Eleazar the priest, that he may bring her [b] forth without the camp, and one shall slay her before his face.

b Heb. 13. 11.

4 And Eleazar the priest shall take of her blood with his finger, and [c] sprinkle of her blood directly before the tabernacle of the congregation seven times.

c Heb. 9. 13.

5 And one shall burn the heifer in his sight; [d] her skin, and her flesh, and her blood, with her dung, shall he burn.

d Exod. 29. 14. Lev. 4. 11, 12.

6 And the priest shall take cedar-wood, and of all, and especially of those that live by the public offerings which are secured to their use by his own appointment.

V. 27. This shall be reckoned unto you, as the corn of the threshing-floor—It shall be accepted of you as much as if you offered it out of your own lands and labours.

V. 28. Ye shall give thereof to Aaron the priest—As all that is given to the poor is to be given to the LORD JESUS himself, the high-priest and Lord of all, who is seen by faith as standing in the person of the poor, receiving back a part of what himself bestowed; and then by his gracious spirit filling the breast of the giver, with sweet foretastes of that joy which will be felt by all the disciples of Divine charity, when He, the judge of all shall say in the hearing of all heaven—Come ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you; for I was an hungred and ye gave me meat. (Matth. xxv. 31. &c.)

V. 29. Out of all your gifts—Not only out of your tithes, but out of the other gifts which you receive from the people, and out of those fields which shall belong to your cities. Ye shall offer—To the priest. Every heave-offering—As many gifts so many heave-offerings, you shall reserve a part out of each of them for the priest. Even the hallowed part thereof—This may describe the proportion of this offering, the tenth part, which was the part that God hallowed, sanctified, or appropriated to himself, and given by him to the priest, and because the payment of this due doth hallow all the rest, so as they may use it with comfort.

V. 31. Ye shall eat it in every place—In every clean place, and not in the holy place only. It is your reward for your service in the tabernacle—No private person can seek the favour of God in vain; nor will any take upon them any public duty with a design to please God, and be left without a reward for their service.

V. 32. Ye shall bear no sin when ye have heaved the best of it—Implying, that if they neglected this duty, they sinned in the use of such unhallowed food. Neither shall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Israel—As you will do, if you abuse their holy offerings, by reserving that entirely to yourselves which they offer to God, to be disposed of as he hath appointed, part to you, and part to the priests. Lest ye die—Death being the wages of every sin against God, if not prevented by true repentance, and turning to God by faith, in the only atonement made for sin by the Lamb that was slain from the foundation of the world.

CHAP. XIX.

V. 2. This is the ordinance of the law—The constitution of the law; that which God hath ordained or established. Speak unto the children of Israel, that they bring thee—At the common charge, because it was for the common good. A red heifer—A fit colour to shadow forth the bloody nature of sin, (Isa. i. 18.) and especially the blood of Christ, from which this water, and all other rites, had their purifying virtue. Wherein is no blemish—A fit type of Christ, who was such, (Heb. vii. 26.) Upon which never came yoke—Whereby may be signified, either that Christ in himself was free from all the yoke or obligation of God's command, till for our sakes he took up our yoke, and put himself under the law; or that Christ was not drawn or forced to undertake our burden and cross, but that he did voluntarily chuse it. (John x. 17, 18.)

V. 3. Ye shall give her unto Eleazar the priest—Who was the second priest, or deputy of the high-priest. To him, not to Aaron, because this service made him unclean for a season, (ver. 7.) and consequently unfit for holy ministrations, whereas the high-priest was, as far as possibly he could, to be preserved from all sorts of defilement, and constantly fit for his high and holy work. That he may bring her without the camp—Because it was reputed an unclean and accursed thing, being ceremoniously laden with the sins of all the people, and partly to signify that Christ should suffer without the camp, as he did, (Heb. xiii. 12.) in the place where malefactors suffered, (Levit. xxiv. 14.) And one shall slay her—A person appointed by Eleazar, for this work.

V. 4. The priest shall sprinkle of her blood directly before the tabernacle—Towards the tabernacle; standing at a great distance from it, even without the camp, yet turning and looking towards it. This signified his presenting of this blood before the Lord by way of atonement and satisfaction for his and the people's sins, and his expectation of his acceptance and pardon only from God by the blood of Christ, who, through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without spot to God, to purge away all guilt from the conscience of the convinced sinner; that they, who before were enemies to God by wicked works, might, by faith in the Mediator, love and serve the living God. (Heb. ix. 14.)

V. 5. One shall burn the heifer—To signify the sharp and grievous sufferings of Christ for our sins. And her flesh, and her blood—All of it, but what was spent in sprinkling.

V. 7. The

Before Christ 1471. and hyſſop, and ſcarlet, and caſt it into the midſt of the burning of the heifer.

e Lev. 11. 24. & 15. 5. 7 e Then the prieſt ſhall waſh his clothes, and he ſhall bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward he ſhall come into the camp, and the prieſt ſhall be unclean until the even.

8 And he that burneth her, ſhall waſh his clothes in water, and bathe his fleſh in water, and ſhall be unclean until the even.

9 And a man that is clean ſhall gather up f Hebr. 9. 13. f the aſhes of the heifer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it ſhall be kept for the congregation of the children of Iſrael, for a water of ſeparation: it is a purification for ſin.

10 And he that gathereth the aſhes of the heifer ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them, for a ſtatute for ever. Before Christ 1471.

g Lev. 21. 1. Chap. 5. 2. & 31. 19. Lam. 4. 14. Hag. 2. 13. * Heb ſoul of man. h Chap. 31. 19. 11 ¶ g He that toucheth the dead body of any * man, ſhall be unclean ſeven days.

12 h He ſhall purify himſelf with it on the third day, and on the ſeventh day he ſhall be clean: but if he purify not himſelf the third day, then the ſeventh day he ſhall not be clean.

13 Whoſoever

V. 7. The prieſt ſhall be unclean until the even—To ſhew the imperfection of the Levitical prieſthood, in which the prieſt himſelf was defiled by ſome parts of his work, and the abſolute neceſſity of a better and holier prieſthood; and to ſhew that Chriſt himſelf, though he had no ſin of his own, yet was reputed by men, and judged by God, as an unclean and ſinful perſon, by reaſon of our ſins, which were laid upon him. (Iſa. liii. 12. 2 Cor. v. 21.)

V. 9. The aſhes of the heifer ſhall be kept for the children of Iſrael—For their uſe, and in a fit place, whence any of them might procure them. For a water—To be put to the water. Of ſeparation—Appointed for the cleanſing of them that are in a ſtate of ſeparation, who for their uncleanneſs are ſeparated from the congregation. It is a purification—The water thus made and ſprinkled. For ſin—An offering for ſin, or a mean for cleanſing of ſin. The name of ſin is ſometimes given to the puniſhment of ſin, and ſometimes to ſacrifice or offering for ſin. And as the aſhes were thus preſerved, and to be had by the congregation at all times, to purify them; ſo may the blood of the Lamb be at all times applied to; and by which blood alone can actual ſin be pardoned, and inward evil be done away. By this, and this alone, is the juſtice of God ſatisfied; and only by this are the thoughts of the heart cleanſed. The word of God is addreſſed to our faith, without excluding reaſon; and may it not be aſked of our reaſon, What is it that man can do to blot out the ſins, be they many or few, which he has committed, and which are written in thoſe books which ſhall be opened in that day, when God ſhall judge the world? (Rev. xx. 12.) A life of the utmoſt watchfulneſs againſt all ſin, in thought, word, or deed, from this moment forward, is no more than our duty, and is what God requires of us for his glory, and our true happineſs; but the ſins that have already been committed, are they by this means blotted out of the books of God? Would a ſubject convicted of treaſon be entitled to a pardon, becauſe he had not continued to commit treaſon till the moment he was taken and tried for his crime; or if in many things, or for a part of his life, he had lived in obedience to the laws of his country, would that make the treaſon he had committed no longer treaſon. All ſin is treaſon againſt the Moſt High, the honour of his government, and his pure and holy nature; and ſin but once committed, will ſtand till the final judgment, and then bring upon us the wages of ſin—death—baniſhment from the preſence of God, if One of equal dignity with Him who forbids all ſin, had not himſelf become the Mediator between God and man; and when by faith in the blood of Jeſus ſin is pardoned, what but that blood can cleanſe the ſoul of man from the very nature of ſin in the heart, which, ſo long as it remains there, muſt, like water from an impure ſpring, ſend out ſin in the life? Shall men who have not power to preſerve themſelves alive for a moment, aſſume to themſelves almighty power, and create themſelves anew, and from a nature made up of ſinful paſſions, tempers and deſires, transform their ſouls into the image of God? No, it is God alone, by his ſpirit, who alone worketh in us to will and to do all that is in its nature pure, holy, juſt, and good; and to faith in Jeſus is that grace promiſed, which alone can cleanſe the thoughts of the heart, or give to any the mind that was in Jeſus. (Phil. ii. 5, 13.) And O! Why is it that we are ſo unwilling to owe that bleſſed Being that made us, the endleſs obligation of his being the Author of our ſalvation, from the guilt of ſin and the nature of it? Why ſo hard to be perſuaded to look to Jeſus, the Author of our faith, for pardon of ſin, and for that holineſs, without which no man ſhall ſee the Lord. (Heb. xii. 14.)

V. 10. The aſhes ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them—Where the name of ſtranger is put, as here it is, it generally ſpeaks of a proſelyte. Strangers to the commonwealth of Iſrael are thoſe, and thoſe only that are not turning unto God as their Redeemer: All that fear God, and hope in his mercy through a Mediator, all ſuch become proſelytes to the only true religion, and to the church of God, purchaſed by his blood who was and is that Seed, which was promiſed to the firſt parents of all the human race after their fall. None were excluded, or forbid to join themſelves to the Iſrael of God; the children of Iſrael were forbid to mix with any other, but all were at liberty to join themſelves to the people of God, who did but renounce all other Gods, and came to ſeek ſalvation from the holy One of Iſrael, the God of the whole earth, and he made it for a ſtatute for ever, that ſtrangers, as well as Iſraelites, ſhould have the benefit of the atonement.—Benefit how great! Who can tell, but they who by his unmerited mercy are made partakers of it.

V. 11. He that toucheth the dead body of any man, ſhall be unclean ſeven days—The touch of a dead beaſt made a man unclean only till even. (Lev. xi. 24.)

V. 12. He ſhall purify himſelf with it—With the water of ſeparation. On the third day—To typify Chriſt's reſurrection on that day. On the ſeventh day he ſhall be clean—To teach us, that our purification in this life is aſſuredly to be expected? Whom God juſtifies, them will he ſanctify. When will God juſtify the ungodly? When they repent, and believe the goſpel. When will God purify the ſoul he has pardoned? When it is convinced by the holy law of God, of that truth—holineſs is required in the inward parts, that the ſoul is by nature born in ſin, and entirely needs to have the very thoughts of the heart cleanſed, by the inſpiration of the holy Spirit of God: For the firſt of theſe bleſſings, this is the day; and for thoſe that have obtained that, now is the accepted time for the ſecond. Aſk, and ye ſhall receive, that your joy may be full, (John xvi. 24.) are his words, who ſaid, We, the Father and the Son, by the Spirit, will come and make our abode with him, (John xiv. 23.) that believes in his power

Before Christ 1453.

13 Whosoever toucheth the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himself, [i] defileth the tabernacle of the Lord; and that soul shall be cut off from Israel: because the water of separation was not sprinkled upon him, he shall be unclean; his uncleanness is yet upon him.

[i] Lev. 15. 31.

14 This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent; all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, shall be unclean seven days.

[k] Chap. 31. 20.

15 And every [k] open vessel which hath no covering bound upon it, is unclean.

16 And whosoever toucheth one that is slain with a sword in the open fields, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

† Heb. dust. ‡ Heb. living water shall be given.

17 And for an unclean person they shall take of the † ashes of the burnt heifer of purification for sin, and ‡ running water shall be put thereto in a vessel:

18 And a clean person shall take [l] hyssop, and dip it in the water, and sprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the vessels, and upon the persons that were there, and upon him that touched a bone, or one slain, or one dead, or a grave;

Before Christ 1453

[l] Psal. 51. 7.

19 And the clean person shall sprinkle upon the unclean on the third day, and on the seventh day: and on the seventh day he shall purify himself, and wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and shall be clean at even.

20 But the man that shall be unclean, and shall not purify himself, that soul shall be cut off from among the congregation: because he hath defiled the sanctuary of the Lord, the water of separation hath not been sprinkled upon him, he is unclean.

21 And it shall be a perpetual statute unto them power and willingness to save from the guilt of sin, and the nature of sin. God never dwelling, and sin existing in the same soul at once, no more than sin can enter and dwell in the presence of God in glory.

V. 13. Whosoever toucheth the dead body of any man, and purifieth not himself—If this transgression be done wilfully; for if it was done ignorantly, he was only to offer sacrifice. Defileth the tabernacle of the Lord—By approaching to it in his uncleanness: for holy things, or places, were ceremonially defiled with the touch of any unclean person or thing. Because the water of separation was not sprinkled upon him: his uncleanness is yet upon him—He continues in his guilt and filth, and therefore in danger of being cut off. He that has received from God, his Saviour, the blessedness of the man whose sins are forgiven, and has wilfully sinned again, by so doing he has exposed himself to the wrath of God, and of the Lamb who was made a sacrifice for sin; but He that has bid his disciples forgive, not only seven times but till seventy times seven, willeth not the death of a sinner, but that he should still turn and live, though the sin should be as much against light and knowledge, as the sin of that Apostle who denied he knew Jesus, who saved him from sinking into the sea; his grace is sufficient, and if the blood that was shed is not despised, but looked to, it will be applied, and sin will be pardoned, and the soul washed from the uncleanness it had contracted.

V. 14. When a man dieth in a tent, all that come into and is in the tent, shall be unclean seven days—God doomed men to death, because man sinned against God; and though blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, yet in the very person of the dead, there is a remembrance of that sin which makes it just in God to destroy the body, the most wonderful work of his hands, so that all that see his judgment against sin contracted ceremonial uncleanness.

V. 15. Every open vessel is unclean—Because it receives the air of the tent, by which it is polluted. In what manner can we be more strongly told of the exceeding sinfulness of sin, than the very air of the place is infected, which was but ceremonial unclean. And if we would but give this its spiritual application, and allow ourselves to be led by the ceremonial law of God, to see that we sin in every breath we draw; "Every moment, Lord, I need the merit of thy death" would then be the language of our hearts; and they who feel themselves thus dependent on the mercy of God, to preserve them from that justice which they have provoked, by every temper, passion, and desire of their souls, must also find themselves dependent on the constant communications of his grace, to preserve them from dead works, and to be their sufficiency in doing the will of God on earth as it is done in heaven. How much does it concern us to know from whom we act; if from ourselves we are building upon the sand; if from grace, the gift of God, for Jesus's sake, that foundation will never fail: Sin shall not reign, death shall not terrify, nor all the powers of hell hurt or destroy the weakest believer in the love and faithfulness of God, for the sake of Jesus.

V. 16. Whosoever toucheth one that is slain with a sword—Or by any other violent way.

V. 17. For an unclean person, they shall take of the ashes of the heifer, and running water—Waters flowing from a spring or river, which are the purest. These manifestly signify God's Spirit, which is oft compared to water, and by which alone true purification is obtained. (John vii. 38, 39.)

V. 18. A clean person—A priest; for to such the work of cleansing was appropriated. And he alone who was spiritually clean, Jesus Christ the righteous, can alone sprinkle the blood that he shed for sin, on the guilty conscience. None that are guilty—Unclean, can be be pardoned or cleansed, but by his Spirit the purchase of his death, and the free gift of his love; and to all that believe is this grace given.

V. 20. The man that shall be unclean, and shall not purify himself—Shall carelessly neglect, or contemptuously refuse to submit to this way of purification. That soul shall be cut off—From the church of God, and if he continues to count the blood of the covenant an unholy thing, and think he can vindicate himself to God, without regarding the merit of his Son's death, or the application of his blood; without blood shedding there is no remission of sin in this life; and to die unpardoned is to be cut off from that heavenly inheritance, which God offers, and Jesus died in vain for those that will not come unto him, that they may have life. He hath defiled the sanctuary of the Lord—He has acted on the presumption that without a Redeemer there is salvation, and that without his blood being applied—without holiness a man may see the Lord, may dwell with God. He shall be cut off, because the water of separation hath not been sprinkled upon him—because he is not washed—not cleansed by the blood of Jesus, he has no part with him. (John xiii. 8.)

V. 21. It shall be a perpetual statute, that he that sprinkleth the water, shall wash his clothes—Because he is unclean, Is it not strange, that the same water should cleanse one person, and defile another? No, God would have it so, to teach us that it did not cleanse by

Before Christ 1453. them, that he that ſprinkleth the water of ſeparation, ſhall waſh his clothes, and he that toucheth the water of ſeparation ſhall be unclean until even.

22 And whatſoever the unclean perſon toucheth, ſhall be unclean: and the ſoul that toucheth it, ſhall be unclean until even.

CHAP. XX.

a Chap. 33. 38. 1 THEN came the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation, into the deſert of Zin, in the firſt month: and the people abode in Kadeſh; and Miriam died there, and was buried there.

2 And there was no water for the congregation: and they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron.

b Exod. 17. 2. c Chap. 11. 1, 31. & 14. 37. & 16. 32, 35, 46. 3 And the people b chode with Moſes, and ſpake, ſaying, Would God that we had died c when our brethren died before the Lord.

4 And d why have ye brought up the congregation of the Lord into this wilderneſs, that we and our cattle ſhould die there? Before Christ 1453. d Exod. 17. 3.

5 And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of ſeed, or of figs, or vines, or of pomegranates, neither is there any water to drink.

6 And Moſes and Aaron went from the preſence of the aſſembly, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and e they fell upon their faces: and f the glory of the Lord appeared unto them. e Chap. 14. 5. and 16. 4. f Chap. 14. 10.

7 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

8 g Take the rod, and gather thou the aſſembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and ſpeak ye unto the rock before their eyes, and g Exod. 17. 6.

any virtue in it or in the work done, but only by virtue of God's appointment: and to the imperfection of the Jewiſh prieſthood, and their ritual purifications and expiations, and conſequently of the neceſſity of a better prieſt and ſacrifice and way of purifying, which theſe outward rites pointed at: and to ſhew that the efficacy of God's ordinances doth not depend upon the perſon or quality of his miniſters; but on the ſoul's application to that fountain, which the Saviour of men has opened for all ſin and uncleanneſs; which is at once for the pardoning and cleanſing of all that believe, and for the condemnation of all that ever uſe the means but believe not. (Mark xvi. 16.)

V. 22. Whatſoever the unclean perſon toucheth, ſhall be unclean—And which was not removed without the uſe of this water of purification. The ſoul that toucheth it, ſhall be unclean—To ſignify to us, the infectious nature of ſin, and of ſinful company.

CHAP. XX.

V. 1. Then came the children of Iſrael—After many other ſtations and journies here omitted, but deſcribed Numb. xxxiii. Into the deſert of Zin—A place near the land of Edom, diſtinct and diſtant from that Sin, Exod. xvi. 1. The firſt month—Of the fortieth year, as is evident, becauſe the next ſtation to this was in mount Hor, where Aaron died, which was in the firſt month of the fortieth year, Numb. xxxiii. 38. Moſes doth not give us an exact journal of all their occurrences in the wilderneſs, but only of thoſe which were moſt remarkable, and eſpecially of thoſe which happened in the firſt and ſecond, and in the fortieth year. The people abode in Kadeſh—Whether the ſame place called Kadeſh-barnea, where they were long ſince, and to which they now return, after thirty-eight years tedious travels and wanderings in the deſert, or another place, ſeems not certain. Miriam died there—Four months before Aaron, and but a few more before Moſes.

V. 2. There was no water for the congregation—Which having followed them through all their former journies, began now to fail them here. God, who gave them bread from heaven, made water alſo to deſcend out of the mount; that his church and people in all ages might learn that her living head, who redeemed them by his blood, had all things in his hands; and that none that ever, by his grace, ſet out to ſeek his favour, might fear being left in want of whatever was neceſſary for life and godlineſs, he, againſt the courſe of nature, thus ſupplied their wants for years together; but as God proves the ſincerity of his church, and of every ſoul of which ſhe is compoſed, whether they will hold out in a diſintereſted love to their Redeemer—their huſband; and on this account he calls all that will be godly to preſent ſufferings, that they that continue ſtedfaſtly devoted to his will, neither depreſſed with difficulties and trials, nor lifted up with proſperity and praiſe, ſuch he is continually bringing through great tribulation, and whatever they patiently endure as ſeeing him who ſuffered for them, he anſwers their faith by freſh communications of his grace, and thus are they continually waſhing their robes, and making them white in the blood of the Lamb, who himſelf, as Man, was perfected through ſufferings. The Iſraelites ſtarted a ſide, as an arrow from a broken bow; and inſtead of being reſigned, praying to God, and caſting their care upon him, they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron—Aſſembled to expreſs their complaints againſt them, the one as having the charge of their civil government, and the other as having the care of things ſacred. And thus is every diſcontented thought, every murmur a complaint againſt God as the Governor of all things, and a charge againſt him as our High-prieſt, who has not procured for us the things we think ourſelves entitled to.

V. 3. The people chode with Moſes—Forgetting that it is God alone that both makes rich and poor, that gives and takes away, they expreſs their reſentment againſt Moſes, as men do who loſe ſight of God in their affliction againſt thoſe perſons or events, which they are miſled to think are the cauſe of their difficulties, or their diſappointments. Would God that we had died when our brethren died before the Lord—Suddenly, rather than to die ſuch a lingering and painful death. Loſing ſight of God, they of courſe forget their own immortality, and ſo, if they had but been freed from their preſent difficulties, they care not in what condition they had died.

V. 4. Why have ye brought up the congregation of the Lord into this wilderneſs—In this very ſpirit of diſobedience to the will of God, they conſider themſelves as the favourites of heaven. And if there be a deluſion more dangerous than all others, it muſt be this.

V. 5. Wherefore have ye made us to come unto this evil place—Every place is an evil place, when the will is not reſigned to the will of God; as every place is a place of praiſe, when the ſoul knows and loves God, as appears by Acts xvi. 25.

V. 6. Moſes and Aaron went from the preſence of the aſſembly—To avoid the growing rage of the people; for God's ſingular protection of them did not exclude the uſe of ordinary means. Unto the door of the tabernacle—To God for relief and redreſs. The Lord appeared unto them—God never being abſent, or refuſing to appear in behalf of all them that ſeek him by faith in his mercy.

V. 8 Take

Before Christ 1453.

and it ſhall give forth his water, and [h] thou ſhalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: ſo thou ſhalt give the congregation, and their beaſts drink.

9 And Moſes took the rod from before the Lord, as he commanded him.

10 And Moſes and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he ſaid unto them, [i] Hear now, ye rebels; muſt we fetch you water out of this rock?

11 And Moſes lift up his hand, and with his rod he ſmote the rock twice: and [k] the water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beaſts alſo.

12 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, Becauſe [l] ye believed me not, to ſanctify me in the eyes of the children of Iſrael; therefore ye ſhall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them.

13 [m] This is the water of * Meribah, becauſe the children of Iſrael ſtrove with the Lord: and he was ſanctified in them.

14 ¶ And Moſes ſent meſſengers from Kadeſh, unto the king of Edom, [n] Thus ſaith thy brother Iſrael, Thou knoweſt all the travel that hath † befallen us:

15 How our fathers went down into Egypt, and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time; and the Egyptians vexed us, and our fathers.

16 And [o] when we cried unto the Lord, he heard our voice, and [p] ſent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and behold, we are in Kadeſh, a city in the uttermoſt of thy border.

17 Let us paſs, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not paſs through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's high-way, we will not turn to the right hand nor to the left, until we have paſſed thy borders.

18 And Edom ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not paſs by me, leſt I come out againſt thee with the ſword.

19 And

h Neh. 9. 15. Pſal. 78. 15, 16. and 105. 41. & 114. 8. Iſai. 43. 20. and 48. 21.

i Pſa. 106. 33.

k Exod. 17. 6. 1 Cor. 10. 4.

l Chap. 27. 14. Deut. 1. 37. and 3. 26. and 32. 51.

m Deut. 33. 8. Pſal. 95. 8. and 106. 32, &c.

* That is, ſtrife, See Exod. 17. 7.

n Deut. 2. 4, &c. & 23. 7. Obad. 10. 12.

† Heb. found us.

o Exod. 2. 23. and 3. 7.

p Exod. 14. 19. and 23. 20.

V. 8. Take the rod—That rod which was laid up before the Lord in the tabernacle. Gather thou the aſſembly together, and ſpeak ye unto the rock—Which will ſooner hear and obey my commands than theſe people, whoſe conduct is thus publiſhed to the world, that all mankind may ſee in their hiſtory the natural temper of the human mind, and how much it is inclined to diſcontent under the Almighty's government, whoſe providence is croſſing our ſelf-will, that we may learn the bleſſed leſſon of an humble ſubmiſſion to his holy will in all things.

V. 9. Moſes took the rod—Out of the tabernacle.

V. 11. The congregation drank, and their beaſts alſo—To the men it was a ſacrament, (1 Cor. x. 3, 4.) but to the beaſts it was no holy but a common thing. So that the elements in the ſacraments have no inherent and inſeparable holineſs, but only a relative holineſs with reſpect to their uſe, out of which they are unholy and common.

V. 12. The Lord ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, Becauſe ye believed me not—But ſhewed your infidelity: which they did, either by their looks and geſtures, or rather by the matter and manner of their expreſſions and actions, by ſmiting the rock, and that twice, which is emphatically noted, as if he doubted whether once ſmiting would have done it, whereas he was not commanded to ſmite ſo much as once, but only to ſpeak to it: or by the doubtfulneſs of theſe words, muſt we fetch water out of the rock? which implies a ſuſpicion of it, whereas they ſhould have ſpoken poſitively and confidently to the rock to give forth waters. And yet they did not doubt of the power of God, but of his will, whether he would gratify theſe rebels with this further miracle, after ſo many of the like kind. God ſaw their hearts and minds to be diſtruſtful, and there might be other unbelieving words uſed by them at this time and place, though they are not recorded, it being uſual in Scripture, to give only the principal heads of diſcourſes or events, leaving the reſt to be gathered out of them. (Pſal. cvi. 32, 33.) To ſanctify me—To give me glory of my power in doing this miracle, and of my truth in punctually fulfilling my promiſe ſo to do, and of my goodneſs in doing it, notwithſtanding the peoples perverſeneſs. In the eyes of the children of Iſrael—This made their ſin ſcandalous, to the Iſraelites, who of themſelves were too prone to infidelity, and little needed ſuch an ill example, to prevent the contagion whereof God leaves a monument of this great diſpleaſure upon them, and inflicts a puniſhment as public and manifeſt as their ſin was. Ye ſhall not bring this congregation into the land: which I have given them—For this ſingle inſtance of your want of faith, that all that ſhall hereafter be called to go before any number, or congregation of people, may know the ſinfulneſs of unbelief, and that they that want a ſtedfaſt confidence in my faithfulneſs, in fulfilling all that I have promiſed, ſhall not lead others into the knowledge and poſſeſſions of thoſe ſpiritual bleſſings, which they themſelves are not believing, it is my will to beſtow according to my word.

V. 13. This is the water of Meribah—Strife called Meribah-Kadeſh, to diſtinguiſh it from another Meribah. The Lord was ſanctified in them—The children of Iſrael by the demonſtration of his omnipotency, veracity, and clemency towards the Iſraelites, and of his impartial holineſs and ſeverity againſt ſin, even in his greateſt friends and favourites, as Moſes was.

V. 14. Moſes ſent meſſengers—By God's direction. To the king of Edom, Thus ſaith thy brother—Iſaac was their common father Thou knoweſt all the travel that hath befallen us—All the wanderings and afflictions of our parents, and of us their children, which doubtleſs have come to thine ears.

V. 16. When we cried unto the Lord, he heard our voice—God is a God hearing prayer, and we neglect our own mercies when we do not cry or make our requeſts known unto God by prayer, mixed with faith, that he will ſend us relief from whatever it is that afflicts us, whenever to be relieved will be more for our good than continuing to ſuffer a little longer. And ſent an angel—The angel of the covenant, Chriſt Jeſus, who firſt appeared to Moſes in the buſh, and afterward in the cloudy pillar, who conducted Moſes and the people out of Egypt, and through the wilderneſs, (1 Cor. x. 4.) For though Moſes may be called an angel, or meſſenger, a title given to the prophets, yet it is not probable, that he is meant, becauſe Moſes was the perſon that ſent this meſſage; and becauſe there was no reaſon why he ſhould expreſs himſelf by ſuch a doubtful title to them; and becauſe another angel beſides and above Moſes did conduct them, and the mention hereof to the Edomites, was likely to give more authority and efficacy to their preſent meſſage. We are in Kadeſh—Near the city Kadeſh, the particle in being often ſo uſed.

V. 17. Neither will we drink of the water of the wells—Pits, which

Before Christ 1453.

19 And the children of Israel said unto him, We will go by the high-way: and if I q Deut. 2. 6, 28. and my cattle drink of thy water, q then I will pay for it: I will only (without doing any thing else) go through on my feet.

20 And he said, Thou shalt not go through. And Edom came out against him with much people, and with a strong hand.

r See Deut. 2. 20. 21 Thus Edom r refused to give Israel pass Deut. 2. 4, 5. Judges 11. 18. sage through his border: wherefore Israel s turned away from him.

22 ¶ And the children of Israel, even the t Chap. 33. 37. whole congregation, journeyed from t Kadesh, u Chap. 21. 4. u and came unto mount Hor.

23 And the Lord spake unto Moses and Aaron, in mount Hor, by the coast of the land of Edom, saying,

24 Aaron shall be gathered unto his people: for he shall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Israel, be-‡ Heb. mouth. cause ye rebelled against ‡ my word at the water of Meribah.

x Chap. 33. 38. Deut. 32. 50. 25 x Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up unto mount Hor:

26 And strip Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son: and Aaron shall be gathered unto his people, and shall die there.

27 And Moses did as the Lord commanded: and they went up into mount Hor, in the sight of all the congregation. Before Christ 1453.

28 y And Moses stripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his son; and a Aaron died there in the top of the mount: and Moses and Eleazar came down from the mount. y Exod. 29. 29, 30. a Deut. 10. 6. and 32. 50. 1452.

29 And when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thirty days, even all the house of Israel. b b So Deut. 34. 8.

CHAP. XXI.

AND when a king Arad the Canaanite, a Chap. 33. 40. See Judg. 1. 16. which dwelt in the south, heard tell that Israel came by the way of the spies; then he fought against Israel, and took some of them prisoners.

2 And Israel vowed a vow unto the Lord, and said, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly destroy their cities.

3 And the Lord hearkened to the voice of Israel, and delivered up the Canaanites: and they utterly destroyed them and their cities: and he called the name of the place * Hormah. * That is, utter destruction.

4 ¶ And b they journeyed from mount Hor, by the way of the Red sea, to compass b Chap. 20. 22. and 33. 41. the which any of you have digged for your private use, without paying for it, but only of the waters of common rivers, which are free to all passengers, and will not be prejudicial to thee.

V. 18. Edom said, Thou shalt not pass by me—Through my country, as thou desirest: I will not suffer thee to do so. And by this we may learn, not to expect the consent of them that know not God, that we should act in obedience to the will of God; and though the duty may be as plainly commanded, as the Israelites were to go into the land of Canaan, yet so long as the nearest relations may continue in their natural state, they are only to be expected to answer as the Edomites did—thou shalt not do this or that, though it is in obedience to God's will, and attended with no injury to them. In those minds, where the spirit of God does not reign, satan's does; and in every step they that obey the latter, oppose or persecute those that obey the former.

V. 19. The children of Israel said unto him—Their messengers replied unto them what here follows.

V. 21. Wherefore Israel turned away from him—According to God's command.

V. 22. The children of Israel came unto mount Hor—Whose inhabitants were thence called Horims.

V. 24. He shall not enter into the land, because ye rebelled against my word—God would not have Moses and Aaron to carry the people into Canaan; because they believed not his word at the time of Israel's murmuring for want of water.

V. 26. Strip Aaron of his garments—Of his priestly garments, in token of his resignation of his office. And put them upon Eleazar his son—By way of admission to his office.

V. 27. They went up, in the sight of all the congregation—That their hearts might be more affected with their loss of so great a pillar, and that they all might be witnesses of the translation of the priesthood from Aaron to Eleazar, and therefore might give him the honour due to him.

V. 28. Moses stripped Aaron of his garments—Moses does not hesitate at the Divine command; natural affection, increased by long continued labours in the service of God together, gave place to duty; and Aaron, who had been so long and highly honoured with the High-priest's office, now humbly resigns his office to God, who bestowed it upon him. Aaron died there—In mount Hor.

V. 29. When all the congregation saw—Understood by the relation of Moses and Eleazar. So seeing is used, (Acts vii. 12.) They mourned for Aaron thirty days—The time of public and solemn mourning for great persons. Thus after Aaron had served his generation, he fell asleep.

CHAP. XXI.

V. 1. When King Arad the Canaanite—He seems to be called a Canaanite in a general sence, as the Amorites and others sometimes are. Which dwelt in the south—Of Canaan, towards the east, and near the dead sea. Heard tell that Israel came by the way of the spies—When he heard that divers of the Israelites came into his country in the nature of spies, to prepare the way for the rest. He fought against Israel, and took some of them prisoners—Which God permitted for Israel's humiliation and punishment, and to teach them not to expect the conquest of that land from their own wisdom or valour, but wholly from God's favour and assistance.

V. 2. Israel vowed a vow unto the Lord—Being sensible of their own weakness, they endeavour to engage God to help them in the war, which they intended to renew. If thou wilt indeed deliver this people, I will utterly destroy their cities—I will reserve no person nor thing for my own use.

V. 3. The Lord delivered up the Canaanites: and they utterly destroyed them—Some time after this, under Joshua, who subdued, among others, the King of Arad. And so this is mentioned here by anticipation, that the vow being now made and mentioned the land of Edom: and the ſoul of the people was much † ‡ diſcouraged becauſe of the way.

Before Christ 1452.

† Or, grieved. ‡ Heb. ſhortened.

5 And the people ſpake againſt God, and againſt Moſes, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the wilderneſs? for there is no bread, neither is there any water, and [c] our ſoul lotheth this light bread.

c Chap. 11. 6.
d 1 Cor. 10. 9.
e Deut. 8. 15.

6 And [d] the Lord ſent [e] fiery ſerpents among the people; and they bit the people, and much people of Iſrael died.

7 ¶ Therefore the people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned, for we have ſpoken againſt the Lord, and againſt thee; [f] pray unto the Lord that he take away the ſerpents from us: and Moſes prayed for the people.

Before Christ 1452.

f Exod. 8. 8, 28. 1 Kings 13. 6.

8 And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent, and ſet it upon a pole: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live.

9 And [g] Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs, and put it upon a pole, and it came to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived.

g 2 Kings 18. 4. John 3. 14.

10 ¶ And

tioned, the effect or performance of it might be recorded, though out of its place, and ſo this verſe muſt be ſuppoſed to be added by ſome of the prophets, and inſerted into Moſes's hiſtory.

V. 4. The ſoul of the people was much diſcouraged becauſe of the way—By reaſon of this journey, which was long and troubleſome, for they were now going again towards Egypt. Before they had been afflicted for their unbelief and diſobedience; and now they are to be proved, whether they will ſtedfaſtly walk with God in the ways of duty, with the appearance of things going againſt them.

V. 5. The people ſpake againſt God—Againſt Chriſt, whom they tempted, (1 Cor. x. 9.) againſt whom they complained as doing them injuſtice, now they believed his promiſes, and yet were to be led back from the land of promiſe. They had faith, but their wills were not ſanctified; therefore, inſtead of bearing the diſappointment of their expectations with a patient reſignation, they fall from the faith they had into their own natural ſpirit, and into that of the tempter, which ſpirit breathes blaſphemy againſt God's juſtice, and unthankfulneſs for the mercies they were receiving from him.

V. 6. The Lord ſent fiery ſerpents—Such there were many in this wilderneſs, which, having been hitherto reſtrained by God, are now let looſe and ſent among them. They are called fiery, from their effects; becauſe their poiſon cauſed an intolerable heat, and burning, and thirſt, in the bodies of the Iſraelites, which was aggravated with this circumſtance of the place, that here there was no water. (verſe 5.) And they that give way to thoughts againſt the juſtice of God, and forget his mercies, are ſpiritually in the ſtate in which the Iſraelites were naturally—burning with heat, and without water to cool or quench their thirſt: When we think God unjuſt or unmerciful in his diſpenſations, we of courſe grieve his Spirit, and are guilty of believing the ſuggeſtion of the father of lies againſt the God of juſtice, mercy, and truth; and the ſoul in this ſtate is at once in miſery, and without that which alone can comfort us—the preſence of the Holy Spirit, the Comforter.

V. 7. The people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned: for we have ſpoken againſt the Lord, and againſt thee—We now ſee that God was chaſtening us for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holineſs; and we ſee how highly we have offended againſt him, by expreſſing ourſelves as if God had been guilty of injuſtice or want of goodneſs to us. And we have alſo been guilty againſt thee his ſervant, who we have ſo long known to have no other ends in view than the glory of God, and the good of all his people, who, inſtead of envying them, thou haſt dedeſired, that as prophets like thyſelf, they might all appear before God. Pray unto the Lord, that he take away the ſerpents from us—Intreat God to take away the puniſhment we have ſo juſtly deſerved. Moſes prayed for the people—In this ſhewing himſelf as the Mediator between God and men, who, when he is applied to by penitent minds for mercy, reſents not paſt offences, however great.

V. 8. The Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent—The figure of a ſerpent in braſs. This would require ſome time: God would not ſpeedily take off the judgment, that they might be the more thoroughly humbled. Set it upon a pole—That the people might ſee it from all the parts of the camp, and therefore the pole muſt be high, and the ſerpent large. It ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live—This method of cure was preſcribed, that it might appear to be God's own work, and not the effect of nature or art: and that it it might be an eminent type of our ſalvation by Chriſt. The ſerpent ſignified Chriſt, who was in the likeneſs of ſinful fleſh, though without ſin, as this brazen ſerpent had the outward ſhape, but not the inward poiſon of the other ſerpents. the pole reſembled the croſs upon which Chriſt was lift up for our ſalvation: and looking up to it deſigned our believing in Chriſt. The word of God was, That every one that was bitten, when he looked up to the ſerpent, he ſhould live.

V. 9. It came to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived—He was delivered from death, and cured of his diſeaſe; the promiſe of God was exactly fulfilled. How many of the diſeaſes of the human body may be the very conſequences of ſin againſt God; and which men bring upon themſelves as the Iſraelites did this judgment. And is not ſelf-examination, and confeſſion of ſin to God, to be made under every affliction; and then prayer made to God to take away the cauſe of our ſufferings? The Iſraelites did ſo; God directed them to the ſerpent; and all that beheld it, lived: They uſed the means with faith. But whether it is the will of God to abate or remove perſonal complaints or not, is not declared—But it is declared, That this is the will of God, even your ſanctification, (1 Theſſ. iv. 3.) That through the Lamb of God, that taketh away the ſins of the world, men ſhould be partakers of the mind that was alſo in Chriſt Jeſus, (Phil. ii. 5.) and as the Iſraelites were healed by looking unto the ſerpent, and as Jeſus healed all manner of diſeaſes and maladies among the people when he was upon earth, ſo will he ſend down the healthful influence of his Holy Spirit, upon all who look unto him, from all the ends of the earth, as the Iſraelites beheld the ſerpent, and lived. Whoſoever believeth that by grace we are ſaved, both from the power and nature of ſin, by faith in Jeſus Chriſt, ſhall not periſh, but have eternal life (John iii. 14, 15.) Is it allowed that Jeſus, the Judge of all, hath power on earth to forgive ſin; and is it denied that he is unable or unwilling to cleanſe the very thoughts of our hearts, by the inſpiration of his Holy Spirit? It did come to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived; and ſhall any look to Jeſus, at the Father's right hand in glory, where he is receiving gifts for men, and continuing to look unto him, ſhall they be left without

Before Christ 1452.

10 ¶ And the children of Israel set forward, and [h] pitched in Oboth.

11 And they journeyed from Oboth, and [i] pitched at § Ije-abarim, in the wilderness which is before Moab, toward the sun-rising.

12 ¶ [k] From thence they removed, and pitched in the valley of Zared.

13 From thence they removed, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, which is in the wilderness that cometh out of the coasts of the Amorites: for [l] Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites.

14 Wherefore it is said in the book of the wars of the Lord, ‖ What he did in the Red sea, and in the brooks of Arnon,

15 And at the stream of the brooks that goeth down to the dwelling of Ar, [m] and * lieth upon the border of Moab, 16 And from thence they went [n] to Beer: that is the well thereof the Lord spake unto Moses, Gather the people together, and I will give them water.

17 ¶ Then Israel sang this song: * Spring up, O well, ‡ sing ye unto it:

18 The princes digged the well, the nobles of the people digged it by the direction of the law-giver, with their staves. And from the wilderness they went to Mattanah:

19 And from Mattanah to Nahaliel: and from Nahaliel to Bamoth:

20 And from Bamoth in the valley that is in

h Chap. 33. 43.
i Chap. 33. 44.
§ Or, heaps of Abarim.
k Deut. 2. 13.
l Judg. 11. 18
‖ Or, Vaheb in Suphah.
m Deut. 2. 18.
* Heb. leaneth. n Judg. 9. 21.
* Heb. ascend.
‡ Or, answer.

that holiness of nature, in which the soul of man can only enter, and dwell in the presence of God for ever? If we cannot believe that there is so much power and love in God to men, for the sake of the God-man, as to take away the root of bitterness, which springing up in the heart, troubles all who may but have one sinful temper, passion, or desire left; let us at least hope, as looking unto the serpent did, against all the contradiction of unbelief, heal the dying Israelites, that if we look unto Jesus, virtue will proceed from him and heal the soul of sin, and the miseries that flow from sin: But when shall this be believed, or hoped for? What would it have availed an expiring Israelite to have been told that to morrow he might look and be saved, if he knew that to day his disease must put an end to his life. What does it benefit souls convinced of sin reigning over them in their lives, or in the tempers and desires of their minds, to be told that to morrow, nay an hour hence, God will pardon their offences, or give them that holiness without which no man can see him. Life for delays no time affords.—To morrow, the next hour may not find the soul in its state of trial; every moment demands our faith in Him whose nature is love, who is able to save to the uttermost. (Heb. vii. 25. 1 John iv. 16.) O! how great the danger of being left with designs of looking unto the Author and Finisher of our Faith at a future season; forgetting that he who thinks that he ought first to seek any thing before the kingdom of God, and his righteousness within him, is no less guilty of disobeying God's command, than he that worships an idol to day, intending to turn to God to morrow; because God hath said, first seek that kingdom which is righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Ghost. (Rom. xiv. 17.)

V. 11. Before Moab—Called the wilderness of Moab, (Deut. ii. 8.)

V. 12. They pitched in the valley of Zared—By the torrent or brook of Zared, which ran into the dead sea, and from which the valley also might be called.

V. 13. They removed and pitched on the other side of Arnon—Or rather, on this side of Arnon, for so it now was to the Israelites, who had not yet passed over it, as appears from Deut. ii. 24. But the same words (Judg. xi. 18.) are to be rendered, on the other side of Arnon, for so it was to Jephthah; and the same preposition, signifieth on this side, or beyond. For Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites—Though formerly it and the land beyond it belonged to Moab, yet afterwards it had been taken from them by Sihon, verse 26, 28. This is added to reconcile two seemingly contrary commands of God, the one that of not medding with the land of the Moabites, (Deut. ii. 9.) the other that of going over Arnon, and taking possession of the land beyond it, (Deut. ii. 24.) because, saith he, it is not now the land of the Moabites, but of the Amorites.

V. 14. It is said in the book of the wars of the Lord—This seems to have been some poem or narration of the wars and victories of the Lord, either by, or relating to, the Israelites: which may be asserted without any prejudice to the integrity of the Holy Scripture, because this book doth not appear to have been written by a prophet, but by some other person who intended only to write an historical relation of those matters, which yet Moses might quote, as St. Paul doth some of the Heathen poets. And as St. Luke assures us, that many did write an history of the things done and said by Christ, (Luke i. 1.) whose writings were never received as canonical. This may be justly conceived concerning this and some few other books mentioned in the Old Testament.

V. 15. The dwelling of Ar—A chief city in Moab. (Isa. xv. 1.)

V. 16. The Lord spake unto Moses, Gather the people together, and I will give them water—In a miraculous manner. God now giving them this blessing to all that had gone before; and they were now, by submitting themselves to his will, and yielding to the influence of his grace, prepared to receive this mercy with thankfulness.

V. 17. Then Israel sang this song—To praise God for giving them such a seasonable blessing before they asked it, or complained for the want of it. Spring up—Give forth thy waters, that we may drink; let thy waters, which now lie hid below in the earth, ascend for our use. It is either a prediction that it should spring up, or a prayer that it might, on a command in the name of God directed to the well, as when God bids the heavens hear, and the earth give ear, (Isa. i. 2.) Any of these ways it shews their faith. Or, sing ye unto it; it being the manner of the Jewish singers, that one should answer to another.

V. 18. The princes digged—Themselves. By the direction of the lawgiver—Or, with the lawgiver, Moses. With their staves—Which are here mentioned, as the ensigns of their authority, and as the instruments of their work, not that they did formally and effectually dig the well or receptacle for the water, for which spades were more proper than staves, but that as Moses smote the rock with his rod, so they struck the earth with their staves, making only some small impression, only for form sake, or as a sign, that God would cause the water to flow forth out of the earth where they smote it, as he did before out of the rock.

V. 21. And Israel sent messengers unto Sihon—By God's allowance, that so Sihon's malice might be the more evident and inexcusable.

V. 22. We will go along by the king's high-way, until we be past thy borders—They spoke what they intended, and would have done, if he had given them quiet passage.

V. 24. Israel possessed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok—A river by which the countries of Ammon and Moab were in part bounded in the † country of Moab, to the top of ‖ Pisgah, which looketh [o] toward * Jeshimon.

Before Christ 1452.

† Heb. field.
‖ Or, the hill.
[o] Chap. 23. 28.
* Or, the wilderness.

21 ¶ And [p] Israel sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, saying,

[p] Deut. 2. 26, 27. Judg. 11. 19.

22 [q] Let me pass through thy land: we will not turn into the fields, or into the vineyards, we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the king's *high*way, until we be past thy borders.

[q] Chap. 20. 17.

23 [r] And Sihon would not suffer Israel to pass through his border: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out against Israel into the wilderness: [s] and he came to Jahaz, and fought against Israel.

[r] Deut. 29. 7.
[s] Judg. 11. 20.

24 And [t] Israel smote him with the edge of the sword, and possessed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok, even unto the children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was strong.

[t] Deut. 2. 32. and 29. 7. Josh. 12. 2. and 24. 8. Neh. 9. 22. Psal. 135. 10, 11. and 136. 19. Amos 2. 9.

25 And Israel took all these cities: and Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon, and in all the † villages thereof.

† Heb. daughters.

26 For Heshbon was the city of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon.

27 Wherefore, they that speak in proverbs, say, Come into Heshbon, let the city of Sihon be built and prepared.

28 For there is [u] a fire gone out of Heshbon, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath consumed Ar of Moab, and the lords of the high places of Arnon.

Before Christ 1471.

[u] Jer. 48. 45, 46.

29 Woe to thee, Moab; thou art undone, O people of [x] Chemosh: he hath given his sons that escaped, and his daughters, into captivity unto Sihon king of the Amorites.

[x] Judg. 11. 24. 1 Kings 11. 7, 33. 2 Kings 23. 13.

30 We have shot at them; Heshbon is perished even [y] unto Dibon, and we have laid them waste even unto Nophah, which reacheth unto Medeba.

[y] Jer. 48. 18, 22.

31 ¶ Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites.

32 And Moses sent to spie out Jaazer, and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorites that were there.

33 ¶ [a] And they turned and went up by the way of Bashan: and Og the king of Bashan went out against them, he, and all his people, to the battle [b] at Edrei.

[a] Deut. 3. 1. and 29. 7.
[b] Josh. 13. 12.

34 And the Lord said unto Moses, Fear him not: for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land; and [c] thou shalt do to him as thou didst unto Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.

[c] Psa. 135. 10, 11. & 136. 20.

35 So

bounded and divided. The children of Ammon was strong—By their strong holds in their frontiers.

V. 25. Israel dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites—Having destroyed the ancient inhabitants.

V. 26. the city of Sihon—This is added as a reason why Israel took possession of this land, notwithstanding God's prohibition of meddling with them, or their land, (Deut. ii. 9.) because it was not now the land of the Moabites, but had been some time since taken from them, and in the possession of the Amorites. Who had fought against the former king of Moab—The predecessor of Balak, who was the present king.

V. 27. Wherefore they that speak in proverbs—The poets, or other ingenious persons. Come into Heshbon—These are the words either of Sihon speaking thus to his people, or of the people exhorting one another, to come and possess and repair the city which they had taken. Let the city of Sihon be built and prepared—That which once was the royal city of the king of Moab, but now is the city of Sihon.

V. 28. There is a fire—The fury of war, which is compared to fire. Heshbon—That city which before was a refuge and defence to all the country, now is turned into a public mischief. The Lords of the high places of Arnon—The princes, or governors of strong holds.

V. 29. Woe to thee, Moab—Alas! Moab, thou couldest not save thyself from Sihon's sword. Thou art undone, O people of Chemosh—The worshippers of Chemosh: So the God of the Moabites was called. He hath given his sons into captivity—He, their God.

V. 30. We have shot at them—Though you, feeble Moabites, and your God, could not resist Sihon, we, Israelites, by the help of our God, have shot, with success and victory Sihon, and his Amorites.

V. 32. Moses sent to spy out Jaazer—One of the cities of Moab formerly taken from them by Sihon, and now taken from him by the Israelites, (Numb. xxxii. 1, 3, 35.) and, after the destruction of the kingdom of the ten tribes repossessed by the Moabites, (Jer. xlviii. 32.) Though Moses knew that the Lord their God was on their side, yet instead of his looking upon this as a licence for them to be remiss in using the means which were in their power, we find this highly favoured servant of God, taking this step to obtain the possession of what God had promised; by which it appears, faith expresses itself by a careful deligent use of the means which God hath appointed, as the way to obtain the blessing his mercy hath promised to bestow upon them that believe in him.

V. 33. They turned, and went up by the way of Og—Who also was a king of the Amorites. Bashan—A rich country famous for its pastures and breed of cattle.

V. 34. The Lord said unto Moses, fear him not—A necessary caution, for he was a great giant, likely to strike them with terror. When the plain meaning of the word of God is made the rule of conduct, that which bids us fear any consequences that may arise from doing what God hath commanded, cannot be from God; the voice of his Spirit agrees with the meaning of his word, and God ever says to the weakest believer that is humbly walking by the rule of his holy will—fear not.

V. 35. They smote him, and his sons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive—The people of Israel in this, executed the justice of God upon these people, for their offences against his laws.

CHAP. XXII.

V. 1. The children of Israel set forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab—Which still retained their antient title, though they had been taken away from the Moabites by Sihon, and from him by the

Before Christ 1452.

35 So they ſmote him and his ſons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive: and they poſſeſſed his land.

CHAP. XXII.

a Chap. 33. 48.

AND a the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab, on this ſide Jordan by Jericho.

2 ¶ And Balak the ſon of Zippor ſaw all that Iſrael had done to the Amorites.

b Exod. 15. 15.

3 And b Moab was ſore afraid of the people, becauſe they were many: and Moab was diſtreſſed, becauſe of the children of Iſrael.

c Chap. 31. 8. Joſh. 13. 21.

4 And Moab ſaid unto c the elders of Midian, Now ſhall this company lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the graſs of the field. And Balak the ſon of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time.

d Deut. 23. 4. Joſh. 13. 22. and 24. 9. Neh. 13. 1, 2. Mic. 6. 5. 2 Pet. 2. 15. Jude 11. Rev. 2. 14.

5 d He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam the ſon of Beor, to e Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, ſaying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the * face of the earth, and they abide over againſt me.

e See Chap. 23. 7. Deut. 23. 4.

* Heb. eye.

6 Come now therefore, I pray thee, f curſe me this people, for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I ſhall prevail, that we may ſmite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou bleſſeſt, is bleſſed, and he whom thou curſeſt, is curſed.

Before Christ 1452.

f Chap. 23. 7.

7 And the elders of Moab, and the elders of Midian departed, with the rewards of divination in their hand; and they came unto Balaam, and ſpake unto him the words of Balak.

8 And he ſaid unto them, Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again as the Lord ſhall ſpeak unto me: and the princes of Moab abode with Balaam.

9 And God came unto Balaam, and ſaid, What men are theſe with thee?

10 And Balaam ſaid unto God, Balak the ſon of Zippor, king of Moab, hath ſent unto me, ſaying, 11 Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: Come the Iſraelites. On this ſide Jordan by Jericho—Over againſt Jericho, near the paſſage over Jordan to Jericho.

V. 2. Balak the ſon of Zippor—The ſon or ſucceſſor of him whom Sihon had ſpoiled of part of his kingdom.

V. 3. Moab was ſore afraid, becauſe of the children of Iſrael—As it was foretold both in general of all nations, and particularly concerning Moab. The fear of the Iſraelites was put into the hearts of the people, who had forfeited their countries, and their lives by their wickedneſs, and contempt of all the calls of God to repentance: and will not the fear of continually increaſing judgments, be a part of that miſery which the finally impenitent will draw down upon themſelves for ever, by their wickedneſs and diſregard to all the offers of mercy from God?

V. 4. Moab ſaid unto the elders of Midian—The kings of Midian, and princes of Midian, who though divided in their kingdoms, yet were now united upon the approach of the Iſraelites their common enemy, and, being, as it ſeems, a potent and crafty people, and neighbours to the Moabites, theſe ſeek confederacy with them. We read of Midianites near mount Sinai, which ſeem to have been a part or colony of this people that went out to ſeek new ſettlements, as the manner of thoſe times was, but the body of that people were ſeated in thoſe parts, as is evident from many ſcriptures. This company lick up—Conſume and utterly deſtroy, in which ſenſe the fire is ſaid to lick up the water and ſacrifices. The meaning is, we can expect no mercy from the Iſraelites, they will utterly root us out as they did the Amorites, if we do not make a ſtout and timely oppoſition. All that are round about us—All our people, who live in the country adjoining to each city.

V. 5. Balaam—Who is called a prophet (2 Pet. ii. 16.) becauſe God was pleaſed to inſpire and direct him to ſpeak the following prophecy, as he did inſpire Caiaphas, (John xi. 51, 52.) and as ſometimes he did for a time inſpire other men with the knowledge of things to come, who yet did not obey the will of God, but grieved his Holy Spirit, and were at laſt left of God, to fall under the tyranny of their own hearts' deſires. The ſon of Beor—Or, Boſor, (2 Pet. ii. 15.) for he had two names, as many others had. To Pethor—A city in Meſopotamia, Which is by the river of the land—(i. e.) By Euphrates, which is called the River, by way of eminency. There is a people come out from Egypt: and they abide over againſt me—They are encamped in my neighbourhood, ready to invade my kingdom.

V. 6. Come now, I pray thee, curſe me—Curſe them for my ſake and benefit, uſe thy utmoſt power which thou haſt with thy Gods, to blaſt and ruin them. Peradventure I ſhall prevail, that we may ſmite them—Thou, by thy imprecations, and I by my ſword joined with them. He whom thou bleſſeſt, is bleſſed, and he whom thou curſeſt, is curſed—He had ſome experience, or a great confidence in Balaam's power to do this. And this being the opinion which Balak had of Balaam, it appears that Balaam had been, or was then a perſon under the influence of the Spirit of God.

V. 7. The elders of Moab departed, with the rewards of divination in their hands—The reward of good tidings.

V. 8. I will bring you word again, as the Lord ſhall ſpeak unto me—Jehovah, the true God, whom he here mentions, for his own greater reputation, as if he conſulted not with inferior ſpirits, as other foothſayers did, but with the ſupreme God, or rather becauſe this was Iſrael's God, and the only poſſible way of ruining them was by engaging their God againſt them, as the known way of the Romans, and other heathens, when they went to beſiege any city, they uſed inchantments. The princes of Moab—And of Midian abode with Balaam.

V. 9. God ſaid, What men are theſe with thee?—That Balaam, by repeating the thing in God's preſence, might be convinced and aſhamed of his ſin and folly in ſo much as liſtening to any offers of advantage, to curſe thoſe whom God had ſo long and ſo publicly bleſſed.

V. 12. God ſaid unto Balaam—To whom God revealeth his mind. Thou ſhalt not go with them, thou ſhalt not curſe the people—Thus plainly does God declare his will. For they are bleſſed.—By me, and therefore it is in vain for men to curſe them.

V. 13. The Lord refuſeth to give me leave to go with you—He conceals the reaſon of God's prohibition, which might have put a ſtop to their further counſels in this matter, and ſecretly intimates his own good will and readineſs to comply with them, if God had not hindered them.

V. 14. Balaam

Before Christ 1452

Come now, curse me them; peradventure † I shall be able to overcome them, and drive them out.

† Heb. I shall prevail in fighting against him.

12 And God said unto Balaam, Thou shalt not go with them, thou shalt not curse the people: for they are blessed.

13 And Balaam rose up in the morning, and said unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your land: for the Lord refuseth to give me leave to go with you.

14 And the princes of Moab rose up, and they went unto Balak, and said, Balaam refuseth to come with us.

15 ¶ And Balak sent yet again princes, more, and more honourable than they.

16 And they came to Balaam, and said to him, Thus saith Balak the son of Zippor, ‡ Let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me:

‡ Heb. Be not thou letted from, &c.

17 For I will promote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatsoever thou sayest unto me: Come therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people.

18 And Balaam answered and said unto the servants of Balak, [g] If Balak would give me his house-full of silver and gold, [h] I cannot go beyond the word of the Lord my God, to do less or more.

g Chap. 24. 13.

h 1 Kings 22. 14. 2 Chron. 18. 13.

19 Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye also here this night; that I may know what the Lord will say unto me more.

Before Christ 1452.

20 And God came unto Balaam at night, and said unto him, If the men come to call thee, rise up, and go with them: but [i] yet the word which I shall say unto thee, that shalt thou do.

i Ver. 35. Chap. 23. 12, 26.

21 And Balaam rose up in the morning, and saddled his ass, and went with the princes of Moab.

22 ¶ And God's anger was kindled, because he went: and the angel of the Lord stood in the way for an adversary against him: Now he was riding upon his ass, and his two servants were with him.

23 And [k] the ass saw the angel of the Lord standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and the ass turned aside out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam smote the ass to turn her into the way.

k See 2 Kings 6. 17. Dan. 10. 7. Acts 22. 9. 2 Pet. 2. 16. Jude 11.

24 But the angel of the Lord stood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this side, and a wall on that side.

25 And when the ass saw the angel of the Lord, she thrust herself unto the wall, and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall: and he smote her again.

26 And

V. 14. Balaam refuseth to come with us—Thus they lay the blame upon Balaam, which he imputed to God.

V. 16. Thus saith Balak, let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee from coming unto me—No counsel nor suggestion either of God or man.

V. 17. I will promote thee unto very great honour—Before he wrought upon his covetousness, now upon his ambition.

V. 18. I cannot go beyond the word of the Lord my God—You desire and expect that from me which is out of my power. He insinuates that he wanted not will, but power only. So he calls the Lord his God. Thus professing himself the servant of the Most High.

V. 19. Tarry this night, that I may know what the Lord will say unto me more—Possibly he may change his mind, or yield to my renewed suit.

V. 20. God came unto Balaam, and said, If the men come to call thee, rise up and go with them—Since this is thy great desire, and purpose, as far as thou canst, take thy course, I will, according to thy wish, withdraw my restraint, and leave thee to thyself and thy own choice. But yet the word which I shall say unto thee, that shalt thou do—These words signify not so much his duty, as the event and his disappointment, Thou shalt not do what thou desirest—curse my people, and so inrich and advance thyself, but I will so over-rule thy mind, and bridle thy tongue, that thou shalt speak nothing but what is contrary to thy desire and interest, and therefore, though I permit thee to go, thou shalt lose thy design in it. And thus must all men lose their labour, who in their hearts are living to any other end than the glory of God and the good of mankind; however they may appear to men to be the servants of God as Balaam did: God, who knows the heart, being himself alone the rewarder of all human actions, and he rewardeth none but such as are done agreeable to his own will.

V. 21. Balaam rose up and went with the princes of Moab—God's answer was, for Balaam to go if the men came to call him; they did not come, but Balaam went: and in doing so he shewed that the will of God was not the law by which he lived, and that he was then under the influence of some other motive.

V. 22. God's anger was kindled because he went—Of his own accord, and did not wait till they came to urge him to go, which was the sign and condition of God's permission, and he went with ill design to do contrary to what God had charged him, to curse the people, as plainly appears from the following story. God hath been often and justly angry with those who have done what God bad them, when they did it in an evil manner, or for evil ends. The angel of the Lord stood in the way for an adversary against him—To oppose and terrify, if not to kill him. The word of God lets those into the world of spirits that read it with believing minds; and such see things as they truly are—That God is contrary to them whose secret designs or open conduct is contrary to his holy will. And if we believe the Scriptures, or not believe them, it is certainly established by matter of fact and experience, (through our ignorance, or infidelity, to shew) that those are most happy who take the visible world the least into their view, and act as if God, the judge of all, saw and cared about what men intended or did. He was riding upon his ass, and his two servants were with him—Probably Balaam came at some distance, after the rest, and attended only by his own servants.

V. 23. The ass saw the angel—Which Balaam saw not, because God withheld his eyes. When God withdraws his help from any of his creatures, they cannot perform their natural acts and offices, the eye cannot see, nor the ear hear, nor the fire burn. Balaam smote the ass, to turn her into the way—Thus are men meeting their ruin, who are going contrary to the will of God; with Balaam they may think there is no danger because they see none.

V. 25. The ass saw the angel of the Lord—God was pleased to discover more to the beast than the man, when the prophet was

Before Christ 1452.

26 And the angel of the Lord went further, and stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

27 And when the ass saw the angel of the Lord, she fell down under Balaam: and Balaam's anger was kindled, and he smote the ass with a staff, 28 And the Lord opened the mouth of the ass, and she said unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou hast smitten me these three times?

29 And Balaam said unto the ass, Because thou hast mocked me: I would there were a sword in mine hand, for now would I kill thee.

2 Pet. 2. 16.

30 [1] And the ass said unto Balaam, Am not I thine ass, § upon which thou hast ridden, ‖ ever since I was thine, unto this day? was I ever wont to do so unto thee? And he said, Nay.

§ Heb. who hast ridden upon me.
‖ Or, ever since thou wast, &c.

m See Gen. 21. 19. Luke 24. 16, 31.

31 Then the Lord [m] opened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the angel of the Lord standing in the way, and his sword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head, and * fell flat on his face.

* Or, bowed himself.

32 And the angel of the Lord said unto him, Wherefore hast thou smitten thine ass these three times? behold, I went out † to withstand thee, because thy way is perverse before me.

Before Christ 1452.

† Heb. to be an adversary unto thee.

33 And the ass saw me, and turned from me these three times: unless she had turned from me, surely now also I had slain thee, and saved her alive.

34 And Balaam said unto the angel of the Lord, I have sinned; for I knew not that thou stoodest in the way against me: now therefore if it ‡ displease thee, I will get me back again.

‡ Heb. be evil in thine eyes.

35 And the angel of the Lord said unto Balaam, Go with the men: but only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak: So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

36 ¶ And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him, unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmost coast.

37 And Balak said unto Balaam, Did I not earnestly send unto thee to call thee? Wherefore camest thou not unto me? Am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour?

38 And

bent on making gain of his reputation for godliness: which justly may be called the madness of the prophet. (2 Pet. ii. 16.)

V. 26. The angel of the Lord stood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn—Human wisdom may be deceived, and human laws may be evaded; but God can never be deceived, nor his judgments evaded, but by unfeigned repentance and forsaking all sin, and applying to that only provision made for pardon of sin committed—the atonement and mediation of the Lord Jesus Christ.

V. 27. Balaam's anger was kindled—At that very difficulty which God in mercy permitted to prevent his running upon his immediate ruin; thus does mercy keep back the destroying sword of God's justice; even whilst the sinner is increasing his guilt, by his anger at those very hindrances in his way, which are intended as the means of saving him.

V. 28. The Lord opened the mouth of the ass—Conferred upon her the power of speech and reasoning for that time. There are examples of the same kind, of oxen and other brute-creatures, speaking some few words, in the greatest and most approved writers of the Roman History, as Plutarch, Polybius, Livy, and others. See the particulars in Pool's Latin Synopsis on this place.

V. 31. The Lord opened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the angel of the Lord—And they whose understandings are opened to understand the Scriptures, they see things which were before as much hid from their view, as the angel of the Lord was from Balaam: they believe that evil spirits are going about among men, to tempt and deceive into sin, that they may destroy them; and that good angels are ministering spirits to all that fear God, as the observer of all their designs and actions, and who is every moment either their judge to condemn, or their Redeemer to pardon and to save. Reader, what says the witness within you? Does an inward consciousness tell you that you are either sincerely desiring to know, or that you now know, that God for Christ's sake is gracious to your unrighteousness; that you are pardoned and accepted thro' the Beloved; or that with the madness of the prophet, some other good than God, is now the supreme object of your soul's desire?

V. 32. I went out to withstand thee, because thy way was perverse before me—Howsoever thou mayest deceive thyself or others, I see the perverseness of thy heart and way, the wickedness of thy design and desires in this journey, which thou has undertaken not to please me, but to gratify Balak, and, if it be possible, to curse my people, and receive to thyself the honour and advantage which thou art greedily seeking. (Jude 11.)

V. 33. Unless she had turned from me, I had slain thee—I had slain thee and not her, and therefore her turning aside and falling down was wholly for thy sake and benefit, not for her own, and thy anger was unjust and unreasonable.

V. 34. I have sinned, for I knew not that thou stoodest in the way against me—He confesses his sin, when he discovers that the Lord was near to punish it; and thus shall every one that shall finally slight the calls of God to repentance, give an account of themselves to that Saviour, whose mediation they despised, when he shall appear to judge the world in righteousness. (Rom. xiv. 12.) If it displease thee, I will get me back again—God had said that his way was perverse, and had therefore opposed him and sought to slay him: but hereby he shews how loath he was to go back, and lose the hopes he had conceived, and he speaks only of desisting from the outward action, but shews no sense of those evil affections, which were the root of this ill-designed journey.

V. 35. Go with the men: but only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak—Still God was willing, even upon this confession of sin, to afford him another trial of faithfully obeying the voice of his Holy Spirit.

V. 36. When Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him—That by this honour he might give him an earnest of those rewards he designed him, and thereby oblige him to use his utmost skill and interest for him. Unto a city in the utmost coast—Not far from the camp of the Israelites, whom he desired him to curse.

V. 37. Balak said unto Balaam, Am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour—Why didst thou delay to serve one so able to reward

* Before Christ 1452.

38 And Balaam said unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee: have I now any power at all to say any thing? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak.

39 And Balaam went with Balek, and they came unto ‖ Kirjath-huzoth.

‡ Or a city of streets.

40 And Balak offered oxen and sheep, and sent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him.

41 And it came to pass on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal, that thence he might see the utmost part of the people.

CHAP. XXIII.

AND Balaam said unto Balak, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven oxen, and seven rams.

2 And Balak did as Balaam had spoken; and Balak and Balaam offered on every altar a bullock, and a ram.

3 And Balaam said unto Balak, Stand by thy burnt-offering, and I will go: peradventure the Lord will come to meet me: and whatsoever he sheweth me, I will tell thee. And he went to an high place.

* Before Christ 1452.

* Or, He went solitary

4 And God met Balaam; and he said unto him, I have prepared seven altars, and I have offered upon every altar, a bullock and a ram.

5 And the Lord put a word in Balaam's mouth, and said, Return unto Balak, and thus thou shalt speak.

6 And he returned unto him, and lo, he stood by his burnt-sacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab.

7 And he took up his parable, and said, Balak the king of Moab hath brought me from Aram, out of the mountains of the east, saying, [a] Come, curse me Jacob, and come, defy Israel.

[a] Chap. xxii. 6, 11, 17.

8 How shall I curse, whom God hath not cursed? or how shall I defy, whom the Lord hath not defied?

9 For from the top of the rocks I see him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, [b] the people shall dwell alone, and shall not be reckoned among the nations.

[b] Deut. 33. 28.

10 Who

ward thee. Thus did Satan tempt the Lord Jesus, after shewing him the glory of worldly greatness, and then saying, All these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship me; (Matth. iv. 9.) And thus does satan still offer, by plain suggestions to the minds of men, the inducements of honour, ease, pleasure, and advantage to induce them to oppose the true worshippers of God in every age and country; or if he cannot prevail with them to go so far as to oppose the church of God, then, if possible, he will induce them to forsake the side of those that are truly living in the fear of God. Satan's rage and enmity is against God, but as men cannot oppose, or treat their Creator and Redeemer with neglect or contempt to the face, satan's constant design is to prevail with men to shew that treatment to the Church of God—all that live in his fear and hope in his mercy, which he would wish to have shewn against the Almighty himself, was he the object of his creatures scorn now, as he was when he was on earth, in the person of the Lord Jesus.

V. 38. Balaam said, Lo, I am come unto thee—I am come according to thy desire, but have I now any power at all to say any thing, agreeable to thy expectation, or my own inclination. That God putteth in my mouth, that shall I speak—I am forced to do so by his superior power, and therefore be not offended with me, if I speak things unpleasing to thee.

V. 40. Balak offered oxen and sheep—Either for sacrifice, or rather for a feast. And sent to Balaam—To invite him to the feast, And to the princes that were with him—Whom the king had left to accompany him, and attend upon him.

V. 41. Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal—Consecrated to the worship of Baal, of Baal-Peor, who was their Baal, or God. That thence he might see the utmost part of the people—All that people, even to the utmost and remotest of them. He hoped that the sight of such a numerous host, ready to break in upon his country, would stir up his passion, and further his design.

CHAP. XXIII.

V. 1. Balaam said unto Balak, build me here seven altars—To the true God, otherwise he would not have mentioned it to God as an argument why he should grant his requests, (ver. 4.) And though Balak was averse from God and his worship, yet he would be easily over-ruled by Balaam, who doubtless told him, that it was in vain to make an address to any other than the God of Israel, who alone was able either to bless or curse them, as he pleased. But though he directs his sacrifices to a right object, he chuses a wrong place, and, makes use of the high places of Baal for this end, and mingles his own superstitions with the worship of God, in erecting divers altars, according to the manner of heathens, and idolaters, whereas God had appointed but one altar. Jesus our one mediator, is that altar upon which the sacrifice both of prayer and praise is alone to be offered. Prepare me here seven oxen, and seven rams—This being the solemn and usual number in sacrifices.

V. 2. Balak and Balaam offered on every altar—Balak by procuring them, and Balaam by offering them.

V. 3. Balaam said unto Balak, stand by thy burnt-offering—As in God's presence, as one that offers thyself as well as thy sacrifices to obtain his favour. I will go—To some convenient place, where I may prevail with God to appear to me, and to answer thy and my desires. Peradventure the Lord will come to meet me: and whatsoever he sheweth me, I will tell thee—Whatsoever God reveals to me either by word or sign. He went to an high place—To meet with God.

V. 4. God met Balaam—Not to comply with, but to oppose his wicked desires, and to force him against his own inclination and interest, to utter the following words. I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram—Which I pray thee accept, and give me leave to curse thy people, as their wickedness deserves.

V. 5. The Lord put a word in Balaam's mouth—Informed him what he should say.

V. 7. He took up his parable—His prophetical speech, which he calls a parable. Curse me Jacob—The posterity of Jacob.

V. 8. How shall I curse whom God hath not cursed—God hath not cursed but blessed Israel, and therefore it is a vain attempt for me to curse them in spight of God.

V. 9. For from the top of the rocks—Upon which I now stand. I see him—I see the people according to thy desire, (Chap. xxii. 41.) but cannot improve that sight to the end, for which thou didst design it, to curse them. The people shall dwell alone, and shall not be reckoned among the nations—This people are God's peculiar people, separated from all other nations, as in religion and

Before Christ 1452.

10 [c] Who can count the dust of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Israel? Let [†] me die [d] the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his.

c Gen. 13. 16
† Heb. my soul, or, my life.
d Psa. 116. 15.

11 And Balak said unto Balaam, What hast thou done unto me? I took thee to curse mine enemies, and behold, thou hast blessed them altogether.

12 And he answered and said, Must I not take heed to speak that which the Lord hath put in my mouth?

13 And Balak said unto him, Come, I pray thee, with me unto another place, from whence thou mayest see them: thou shalt see but the utmost part of them, and shalt not see them all: and curse me them from thence.

14 ¶ And he brought him into the field of Zophim, to the top of [‡] Pisgah, and built seven altars, and offered a bullock, and a ram on every altar.

‡ Or, the hill.

15 And he said unto Balak, Stand here by thy burnt-offering, while I meet the LORD yonder.

16 And the Lord met Balaam, and [e] put a word in his mouth, and said, Go again unto Balak, and say thus.

Before Christ 1452.

e Chap. 22. 35.

17 And when he came to him, behold, he stood by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak said unto him, What hath the Lord spoken?

18 And he took up his parable, and said, Rise up, Balak, and hear; hearken unto me, thou son of Zippor:

19 [f] God is not a man, that he should lie, neither the son of man, that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it? or hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good?

f 1 Sam. 15. 29. Mal. 3. 6. Rom. 11. 29. James. 1. 17. Tit. 1. 2.

20 Behold, I have received commandment to bless; and he hath blessed, and I cannot reverse it.

21 He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, neither hath he seen perverseness in Israel: the Lord his God is with him, [g] and the shout of a king is among them.

g Psa. 89. 15.

22 [h] God brought them out of Egypt; he hath as it were the strength of an unicorn.

h Chap. 24. 8. Deut. 33. 17.

23 Surely

and laws, so also in divine protection, and therefore no power can prevail against them. And is there no advantage in having the God of the whole earth, the holy one of Israel, for our Saviour? Whatever is done to them that believe in him, he takes as done to himself; his grace can preserve against all the temptations of satan, and his providence protects from all injuries, from malicious and wicked men.

V. 10. Who can count the dust of Jacob—The numberless people of Israel, who according to God's promise, (Gen. xiii. 16, and xxviii. 14.) are now become as the dust of the earth. And the number of the fourth part of Israel—Of one of the camps of Israel, for they were divided into four camps, which Balaam from this height could easily discover. Let me die the death of the righteous—Of this righteous and holy people, the Israelites called Jeshurun, which word signifies upright or righteous. The sense is, they are not only happy above other nations in this life, as I have said, and therefore in vain should I curse them, but they have this peculiar privilege, that they are happy after death, their happiness begins where the happiness of other people ends, and therefore I heartily wish that my soul may have its portion with theirs when I die. But this is a vain wish, for such as will not live as God's people. Let my last end be like his—My death, as the word is used.

V. 12. Must I not take heed to speak that which the Lord hath put in my mouth—I speak not these words by my own choice, but by the constraint of an higher power which I cannot resist. And they that would keep a conscience void of offence, must also take heed, that he only speaks that which a God of justice, purity, mercy, and truth approves of.

V. 14. He brought him to the top of Pisgah—An high hill in the land of Moab.

V. 15. He said unto Balak, stand here while I meet the Lord—To consult him, and receive an answer from him, if peradventure those renewed sacrifices will melt him into some compliance with our desires.

V. 18. He said, rise up, Balak—This word implies, the reverence wherewith he should hear and receive God's message.

V. 19. God is not a man that he should lie—Break his faith and promises made to his people for their preservation and their happiness: which God having promised to all that believe in him, he will assuredly fulfil; and whatever our experience may have taught us of the changeableness of men, and how often they do not regard their promises, this is never to be applied to God whom none ever trusted, and were disappointed or confounded in any expectation which they placed in his mercy and faithfulness, for the sake of his Son, the head and representative of all mankind, and especially of them that believe. Neither the son of man, that he should repent—Change his counsels or purposes, which men do, either because they are not able to execute them, or because they are better informed, and their minds changed by some unexpected occurrence, or by their passions, none of which have place in God. And therefore I plainly see that all our endeavours and repeated sacrifices are to no purpose, and can make no impression on God, nor induce him to curse those whom he hath purposed, and solemnly and frequently promised to bless. Hath he said, and shall he not do it—Is he like men that often speak and promise what they never intend, or cannot or will not perform? Hath he spoken, and shall he not make it good—No, the word of the Lord endureth for ever; and his faithfulness from one generation to another. All the promises of God are the rich inheritance in this life of the heirs of God, through faith in Christ Jesus.

V. 20. I have received commandment to bless—I have received a sentence of blessing, which God hath put into my mind and mouth, and which I cannot forbear to utter.

V. 21. He—God doth not behold or see iniquity or perverseness—any sin, in Jacob or Israel. By Israel is meant the worshippers of God by faith in a Mediator; for whose sake God pardons all past sins, and through whom he gives grace to all that live by faith, to enable them to keep a conscience void of offence towards God and man. To every member of the true Israel of God, that blood of atonement is applied which was shed for sin and for uncleanness, and the heirs of faith are redeemed by Christ Jesus from the curse of the law. (Gal. iii. 13.) And this is that mystery which the angels are represented as looking into, but cannot understand, How God, whose nature is justice, can, consistent with himself, behold no iniquity in them that have sinned against him with an high hand: But they that have fled for refuge to the hope set before them in Jesus Christ, they have

Before Christ 1452.

23 Surely there is no enchantment § against Jacob, neither is there any divination against Israel: according to this time it shall be said of Jacob, and of Israel, What hath God wrought!

§ Or, in.

24 Behold, the people shall rise up [i] as a great lion, and lift up himself as a young lion: [k] he shall not lie down until he eat of the prey, and drink the blood of the slain.

i Gen. 49. 9.

k Gen. 49. 27.

25 ¶ And Balak said unto Balaam, Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all.

26 But Balaam answered and said unto Balak, Told not I thee, saying, [l] All that the Lord speaketh, that I must do?

l 1 Kings 22. 14.

27 ¶ And Balak said unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place; peradventure it will please God, that thou mayest curse me them from thence.

28 And Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor, that looketh [m] toward Jeshimon.

Before Christ 1452.

m Chap. 21. 20.

29 And Balaam said unto Balak, Build me here seven altars, and prepare me here seven bullocks, and seven rams.

30 And Balak did as Balaam had said, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND when Balaam saw that it pleased the Lord to bless Israel, he went not as at [a] other times, * to seek for enchantments, but he set his face toward the wilderness.

a Chap. 23. 3, 15.

* Heb. to the meeting of enchantments.

2 And Balaam lift up his eyes, and he saw Israel abiding in his tents, according to their tribes, and the spirit of God came upon him.

3 And have a Saviour of sufficient merit to obtain pardon of their guilt, because he being equal with God whose justice and purity was offended, and is offended at all sin; and being now saved by him, who is able to save all that come unto him, to the uttermost (Heb. vii. 25.) God does not see perverseness in such, he forgets and forgives them, and will not punish them. In this sense God is said not to see past sins but to forget them, (Isa. xliii. 25. Jer. xxxi. 34.) and, to cover them, (Psal. xxxii. 1.) which keeps them out of sight, and so out of mind, and to blot them out, (Psal. li. 1, 9.) and to cast them behind his back, (Isa. xxxviii. 17.) or, into the depth of the sea, (Mic. vii. 19.) in which cases they cannot be seen nor read; and in the great day of accounts, they who to the last moment of their life of trial on earth, have held fast their confidence in the love of God their Redeemer, their names shall be found written in the Lamb's book of life, but instead of the Judge of all, publishing the crimes that he himself hath pardoned, he, as the compassionate friend, and husband of every redeemed soul, will neither bring, nor allow to be brought, any acceptation against those that are one with himself: (John xvi. 22.) those that have accepted of his grace at the eleventh hour and are cleansed by his blood, shall dwell in his holy presence for ever; and they who have lived after they knew his pardoning love to yield obedience to his will, by the help of his Spirit, he will call them by their names, and publish their obedience of faith, and then pronounce them blessed, in the hearing of all the host of heaven; but faithfully concealing all he knew against them, to furnish them with new matter of praise, gratitude and love for ever, (Matt. xxv. 34.) and whilst they live on earth God will not see them wronged or ruined by any of their adversaries. The Lord his God is with him—(i. e.) He hath a favour for this people, and will defend and save them. So the phrase of God's being with a person or people signifies, as (Judg. vi. 13. Psal. xlvi. 7. Isa. viii. 10.) The shout of a king is among them—Such joyful and triumphant shouts as those wherewith a people congratulate the approach and presence of their king, when he appears amongst them upon some solemn occasion, or when he returns from battle with victory and spoils. The expression implies God's being their king and ruler, and their abundant security and just confidence in him as such. And here is an allusion to the silver trumpets, which were made by God's command, and used upon great solemnites, in which God their king was present in a special manner. (Numb. x. 9. Josh. vi. 16, 20. 1 Sam. iv. 5. 2 Chron. 13. 12.)

V. 22. God brought them out of Egypt—By a strong hand and in spight of all their enemies, and therefore it is in vain to seek or hope to overcome them. He—Israel, whom God brought out of Egypt, such change of numbers being very common in the Scriptures. The sense is, Israel is not now, what he was in Egypt, a poor, weak, dispirited, unarmed people, but high and strong and invincible. The strength of an unicorn—Whose great strength is celebrated in Scripture.

V. 23. There is no inchantment against Jacob—I find all endeavours to inchant Israel are in vain, being frustrated by their Omnipotent God. I can do thee no service by my art against them. The Lord God Almighty is their God, and no farther than he permits for the trial of their faith, can either devils or men, or both united, have power to hurt an hair of their heads: Thus blessed are the Israel of God. According to this time—Not only in succeeding times and ages, but even now, in this time and age. It shall be said of Jacob, and of Israel what hath God wrought!—How wonderful and glorious are those works, which God is now about to do for Israel, by drying up Jordan, by subduing the Canaanites, and by all the acts of his mighty power, in behalf of this people, which things will be matter of discourse and admiration to all ages.

V. 24. The people shall rise up—As a lion does to go out to the prey, so shall Israel stir up themselves to warlike attempts against all their enemies. As a young lion: he shall not lie down—Not rest or cease from fighting and pursuing.

V. 28. Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor—An high place called Beth-peor, the house or temple of Peor, because there they worshipped Baal-peor.

CHAP. XXIV.

V. 1. When Balaam saw that it pleased the Lord to bless Israel, he went not to seek for enchantments—To use enchantments, which he is said to have done, either because he consulted and sacrified to God, he did also use enchantments and consult with the devil, that if one would not, the other might help him; or, because he consulted God in a magical and superstitious way, by using such postures or instruments, or forms of words as inchanters used. He set his face toward the wilderness—Expecting what God of his own accord would suggest to him concerning them.

V. 2. Balaam saw Israel abiding in his tents, according to their tribes—In the order appointed. The spirit of God came upon him—Inspired him to speak the following words, and so constrained him again to bless those whom he desired to curse.

V. 3. The man whose eyes are open, hath said—The eyes of his mind, which God had opened in a prophetical manner, whence prophets are called seers, (1 Sam. ix. 9.) He implies that before

Before Christ 1452.

3 [b] And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man † whose eyes are open, hath said:

4 He hath said, which heard the words of God, which saw the vision of the Almighty, [c] falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

5 How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Israel!

6 As the valleys are they spread forth, as gardens by the river's side, as the trees of ling-aloes [d] which the Lord hath planted, and as cedar-trees beside the waters.

7 He shall pour the water out of his buckets, and his seed shall be in many waters, and his king shall be higher than Agag, and his kingdom shall be exalted.

8 [e] God brought him forth out of Egypt, he hath as it were the strength of an unicorn: he shall eat up the nations his enemies, and shall break their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows.

9 [f] He couched, he lay down as a lion, and as a great lion: who shall stir him up? [g] Blessed is he that blesseth thee, and cursed is he that curseth thee.

10 ¶ And Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he [h] smote his hands together: and Balak said unto Balaam, I called thee to curse mine enemies, and behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.

11 Therefore now flee thou to thy place: I thought to promote thee unto great honour, but lo, the Lord hath kept thee back from honour.

12 And Balaam said unto Balak, Spake I not also to thy messengers which thou sentest unto me, saying,

13 [i] If Balak would give me his house-full of silver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the Lord saith, that will I speak?

14 And now behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and [k] I will advertise thee, what this people shall do to thy people [l] in the latter days.

15 ¶ And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open, hath said:

16 He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the Most High, which saw the vision of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17 I shall see him, but not now: I shall behold

b Chap. 23. 7, 18.
† Heb. who had his eyes shut. But now open.
c See 1 Sam. 19. 24. Ezek. 1. 28. Dan. 8. 18. & 10. 16. Rev. 1. 17.
d Psa. 104. 16.
e Chap. 23. 22.
f Gen. 49. 9.
g Gen. 12. 3. & 27. 29.
h Ezek. 21. 14, 17. & 22. 13.
i Chap. 22. 18.
k Mic. 6. 5. Rev. 2. 14.
l Gen. 49. 1.

Before Christ 1452.

he was blind and stupid, having eyes, but not seeing not understanding.

V. 4. He hath said, which heard the words of God, which saw the vision—So called because he was awake when this was revealed to him. Falling into a trance—Extasy, fainting and falling upon the ground.

V. 6. As the valleys—Which spread forth far and wide. As the brooks, or rivers, which stretch out and disperse their waters into several channels. They—The Israelites. Spread forth as gardens by the river's side—Pleasent and fruitful, and secured. As the trees of ling-aloes—An Arabian and Indian tree of a sweet smell, yielding good shade and shelter, such is Israel, famous among the nations, and not only safe themselves, but yielding shelter to all that join themselves to them. Which the Lord hath planted—Which are the best of the kind, such as not man but God might seem to have planted, as the best of all sorts are ascribed to God, as the trees, hills, and cities, of God. As cedar-trees—Which are famous for growth, and height, and strength, and durableness, whence Solomon's temple was built of this wood. Beside the waters—Where trees thrive best.

V. 7. He shall pour the water out of his buckets—He, God, will abundantly water, the valleys, gardens, and trees, which represent the Israelites, he will wonderfully bless his people, not only with all outward blessings, but also with higher gifts and graces, with his word and spirit, which are often signified by waters (Joh. iii. 5. and iv. 10.) and at last with eternal life. His seed shall be in many waters—His seed shall be so numerous that it shall branch forth into many people. His king—The king of Israel, God, who was in a peculiar manner their king or ruler. Shall be higher than Agag—Than the king of the Amalekites, which king and people were famous in that age, (ver. 20.)

V. 9. He couched, he lay down as a lion—Having conquered his enemies the Canaanites, and their land he shall quietly and securely rest and settle himself there. Who shall stir him up—Awake or provoke him. Blessed is he that blesseth thee, and cursed is he that curseth thee—Because God on whom all blessedness and misery depend, takes all to himself that is done to his people, and to curse them that fear God is to forfeit God's favour; and to bless them that belong or desire to belong to God, is taken as an expression of love to God himself, (Matth. xxv. 31. &c.) And blessed also are they that pray for blessings on such as hate them.

V. 10. Balak's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he smote his hands together—A sign of great anger, (Ezek. xxi. 17. and xxii. 13.)

V. 11. Now, flee thou to thy place—Whence I sent for thee. The Lord—Whose commands thou hast preferred before my desires and interest; and therefore seek thy recompence from him, and not from me. Hath kept thee back from honour—That God whose will thou hast declared contrary to my wishes, has occasioned thee the loss of the honours and advantages I designed thee: this also is the language of satan, to every one that faithfully follows the will of God; to all such it is suggested—God hath kept thee back from honour or advantage by thy adherence to him.

V. 14. I will advertise thee—Inform thee. What this people shall do to thy people in the latter days—Not in thy time, but in succeeding ages.

V. 17. I shall—Or, I have seen, or do see, for the future is often put for other times: He speaks of a prophetical sight, like that of Abraham's, who saw Christ's day, (John viii. 56.) See him—The Star and sceptre, a great and eminent prince, which was to come out of Israel's loins—David, who first did the things here spoken of, (2 Sam. viii. 2. Psal. lx. 8. and cviii. 9.) or the Messias, who most eminently and fully performed what is here said, in destroying the enemies of Israel, or of God's Church, who behold him, but not nigh: there shall come [m] a Star out of Jacob, and [n] a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel, and shall ‡ smite the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Sheth.

Before Christ 1452.

18 And [o] Edom shall be a possession, Seir also shall be a possession for his enemies, and Israel shall do valiantly.

19 Out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion, and shall destroy him that remaineth of the city.

20 And when he looked on Amalek, he took up his parable, and said, Amalek was § the first of the nations, but his latter end ‖ shall be that he perish for ever.

21 And he looked on the Kenites, and took up his parable, and said, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou puttest thy nest in a rock.

Before Christ 1452.

22 Nevertheless, * the Kenite shall be wasted † until Ashur shall carry thee away captive.

23 And he took up his parable, and said, Alas, who shall live when God doeth this!

24 And ships shall come from the coast of [p] Chittim, and shall afflict Ashur, and shall afflict [q] Eber, and he also shall perish for ever.

25 And

m Matt. 2. 2. Rev. 22. 16.
n Psa. 110. 2.
‡ Or, smite through the princes of Moab.
o 2 Sam. 8. 2. 2 Sam. 8. 14. Psa. 60. 8, 9, 12.
§ Or, the first of the nations that warred against Israel, Exod. 17.
‖ Or, shall be even to destruction, 1 Sam. 15.
* Heb. Kain.
† Or, how long shall it be ere Ashur carry thee away captive?
p Gen. 10. 4. Dan. 11. 30.
q Gen. 10. 24.

who are here described under the names of the nearest and fiercest enemies of Israel, which he doth partly by himself, by his word and spirit, and partly by his ministers, those princes whom he makes nursing-fathers to his Church, and scourges to his enemies. And to him alone agrees the foregoing verb properly, I shall see him, to wit, in my own person, or with the eyes of my own body, as every eye shall see him, (Rev. i. 7.) when he comes to judgment. Nor can it seem strange, that Balaam should speak of such high and remote things, seeing he foresaw and foretold these things by the revelation of the spirit of God, by which also he foresaw the great felicity of good men, and the miserable state of bad men, after death and judgment, (Numb. xxiii. 10.) But not now—Not yet, but after many ages. There shall come a star out of Jacob—A title often given to princes, and eminent and illustrious persons, and particularly to the Messias, (Rev. 22. 16.) A sceptre shall rise out of Israel—A sceptre-bearer, a king or ruler, even that sceptre mentioned, Gen. xlix. 10. Shall smite the corners of Moab—Either literally the borders, or the whole country to which they belong; or metaphorically princes and rulers, who are sometimes compared to corners; and Christ himself is called a corner stone, because he unites and supports the building. And destroy all the children of Sheth—Which seems to be the name of some then eminent, but now utterly lost, as to all monuments and remembrances of them.

V. 18. Edom shall be a possession—Which was also foretold, (Gen. xxv. 23.) and in part fulfilled, (2 Sam. viii. 14. 1 Chron. xviii. 13.) but more fully by Christ, (Amos ix. 12.) who shall subdue and possess all his enemies here signified by the name of Edom, as Jacob or Israel, his brother, signifies all his church and people. Seir—A part and mountain of Edom, (Gen. xxxvi. 8.) Shall be a possession for his enemies—The Israelites. Israel shall do valiantly—Or gain power, riches, or victory, all which are comprehended in this phrase.

V. 19. Out of Jacob—Out of Jacob's loins. Shall come he that shall have dominion—David, and especially Christ. Shall destroy him that remaineth of the city—He shall subdue those Moabites and Edomites. And, as David destroyed the visible enemies of the Church of God; so shall the Prince of Peace, by his Spirit, the purchase of his death, destroy those enemies to his kingdom in the hearts of men—pride, anger, self-will, and evil desires; and the root of all—an evil heart of unbelief.

V. 20. When he looked—From the top of Pisgah. Amalek was the first—Of all the neighbouring nations which were embodied together in one government. His latter end shall be that he perish for ever—He began with God and with Israel, but God will end with him, and he shall be utterly destroyed, so that Saul lost his kingdom for not executing God's command, (1 Sam. xv.)

V. 21. He looked on the Kenites—The posterity or kindred of Jethro, not that part of them which dwelt among the Israelites, to whom the following words do not agree, but those of them who were mingled with the Amalekites and Midianites. Thou puttest thy nest in a rock—Thy dwelling-place, so called, from their security and confidence of continuing long and safe in it.

V. 22. The Kenite shall be wasted, until Ashur shall carry thee away captive—Shall be by degrees diminished and wasted by the incursions of divers enemies, till at last the Assyrian comes to compleat the work, and carries them into captivity. For the Kenites lived partly among the ten tribes, and partly with the two tribes, and were carried captive with them by Shalmaneser, the king of Assyria, (2 Kings, xvii. 6.)

V. 23. Alas! who shall live when God doth this—How calamitous and miserable will the state of the world be when the Assyrian, and after him the Chaldean, shall over run and overturn all these parts of the world? Who will be able to live and keep his heart from fainting under such grievous pressures? How few will then escape the destroying sword!

V. 24. Ships shall come from the coast of Chittim—A place or people so called, from Chittim the son of Javan, (Gen. x. 4.) whose posterity were very numerous, and were first seated in the Lesser Asia, and from thence sent forth colonies into the islands of the Ægean sea, and into Cyprus, and afterwards into Macedonia and other parts of Greece, and then into Italy. Whence it comes to pass, that by this name is understood sometimes Macedonia, and sometimes Italy, and sometimes both, as in this place: For he speaks here of the scourge that God hath appointed for the Assyrian, after he had done God's work, in punishing of his people, and the bordering nations. Now, although the Assyrian and Chaldean empire was subdued by the Medes and Persians, yet the chief afflictions and calamities of that people came from two hands, both beyond the sea and brought to them by ships, as is here expressed, first from the Grecians under Alexander and his successors, by whom that people were grievously oppressed and wasted; then from the Romans, who subdued all the Grecian empire, one great part whereof were the Assyrians, and after many bloody wars made them a colony. Shall afflict Ashur and Eber—The posterity of Eber, the Hebrews, who were the chief and flower of Eber's children, and therefore are here designed by that general name. And it pleased God to express it thus darkly here, because though he would foretel this for the instruction of his people in after ages, yet he would not have Balak, nor Balaam neither, understand or utter any thing which might seem to thwart that happy estate of Israel, which Balaam clearly saw and openly applauded. He also shall perish for ever—Not the Hebrews, for their affliction was now mentioned before, and other Scriptures tell us they shall have a better end, and that all Israel shall be saved, and therefore not perish for ever, but the afflicter, or scourge of Ashur and Eber—the Grecian and Roman empire.

V. 25. Balaam

Before Christ 1452.

25 And Balaam rose up, and went and [r] returned to his place: and Balak also went his way.

[r] See chap. 31. 8.

CHAP. XXV.

[a] Chap. 30. 16. [b] 33. 49. [b] 1 Cor. 10. 6.

AND Israel abode in [a] Shittim, and [b] the people begun to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab.

[c] Josh. 22. 17. Psa. 106. 28. Hos. 9. 10. [d] Exod. 34. 15. 1 Cor. 10. 20.

2 And [c] they called the people unto [d] the sacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed down to their gods.

3 And Israel joined himself unto Baal-peor: and the anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel.

[e] Deut. 4. 3. Josh. 22. 17.

4 And the Lord said unto Moses, [e] Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the Lord against the sun, that the fierce anger of the Lord may be turned away from Israel.

[f] Exod. 18. 21, 25. [g] Exod. 32. 27.

5 And Moses said unto [f] the judges of Israel, [g] Slay ye every one his men, that were joined unto Baal-peor.

6 ¶ And behold, one of the children of Israel came and brought unto his brethren a Midianitish woman, in the sight of Moses, and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, who were weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

Before Christ 1452.

[h] Psa. 106. 30. [i] Exod. 6. 25.

7 And [h] when Phinehas [i] the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose up from amongst the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand;

8 And he went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her belly: So the plague was stayed from the children of Israel.

[k] 1 Cor. 10. 8.

9 And [k] those that died in the plague, were twenty and four thousand.

10 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

[l] Psa. 106. 30.

11 [l] Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned my wrath away from the children of Israel (while he was zealous * for my sake amongst them) that I consumed not the children of Israel in my jealousy.

* Heb. with my zeal: See 2 Cor. 11. 2.

[m] Mal. 2. 4, 5. & 3. 1.

12 Wherefore say, [m] Behold, I give unto him my covenant of peace.

13 And

V. 25. Balaam returned to his place—To Mesopotamia.

CHAP. XXV.

V. 1. Israel abode in Shittim—This was their last station, from whence they passed immediately into Canaan. The people—Not all, but many of them. Began to commit whoredom—Because their God was worshipped. With the daughters of Moab—And of Midian.

V. 2. They called the people unto the sacrifices—Unto the feasts which were made of their sacrifices, after the manner of the Jews and the Gentiles too, the participation whereof was reckoned a participation in the worship of that God to whom the sacrifices were offered, (1 Cor. x. 8.) and therefore was forbidden to the Israelites, when such feasts and sacrifices belonged to a false God. (Exod. xxxiv. 15.) Of their Gods—Baal-peor. The people did eat, and bowed down—Which properly notes the outward act of worship. To their Gods—Before their Gods, or to the honour and worship of their gods.

V. 3, Israel joined himself—The word implies a forsaking of God, to whom they were and should have been joined, and a conjunction with this false God. (2 Cor. vi. 14.) Baal-peor—Called Baal, by the name common to many false Gods, and especially to those that represented any of the heavenly bodies, from the hill Peor, where he was worshipped, (Numb. xxiii. 28.) or rather from a verb signifying to open and uncover, either because of the obscene posture in which possibly the idol was set, as Priapus was; or because of the filthiness which was exercised in his worship. The anger of the Lord was kindled against Israel—Discovered itself in a dreadful plague, (Psal. cvi. 29.)

V. 4. The Lord said unto Moses, Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up—The sense is, Take to thy assistance all the heads, the judges, or rulers of the people, and in their presence, and by their help, hang them—the people; such of them as were guilty. Before the Lord—To the vindication of God's honour and justice. Against the sun—Publicly, as their sin was public and scandalous.

V. 5. Moses said unto the judges of Israel, slay ye every one his men—Those under his charge; for as these seventy were chosen to assist Moses in the government, so doubtless the care and management of the people was distributed among them by just proportions.

V. 6. One of the children of Israel brought a Midianitish woman in the sight of Moses—An argument of intolerable contempt of God, and of Moses. And in the sight of all the congregation—The rulers of the congregation, with divers of the people. The children of Israel, who were weeping before the tabernacle—Bewailing the abominable wickedness of the people, and the dreadful judgments of God, and imploring God's mercy and favour.

V. 8. The plague was stayed—Either the pestilence, or some other sudden and grievous mortality.

V. 9. Those that died in the plague, were twenty and four thousand—Twenty-three thousand, (1 Cor. x. 8.) by the immediate hand of God, of the plague, and one thousand executed. Thus has God expressed his indignation at idolatry, and against sin: And though God, for Christ's sake, is to be reconciled to the sinner that forsakes his sin and seeks for mercy, yet sin is ever the same in his sight, and his severity against it is now as great as when he destroyed all these thousands of the people of the Jews. Every wilful sin exposes the sinner to the wrath of God for ever; and those examples of God's sending swift destruction down upon them who are sinning without fear, are to teach men to fear Him who hath power to cut off the criminal in his crime, and to assign him his endless portion with the abandoned, the impure, and the cursed of God for ever.

V. 11. Phinehas was zealous—Fervent, and resolute, and valiant. For my sake—For my satisfaction and vindication.

12. I give unto him my covenant of peace—The covenant of an everlasting priesthood, which is called a covenant of peace, partly with respect to the effect of this action of his, whereby he made peace between God and his people, and partly with regard to the principal end and use of the priestly office, which was constantly to do that which Phinehas now did, even to mediate between God and men, to obtain and preserve his own and Israel's peace, by turning them away from iniquity, which is the only peace-breaker.

V. 13. He

Before Christ 1452.

13 And he shall have it, and [n] his seed after him, even the covenant of an everlasting priesthood; because he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Israel.

n See 1 Chron. 6, 4, &c.

14 Now the name of the Israelite that was slain, even that was slain with the Midianitish woman, was Zimri the son of Salu, a prince of a † chief house among the Simeonites.

† Heb. House of a father.

15 And the name of the Midianitish woman that was slain, was Cozbi the daughter of [o] Zur; he was head over a people, and of a chief house in Midian.

o Chap 31. 8. Josh. 13. 21.

16 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

17 [p] Vex the Midianites, and smite them:

p Chap. 31. 2.

18 For they vex you with their wiles, wherewith they have beguiled you in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian their sister, which was slain in the day of the plague, for Peor's sake.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND it came to pass after the plague, that the Lord spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying, a Exod. 30. 12. & 38. 25, 26. Chap. 1. 2.

2 [a] Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel, [b] from twenty years old and upward, throughout their fathers house, all that are able to go to war in Israel.

b Chap. 1. 3.

3 And Moses and Eleazar the priest spake with them in the plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho, saying,

4 Take the sum of the people, from twenty years old and upward; as the Lord [c] commanded Moses and the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt.

c Chap 1. 1.

5 ¶ [d] Reuben the eldest son of Israel: the children of Reuben; Hanock, of whom cometh the family of the Hanochites: of Pallu, the family of the Palluites:

Before Christ 1452

d Gen. 46. 8. Exod. 6. 14. 1 Chron. 5. 1.

6 Of Hesron, the family of the Hesronites: of Carmi, the family of the Carmites.

7 These are the families of the Reubenites: and they that were numbered of them, were forty and three thousand and seven hundred and thirty.

8 And the sons of Pallu; Eliab.

9 And the sons of Eliab; Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram. This is that Dathan and Abiram which were [e] famous in the congregation, who strove against Moses, and against Aaron in the company of Korah, when they strove against the Lord:

e Chap. 16. 2.

10 And the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them up together with Korah, when that company died, what time the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men: [f] and they became a sign.

f Chap. 16. 38. See 2 Pet. 2. 6.

11 Notwithstanding the children of Korah died not.

12 ¶ The sons of Simeon after their families: of [g] Nemuel, the family of the Nemuelites: of Jamin, the family of the Jaminites: of [h] Jachin, the family of the Jachinites:

g Gen. 46. 10. Jemuel.
h 1 Chron. 4. 24. Jarib.

13 Of [i] Zera, the family of the Zarhites: of Shaul, the family of the Shaulites.

i Gen. 46. 10. Zohar.

14 These are the families of the Simeonites, twenty and two thousand and two hundred.

15 ¶ The children of Gad after their families: of [k] Zephon, the family of the Zephonites: of Haggi, the family of the Haggites: of Shuni, the family of the Shunites:

k Gen. 46. 16. Ziphion.

16 Of

V. 13. He shall have it, and his seed after him, even the covenant of an everlasting priesthood—This promise, as others of the like nature, was conditional, and therefore might be made void, by the miscarriages of Phinehas, or his sons.

V. 14. The Israelite that was slain, was Zimri the son of Salu, a prince—This is added as a proof of Phinehas's zeal that he durst venture upon so great a person, who was likely to have many avengers of his blood.

V. 15. The name of the woman was Cozbi, the daughter of Zur—One of the kings or princes of Midian.

V. 17. Vex the Midianites and smite them—(i. e.) Kill them: In which words, as there is a command to war against them, so there is a promise of success.

V. 18. For they vex you with their wiles—For under pretence of friendship and marriages, they fought only an opportunity to insinuate themselves into their familiarity, and execute their design of bringing that curse upon the Israelites, which they had in vain attempted to bring another way.

CHAP. XXVI.

V. 1. The Lord spake unto Moses, and unto Eleazar—Who, his father being dead, was high-priest.

V. 2. Take the sum of all the congregation of the children of Israel—They were numbered twice before, (Exod. xxx. 11, 12. and Numb. i. 1, 2.) Now they are numbered a third time, partly to demonstrate the faithfulness of God, both in cutting all those off whom he had threatened to cut off, (Numb. xiv. 29.) and in the great increase of the people, according to his promise, notwithstanding all their sins and the judgments inflicted upon them; and partly to prepare the way for the equal division of the land which they were now going to possess.

V. 7. The families of the Reubenites were forty and three thousand and seven hundred and thirty—In their last numbering they were forty-six thousand five hundred, (Numb. i. 21.)

V. 10. They became a sign—God made them an example, to warn others not to rebel against HIM.

V. 11. The children of Korah died not—God being pleased to spare them.

V. 14. The Simeonites: twenty and two thousand and two hundred—There were thirty-five thousand four hundred in Numb. i. 23. It is thought the example of Zimri, one of their princes, infected the generality of the tribe, and so caused this great diminution in their numbers.

Before Christ 1452.

16 Of ‡ Ozni, the family of the Oznites: of Eri, the family of the Erites:

‡ Or Ezbon. Gen. 46. 16. 1 Gen. 46. 16. Aroci.

17 Of [1] Arod, the family of the Arodites: of Areli, the family of the Arelites.

18 These are the families of the children of Gad, according to those that were numbered of them, forty thousand and five hundred.

m Gen. 38. 2, &c.

19 ¶ [m] The sons of Judah were Er and Onan: and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan.

n 1 Chro. 2. 3.

20 And [n] the sons of Judah after their families were; of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites: of Pharez, the family of the Pharzites: of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites:

21 And the sons of Pharez were; of Hesron, the family of the Hesronites: of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites.

22 These are the families of Judah according to those that were numbered of them, threescore and sixteen thousand and five hundred.

o Gen. 46. 13. 1 Chro. 7. 1.

23 ¶ [o] Of the sons of Issachar after their families: of Tola, the family of the Tolaites: of † Pua, the family of the Punites:

† Or, Phuvah. ‡ Or, Job.

24 Of ‡ Jashub, the family of the Jashubites: of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites.

25 These are the families of Issachar according to those that were numbered of them, threescore and four thousand and three hundred.

p Gen. 46. 14.

26 ¶ [p] Of the sons of Zebulun after their families: of Sered, the family of the Sardites: of Elon, the family of the Elonites: of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites.

27 These are the families of the Zebulunites according to those that were numbered of them, threescore thousand and five hundred.

q Gen. 46. 20.

28 ¶ [q] The sons of Joseph after their families, were Manasseh and Ephraim.

r Josh. 17. 1.

29 Of the sons of Manasseh: of [r] Machir, the family of the Machirites: and Machir begat Gilead: of Gilead come the family of the Gileadites.

30 These are the sons of Gilead: of [s] Jeezer, the family of the Jeezerites: of Helek, the family of the Helekites:

Before Christ 1452.

s Called Abiezer, Josh. 17. 2. Judges 6. 11, 24, 34.

31 And of Asriel, the family of the Asrielites: and of Shechem, the family of the Shechemites:

32 And of Shemida, the family of the Shemidaites: and of Hepher, the family of the Hepherites.

t Chap. 27. 1. and 36. 11.

33 ¶ And [t] Zelophehad the son of Hepher had no sons, but daughters: and the names of the daughters of Zelophehad, were Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

34 These are the families of Manasseh, and those that were numbered of them, fifty and two thousand and seven hundred.

35 ¶ These are the sons of Ephraim, after their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites: of [u] Bechar, the family of the Bachrites: of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites.

u 1 Chron. 7. 20, Bered.

36 And these are the sons of Shuthelah: of Eran, the family of the Eranites.

37 These are the families of the sons of Ephraim, according to those that were numbered of them, thirty and two thousand and five hundred. These are the sons of Joseph after their families.

x 1 Chron. 7. 6.

38 ¶ [x] The sons of Benjamin after their families: of Bela, the family of the Belaites: of Ashbel, the family of the Ashbelites: of [y] Ahiram, the family of the Ahiromites:

y Gen. 46. 21, Ehi, 1 Chron. 8. 1, Aharah.

39 Of [z] Shupham, the family of the Shuphamites: of Hupham, the family of the Huphamites.

z Gen. 46. 21, Muppim, and Huppim.

40 And the sons of Bela were [a] Ard and Naaman: of Ard, the family of the Ardites: and of Naaman, the family of the Naamites.

a 1 Chro. 8. 3, Addar.

41 These are the sons of Benjamin after their families: and they that were numbered of them, were forty and five thousand and six hundred.

b Gen. 46. 23.

42 ¶ [b] These are the sons of Dan after their families: of § Shuham, the family of the Shuhamites. These are the families of Dan after their families.

§ Or, Hushim.

43 All

V. 18. Gad, forty thousand and five hundred—Fewer by above five thousand than in their last numbering, (Numb. ii. 15.)

V. 21. The sons of Pharez—Which though Judah's grandchildren, are here mentioned among his sons, because they are put in the stead of Er and Onan, which died before.

V. 22. Judah, threescore and sixteen thousand and five hundred—About two thousand more than they were Numb. i. 27. This tribe was now increased, and the blessing promised to that tribe above the rest here begins to shew itself.

V. 27. The Zebulunites, threescore thousand and five hundred—Before they were but fifty-seven thousand four hundred. (Numb. i. 31.)

V. 34. The families of Manasseh, fifty and two thousand and seven hundred—They were but thirty-two thousand and two hundred in Numb. i. 35.

43. The families of the Shuhamites, threescore and four thousand and four hundred—All from one son and family, whereas of Benjamin, who had ten sons, there were only forty-five thousand six hundred,

Before Christ 1452.

43 All the families of the Shuhamites according to those that were numbered of them, were threescore and four thousand and four hundred.

c Gen. 46. 17. 1 Chron. 7. 30.

44 ¶ [c] Of the children of Asher after their families: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites: of Jesui, the family of the Jesuites: of Beriah, the family of the Beriites.

45 Of the sons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites: of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites.

46 And the name of the daughter of Asher was Sarah.

47 These are the families of the sons of Asher, according to those that were numbered of them; who were fifty and three thousand and four hundred.

d Gen. 46. 24. 1 Chro. 7. 13.

48 [d] Of the sons of Naphtali after their families: of Jahzeel, the family of the Jahzeelites: of Guni, the family of the Gunites:

e 1 Chro. 7. 13. Shallum.

49 Of Jezer, the family of the Jezerites: of [e] Shillem, the family of the Shillemites.

50 These are the families of Naphtali, according to their families: and they that were numbered of them, were forty and five thousand and four huudred.

f See Chap. 1. 46.

51 [f] These were the numbered of the children of Israel, six hundred thousand and a thousand seven hundred and thirty.

52 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

53 Unto these the land shall be divided for an inheritance, according to the number of names.

g Chap. 33. 54. ‖ Heb. multiply his inheritance. * Heb. diminish his inheritance.

54 [g] To many thou shalt ‖ give the more inheritance, and to few thou shalt * give the less inheritance: to every one shall his inheritance be given, according to those that were numbered of him.

Before Christ 1452.

h h Chap. 33. 54. Josh. 11. 23. and 14. 2.

55 Notwithstanding, the land shall be divided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they shall inherit.

56 According to the lot shall the possession thereof be divided, between many and few.

i Gen. 46. 11. Exod. 6. 16, 17, 18, 19. 1 Chron. 6. 1, 16.

57 ¶ [i] And these are they that were numbered of the Levites, after their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

58 These are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, the family of the Korathites: and Kohath begat Amram.

k k Exod. 2. 1, 2, & 6, 20.

59 And the name of Amram's wife was Jochebed, the daughter of Levi, whom her mother bare to Levi in Egypt: and she bare unto Amram, Aaron, and Moses, and Miriam their sister.

60 And unto Aaron was born Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

l Lev. 10. 2 Chap. 3. 4. 1 Chron. 24. 2.

61 And [l] Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered strange fire before the Lord.

m Chap. 3. 39.

62 [m] And those that were numbered of them, were twenty and three thousand, all males, from a month old and upward: [n] for they were not numbered among the children of Israel, because there was no inheritance given them among the children of Israel.

n Chap. 1. 49.

63 ¶ These are they that were numbered by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

64 But

hundred, to shew that the increase of families, depends singly upon God's good pleasure.

V. 47. Asher, fifty and three thousand and four hundred—They were only 41500 (Numb. i. 41.)

V. 51. Six hundred thousand, and a thousand seven hundred and thirty—Very nigh as many as they were before, (Numb. i. 46.) so wisely and marvellously, did God at the same time manifest his justice in cutting off so vast a number, and his mercy in giving such a speedy and numerous supply.

V. 53. Unto these—To these families now mentioned. The land shall be divided—By lot, and the lot gave each tribe their part. According to the number of names—Of the persons. The meaning is, that the share of each tribe was divided amongst the several families, to some more to some less according to the number of the persons of each family, (Numb. xxxiii. 54.) And if one of the lots proved too large, or too little for all the families of that tribe, in this case they might either give part of their portion to another tribe, as Simeon and Dan had parts of Judahs's share, (Josh. xix. 4, 40.) or have a part of the portion belonging to another tribe. Those that had more than they wanted, not refusing to give their brethren a part of their land who had not enough.

V. 54. To many thou—Moses, partly by thy self, for he divided the land beyond Jordan to the two tribes and an half, and partly by thy successor Joshua, whom thou shalt empower to do it. According to those that were numbered—According to the number of the families and persons, now numbered and being 20 years old.

V. 55. The land shall be divided by lot—Which lots seem to have been cast only for the tribes, not as some would have it, for the several families, for the distribution of it to them was left to the rulers wisdom. According to the names of the tribes of their fathers—(i. e.) The lots shall go under the names of each tribe or Patriarch. It was not left to their own will to choose, but God who gave them the country, awarded also to each tribe their part of the promised inheritance, that it might be out of their power to say, Canaan was not the gift of God.

V. 56. According to the lot shall the possession be divided, between many and few—That share, which shall by lot fall to each tribe, shall be distributed to the several families and persons in such proportions as their numbers shall require.

V. 58. These are the families of the Levites—Which are here numbered by themselves, because they were not to have a distinct share of the land.

V. 62. Those that were numbered were twenty and three thousand—One thousand more than they were, (Numb. iii. 39.)

V. 65. There was not left a man of them—Of those who murmured

Before Christ 1452.

o Chap. 1. Deut. 2. 14, 15.

64 o But among these there was not a man of them whom Moses and Aaron the priest numbered, when they numbered the children of Israel in the wilderness of Sinai.

p Chap. 14. 28, 29. 1 Cor. 10. 5, 6.

65 For the Lord had said of them, they p shall surely die in the wilderness. And there was not left a man of them, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

CHAP. XXVII.

a Chap. 26. 33. & 36. 1, 11. Josh. 17. 3.

THEN came the daughters of a Zelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, of the families of Manasseh the son of Joseph: and these are the names of his daughters; Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

2 And they stood before Moses, and before Eleazar the priest, and before the princes, and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying,

b Chap 14. 35. and 26. 64, 65.

3 Our father b died in the wilderness, and he was not in the company of them that gathered themselves together against the Lord

c Chap. 16. 1, c in the company of Korah; but died in his own sin, and had no sons.

† Heb. diminished.

4 Why should the name of our father be † done away from among his family, because he hath no son? d Give unto us therefore a possession among the brethren of our father.

d Josh. 17. 4.

5 And Moses brought their cause before the Lord.

6 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

Before Christ 1452.

7 The daughters of Zelophehad speak right: e thou shalt surely give them a possession of an inheritance among their father's brethren; and thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them.

e Chap. 36. 2.

8 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a man die, and have no son, then ye shall cause his inheritance to pass unto his daughter.

9 And if he have no daughter, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his brethren.

10 And if he have no brethren, then he shall give his inheritance unto his father's brethren.

11 And if his father have no brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his kinsman that is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it: and it shall be unto the children of Israel a statute of judgment, as the Lord commanded Moses.

f Chap. 33. 47. Deut. 3. 27. and 32. 49. and 34. 1.

12 ¶ And the Lord said unto Moses, f Get thee up into this mount Abarim, and see the land which I have given unto the children of Israel.

g Chap. 20. 24. 28. and 31. 2. Deut. 10. 6.

13 And when thou hast seen it, thou also shalt be gathered unto thy people, as g Aaron thy brother was gathered.

h Chap. 20. 12, 24. Deut. 1. 37. Psal. 106. 32.

14 For ye h rebelled against my commandment (in the Desert of Zin, in the strife of the mured and rebelled against God, as plainly appears, both because this threatning and punishment is confined to those transgressors: there were now left Eleazar and Ithamar, and possibly many of the Levites, and some others, who being not guilty of that sin did not partake of their judgment. Caleb and Joshua are mentioned, to signify that they, though they were two of the spies, and companions of them who were the chief authors of that mutiny, yet they kept themselves from their sin, and therefore God kept them from their plague and destruction, as also he did some others for the same reason.

CHAP. XXVII.

V. 1. The daughters of Zelophehad—Perceiving that the males only were numbered, and that the land was to be divided to them only, they put in their claim for a share in their fathers inheritance.

V. 2. They stood before Moses by the door of the tabernacle—Nigh to which place Moses and the chief rulers assembled, for the administration of public affairs.

V. 3. Our father was not in the company of them that gathered themselves together against the Lord—Nor in any other rebellion of the people. He did not die in that sin for which his posterity were to be cut off, and to lose either their lives or their inheritances. But died in his own sin—The sin for which he alone was to suffer in his person, and not in his posterity.

V. 4. Why should the name of our father be done away—As it will be, if it be not preserved by an inheritance given to us in his name, and for his sake.; that the first son of each of these heiresses was called by their father's name, by virtue of that law (Deut. xxv. 6.) whereby the brother's first son was to bear the name of his elder brother whose widow he married. Give unto us therefore a possession—In the land of Canaan, upon the division of it, which, though not yet conquered, they concluded would certainly be so, and thereby gave glory to God by believing his word.

V. 5. Moses brought their cause before the Lord—Into the tabernacle, where God was pleased to speak with Moses. For it was a hard case, and though their plea seemed reasonable, yet Moses shewed his humility, that he would not determine it himself without God's particular direction.

V. 7. Thou shalt surely give them a possession—The heavenly Canaan, of which this was a type, belongs no less to women than to men, (Gal. iii. 28.) Thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them—Which belonged to their father, in case they had lived, and believed the promise as these their daughters do.

V. 10. If he have no brethren—Nor sisters, as appears from verse 8.

V. 11. It shall be unto the children of Israel a statute of judgment—A rule, by which the Magistrate shall give judgment in such cases.

V. 12. The Lord said unto Moses, Get thee up into this mount Abarim—The whole tract of mountains was called Abarim, whereof one of the highest was called Nebo, and the top of that Pisgah.

V. 14. Ye rebelled against my commandment at the water of Meribah in Kadesh—This is added, to distinguish this miscarriage of Moses' from that of the people.

V. 16. The Lord God of the spirits of all flesh—Of all men: the searcher of spirits, that knowest who is fit for this great employment, the congregation) to sanctify me at the water, before their eyes: that is the [i] water of Meribah in Kadesh in the wilderness of Zin.

Before Christ 1452.

i Exod. 17. 7.

15 ¶ And Moses spake unto the Lord, saying,

16 Let the Lord, [k] the God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation, k Chap. 16. 22. Heb. 12. 9.

17 [l] Which may go out before them, and which may go in before them, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the Lord be not [m] as sheep which have no shepherd.

l 2 Chro. 1. 10.

m 1 Kings 22. 17. Zech. 10. 2. Matth. 9. 36. Mark 6. 34.

18 ¶ And the Lord said unto Moses, Take thee Joshua the son of Nun, a man [n] in whom is the spirit, and [o] lay thine hand upon him.

n Gen. 41. 38. Judges 3. 10. and 11. 29.

19 And set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregation: and give him a charge in their sight.

o Deut. 34. 9.

20 And [p] thou shalt put some of thine honour upon him, that all the congregation of the children of Israel may be obedient.

p See Chap. 11. 17, 28. 1 Sam. 10. 6, 9. 2 Kings 2. 15.

21 And [q] he shall stand before Eleazar the priest, who shall ask counsel for him, [r] after the judgment of Urim before the Lord: [s] at his word shall they go out, and at his word they shall come in, both he, and all the children of Israel, with him, even all the congregation.

q See Josh. 9. 14. Judges 1. 1. and 20. 18. 1 Sam. 23. 9. and 30. 7.

r Exod. 28. 30.

s Josh. 9. 14. 1 Sam. 22. 10.

22 And Moses did as the Lord commanded him: and he took Joshua and set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregation.

23 And he laid his hands upon him, [t] and gave him a charge, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses.

t Deut. 3. 28.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Before Christ 1452.

AND the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, My offering, and [a] my bread for my sacrifices made by fire, for * a sweet savour unto me, shall ye observe to offer unto me in their due season.

a Lev. 3. 14. and 21. 6, 8. Mal. 1. 7, 12. * Heb. a savour of my rest.

3 And thou shalt say unto them, [b] This is the offering made by fire, which ye shall offer unto the Lord; two lambs of the first year without spot † day by day, for a continual burnt-offering.

b Exod. 29. 38. † Heb. in a day.

4 The one lamb shalt thou offer in the morning, and the other lamb shalt thou offer ‡ at even;

‡ Heb. between the two evenings.

5 And [c] a tenth part of an ephah of flour for a [d] meat-offering, mingled with the fourth part of an [e] hin of beaten oil.

c Exod. 16. 36. Chap. 15. 4. d Lev. 2. 1. e Exod. 29. 40.

6 It is a continual burnt-offering, [f] which was ordained in mount Sinai for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord.

f See Amos 5. 25.

7 And the drink-offering thereof shall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: [g] in the holy place shalt thou cause the strong wine to be poured unto the Lord for a drink-offering.

g Exod. 29. 2.

8 And the other lamb shalt thou offer at even: as the meat-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering thereof thou shalt offer it, a sacrifice made by fire of a sweet savour unto the Lord.

9 ¶ And on the sabbath-day, two lambs of the first year without spot, and two tenth-deals ment, the father, and giver, and governor of spirits, who canst raise and suit the spirits of men to the highest and hardest works.

V. 17. Which may go before them—Wisely conduct them in all their affairs, both when they go forth to war, and when they return home, and live in peace. A metaphor from shepherds, as it here follows, which in those places used not to go behind their sheep, as ours now do, but before them, and to lead them forth to their pasture, and in due time to lead them home again.

V. 18. The Lord said, Take Joshua, a man in whom is the spirit—Of Government, of wisdom, and of the fear of the Lord. Lay thine hand upon him—By which ceremony Moses did both design the person, and confer the power, and in this was a type of the Lord Jesus, to whom, as man, all power in heaven and in the earth is given, and who employs those whose hearts are upright in his sight, and who he knows will obey his Spirit, and faithfully serve his church and people.

V. 19. Set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregation—That they may be witnesses of the whole action, and may acknowledge him for their ruler. Give him a charge in their sight—Thou shalt command him in my name to undertake the government of my people, which otherwise he will be afraid and unwilling to do, and thou shalt give him counsels and instructions for the right management of that great trust.

V. 20. Thou shalt put some of thine honour upon him—Thou shalt not now use him as a servant, as thou hast done, but as a brother and thy partner in the government, shewing respect to him, and causing others to do so, and thou shalt impart to him thy own authority.

V. 21. He shall stand before Eleazar the priest, who shall ask counsel for him—When he requires him to do so, in important and difficult matters.

C. H A P. XXVIII.

V. 2. Command the children of Israel—God here repeats some of the former laws about sacrifices, because they had been generally discontinued for 38 years together; and because the generation to which the former laws had been given about these things was wholly dead, and it was fit the new generation should be instructed about them, as their parents were; and to renew the testimonies of God's grace and mercy, notwithstanding their frequent forfeitures thereof by their horrid apostacies and rebellions; and principally because they were now ready to enter into that land, in which they were obliged to put these things in practice.

V. 6. It is a continual burnt-offering, ordained—Instituted by God.

Before Christ 1452.

deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and the drink-offering thereof.

10 This is the burnt-offering of every sabbath, besides the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

h 1 Sam. 20. 5. 11 ¶ And [h] in the beginnings of your months ye shall offer a burnt-offering unto the Lord; two young bullocks, and one ram, seven lambs of the first year without spot,

12 And three tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering mingled with oil, for one bullock, and two tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering mingled with oil, for one ram,

13 And a several tenth-deal of flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering, unto one lamb, for a burnt-offering of a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord.

14 And their drink-offerings shall be half an hin of wine unto a bullock, and the third part of an hin unto a ram, and a fourth part of an hin unto a lamb: this is the burnt-offering of every month throughout the months of the year.

15 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering unto the Lord shall be offered, besides the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

i Exod. 12. 18. Lev. 23. 5. Chap. 9. 3. Deut. 16. 1. 16 [i] And in the fourteenth day of the first month is the passover of the Lord.

17 And in the fifteenth day of this month is the feast: seven days shall unleavened bread be eaten.

k Exod. 12. 16. Lev. 23. 7. 18 In the [k] first day shall be an holy convocation; ye shall do manner of servile work therein.

19 But ye shall offer a sacrifice made by fire for a burnt-offering unto the Lord; two young bullocks, and one ram, and seven lambs of the first year: [l] they shall be unto you without blemish.

l Verse 31. Chap. 29. 8. 20 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil: three tenth-deals shall ye offer for a bullock, and two tenth-deals for a ram.

Before Christ 1452.

21 A several tenth-deal shalt thou offer for every lamb, throughout the seven lambs:

22 And one goat for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you.

23 Ye shall offer these beside the burnt-offering in the morning, which is for a continual burnt-offering.

24 After this manner ye shall offer daily throughout the seven days, the meat of the sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord: it shall be offered beside the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering.

25 And on the seventh day ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work.

m Exod. 23. 16. and 34. 22. Lev. 23. 10. Deut. 16. 10. 26 ¶ Also [m] in the day of the first-fruits, when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the Lord, after your weeks be out, ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work.

27 But ye shall offer the burnt-offering for a sweet savour unto the Lord; two young bullocks, one ram, seven lambs of the first year:

28 And their meat-offering of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals unto one bullock, two tenth-deals unto one ram,

29 A several tenth-deal unto one lamb, throughout the seven lambs:

30 And one kid of the goats, to make an atonement for you.

31 Ye shall offer them besides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering ([n] they shall be unto you without blemish) and their drink-offerings.

n Verse 19.

CHAP. XXIX.

a Lev. 23. 24. AND in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work: [a] it

V. 11. In the beginnings of your months—Which, though not reckoned amongst the solemn feasts, yet were celebrated as such, by the sound of trumpets, by extraordinary sacrifices, by abstinence from servile works, and by attendance upon the ministry of God's word. God ordained it thus, that by giving the first fruits of every month, they should acknowledge him as the Lord of all their time, and own his providence, by which all times and seasons, and all the fruits and blessings of them, and actions done in them, are ordered.

V. 16. In the fourteenth day of the first month is the passover of the Lord—Instituted by him, and to his honour and service.

V. 24. After this manner ye shall offer the meat of the sacrifice made by fire—The sacrifice made by fire, which is as it were my meat or food: For, as God is said to smell the sacrifices, and to accept of them, so is he said to eat them, devour, or consume them, and to be satisfied with them, such things spoken of God after the manner of men, are to be understood so as will agree with the majesty of God.

V. 26. In the day of the first-fruits—In the feast of Pentecost, (Acts ii. 1.) When ye bring a new meat offering—New fruits, two loaves made of your new corn. After your weeks be out—The seven weeks which you are to number from the passover.

V. 27. Ye shall offer the burnt-offering—For the celebration of the feast, besides that other offering which was joined with the first-fruits.

CHAP. XXIX.

V. 1. In the seventh month—So it was in their ecclesiastical account, in which the month Abib was the first: but as to civil matters this was the first month. It is a day of blowing the trumpets—Whereby the people were admonished solemnly to prepare themselves for the feasts, which were as many in this month, as in all the year besides.

V. 2. Ye

Before Christ 1452.

it is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you.

2 And ye shall offer a burnt-offering for a sweet savour unto the Lord, one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first year without blemish:

3 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals for a bullock, and two tenth-deals for a ram,

4 And one tenth-deal for one lamb, throughout the seven lambs:

5 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, to make an atonement for you:

b Chap 28.11. 6 Besides [b] the burnt-offering of the month, c Chap. 28. 3. and his meat-offering, and [c] the daily burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, according unto their manner, for a sweet savour, a sacrifice made by fire unto the Lord.

d Lev. 16. 29. and 23 27. 7 ¶ And [d] ye shall have on the tenth day of this seventh month an holy convocation: and ye shall afflict your souls: ye shall not do any work therein.

8 But ye shall offer a burnt-offering unto the Lord for a sweet savour, one young bullock, one ram, and seven lambs of the first e Chap. 28.19. year, [e] they shall be unto you without blemish:

9 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals to a bullock, and two tenth-deals to one ram,

10 A several tenth-deal for one lamb, throughout the seven lambs:

11 One kid of the goats for a sin-offering,

f Lev. 16. 3, 5. beside [f] the sin-offering of atonement, and the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering of it, and their drink-offerings.

g Lev. 23. 23. 12 ¶ And [g] on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work, and ye shall keep a feast unto the Lord seven days.

h Ezra. 3. 4. 13 And [h] ye shall offer a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord; thirteen young bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year, they shall be without blemish:

14 And their meat-offering shall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals unto every bullock of the thirteen bullocks, two tenth-deals to each ram of the two rams,

15 And a several tenth-deal to each lamb of the fourteen lambs:

16 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

17 ¶ And on the second day ye shall offer twelve young bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the first year without spot:

18 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and the lambs, shall be according to the number, [i] after the manner:

i Ver. 3, 4, 9, 10. and Chap. 28. 7, 14.

19 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering thereof, and their drink-offerings.

20 ¶ And on the third day eleven bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

21 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, [k] after the manner:

k Verse 18.

22 And one goat for a sin-offering, beside the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

23 ¶ And on the fourth day ten bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

24 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

25 And one kid of the goats for a sin-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

26 ¶ And on the fifth day nine bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs, of the first year without spot.

27 And their meat-offering, and their drink-

V. 2. Ye shall offer a burnt-offering—Besides the offerings of every month and day.

V. 6. Besides the burnt-offering of the month—Belonging to every new moon. According unto their manner—According to the order, rites, and ceremonies appointed by God.

V. 7. Ye shall afflict your souls—Yourselves, by fasting and abstinence from all delightful things, and by sorrow for your sins.

V. 11. One kid of the goats for a sin-offering, beside the sin offering of atonement—By which the High-priest made atonement for the sins of the people, to remind them of that great atonement which was to be made by the Son of God for the sins of the world, without which none could be pardoned by God, or received into his favour.

V. 12. On the fifteenth day of the seventh month, ye shall keep a feast—The feast of Booths. Unto the Lord seven days—Not by abstaining so long from all servile works, but by offering extraordinary sacrifices each day.

V. 13. Ye shall offer thirteen young bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs—More sacrifices than at any other feast, because this feast was in the close of the year, when they had gathered in all their fruits, and therefore ought to make the larger acknowledgment to God, and because it was God's pleasure so to order it, in whose will we ought to acquiesce.

V. 35, 36. On

Before Christ 1452. drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

28 And one goat for a sin-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

29 ¶ And on the sixth day eight bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

30 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

31 And one goat for a sin-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

32 ¶ And on the seventh day seven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the first year without blemish:

33 And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

34 And one goat for a sin-offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

[1] Lev. 23. 36. 35 ¶ On the eighth day ye shall have a [1] solemn assembly; ye shall do no servile work therein.

36 But ye shall offer a burnt-offering, a sacrifice made by fire, of a sweet savour unto the Lord; one bullock, one ram, seven lambs of the first year without blemish:

37 Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullock, for the ram, and for the lambs, shall be according to their number, after the manner:

Before Christ 1452.

38 And one goat for a sin offering, besides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering.

39 These things ye shall * do unto the Lord in your set feasts, besides your [m] vows, and your free-will-offerings, for your burnt-offerings, and for your meat-offerings, and for your drink-offerings, and for your peace-offerings.

* Or, offer.

[m] Lev. 7. 11, 16.

40 And Moses told the children of Israel, according to all that the Lord commanded Moses.

CHAP. XXX.

AND Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes, concerning the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the Lord hath commanded.

[a] Deut. 23. 22. Eccles. 5. 4. 2 [a] If a man vow a vow unto the Lord, or swear an oath to bind his soul with a bond; he shall not * break his word, he shall do according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth.

* Heb. profane.

3 If a woman also vow a vow unto the Lord, and bind herself by a bond, being in her father's house in her youth;

4 And her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith she hath bound her soul, and her father shall hold his peace at her: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand.

5 But if her father disallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows or of her

V. 35, 36. On the eighth day ye shall offer one bullock, one ram, seven lambs—This was the last and great day of the feast, (Joh. vii. 37.) and yet the sacrifices were fewer than any other day, to teach them not to trust to the multitude of their sacrifices, nor to expect remission of sins from them, but from the one and only sacrifice of Christ.

V. 39. These things ye shall do besides your vows, and your free-will-offerings—Your ordinary sacrifices shall not be omitted because of the extraordinary, which ye offer on special occasions.

CHAP. XXX.

V. 1. Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes—The chief rulers of each tribe, who were to communicate it to the rest.

V. 2. If a man—Which notes both the sex, and the age, that he be grown up. Vow a vow—A vow to do something possible and lawful. Unto the Lord—To the honour and service of God. Or swear an oath—Confirm his vow by an oath. To bind his soul with a bond—To restrain himself from something otherwise lawful, as suppose from such a sort of meat or drink; or to oblige himself to the performance of something otherwise not necessary, as to observe a private day of fasting. He shall not break his word—Not profane his word, not render his word, and consequently himself profane, or contemptible in the eyes of others.—He shall do according to all that proceedeth out of his own mouth—And that without delay, provided the thing be not unlawful, and forbidden by God, (Acts xxiii. 14.) for it is an idle conceit that a man can give away God's right, or that he can make void God's commands by his own vows, which was the superstition of the Pharisees.

V. 3. If a woman—Or a man in the same circumstances, a son or a servant. Being in her father's house—Under his care, and government. In her youth—Which is commonly reckoned about her twelfth or thirteenth year.

V. 4. Her father—Under which title seem to be comprehended, as in other places of Scripture, masters, magistrates, and all other superiors; as for instance, when a servant vows to go a long journey for his friend, and his master will not permit him to do so, but not in other cases; as if a servant vows to do something for another in that time which his master alloweth to his own use and disposal, in this case his vow binds him.—And her father shall hold his peace at her—His silence being an interpretative consent. Then all her vows shall stand—Be established, or be in force.

V. 5. But if her father disallow her in the day that he heareth—Speedily, or without delay, allowing only necessary time for deliberation. The Lord shall forgive her—Will forgive her rashness of making such vows, or rather her not performing of it. But this is to be understood only of such vows which could not be performed without invading the fathers, or superiors right; for if one should vow to forbear such or such things, and to perform such her bonds wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand: and the Lord shall forgive her, because her father disallowed her.

Before Christ 1452.

† Heb. her vows were upon her.

6 And if she had at all an husband when † she vowed, or uttered ought out of her lips, wherewith she bound her soul;

7 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows shall stand, and her bonds wherewith she bound her soul, shall stand.

8 But if her husband disallow her on the day that he heard it; then he shall make her vow which she vowed, and that which she uttered with her lips, wherewith she bound her soul, of none effect: and the Lord shall forgive her.

9 But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their souls, shall stand against her.

10 And if she vowed in her husband's house, or bound her soul by a bond with an oath;

11 And her husband heard it, and held his peace at her, and disallowed her not: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she bound her soul, shall stand.

12 But if her husband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatsoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her soul, shall not stand: her husband hath made them void, and the Lord shall forgive her.

Before Christ 1452.

13 Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the soul, her husband may establish it, or her husband may make it void.

14 But if her husband altogether hold his peace at her, from day to day; then he establisheth all her vows, or all her bonds which are upon her: he confirmeth them, because he held his peace at her, in the day that he heard them.

15 But if he shall any ways make them void after that he hath heard them; then he shall bear her iniquity.

16 These are the statutes which the Lord commanded Moses between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter being yet in her youth in her father's house.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Avenge

such, or such duties, when he had opportunity, no father, nor superior, can discharge him from such vows.

V. 6. If she had at all an husband—To whose will and authority she was thereby made subject.

V. 9. But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, shall stand against her—Though she be in her father's house. Such is the regard which God requires men to pay to the discharge of the relative duties, that they are not to vow or resolve on any action or design, that is contrary to these established duties, in the regular discharge of which, every one may offer unto God a reasonable and acceptable service, by going through them with a single eye to his glory, which is spread and promoted on earth, by whatever maintains and increases the order, the peace, and all that present happiness of mankind, which is of that nature which will endure for ever.

V. 10. If she vowed in her husband's house—If she that now is a widow, or divorced, made that vow whilst her husband lived with her: as suppose she then vowed, that if she was left a widow, she would give such a proportion of her estate to pious or charitable uses, of which vow she might repent when she came to be a widow, and might believe or pretend she was free from it, because that vow was made in her husband's life time, which is here granted, in case her husband then disallowed it, but denied, in case by silence, or otherwise he consented to it. Vows and resolutions to abstain from, or to do any thing with a design to please God, being of a sacred nature; they are only allowed to become void, when they cannot be performed without breaking in on some duty that is never to be omitted.

V. 12. If her husband hath made them void, the bond of her soul shall not stand, the Lord shall forgive her—Thus has God, who is the God of order, guarded against confusion, by cutting off every pretence which might unsettle the laws of subordination, and turning human society into a state of anarchy; and though he has not given to husbands, parents, masters, or magistrates, power to forbid what he himself requires of all; yet in things that violate no law of God, it is his will that those that are placed over or above us by his providence, are to be obeyed for his sake who has made it the duty, and by consequence the happiness of wives, children, servants, and subjects to yield obedience to their several heads, and superiors, who in all things are togive account of themselves (Rom. xiv. 12.) to him the Head and Judge of all, for the use they make of the power with which he has entrusted them in every stage of this life of trial.

V. 13. Every binding oath to afflict the soul—These words are added, to shew that the husband had this power not only in those vows which concerned himself or his estate, but also in those which might seem only to concern her own person.

V. 14. If her husband hold his peace, then he establisheth all her vows—Thus silence under the knowledge of other persons designs or conduct, is declared by the Divine authority, to imply consent to that which is declared as intended or actually done. How necessary are the duties of watchfulness as to ourselves, and faithfulness to others, that we do not make ourselves parties in the wrong designs or crimes of others, by allowing them to enter upon that we know or believe to be wrong, or continue in the commission of what is so, and remain silent witnesses of their conduct.

V. 15. But if he shall make them void, after he hath heard them—And approved them by his silence. Then he shall bear her iniquity—Her non-performance of her vow shall be imputed to him, not to her.

CHAP. XXXI.

V. 2. Avenge the children of Israel of the Midianites—For their malicious designs and practices against Israel, both by hiring Balaam to curse them, and by sending their women to insnare them. The Moabites also were guilty, but God was pleased to spare them, because the measure of their iniquity was not yet full.

V. 3. Moses spake unto the people, saying, Arm some of yourselves unto the war—Moses, as the chief magistrate, gives the command for the Israelites going to war against the Midianites, because it was the will of GOD, which was the law by which Moses governed the people. The war was then made, because the people a-

Before Christ 1452.

2 [a] Avenge the children of Israel of the Midianites: afterward shalt thou [b] be gathered unto thy people.

[a] Chap 25. 17.
[b] Chap. 27. 13.

3 And Moses spake unto the people, saying, Arm some of yourselves unto the war, and let them go against the Midianites, and avenge the Lord of Midian.

[*] Heb. A thousand of a tribe, a thousand of a tribe.

4 [*] Of every tribe a thousand, throughout all the tribes of Israel, shall ye send to the war.

5 So there were delivered out of the thousands of Israel, a thousand of every tribe, twelve thousand armed for war.

6 And Moses sent them to the war, a thousand of every tribe, them and Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, to the war, with the holy instruments, and [c] the trumpets to blow in his hand.

[c] Chap. 10. 9.

7 And they warred against the Midianites, as the Lord commanded Moses; and [d] they slew [e] all the males.

[d] Deut. 20. 13. Judges 21. 11. 1 Sam. 27. 9. 1 Kings 11. 15, 16.
[e] See Judges 6. 1, 2, 33.

8 And they slew the kings of Midian, beside the rest of them that were slain; namely, [f] Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: [g] Balaam also the son of Beor they slew with the sword.

Before Christ 1452.

[f] Josh. 13. 21.
[g] Josh. 13. 22.

9 And the children of Israel took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the spoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods.

10 And they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly castles with fire.

11 And [h] they took all the spoil, and all the prey, both of men and of beasts.

[h] Deut. 20. 14.

12 And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the spoil unto Moses and Eleazar the priest, and unto the congregation of the children of Israel, unto the camp at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

13 ¶ And Moses and Eleazar the priest, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp.

14 And Moses was wroth with the officers of against whom it was made, had both secretly and openly opposed themselves to the declared will of God, which was made known to them; and Moses, in going to war, had, as is evident, no other end of honour or interest in view, than that of obedience to the will of God. Let them go against the Midianites, and avenge the Lord of Midian—For the affront which they offered to God, by their own idolatry and lewdness, and by seducing God's people into rebellion against him. God's great care was to avenge the Israelites, (verse 2.) and Moses' chief desire was to avenge God, rather than himself or the people. God and his people have the same cause, the same friends and enemies.

V. 5. A thousand of every tribe—To prevent emulations or divisions. God would send no more, though it is apparent that the Midianites were numerous and strong, because he would try and exercise their trust in him. God being the only support and Saviour both in life and in death, the happiness of all men must, of course, depend on trusting God; therefore every trial, every difficulty which, under the government of his providence, men are exposed to, is justly to be included among the number of our mercies, because an occasion of exercising that trust in God, on which our safety and happiness depend. Whilst we think our trials cannot ever produce good to us, because by the fruit of our own misconduct, we forget that such is the mercy of God, that he does not call them that are righteous in their own eyes, and think they have a title to his mercies from themselves, or something they have done; but conscious sinners, self-condemned persons are first called by him to be partakers of that blessedness, which they have who first seek the kingdom of God; a part of the privileges of which, is to have all things made to work together for the good of those that are the subjects of it. And though the Israelites had been partakers with the Midianites in their crimes, the sentence of God's justice having been executed on the chief offenders and impenitent, the survivers might nevertheless have this war with the Midianites turned into a mercy, by their being led to trust in God; and by their experience of his faithfulness, have the comfort of knowing, that as their happiness depended on their faith in God, so he would never make any thing the duty of his creatures, which he would not only enable them to perform, but also bless them in the performance of it, with an happiness independent of any success.

V. 6. Moses sent them to the war, a thousand of every tribe; them and Phinehas—Who had the charge, not of the army, but of the holy instruments, as is here expressed, and was also sent to encourage, and quicken, and confirm them in their enterprise. The holy instruments—The holy breast-plate, wherein was the Urim and Thummim. And the trumpets to blow—Which were to be used in war, as well as in the service of the tabernacle.

V. 7. They slew all the males—Namely, all whom they took in that war. This people had as a nation forfeited their lives to the laws of God, and he, as judge of all the earth, had given command that the sentence of his laws should be executed on the guilty.

V. 8. They slew Zur—The father of Cozbi, (Numb. xxv. 15.) Balaam also the son of Beor, they slew with the sword—He dies the death of the wicked, and not of the righteous, as he desired. He chose his friends among the enemies of God; he would not come out from among the wicked; and he remains an example to the world, that men may have knowledge of the will of God, even prophetical knowledge, and yet resist that grace of God that bringeth salvation from the power and nature of sin. Great is the blessing of knowing the will of God, but he that knoweth the will of God, and resists the grace which his faithfulness offers to all, to enable them to obey it, will fall under the greater condemnation; because to whom much is given, of them much is required.

V. 10. They burnt all their cities—To blot out the name and memory of so lewd and vile a people; and, lest any of the Israelites should be tempted to settle there, and so prevented in their progress to Canaan; and to shew by this instance, among many others, that God has given to mankind, in different ages and nations, that such is his indignation against sin, that even after his judgments have swept away the impenitent from the face of the earth, he causes the very places in which they lived, to be utterly destroyed.

V. 14. Moses

Before Christ 1452.

of the hoſt, with the captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the † battle.

† Heb. hoſt of war.

15 And Moſes ſaid unto them, Have ye ſaved [i] all the women alive?

i See Deut. 20. 13. 1 Sam. 15. 3.

16 Behold, [k] theſe cauſed the children of Iſrael, through the [l] counſel of Balaam, to commit treſpaſs againſt the Lord in the matter of Peor, and [m] there was a plague among the congregation of the Lord.

k Chap. 25. 2. l Chap. 24. 14. 2 Pet. 2. 15. m Chap. 25. 9.

17 Now therefore [n] kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man by lying with ‡ him.

n Judg. 21. 11. ‡ Heb. a male.

18 But all the women-children that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourſelves.

19 And [o] do ye abide without the camp ſeven days: whoſoever hath killed any perſon, and [p] whoſoever hath touched any ſlain, purify both yourſelves and your captives, on the third day, and on the ſeventh day.

o Chap. 5. 2. p Chap. 19. 11, &c.

20 And purify all your raiment, and all § that is made of ſkins, and all work of goats hair, and all things made of wood.

§ Heb. inſtrument, or, veſſel of ſkins.

21 ¶ And Eleazar the prieſt ſaid unto the men of war which went to the battle, This is the ordinance of the law which the Lord commanded Moſes;

22 Only the gold, and the ſilver, the braſs, the iron, the tin, and the lead,

23 Every thing that may abide the fire, ye ſhall make it go through the fire, and it ſhall be clean: nevertheleſs it ſhall be purified [q] with the water of ſeparation: and all that abideth not the fire, ye ſhall make go through the water.

Before Christ 1452.

q Chap. 19. 9, 17.

24 [r] And ye ſhall waſh your clothes on the ſeventh day, and ye ſhall be clean, and afterward ye ſhall come into the camp.

r Lev. 11. 25.

25 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

26 Take the ſum of the prey ‖ that was taken, both of man and of beaſt, thou, and Eleazar the prieſt, and the chief fathers of the congregation, ‖ Heb. of the captivity.

27 And [s] divide the prey into two parts; between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battle, and between all the congregation.

s Joſh. 22. 8. 1 Sam. 30. 24.

28 And levy a tribute unto the Lord of the men of war, which went out to battle: [t] one ſoul of five hundred, both of the perſons, and of the beeves, and of the aſſes, and of the ſheep.

t See Verſe 30, 47. and Chap. 18. 26.

29 Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the prieſt, for an heave-offering of the Lord.

30 And of the children of Iſrael's half, thou ſhalt take one portion of fifty, of the perſons, of the beeves, of the aſſes, and of the * flocks, of all manner of beaſts, and give

* Or, goats.

V. 14. Moſes was wroth with the officers of the hoſt—Becauſe they had ſpared thoſe who were moſt criminal, and who, by the law of God, were worthy of death.

V. 17. Kill every male among the little ones—Which they were forbidden to do to other people (Deut. xx. 14.) except the Canaanites, to whom this people had equalled themſelves by their horrid crimes, and therefore it is not ſtrange, nor unjuſt, that God, the Lord of all men's lives, who as he gives them, ſo may take them away when he pleaſeth, did equal them in the puniſhment. Thus does the Giver of all good, publiſh his ſeverity againſt all ſin, by extending his judgments to thoſe who are the deareſt to ſuch as have offended him; that no motive might be wanting which men could poſſibly have for fearing to offend God. And were we to allow ſatan to deceive us by ſuggeſtions againſt God's juſtice from ſuch judgments as theſe, where children, who themſelves have never lived to be guilty of any moral offence, are put to death, a compliance with ſuch ſuggeſtions, would at once be great impiety, and ſhew our ignorance of the diſcoveries which God has made to the world in his word, by which we know that this life is but a ſhort journey to an endleſs life, and though every creature is forbid, under the penalty of God's ſevereſt diſpleaſure, to do any thing to deſtroy or ſhorten their own lives, or thoſe of others; yet, when God is pleaſed to direct or permit either infants, or his faithful ſervants, to be included in any of his judgments, whether the ſword or peſtilence; any reaſoning that would charge God with injuſtice, would be of the ſame kind with that which reflected on the juſtice of a prince who removed ſubjects that had never wilfully offended him, or ſervants that had long lived to pleaſe him, from ſituations of difficulty and danger, into his own immediate preſence.

V. 18. But all the women-children that have not known a man, keep alive for yourſelves—As ſervants, or to marry them.

V. 19. Do ye abide without the camp ſeven days—According to the law. (Levit. xv. 13.) Purify both yourſelves, and your captives—With the water of ſprinkling. (Numb. xix. 9.)

V. 20. Purify all your raiment, and all that is made of ſkins, and all work of goats hair—All which had contracted ſome ceremonial uncleanneſs, either from the dead bodies which wore them, or the tents or houſes where they were, in which ſuch dead bodies lay, or from the touch of the Iſraelitiſh ſoldiers, who were legally defiled by the ſlaughters they made.

V. 27. Divide the prey into two parts; between them that took the war upon them, and all the congregation—The congregation hath ſome ſhare, becauſe the warriors went in the name of all, and becauſe all having been injured by the Midianites, all were to have ſome ſhare in the reparations: but the warriors who were but twelve thouſand, have a far greater ſhare than others of their brethren, becauſe they underwent greater pains and dangers.

V. 28. One ſoul—One perſon.

V. 29. For an heave-offering of the Lord—In thankfulneſs to God for their preſervation and good ſucceſs.

V. 30. Of the children of Iſrael's half, thou ſhalt take one portion of fifty—Whereas the former part was one of five hundred, the reaſon of the difference is, becauſe this was taken out of the people's portion, whoſe hazards being leſs than the others, their gains alſo were to be leſs.

V. 50. We

Before Christ 1452.

give them unto the Levites, [u] which keep the charge of the tabernacle of the Lord.

[u] Chap. 3. 7, 8, 25, 31, 36.

31 And Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the Lord commanded Moses.

32 And the booty being the rest of the prey which the men of war had caught, was six hundred thousand and seventy thousand and five thousand sheep,

33 And threescore and twelve thousand beeves,

34 And threescore and one thousand asses,

35 And thirty and two thousand persons in all, of women that had not known man by lying with him.

36 And the half which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thousand, and seven and thirty thousand and five hundred sheep;

37 And the Lord's tribute of the sheep was six hundred and threescore and fifteen.

38 And the beeves were thirty and six thousand, of which the Lord's tribute was threescore and twelve.

39 And the asses were thirty thousand and five hundred, of which the Lord's tribute was threescore and one.

40 And the persons were sixteen thousand, of which the Lord's tribute was thirty and two persons.

41 And Moses gave the tribute which was the Lord's heave-offering, unto Eleazar the priest, [x] as the Lord commanded Moses.

[x] See Chap. 18. 8, 19.

42 And of the children of Israel's half, which Moses divided from the men that warred, 43 (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation, was three hundred thousand and thirty thousand and seven thousand and five hundred sheep,

44 And thirty and six thousand beeves,

45 And thirty thousand asses, and five hundred,

46 And sixteen thousand persons)

47 Even of the children of Israel's half, Moses took one portion of fifty, both of man and of beast, and gave them unto the Levites, which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the Lord; as the Lord commanded Moses.

48 ¶ And the officers which were over thousands of the host, the captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moses:

Before Christ 1452.

49 And they said unto Moses, Thy servants have taken the sum of the men of war, which are under our † charge, and there lacketh not one man of us.

† Heb. hand.

50 We have therefore brought an oblation for the Lord, what every man hath ‡ gotten, of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, ear-rings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our souls before the Lord.

‡ Heb. found.

51 And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of them even all wrought jewels.

52 And all the gold of the § offering that they offered up to the Lord, of the captains of thousands, and of the captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels.

§ Heb. heave-offering.

53 (For [y] the men of war had taken spoil, every man for himself)

[y] Deut. 20. 14.

54 And Moses and Eleazar the priest took the gold of the captains of thousands, and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, for a memorial for the children of Israel before the Lord.

CHAP. XXXII.

NOW the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they saw the land of [a] Jazer, and the land of Gilead, that, behold, the place was a place for cattle;

[a] Chap. 21. 32. Josh. 13. 25. 2 Sam. 24. 5.

2 The children of Gad, and the children of Reuben came and spake unto Moses, and to Eleazar the priest, and unto the princes of the congregation, saying,

3 Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and [b] Nimrah, and Heshbon, and Elealeh, and [c] Shebam, and Nebo, and [d] Beon;

[b] Verse 36. Bethnimrah. [c] Verse 38. Shibmiah. [d] Verse 38. Baal-meon.

4 Even the country [e] which the Lord smote before the congregation of Israel, is a land for cattle, and thy servants have cattle.

[e] Chap. 21. 24, 34.

5 Wherefore, said they, if we have found grace in thy sight, let this land be given unto thy servants for a possession, and bring us not over Jordan.

6 ¶ And Moses said unto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your

V. 50. We have brought an oblation to make an atonement for our souls—For their error, (ver. 14, 15, 16.) and for a memorial, (ver. 54.) or by way of gratitude for such an assistance and deliverance, as appears from the word therefore in the beginning of this verse, and from verse 49.

CHAP. XXXII.

V. 4. The country which the Lord smote before the congregation of Israel—And given to them for a possession, in the same manner as he will give the land of Canaan.

V. 5. Bring us not over Jordan—To give us our possession there, but let this land on this side Jordan be our whole possession.

V. 6. Moses said unto the children of Gad, and of Reuben, Shall ye sit here—In ease and peace, whilst your brethren are engaged in your brethren go to war, and shall ye sit here?

Before Christ 1452.

7 And wherefore * discourage ye the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the Lord hath given them?

* Heb. break

f Chap. 13. 3, 26. g Deut. 1. 22.

8 Thus did your fathers, f when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea, g to see the land.

h Chap. 13. 24.

9 For h when they went up unto the valley of Eshcol, and saw the land they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go into the land which the Lord had given them.

i Chap. 14. 21.

10 i And the Lord's anger was kindled the same time, and he sware, saying,

11 Surely none of the men that came up k Chap. 14. 28, 29. Deut. 1. 35.

out of Egypt, k from twenty years old and upward, shall see the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob; bel Chap. 14. 24, 30. † Heb. fulfilled after me.

cause l they have not † wholly followed me:

12 Save Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite, and Joshua the son of Nun: for they have wholly followed the Lord.

13 And the Lord's anger was kindled against Israel, and he made them wander in the wilderness forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the sight of the Lord was consumed.

14 And behold, ye are risen up in your fathers stead, an increase of sinful men, to augment yet the fierce anger of the Lord toward Israel.

15 For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderness, and ye shall destroy all this people.

Before Christ 1452.

16 ¶ And they came near unto him, and said, We will build sheep-folds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones.

17 But m we ourselves will go ready armed before the children of Israel, until we have brought them unto their place: and our little ones shall dwell in the fenced cities, because of the inhabitants of the land.

m Josh. 4. 13.

18 n We will not return unto our houses, until the children of Israel have inherited every man his inheritance:

n Josh. 22. 2.

19 For we will not inherit with them on yonder side Jordan, or forward; because our inheritance is fallen to us on this side Jordan eastward.

20 ¶ And o Moses said unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the Lord to war, o Deut. 3. 18. Josh. 1. 13.

21 And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the Lord, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him, 22 And p the land be subdued before the Lord: then afterward ye shall return, and be guiltless before the Lord, and before Israel; and q this land shall be your possession before the Lord.

p Deut. 3. 20.

q Deut 3. 12, 15, 16. Josh. 1. 15. and 13. 8.

23 But if ye will not do so, behold, ye have sinned against the Lord: and be sure your sin will find you out.

24 Build

in war. Their words were ambiguous, and Moses thought this to be an act of unbelief and self-love.

V. 8, 9. Your fathers discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, that they should not go—That they should not attempt to go, but rather return to Egypt, (Num. xiv. 4.)

V. 12. Save Caleb, the Kenezite—So called from Kenaz, one of his eminent ancestors.

V. 14. Ye are risen up in your fathers stead, an increase of sinful men—Succeeding your fathers as in their places, so also in their sins.

V. 15. Ye shall destroy all this people—Who being moved by your counsel and example, will refuse to go over Jordan, and to possess the land of Canaan. Thus strongly does Moses express himself against those that would discourage, by their example, the people of Israel from going to possess the promised land: and this country being but as a representation of an heavenly inheritance, the language here made use of by Moses speaking by the Spirit of God, is that which addresses itself to all who would, by their advice or example, discourage any from pressing into that better country—the kingdom of God in the heart, and in consequence thereof, the kingdom of glory hereafter. And are not they guilty of discouraging the Israel of God in any age or country, who shew they prefer habitations on this side Jordan—present possessions to that kingdom which God has commanded all men first to seek, or who against God's word say no such spiritual good is to be enjoyed in this life as acquaintance with God, and being at peace with him by the knowledge of forgiveness of sins, or by the gift of his grace, and the possession of the mind that was also in Christ Jesus. (Job xxii. 21. Matth. vi. 14. Luke xi. 13. Phil. ii. 5.)

V. 17. We ourselves will go—Either all, or as many of us as shall be thought necessary, leaving only so many as may provide for the support and defence of our wives and children here. Because of the inhabitants of the land—The Moabites and Edomites, or other bordering people.

V. 20. If ye will go armed before the Lord—Sincerely and heartily, as in God's presence.

V. 22. And the land be subdued before the Lord—By his presence, and gracious and powerful assistance.

V. 23. Be sure your sin will find you out—The punishment of your sin will assuredly overtake you, all things however secret being plainly known to God, whose justice, as certainly as the nature of things, will bring to light and punish the crimes of men, unless by unfeigned repentance, they that have offended turn unto him for mercy, for his sake who came down from heaven, and suffered the most unjust and painful death at the hands of sinful men, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life. (John iii. 15.) But be not deceived by satan, or by your unbelief, into that dangerous mistake, that you may in any instance do the contrary of that which God has commanded with impunity, and because of the greatness of his pity in waiting for repentance, conclude that God has forsaken the earth, and that he will not at all judge the world in righteousness.

Before Christ 1452.

24 Build ye cities for your little ones, and folds for your sheep; and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth.

25 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben spake unto Moses, saying, Thy servants will do as my lord commandeth.

26 Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle, shall be there in the cities of Gilead.

r Josh. 4. 12. 27 [r] But thy servants will pass over, every man armed for war, before the Lord to battle, as my lord saith.

s Josh. 1. 13. 28 So [s] concerning them Moses commanded Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel:

29 And Moses said unto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben will pass with you over Jordan, every man armed to battle before the Lord, and the land shall be subdued before you; then ye shall give them the land of Gilead for a possession:

30 But if they will not pass over with you armed, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan.

31 And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, answered, saying, As the Lord hath said unto thy servants, so will we do.

32 We will pass over armed before the Lord into the land of Canaan, that the possession of our inheritance on this side Jordan may be ours.

t Deut. 3. 12. Josh. 13. 8. and 22. 4. 33 And [t] Moses gave unto them, even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manasseh u Chap. 21. 24, 33. the son of Joseph, [u] the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land with the cities thereof, in the coasts, even the cities of the country round about.

Before Christ 1452.

x Chap. 33. 45, 46. 34 ¶ And the children of Gad built [x] Dibon, and Ataroth, [y] and Aroer, y Deut. 2. 36.

z Verse 1. 3, Jazer. 35 And Atroth, Shophan, and [z] Jaazer, and Jogbehah, a Verse 3, Nimrah. 36 And [a] Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, fenced cities: and folds for sheep.

b Chap. 21. 27. 37 And the children of Reuben, [b] built Heshbon, and Elealeh, and Kirjathaim, c See Verse 3. Josh. 23. 7. ‡ Heb. they called by names the names of the cities. 38 And Nebo, and Baal-meon ([c] their names being changed) and Shibmah: and [‡] gave other names unto the cities which they builded.

d Gen. 50. 23. 39 And the children of [d] Machir the son of Manasseh went to Gilead, and took it, and dispossessed the Amorite which was in it.

e Deut. 3. 12, 13, 15. 40 And Moses [e] gave Gilead unto Machir the son of Manasseh; and he dwelt therein.

f Deut. 3. 14. Josh. 13. 30. 1 Chron. 2. 21, 22. 41 And [f] Jair the son of Manasseh went and took the small towns thereof, and called them [g] Havoth-jair.

g Judg. 10. 4. 1 Kings 4. 13. 42 And Nobah went and took Kenath, and the villages thereof, and called it Nobah, after his own name.

CHAP. XXXIII.

THESE are the journies of the children of Israel, which went forth out of the land of Egypt, with their armies, under the hand of Moses and Aaron.

2 And Moses wrote their goings out according to their journies, by the commandment of the Lord: and these are their journies, according to their goings out.

3 And

V. 24. Build ye cities, and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth—Do as you have said, as I believe you sincerely intend to act towards God, and your brethren, as you have proposed.

V. 26. In the cities of Gilead—As that whole country beyond Jordan is often called.

V. 30. But if they will not, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan—They shall forfeit their possessions in Gilead, and shall be constrained to go over Jordan, and to seek possessions there among their brethren.

V. 31. As the Lord hath said, so will we do—Either at this time by thy mouth; or formerly, where he commanded us as well as our brethren to go into Canaan, and possess it.

V. 32. We will pass over, that the possession of our inheritance on this side Jordan may be ours—Wherever men live, they must in the spiritual sense pass over Jordan, before the possession of the promised inheritance can be theirs—They must leave the wilderness state of doubts and murmurings behind, and pass from all sin unto that holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord. (Heb. xii. 14.)

V. 33. Moses gave unto the children of Gad, and of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manasseh, the kingdom of Sihon, and the kingdom of Bashan, the land with the cities of the country round about—The half tribe of Manasseh are here added to the tribes of Reuben and Gad; either because, upon the good success of the two tribes of Reuben and Gad, they were encouraged to make the same request for themselves, as having much cattle, as well as they; or because, upon further consideration, it was found that this portion of land was more than sufficient for those two tribes, and it was given by Moses to these, rather than to any other, because these fought against the Amorites with great courage and success, verse 39.

V. 40. Moses gave Gilead unto Machir the son of Manasseh—To the posterity of Machir, which are called by their father's name.

CHAP. XXXIII.

V. 2. Moses wrote their goings by the commandment of the Lord—Who would have this done, to shew the truth of the history, and to preserve the remembrance of God's glorious and miraculous works both of judgment and mercy towards his people, that they and all that should ever read these accounts of God's dealings with them, might learn to fear the justice of God, and to put their trust in his mercy, and be blessed with an unshaken confidence in all his sacred promises; by seeing such examples of his faithfulness, as the Scriptures acquaint us with: And what words can express, or thoughts comprehend, the value of those writings which make known to us the very nature of God's dealings with men, and that without respect of persons. How merciful and gracious

Before Christ 1491.

3 And they [a] departed from Rameſes in the firſt month, on the fifteenth day of the firſt month: on the morrow after the paſſover, the children of Iſrael went out [b] with an high hand, in the ſight of all the Egyptians.

4 (For the Egyptians buried all their firſt-born, [c] which the Lord had ſmitten among them: [d] upon their gods alſo the Lord executed judgments)

5 [e] And the children of Iſrael removed from Rameſes, and pitched in Succoth.

6 And they departed from [f] Succoth, and pitched in Etham, which is in the edge of the wilderneſs.

7 And [g] they removed from Etham, and turned again unto Pi-hahiroth, which is before Baal-zephon: and they pitched before Migdol.

8 And they departed from before Pi-hahiroth, and [h] paſſed through the midſt of the ſea, into the wilderneſs, and went three days journey in the wilderneſs of Etham, and pitched in Marah.

9 And they removed from Marah, and [i] came unto Elim: and in Elim were twelve fountains of water, and threeſcore and ten palm-trees; and they pitched there.

10 And they removed from Elim, and encamped by the Red ſea.

11 And they removed from the Red ſea, and encamped in the [k] wilderneſs of Sin.

12 And they took their journey out of the wilderneſs of Sin, and encamped in Dophkah.

13 And they departed from Dophkah, and encamped in Aluſh.

14 And they removed from Aluſh, and encamped at [l] Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drink.

15 And they departed from Rephidim, and pitched in the [m] wilderneſs of Sinai.

16 And they removed from the deſert of Sinai, and pitched [n] at * Kibroth-hattaavah.

17 And they departed from Kibroth-hattaavah, and [o] encamped at Hazeroth.

18 And they departed from Hazeroth, and pitched in [p] Rithmah:

19 And they departed from Rithmah, and pitched at Rimmon-parez.

20 And they departed from Rimmon-parez, and pitched in Libnah.

21 And they removed from Libnah, and pitched at Riſſah.

22 And they journeyed from Riſſah, and pitched in Kehelathah.

23 And they went from Kehelathah, and pitched in mount Shapher.

24 And they removed from mount Shapher, and encamped in Haradah.

25 And they removed from Haradah, and pitched in Makheloth.

26 And they removed from Makheloth, and encamped at Tahath.

27 And they departed from Tahath, and pitched at Tarah.

28 And they removed from Tarah, and pitched in Mithcah.

29 And they went from Mithcah, and pitched in Haſhmonah.

30 And they departed from Haſhmonah, and [q] encamped at Moſeroth.

31 And they departed from Moſeroth, and pitched in Bene-jaakan.

32 And they removed from [r] Bene-jaakan, and [s] encamped at Hor-hagidgad.

33 And they went from Hor-hagidgad, and pitched in Jotbathah.

34 And they removed from Jotbathah, and encamped at Ebronah.

35 And they departed from Ebronah, [t] and encamped at Ezion-gaber.

36 And they removed from Ezion-gaber, and pitched in the [u] wilderneſs of Zin, which is Kadeſh. 1453.

37 And they removed from [x] Kadeſh, and pitched in mount Hor, in the edge of the land of Edom.

38 And [y] Aaron the prieſt went up into mount Hor, at the commandment of the Lord, and died there in the fortieth year, after the children of Iſrael were come out of the land of Egypt, in the firſt day of the fifth month.

39 And

a Exod. 12.37.
b Exod. 14.8.
c Exod. 12.29.
d Exod. 12.12. and 18. 11. Iſai. 19. 1. Rev. 12. 8.
e Exod. 12.37.
f Exod. 13.20.
g Exod. 14. 2, 9.
h Exod. 14.22. and 15. 22, 23.
i Exod. 15.27.
k Exod. 16. 1.
l Exod. 17. 1. and 19. 1.
m Exod. 16. 1. and 19. 1, 2.
n Chap. 11. 34.
* That is, the graves of luſt.
o Chap. 11. 35.
p Chap. 12. 16.
q Deut. 10. 6.
r See Gen. 36. 27. Deut. 10. 6. 1 Chron. 1. 42.
s Deut. 10. 7.
t Deut. 2. 8. 1 Kings 9. 26.
u Chap. 20. 1. and 27. 14.
x Chap. 20. 22. and 21. 4.
y Chap. 20. 25. Deut. 10. 6. and 32. 50.

gracious he is to all them that fear him, and put their truſt in his power and willingneſs to ſave.

V. 3. They departed from Rameſes—Whither they repaired by the order of Moſes, from all parts of the land.

V. 4. The Egyptians buried all their firſt-born, which the Lord had ſmitten, upon their gods—Either their princes and rulers, who are ſometimes called gods in Scripture: God ſlew the firſt-born, not only of the meaner ſort, but even of their king and princes. Or their falſe gods, thoſe beaſts, which the Egyptians worſhipped as gods, which were killed with the reſt, for the firſt-born both of men and beaſt were then killed.

V. 10. They removed from Elim, and encamped by the Red Sea—By another part of that ſea which they paſſed over.

V. 18. They pitched in Rithmah—A place in the wilderneſs of Paran, near Kadeſh-barnea.

V. 35. They encamped at Ezion-gaber—A place upon the Red-Sea.

V. 38. Aaron went up into mount Hor, at the commandment of the Lord, and died there—Good men's goings are ordered of the Lord, and all men die when it pleaſes him; and all the concerns of men depending of courſe on the lives of men, God being the ſole diſpoſer of life, he is of conſequence the governor of all things,

Before Christ 1452.

39 And Aaron was an hundred and twenty and three years old, when he died in mount Hor.

o Chap. 21. 1, &c.

40 And ° king Arad the Canaanite (which dwelt in the south, in the land of Canaan) heard of the coming of the children of Israel.

a Chap. 21. 4.

41 And they departed from mount [a] Hor, and pitched in Zalmonah.

42 And they departed from Zalmonah, and pitched in Punon.

b Chap 21.10.

43 And they departed from Punon, and [b] pitched in Oboth.

c Chap.21.11.

44 And [c] they departed from Oboth, and pitched in * [d] Ije-abarim, in the border of Moab.

* Or, heaps of Abarim.
d Chap.21.11.

45 And they departed from Iim, and

e Chap. 32.34.

pitched [e] in Dibon-gad.

46 And they removed from Dibon-gad, f Ezek. 6. 14.

and encamped in [f] Almon-diblathaim.

47 And they removed from Almon-diblathaim, [g] and pitched in the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo.

g Chap.21.20.

48 And they departed from the mountains

h Chap. 22. 1.

of Abarim, and [h] pitched in the plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho.

49 And they pitched by Jordan from Beth-jesimoth, even unto † [i] Abel-shittim, in the plains of Moab.

† Or, the plains of Shittim.
i Chap. 25. 1. Josh. 2. 1.

50 ¶ And the Lord spake unto Moses, in the plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho, saying,

51 Speak unto the children of Israel, and k Deut. 7. 2. Josh. 11. 12.

say unto them, [k] When ye are passed over Jordan, into the land of Canaan;

52 [l] Then ye shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and destroy all their pictures, and destroy all their molten images, and quite pluck down all their high places.

Before Christ 1452.

l Exod. 23.24, 33. & 34. 13. Deut. 7. 2, 5. and 12. 3.

53 And ye shall dispossess the inhabitants of the land, and dwell therein: for I have given you the land to possess it.

54 And [m] ye shall divide the land by lot, for an inheritance among your families, and to the more ye shall ‡ give the more inheritance, and to the fewer ye shall § give the less inheritance: every man's inheritance shall be in the place where his lot falleth; according to the tribes of your fathers, ye shall inherit.

m Chap.26.53.

‡ Heb. multiply his inheritance.
§ Heb. diminish his inheritance.

55 But if ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you; then it shall come to pass, that those which ye let remain of them, shall be [n] pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your sides, and shall vex you in the land wherein ye dwell.

n Josh. 23. 13. Judges 2. 3. See Exod. 23. 33.

56 Moreover, it shall come to pass, that I shall do unto you, as I thought to do unto them.

CHAP. XXXIV.

AND the Lord spake unto Moses, saying,

2 Command the children of Israel, and say unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan (this is the land that shall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan with the coasts thereof)

3 Then [a] your south quarter shall be from the wilderness of Zin, along by the coast of Edom,

a Josh. 15. 1.

things, and can be no less the disposer of all the concerns of every nation, city, family, and single person, than he is of the whole earth.

V. 49. Abel-Shittim—Called Sittim, (Numb. xxv. 1.) and here Abel-shittim, for the grievous mourning which there was both for the heinous crimes committed, and severe judgments there inflicted.

V. 50, 51, 52. The Lord spake unto Moses, saying, When ye are passed into Canaan, ye shall drive out all the inhabitants—Not by banishing, but by destroying them, (Deut. vii. 1, 2.) and elsewhere. And destroy all their pictures—Which seem to have been stones curiously engraven, and set up for worship, (Deut. xvi. 22.) Destroy all their molten images, and quite pluck down all their high places—The chapels, altars, groves, or other means of worship there set up.

V. 55. If ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land, those which ye let remain of them shall be pricks in your eyes—Both vexatious and pernicious. And whosoever shall let a wrong temper or desire remain in his heart, without prayer to Him who enabled the Israelites to drive out the Canaanites, and who alone can cleanse the thoughts of the heart by his Holy Spirit, such neglect will one day be to the soul what the ancient inhabitants of Canaan proved to the Israelites. But is it the believer's privilege thus to be delivered from every sinful temper and desire? Hath God said, Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus; (Phil. ii. 5.) He hath, and faithful is he that hath promised this Canaan of inward rest and peace, and will also give it to all that believe. Why then do not all called Christians enjoy the blessings of his grace? Why did not the Israelites of the first generation not enter into Canaan? They entered not in, because of unbelief. (Heb. iii. 19.)

V. 56. I shall do unto you, as I thought to do unto them—If you mix with them and imitate their ways, drinking in of the same spirit with them; and your being called by my name will avail you nothing, unless you are possessors of my nature; for in Christ Jesus (and there is salvation in no other) neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision; but faith, which worketh by love. (Gal. v. 6.)

CHAP. XXXIV.

V. 2. This is the land of Canaan with the coasts thereof—Or limits of the land beyond Jordan; which are here particularly described, 1. To direct and bound them in their wars and conquests, that they might not seek the enlargement of their empire, after the manner of other nations, but be content with their own portion. 2. To encourage them in their attempt upon Canaan, and assure them of their success. 3. To guide them in the approaching distribution of the land; and having what God had promised, they might therewith be content, not extending their views on earth, but ever directing them to that better country—in heaven, which Abraham lived for, by faith in his Redeemer.

V. 3. Your

Before Christ 1452.

Edom, and your ſouth border ſhall be the outmoſt coaſt of [b] the ſalt ſea eaſtward.

b Gen. 14. 3.

4 And your border ſhall turn from the ſouth [c] to the aſcent of Akrabbim, and paſs on to Zin: and the going forth thereof ſhall be from the ſouth [d] to Kadeſh-barnea, and ſhall go on to [e] Hazar-addar, and paſs on to Azmon.

c See Joſh. 15. 3.

d Chap. 13. 26.

e See Joſh. 15. 3.

5 And the border ſhall fetch a compaſs from Azmon [f] unto the river of Egypt, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſea.

f Gen. 15. 18. Joſh. 15. 4, 47. 1 Kings 8. 65. Iſai. 27. 12.

6 And as for the weſtern border, you ſhall even have the great ſea for a border: this ſhall be your weſt border.

7 And this ſhall be your north border; from the great ſea, you ſhall point out for you [g] mount Hor.

g Chap. 33. 37.

8 From mount Hor ye ſhall point out your border [h] unto the entrance of Hamath: and the goings forth of the border ſhall be to Zedad.

h Chap. 13. 21. 2 Kings 14. 25.

9 ¶ And the border ſhall go on to Ziphron, and the goings out of it ſhall be at Hazar-enan: this ſhall be your north border.

10 And ye ſhall point out your eaſt border from Hazar-enan to Shepham.

11 And the coaſt ſhall go down from Shepham [i] to Riblah, on the eaſt ſide of Ain; and the border ſhall deſcend, and ſhall reach unto the ‖ ſide of the ſea [k] of Chinnereth eaſt-ward.

i 2 Kings 23. 33. Jer. 39. 5, 6.

‖ Heb. ſhoulder.

k Deut. 3. 17. Joſh. 11. 2. and 19. 35.

12 And the border ſhall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſalt ſea: This ſhall be your land with the coaſts thereof round about.

13 And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the land which ye ſhall inherit by lot, which the Lord commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half-tribe.

Before Christ 1452.

14 [l] For the tribe of the children of Reuben, according to the houſe of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad, according to the houſe of their fathers, have received their inheritance, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh have received their inheritance.

l Chap. 32. 33. Joſh. 14. 2, 3.

15 The two tribes and the half-tribe have received their inheritance on this ſide Jordan near Jericho, eaſt-ward, toward the ſun-riſing.

16 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

17 Theſe are the names of the men which ſhall divide the land unto you: [m] Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

m Joſh. 14. 1. and 19. 51.

18 And ye ſhall take one prince of every tribe, to divide the land by inheritance.

19 And the names of the men are theſe: Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh.

20 And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the ſon of Ammihud.

21 Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the ſon of Chiſlon.

22 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the ſon of Jogli.

23 The prince of the children of Joſeph, for the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, Hananiel the ſon of Ephod.

24 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the ſon of Shiphtan.

25 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the ſon of Parnach.

26 And

V. 3. Your ſouth quarter—Which is here deſcribed from eaſt to weſt, by divers windings and turnings, by reaſon of the mountains, rivers, &c. By the coaſt of Edom—Bordering all along upon the Edomites. The ſalt ſea—So called from the ſalt and ſulphureous taſte of its waters. Eaſtward—(i. e.) At the eaſtern part of that ſea, where the eaſtern and ſouthern borders meet.

V. 4. The aſcent of Akrabbim—Called Maaleh-akrabbim, which was at the ſouth end of the ſalt or dead ſea. The ſouth—Or proceeding onward towards the ſouth. To Kadeſh-barnea—Which was on the ſouthern part of Canaan. And ſhall go on to Hazar-addar, and paſs on to Azmon—Which is at the weſt end of the mount of Edom.

V. 5. From Azmon unto the river of Egypt—Called Sihon, which divided Egypt from Canaan. The goings out of it ſhall be at the ſea—The midland ſea, called the ſea emphatically, whereas the other ſeas there, as they are called, are indeed but lakes.

V. 6. For the weſtern border, you ſhall even have the great—The midland ſea, from the ſouth to the north, ſo far as runs parellel with mount Libanus.

V. 7. Hor—Not that Hor where Aaron died. Hor ſignifies a mountain, and this may be called ſo by way of eminency. Certain it is, that as Hor here, ſo Hermon (Joſ. xiii. 5.) is joined with the entrance of Hamath, which makes it probable they are one and the ſame place.

V. 11. The ſea of Chinnereth—Which in the New Teſtament is called the ſea of Genneſareth, (Luke v. 1.) and of Galilee, and of Tiberias, (Joh. vi. 1.)

V. 12. The border ſhall go down to Jordan—All along the river of Jordan, even to the end of it, which is the eaſtern border.

V. 17. Theſe are the names of the men which ſhall divide the land unto you: Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun—As holding the civil authority, to ſee that obedience is paid to what is ſo ſettled. Who was to act in God's name, to caſt lots, to prevent differences and contentions, to conſult with God in caſes of difficulty, to tranſact the whole buſineſs in a ſolemn and religious manner.

V. 19. Tribe—The order of the tribes here differ from that Numb. i. 7, 26. being here conformed to the order of their ſeveral inheritances, which afterwards fell to them by lot. Which is an evident demonſtration of the infinite wiſdom of God's providence, and of his exact and peculiar care over his people.

Before Christ 1452.

26 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, Paltiel the ſon of Azzan.

27 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Aſher, Ahihud the ſon of Shelomi.

28 And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the ſon of Ammihud.

29 Theſe are they whom the Lord commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Iſrael in the land of Canaan.

CHAP. XXXV.

1451. AND the Lord ſpake unto Moſes in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, ſaying, a Joſh. 14. 3, 4. and 21. 2. 2 [a] Command the children of Iſrael, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion, cities to dwell in: and ye ſhall give alſo unto the Levites ſuburbs for the cities round about them.

3 And the cities ſhall they have to dwell in, and the ſuburbs of them ſhall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beaſts.

4 And the ſuburbs of the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, ſhall reach from the wall of the city and outward, a thouſand cubits round about.

5 And ye ſhall meaſure from without the city on the eaſt ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the ſouth ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the weſt ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the north ſide two thouſand cubits: and the city ſhall be in the midſt: this ſhall be to them the ſuburbs of the cities.

Before Christ 1452.

6 And among the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, there ſhall be [b] ſix cities for refuge, which ye ſhall appoint for the man-ſlayer, that he may flee thither: and * to them ye ſhall add forty and two cities.

b Deut. 4. 41. Joſh. 20. 2. & 21. 3, 21.

* Heb. above them ye ſhall give.

7 So all the cities which ye ſhall give to the Levites, ſhall be forty and eight cities: them ſhall ye give with their ſuburbs.

8 And the cities which ye ſhall give, ſhall be of the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael: [c] from them that have many, ye ſhall give many; but from them that have few, ye ſhall give few: every one ſhall give of his cities unto the Levites, according to his inheritance which † he inheriteth.

c Chap. 26. 54.

† Heb. they inherit.

9 ¶ And the Lord ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying,

10 Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [d] When ye be come over Jordan, into the land of Canaan:

d Deut. 19. 2. Joſh. 20. 2.

11 Then [e] ye ſhall appoint you cities, to be cities of refuge for you; that the ſlayer may flee thither which killeth any perſon ‡ at unawares.

e Exod. 21. 13.

‡ Heb. by error.

12 [f] And they ſhall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger; that the man-ſlayer die not, until he ſtand before the congregation in judgment.

f Deut. 19. 6. Joſh. 20. 5.

13 And of theſe cities which ye ſhall give, ſix cities ſhall ye have for refuge.

14 [g] Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan, and three cities ſhall ye give in the land of Canaan, which ſhall be cities of refuge.

g Deut. 4. 41. Joſh. 20. 8.

15 Theſe

V. 29. Theſe are they whom the Lord commanded to divide the inheritance—Every circumſtance is of divine appointment, that all boaſting might be excluded, and that they might receive and continue to hold their inheritance only as the free gift of God.

CHAP. XXXV.

V. 3. The ſuburbs of them ſhall be for their cattle—For paſturage for their cattle; where they might not build houſes, nor plant gardens, orchards or vineyards, nor ſow corn, for which they were abundantly provided, out of the firſt-fruits and tithes. That their time, which was required for ſacred ſervices, might not be called for to cultivate the ground for their daily ſupport.

V. 4. The ſuburbs ſhall reach from the wall of the city, a thouſand cubits round about—In the next verſe it is two thouſand. There were three thouſand cubits from the wall of the city, where of one thouſand probably were for out-houſes, ſtalls for cattle, and the like, and the other two thouſand for paſture, which are therefore called the field of the ſuburbs, (Lev. xxv. 34.) by way of diſtinction from the ſuburbs themſelves, which conſiſt of the firſt thouſand cubits from the wall of the city.

V. 6. Among the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, there ſhall be ſix cities for refuge—For man-ſlayers. And theſe cities are aſſigned among the Levites, becauſe they might be preſumed to be the moſt proper and impartial judges between man-ſlayers, and wilful murderers; becauſe their preſence and authority would more effectually bridle the paſſions of the avenger of blood who might purſue him thither; and to ſignify, that it is only in Chriſt (whom the Levitical prieſts repreſented), that ſinners find refuge and ſafety from the deſtroyer. The names of theſe cities we have Deut. iv. 41, 43. Joſ. xx. 8. Which ye ſhall appoint for the man-ſlayer—Such as is here deſcribed, verſe 11. 15, 22, 23.

V. 11. Ye ſhall appoint you cities of refuge, that the ſlayer may flee thither, which killeth any perſon at unawares—Not wilfully, deſignedly, or maliciouſly, but inconſiderately, through miſtake, or indiſcretion, or careleſſneſs. (Lev. iv. 2.)

V. 12. They ſhall be cities for refuge from the avenger—Of the party ſlain, or of blood, the next kinſman, to whom by the law belonged the right of redemption of the lands, and the vindication of the injury done to the perſon deceaſed. That the man-ſlayer die not—Be not killed by the avenger meeting him in ſome other place. Until he ſtand before the congregation—Before the judges or elders, who were appointed in every city for the deciſion of criminal cauſes. In judgment—To receive ſentence there according to the nature of the fact.

V. 14. Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan—Becauſe that land was as long as Canaan, though not ſo broad, and beſides theſe might be convenient for many of them that lived in Canaan.

V. 15. Theſe ſix cities ſhall be a refuge, both for the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger—Not the proſelyte only, but all ſtrangers, that all that ſtood in need of protection, and that would

Before Christ 1451.

15 These six cities shall be a refuge, both for the children of Israel, and for the stranger, and for the sojourner among them: that every one that killeth any person unawares, may flee thither.

h Exod. 21. 12, 14. Lev. 24. 17.

16 h And if he smite him with an instrument of iron (so that he die) he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

§ Heb. with a stone of the hand.

17 And if he smite him § with throwing a stone (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer shall surely be put to death.

18 Or if he smite him with an hand-weapon of wood (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murder shall surely be put to death.

19 The revenger of blood himself shall slay the murderer: when he meeteth him, he shall slay him.

i Deut. 19. 11.

20 But i if he thrust him of hatred, or hurl at him by laying of wait, that he die;

21 Or in enmity smite him with his hand, that he die: he that smote him shall surely be put to death; for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood shall slay the murderer, when he meeteth him.

k Exod. 21. 13.

22 But if he thrust him suddenly k without enmity, or have cast upon him any thing without laying of wait;

Before Christ 1451.

23 Or with any stone wherewith a man may die, seeing him not, and cast it upon him that he die, and was not his enemy, neither sought his harm:

24 Then the congregation shall judge between the slayer, and the revenger of blood, according to these judgments.

25 And the congregation shall deliver the slayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation shall restore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he shall abide in it unto the death of the high priest, l which was anointed with the holy oil.

l Exod. 29. 7. Lev. 4. 3. and 21. 10.

26 But if the slayer shall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled;

27 And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge, and the revenger of blood kill the slayer; ‖ he shall not be guilty of blood:

‖ Heb. no blood shall be to him.

28 Because he should have remained in the city of his refuge, until the death of the high priest: but after the death of the high priest, the slayer shall return into the land of his possession.

29 So these things shall be for a statute of judgment unto you, throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

30 Whoso

would fly to them, might have the benefit of them, and that by the use of them all men might be led to understand the greatness of that mercy which has provided refuge for all, against his justice in that hope which was set before the whole world in the promised Seed, before the Jews in the Messiah, and through them to all men, and finally to all the ends of the earth, in the person of Christ Jesus the Lord; to whom may fly for pardon and acceptance, the guilty in every age and country, by true and heart-felt repentance, and faith in a Mediator; and though many may forfeit their lives to laws they have offended against, yet, with the penitent thief, be received at their death into the paradise of God (Luke xxiii. 43.) there to enjoy an everlasting refuge with him who was crucified for their sake.

V. 16. If he smite him with an instrument of iron—Wilfully, though not with premeditated malice or design, (verse 20, 21, 22, 23.) So that he die—Suddenly, not so, if he walked abroad afterward, (Exod. xxi. 19, 20.) The murderer shall surely be put to death—Though he were fled into the city of refuge; this being a crime for which his life is forfeited, but yet not excluded from receiving mercy from God; (Acts ii. 23, 38.) and he that has failed in any instance of what God requires, or has done what he forbids, stands exposed, as well as the murderer, to the wrath of God, (Rev. xxi. 8.) till he turns unto God for mercy in the way he hath provided. But that justice which will avenge itself of all that remain enemies of God by wicked works, is advancing like the avenger of blood, and a refuge unsought, may soon be the same as if none was provided.

V. 17. If he smite him with throwing a stone—Cast by the hand, and that knowingly, (verse 23.) And he die, he is a murderer—And his life shall make satisfaction to that justice of God, by which he governs the world.

V. 19. The revenger of blood himself shall slay the murderer—By the magistrate, from whom he shall demand justice. When he meeteth him—He shall secure him, that he may be put to death, after being convicted of his crime.

V. 24. The congregation shall judge according to these judgments—The established authority shall judge by these rules, which describe what God considers as murder, and what is not.

V. 25. The congregation shall deliver the slayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, to the city of his refuge, and he shall abide in it—Be confined to it, to shew the hatefulness of wilful murder in God's account by so severe a punishment, as this in many cases might prove, inflicted upon the very appearance of it, and for the security of the manslayer, least the presence of such a person, and his conversation among the kindred of the deceased, might occasion reproach and bloodshed. Unto the death of the High-priest—To shew that the death of Christ, (the true High-Priest whom the others represented) is the only means whereby sins are pardoned, and sinners are set at liberty.

V. 26, 27. If the slayer shall come without his city of refuge, and the revenger of blood find him, and kill the slayer, he shall not be guilty of blood—Not liable to punishment from men, though not free from guilt before God, as appears from Deut. xix. 10. This God ordained to oblige the man-slayer to abide in his city of refuge, verse xxxii. And they that have fled for refuge from the wrath of God against their sins to the only Mediator, have remained close by his bleeding side, in sobriety, watchfulness, prayer, and self-denial, lest satan, the accuser and the tempter, should find them where no duty required them to be, and there betray them into the crucifying afresh the Son of God, and put him in whom they had believed to open shame in the presence of God, where he was appearing in their behalf.

V. 30. One

Before Christ 1451.

30 Whoso killeth any person, the murderer shall be put to death by the [m] mouth of witnesses: but one witness shall not testify against any person, to cause him to die.

31 Moreover, ye shall take no satisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is § guilty of death: but he shall be surely put to death.

32 And ye shall take no satisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he should come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the priest.

33 So ye shall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood [n] it defileth the land: and ‖ the land cannot be cleansed of the blood that is shed therein, but by the blood of him that shed it.

34 Defile not therefore the land which ye shall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for I the Lord dwell among the children of Israel.

m Deut. 17. 6. and 19. 15. Matt. 18. 16. 2 Cor. 13. 1. Heb. 10. 28.

§ Heb. guilty to die.

n Mic. 4. 11.

‖ Heb. there can be no expiation for the land.

CHAP. XXXVI.

AND the chief fathers of the families of the [a] children of Gilead, the son of Machair, the son of Manasseh, of the families of the sons of Joseph, came near, and spake before Moses, and before the princes the chief fathers of the children of Israel:

a Chap. 26. 29.

2 And they said, [b] The Lord commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Israel: and [c] my lord was commanded by the Lord to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother, unto his daughters.

Before Christ 1451.

b Chap. 26. 55. and 27. 1. and 33. 54. Josh. 17. 3.

c Chap. 27. 1, 7. Josh. 17. 3, 4.

3 And if they be married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel; then shall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and shall be put to the inheritance of the tribe * whereunto they are received: so shall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

* Heb. unto whom they shall be.

4 And when [d] the jubilee of the children of Israel shall be, then shall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: so shall their inheritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

d Lev. 10.

5 And Moses commanded the children of Israel, according to the word of the Lord, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph hath said well.

6 This is the thing which the Lord doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, Let them † marry to whom they † Heb. be wives.

V. 30. One witness shall not cause him to die—No judge shall condemn any man to death upon a single testimony.

V. 31. Ye shall take no satisfaction for the life of a murderer—No intercession, nor ransom shall be accepted to save his life or procure him a pardon.

V. 32. Ye shall take no satisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, until the death of the priest—Whereby God would signify the absolute and indispensable necessity of Christ's death, to expiate sin, and to redeem the sinner; there being salvation in no other: none receiving pardon from God but for the sake of his Son, Christ Jesus. No man can either redeem his own soul or the soul of another. Nothing can be offered to God from men, which God hath not already given. No atonement for sin has sufficient merit with God to obtain his forgiveness for any sin, but the death of his Son. No satisfaction is taken for the guilty, but that made to the justice of God by the God-man. Reader, are you in your heart regarding the death of the Son of God in the person of Christ Jesus, as the sole cause of your pardon and acceptance with God? On what foundation are you building your hopes of a blessed immortality? God does not dispense with but requires repentance, forsaking of sin, and that we should bring forth fruit unto God; but every good gift cometh down from heaven, through the Mediator between God and men; and other foundation for the favour of God here, or for ever, can no man lay than that which God himself hath laid in the Son of his love, Christ Jesus.

V. 33. The land cannot be cleansed of the blood that is shed therein, but by the blood of him that sheddeth it—If you shall spare the murderer or take any satisfaction for him, you involve your land and people in guilt, and will certainly bring down God's vengeance upon yourselves and them.

V. 34. Defile not therefore the land which ye shall inhabit—Be not cruel to your own land by granting protection, to murderers or allowing them to live with impunity. For I the Lord dwell among the children of Israel—I am personally present, and that not at certain seasons only, but I dwell, have my abiding-place with those to whom my oracles are committed; and when ye look upon my laws, remember that the judge of all the earth is the observer of the respect that is paid to what he has commanded: And ye that shall be called upon to see justice done, according to the laws that are made known to you, are acting in his presence, to whom all things, even the secrets of the heart, are plain and open; and on whose favour your own, and the safety and happiness of your country always depend.

CHAP. XXXVI.

V. 1. The chief fathers of the families—Who had the care and management of the public affairs of that tribe committed to them.

V. 3. Shall their inheritance be taken from the lot of our inheritance—For their inheritance will pass to their children, who will be of another tribe by their father's side.

V. 4. When the jubilee of the children of Israel shall be—Which God appointed principally for this end, to preserve the inheritances in the hands of the tribes and families to which they were first given.

V. 5. Moses commanded the children of Israel, according to the word of the Lord, saying, The sons of Joseph hath said well—Their plea is just and reasonable. God did not take particular care about every occurrence that happened or might happen, but left divers things to be found out by humane prudence, which being his own gift, it was meet there should be opportunities left for the exercise of it, and God thought fit to approve and ratify the just determinations of men, by his own law or sanction, as in the case of Jethro, (Exod. xviii.) of Zelophehad's daughters, (Numb. xxvii.) and here of their brethren. But it is observable, that God allowed this only in civil affairs, but never in the matters of his worship, where he utterly forbids them to substitute any thing of their own, instead of what he had appointed; and even in this

Before Christ 1451. they think beſt; only to the family of the tribe of their father ſhall they marry:

7 So ſhall not the inheritance of the children of Iſrael remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Iſrael ſhall ‡ keep himſelf to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

‡ Heb. cleave to the, &c.

f 1 Chron. 23. 22.

8 And f every daughter that poſſeſſeth an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Iſrael, ſhall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Iſrael may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers.

9 Neither ſhall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to his own inheritance.

10 Even as the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo did the daughters of Zelophehad.

Before Christ 1451.

11 g For Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brothers ſons.

g Chap. 27. 1.

12 And they were married § into the families of the ſons of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father.

§ Heb. to ſome that were of the families.

13 Theſe are the commandments and the judgments which the Lord commanded by the hand of Moſes unto the children of Iſrael in the plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho.

this it appears, that Moſes did not determine what ſhould be done from his own judgment, but according to the word of the Lord.

V. 8. Every daughter that poſſeſſeth an inheritance, ſhall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father—By which cauſe, it ſeems this law was not general to forbid every woman to marry into another tribe, but reſtrained to heireſſes, or ſuch as were likely to be ſo. The principal reaſon was to preſerve tribes and families unmixed, that the tribe and family out of which the Meſſiah was to come, and by which he ſhould be known, might be evident and unqueſtionable.

V. 11. The daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brothers ſons—It is uncertain whether brothers or ſons be taken ſtrictly and properly, or more large, as thoſe words are often uſed in Scripture.

DEUTERONOMY.

MOSES, in the two laſt months of his life, rehearſes what God had done for the Iſraelites; and gives a ſhort repetition of many of the laws which God had delivered to them, from whence this book is called DEUTERONOMY: It is divided into thirty-four Chapters.

CHAP. I. Containing Moſes's ſpeech in the end of the fortieth year, briefly rehearſing the ſtory of God's promiſe, of giving them officers, of ſending the ſpies to ſearch the land, of God's anger for their incredulity, and diſobedience.—CHAP. II. The ſtory is continued, that they were not to meddle with the Edomites, nor with the Moabites, nor with the Ammonites. But Sihon, the Ammorite, was ſubdued by them.—CHAP. III. The ſtory of the conqueſt of Og, king of Baſhan. The bigneſs of his bed. The diſtribution of thoſe lands to the two tribes and an half. Moſes's prayer to enter into the land: he is permitted to ſee it.—CHAP. IV. An exhortation to obedience. Moſes appointeth the three cities of refuge on this ſide Jordan.—CHAP. V. The covenant in Horeb. The ten commandments. At the people's requeſt Moſes receiveth the law from God.—CHAP. VI. The end of the law is obedience: and exhortation thereto.—CHAP. VII. All communion with the nations is forbidden, for fear of idolatry, for the holineſs of the people, for the nature of God in his mercy and juſtice, for the aſſuredneſs of victory which God will give over them.—CHAP. VIII. An exhortation to obedience in regard of God's dealings with them.—CHAP. IX. Moſes diſſuadeth them from the opinion of their own righteouſneſs, by rehearſing their ſeveral rebellions.—CHAP. X. God's mercy in reſtoring the two tables, in continuing the prieſthood, in ſeparating the tribe of Levi, in hearkening unto Moſes's ſuit for the people. An exhortation unto obedience.—CHAP. XI. An exhortation to obedience, by their own experience of God's great works, by promiſe of God's great bleſſings, and by threatenings. A careful ſtudy is required in God's word. The bleſſing and curſe is ſet before them.—CHAP. XII. Monuments of idolatry are to be deſtroyed. The place of God's ſervice is to be kept. Blood is forbidden. Holy things muſt be eaten in the holy place. The Levite is not to be forſaken. Idolatry is not to be inquired after.—CHAP. XIII.

Enticers to idolatry, how near ſoever unto thee, are to be ſtoned to death. Idolatrous cities are not to be ſpared.—CHAP. XIV. God's children are not to diſfigure themſelves in mourning. What may, and what may not be eaten, of beaſts, of fiſhes, of fowls. That which dieth of itſelf may not be eaten. Tithes of divine ſervice. Tithes and firſtlings of rejoicing before the Lord. The third year's tithe of alms and charity.—CHAP. XV. The ſeventh year a year of releaſe for the poor. It muſt be no let of lending or giving. An Hebrew ſervant, except he will not depart, muſt in the ſeventh year go forth free and well furniſhed. All firſtlings, males of the cattle, are to be ſanctified unto the Lord.—CHAP. XVI. The feaſt of the paſſover, of weeks, of tabernacles. Every male muſt offer, as he is able, at theſe three feaſts Of judges and juſtice. Groves and images are forbidden. —CHAP. XVII. The things ſacrificed muſt be ſound. Idolaters muſt be ſlain. Hard controverſies are to be determined by the prieſts and judges. The contemner of that determination muſt die. The election, and duty of a king.—CHAP. XVIII. The Lord is the prieſts and Levites portion. The abominations of the nations are to be avoided. Chriſt the prophet is to be heard. The preſumptuous prophet is to die.—CHAP. XIX. The cities of refuge. The privilege thereof for the man-ſlayer. The land-mark is not to be removed. Two witneſſes at the leaſt. The puniſhment of a falſe witneſs.—CHAP. XX. The prieſt's exhortation to encourage the people to battle. The officers proclamation who are to be diſmiſſed from the war. How to uſe the cities that accept or refuſe the proclamation of peace. What cities muſt be devoted. Trees for man's meat muſt not be deſtroyed in the ſiege.—CHAP. XXI. The expiation of an uncertain murder. The uſage of a captive taken to wife. The firſt-born is not to be diſinherited upon private affection. A ſtubborn ſon is to be ſtoned to death. The malefactor muſt not hang all night on a tree.—CHAP. XXII. Of humanity towards brethren. The ſex is to be diſtinguiſhed by apparel. The dam is not to be taken with her young ones. The houſe muſt have battlements. Confuſion is to be avoided. Fringes upon the veſture. The puniſhment of him that ſlandereth his wife. Of adultery, of rape, and of fornication. Inceſt. —CHAP. XXIII. Who may or may not enter into the congregation. Uncleanneſs to be avoided in the hoſt. Of the fugitive ſervant. Of filthineſs. Of abominable ſacrifices. Of uſury. Of vows. Of treſpaſſes.—CHAP. XXIV. Of divorce. A new married man goeth not to war. Of pledges. Of man-ſtealers. Of leproſy. The hire is to be given. Of juſtice. Of charity. —CHAP. XXV. Stripes muſt not exceed forty. The ox is not to be muzzled. Of raiſing ſeed unto a brother. Of the immodeſt woman. Of unjuſt weights. The memory of Amalek is to be blotted out.—CHAP. XXVI. The confeſſion of him that offereth the baſket of firſt-fruits. The prayer of him that giveth his third year's tithes. The covenant between God and the people.— CHAP. XXVII. The people are commanded to write the law upon ſtones; and to build an altar of whole ſtones. The tribes divided on Gerizzim and Ebal. The curſes pronounced on mount Ebal.—CHAP. XXVIII. The bleſſings for obedience. The curſes for diſobedience.—CHAP. XXIX. Moſes exhorteth them to obedience, by the memory of the works they had ſeen. All are preſented before the Lord to enter into his covenant. The great wrath on him that flattereth himſelf in his wickedneſs. Secret things belong unto God.—CHAP. XXX. Great mercies promiſed unto the repentant. The commandment is manifeſt. Life and death are ſet before them—CHAP. XXXI. Moſes encourageth the people: he encourageth Joſhua: he delivereth the law unto the prieſts, to read it in the ſeventh year to the people. God giveth a charge to Joſhua, and a ſong to teſtify againſt the people. Moſes delivereth the book of the law to the Levites to keep: he maketh a proteſtation to the elders.—CHAP. XXXII. Moſes's ſong, which ſetteth forth God's mercy and vengeance: he exorteth them to ſet their hearts upon it. God ſendeth him up to mount Nebo, to ſee the land and die.—CHAP. XXXIII. The majeſty of God. The bleſſings of the twelve tribes. The excellency of Iſrael.—CHAP. XXXIV. Moſes from mount Nebo vieweth the land: he dieth there: his burial: his age. Thirty days mourning for him. Joſhua ſucceedeth him. The praiſe of Moſes.

Before Chriſt 1451.

CHAP. I.

THESE be the words which Moſes ſpake unto all Iſrael, [a] on this ſide Jordan in the wilderneſs, in the plain over againſt the [*] Red ſea, between Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Dizahab.

2 (There are eleven days journey from Horeb by the way of mount Seir, [b] unto Kadeſh-barnea) a Joſh. 9. 1, 10. and 22. 4. 7.

* Or, Zuph. b Num. 13. 26.

CHAP. I.

V. 1. Theſe be the words which Moſes ſpake—Theſe are the laws, counſels, and admonitions, delivered by Moſes from God to Iſrael. Unto all Iſrael—By the heads or elders of the ſeveral tribes, or others, who were to communicate theſe diſcourſes to all the people in ſeveral aſſemblies. In the plain—In the plain of Moab. Between Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Dizahab—Theſe places ſeem to be the bounds of the plain of Moab, where Moſes now was.

V. 2. There are eleven days journey—This is added to ſhew that the reaſon why the Iſraelites, in ſo many years, were advanced no further from Horeb than to theſe plains, was not the great diſtance of the places or length of the way, which was but a journey of eleven days at moſt, but becauſe of their rebellions, as is mentioned before, and repeated in this book. And long may perſons be under all the advantages which the cleareſt light of God's revealed will can afford them, and yet after many years be little advanced in thoſe attainments which render the mind happy in this life, or fits it for happineſs in that which is to come. Iſrael's errors are recorded that they may be avoided; and that inſtead of their murmurs under the diſpenſations of the providence of God, and their deſire of returning to the country from which they had ſet out, and their unbelief as to the promiſes of God, the cauſes of their ſlow progreſs, we may learn a thankful ſubmiſſion to the will of God, and a conſtant looking for, and expectation of thoſe bleſſings of his grace which he has promiſed to all his true worſhippers, as Canaan was promiſed to the people of Iſrael. From Horeb—Or Sinai, the place where the law was given, which is promiſcuouſly called by both theſe names. By the way of mount Sier—Or mount Edom, the mountainous country of Sier, which was firſt poſſeſſed by the Horims, and afterwards by the Edomites. Unto Kadeſh-barnea—Which was not far from the borders of Canaan.

V. 3. It came to paſs in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month—Which was but a little before his death.

Before Chriſt 1451.

3 And it came to paſs [c] in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the firſt day of the month, that Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, according unto all that the Lord had given him in commandment unto them;

c Num. 33. 38.

4 [d] After he had ſlain Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt in Heſhbon, and Og the king of Baſhan, which dwelt at Aſtaroth [e] in Edrei:

d Num. 21. 24, 33.

5 On e Num. 21. 33. Joſh. 13. 12.

V. 6. Ye

Before Christ 1451.

5 On this side Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moses to declare this law, saying, 1490.

6 The Lord our God spake unto us [f] in Horeb, saying, Ye have dwelt long [g] enough in this mount:

7 Turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto † all the places nigh thereunto in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the south, and by the sea-side, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river the river Euphrates.

8 Behold, I have ‡ set the land before you: go in and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers, [h] Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give unto them, and to their seed after them.

9 ¶ And [i] I spake unto you at that time, saying, I am not able to bear you myself alone:

10 The Lord your God hath multiplied you, and behold, [k] you are this day as the stars of heaven for multitude.

11 ([l] The Lord God of your fathers make you a thousand times so many more as ye are, and bless you [m] as he hath promised you)

12 How can I myself alone bear your incumbrance, and your burden, and your strife?

13 § Take ye wise men and understanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you.

14 And ye answered me, and said, The thing which thou hast spoken, is good for us to do.

15 So I took the chief of your tribes, wise men, and known, [n] and * made them heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes.

16 And I charged your judges at that time, saying, Hear the causes between your brethren, and [o] judge righteously between every man and his [p] brother, and the stranger that is with him.

17 [q] Ye shall not * respect persons in judgment, but you shall here the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid of the face of man, for [r] the judgment is God's: and the cause that is too hard for you, bring it unto me, and I will hear it.

18 And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye should do.

19 ¶ And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible wilderness, which you saw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the Lord our God commanded us; and [s] we came to Kadesh-barnea.

20 And I said unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites, which the Lord our God doth give unto us.

21 Behold, the Lord thy God hath set the land before thee: go up and possess it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath said unto thee; [t] fear not, neither be discouraged.

22 ¶ And ye came near unto me every one

f Exod. 3. 1.
g See Exod. 19. 1. Num. 10. 11.
† Heb. all his neighbours.
‡ Heb. given.
h Gen. 12. 7. and 15. 18. and 17. 7, 8. and 26. 4. and 28. 13.
i Exod. 18. 18. Num. 11. 24.
k Gen. 15. 5.
l 2 Sam. 24. 3.
m Gen. 15. 5. and 22. 17. and 26. 4. Exod. 32. 13.
§ Heb. Give.
n Exod. 18. 21.
* Heb. gave.
o John 7. 24.
p Lev. 24. 22.
q Lev. 19. 15. Chap. 16. 19. 1 Sam. 16. 7. Prov. 24. 23. James 2. 1.
* Heb. acknowledge faces.
r 2 Chro. 19. 6.
s Num. 13. 26.
t Josh. 1. 9.

V. 6. Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount—Of Horeb, where they continued about a year.

V. 7. Take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites—To the mountainous country where the Amorites dwelt, which is opposed to the plain here following, where others of them dwelt. And this is first mentioned, because it was in the borders of the land.

V. 8. I have set the land before you—Before your faces; it is open to your view, and to your possession; there is no impediment in the way. And thus is the kingdom of God set before all that will enter therein.

V. 9. I spake unto you at that time—About that time; a little before their coming to Horeb.

V. 12. How can I myself alone bear your burden—The trouble of ruling and managing so perverse a people. And your strife—Your quarrellings with God, and your contentions amongst yourselves, for the determination whereof the Elders were appointed.

V. 13. Take ye wise men, and understanding—Persons of knowledge, wisdom, and experience. And known—Men had in reputation, for ability and integrity; for to such they would more readily submit.

V. 15. So I took the chief—Not in authority, but in endowments for government. And officers—Inferior officers, that were to attend upon the superior magistrates, and to execute their decrees.

V. 16. I charged your judges, saying, Hear the causes, judge righteously between every man and his brother, and the stranger that is with him—That converseth or dealeth with him. To such God would have justice equally administered, for the honour of religion, and for the interest which every man hath in matters of common right.

V. 17. Ye shall not respect persons—Not give sentence according to the outward qualities of the person, as he is poor or rich, your friend or enemy, but purely according to the merits of the cause. But you shall hear the small—Persons of the meanest rank. The judgment is God's—It is passed in the name of God, and by commission from him, by you as representing his person, and doing his work, who therefore will own and defend you therein against all your enemies, and to whom you must give an exact account. And they that labour to advance truth or justice amongst men, with a view to please God, are thus considered as being in the immediate service of God.

V. 18. I commanded you all the things which ye should do—I delivered unto you, and especially unto your judges, all the laws, statutes, and judgments revealed unto me by the Lord in Horeb.

V. 21. Go up, and possess—What the Lord thy God hath promised unto thee; and in using the means which he requires you to use on your part, fear not any danger, neither be discouraged at any difficulties.

V. 23. The saying pleased me well—For there seemed to be some prudence and good policy in it; but Moses could not see into Before Christ 1490. one of you, and said, We will send men before us, and they shall search us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we must go up, and into what cities we shall come.

23 And the saying pleased me well: and u Num. 13. 3. u I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe.

x Num. 13. 22, 23, 24. 24 And x they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley of Eshcol, and searched it out.

25 And they took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down unto us, y Num. 13. 27. and brought us word again, and said, y It is a good land which the Lord our God doth give us.

z Num. 14. 1. 26 z Notwithstanding, ye would not go up, but rebelled against the commandment of the Lord your God.

27 And ye murmured in your tents, and said, Because the Lord hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us.

28 Whither shall we go up? our brethren have † discouraged our heart, saying, a The people is greater and taller than we, b the cities are great and walled up to heaven, and moreover we have seen the sons of the c Anakims there.

Before Christ 1490.

† Heb melted.
a Num. 13. 29, 32, 33.
b Chap. 9. 1.
c Num. 13. 28.

29 Then I said unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them.

30 d The Lord your God which goeth before you, he shall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes:

d Exod. 14. 14, 25. Neh. 4. 20.

31 And in the wilderness, where thou hast seen how that the Lord thy God e bare thee as a man doth bear his son, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place.

e Chap. 32. 11, 12. Isai. 40. 3. and 63. 9. Hos. 11. 3. See Acts 13. 18.

32 Yet in this thing ye did not believe the Lord your God, 33 f Who went in the way before you to search you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night to shew you by what way ye should go, and in a cloud by day.

f Exod. 13. 21. g Num. 10. 33. Ezek. 20. 6.

34 And the Lord heard the voice of your words, and was wroth, h and sware, saying,

h Chap. 2. 14, 15.

35 Surely

into their hearts, nor from what root this desire grew; but God saw it, and therefore in just judgment complied with their desire, and permitted them to do so for their trial and exercise.

V. 24. The valley of Eschol—Of grapes, so called from the goodly cluster of grapes which they brought from thence.

V. 25. They took of the fruit—Grapes, pomegranates, and figs. And brought us word again, and said, It is a good land—Which acknowledgment should have prevailed with you to have rejoiced and gone forward, because the Lord, who had given you this land, was unquestionably able to settle you in it in spight of all opposition.

V. 27. Ye murmured in your tents, and said, Because the Lord hated us—And therefore designed to destroy us. And thus under the trials of faith, which to them that endure is more precious than gold, they that give way to unbelief, and to the suggestions of satan, turn the most gracious designs of God into complaints against him.

V. 28. Our brethren have discouraged our heart—They that discourage the Israel of God in their expectations of what God has promised, are doing that which is contrary to God, who is ever saying to all that are seeking his favour and living in his ways—Fear not, neither be discouraged. The people is greater and taller than we—In number, strength, and valour. The cities are great, and walled up to heaven—To a great height. A common hyperbole.

V. 30. The Lord your God goeth before you—The bestowing what God hath promised is the Lord's work; and though all must say, Of myself I can do nothing, yet the Lord in whom I put my trust shall fight for me, and I can do all that the Lord my God requires of me, through Christ Jesus the Lord strengthening me. He shall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes—Where you were weak, dispirited, divided, and inexperienced, and in a great measure unarmed, and able to do nothing against your numerous, and united enemies, but to stand still and see the salvation of God. And therefore now your distrust is highly unreasonable, when you have been hardened and fitted for military service by your travels, disciplined and experienced in martial affairs, encouraged by frequent and glorious miracles for forty years together. And let them that are tempted to distrust, discouraged by their brethren, and ready to give up all their hopes of ever obtaining that rest of an inward Canaan, look back on the past loving-kindness of the Lord, and see how faithfully he has given grace to know his will, and strength of mind to do and suffer it, and how his providence has opened a way through temptations, discouragements and difficulties, which they themselves and others have been in and delivered from, and then call to mind that the Lord's hand is not shortened.

V. 31. In the wilderness thou hast seen how that the Lord thy God bare thee—Carried thee, as a father carries his weak and tender child in his arms, or as upon eagle's wings, through difficulties and dangers, gently leading you according as you were able to go, and sustaining you by his power and goodness.

V. 32. Yet in this thing—In this matter which God commanded and encouraged you to do, in going in confidently to possess the land. Or, in this word, whereby God promised to fight for you, and assured you of good success. Ye did not believe the Lord your God—After all you saw and experienced of his care and goodness, and of his power to perform whatever he had promised.

V. 33. Who went in the way before you—And is there in the human mind such a depth of unbelief, as not to trust the Father of mercies and God of all consolation, when they even see him going before them day and night? Justly did he see himself who said, Lord, help my unbelief. So sunk in infidelity is the mind of man by nature, that, without the grace of God, we cannot believe his faithfulness, though our present and endless peace depend upon it. To feel our weakness and inability to raise even a good thought to heaven of ourselves, is to feel ourselves in that lost state which God delights to save from; because such and such only will stay themselves upon their God, and be truly blessed in themselves, and give all the praise to him.

V. 34. The Lord heard the voice of your words—Your murmurings, your unthankful, impatient, distrustful and rebellious speeches. As he hears every conversation, every word that is uttered by the whole human race: And they that would not be covered with shame and confusion in that day, when, for every idle word, men must give account, (Matth. xii. 36.) must watch unto prayer, that in every conversation nothing unnecessary, nothing contrary to

Before Christ 1451.

35 [i] Surely there ſhall not one of theſe men of this evil generation ſee that good land, which I ſware to give unto your fathers;

36 [k] Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, he ſhall ſee it, and to him will I give the land that he hath trodden upon, and to his children, becauſe [j] he hath * wholly followed the Lord.

37 [m] Alſo the Lord was angry with me for your ſakes, ſaying, Thou alſo ſhalt not go in thither.

38 But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, which ſtandeth before thee, he ſhall go in thither. Encourage him: for he ſhall cauſe Iſrael to inherit it.

39 [n] Moreover, your little ones, which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, and your children which in that day [o] had no knowledge between good and evil, they ſhall go in thither, and unto them will I give it, and they ſhall poſſeſs it.

40 [p] But as for you, turn ye, and take your journey into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red ſea.

41 Then ye anſwered and ſaid unto me, [q] We have ſinned againſt the Lord, we will go up and fight, according to all that the Lord our God commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye were ready to go up into the hill.

42 And the Lord ſaid unto me, Say unto them, [r] Go not up, neither fight, for I am not among you; leſt ye be ſmitten before your enemies.

43 So I ſpake unto you, and ye would not hear, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the Lord, and † went preſumptuouſly up into the hill.

44 [s] And the Amorites which dwelt in that mountain, came out againſt you, and chaſed you [t] as bees do, and deſtroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah.

45 And ye returned and wept before the Lord; but the Lord would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you.

46 [u] So ye abode in Kadeſh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there.

CHAP. II.

THEN we turned, and took our journey into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red ſea, [a] as the Lord ſpake unto me: and we compaſſed mount Seir many days.

2 And the Lord ſpake unto me, ſaying,

3 Ye have compaſſed this mountain [b] long enough: turn you northward.

4 And command thou the people, ſaying, [c] Ye are to paſs through the coaſt of your brethren the children of Eſau, which dwell in i Num. 14.22, 23. Pſal. 95. 11.

1491.

k Joſh. 14. 9.

j Num. 14 24. * Heb. fulfilled to go after.

m Num. 20. 12. and 27.14. Chap. 3. 26. and 4. 21. and 34. 4.

n Num.14.31.

o Iſai.7.15,16. Rom. 9. 11.

p Num.14.25.

q Num. 14.40.

r Num.14.42.

† Heb. you were preſumptuous, and went up

s Num. 14.45.

t Pſal.113.12.

u Num.13.25.

a Num.14.25. Chap. 1. 40.

b See Verſe 7, 14.

c Num.20.14.

to ſeriouſneſs, ſincerity, or purity is ſpoken. So far as we converſe without prayer, that we may receive good, or be the means of doing it, ſo far we may truly be ſaid to live for no end ſuitable to our being and the deſigns of God: And to think that there are either times or places in which we may ſpeak without any deſign to pleaſe God, is to forget that he in all things requires us to live to his glory. To remember that God hears all our words, is no leſs neceſſary in one place than in another. We are no leſs accountable for our words to our children, ſervants, in our families and employments at home or abroad, than we are for what we ſay in our ſolemn approaches to God in worſhip. Do we think we are required to ſpeak from reflection in the preſence of our ſuperiors, and utter nothing trifling or unneceſſary; and is it not to forget that God is always preſent, when we think we may ſpeak, at any time, without that caution which we ſhould be aſhamed not to uſe in the hearing of grave and pious perſons.

V. 35, 36. Surely there ſhall not one of theſe men ſee that good land ſave Caleb—Under whom Joſhua is comprehended, though not here expreſſed, becauſe he was not now to be one of the people, but to be ſet over them as chief governor. To him will I give the land—That particular part of the land.

V. 37. The Lord was angry with me for your ſakes—Upon occaſion of your wickedneſs and perverſeneſs, by which you provoked me to ſpeak unadviſedly, (Pſal. cvi. 32, 33.)

V. 38. Joſhua the ſon of Nun, which ſtandeth before thee—Who is now thy miniſter and ſervant, for ſuch are often deſcribed by this phraſe. Encourage him—Strengthen his hands, for he ſhall cauſe Iſrael to inherit the land I have promiſed by going before them, faithfully truſting in the promiſes made unto you and to your fathers.

V. 39. Your little ones ſhall go, and unto them will I give—The land, that all ages to come may know how much you were miſled by your evil reaſoning, and by your unbelief, when you ſpake of the promiſes of God as if he had been a variable being, or gave encouragement for men to expect greater things from him than he ever intended, or was able to beſtow.

V. 42. The Lord ſaid unto me, ſay unto them, Go not up, leſt ye be ſmitten before your enemies—Becauſe ye are going in your own ſpirit which I cannot bleſs, any further than by giving you this notice, that ye may not bring upon yourſelves the evil conſequences of going to do even what I have commanded, in a temper contrary to what I require in the heart as well as in the action.

V. 44. The Amorites which dwelt in that mountain, came out againſt you, and chaſed you as bees do—As bees, which being provoked, come out of their hives in great numbers, and with great fury purſue and ſting their adverſary and diſturber.—They being eaſily overcome who go not according to the will of the Lord, and in an humble dependence on the aid which he alone can give.

V. 45. Ye returned, and wept before the Lord, but the Lord would not hearken to, nor give ear unto you—And your very ſorrow not proceeding from a penitent mind, or from a concern that God was diſpleaſed with you, but that you yourſelves could not do as you deſired, God would not liſten to your cry, as he always doth to them who cry unto him, or weep from godly ſorrow.

V. 46. So ye abode in Kadeſh many days—And were not now permitted to make any further progreſs towards Canaan.

CHAP. II.

V. 2, 3. The Lord ſpake unto me, ſaying, Turn you northward—Towards the land of the Amorites and Canaanites.

V. 4. Your brethren, the children of Eſau, which dwell in Seir—Theſe words reſtrain the prohibition to theſe particular children of Eſau, for there were another branch of Eſau's children, which Before Christ 1451. in Seir, and they shall be afraid of you: take ye good heed unto yourselves therefore.

5 Meddle not with them; for I will not give you of their land, * no not so much as a * Heb. even to the treading of the sole of the foot. foot-breadth, [d] because I have given mount Seir unto Esau for a possession. d Gen. 36. 8. Josh. 24. 4.

6 Ye shall buy meat of them for money, that ye may eat; and ye shall also buy water of them for money, that ye may drink.

7 For the Lord thy God hath blessed thee in all the works of thy hand: he knoweth thy walking through this great wilderness: [e] these forty years the Lord thy God hath been with thee, thou hast lacked nothing. e Chap. 8. 2.

8 [f] And when we passed by from our brethren the children of Esau, which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elath, and from Ezion-gaber, we turned and passed by the way of the wilderness of Moab. f Judg. 11. 18.

9 And the Lord said unto me, † Distress not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battle: for I will not give thee of their land for a possession, because I have given [g] Ar unto [h] the children of Lot for a possession. † Or, Use no hostility against Moab. g Num. 21. 28. h Gen. 19. 37.

10 [i] The Emims dwelt therein in times past, a people great, and many, and tall as [k] the Anakims; i Gen. 14. 5. k Num. 13. 22, 34.

11 Which also were accounted giants, as the Anakims, but the Moabites call them Emims.

12 [l] The Horims also dwelt in Seir before time, but the children of Esau ‡ succeeded them when they had destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their § stead, as Israel did unto the land of his possession, which the Lord gave unto them. l Gen. 14. 6. and 36. 20. ‡ Heb. inherited them. § Or, room.

13 Now rise up, said I, and get you over [m] the ‖ brook Zered: and we went over the brook Zered. Before Christ 1451. m Num. 21. 12. ‖ Or, valley.

14 And the space in which we came [n] from Kadesh-barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were wasted out from among the host, [o] as the Lord sware unto them. n Num. 13. 26. o Chap. 1. 34, 35.

15 For indeed the hand of the Lord was against them, to destroy them from among the host, until they were consumed.

16 ¶ So it came to pass, when all the men of war were consumed and dead from among the people,

17 That the Lord spake unto me, saying,

18 Thou art to pass over through Ar, the coast of Moab, this day.

19 And when thou comest nigh over against the children of Ammon, distress them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any possession, because I have given it unto [p] the children of Lot for a possession. p Gen. 19. 38.

20 (That also was accounted a land of giants, giants dwelt therein in old time, and the Ammonites call them [q] Zamzummims, q Gen. 14. 5. Zuzims.

21 A people great, and many, and tall as the Anakims; but the Lord destroyed them before them, and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead:

22 As he did to the children of Esau [r] which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed [s] the Horims from before them, and they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead, even unto this day: r Gen. 32. 3. s Gen. 14. 6. and 36. 20, 30.

23 And

were to be destroyed, even the Amalekites, who were Esau's posterity, (Gen. xxxvi. 12.) They shall be afraid of you—But, I charge you take no advantage of their fears.

V. 5. Meddle not with them—Thus does God care for them that are not called Israel.

V. 6. Ye shall buy meat of them for money—For though the manna did yet rain upon them, they were not forbidden to buy other meats when they had opportunity, but only were forbidden greedily to hunger after them when they could not obtain them. Ye shall also buy water of them—For water in those parts was scarce and valuable. And when we do not consider it of great value to us, and adore the goodness of God in this highly necessary accommodation of life, we are guilty of the highest ingratitude which there is in lightly esteeming the mercies of God, because his goodness makes them to abound.

V. 7. The Lord thy God hath blessed thee—By God's blessing thou art able to buy thy conveniences, and therefore thy theft and rapine will be inexcusable, because without any pretence of necessity. He knoweth—He hath known, observed, with care and kindness, which that word often notes. Which experience of God's singular goodness to thee, should make thee trust him still, and not use any indirect and unjust practices, to procure what thou wantest or desirest.

V. 9. I have given Ar—The chief city of the Moabites, here put for the whole country which depended upon it. The children of Lot—So called, to signify that this preservation was not for their sakes, for they were a wicked people, but for Lot's sake, whose memory God yet honours.

V. 10. The Emims dwelt therein—Men terrible for stature and strength.

V. 12. Which the Lord gave unto them—The past is here put for the future, will give, after the manner of the prophets.

V. 14, 15. We were thirty and eight years, until all the men of war were wasted, for indeed the hand of the Lord was against them—For they either disbelieved his promises, or that they would obtain, by their own strength, what God had promised.

V. 16, 17, 18. When all the men of war were consumed, the Lord spake unto me, saying, Thou art to pass over through the coast of Moab—To pass by the border of Moab. Now Israel may advance, when they are removed, to shew that the church of God could not obtain the blessings of God by their own power.

V. 20. The Ammonites call them Zamzummims—Which signifies men most wicked and abominable, or most presumptuous, or crafty.

V. 21. The Lord destroyed them before them—Took them that were the less wicked to destroy them that were more so, that the heathen

Before Christ 1451.

23 And [t] the Avims which dwelt in Hazerim, even unto [u] Azzah, [x] the Caphtorims which came forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.)

24 ¶ Rise ye up, take your journey, and [y] pass over the river Arnon: behold, I have given into thy hand Sihon the Amorite king of Heshbon, and his land: * begin to possess it, and contend with him in battle.

25 [o] This day will I begin to put the dread of thee, and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who shall hear report of thee, and shall tremble, and be in anguish because of thee.

26 ¶ And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth, unto Sihon king of Heshbon, [a] with words of peace, saying, 27 [b] Let me pass through thy land: I will go along by the high-way, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left.

28 Thou shalt sell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: only I will pass through on my feet:

29 ([c] As the children of Esau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me) until I shall pass over Jordan, into the land which the Lord our God giveth us.

30 [d] But Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him: for [e] the Lord thy God [f] hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day.

31 And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have begun to give Sihon and his land before thee: begin to possess, that thou mayest inherit his land.

32 [g] Then Sihon came out against us, he and all his people, to fight at Jahaz.

33 And [h] the Lord our God, delivered him before us, and [i] we smote him, and his sons, and all his people.

34 And we took all his cities at that time, and [k] utterly destroyed † the men, and the women, and the little ones of every city, we left none to remain:

35 Only the cattle we took for a prey unto ourselves, and the spoil of the cities which we took.

36 [l] From Aroer, which is by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the river, even unto Gilead, there was not one city too strong for us: the Lord our God delivered all unto us.

37 Only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou camest not, nor unto any place of the river [m] Jabbok, nor unto the cities in the mountains, nor unto whatsoever the Lord our God forbad us.

CHAP. III.

THEN we turned, and went up the way to Bashan: and [a] Og the king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle [b] at Edrei.

2 And the Lord said unto me, Fear him not: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land into thy hand, and thou shalt do unto him as thou didst unto [c] Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heshbon.

3 So the Lord our God delivered into our hands [d] Og also the king of Bashan, and all his people: and we smote him until none was left to him remaining.

4 And

t Josh. 13. 3.
u Jer. 25. 20.
x Gen. 10. 14. Amos 9. 7.
y Numb. 21. 13, 14. Jud. 11. 21.
* Heb. begin, possess.
o Exod. 15. 14.
a Chap. 20. 10.
b Numb. 21. 21, 22. Judg. 11. 19. c See Chap. 23. 3, 4. Judg. 11. 17, 18.
d Numb. 21. 33.
e Josh. 11. 20.
f Exod. 4. 21.
g Numb. 21. 23.
h Chap. 7. 2. and 20. 16.
i Chap. 29. 7.
k Lev. 27. 28. Chap. 7. 2. 26.
† Heb. every city of men, and women, and little ones.
l Chap. 3. 12. and 4. 48. Josh. 13. 9.
m Gen. 32. 22. Chap. 3. 16.
a Numb. 21. 33, &c. Chap. 29. 7.
b Chap. 1. 4.
c Num. 21. 24.
d Num. 21. 33.

heathen might be taught to see that sin was the cause of every people's ruin.

V. 23. The Caphtorims—A people a-kin to the Philistines, (Gen. x. 14) and at last swallowed up in them. Which came out of Caphtor—Which is thought to be Cappadocia.

V. 25. This day will I begin to put the dread of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven—Which is an hyperbole, but explained by the following words, which restrain the sentence to those nations that heard of them.

V. 27. I will go along by the high way—In my direct road to Canaan, from which I will not turn aside into thy fields, or vineyards, or houses: Which things are not desired by those that are going directly forward in the way that leadeth to Canaan.

V. 28. I will pass through on my feet—With my company which are on foot; which is added, because if their army had consisted as much of horsemen as many other armies did, their passage through this land might have been more dangerous; but they were generally on foot.

V. 29. As the children of Esau did unto me—Sold us meat and drink.

V. 30. Sihon, king of Heshbon, would not let us pass by him—By his borders. The Lord made his heart obstinate—Unmoveable and inexorable to our desires—Withdrew the offers of his grace, which by the consent of his heart to wickedness he hath so often grieved and resisted, as to make God leave him to himself.

V. 32. Sihon came out against us—Men need only to be left to themselves, and without the grace of God, they will, as by a natural consequence, do that which shall produce their ruin.

V. 34. We utterly destroyed—Them, by God's command, these being a part of those people who were devoted by the Lord of Life and Death, to utter destruction for their abominable wickedness.

V. 36. The Lord our God delivered all unto us—And from the circumstances under which he did it, shewed that all the help that is done upon earth, the Lord doth it alone himself; and that none can prevail on whose side the Lord is not.

V. 37. Nor unto whatsoever the Lord our God forbad us—Concerning which the Lord gave us charge, that we should not meddle with them.

V. 4. The

Before Christ 1451.

4 And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, threescore cities, [e] all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

e 1 Kings 4. 13

5 All these cities were fenced with high walls, gates and bars, besides unwalled towns a great many.

6 And we utterly destroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king [f] of Heshbon, utterly destroying the men, women, and children of every city.

f Chap. 2. 24.

7 But all the cattle, and the spoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourselves.

8 And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites, the land that was on this side Jordan, from the river [o] Arnon unto mount Hermon:

o Num. 32. 33. Josh. 13. 8. &c.

9 (Which [g] Hermon the Sidonians call Sirion: and the Amorites call it [h] Shenir)

g Chap. 4. 48.
h 1 Chron. 5. 23.

10 [i] All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead, and [k] all Bashan, unto Salchah, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan:

i Chap. 4. 49.
k Josh. 12. 5. and 13. 11.

11 [l] For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of giants; behold, his bedstead was a bedstead of iron: is it not in [m] Rabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.

l Amos 2. 9.
m 2 Sam. 12. 26. Jer. 49. 2. Ezek. 21. 25.

12 And this land which we possessed at that time, [n] from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and [o] the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites.

n Chap. 2. 36.
o Num. 32. 33. Josh. 13. 8. &c.

13 And the rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half-tribe of Manasseh; all the region of Argob, with all Bashan, which was called the land of giants.

14 [p] Jair the son of Manasseh took all the country of Argob, [q] unto the coasts of Geshuri, and [r] Maachathi; and called them after his own name, Bashan-[s] havoth-jair, unto this day.

p 1 Chron. 2. 22.
q Josh. 13. 13.
r 2 Sam. 10. 6.
s Num. 32. 41.

15 [t] And I gave Gilead unto Machir.

Before Christ 1451.

16 And unto the Reubenites, [u] and unto the Gadites, I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon, half the valley, and the border, even unto the river Jabbok, [x] which is the border of the children of Ammon:

t Num. 32. 39.
u 2 Sam. 24. 5.
x Num. 21. 24. Josh. 12. 2.

17 The plain also, and Jordan, and the coasts thereof, from [y] Chinnereth [v] even unto the sea of the plain, [a] even the salt-sea, * under Ashdoth-pisgah eastward.

y Num. 34. 11.
v Chap. 4. 49. and 33. 23.
a Gen. 14. 3.
* Or, under the springs of Pisgah, or, the hill.

18 ¶ And I commanded you at that time, saying, The Lord your God hath given you this land to possess it: [b] ye shall pass over armed before your brethren the children of Israel, all that are † meet for the war.

b Num. 32. 20
† Heb. sons of power.

19 But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle (for I know that ye have much cattle) shall abide in your cities which I have given you;

20 Until the Lord have given rest unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they also possess the land which the Lord your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then shall ye [c] return every man unto his possession which I have given you.

c Josh. 22. 4.

21 ¶ And [d] I commanded Joshua at that time, saying, Thine eyes have seen all that the Lord your God hath done unto these two kings: so shall the Lord do unto all the kingdoms whither thou passest.

d Num. 27. 18

22 Ye shall not fear them: for the Lord your God he shall fight for you.

23 And [e] I besought the Lord at that time, saying, e See 2 Cor. 12. 8, 9.

24 O Lord God, thou hast begun to shew thy servant thy greatness, and thy mighty hand; for [f] what God is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might?

f Psa. 71. 19. & 86. 8. and 89, 6.

25 I pray thee, let me go over and see the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and Lebanon.

26 But

CHAP. III.

V. 4. The region of Argob—A province subject to Bashan.

V. 5. All these cities were fenced with high walls, gates, and bars—Which may encourage you in your attempt upon Canaan, notwithstanding the fenced cities which the spies told you of, and you must expect to find.

V. 8. The land that was on this side Jordan—So it was when Moses wrote this book; but afterwards, when Israel passed over Jordan, it was called the land beyond Jordan.

V. 10. All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead—Gilead is sometimes taken largely for all the Israelites' possessions beyond Jordan, and so it comprehends Bashan, but here more strictly, for that part of it which lies in and near mount Gilead, and so it is distinguished from Bashan and Argob.

V. 11. Only Og, king of Bashan, remained of the remnant of giants—The other giants of Bashan were destroyed before.

V. 15. I gave Gilead unto Machir—Unto the children of Machir, son of Manasseh, for Machir was now dead.

V. 18. I commanded you—The Reubenites and Gadites, mentioned verse 16. to whom he now turns his speech. Ye shall pass over armed before your brethren, the children of Israel, all that are meet for the war—In such number as your brethren shall judge necessary.

V. 20. Until the Lord have given rest—A peaceable and fixed possession.

V. 22. The Lord your God he shall fight for you—Thus did Moses encourage Joshua in the work which God had given him to do.

V. 25. I

Before Christ 1451.

26 But the Lord [g] was wroth with me for your sakes, and would not hear me: and the Lord said unto me, Let it suffice thee, speak no more unto me of this matter.

27 [h] Get thee up into the top of ‡ Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes westward, and northward, and southward, and eastward, and behold it with thine eyes: for thou shalt not go over this Jordan.

28 But [i] charge Joshua, and encourage him, and strengthen him: for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which thou shalt see.

29 So we abode in [k] the valley over against Beth-peor.

CHAP. IV.

NOW therefore hearken, O Israel, unto [a] the statutes, and unto the judgments which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers giveth you.

2 [b] Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall you diminish ought from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you.

Before Christ 1451.

3 Your eyes have seen what the Lord did because of [c] Baal-peor: for all the men that followed Baal-peor, the Lord thy God hath destroyed them from among you.

4 But ye that did cleave unto the Lord your God, are alive every one of you this day.

5 Behold, I have taught you statutes and judgments, even as the Lord my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it.

6 Keep therefore and do them, for this is [d] your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.

7 For [e] what nation is there so great, who hath [f] God so nigh unto them, as the Lord our God is in all things that we call upon him for?

8 And what nation is there so great, that hath statutes and judgments so righteous, as all this law which I set before you this day?

9 Only

g Num. 20. 12. and 27. 14. Chap. 1. 37. and 31. 2. and 32. 51, 52. & 34. 4. Psal. 106. 32.

h Num. 27. 12.

‡ Or, the hill.

i Num. 27. 18.

k Chap. 34. 6.

a Lev. 19. 37. and 20. 8. and 22. 31.

b Chap. 12. 32. Josh. 1. 7. Prov. 30. 6. Eccles. 12. 13. Rev. 22. 18, 19.

c Num. 25. 4. &c. Josh. 22. 17.

d Job 28. 28. Psal. 111. 10. Prov. 1. 7.

e 2 Sam. 7. 23.

f Psal. 46. 1. and 145. 18. and 148. 14. Isai. 55. 6.

V. 25. I pray thee let me go over—For he supposed God's threatening might be conditional and reversible, as many others were. Moses had seen much of the goodness of God his Saviour, but still he was desirous of seeing more of it. That goodly mountain—Or, that blessed mountain, which the Jews not improbably understand of that mountain on which the temple was to be built. And Lebanon—He prays that he may see in general the good land that is beyond Jordan, and then particularly the goodly mountains of it, and especially that famous mount of Lebanon, which was so celebrated for its tall and large cedars, and other trees, and excellent plants.

V. 26. The Lord was wroth with me for your sakes—By occasion of your sins, which provoked me to unadvised words. The Lord said unto me, Let it suffice thee—That this is my pleasure and unalterable resolution. Speak no more unto me of this matter—But raise thy views up to myself, who alone can satisfy the immortal desires of thy mind.

V. 27. Get thee up into the top of Pisgah, and lift up thine eyes—Towards the land of Canaan, and its several quarters.

V. 28. Charge Joshua—Give him commission, and authority, and a command to execute his trust and conduct the people. Encourage him, and strengthen him—With exhortations and promises, and assurances of my presence and help, and of good success.

V. 29. So we abode in the valley over against Beth-Peor—The house or temple of Peor, or of Baal-Peor.

CHAP. IV.

V. 1. Hearken, O Israel, unto the statutes—The laws which concerns the worship and service of God. And unto the judgments—The laws concerning your duties to men. These two comprehend both tables, and the whole law of God.

V. 2. Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you—By devising other doctrines, or ways of worship, than what I have taught or prescribed. For this were to accuse me of want of wisdom, or care, or faithfulness in not giving you sufficient instructions for my own service. Neither shall ye diminish ought from it—By rejecting or neglecting any thing which I have commanded, though it seem never so small; but take my word, as it is for your sole rule and guide in things temporal and eternal; ever reading it with prayer, for the assistance of my Spirit to give you a right understanding in all things.

V. 3. Your eyes have seen what the Lord did because of Baal-Peor; for all the men that followed—Him, they, because of their idolatry, lived not out half their days.

V. 4. Ye that did cleave unto the Lord your God, are alive every one of you this day—And are witnesses to all, both Jews and heathens, that to cleave unto God with full purpose of heart, has its reward in the life that now is, as well as that which is to come. These appeals to matters of fact are also intended for our benefit; that we may look about us and see if there is no distinction made between them that follow the desires of their hearts and live for pleasure, gain, or honour; and them that live humble, serious, godly lives. Reader, what is it that you see on looking back for twenty, thirty, or forty years; has no difference appeared to you either in the lives or death of them that feared God, and them that thought nothing sinful that was not disadvantageous to their interests?

V. 5, 6. I have taught you statutes and judgments, keep, and do them, for this is your wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the nations—For though the generality of the heathen world did, through prejudices, and for their own lusts and interests, condemn the laws of the Hebrews as foolish and absurd, yet it is certain the wisest heathens highly approved of them.

V. 7. What nation is there so great—As God has made the people of Israel. Who hath God so nigh unto them—By glorious miracles, by the pledges of his special presence, by the operations of his grace, and by his readiness to hear our prayers, and to give us those succours which we call upon him for, enabling us to perform whatsoever he hath commanded us.

V. 8. What nation is there that hath statutes and judgments so righteous—Whereby he implies that the true greatness of a nation doth not consist in pomp, or power, or largeness of empire, as commonly men think, but in the righteousness of its laws, and

Before Christ 1451.

9 Only take heed to thyſelf, and keep thy ſoul diligently, leſt thou forget the things which thine eyes have ſeen, and leſt they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but [g] teach them thy ſons, and thy ſons ſons:

10 Specially [h] the day that thou ſtoodeſt before the Lord thy God in Horeb, when the Lord ſaid unto me, Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they ſhall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children.

11 And ye came near and ſtood under the [i] mountain, and the [i] mountain burnt with fire unto the [*] midſt of heaven, with darkneſs, clouds, and thick darkneſs.

12 And the Lord ſpake unto you out of the midſt of the fire: ye heard the voice of the words, but ſaw no ſimilitude, [k] † only ye heard a voice.

13 [l] And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even [m] ten commandments, and [n] he wrote them upon two tables of ſtone.

14 ¶ And [o] the Lord commanded me at that time to teach you ſtatutes and judgments, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to poſſeſs it.

15 Take ye therefore good heed unto yourſelves (for ye ſaw no manner of ſimilitude on the day that the Lord ſpake unto you in Horeb, out of the midſt of the fire)

16 Leſt ye corrupt yourſelves, and [p] make you a graven image, the ſimilitude of any figure, the likeneſs of male or female, g Gen. 18. 19. Chap. 6. 7. and 11. 19. Pſal. 78. 5, 6. h Exod. 19. 9, 10. and 20. 18. Heb. 12. 18.

17 The

i Exod. 19. 18.
* Heb. heart.
k Exod 20. 22, 23.
† Heb. ſave a voice.
l Chap. 9. 9, 11.
m Exod. 34. 28.
n Exod. 24. 12.
o Exod 21. 1. and Chap. 22. and Chap. 23.
p Exod. 20. 4, 5.

Before Christ 1451.

the juſtice of its government. As this law which I ſet before you—And which I have received from God, and which in all things is worthy of himſelf, commanding nothing to be done but what is for the good of them that obey, forbidding nothing but what is hurtful and injurious to men; the whole law of God having evidently no end in view, but the higheſt poſſible good of every man, and of all men.

V. 9. Take heed to thyſelf—As thy Creator hath given thee ſuch a guide through this life to eternal glory; keep thy ſoul diligently, looking unto God thy Redeemer, the author and finiſher of thy faith, leaſt thou forget the things which thine eyes have ſeen—Of the power and willingneſs of God to ſave, ſupport and bleſs all them that put their truſt in him. Leſt they depart from thy heart—And thou ſhouldeſt forget God thy only deliverer in every time of trouble, and who alone can make thy way proſperous. Teach them thy ſons, and thy ſons ſons—God thy Creator, thy Redeemer and thy Judge, hath given thee this knowledge of his will and of thy duty, firſt for thine own happineſs, and then that thou ſhouldeſt not forget that his ſacred word, which of all things is moſt valuable to thee is alſo of equal value to others; and as thou deſireth that thoſe that are dear to thee ſhould be happy with thyſelf, he charges thee to make known the truths of his word to thy ſons and to thy ſons ſons; and in giving thee this command, which natural affection calls for at thy hands, he reminds thee that ſuch is the fallen ſtate of the human nature, that men ſtand in need of being reminded of this their duty, becauſe they are ever ready to forget the value of God's word, and to think that many things are of more conſequence to the happineſs of their own offspring than the knowledge of the will of God.

V. 10. Specially—Remember the day that all Iſrael ſtood before the Lord thy God, when the Lord ſaid, I will make them hear my words, and know for themſelves that they are not the inventions of men, which, from the hardneſs and deceitfulneſs of their own hearts, and the ſuggeſtions of ſatan the father of lies, they will be ready to believe; but let them learn to fear to do this, from the remembrance that I made known my will to men, under ſuch diſcoveries of my power as would at once render them guilty to the laſt degree, did they not receive what is written in the Scriptures as the word of God, as long as they live upon the earth, and teach their children to do the ſame thing; that every riſing generation may receive from their parents, the knowledge of the will of God; and thoſe that refuſe to receive the Scriptures as the word of God, on the teſtimony of their own fathers, they will be held as much without excuſe for their ignorance and their unbelief, as thoſe that firſt received them from God himſelf; the parents are therefore accountable to God for their neglect in teaching the truths of his word to their children in every generation, and the children muſt not preſume to ſay, Let God come down from heaven, and declare his will again to us and then we will believe; but they muſt take the knowledge of the things of eternal life as they are written in the Scriptures, on the teſtimony of thoſe from whom they have received their natural life.

V. 11. The mountain burnt with fire unto the midſt of heaven—Flaming up into the air, which is often called heaven.

V. 12. The Lord ſpake out of the midſt of the fire—In which no mortal being could exiſt. Ye heard the voice of the words—And are ſure that they came from him who only hath exiſtence in himſelf, and gave life and being to all; but all the thouſands of Iſrael ſaw no ſimilitude—No reſemblance or repreſentation of God, whereby either his eſſence, or properties, or actions were repreſented, ſuch as were uſual among the heathens.

V. 13. He declared unto you ten commandments—God declared, and ye heard all the words thereof, and in thoſe are contained the principles of his holy will.

V. 14. The Lord commanded me at that time, to teach you ſtatutes and judgments—The ceremonial and judicial laws, and all Iſrael were witneſſes that God himſelf, by the conſtant manifeſtation of his preſence, ſhewed that the things which I ſpake and wrote were agreeable to his ſacred will: He gave bleſſings, and hath conſtantly and uniformly given bleſſings on them that obeyed his will thus made known; and whatever thoſe poſſeſſed beſides that neglected, diſregarded, and obeyed not the will of God according to his word, were ſtrangers to peace.

V. 15. Take ye therefore good heed unto yourſelves—By which caution he inſinuates man's great proneneſs to the worſhip of images. Ye ſaw no manner of ſimilitude on the day that the Lord ſpake unto you in Horeb—God, who in other places and times did appear in a ſimilitude, in the faſhion of a man, now in this moſt ſolemn appearance, when he comes to give eternal laws for the regulation and direction of the Iſraelites in the worſhip of God, and in their duty to men, he purpoſely avoids all ſuch repreſentations, to ſhew that he abhors all worſhip of images, or of himſelf, by images of what kind ſoever, becauſe he is the inviſible God, and cannot be repreſented by any viſible image. (Acts xvii. 29.)

V. 16. Leſt ye corrupt yourſelves—Corrupt your minds with mean thoughts of God; or, corrupt your ways, by worſhipping God in a corrupt manner, or by falling into idolatry. And make you a graven image—For worſhip, or for the repreſentation of God; which he forbids, under the penalty of his diſpleaſure.

V. 17. The

Before Christ 1451.

17 The likeneſs of any beaſt that is on the earth, the likeneſs of any winged fowl that flieth in the air, q Rom. 1. 23. 18 The likeneſs of q any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeneſs of any fiſh that is in the waters beneath the earth:

r Chap. 17. 3. Job 31. 26, 27. 19 And leſt thou r lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou ſeeſt the ſun, and the moon, and the ſtars, even s all the hoſt of heaven, ſhouldeſt be driven to worſhip them, and ſerve them, which the Lord thy God hath † divided unto all nations under the whole heaven.

s Gen. 2. 1.

† Or, imparted.

t 1 Kings 8. 51. Jer. 11. 4. 20 But the Lord hath taken you, and t brought you forth out of the iron furnace, even out of Egypt, u to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day.

u Exod. 19. 5. Chap. 9. 29. and 32. 9.

x Num. 20. 12. Chap. 1. 37. 21 Furthermore, x the Lord was angry with me for your ſakes, and ſware that I ſhould not go over Jordan, and that I ſhould not go in unto that good land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

y See 2 Pet. 1. 13, 14, 15. 22 But y I muſt die in this land, I muſt not go over Jordan: but ye ſhall go over and poſſeſs that good land.

23 Take heed unto yourſelves, leſt ye forget the covenant of the Lord your God, which he made with you, and make you a graven a Exod. 20. 4, 5. image, or the likeneſs of any thing a which the Lord thy God hath forbidden thee.

24 For b the Lord thy God is a conſuming fire, even c a jealous God.

Before Christ 1451.

25 ¶ When thou ſhalt beget children, and children's children, and ſhall have remained long in the land, and ſhall corrupt yourſelves, and make a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, and ſhall do evil in the ſight of the Lord thy God, to provoke him to anger:

a Chap. 9. 3. Iſai. 33. 14. Heb. 12. 29.

b Exod. 20. 5. Iſai. 42. 8.

26 d I call heaven and earth to witneſs againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſoon utterly periſh from off the land whereunto you go over Jordan to poſſeſs it: ye ſhall not prolong your days upon it, but ſhall utterly be deſtroyed.

c Iſai. 1. 2. Mic. 6. 2.

27 And the Lord e ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and ye ſhall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the Lord ſhall lead you.

d Lev. 26. 33. Chap. 28. 62, 64. Neh. 1. 8.

28 And f there ye ſhall ſerve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and ſtone, g which neither ſee, nor hear, nor eat, nor ſmell.

e Chap. 28. 64. 1 Sam. 26. 19. f Jer. 16. 13. Pſa. 115. 4, 5. and 135. 15. Iſai. 44. 9. and 46. 7.

29 h But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the Lord thy God, thou ſhalt find him, if thou ſeek him with all thy heart and with all thy ſoul.

g Lev. 26. 39. Chap. 30. 1. 2 Chron. 15. 4. Neh. 1. 9.

30 When thou art in tribulation, and all theſe things § are come upon thee, i even in the § Heb. have found thee. h Gen. 49. 1.

V. 17. The likeneſs of any beaſt—Whereby the heathen nations did repreſent and worſhip God, ſome by an ox, ſome by a goat, a ſerpent, or a fiſh, &c.

V. 19. Leſt thou ſhouldeſt be driven to worſhip them—By ſatan, whoſe great and conſtant deſign is to ſet mankind on the worſhip of any thing that is not God, changing his temptations to ſuit the tempers and diſpoſitions of every ſoul of man: Worſhip not, deſire not any earthly good as that which can communicate happineſs to your immortal nature, neither make gods of the ſun, the moon, or the ſtars. Which the LORD thy God hath divided unto all nations—Which are not gods, but creatures, made not for the worſhip but for the uſe of men—of all the people under heaven.

V. 20. The Lord hath taken you—Of his own free mercy, unmerited by you, and brought you forth out of the iron furnace—The furnace wherein iron and other metals are melted, to which Egypt is compared, for the torment and miſery which they there endured; and his gracious deſign in this was and is, that ye may be unto him a people of inheritance—his peculiar poſſeſſion from generation to generation; and therefore, for you to forſake God and worſhip idols, will be wickedneſs and ingratitude to the higheſt degree.

V. 21. The Lord was angry with me for your ſakes, and ſware that I ſhould not go over Jordan unto that good land—And as God hath granted you the favour which he denied to me, your obligation to God is greatly increaſed.

V. 23. Take heed unto yourſelves—I repeat theſe cautions again and again to you, that God may not be chargeable with that miſery which you will bring upon yourſelves, either by diſregarding the knowledge of God's word, or wilfully diſobeying it when it is declared to you.

V. 24. The Lord thy God is a conſuming fire—A juſt and terrible God, who will ſeverely puniſh and deſtroy thee, if thou provokeſt him Even a jealous God—Who being eſpouſed to thee, will be highly incenſed againſt thee, if thou followeſt after other Gods.

V. 25. And ſhall do evil in the ſight of the Lord—Your idolatry, though ſecretly managed, will not be hid from him, he ſees it, and he will puniſh it, however good, and reaſonable, and religious it may appear in the eyes of men.

V. 26. I call heaven and earth to witneſs againſt you this day—I now appeal to God himſelf, his holy angels, and to yourſelves, and to all who ſhall ever read the things I have made known to you, that whatever you ſuffer, the ſame will be chargeable to yourſelves and not to God, who at once deſigns and hath provided for your good, both here and for ever, by the directions he hath given you how to worſhip him and ſerve him.

V. 27, 28. The Lord ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and there ye ſhall ſerve gods—Idols. You ſhall be compelled by men, and given up by me to idolatry; ſo that very thing which was your choice ſhall be your puniſhment, it being juſt and uſual for God to puniſh one ſin by giving them up to another. (Rom. i. 24, 25)

V. 29. But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the Lord thy God—If thou deſireſt his help and favour, with all thy heart—ſincerely and fervently: So gracious is the Father of Mercies to men, for the ſake of his beloved Son, that whoſoever cometh unto God through him, he will in no ways reject.

V. 30. When thou art in tribulation, and all theſe things are come upon thee, even in the latter days—Either in general, in ſucceeding ages and generations; or particularly in the days of the Meſſias, which

Before Christ 1451. the latter days, if thou turn to the Lord thy God, and ſhalt be obedient unto his voice:

31 (For the Lord thy God is a merciful God) he will not forſake thee, neither deſtroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he ſware unto them.

32 For aſk now of the days that are paſt, which were before thee, ſince the day that God created man upon the earth, and aſk [i] from the one ſide of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any ſuch thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it?

i Matt. 24. 31.

33 [k] Did ever people hear the voice of God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire, as thou haſt heard, and live?

k Exod. 24. 11. and 33. 20.

34 Or hath God aſſayed to go and take him a nation, from the midſt of another nation, [l] by temptations, by ſigns, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the Lord your God did for you in Egypt, before your eyes?

l Chap. 7. 19. and 29. 3.

Before Christ 1451.

35 Unto thee it was ſhewed, that thou mighteſt know that the Lord he is God; [m] there is none elſe beſides him.

m Chap. 32. 39. Iſai. 45. 5, 18, 22. Mark 12. 29, 32.

36 [n] Out of heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might inſtruct thee: and upon earth he ſhewed thee his great fire, and thou heardeſt his words out of the midſt of the fire.

n Exod. 19. 9, 19. and 20. 18, 22. and 24. 16. Heb. 12. 18.

37 And becauſe he loved thy fathers, therefore he choſe their ſeed after them, and [o] brought thee out in his ſight, with his mighty power out of Egypt:

o Exod. 13. 3, 9, 14.

38 To

which are commonly called in Scripture the latter, or laſt days. (Heb. i. 2.) This may reſpect the converſion and redemption of the Jewiſh nation, even in thoſe times when their caſe ſeems moſt deſperate, when they have forſaken their God, and rejected their Meſſias for many ages, towards the end of the world; but it is a ſure word of prophecy to all that are caſt down.

V. 31. The Lord thy God is a merciful God—The works of God all declare this, that God is merciful to men; and all the experience of men under the government of God, muſt acknowledge the ſame truth; and the great diſcovery made from God in his word is, that he is merciful to men; but the greatneſs of his mercy will be the ſubject of their joy and grateful praiſe, who ſhall be monuments of his mercy for ever, and yet all eternity will never be able to tell the greatneſs of that mercy, which ſhall be new and endure for ever, from God to his redeemed ones. He will not forſake thee—Who are they that God will not forſake? They that believe God ſo loved the world, as to give his only Son to die to redeem them from the guilt, the miſery, and the power of ſin here, and from all the conſequences of ſin for ever;—they that put their truſt in the mercy and love of God to men, through the only Mediator between God and men. Such God will not deſtroy; nor forget the covenant made with their fathers—To redeem, to ſuſtain and bleſs them.

V. 32. Aſk the days that are paſt, aſk from the one ſide of heaven unto the other—Inquire amongſt all the accounts that are given of paſt ages, and amongſt all the inhabitants of the earth, Whether there hath been any ſuch thing, as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it—Which the Lord God hath ſhewn to the people of Iſrael in revealing his own will to them, and in all the diſcoveries he hath made to them of his great mercy in forgiving their manifold offences, and of his great faithfulneſs in beſtowing upon them every neceſſary bleſſing, and of his boundleſs power in performing whatſoever his creatures ſtand in need of.

V. 33. Did ever people hear the voice of God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire—This God hath done to the children of Iſrael alone; and hath committed unto them his own word, that through them his will may be made known to all mankind.

V. 34. Or hath God aſſayed—Hath he ſo much as begun to do any ſuch things for any other people as he hath done for you, by taking you to himſelf from amongſt all the nations of the earth. By temptations—By tribulations and perſecutions, which are commonly called temptations, which are here mentioned, as one great occaſion of their cries unto God, and then of God's coming for their reſcue. Or temptations is the general title, which is explained by the following particulars, ſigns and wonders, which are called temptations, becauſe they were trials both to the Egyptians and Iſraelites, whether thereby they would be induced to believe and obey God or not. By ſigns, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm, and by great terrors—Raiſed in the minds of the Egyptians, by terrible things done amongſt them; and thus doth God take his people out from amongſt the reſt of the world in every age and country; they, through much tribulation, enter the true Church of God on earth, the kingdom of heaven within them, and the kingdom of glory.

V. 35. Unto thee it was ſhewed, that thou mighteſt know that the Lord he is God—Over all bleſſed for ever; that all things obey his power, and that his love is infinite to all that come unto him as their Redeemer; and that there is none elſe beſides him, who hath power on earth to forgive ſin, to create the fallen ſouls of men a-new by his holy Spirit, and to ſupply them with grace to help them in every time of need; none beſides the living God being acquainted with all his creatures wants, and every where preſent to ſupply them out of his fulneſs, which knows no want, nor is ever to be diminiſhed, by beſtowing upon his creatures all natural, providential, and ſpiritual bleſſings.

V. 36. Out of heaven—Out of the air, above mount Sinai. He made thee to hear his voice, that he might inſtruct thee—In the knowledge of his will, and of thy duty and happineſs; firſt ſhewing thee how thou and all men are to come unto him for mercy, through the promiſed Seed and Saviour of fallen man; and then that it is by grace, his free gift, for the ſake of the God-man, that all are or can be enabled to live to God, and do his will on earth as it is done in heaven. And upon the earth—At the top of mount Sinai. He ſhewed thee his great fire, and thou heardeſt his words—The words of him that ſpake as never man ſpake, or could ſpeak, but as God, making the very earth tremble before him.

V. 37. He loved thy fathers, he choſe their ſeed after them—To make known to them his great love, and through them to all men, that all the ends of the earth might be made acquainted with his great ſalvation. And brought thee out in his ſight—Keeping his eye fixed upon thee, as the father doth on his beloved child. He himſelf was preſent with thee, and marched along with them, in the pillar of cloud and fire; making you witneſſes to all that ſhall live to the end of the world, of that near and intimate union which there is between Chriſt and the Church which he hath redeemed with his blood. With his mighty power, and not by any natural ſtrength of thy own, thou waſt delivered from that bondage in which all the thouſands of Iſrael ſo long lived in Egypt.

V. 38. To

Before Christ 1451.

38 To drive out nations from before thee, greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day.

39 Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that [p] the Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else.

p Josh. 2. 11.

40 Thou shalt keep therefore his statutes and his commandments which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days upon the earth, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for ever.

41 ¶ Then Moses [q] severed three cities on this side Jordan, toward the sun-rising:

q Num. 35. 6, 14.

42 [r] That the slayer might flee thither, which should kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times past; and that fleeing unto one of these cities, he might live:

r Chap. 19. 4.

43 Namely, [s] Bezer in the wilderness, in the plain-country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan of the Manassites.

s Josh. 20. 8.

44 ¶ And this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel:

45 These are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Moses spake unto the children of Israel, after they came forth out of Egypt;

46 On this side Jordan [t] in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel [u] smote, after they were come forth out of Egypt:

t Chap. 3. 29.

u Num. 21. 24. Chap. 1. 4.

47 And they possessed his land, and the land [x] of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, which were on this side Jordan, toward the sun-rising;

Before Christ 1451.

x Num. 21. 33. Chap. 3. 3.

48 From Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto mount Sion, which is [y] Hermon, y Chap. 3. 9. Psal. 133. 3.

49 And all the plain on this side Jordan eastward, even unto the sea of the plain, under the [o] springs of Pisgah.

o Chap. 3. 17.

CHAP. V.

AND Moses called all Israel, and said unto them, Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and * keep and do them.

* Heb. keep to do them.

2 [a] The Lord our God made a covenant with us in Horeb.

a Exod. 19. 5. 1491.

3 The Lord [b] made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day.

b See Matth. 13. 17. Heb. 8. 9.

4 [c] The Lord talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the midst of the fire.

c Exod. 19. 9, 19. Chap. 34. 10.

5 (I stood between the Lord and you at that time, to shew you the word of the Lord: for [d] ye were afraid by reason of the fire, and went not up into the mount) saying, d Exod. 19. 12, and 20. 18.

6 ¶ [e] I am the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of † bondage.

e Exod. 20. 2, &c. Lev. 26. 1. Chap. 6. 4. Psal. 81. 10.

† Heb. servants.

7 Thou shalt have none other gods before me.

8 Thou shalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeness of any thing that is in heaven

God has provided a refuge for you in the Son of his love; and hath his holy Spirit yet enlightened your darkness, and shewn you your Redeemer?

V. 38. To drive out nations from before thee, greater and mightier than thou art—That it might appear to all men for their present and eternal comfort, that no temporal or spiritual difficulties are too great for God to deliver them from that believe in him, and that neither inward or outward obstacles can prevent those from inheriting the blessings of his spiritual kingdom—Love, joy and peace, who trust in God their Redeemer, with a resigned and humble confidence.

V. 39. Know and consider it in thine heart—From all that thou hast seen, heard, and experienced. The Lord he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath—Settle it in thine heart, that none but the Creator of all things could perform those mighty acts.

V. 40. Thou shalt keep his statutes, that it may go well with thee—As it will not fail to do, if thou worship God as he hath commanded, through the only Mediator, and ever regarding his will as the rule of thy life, and by the supplies of his all-sufficient grace, live to please thy God alone.

V. 41. Moses severed three cities toward the sun-rising—Moses, as a type of the Redeemer of men, provided refuge for the guilty from the avenger of blood; and this was toward the sun-rising, that with the earliest light men might see the way that led to their safety. Reader, have you no sins for God's justice to be avenged of; and is it yet a matter of no moment to you, that

V. 42. That fleeing unto one of these cities, he might live—As they that come unto Jesus shall have everlasting life through him.

V. 44. This is the law—Which hath been intimated already, but is more particularly expressed in the following chapter, to which these words are a preface.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. Moses called all Israel—By their elders, who were to impart it to the rest.

V. 3. The Lord made not this covenant with our fathers—But with all that are now alive.

V. 4. The Lord talked with you face to face—Not in a visible shape, but personally and immediately, not by the ministry of Moses; plainly and certainly, as when two men talk face to face; freely and familiarly, so as not to overwhelm and confound you.

V. 5. I stood between the Lord and you—As a Mediator according to your desire. To shew you the word of the Lord—Not the ten commandments, which God himself uttered, but the following statutes and judgments.

V. 6. I am the Lord thy God—The ten commandments delivered Exod. xx. are here repeated with some small difference of words, but the sense is perfectly the same.

Before Christ 1451.

heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth.

9 Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them: for I the Lord thy God am a jealous God, [f] visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me,

f Exod. 34. 7.

10 [g] And shewing mercy unto thousands of them that love me and keep my commandments.

g Jer. 32. 18.

11 [h] Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain: for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain.

h Lev. 19. 12. Matth. 5. 33.

12 Keep the sabbath-day to sanctify it, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee.

13 [i] Six days thou shalt labour, and do all thy work:

i Exod. 23. 12. & 35. 2. Ezek. 20. 12.

14 But the seventh day is the [k] sabbath of the Lord thy God: in it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thine ox, nor thine ass, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy stranger, that is within thy gates; that thy man-servant and thy maid-servant may rest as well as thou.

k Gen. 2. 2. Exod. 16. 29. 31. Heb. 4. 4.

15 And remember that thou wast a servant in the land of Egypt, and that the Lord thy God brought thee out thence, through a mighty hand, and by a stretched out arm: therefore the Lord thy God commanded thee to keep the sabbath-day.

16 ¶ [l] Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged, and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

l Lev. 19. 3. Chap. 27. 16. Ephes. 6. 2, 3. Col. 3. 20.

17 [m] Thou shalt not kill.

m Matth. 5. 21.

18 [n] Neither shalt thou commit adultery.

n Luke 18. 20.

19 [o] Neither shalt thou steal.

o Rom. 13. 9.

20 Neither shalt thou bear false witness against thy neighbour.

21 [p] Neither shalt thou desire thy neighbour's wife, neither shalt thou covet thy neighbour's house, his field, or his man-servant, or his maid-servant, his ox, or his ass, or any thing that is thy neighbour's.

Before Christ 1451.

p Rom. 7. 7.

22 ¶ These words the Lord spake unto all your assembly in the mount out of the midst of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkness, with a great voice, and he added no more; and [q] he wrote them in two tables of stone, and delivered them unto me.

q Exod. 24. 12.

23 [r] And it came to pass when ye heard the voice out of the midst of the darkness (for the mountain did burn with fire) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders.

r Exod. 20. 19.

24 And ye said, Behold, the Lord our God hath shewed us his glory, and his greatness, and [s] we have heard his voice out of the midst of the fire: we have seen this day that God doth talk with man, and he [t] liveth.

s Exod. 19. 19.

t Chap. 4. 33. Judg. 13. 22.

25 Now therefore why should we die? for this great fire will consume us. If we * hear the voice of the Lord our God any more, then we shall die.

* Heb. add to hear.

26 For who is there of all flesh that hath heard the voice of the living God, speaking out of the midst of the fire (as we have) and lived?

27 Go thou near, and hear all that the Lord our God shall say; and [u] speak thou unto us all that the Lord our God shall speak unto thee, and we will hear it, and do it.

u Exod. 20. 19. Heb. 12. 19.

28 And the Lord heard the voice of your words, when ye spake unto me; and the Lord said unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken unto thee: [x] they have well said all that they have spoken.

x Chap. 18. 17.

29 [y] O that there were such an heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well y Chap. 32. 29. Psal. 81. 13. Isai. 48. 18. Matth. 23. 37.

V. 15. Remember that thou wast a servant—And therefore art highly obliged both to serve that God who redeemed thee, and not to grudge thy servants their rest on that day.

V. 22. These words the Lord spake, and he added no more—He ceased for that time to speak immediately, and with that loud voice unto the people, for the rest were delivered to Moses, and by him communicated to the people.

V. 25. Now therefore why should we die?—For though God hath for this season kept us alive to our admiration, yet we shall never be able to endure any further discourse from him in such a terrible manner, but shall certainly sink under the burden of it. If we hear the voice of the Lord our God any more, then we shall die—And thus is the depth of unbelief in the minds of men discovered; reasoning from the remembrance of that great dread and terror which they were under when God manifested himself to them, they forget that the same power which then preserved and supported them could do the same again.

V. 26. Who is there of all flesh—Flesh is here put for man in his frail, corruptible, and mortal state.

V. 29. O that there were such a heart in them—Who will give them such an heart? This is spoken of God after the manner of men, to shew that such an heart is desireable to him, and required by him. And they that truly desire that the kingdom of his grace may come, and believe what God hath said, to them there shall be an accomplishment of that which God hath promised—The heart of stone will be taken away, and an heart of flesh given in its stead. (Ezek. xxxvi. 26.)

Before Christ 1451.

well with them, and with their children for ever.

30 Go say to them, Get you into your tents again.

31 But as for thee, stand thou here by me, and I will speak unto thee all the commandments, and the statutes, and the judgments which thou shalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to possess it.

32 Ye shall observe to do therefore as the z Josh. 1. 7. Lord your God hath commanded you: z you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left.

33 You shall walk in all the ways which the Lord your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land which ye shall possess.

CHAP. VI.

NOW these are the commandments, the statutes, and the judgments which the Lord your God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye
* Heb. pass over. * go to possess it:

2 That thou mightest fear the Lord thy God, to keep all his statutes, and his commandments which I command thee; thou, and thy son, and thy sons son, all the days of thy life, and that thy days may be prolonged.

Before Christ 1451.

3 ¶ Hear therefore, O Israel, and observe to do it, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increase mightily, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised thee, in a the land that floweth with milk and honey. a Exod. 3. 8.

4 b Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord. b Isai. 42. 8. Mark 12. 29. John 17. 3. 1 Cor. 8. 4. 6.

5 And c thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might. c Chap. 10. 12. Matth. 22. 37. Mark 12. 30. Luke 10. 27.

6 And d these words which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart. d Chap. 11. 18. Psal. 37. 31. & 40. 8. & 119. 98. Isai. 51. 7.

7 And e thou shalt † teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up. e Chap. 4. 9. & 11. 19. Psal. 78. 4. † Heb. whet or sharpen.

8 f And thou shalt bind them for a sign upon thine hand, and they shall be as frontlets between thine eyes. f Exod. 13. 9, 16. Chap. 11. 18. Prov. 3. 3. & 6. 21. & 7. 3.

9 g And thou shalt write them upon the posts of thy house, and on thy gates. g Chap. 11. 20. Isai. 57. 8.

10 And

V. 32. You shall not turn aside to the right hand, nor to the left—Neither by superstitious additions to God's commands, nor by a bold or profane rejection or contempt of any one of them.

V. 33. You shall walk in all the ways which the Lord your God hath commanded you—His grace, for the Redeemer's sake, being sufficient and ready to be given you from one hour, one moment to another, if you depart from the ways of God in any instance, your guilt, and the misery which is the consequence of it, is not to be charged against the Author of your lives, but to your neglect of the God of your salvation.

CHAP. VI.

V. 2. That thou mightest fear the Lord—Which is hereby implied to be the first principle of true obedience.

V. 3. Hear, O Israel, and observe to do it, that it may be well with thee—No wisdom, no policy, by which any people can be governed, being to be compared with the fear of God; no reward or advantage being a sufficient price for any offence against God, his nature, or his will.

V. 4. The Lord our God is one Lord—One in essence, and the only object of our worship. There being but one God and Creator of all, and one Mediator, God and man in the person of Christ Jesus, one with the Father, (John xvi. 22.) and one with the Spirit, the free gift to men for the sake of Jesus, by which, and by no human power, are the dead and sinful souls of men quickened and preserved in spiritual life; and for which inestimable gift, all men must come unto God through the Son of his love.

V. 5. Thou shalt love the Lord—Now he shews another spring or principle of sincere obedience to God, even hearty love to God, which will make his work and service easy, and that the fear he mentioned before, (v. 2.) was such as would consist with love to God, and not that slavish fear which produceth hatred. Reader, is God the object of your humble grateful love? Whatever you can do or have besides this, it does not, cannot profit you any thing with God, the judge and rewarder of all, who sees the heart. (1 Cor. xiii. 3.) Does the love of him who first loved us, and gave himself for us, spread itself through all we intend, does it animate us in all we do, does it support us under all we suffer?

V. 6. These words which I command thee shall be in thine heart—In thy mind, to remember and meditate upon them; and in thy affection, to love and pursue them.

V. 7. Thou shalt teach them diligently—Whet, or sharpen them, so as they may pierce deep into their hearts. This metaphor signifies the manner of instructing them, that it is to be done diligently, earnestly, and frequently. What hour in the day is set apart in this house, for making known the meaning of God's holy will to all that live under the roof of it? But it is done at the church, at the meeting; suppose it is, does that make this commandment of God void; and because some men in some places teach all that come to hear them what God requires, does this render the command of no effect to other men, to whom God hath given the care of children, with this charge of teaching them diligently the knowledge of his will. But I pay for their being taught it at school. Do I then diligently inquire if they understand the meaning of those great truths which are essentially necessary for all to understand? Could those that dwell under the roof with me collect from any use that they see me make of the the word of God, that I thought it of more value than a spelling-book, or of as much consequence, to be read daily, as a news paper. O! that all may understand it is not enough to be rational, and to speak in the language in which the word of God is written, or to have it in their possession, without making that use of it which God requires.

V. 8. They shall be as frontlets between thine eyes—Thou shalt give all diligence, and use all means to keep them in thy remembrance, as men use means to prevent forgetfulness of a thing which they much desire to remember.

Before Christ 1451.

10 And it shall be when the Lord thy God shall have brought thee into the land which he sware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give thee, great and goodly cities [h] which thou buildest not,

h Psal. 105. 44.

11 And houses full of all good things which thou filledst not, and wells digged which thou diggedst not, vineyards, and olive-trees, which thou plantedst not, [i] when thou shalt have eaten and be full;

i Chap. 8. 10. &c.

12 Then beware lest thou forget the Lord which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of † bondage.

† Heb. bondmen, or, servant.

13 Thou shalt [k] fear the Lord thy God, and serve him, and [l] shalt swear by his name.

k Chap. 10. 12, 20. & 13. 4. Matth. 4. 10. Luke 4. 8.

14 Ye shall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you:

l Psal. 63. 11. Isai. 45. 23. & 65. 16. Jer. 4. 2. and 5. 7. & 12. 16.

15 (For the Lord thy God is a jealous God among you) lest the anger of the Lord thy God be kindled against thee, and destroy thee from off the face of the earth.

Before Christ 1451.

16 ¶ [m] Ye shall not tempt the Lord your God, [n] as ye tempted him in Massah.

m Matth. 4. 7. Luke 4. 12.

n Exod. 17. 2. Num. 20. 3. 4. & 21. 4.

17 You shall diligently keep the commandments of the Lord your God, and his testimonies, and his statutes which he hath commanded thee.

18 And thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord: that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest go in and possess the good land which the Lord sware unto thy fathers:

19 [o] To cast out all thine enemies from before thee, as the Lord hath spoken.

o Num. 33. 52.

20 And when thy son asketh thee § in time to come, saying, What mean the testimonies, and § Heb. to morrow.

V. 12. Beware lest thou forget the Lord—He being the fountain from which all thy blessings flow; be careful that thou keep thy mind stayed upon him, that thou mayest be kept in perfect peace. (Isa. xxvi. 3.) And beware, when he shall bless thee with plenty, lest thou neglect his word, and forget the Lord to whom thou art indebted for thy life, for thy deliverance from that bondage from which thou couldest not deliver thyself.

V. 13. Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him—God's interest on earth is the good of mankind, his glory and praise being in their salvation, and not from their misery and destruction; and for men to serve God is first themselves to fear him, turning from and avoiding whatever is contrary to the nature and will of God, not grieving his spirit, but humbly receiving and carefully holding fast every good and perfect gift which they receive from God, and then by his grace designing and living to his glory. And shalt swear by his name—When thou hast a call, and just cause to swear—not by idols, or any creatures; none but God being every where present to be solemnly appealed to, or acquainted with the heart, or possessed of power to vindicate the innocent and detect the guilty; therefore to swear by the name of any creature (in any of the cases in which men are allowed to swear), is to ascribe that to a creature which only is due unto God.

V. 14. Ye shall not go after other gods—Who are nothing, and can do nothing for you—They can remove neither pain nor sickness, nor have they power to forgive your sins, nor can they communicate conscious peace, or wisdom, or strength to your minds. And evident as this is, yet so weak is the mind of man, and so deceitful is the tempter, that even you who have heard God himself speak to you from heaven, and have seen so much of his great and gracious acts, have need of the cautions that are here given you, against being deceived and misled by the example of those that know not God.

V. 15. The Lord thy God is a jealous God among you—In the midst of you, to see and observe all your ways; and you being that Church which he hath redeemed, by offering up himself a sacrifice; and he having espoused you to himself, thy Maker and Redeemer bearing to thee the relation of an husband, he is jealous over thee; and any departure in heart and affection from him to whom you thus belong, is grievous to him; therefore grieve not the holy Spirit of God, lest the anger of the Lord thy God be kindled against thee—He, having given himself for his church, requires the heart—the love of every member of it; but if thou shalt treat the Lamb that was slain for thy sake, as not worthy of thy love, one day thou wilt be left to thyself, and given up to thy own desires after other things which can never save thee from evil, nor do thee good; and thou wilt be left exposed to that consuming fire, which God is to all them that resist his grace and despise his love; and thou wilt be destroyed from off the earth, and thy time of trial being ended, thou wilt then know there is no medium betwixt the love of God and the wrath of God.

V. 16. Ye shall not tempt the Lord—Not provoke him, as the following instance explains. Sinners, especially presumptuous sinners, are often said to tempt God—to make a trial of God whether he be what he pretends to be, so wise as to see their sins, so just and true, and powerful, as to take vengeance on them for their sins, concerning which they are very apt to doubt, because of the present impunity and prosperity of many such persons. (Acts v. 9.)

V. 17. You shall diligently keep the commandments of the Lord your God—His grace being promised to you to enable you to do his will, and which he of his faithfulness will give you as your wants require; and taking the commandments of the Lord your God for your rule and guide, ye need not fear any difficulties or dangers; God himself being the guardian and protector of all them that put their trust in him, in the ways of his holy will. Diligently, industriously consider, and carefully remember what God forbids and what he requires, that upon every occasion and in every duty in your lives, you may not be at a loss what you shall design, or say, or do, but remembering—Thus saith the Lord, and looking to him for the help of his grace, humbly and stedfastly press forward in the pleasant ways of his holy will, till your faithful lives on earth shall end with your being received by God your Redeemer, to dwell with him for ever.

V. 18. Thou shalt do that which is right and good in the sight of the Lord—Not that which is right in thine own eyes, as many superstitious and sinful practices seem right and good to evil-minded men. Let God's will and word, and not thine own fancy or invention, be thy rule in God's service. Good actions are often said to be right in God's sight, (Acts iv. 19.) and evil actions are often said to be right in our own eyes. (Deut. xii. 8. Judg. xvii. 6.) That thou mayest go in, and possess the good land—There being no other way of living by which it can truly go well with men in this life, or of possessing that glorious inheritance which is set before us in God's word, but by being guided by his precepts unto all the blessings which God hath promised.

V. 20. When thy son asketh thee in time to come, saying, What mean the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments which

the

Before Christ 1451. and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which the Lord our God hath commanded you?

21 Then thou ſhalt ſay unto thy ſon, We were Pharaoh's bond-men in Egypt, and the p Exod. 3. 19. and 13. 3. Lord brought us out of Egypt p with a mighty hand.

22 And the Lord ſhewed ſigns and wonders, great and ‖ ſore, upon Egypt, upon ‖ Heb. evil. Pharaoh, and upon all his houſhold, before our eyes:

23 And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers.

24 And the Lord commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the Lord our God, for our good always, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is at this day.

q Rom. 10. 3, 5. 25 And q it ſhall be our righteouſneſs, if we obſerve to do all theſe commandments, before the Lord our God, as he hath commanded us.

CHAP. VII.

a Chap. 31. 3. WHEN the a Lord thy God ſhall bring thee into the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, and hath caſt out many nations before thee, b the Hittites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, ſeven nations greater and mighter than thou;

Before Christ 1451.

b Gen. 15. 19.

2 And when the Lord thy God ſhall deliver them before thee: thou ſhalt ſmite them, and c utterly deſtroy them, d thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor ſhew mercy unto them:

c Lev. 27. 21, 28. Num. 33. 52. Joſh. 6. 17. and 8. 24. and 10. 28, 40. and 11. 11, 12. d Exod. 23. 32. and 34. 12, 15, 16. See Chap. 20. 10. Joſh. 2. 14. and 9. 18. Judg. 1. 24. e 1 Kings 11. 2.

3 e Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou ſhalt not give unto his ſon, nor his daughter ſhalt thou take unto thy ſon.

4 For they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods: ſo will the anger of the Lord be kindled againſt you, and deſtroy thee ſuddenly.

5 But thus ſhall ye deal with them, ye ſhall f deſtroy their altars, and break down their * images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire.

f Exod. 23. 24. and 34. 13. Chap. 12. 3. * Heb. ſtatues, or, pillars.

6 For

the Lord our God hath commanded you—What are we to underſtand by the laws of God, and by what he hath done? Hath God given laws, and does he not care whether they are carefully ſtudied and obeyed or not; or hath all that God hath done, been to ſhew that our happineſs or miſery depend on our regard to the diſcoveries which God hath made to us in his word.

V. 21. Then thou ſhalt ſay, the Lord brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand—We ourſelves were made the witneſſes of his great power.

V. 22. The Lord ſhewed ſigns and wonders, great and ſore upon Egypt, before our eyes—Convincing us that no human wiſdom or power that were oppoſed to the will of God could proſper.

V. 23. He brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers—That in us it might be made known to you and all that ſhall live hereafter, that God is able to ſave and deliver men from the chains and bondage of their ſinful nature, as he delivered us from Egypt; and to give them that purity and peace by his own Spirit, as he has given us this good land by his power; and theſe things are written, that all the ends of the earth may fear him and believe in him, to the ſaving of their ſouls.

V. 24. The Lord commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the Lord our God, for our good always—The benefit of obedience is ours, not God's; and therefore our obedience is reaſonable, and abſolutely neceſſary to our own happineſs.

V. 25. And it ſhall be our righteouſneſs—We ſhall be owned and pronounced by God to be truly righteous and holy perſons, if we ſincerely obey him, otherwiſe we ſhall be declared to be unrighteous and ungodly perſons. Or mercy ſhall be to us or with us. For the word rendered righteouſneſs is often put for mercy, and this ſenſe ſeems beſt to agree with the foregoing argument; God, ſaith he, (v. 24.) commanded theſe things for our good, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is this day. And, ſo he will go on to do us more and more good, and God's mercy ſhall be to us, or with us the remainder of our lives, and for ever, if we obſerve what he requires of us—Believe in him, love him, and walk in the ways of his holy will.

CHAP. VII.

V. 1. Seven nations—There were ten in Gen. xv. 19. but this being ſome hundreds of years after that, it is not ſtrange if three of them were either deſtroyed or united with ſome of the reſt.

V. 2. Thou ſhalt make no covenant with them—To ſpare them, or permit them to dwell with thee in the land. The people of Iſrael were the viſible church of God, and required to worſhip him in ſpirit and truth as their Mediator God, who at the appointed time was to take upon him the human nature, and make an atonement to the Divine juſtice for the ſins of men; that all men might live to him, by the ſtrength of his grace; and they who do ſo muſt have no fellowſhip with the unfruitful works of darkneſs; the ſpirit, by which all are influenced till they yield to the grace of God, being the ſpirit of ſatan, and to be in covenant with ſuch is to be at enmity with God, and that ſpirit muſt be caſt out, before the Spirit of God and of Chriſt the Lord can reign in the heart.

V. 3, 4. Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them, for they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods—All men owing their lives and every bleſſing to God, the affectionate duty of children and the allegiance of ſubjects is due to God; and to pay that devotion which is due to him to any creature, or idol, is to be guilty of the higheſt ingratitude and rebellion—theſe people were thus guilty, and God not giving laws to his rational creatures without caring what regard is paid to them, after his infinite wiſdom ſees his mercy and grace will not be received, nor his laws obeyed, then his juſtice takes place, as it was now about to do on this people; of which juſtice, the people of Iſrael are but the executioners under the command of God; and in which alſo there is mercy to mankind in this diſcovery of his ſeverity.—For were the idolatrous, the worldly-minded, and the wicked, to remain examples of peace and proſperity amongſt mankind, the whole world would think idolatry, worldly-mindedneſs, and wickedneſs, muſt be to be choſen before the worſhip of God and living in his fear: To prevent this deceit, and leſt the people of theſe countries that knew not God ſhould draw away the Iſraelites to worſhip their idols, and to live

Before Christ 1451.

6 [g] For thou art a holy people unto the Lord thy God: [h] the Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the earth.

7 The Lord did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people (for ye were the fewest of all people)

8 But [i] because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep the oath which he had sworn unto your fathers, hath the Lord brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the house of bond-men, from the hand of Pharoah king of Egypt.

9 Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, [k] the faithful God, [l] which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations;

10 And [m] repayeth them that hate him, to their face, to destroy them: he will not be slack to him that hateth him, he will repay him to his face.

11 Thou shalt therefore keep the commandments, and the statutes, and the judgments, which I command thee this day, to do them.

12 ¶ [n] Wherefore it shall come to pass, † if he hearken to these judgments, and keep and do them; that the Lord thy God shall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he sware unto thy fathers.

13 And

g Chap. 14. 2. and 26. 19. Psal. 50. 5. Jer. 2. 3. h Exod. 19. 5. Amos 3. 2. 1 Pet. 2. 9.
i Chap. 10. 15.
k Isai. 49. 7. 1 Cor. 1. 9. and 10. 13. 2 Cor. 1. 18. 1 Thess. 5. 24. 2 Thess. 3. 3. 2 Tim. 2. 13. Heb. 11. 11. 1 John 1. 9.
l Exod. 20. 6.
m Neh. 1. 8.
n Lev. 26. 3. Chap. 28. 1.
† Heb. because after their wicked example, God commands to make no covenants, to contract no marriages with them, but to destroy them.

V. 5. Ye shall destroy their altars, and break down their images, and cut down their groves—Which idolaters planted about the temples and altars of their gods. Hereby God designed to take away whatsoever might bring their idolatry to remembrance, or occasion the reviving of it.

V. 6. The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself—That he might shew forth in you his mercy and power to save, and by the blessings which he will bestow on all that live as become the redeemed of the Lord, and the true worshippers of the living God, all men might learn to fear him, and become members of his church on earth, as the only certain way of being blessed of God here and for ever.

V. 7. Ye were the fewest of all people—God first declared his love to Abraham, who had but one son, and that was in his hundredth year; and Isaac was sixty years old before he had a child, and then had only two children; and though Jacob had twelve sons, yet it was a long time before they made any considerable increase. Nor do we read of any great multiplication of them till after Joseph's death. (Exod. i. 6, 7.)

V. 8. Because the Lord loved you—Because it pleased him to love you, it was his free choice, without any cause on your part. And all the great things his love hath led him to do for you, are to prove to all mankind what manner of love that must be in God, who gave his only Son to die for all mankind when dead in trespasses and sins, and living without any design to please God, without having him that made them in all their thoughts, according to the course of this world which layeth in the wicked one; and could therefore have nothing to induce God to be gracious to them but his own meer mercy and love; the design of which is, that all who had nothing more to recommend them to God than ye yourselves had, might believe in God their and your Redeemer, and have everlasting life. (John iii. 16.)

V. 9. Know that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithful God—True to his word, and constant in performing all his promises, which shall be found true to all that trust in them for ever. Reader, what is it that God promises to you?—Everlasting life thro' Jesus your Redeemer—Pardon and grace through him. Are you selling your inheritance in God's faithfulness, with him that sold his birthright, for some poor perishable gratification or possession for a moment; or, are you regarding the high price paid for your invaluable inheritance in God's mercy, grace, and in eternal glory.—In a word, is Christ Jesus precious to you?—Do you love his name, adore his sacred person, and shew that love by worshipping him in spirit and in truth, walking in love as he has loved you—To them that believe he is precious, and he that believeth not shall be damned. (Mark xvi. 16.)

V. 10. Repayeth them that hate him—Not only those who hate him directly and properly, but those who hate him by construction and consequence, those who hate and oppose his people, and word, and image, those who presumptuously and wilfully persist in the breach of God's commandments, as appears from verse 9. where the love of God, to which this hatred is opposite, is described and expressed by the keeping of his commandments. To their face—Openly, and so as they shall see it, and not be able to avoid it. None that hate God can shun the consequence of their own conduct; men cannot wage a successful war with God. He will not be slack—As some men count slackness, (2 Pet. iii. 9.) so as to delay it beyond the fit time or season for vengeance, yet withal he is long-suffering, and slow to anger, waiting for the return of the wicked, that they may taste and live. Let him that is the slave of one wrong temper, passion or desire, or the servant of any sin, ask himself what he hazards by trifling with Omnipotence a day, an hour, a moment longer? Now let him cry for mercy who till now has been living to himself and all the things of this world, and not to God who made him, preserves him, and died for him.

V. 11. Thou shalt keep the commandments which I command thee—On no account are they to be dispensed with, because they are never to be made void. The grace of God enables the children of God to keep his laws, and they do not break them because they are born of the Spirit and love him; he that breaketh God's laws sinneth, and he that committeth sin is a servant of satan, whose will is obeyed by all sin. (1 John iii. 8.)

V. 12. If ye hearken to these judgments, and keep and do them, the Lord thy God shall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy—The covenant of mercy which he out of his own meer grace made with thee. But if thou regard not God, who himself is ever ready to be thy sufficiency, and to give thee grace to enable thee to do his holy will, then thou wilt be guilty and without excuse, and the Lord will not keep his covenant with thee. Hast thou broken the condition, and forfeited by sin thy part in the sacred obligation to shew thee mercy and faithfulness? The truly penitent convinced mind answers, I have, I have; I have no plea to urge, God may justly for ever refuse me mercy; I am without excuse to myself for my crimes committed against light and knowledge. Yes, and God sees thee in thy sins, and in thy blood. But lo! Jesus of Nazereth passeth by, who hath power on earth to forgive sins, and to reconcile the sinner to God; repent and live; believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved; (Acts xvi. 31.) sit upon firm ground

and

Before Christ 1451.

13 And he will love thee, and bless thee, and multiply thee: he will also bless the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep, in the land which he sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

14 Thou shalt be blessed above all people: [o] there shall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle.

[o] Exod. 23. 26, &c.

15 And the Lord will take away from thee [p] all sickness, and will put none of the [q] evil diseases of Egypt (which thou knowest) upon thee; but will lay them upon all them that hate thee.

[p] Exod. 9. 14. and 15. 26. Chap. 28. 27, 60.

16 And thou shalt consume all the people which the Lord thy God shall deliver thee, thine eyes shall have no pity upon them: neither shalt thou serve their gods, for that will be [r] a snare unto thee.

[q] Exod 23. 33. Chap. 12. 30.

17 If thou shalt say in thine heart, These nations are more than I, how can I dispossess them?

18 Thou shalt not be afraid of them: but shalt well remember what the Lord thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt;

[r] Chap 4. 34. and 29. 3.

19 [r] The great temptations which thine eyes saw, and the signs, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the stretched out arm, whereby the Lord thy God brought thee out: so shall the Lord thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid.

[s] Exod. 23. 28. Josh. 24. 12.

20 [s] Moreover, the Lord thy God will send the hornet among them, until they that are left and hide themselves from thee, be destroyed.

Before Christ 1451.

21 Thou shalt not be affrighted at them: for the Lord thy God is among you, a mighty God and terrible.

22 And the Lord thy God will ‡ put out those nations before thee by little and little: thou mayest not consume them at once, lest the beasts of the field increase upon thee.

‡ Heb. pluck off.

23 But the Lord thy God shall deliver them § unto thee, and shall destroy them with a mighty destruction, until they be destroyed.

§ Heb. before thy face.

24 And [t] he shall deliver their kings into thine hand, and thou shalt destroy their name from under heaven: there shall no man be able to stand before thee, until thou have destroyed them.

[t] Josh. 12. 1.

25 The graven images of their gods [u] shall ye burn with fire: thou [x] shalt not desire the silver or gold that is on them, nor take it unto thee, lest thou be [y] snared therein: for it is an abomination to the Lord thy God.

[u] Exod. 32. 20. Chap. 12. 3.
[x] Josh. 7. 1, 21.
[y] Zeph. 1. 3.

26 Neither shalt thou bring an abomination into thy house, lest thou be a cursed thing like it: but thou shalt utterly detest it, and thou shalt utterly abhor it, [z] for it is a cursed thing.

[z] Lev. 27. 28. Chap. 13. 17.

CHAP. VIII.

ALL the commandments which I command thee this day, shall ye observe to do, that ye may live, and multiply, and go in and possess the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers.

2 And

and God himself will become thy God for the sake of the Son of his love, and with Manasseh, with Magdalene and Peter thou shalt praise a pardoning God. When? Now is the accepted time. I cannot believe; Let, Lord help my unbelief be thy cry; nay hope in his mercy and thou shalt be saved; for penitent sinners are saved by hope. (Rom. viii. 24)

V. 13. He will love thee—He will continue to love thee, and to manifest his love to thee, he will not repent of his love to thee. And bless thee—What gracious words proceed out of his mouth with whom we have to do. Well might David say, Let me fall in the hands of the Lord, and not into the hands of men.

V. 15. The evil diseases of Egypt—Such as the Egyptians were infested with, either commonly, or extraordinarily from the hand of the Lord.

V. 16. For that will be a snare unto thee—An occasion of sin and utter destruction.

V. 18. Thou shalt remember what the Lord thy God did—Remember it frequently and considerately for thy encouragement, for men are said to forget those things which they do not remember to good purpose. And let them that are tempted to fear the difficulties they see before them, remember what God has done by his grace and by his providence, to thousands of men like themselves. (Deut. vii. 9.)

V. 19. The great temptations which thine eyes saw—The trials and exercises of thy faith, and obedience to my call and commands. So shall the Lord thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid—So as he did to Pharaoh and his people.

V. 22. Thou mayest not consume them at once—Thou shalt not be able to consume them at once, in an instant. I will not assist thee with my omnipotency, to crush them in a moment, but will bless thee in the use of ordinary means, and destroy them successively by several battles. That by thy own sure experience thou mayest learn to put thy trust in me.

V. 24. There shall no man be able to stand before thee, until thou have destroyed them—This promise is made upon condition of their performance of their duty, which they neglecting, they justly lose the benefit of it. (Judg. ii. 1, 2, 3.)

V. 25. Thou shalt not desire the silver or gold that is on them—Wherewith the idols are covered or adorned, nor consequently any other of their ornaments. This God commands, to shew his utter detestation of idolatry, and to put off all occasions of it.

V. 26. Neither shalt thou bring an abomination into thy house, lest thou be a cursed thing—Devoted to utter destruction, as that was.

CHAP. VIII.

V. 1. All the commandments which I command shall ye observe to do, that ye may live—Live comfortably and happily, as life is often taken, (Gen. xvii. 18.) as on the contrary troubles or afflictions are called death. (2 Cor. xi. 23.)

V. 2. Thou shalt remember all the way—All the events which befel thee in the way, the miraculous protections, deliverances, provisions, instructions which God gave thee, and withal the frequent and severe punishments of thy disobedience. The Lord thy

God

Before Christ 1451.

2 And thou shalt remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee [a] these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and [b] to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, or no.

3 And he humbled thee, and [c] suffered thee to hunger, and [d] fed thee with manna; (which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know) that he might make thee know that man doth [e] not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord doth man live.

4 [f] Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot swell these forty years.

5 [g] Thou shalt also consider in thine heart, that as a man chasteneth his son, so the Lord thy God chasteneth thee.

6 Therefore thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him.

7 For the Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good land, [h] a land of brooks of water, of fountains, and depths that spring out of valleys and hills.

8 A land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig-trees, and pomegranates, a land * of oil-olive, and honey.

9 A land wherein thou shalt eat bread without scarceness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it, a land [i] whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass.

10 [k] When thou hast eaten, and art full, then thou shalt bless the Lord thy God, for the good land which he hath given thee.

11 Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day:

12 [l] Lest when thou hast eaten and art full, and hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein;

13 And

a Chap. 1. 3, and 2. 7.
b Exod. 16. 4. Chap. 13. 3.
c Exod. 16. 2, 3.
d Exod. 16. 12, 14, 35.
e Psal 104. 29. Matt. 4. 4. Luke 4. 4.
f Chap. 29. 5. Neh. 9. 21.
g 2 Sam. 7. 14. Psal. 89. 32. Prov. 3. 12. Heb. 12. 5. Rev. 3. 19.
h Chap. 11. 10, 11.
* Heb. of olive-tree of oil.
i Chap. 33. 25.
k Chap. 6. 11, 12.
l Chap. 28. 47. and 32. 15. Prov. 30. 9. Hos. 13. 6.

God led thee in the wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart—That thou mightest discover thyself that infidelity, inconstancy, hypocrisy, apostacy, rebellion and perverseness, which lay hid in thy heart; the discovery whereof was of singular use both to them, and to the Church of God in all succeeding ages; for as the members of the church were led then, so spiritually and providentially are they led now; that men may know themselves, and feel their need of that grace by which alone they can be saved, and so humbly depend upon the communications thereof, and lest forgetting themselves, foolishly trust their own hearts—their own wisdom or strength, which without God, can do nothing right or good in his sight. (John xv. 5.)

V. 3. He suffered thee to hunger—That experience might teach thee how little thou couldest do for thyself without God, in things natural, that thou mightest feel thy dependance upon God for every good and perfect gift. (James i. 17.) The Father of mercies suffers those to want that he pities as a father does his children, he cuts off all human aid, that renouncing all self-confidence, and all dependance on men like themselves, they may arrive at a settled trust in God alone; and to souls in such a state of dependance he ever says, I will never leave thee nor forsake thee. (Heb. xiii. 5.) Man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the Lord—By every or any thing which God appoints for this end, how unlikely soever it may seem to be for nourishment as appears in the manna; seeing it is not the creature, but only God's command and blessing upon it, that makes it sufficient for the support of life.

V. 4. Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee—Did not wear away through age, which they must needs have done without a miracle. Neither did thy foot swell—Notwithstanding thy long and hard travels, which also was miraculous.

V. 5. Also consider, that as a man chasteneth his son—Unwillingly, being constrained, but moderately, in judgment remembering mercy; and for thy reformation, not for thy destruction. (Prov. iii. 11, 12. Heb. xii. 5.) And blessed are they that patiently endure temptations and trials; tarrying the Lord's leisure for their deliverance, not disquieting themselves in vain; not beating the air, by running before providence, or striving in their own wisdom or strength.

V. 7. A land of fountains and depths—Deep wells, springs, or lakes.

V. 8. A land of oil-olive—Of the olive-tree of oil—Not of wild and barren, but of fruitful olive-trees, which yield plenty of oil.

V. 9. Thou shalt not lack any thing—And they that love the Lord shall want no manner of thing that is good; what they think good will only be with-held when it is more kind to withhold than to give. Whose stones are iron—Iron, in a manner as plentiful as stones upon stones. Out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass—In great plenty.

V. 10. When thou hast eaten, and art full, then thou shalt bless the Lord thy God—Solemnly praise him for thy food; which is a debt both of gratitude and justice, because it is from his providence and favour that thou receivest both thy food and refreshment, and strength by it. The more unworthy and absurd is that too common profaneness of them, who, professing to believe a God and his providence, from whom all their comforts come, grudge to own him at their meals, either by desiring his blessing before them, or by offering due praise to God after them. And is not the name of the Lord to be praised, when he with-holds or takes away as well as when he gives. The poor in spirit, they that see how little they deserve, will bless the Lord when they are empty and have nothing—With Paul and Silas praise their God and Saviour in a dungeon with their feet in the stocks: To praise God in want, in pain, under persecution, is the breathing of an excellent spirit, of that spirit by which souls are born from above: they trust their heavenly Father's skill, knowing assuredly that the Judge of all the earth will do right; and enabled with the mind of him that became poor for our sakes, they live after his example: in tribulation they rejoice; they suffer all things as seeing him by faith that is invisible to sight, all the adverse gales of time, fill the sails that humble love spreads before the Almighty's will, and forward them in that calm course, in which, with a single eye, they urge their way to him that loved them, and will love and honour them as kings and priests in his presence for ever.

V. 11. Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God—Remember him when you lay down, when you rise up; when you go out, when you return home:—Remember him in all your ways, and he will acknowledge you.

V. 14. Then thine heart be lifted up—As if thou didst receive and enjoy these things either by thy own wisdom, and valour, and industry.

Before Christ 1451.

13 And when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied:

14 Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the Lord thy God (which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage;

15 Who led thee through that great and terrible wilderness, [m] wherein were fiery serpents, and scorpions, and drought, where there was no water; [n] who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint:

16 Who fed thee in the wilderness with [o] manna, which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end)

17 [p] And thou say in thine heart, My power and the might of my hand hath gotten me this wealth.

18 But thou shalt remember the Lord thy God: for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may establish his covenant, which he sware unto thy fathers, as it is this day.

Before Christ 1451.

19 And it shall be, if thou do at all forget the Lord thy God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I testify against you this day, that ye shall surely perish.

20 As the nations which the Lord destroyeth before your face, so shall ye perish: because ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the Lord your God.

CHAP. IX.

HEAR, O Israel: Thou art to pass over Jordan this day, to go in to possess nations greater and mightier than thyself, cities great and [a] fenced up to heaven,

2 A people great and tall, [b] the children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak!

3 Understand

[m] Num. 21. 6. Hos. 13. 5.

[n] Num. 20. 11. Psa. 78. 15. & 114. 8.

[o] Exod. 16. 15.

[p] Chap. 9. 4.

[a] Chap. 1. 28.

[b] Num. 13. 22, 28, 29.

industry, or for thy own merit, (1 Cor. iv. 7.) And to think this is common to all men, without the grace of God resting upon them; as they that possess his Spirit increase in love and gratitude to God, with the increase of all the blessings that are bestowed upon them. Reader, do you think and speak less of the goodness of God to you now, than when you were a much poorer man? When you had less, were you much more intent how you should lay out your little to his glory, than you are now he hath made you steward over more? Are you lifted up in your own esteem, because of the benefits God hath bestowed upon you. Satan will endeavour highly to exalt those, even upon the temple of God, who he wants to fall down and worship him; he will fill their whole souls with rich and honourable prospects on earth, from their lofty state of exaltation, whom he is most intent to cast down to hell, and in their very fall the deceiver will largely assure them that they are the children of God, and under his guardian care, even whilst they are doing what the deceiver of their souls would have them—Give their hearts to the creature instead of the Creator, and live to themselves, instead of living to him who died to redeem them.

V. 16. Who fed thee in the wilderness with manna, that he might humble thee—By keeping thee in a constant dependance upon him for every day's food, and convincing thee what an impotent, helpless creature thou art in thyself, having nothing whereon to subsist, but from hand to mouth, and being supported wholly by the alms of divine goodness given to thee from day to day. The mercies of God, if duly considered, are as powerful an argument to humble us as the greatest afflictions, because they increase our debts to God, and manifest our dependance upon him and insufficiency without him, and by making God great, they make us little in our own eyes. That he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end—That after he hath purged and prepared thee by afflictions, he may give thee, and thou mayest receive and enjoy his blessings with less disadvantage, whilst by the remembrance of former afflictions thou art made thankful for them, and more cautious not to abuse and forfeit them again.

V. 18. The Lord thy God giveth thee power to get wealth—And every increase of thy stock of worldly goods by all just means, God is the giver; but when by wicked means wealth is increased, the Lord suffers such to receive the reward of their own doings, in that heart-felt misery with which they are punished in the midst of the desires of their heart.

V. 20. Ye perish, because ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the Lord your God—Whatever is done contrary to the will of God, is a step towards destruction; and the authority of no human example can be any better safeguard against the wrath of God, whenever he is wilfully disobeyed, than the wisdom and power of the king and people of Egypt were against these plagues which God sent, as the consequences of their refusing to comply with the commands he caused to be delivered to them.

CHAP. IX.

V. 1. Thou art to pass over Jordan this day—Shortly, within a little time, the word day being often put for time, (John viii. 56.) within two months; for Moses spake this on the first day of the eleventh month, (Deut. i. 3.) and they passed over Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, (Jos. iv. 19.) To go in to possess nations—The land of those nations, for the people they were to destroy. Mightier than thyself—That they might not be surprized when they find them to be such, and that they might not trust to their own strength, but wholly rely upon God's help for the destroying of them; and, after the work was done, might ascribe the praise and glory of it to God alone, and not to themselves. Fenced up to heaven—As the spies reported. The account God gives them of the country, the people, and their situation, was no other than the things described were in themselves; and what is said on the same authority is that which is so, and in the nature of things cannot be otherwise, it not being possible that truth itself and wisdom, which comprehends all things, should misinform mankind. The words of men mislead, because the very nature of man, unassisted with the grace of God, is deceitful, but God is not a man that he should lie; and when we are reading the description which God hath given of the things of time, and find it to be as he has said, we shall be without excuse if we trust to our own conjectures as to the things of eternity in opposition to the word of God.—God says, There is a state of eternal misery, and that except a man be born of the Spirit he cannot enter the kingdom of God (John iii. 5.) and escape that misery. Of how much moment is it then for all that are not willing to hazard their eternal misery upon the presumption, that what God sayeth of eternity will not prove as he hath said, notwithstanding all that he hath said of the things of time hath literally proved true?

V. 2. Thou hast heard say—From common fame, for this seems to be a proverb, used in those times.

Before Christ 1451.

3 Understand therefore this day, that the Lord thy God is he which goeth over before thee as a [c] consuming fire: he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: so shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the Lord hath said unto thee.

[c] Chap. 4. 24. Heb. 12. 29.

4 Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the Lord thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying, [d] For my righteousness the Lord hath brought me in to possess this land: but [e] for the wickedness of these nations the Lord doth drive them out from before thee.

[d] Chap. 8. 17. Rom. 11. 6. 20. 1 Cor. 4. 4. 7.

[e] Gen. 15. 16.

5 [f] Not for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thine heart dost thou go to possess their land: but for the wickedness of these nations the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform [g] the word which the Lord sware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

[f] Tit. 3. 4.

[g] Gen. 12. 7. & 13. 15. & 15. 7. & 17. 8. & 26. 4. & 28. 13.

6 Understand therefore, that the Lord thy God giveth thee not this good land to possess it, for thy righteousness; for thou art [h] a stiff-necked people.

[h] Exod. 32. 9. & 33. 3. & 34. 9.

7 ¶ Remember, and forget not how thou provokedst the Lord thy God to wrath in the wilderness: [i] from the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious against the Lord.

[i] Exod. 14. 11. & 16. 2. & 17. 2. Num. 11. 4. & 20. 2. & 25. 2.

Before Christ 1451.

8 Also [k] in Horeb ye provoked the Lord to wrath, so that the Lord was angry with you, to have destroyed you.

[k] Exod. 32. 4. Psa. 106. 19.

1491.

9 [l] When I was gone up into the mount, to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which the Lord made with you, then [m] I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights; I neither did eat bread nor drink water:

[l] Exod. 24. 12. 15.

[m] Exod. 24. 18. and 34. 28.

10 [n] And the Lord delivered unto me two tables of stone written with the finger of God, and on them was written according to all the words which the Lord spake with you in the mount, out of the midst of fire, [o] in the day of the assembly.

[n] Exod. 31. 18.

[o] Exod. 19. 17. and 20. 1.

11 And it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the Lord gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant.

12 And the Lord said unto me, [p] Arise, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt, have corrupted themselves: they are quickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded

[p] Exod. 32. 7.

V. 3. The Lord thy God is he which goeth over before thee—As he doth in every difficulty before all them that fear him, and put their trust in his mercy and faithfulness, for the sake of the Son of his love. A consuming fire—Which God is to them that are enemies to him by wicked works. So shalt thou drive them out quickly—Without great difficulty or long wars.

V. 4. Speak not thou in thine heart, saying, For my righteousness the Lord hath brought me in to possess this land—Who would think this caution would be necessary, after all that they themselves knew of their own conduct? But He that knoweth what is in man, knoweth that it was a part of the deceitfulness of his nature, to think himself deserving of blessings, wherein he only was deserving of wrath.

V. 5. Not for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thine heart—Neither for thy upright heart, nor holy life, which are the two things which God above all things regards, (1 Chro. xxix. 17. Psal. xv. 1, 2.) If Jesus the Saviour of sinners is low in our esteem and lightly regarded by us; it becomes a duty to ourselves to inquire Whether our righteousness or the uprightness of our hearts can give us a better title to heaven, than righteousness of life and uprightness of heart gave the Israelites to Canaan? The Jews failed in both by discontent in their hearts, and by breathing that spirit out in murmurs against the government of God. Reader, have you always been contented? Have you never murmured? Do the walls of your house bear witness to no other language than that which agrees with his spirit, who said, The Lord gave, and the Lord taketh away, and blessed be the name of the Lord. For the wickedness of these nations the Lord thy God doth drive them out—Making them examples of the severity of his justice, that all the nations of the earth might be restrained from wickedness by the fear of the wrath of God. The word which the Lord sware unto thy fathers—To shew my faithfulness in accomplishing that promise which I graciously made and confirmed with my oath. By which words it is implyed, that this land was not given to them for the righteousness of their fathers, though they were righteous and holy persons, and much less for their own righteousness.

V. 6. Thou art a stiff-necked people—Rebellious and perverse, and destitute of all pretence of righteousness; such were the people, but there were many particular persons amongst them truly righteous and holy, and yet even their righteousness is denied to be the procuring cause of this land; any more than that the works of mens hands can bestow upon their hearts a new nature, or what they do as their duty, which at all times they are equally bound to perform, should purchase them the mercy of God for the crimes they have carelessly and wilfully committed.

V. 7. Ye have been rebellious against the Lord—And of whom may not this be said? He that hath rebelled against God by any sin, hath forfeited his life and his all; and from that time what hath he wherewith to purchase pardon for his crimes, or to give in exchange for his soul.

V. 8. In Horeb ye provoked the Lord—When your miraculous deliverance out of Egypt was fresh in memory; when God had but newly manifested himself to you in so stupenduous and dreadful a manner, and had taken you into covenant with himself, when God was actually conferring further mercies upon you.

V. 9. I neither did eat bread nor drink water—I wholly abstained from all meat and drink.

V. 10. The Lord delivered unto me two tables of stone, written with the finger of God—Immediately and miraculously, which was done not only to procure the greater reverence to the law, but also to signify, that it was the work of God alone to write this law upon the tables of mens hearts. (2 Cor. iii. 3.) In the day of the assembly—When the people were gathered together by God's command to the bottom of Mount Sinai, to hear and receive God's ten commandments from his own mouth.

V. 14. Let

Before Christ 1491.

commanded them; they have made them a molten image.

13 Furthermore, the Lord ſpake unto me, ſaying, I have ſeen this people, and behold, [o] it is a ſtiff-necked people.

o Ver. 6. Chap. 10. 16. and 31. 27. 2 Kings 17. 14. Pſa. 9. 5. & 109. 13.

14 Let me alone, that I may deſtroy them, and [r] blot out their name from under heaven: and I will make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they.

r Chap. 29. 20.

15 So I turned, and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands.

16 And [s] I looked, and behold, ye had ſinned againſt the Lord your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aſide quickly out of the way which the Lord had commanded you.

s Exod. 32. 19.

17 And I took the two tables, and caſt them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes.

18 And I [t] fell down before the Lord, as at the firſt, forty days and forty nights; I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, becauſe of all your ſins which ye ſinned, in doing wickedly in the ſight of the Lord, to provoke him to anger.

t Exod. 34. 28. Pſa. 106. 23.

19 (For I was afraid of the anger, and hot diſpleaſure wherewith the Lord was wroth againſt you to deſtroy you) But the Lord hearkened unto me at that time alſo.

20 And the Lord was very angry with Aaron to have deſtroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron alſo the ſame time.

21 And [u] I took your ſin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and ſtamped it, and ground it very ſmall, even until it was as ſmall as duſt: and I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook that deſcended out of the mount.

u Exod. 32. 20.

Before Christ 1491.

22 And at [x] Taberah, and at [y] Maſſah, and at [o] Kibroth-hattaavah, ye provoked the Lord to wrath.

x Num. 11. 1, 3, 5. y Exod. 17. 7. o Num. 11. 4, 34.

23 Likewiſe [a] when the Lord ſent you from Kadeſh-barnea, ſaying, Go up and poſſeſs the land which I have given you; then you rebelled againſt the commandment of the Lord your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice.

a Num. 13. 3. and 14.

24 [k] You have been rebellious againſt the Lord, from the day that I knew you.

k Chap. 31. 27.

25 [c] Thus I fell down before the Lord forty days, and forty nights, as I fell down at the firſt; becauſe the Lord had ſaid he would deſtroy you.

c Verſe 18.

26 [d] I prayed therefore unto the Lord, and ſaid, O Lord God, deſtroy not thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou haſt redeemed through thy greatneſs, which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

d Exod. 32. 11, &c.

27 Remember thy ſervants, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob; look not unto the ſtubbornneſs of this people, nor to their wickedneſs, nor to their ſin:

1490

28 Leſt [e] the land whence thou broughteſt us out, ſay, [f] Becauſe the Lord was not able to bring them into the land which he promiſed them, and becauſe he hated them, he hath brought them out to ſlay them in the wilderneſs.

e Gen. 41. 57. 1 Sam. 14. 23. f Exod. 32. 12. Num. 14. 16.

29 [g] Yet they are thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt out by thy

g Chap. 4. 20.

V. 14. Let me alone—Stop not the courſe of my fury by thy interceſſion. Such power hath a Mediator's prayer with God, that when his juſtice is provoked, and his wrath ready to be let looſe upon the guilty; man's intereſſor muſt firſt ceaſe to pray before vengeance is executed. How long he that was greater than Moſes will continue to pray, is diſcovered to us in his praying for his murderers upon the croſs. What muſt not that miſery be, which muſt befal the deſpiſers of the mercy of God, and the offenders againſt the juſtice of God?

V. 17. I took the two tables, and brake them before your eyes—Not by an unbridled paſſion, but in zeal for God's honour, and by the direction of God's ſpirit, to ſignify to the people, that the covenant between God and them contained in thoſe tables, was broken and made void, and they were now quite caſt out of God's favour, and could expect nothing from him but ſevere juſtice.

V. 18. I fell down before the Lord—In humiliation and ſupplication on your behalf.

V. 19. The Lord hearkened unto me at that time alſo—Not till the interceſſor ceaſes to pray, doth God ceaſe to hear and anſwer.

V. 20. The Lord was very angry with Aaron—Though he was only acceſſary, as being perſuaded, and in a manner compelled to comply with your deſire.

V. 21. I took your ſin—The object and matter of your ſin. I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook—That there might be no monument or remembrance of it left.

V. 24. Ye have been rebellious againſt the Lord, from the day that I knew you—Who can read theſe words without admiring the ſincerity of this faithful ſervant of God?

V. 25. Thus I fell down before the Lord forty days and forty nights—And how equal to his ſincerity doth his love appear? As I fell down at the firſt—Which ſhews that this was the ſecond time of his ſo doing.

V. 26. O Lord God, deſtroy not thy people, and thine inheritance, which thou haſt redeemed through thy greatneſs—Through the greatneſs of thy power, which appeared moſt eminently in that work of thy great mercy to them whom thou haſt choſen, to ſhew to all the earth the nature of thy wonderful deſign in redeeming ſinful men.

V. 27. Remember thy ſervants, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob—The promiſe made and ſworn to them.

V. 29. They are thy people—Whom thou haſt choſen to thyſelf out of all mankind, and publicly owned them for thine, and haſt purchaſed and redeemed them from the Egyptian bondage.

CHAP.

Before Christ 1490. thy mighty power, and by thy ſtretched out arm.

CHAP. X.

[a] Exod. 34. 1. Before Christ 1491. AT that time the Lord ſaid unto me, [a] Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ark of wood.

2 And I will write on the tables the words that were in the firſt tables which thou brakeſt, and thou ſhalt put them in the ark.

[b] Exod. 25. 5. and 37. 1. 3 And I made an ark of [b] ſhittim-wood, and hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in mine hand.

[c] Exod. 34. 28. * Heb. words. 4 And [c] he wrote on the tables, according to the firſt writing, the ten * commandments, which the Lord ſpake unto you in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, in the day of the aſſembly: and the Lord gave them unto me.

5 And I turned myſelf, and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made, and there they be, as the Lord commanded me.

[d] Num. 33. 31. [e] Num. 33. 30. [f] Num. 20. 28. and 33. 38. 6 ¶ And [d] the children of Iſrael took their journey from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan, to [e] Moſera: [f] there Aaron died, and there he was buried; and Eleazar his ſon miniſtered in the prieſt's office in his ſtead. Before Christ 1491.

[g] Num. 33. 32. 33. 34. 7 [g] From thence they journeyed unto Gudgodah; and from Gudgodah to Jotbath, a land of rivers of waters.

[h] Num. 3. 6. and 4. 4. and 8. 14. [i] Chap. 18. 5. [k] Lev. 9. 22. Num. 6. 24. 8 ¶ At that time [h] the Lord ſeparated the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of the Lord, [i] to ſtand before the Lord to miniſter unto him, and [k] to bleſs in his name, unto this day.

[l] Num. 18. 20. Chap. 18. 1. Ezek. 44. 28. 9 [l] Wherefore Levi hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren: the Lord is his inheritance, according as the Lord thy God promiſed him.

[m] Exod. 32. 28. Chap. 9. 18, 25. † Or, former days. [n] Exod. 32. 32, 33. [o] 33. 17. Chap. 9. 19. 10 And [m] I ſtayed in the mount, according to the † firſt time, forty days and forty nights, and [n] the Lord hearkened unto me at that time alſo, and the Lord would not deſtroy thee.

[o] Exod. 32. 34. and 33. 1. ‡ Heb. go in journey. 11 [o] And the Lord ſaid unto me, Ariſe, ‡ take thy journey before the people, that they may go in, and poſſeſs the land which I ſware unto their fathers to give unto them.

[p] Mic. 6. 8. 12 ¶ And now Iſrael, [p] what doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the

V. 7. From thence they journeyed—About that time, which being conſidered, may ſerve to clear the difficulty concerning the ſeeming contradiction of this place, and Numb. xxxiii. 31, 32.

V. 8. At that time—About that time, (i. e.) when I was come down from the mount, as was ſaid verſe 5. For theſe words manifeſtly look to that verſe, the 6 and 7 verſes being put in by way of parentheſis as was ſaid before. Or, if it relate to the words immediately foregoing, this may be meant of a ſecond ſeparation of them upon Aaron's death, and having mentioned the ſeparation of Eleazar to the office of the high-prieſt in his father's ſtead, verſe 6, he now repeats it, that the Levites who were his, as they had been his father's ſervants, were ſeparated as before, or were confirmed. To ſtand before the Lord—A phraſe uſed concerning the prophets, and this being the poſture of miniſters. Hence the angels are ſaid to ſtand, (2 Chron. xviii. 18. Luke i. 19.) To bleſs in his name—To pronounce the ſolemn bleſſing of God upon the congregation, which was done in God's name—and to praiſe God, a conſiderable part of the Levites work. (1 Chron. xvi.)

V. 9. The Lord is his inheritance—The Lord's portion; tithes and offerings, which belong to God, are given by him to the Levites for their ſubſiſtence.

V. 10. The Lord hearkened unto me at that time alſo, and would not deſtroy thee—Again they were ſpared by their interceſſors' prayer.

V. 11. The Lord ſaid unto me, Ariſe, take thy journey before the people, that they may go in, and poſſeſs the land—For my wrath is appeaſed, and I am reconciled to them, and forgiving all that is paſſed, now lead them forward to Canaan.

V. 12. Now, Iſrael, what doth the Lord thy God require of thee—By way of duty and gratitude to God for ſuch amazing mercies.

V. 13. For thy good—God loves from himſelf, and only commands the obedience of men to his will, that they, by yielding to his grace from duty to duty, may be holy and happy. The end

Before Christ 1491.

the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and [q] to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, 13 To keep the commandments of the Lord, and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day for thy good?

14 Behold, [r] the heaven, and the heaven of heavens is the Lord's thy God, [s] the earth alſo with all that therein is.

15 Only the Lord had a delight in thy fathers to love them, and he choſe their ſeed after them, even you above all people, as it is this day.

16 Circumciſe therefore [t] the foreſkin of your heart, and be no more ſtiff-necked.

17 For the Lord your God is God of gods, and [u] Lord of lords, a great god, a mighty, and a terrible, which [x] regardeth not perſons, nor taketh reward.

18 [y] He doth execute the judgment of the fatherleſs and widow, and loveth the ſtranger, in giving him food and raiment.

19 [z] Love ye therefore the ſtranger: for ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt.

20 [a] Thou ſhalt fear the Lord thy God; him ſhalt thou ſerve, and to him ſhalt thou [b] cleave, [c] and ſwear by his name.

21 [d] He is thy praiſe, and he is thy God, that hath done for thee theſe great and terrible things which thine eyes have ſeen.

22 Thy fathers went down into Egypt with threeſcore and ten perſons; and now the Lord thy God hath made thee [f] as the ſtars of heaven for multitude.

Before Christ 1451.

CHAP. XI.

THerefore thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God, and keep his charge, and his ſtatutes, and his judgments, and his commandments alway.

2 And know you this day: for I ſpeak not with your children which have not known, and which have not ſeen the chaſtiſement of the Lord your God, his greatneſs, his mighty hand, and his ſtretched out arm;

3 And his miracles, and his acts which he did in the midſt of Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land;

4 And what he did unto the army of Egypt, unto their horſes, and to their chariots, [a] how he made the water of the Red ſea to overflow them as they purſued after you, and how the Lord hath deſtroyed them unto this day;

5 And what he did unto you in the wilderneſs, until ye came into this place;

6 And [k] what he did unto Dathan and Abiram, the ſons of Eliab, the ſon of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, and their houſholds, and their q Chap. 6. 5. Matt. 22. 37.

r Exod. 19. 5. Pſal. 115. 16. and 148. 4.
s Gen. 14. 19. Pſal. 24. 1.
t See Lev. 26. 41. Chap. 30. 6. Jer. 4. 4. Rom. 2. 28, 29. Col. 2. 11.
u Rev. 17. 14. and 19. 16.
x 2 Chron. 19. 7. Job 34. 19. Acts 10. 34. Rom. 2. 11. Gal. 2. 6. Eph. 6. 9. Col. 3. 25. 1 Pet. 1. 17.
y Pſal 68. 5. and 146. 9.
z Lev. 19. 33, 34. Gal. 2. 6. a Chap. 6. 13. Matth. 4. 10. Luke 4. 8.
b Chap. 13. 4.
c Pſal. 63. 11.
d Exod. 15. 2. Pſal. 22. 3. Jer. 17. 14.
e Gen. 46. 27. Exod. 1. 5. Acts 7. 14.
f Gen. 15. 5.
a Exod. 14. 27.
k Num. 16. 32. and 27. 3. Pſal. 106. 17.

end of the commandment is charity—the love of God to all and of every one. He who made us, and who alone is perfectly acquainted with our nature, hath ſet himſelf before us as the end of living, and conſummation of our happineſs, and all his laws are to lead immortal ſouls to himſelf.—The whole law of God leads to HIM through whom alone we can come unto God, and from whom, and for whoſe ſake grace is received to do his will on earth as it is done in heaven; to neglect the knowledge of the law of God, is to neglect the ſureſt information of the neceſſity of a Mediator and Redeemer, who only can ſave us from that juſtice of God againſt which we have offended; and to conſider the commands of God in any other light than as holy, juſt and only for our good, is indeed no other than to think ourſelves better judges than infinite wiſdom, by whoſe rules we ought to be governed through our lives of trial, into that eternity which is only made known unto us from God.

V. 14. The heaven—The airy and ſtary heaven. The heaven of heavens—The higheſt, or third heaven. With all that therein is—With all creatures and all men, which being all his, he might have choſen what nation he pleaſed to be his people.

V. 15. Only the Lord had a delight in thy fathers to love them—He ſhews that God had no particular reaſon nor obligation to their fathers, any more than to other perſons or people, all being equally his creatures, and that his choice of them out of and above all others proceeded only from God's good pleaſure and free love.

V. 16. Circumciſe your heart—Reſt not in your bodily circumciſion, but ſeriouſly ſet upon that ſubſtantial work which is ſignified and deſigned thereby, cleanſe your hearts from all filthineſs and ſuperfluity of naughtineſs, which render all that are profane and unclean, odious in the ſight of God.

V. 17. The Lord your God regardeth not perſons—Whether Jews or Gentiles, but deals juſtly and equally with all ſorts of men, and as whoſoever fear and obey him ſhall be accepted of him, ſo all incorrigible tranſgreſſors ſhall be ſeverely puniſhed, and you no leſs than other people; therefore do not flatter yourſelves as if God would bear with your ſins, becauſe of his particular kindneſs to you, or to your fathers.

V. 18. He doth execute the judgment of the fatherleſs and widow, and loveth the ſtranger—To give them right againſt their adverſaries, and therefore he expects you ſhould imitate his example.

V. 20. Thou ſhalt fear the Lord thy God; him ſhalt thou ſerve, and to him ſhalt thou cleave—With firm confidence, true affection, and conſtant attendance and obedience.

V. 21. He is thy praiſe—The object and matter of thy praiſe, whom thou ſhouldeſt ever praiſe. The ground of thy praiſe, he who makes thee honourable and glorious, above all others.

V. 22. Thy fathers went down into Egypt—Few in number. And now the Lord hath made thee as the ſtars of heaven for multitude—Thereby proving to you in your own perſons the faithfulneſs of his promiſes.

CHAP. XI.

V. 1. Therefore thou ſhalt love the Lord thy God—Who hath done ſuch great things for thee, and hath ſtill ſuch things in ſtore for thee as eye hath not ſeen, nor ear heard.

V. 2. And know—Acknowledge and conſider it with diligence and thankfulneſs.

V. 4. How the Lord hath deſtroyed them unto this day—The effect of which deſtruction continueth to this day, in their weakneſs and fear, and our ſafety from all their further attempts againſt us.

Before Christ 1451. their tents, and all the * substance that † was in their possession in the midst of all Israel.

* Or, living substance which followed them. † Heb. was at their feet.

7 But your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord, which he did.

8 Therefore shall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be strong, and go in and possess the land whither ye go to possess it:

9 And that ye may prolong your days in the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give unto them, and to their seed, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 ¶ For the land whither thou goest in to possess it, is not as the land of Egypt, from whence ye came out, where thou sowedst thy seed, and wateredst it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs:

11 But the land whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and vallies, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven:

‡ Heb. seeketh. e 1 Kings 9. 3. 12 A land which the Lord thy God ‡ careth for: e the eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year.

13 ¶ And it shall come to pass, if you shall hearken diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, to love the Lord your God, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul;

Before Christ 1451.

14 That I will give you the rain of your land in his due season, d the first rain and the latter rain, that thou mayest gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil.

d Joel 2. 23. James 5. 7.

15 And I will § send grass in thy fields, for thy cattle, that thou mayest eat and be full.

§ Heb. give.

16 Take heed to yourselves, e that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aside, and f serve other gods, and worship them:

e Chap. 29. 18. f Chap. 8. 19.

17 And then the Lord's wrath be kindled against you, and he g shut up the heaven that there be no rain, and that the land yield not her fruit, and lest ye perish quickly from off the good land which the Lord giveth you.

g 1 Kings 17. 1.

18 ¶ Therefore h shall ye lay up these my words in your heart, and in your soul, and i bind them for a sign upon your hand, that they

h Chap. 6. 6. i Chap. 6. 8.

V. 6. And all their possession—At their feet, under their power, which followed them.

V. 7. Your eyes have seen all the great acts of the Lord—All of them had seen some, and some of them had seen all, the great things done in Egypt, and at the Red Sea, and in the wilderness. Were we now to imagine ourselves amongst the thousands of Israel, hearing all these words from the mouth of Moses,—charging the whole multitude with only doing wickedly from the time he had become their leader, and then appealing to their own knowledge for the proofs of all he had said, we surely should not be able to prevail with ourselves to believe Moses had a design to impose any thing upon us for truth, which was not so.

V. 10. Where thou sowedst thy seed, and wateredst it with thy foot—With great pains and labour.

V. 11. The land whither ye go to possess it, is a land of hills and vallies—And much more healthful than Egypt. And health being the greatest of all outward blessings, Canaan must therefore needs be a more desirable habitation than Egypt, which is the thing here implied. And drinketh water of the rain of heaven—Immediately from God's power and goodness; being given thee without thy charge or pains; more sweet and pleasant than the waters of Nilus, and more certain too, the former and the latter rain being promised, and to be given to them in their several seasons, upon condition of their obedience.

V. 12. A land which the Lord thy God careth for—In a special manner, and giveth peculiar blessings to it. The eyes of the Lord thy God are always upon it from the beginning, even unto the end of the year—To give it the rain, and other blessings proper to the several seasons. But all these mercies and the fruitfulness of the land consequent upon them were suspended upon their disobedience as it here follows. And therefore it is not at all strange that some later writers decry the land of Canaan as in great part a barren soil, which is so far from affording any ground to question the divine authority of the holy Scriptures in which its fruitfulness is declared, that it doth much more confirm it, this being but an effect of that threatning that God would turn a fruitful land into barrenness for the wickedness of those that dwell in it, (Psal. cvii. 34.) and the wickedness of the Israelites in succeeding ages being notorious, the country in which they lived, is by the judgment of God, shewn to the world in its present barren state, as an example to all that should live ungodly lives, and bid defiance to that justice, mercy and truth, which God requires of all nations.

V. 14. The first rain and the latter rain—The first fell in seed time, the other before harvest.

V. 16. Take heed to yourselves that your heart be not deceived—By the specious pretences of idolaters, who will plead the general consent of all nations, except yours, in the worship of creatures, and that they worship the creatures only for God's sake, and as they are glorious works of God, whom they worship in and by them. Which, and the like arguments, being commonly alledged by Heathens for their idolatries, as their own writers declare, might possibly seduce an unwary Israelite; and therefore they are here cautioned against such deceit, and withal it is implied, that if a man's mind be corrupted and deceived, so as he believes idolatry to be lawful, this will not excuse him in the sight of God.

V. 17. Then the Lord's wrath be kindled against you, and he shut up the heaven—Which is compared sometimes to a bottle, (Job xxxviii. 37.) which may be either stopped or opened: sometimes to a great store-house wherein God lays up his treasures of rain, (Job xxxviii. 22. Psal. xxxiii. 7.) the doors whereof God is said to open when he gives rain, and to shut, when he with-holds it. (1 King. viii. 35. 2 Chron. vi. 26. and vii. 13.) and as the land hath rain with-held from it on account of your sinfulness, so will his holy spirit, the sole cause of all true goodness and happiness in your souls be with-held, if you sin against God, especially by not believing in him as he hath revealed himself.

V. 18. Therefore shall ye lay up these my words in your heart—That by the word of God you may be taught and reminded what is the good and acceptable will of the Lord. For it is the constant design of satan, the declared enemy of God and the deceiver of men, by all means to lead them to neglect and forget the word of God, that they may forget God and live without him in the world; but the doing so will be the cause of your own misery and ruin—therefore lay up these words which God hath revealed in your heart

Before Christ 1451.

they may be as frontlets between your eyes.

19 [k] And ye shall teach them your children, speaking of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou liest down, and when thou risest up.

20 And thou shalt write them upon the door-posts of thine house, and upon thy gates:

21 That your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give them, [l] as the days of heaven upon the earth.

22 ¶ For if ye shall diligently keep all these commandments which I command you to do them, to love the Lord your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him;

23 Then will the Lord drive out all these nations from before you, and ye shall possess great nations, and mightier than yourselves.

24 [m] Every place whereon the soles of your feet shall tread, shall be your's: [n] from the wilderness, and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermost sea, shall your coast be.

25 There shall no man be able to stand before you: for the Lord your God shall lay the fear of you, and the dread of you upon all the land that ye shall tread upon, [o] as he hath said unto you.

26 ¶ [p] Behold, I set before you this day a blessing and a curse:

27 [q] A blessing, if ye obey the commandments of the Lord your God which I command you this day:

28 And a [r] curse, if ye will not obey the commandments of the Lord your God, but turn aside out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods which ye have not known.

29 And it shall come to pass when the Lord thy God hath brought thee in unto the land whither thou goest to possess it, that thou shalt put [s] the blessing upon mount Gerizzim, and the curse upon mount Ebal.

30 Are they not on the other side Jordan, by the way where the sun goeth down, in the land of the Canaanites, which dwell in the champian over against Gilgal, [t] beside the plains of Moreh?

31 For ye shall pass over Jordan, to go in to k Chap. 4. 9, 10. and 6. 7.

l Psal. 72. 5. & 89. 29, 30.

m Josh. 1. 3. and 14. 9.

n Gen. 15. 18. Exod. 23. 31. Num. 34. 3.

o Exod. 23. 27.

p Chap. 30. 19.

q Chap. 28. 2.

r Chap. 28. 15.

s Chap. 27. 12, 13. Josh. 8. 33.

t Gen. 12. 6. Judges 7. 1.

heart, and in your soul, and bind them upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes—That they may be preserved continually in your sight, and so never be out of your minds.

V. 19. Teach them your children—As you love them and wish their welfare—As you are bound by your duty as parents, as their helplessness and want of information calls upon you not to leave them ignorant of their danger, and of the way God hath provided for their safety and happiness for ever.—As you ought to value the approval of God in this life, and in the great day when he shall judge you for the deeds done in the body.—As you would not have your children curse you as the causes of their coming into life—teach them the knowledge of the word of God—Especially in shewing them their fallen state by nature, its depravity, its wickedness, and its consequent misery; and then that sin both in nature and practice can only be atoned for by the God-man, Christ Jesus the Lord, that they may be brought up to love him as the author of their lives, and of their salvation, expecting every good and perfect gift from his holy spirit to their hearts and minds to renew them in his own blessed image, in which the first of men was made.

V. 21. That your days may be multiplied—Your lives prolonged by your obedience to God—following peace with all men, and that holiness without which no man shall see the Lord, for the days of the wicked are not multiplied that the evil influence of their example may be prevented—they do not live out half their days, and their memory is made to perish. But they that live unto God according to his word, their days upon earth shall be as the days of heaven upon the earth—For blessedness, and the generation of the righteous shall be as long as this visible world lasts, whilst the heaven keeps its place, and continues its influences upon earth, until all these things be dissolved. (Psal. lxxii. 5. and lxxxi, 5. and lxxxix. 29. Jer. xxxiii. 25.) And as they are removed from the earth, they shall be received up into his glory, who died to redeem them from sin, and by whose grace they are saved.

V. 24. Every place whereon your feet shall tread—In the promised land. Shall be yours—By possession, by dominion, upon condition of your obedience. From the wilderness—Of sin, on the south-side. And Lebanon—And to Lebanon, which was the northern border. From the river Euphrates—On the east. So far their right of dominion extended, but that their sins cut them short: but so far Solomon extended his domonion. Even unto the uttermost sea—The western, or midland sea.

V. 26. I set before you a blessing and a curse—I propose them to your minds and to your choice.

V. 28. A curse, if ye go after other gods which ye have not known—Which you have no acquaintance with, nor experience of their power, wisdom or goodness, as you have had of mine.

V. 29. When the Lord thy God hath brought thee in unto the land, thou shalt put the blessing upon mount Gerizzim, and the curse upon mount Ebal—Thou shalt speak or pronounce, or cause to be pronounced. Which things are an allegory, for these represent the two covenants—They that believe in God as their Redeemer, shall be saved—shall as assuredly be blessed as was mount Gerizzim—they that would balance their good deeds against what they think of their failings, and so conclude they owe God nothing,—that neither their nature or their crimes have need of such a sacrifice as the Scriptures declare—that the blood of the covenant is a thing of no great moment, nor Jesus who shed it no object of their love or praise—that they trust to other notions of God than those he hath given mankind of himself in his will declared from heaven and published to the world—That they who expect salvation from themselves—from what they are or what they have been—what they have done or what they have avoided—Cursed as mount Ebal was commanded to be, as all those shall be who expect salvation from any other cause than that God himself is the only Saviour of men. And this blessing and this curse were pronounced on these two mountains, that they might be turned into monuments, to remind them that the law, holy, just and good as it was, had its first use in bringing sinful souls to their Saviour Christ—and that it was but by grace received through faith in him that men must be saved and enabled to do God's will upon earth, as it is done in heaven. (Gal. iv. 22. Eph. ii. 8.)

V. 30. Over against Gilgal—Looking towards Gilgal, though at some considerable distance from it.

V. 31. Ye

Before Christ 1451. to poſſeſs the land which the Lord your God giveth you, and ye ſhall poſſeſs it, and dwell therein.

a Chap. 4. 32. 32 And ye ſhall obſerve [a] to do all the ſtatutes and judgments which I ſet before you this day.

CHAP. XII.

THESE are the ſtatutes and judgments which ye ſhall obſerve to do in the land which the Lord God of thy fathers giveth thee to poſſeſs it, all the days that ye live upon the earth.

a Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 7. 5. * Or, inherit. 2 [a] Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy all the places wherein the nations which ye ſhall * poſſeſs ſerved their gods, upon the high mountains, and upon the hills, and under every green tree.

b Num. 33. 52. Judges 2. 2. † Heb. break down. 3 And [b] you ſhall † overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire, and you ſhall hew down the graven images of their gods, and deſtroy the names of them out of that place.

4 Ye ſhall not do ſo unto the Lord your God. Before Christ 1451.

5 But unto the place which the Lord your God ſhall [c] chooſe out of all your tribes, to put his name there, even unto his habitation ſhall ye ſeek, and thither thou ſhalt come:

c Verſe 11. Joſh. 9. 27. 1 Kings 8. 29. 2 Chro. 7. 12.

6 And [d] thither ye ſhall bring your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices, and your [e] tithes, and heave-offerings of your hand, and your vows, and your free-will-offerings, and the firſtlings of your herds, and of your flocks.

d Lev. 17. 3.

e Verſe 17. Chap. 14. 22. and 15. 19, 20.

7 And [f] there ye ſhall eat before the Lord your God, and ye ſhall rejoice in all that you put your hand unto, ye and your houſholds, wherein the Lord thy God hath bleſſed thee.

f Chap. 14. 26.

8 Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do hear this day, every man whatſoever is right in his own eyes.

9 For ye are not as yet come to the reſt, and to the inheritance which Lord your God giveth you. 10 But

V. 31. Ye ſhall poſſeſs it—For ſooner ſhall heaven and earth paſs away than one word or promiſe made of mine ſhall fail; that all that ſhall build their righteouſneſs and their happineſs by faith on the rock Chriſt Jeſus, may know the faithfulneſs of God in him; that they ſhall neither run in vain, nor labour in vain, that God, even their God, ſhall on his part never leave them nor forſake them, till by his grace he ſhall have prepared them for glory, and given them to poſſeſs it for ever.

V. 32. Ye ſhall obſerve to do all the ſtatutes and judgments which I ſet before you—In my declared will, every careleſs or wilful deviation from which in deſign, word or deed, being evidence of a departure from myſelf.

CHAP. XII.

V. 2. Ye ſhall deſtroy all the places—Temples, chapels, altars, groves, and whatever belongs to any way of falſe and deceitful worſhip of idols, which are nothing, and can do men no good, and all places where God is pretended to be worſhipped through any creature or reſemblance, for the ſake of which God doth not bleſs his creatures; none having any merit with him ſufficient to obtain the leaſt bleſſing, but the one Mediator between God and men, the God-man Chriſt Jeſus. The high mountains—Which the Gentiles uſed to imploy for their idolatry. Under every green tree—As the Gentiles conſecrated divers trees to their falſe God, ſo they worſhipped them under them.

V. 3. Ye ſhall break their pillars—Upon which their images were ſet. Ye ſhall hew down their gods, and deſtroy the names of them—All the memorials of them, and the very names given to the places from the idols.

V. 4. Ye ſhall not do ſo—Not worſhip him in ſeveral places, there being but one place where God is to be worſhipped—in the heart, in ſpirit and in truth,—by his ſpirit living in, and animating all the powers of the ſoul to deſign his glory, and leading to it in every ſtep, at all times, and in all places.

V. 5. But unto the place which the Lord your God ſhall chooſe to put his name there—To ſet up his worſhip there, or which he ſhall call by his name as his houſe, or dwelling-place where the ark ſhould be, the Tabernacle, or Temple. Which was firſt Shiloh, next Jeruſalem; and as God manifeſted his preſence there, ſo ſhall he in all the ends of the earth make his mercy and grace known unto them that look to him; for he is every where to be adored, being every where preſent to know all his creatures wants, and every where to ſupply them. Reader, conſider yours, and lay them before him, he hears and anſwers when worſhipped as he has commanded,—all bleſſings looked for through him on whom was laid the iniquities of us all.

V. 6. Thither ye ſhall bring your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices—To that one place, for the ſecurity of the true religion, and for the prevention of idolatry and ſuperſtition, which otherwiſe might more eaſily creep in; and to ſignify that their ſacrifices were not accepted for their own worth, but by God's gracious appointment, and for the ſake of God's altar by which they were ſanctified, and for the ſake of Chriſt, whom the altar repreſented. Heave-offerings—Your firſt-fruits, of the herds and flocks, theſe are called here the heave-offerings of their hand, becauſe the offerer was firſt to take theſe into his own hands, and to heave them before the Lord, and then to give them to the Prieſt. Your free-will-offerings—Your voluntary oblations, which were not due by my preſcription but only by your own choice and voluntary engagement: you may chooſe what kind of offering you pleaſe to vow and offer, but not the place where you ſhall offer them. The firſtlings of your herds, and of your flocks—The firſtlings or firſt-born, to be brought to this one place, and to be offered upon God's altar.

V. 7. There—Not in the moſt holy place, but in places allowed to the people for this end, in the holy city. Ye ſhall eat—Your part of the things mentioned. Before the Lord—In the place of God's preſence, where God's ſanctuary ſhall be. Ye ſhall rejoice in all that ye put your hand unto—Thus doing, ye ſhall be bleſſed and enabled to rejoice and take comfort in all your labours and enjoyments, which otherwiſe would be accurſed to you.

V. 8. Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here—Where the inconveniency of the place, and the uncertainty of our abode, and removal from ſeveral places, would not permit exact order in ſacrifices, and feaſts, and ceremonies, which therefore God was pleaſed then to diſpenſe with, but he will not do ſo there. Every man whatſoever is right in his own eyes—Not that univerſal liberty was given to all perſons to worſhip where they pleaſed, but that in many things their unſettled condition gave every one opportunity to do ſo, if he thought good.

V. 9. Ye

Before Christ 1451.

10 But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the Lord your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you rest from all your enemies round about, so that ye dwell in safety:

f Verse 5. 14, 18. 21. 26. and Chap. 14. 23. and 15. 20. and 16. 2, &c. and 17. 8. and 18. 6. and 23. 16 and 26. 2. and 31. 11. Josh. 18. 1. 1 Kings 8 29. Psal. 78. 68.

11 Then there shall be f a place which the Lord your God shall choose to cause his name to dwell there, thither shall ye bring all that I command you; your burnt-offerings, and your sacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all ‡ your choice vows which ye vow unto the Lord.

‡ Heb the choice of your vows.

12 And ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters, and your men-servants, and your maid-servants, and the Levite that is within your gates; forasmuch as h he hath no part nor inheritance with you.

h Chap. 10. 9.

13 Take heed to thyself that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings in every place that thou seest.

i Verse 11.

14 i But in the place which the Lord shall choose in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt-offerings, and there thou shalt do all that I command thee.

15 Notwithstanding, thou mayest kill and eat flesh in all thy gates, whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which he hath given thee: Before Christ 1451.

k Verse 22.

k the unclean and the clean may eat thereof, as of the roe-buck, and as of the hart.

l Gen. 9. 4. Lev. 7. 26. and 17. 10. Chap. 15. 23. and Ver. 23.

16 l Only ye shall not eat the blood; ye shall pour it upon the earth as water.

17 ¶ Thou mayest not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil, or the firstlings of thy herds, or of thy flock, nor any of thy vows which thou vowest, nor thy free-will-offerings, or heave-offering of thine hand:

m Verse 11. and Chap. 14. 22.

18 m But thou must eat them before the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord thy God shall choose, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates: and thou shalt rejoice before the Lord thy God in all that thou puttest thine hands unto.

n Chap. 14. 27.

19 n Take heed to thyself that thou forsake not the Levite § as long as thou livest upon thy earth.

§ Heb all thy days.

o Gen. 15. 18. and 28. 14. Chap. 11. 24. and 19. 8.

20 ¶ When the Lord thy God shall enlarge thy border, o as he hath promised thee, and thou shalt say, I will eat flesh (because thy

V. 9. Ye are not as yet come to the inheritance which the Lord your God giveth you—The Lord justifieth by his blood, he sanctifieth by his Spirit; the mind that was in Jesus (Phil. ii. 5.) is the inheritance of every Christian; and what is required of all that have truly turned unto God by unfeigned repentance, forsaken the dominion of Egypt, and are on their journey to the promised inheritance. Why did not all Israel enter into Canaan? Because of unbelief. What is required of us? Faith in the great promise of the Gospel—Christ in us the hope of glory.

V. 11. There shall be a place which the Lord your God shall choose to cause his name—His majesty and glory, his worship and service, his special and gracious presence, and the tokens of it. Thither shall ye bring all your choice vows—Your select or chosen vows, so called, because things offered for vows were to be perfect.

V. 12. Ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God, ye, and your sons, and your daughters—Though the males only were obliged to appear before God in their solemn feasts, (Exod. xxiii. 17.) yet the women also were included in the gracious design, though not commanded to be present, which often might have been out of their power, or distressing to them; and God's commands are to distress none, but that all may rejoice before him. (Judg. xxi. 19, 21. 1 Sam. i. 3, 7. 21, 22, 23.)

V. 13. In every place that thou seest—Which thou thinkest fit for such a work. Ye are not to substitute your own thoughts, either of the place or manner of worship, instead of what God hath commanded. He hath provided a place where you are to assemble, and you are not to refuse or to forget the command to do it accordingly.

V. 15. Notwithstanding, thou mayest kill and eat flesh—For thy common use and food. In all thy gates—Thy cities or dwellings. Whatsoever thy soul lusteth after—What you shall desire either for quantity or quality, always avoiding excess and uncleanness in the things you eat. According to the blessing of the Lord thy God, which he hath given thee—According to thy quality and estate; whereby he manifestly condemns those who profusely spend other men's money, and live at a rate which in their consciences they know to be much above their ability. The unclean—Who are forbidden to eat of holy meats. Unclean persons not being allowed to partake of material bread of the sanctuary, no more than persons wilfully abiding in any thing offensive in God's sight are, whilst they so remain, made partakers of that bread which alone can give life and health to the soul. The clean may eat thereof—Of any sort of creatures offered to God in sacrifices; and they, who with humble minds are watching unto prayer, may and will receive those spiritual blessings which God hath promised to give. Do pride, anger, envy, or any evil temper or desire, now prevent me from receiving the consolations of the promised Comforter? (John xvi. 7, 24.) If they do, the preparation of the heart is from God; and to him all flesh must come.

V. 17. Thou mayest not eat within thy gates—In your private habitations, here opposed to the place of God's worship, those things which are only to be eaten before the Lord. The blessings of the sanctuary are not to be bestowed on those that will not go there. Who can tell the blessings they lose, who neglect to wait on God in public worship.

V. 18. Thou must eat them before the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord thy God shall choose—And that thou mayest go thither to shew thy submission to the will of God to acknowledge thyself his servant, and publicly confess thy dependance upon him as the sole giver of all thy mercies.

V. 19. Take heed to thyself—Lest a worldly mind and self-love make thee rob the Levites of that support which God hath ordered to be given them by the people, for whose welfare they minister in sacred things.

V. 20. When the Lord thy God shall enlarge thy border—Which will make it inconvenient and impossible to do what now thou doest, and because of the narrow bounds of thy camp canst con-

Before Christ 1451. thy ſoul longeth to eat fleſh) thou mayeſt eat fleſh whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after.

21 If the place which the Lord thy God hath choſen to put his name there, be too far from thee; then thou ſhalt kill of thy herd, and of thy flock, which the Lord hath given thee, as I have commanded thee, and thou ſhalt eat in thy gates whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after.

p Verſe 15. 22 p Even as the roe-buck and the hart is eaten, ſo thou ſhalt eat them: the unclean and the clean ſhall eat of them alike.

q Verſe 16. § Heb. be ſtrong. r Gen. 9. 4. Lev. 17. 11, 14. 23 q Only § be ſure that thou eat not the blood: r for the blood is the life, and thou mayeſt not eat the life with the fleſh.

24 Thou ſhalt not eat it; thou ſhalt pour it upon the earth as water.

25 Thou ſhalt not eat it, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after s Chap. 13. 18. thee, s when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the Lord.

26 Only thy holy things which thou haſt and thy vows, thou ſhalt take, and go unto the place which the Lord ſhall chooſe:

t Lev. 1. 5, 9, 15. 27 And t thou ſhalt offer thy burnt-offerings, the fleſh and the blood, upon the altar of the Lord thy God: and the blood of thy ſacrifices ſhall be poured out upon the altar of the Lord thy God, and thou ſhalt eat the fleſh.

28 Obſerve and hear all theſe words which I command thee, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee for ever, when thou doeſt that which is good and right in the ſight of the Lord thy God.

Before Christ 1451.

29 ¶ When the Lord thy God ſhall cut off the nations from before thee, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs them, and thou † ſucceedeſt them, and dwelleſt in their land:

† Heb. inheriteſt, or, poſſeſſeſt them.

30 Take heed to thyſelf u that thou be not ſnared ‖ by following them, after that they be deſtroyed from before thee, and that thou inquire not after their gods, ſaying, How did theſe nations ſerve their gods? even ſo will I do likewiſe.

u Chap. 7. 16. ‖ Heb. after them.

31 Thou ſhalt not do ſo unto the Lord thy God: for every * abomination to the Lord which he hateth, have they done unto their gods: for x even their ſons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods.

* Heb. abomination of the. x Lev. 18. 21. and 20. 2. Chap. 18. 10. Jer. 32. 35.

32 What thing ſoever I command you, obſerve to do it: y thou ſhalt not add thereto, nor diminiſh from it.

y Chap. 4. 2. and 12. 32. Joſh. 1. 7. Prov. 30. 6. Revel. 22. 18.

CHAP. XIII.

IF there ariſe among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, a and giveth thee a ſign or a wonder,

a Matt. 24. 24.

2 And b the ſign or the wonder come to paſs, whereof he ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Let us go after other gods (which thou haſt not known) and let us ſerve them;

b See Chap. 18. 22. Jer. 28. 9. Matt. 7. 22.

3 Thou ſhalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for veniently do, to wit, to bring all the cattle thou uſeſt to the tabernacle, which it ſeems probable they did to prevent their eating of blood. Compare Lev. xvii. 3. 1 Sam. xiv. 34.

V. 21. As I have commanded thee—In ſuch manner as the blood may be poured forth, as above, verſe 16. and below verſe 24.

V. 22. The unclean and the clean ſhall eat of them alike—Becauſe there was no holineſs in ſuch meat, for which the unclean might be excluded from it: in many of the diſpenſations of God, the clean and the unclean, the righteous and the wicked, are not diſtinguiſhed; but they are partakers of the ſame benefits or ſufferings in the things of this life. And from which ariſes one of the many proofs of their being a ſtate after this life, in which it ſhall not be alike with the ſouls that have fled to the fountain, opened by the atoning blood for ſin and for uncleanneſs, as it is with thoſe that are in their ſins, and in their blood.

V. 23. The blood is the life—The animal life depends upon the blood.

V. 25. Thou ſhalt not—In any thing, at any time, do what is contrary to the will of God, that it may go well with thee—Which it aſſuredly will do when thou ſhalt live by faith in him, and by his grace, thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the Lord—The conſtant witneſs and judge of all thy deſigns and actions.

V. 27. Thou ſhalt eat the fleſh—Excepting what ſhall be offered to God, and given to the prieſt, according to his appointment.

V. 30. Take heed to thyſelf, that thou be not ſnared—Drawn into their ſin and ruin. And the greater caution is neceſſary on thy part, as many of thoſe that thou ſhalt ſee living according to the courſe of this preſent world, and without God in it, are wiſe in their own conceit, and are therefore acting with all the confidence that can be that they are right; and being highly honoured and eſteemed for the ſucceſs of their meaſures, thou wilt be ready to believe it better to follow their example in living for this world, than in living to God. Inquire not after their gods—Leſt thy mind be ſeduced.

V. 31. Thou ſhalt not do ſo unto the Lord—Not offer him that indignity to worſhip other gods together with him, nor by thy own devices or ſuperſtitions.

V. 32. What thing ſoever I command you, obſerve to do it—My word being thy only ſure guide. Thou ſhalt not add thereto, nor diminiſh from it—A ſtanding rule.

CHAP. XIII.

V. 1. If there ariſe among you—One of your nation, for ſuch might be both ſeduced, and afterward ſeducers. A prophet, or a dreamer of dreams—One that pretends himſelf to be one to whom God hath revealed himſelf either by viſions or dreams. Giveth thee a ſign or a wonder—Shall foretel ſome ſtrange and wonderful thing to come, as the true prophets uſed to do.

V. 2. And the ſign or the wonder come to paſs—Which God may ſuffer, for the reaſon after-mentioned. Whereof he ſpake unto thee, ſaying—This word is to be joined with verſe 1. If there ariſe among you a prophet, or dreamer of dreams, ſaying, what here follows, and giveth thee a ſign, &c. to confirm his doctrine, ſuch tranſpoſitions are frequent.

V. 3. Thou ſhalt not hearken to the words of that prophet—Not receive for the Lord your God [c] proveth you, to know whether you love the Lord your God with all your heart, and with all your ſoul.

Before Christ 1451.

4 Ye ſhall walk after the Lord your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and you ſhall ſerve him, and [d] cleave unto him.

5 And [e] that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams ſhall be put to death (becauſe he hath [*] ſpoken to turn you away from the Lord your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondage, to thruſt thee out of the way which the Lord thy God commanded thee to walk in) [f] ſo ſhalt thou put the evil away from the midſt of thee.

6 ¶ [g] If thy brother the ſon of thy mother, or thy ſon, or thy daughter, or [h] the wife of thy boſom, or thy friend, which is as thine own ſoul, entice thee ſecretly, ſaying, Let us go and ſerve other gods (which thou haſt not known, thou, nor thy fathers; Before Christ 1451

7 Namely, of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth)

8 Thou ſhalt not conſent unto him, nor hearken unto him; neither ſhall thine eye pity him, neither ſhalt thou ſpare, neither ſhalt thou conceal him.

9 But [i] thou ſhalt ſurely kill him; [k] thine hand ſhall be firſt upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people.

10 And thou ſhalt ſtone him with ſtones, that he die: becauſe he hath ſought to thruſt thee away from the Lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of † bondage.

11 And

c Chap. 8. 2. See Matt. 24. 24. 1 Cor. 11. 19. 2 Theſſ. 2. 11. Rev. 13. 14.
d Chap. 10. 20.
e Chap. 18. 20. Jer. 14. 15. Zech. 13. 3.
* Heb. ſpoken revolt againſt the LORD.
f Chap. 22. 21, 22, 24. 1 Cor. 5. 13.
g Chap. 17. 2.
h See Gen. 16. 5. Chap. 28. 54. Prov. 5. 20. Mic. 7. 5.
i Chap. 17. 7.
k Acts 7. 58.
† Heb. bondmen.

receive his doctrine though the ſign come to paſs. For although when ſuch a ſign or wonder foretold, did not follow, or come to paſs, it was a ſign of a falſe prophet, as is ſaid Deut. xviii. 22. yet when it did come to paſs, it was no ſufficient or infallible ſign of a true one, eſpecially in ſuch a caſe, when he brings in new gods. The reaſon of the difference is, becauſe many cauſes muſt concur to make a thing good and true, but any one failure is ſufficient to make a thing bad or falſe. And particularly there are many ſigns, yea, ſuch as men may think to be wonders which may be wrought by evil ſpirits, God ſo permitting it for wiſe and juſt reaſons, not only for the trial of the good, as it here follows, but alſo for the puniſhment of ungodly men, who would not receive Divine Truths, though atteſted by many evident and unqueſtionable miracles, and therefore are moſt juſtly expoſed to theſe temptations to believe lies. The Lord your God proveth you—Trieth your faith, and love, and obedience, examineth your ſincerity by your conſtancy. See Matth. xxiv. 24. 2 Theſſ. ii. 11. Rev. xiii. 14. To know whether ye love the Lord your God—That he may know it in a public manner, ſo as both you and others may know and ſee it, that ſo the juſtice of his judgments upon you may be more evident and glorious.

V. 4. Ye ſhall walk after the Lord your God, and ye ſhall ſerve him—Only; denying yourſelves every pleaſure that does not lead to God, his glory, the good of others; and not ſhunning or declining, but taking up your croſs, and that daily, doing his will from the heart.

V. 5. That prophet, or that dreamer, becauſe he hath ſpoken—Taught, or perſuaded you. To turn you away from the Lord—To forſake God and his worſhip. This ſhews that the moſt certain character of a true prophet, is to be taken from his doctrine, rather than from his miracles. To thruſt thee out of the way—This phraſe notes the great force and power of ſeducers to corrupt mens minds. Matth. xxiv. 24. So ſhalt thou put the evil away from the midſt of thee—That evil thing, that wicked doctrine and practice; that wicked and ſcandalous man, that idolater and ſeducer. And the example of his puniſhment prevent others from preſuming to advance any thing not warranted by the truths made known to you in the word of God, which is ever to be appealed to as your rule of judging.

V. 6. If thy brother, the ſon of thy mother—This is added, to reſtrain the ſignification of the word brother, which is uſed generally for one near a-kin, and to expreſs the nearneſs of the relation, the mother's ſide being uſually the ground of the trueſt and moſt fervent affection. Or thy ſon, or thy daughter—Thy piety muſt overcome both thy affection to thy neareſt relation, and thy compaſſion to the weaker ſex. The wife of thy boſom—That is near to thy heart, that hath thy deareſt love. Or thy friend, which is as thine own ſoul—As dear to thee as thyſelf. The father and mother are here omitted, not becauſe children might not accuſe their parents, but certainly they owe more reverence and duty to God, who is injured in this caſe, than to their parents. Nothing being to ſtand in oppoſition to God. Entice thee—Though it be without ſucceſs, becauſe the very attempt of ſuch a crime deſerved death, as it is judged in caſe of treaſon. Let us go and ſerve other gods—Unknown and obſcure, and new gods, which greatly aggravates the crime, to forſake a God whom thou and thy fathers have long known, and had great and good experience of.

V. 7. Of the gods of the people, from the one end of the earth, even unto the other end of the earth—This is to arm them againſt the pretence of the univerſality of this idol-worſhip, wherewith they were likely to be aſſaulted.

V. 8. Thou ſhalt not conſent unto him—Whatever honour, pleaſure, or gain, he giveth thee reaſon to believe, ſhall be the reward of a conduct contrary to the known will of God. Thou ſhalt not hearken unto him—But as ſoon as thou haſt heard ſo much as to give thee to underſtand his deſign, thou ſhalt turn away from him. Neither ſhalt thou conceal him—Smother his fault, hide or protect his perſon, but ſhalt accuſe him to the magiſtrate, and demand juſtice upon him, which was not to be done in moſt other criminal cauſes; and no wonder, this crime being of a far higher nature than others.

V. 9. Thou ſhalt ſurely kill him—Not privately, which pretence would have opened the door to innumerable murders, but by procuring his death, by the ſentence of the magiſtrate. Thine hand ſhall be firſt upon him, to put him to death—Thou ſhalt caſt the firſt ſtone at him, as the witneſs was to do. (Deut. xvii. 7. Acts vii. 58.) Well may it be ſaid upon this occaſion—Behold the goodneſs and ſeverity of God. His goodneſs in providing for the preſent and eternal intereſts of men, by ſo plainly acquainting them with the way in which he requires them to worſhip him; and his ſeverity on thoſe who ſhould wilfully give their hearts to a creature, or make to themſelves an idol, and offer to it that honour and worſhip which is due only to God.

V. 10. Thou ſhalt ſtone him with ſtones that he die: becauſe he hath ſought to thruſt thee away from the Lord thy God—The reaſon of this ſevere puniſhment.—He ſought to ſeparate a ſoul from God,

Before Christ 1451.

11 And [l] all Israel shall hear, and fear, and shall do no more any such wickedness as this is, among you.

l Chap. 17 13.

m Josh. 22. 11, &c. Judg. 20. 1, 2.

12 ¶ [m] If thou shalt hear say in one of thy cities, which the Lord thy God hath given thee to dwell there, saying,

† Or, naughty men: See Judges 19. 22. 1 Sam. 2 12. and 25. 25. 2 Cor. 6. 15. n 1 John 2. 19. Jude 19.

13 Certain men, † the children of Belial, [n] are gone out from among you, and have withdrawn the inhabitants of their city, saying, Let us go and serve other gods (which ye have not known)

14 Then shalt thou inquire and make search, and ask diligently: and behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought among you:

o Exod. 22. 20. Lev. 27. 8. Josh. 6. 17.

15 Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, [o] destroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the sword.

16 And thou shalt gather all the spoil of it into the midst of the street thereof, and shalt burn with fire the city, and all the spoil thereof every whit, for the Lord thy God: and it shall be an heap for ever, it shall not be built again.

17 And [p] there shall cleave nought of the § cursed thing to thine hand: that the Lord may turn from the fierceness of his anger, and shew thee mercy, and have compassion upon thee, and multiply thee, as he hath sworn unto thy fathers;

Before Christ 1451.

p Chap. 7. 26. § Or, devoted.

18 When thou shalt hearken to the voice of the Lord thy God, [q] to keep all his commandments which I command thee this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the Lord thy God.

q Chap. 12. 25, 28.

CHAP. XIV.

YE are the children of the Lord your God: [a] ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes for the dead.

a Lev. 19. 28. and 21. 5. Jer. 16. 6. and 41. 5. and 47. 5. 1 Thess. 4. 13.

2 [b] For thou art an holy people unto the Lord thy God, and the Lord hath chosen thee to be a peculiar people unto himself, above all the nations that are upon the earth.

b Chap. 7. 6. and 26. 18.

3 ¶ Thou shalt not eat any abominable thing.

4 [c] These are the beasts which ye shall eat: the ox, the sheep, and the goat, c Lev. 11. 2, &c.

5 The

God, and to prevent his being worshipped according to his word. The employment of the devil and his angels, who use them that are idolaters as their servants, to extend the apostate spirits influence as far and wide in the minds of men as they can—Using gold and silver now for the self-same purpose, as when images were made of those metals, and men commanded to bow their knees to them, by the authority of spiritual wickedness reigning in high places. Reader, Doth your joy most abound when your money increases? And is worldly loss and poverty your greatest sorrow and fear? Should you be called to die in that state of mind, would your immortal nature be blessed in his presence, who became poor that you might become rich—Not in houses and land, corn, cattle, merchandize, and money; but in those riches which angels prize, which the spirits of just men made perfect, enjoy—The love of God—Loved by him, and loving him with all their powers.

V. 11. All Israel shall hear, and fear, and shall do no more any such wickedness as this is—The end of the severity of God against the crimes of men in this life, is to prevent crimes from being committed; and with the prevention of the crimes, to prevent all the misery which is the sure consequence of unpardonable guilt.

V. 13. The children of Belial—A title often used in Scripture. It signifies properly persons without yoke, vile and wretched miscreants, lawless and rebellious, that will suffer no restraint, that neither fear God, nor reverence man. Gone out from among you—From your church and religion. It notes a separation or departure from them not in place, but in heart, doctrine, and worship. (1 John ii. 19.)

V. 14. Then shalt thou inquire—This is meant of the magistrate, to whose office it properly belongs, to discover crimes, and bring the guilty, that are subject to their authority, to punishment.

V. 15. Thou shalt surely smite the inhabitants of that city—All that are guilty, not the innocent part, such as disowned this apostacy. Destroying it utterly—The very same punishment which was inflicted upon the cities of the cursed Canaanites, to whom having made themselves equal in sin, God commands that they should equal them in punishment.

V. 16. Thou shalt burn with fire the city, and all the spoil thereof every whit, for the Lord thy God—For the satisfaction of God's justice, the maintenance of his honour, authority of his laws, and the pacification of his offended Majesty. It shall be an heap for ever, it shall not be built again—It shall be an eternal monument of God's justice and terror to after ages, who may be tempted to like practices.

V. 17. There shall cleave nought of the cursed thing—Of the goods of that accursed city. That the Lord may turn from the fierceness of his anger, and shew thee mercy, and multiply thee—So thou shalt have no loss of thy numbers, by cutting off so many people.

CHAP. XIV.

V. 1. Ye are the children of the Lord your God—Whom therefore you must not dishonour by unworthy or unbecoming practices, such as here follow, and whom you must not disobey; but ever looking for the communications of his grace, without which you can do nothing, live as the humble, self-denied, spiritual worshippers of the living God, whose nature is holiness, justice, truth and goodness. Ye shall not cut yourselves, nor make any baldness between your eyes—Which were the practices of idolaters both in the worship of their idols, or in their funerals, or upon occasion of public calamities. For the dead—Through excessive sorrow for your dead friends, as if you had no hope of their happiness after death. (1 Thess. iv. 13.)

V. 2. The Lord hath chosen thee—God hath chosen to himself those that are righteous. But who are they, since there is none that is righteous, no, not one? None of the children of Adam can justify themselves in the sight of God, because they are the fallen corrupt offspring of parents that lost the life and image of God in their souls, by sinning against God; but he that is born of God sinneth not, (1 John v. 18.) he is righteous in the sight of God, because his nature is made so by the good Spirit of God; and he is made a partaker of the blessedness which they have whose iniquities are forgiven, whose sins are covered; believing on him that justifieth the ungodly, their faith is counted for righteousness. (Rom. iv. 6. &c.)

V. 23. Learn

Before Christ 1451.

5 The hart, and the roe-buck, and the fallow-deer, and the wild goat, and the * † pygarg, and the wild ox, and the chamois.

6 And every beast that parteth the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, and cheweth the cud amongst the beasts; that ye shall eat.

7 Nevertheless, these ye shall not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the cony: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof; therefore they are unclean unto you.

8 And the swine, because it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye shall not eat of their flesh, [d] nor touch their dead carcase.

9 ¶ [e] These ye shall eat of all that are in the waters: all that have fins and scales shall ye eat:

10 And whatsoever hath not fins and scales, ye may not eat: it is unclean unto you.

11 ¶ Of all clean birds ye shall eat.

12 But these are they of which ye shall not eat: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the ospray,

13 And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind,

14 And every raven after his kind,

15 And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind,

16 The little owl, and the great owl, and the swan,

17 And the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant,

18 And the stork, and the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the [f] bat.

19 And [g] every creeping thing that flieth, is unclean unto you: they shall not be eaten.

20 But of all clean fowls ye may eat.

21 ¶ Ye shall not eat of any thing that dieth of itself: thou shalt give it unto the stranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it, or thou mayest sell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people unto the Lord thy God. [h] Thou shalt not seethe a kid in his mother's milk.

22 [i] Thou shalt truly tithe all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year.

23 [k] And thou shalt eat before the Lord thy God, in the place which he shall choose to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and [l] the firstlings of thy herds, and of thy flocks: that thou mayest learn to fear the Lord thy God always.

24 And if the way be too long for thee, so that thou art not able to carry it, or if the place be too far from thee which the Lord thy God shall choose to set his name there, when the Lord thy God hath blessed thee:

25 Then shalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand, and shalt go unto the place which the Lord thy God shall choose.

26 And thou shalt bestow that money for whatsoever thy soul lusteth after, for oxen, or for sheep, or for wine, or for strong drink, or for whatsoever thy soul ‡ desireth: and thou shalt eat there before the Lord thy God, and thou shalt rejoice, thou and thine household.

27 And [m] the Levite that is within thy gates, thou shalt not forsake him: for [n] he hath no part nor inheritance with thee.

28 ¶ [o] At the end of three years thou shalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increase the same year, and shall lay it up within thy gates.

29 [p] And the Levite (because [q] he hath no part nor inheritance with thee) and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, which are within thy gates, shall come, and shall eat, and be satisfied; that [r] the Lord thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doest.

C H A P.

* Or, Bison. † Heb. dishon. ‡ Heb. asking of thee.

d Lev. 11. 27. e Lev. 11. 9. f Lev. 11. 19. g See Lev. 11. 21. h Exod. 23. 19. & 34. 26. i Chap. 12. 6, 17. k Chap. 12. 5. l Chap. 15. 19, 20. m Chap. 12. 19. n Numb. 18. 20. Chap. 18. 1. o Chap. 26. 12. Amos 4. 4. p Chap. 26. 12. q Verse 27. r See Mal. 3. 10.

V. 23 Learn to fear the Lord thy God always—Not only when thou art present with the great congregation before the Lord and in public, but in thy most secret retirements, placing the Lord always before thee, as the hearer of every word and conversation, the witness of every action, and the observer of the thoughts and intents of the heart, and who will bring all the hidden things of time to light, in that day when the God-man, Christ Jesus, shall judge the world in righteousness.

V. 27. The Levite, thou shalt not forsake him—Thou shalt give him a share in such tithes, or in the product of them.

V. 29. The Levite hath no part nor inheritance with thee—In worldly possessions, that they who minister to you in sacred things may always be before you living witnesses of the designs of God, to bestow upon all that live to him an inheritance which shall never be taken from them, or they from it: The Lord is their portion, and in him they may hope, till faith and hope shall be lost in sight, and they are made partakers for ever of all the blessings of the kingdom of his dear Son. Be satisfied, that the Lord thy God may bless thee—Neither forget, nor lightly esteem the blessings the kind hand of God h th already bestowed upon thee, but look about thee, and see how many good things God hath given thee which he hath thought fit to with-hold from others, and be satisfied—be contented, for it becometh them that belong to God to be thankful not only for what their heavenly Father gives, but also under all the dispensations of his providence, in which he is wise and gracious beyond all human power to discover or conceive, to all them that are satisfied he should reign over them.

CHAP. XV.

Before Christ 1451.

A T the end of [a] every seven years thou shalt make a release.

a Exod. 21. 2. and 23. 10. Lev. 25. 2, 4. Chap. 31. 10. Jer. 34. 14.

2 And this is the manner of the release: Every * creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour, shall release it, he shall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother, because it is called the Lord's release.

* Heb. master of the lending of his hand.

3 [b] Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother, thine hand shall release:

b See Chap. 23. 20.

4 † Save when there shall be no poor among you: for the Lord shall greatly bless thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it:

† Or, To the end that there be no poor among you.

5 Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe to do all these commandments which I command thee this day.

6 For the Lord thy God blesseth thee, as he promised thee, and [c] thou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee.

c Chap. 28. 12, 44.

7 ¶ If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren, within any of thy gates, in thy land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother:

Before Christ 1451.

8 [d] But thou shalt open thine hand wide unto him, and shalt surely lend him sufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth.

d Matth. 5. 42. Luke 6. 34, 35.

9 Beware that there be not a † thought in thy § wicked heart, saying, The seventh year, the year of release is at hand: and thine [e] eye be evil against thy poor brother, and thou givest him nought, and he cry unto the Lord against thee, and it be sin unto thee.

† Heb. word.

§ Heb. Belial.

e Chap. 28. 54, 56. Prov. 23. 6. & 28. 22. Matth. 20. 15.

10 Thou shalt surely give him, and thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him: because that for this thing the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all thy works, and in all that thou puttest thine hand unto.

11 For [f] the poor shall never cease out of the land: therefore I command thee, saying, Thou shalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, f Matth 26. 11. John 12. 8.

CHAP. XV.

V. 1. At the end of every seven years—In the last year of the seven. This is the same as the Sabbatical year. (Exod. xxiii. 11.)

V. 2. Every creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour, shall release it—Not absolutely and finally forgive it, but forbear it for that year, because the word doth not signify a total dismission or acquitting, but an intermission for a time. He shall not exact it—Force it from him by course of law that year. The person releasing is called a creditor, and his communicating to him is called lending, whereas it was giving, and the person giving it was no creditor but a donor, if it was to be wholly forgiven him. The reason of this law is peculiar to that year, wherein there being no sowing, nor reaping, they were not in a capacity to pay their debts; and, it seems, contrary to other Scriptures to understand it as discharging the debtor, as it is required of men to pay what they borrow, as Psal. xxxvii. 21. Yet, in case of poverty, the debt was to be forgiven, but that was not by virtue of this law, but of other commands of God. Of his brother—This is added to explain and limit the word neighbour, a brother, in nation and religion, an Israelite, who is opposed to a foreigner. It is called the Lord's release—A release to the Lord, in obedience to his command, for his honour, and as an acknowledgment of his right in your estates, and of his kindness in giving and continuing them to you. If you are unwilling to release this for your brother's sake, yet do it for God's sake, your Lord, and the chief creditor.

V. 3. Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it—Such were not freed from their personal debt.

V. 4. Save when there shall be no poor among you—The words imply that if his brother was rich, or able to pay, he might exact his debt of him in that year. And indeed this law seems to be chiefly, if not wholly, designed and given in favour to the poor. But the words may be rendered, to the end that there be no poor among you; and so they contain a reason of this law,—that none be impoverished and ruined by a rigid and unseasonable exaction of debts. The Lord shall greatly bless thee—And therefore this will be no great inconvenience nor burden to thee.

V. 5, 6. Only carefully hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God—And he shall bless thee, as he promised, and thou shalt lend unto many nations—Thou shalt be rich, and able to lend not only to thy poor brother, but even to strangers of other nations—to many of them.

V. 7. If there be among you a poor man in thy land, thou shalt not harden thy heart, nor shut thine hand from thy poor brother—For they that are merciful to other men, thereby shew that they resemble the Father of Mercies, the Giver of every merciful disposition to the human mind, as well as of the ability to shew the same; and harden not thy heart, by listening unto the accuser of the brethren, who will by all means endeavour to influence thee to disobey my command, by suggesting to thee that thy brother's poverty is but the consequence of his own misconduct, and that it is right to make thyself the judge and the avenger of his crimes, by shutting thy hand against his necessity.

V. 8. Thou shalt open thy hand wide unto him—Deal bountifully and liberally with him, giving him as it were by handsful.

V. 9. Beware that there be not a thought in thy wicked heart—Suppress the first risings and inward motions of such uncharitableness. Be as cautious against a wrong thought as thou wouldest against a wrong word or action; for God requires purity, truth, justice, charity in the heart; and it being from within that the whole conduct has both its beginning and continuance, the first caution is to be used against evil arising within, and which is only to be effectually guarded against by keeping a mind staid upon God, looking for, expecting, and constantly depending upon the communications of his grace, which alone can cleanse our hearts, and keep them clean from all evil thoughts. And thine eye be evil—Envious, unmerciful, unkind. And thou givest him nought, and he cry unto the Lord against thee, and it be sin unto thee—It be charged upon thee as a sin, and as a great sin, as the word sin sometimes signifies, as Prov. xxiv. 9. John xv. 24. Jam. iv. 17.

V. 10. Thine heart shall not be grieved when thou givest unto him—Thou shalt give not only with an open hand, but with a willing and cheerful mind and heart, without which thy very charity is uncharitable and not accepted by God, who requires the heart in all his services. For this thing the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all that thou puttest thine hand unto—(i. e.) In all thy works, the hand being the great instrument of them.

V. 11. The

Before Christ 1451. brother, to thy poor and to thy needy, in thy land.

g Exod. 21. 2. Jer. 34. 14. 12. ¶ And [g] if thy brother, an Hebrew man or an Hebrew woman, be sold unto thee, and serve thee six years; then in the seventh year thou shalt let him go free from thee.

13 And when thou sendest him out free from thee, thou shalt not let him go away empty:

14 Thou shalt furnish him liberally out of thy flock, and out of thy floor, and out of thy wine-press: of that wherewith the Lord thy God hath blessed thee, thou shalt give unto him.

15 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in the land of Egypt, and the Lord thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day.

16 And it shall be if he say unto thee, I will not go away from thee (because he loveth thee and thine house, because he is well with thee;)

h Exod. 21. 6. 17 [h] Then thou shalt take an aul, and thrust it through his ear unto the door, and he shall be thy servant for ever: and also unto thy maid-servant thou shalt do likewise.

18 It shall not seem hard unto thee when thou sendest him away free from thee; for he hath been wroth [i] a double hired servant to thee, in serving thee six years: and the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all that thou doest.

i See Isai. 16. 14. & 21. 16.

k Exod. 13. 2. & 34. 19. Lev. 27. 26. Num. 3. 13. 19 ¶ [k] All the firstling males that come of thy herd, and of thy flock, thou shalt sanctify unto the Lord thy God: thou shalt do no work with the firstling of thy bullock, nor shear the firstling of thy sheep.

l Chap. 12. 7, 17, & 14. 23. & 16. 11, 14. 20 [l] Thou shalt eat it before the Lord thy God year by year, in the place which the Lord shall choose, thou and thy household.

m Lev. 22. 20. Chap. 17. 1. 21 [m] And if there be any blemish therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemish, thou shalt not sacrifice it unto the Lord thy God.

Before Christ 1451.

n n Chap. 12. 15. 22 Thou shalt eat it within thy gates: the unclean and the clean person shall eat it alike, as the roe-buck, and as the hart.

o Chap. 12. 16, 23. 23 [o] Only thou shalt not eat the blood thereof: thou shalt pour it upon the ground as water.

CHAP. XVI.

a Exod. 12. 2. &c. OBserve the [a] month of Abib, and keep the passover unto the Lord thy God: for [b] in the month of Abib the Lord thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt [c] by night.

b Exod. 13. 4. c Exod. 12. 29, 42.

d d Num. 28. 19. e Chap. 12. 5. 2 Thou shalt therefore sacrifice the passover unto the Lord thy God, of the flock and the herd, in the [e] place which the Lord shall choose to place his name there.

f Exod. 12. 15, 19 and 34, 18. 3 [f] Thou shalt eat no leavened bread with it: seven days shalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction: (for thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt in haste) that thou mayest remember the day when thou camest forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life.

g Exod. 34. 25. h Exod. 12. 10. 4 [g] And there shall be no leavened bread seen with thee in all thy coasts seven days, [h] neither shall there any thing of the flesh which thou sacrificedst the first day at even, remain all night until the morning.

* Or, kill. 5 Thou mayest not * sacrifice the passover within any of thy gates, which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

6 But at the place which the Lord thy God shall choose to place his name in, there thou shalt sacrifice the passover [i] at even, at the going down of the sun, at the season that thou camest forth out of Egypt.

i Exod. 15. 6, 7 And thou shalt roast and eat it in the place which the Lord thy God shall choose: and

V. 11. The poor shall never cease out of the land—For the trial and exercise of your obedience to God, and charity to your brother, both which are best discovered by your performance of costly duties.

V. 12. And serve thee six years—From the beginning of this servitude, which is every where limited unto the space of six years.

V. 15. The Lord thy God redeemed thee—And brought thee out with triumph and with riches, which, because they would not, God did give to thee as a just recompence for thy service, and therefore thou shalt follow his example, and send out thy servant furnished with all convenient provisions.

V. 16. Because he is well with thee—Because it is good, acceptable in his eyes or pleasing to him, to be with thee.

CHAP. XVI.

V. 2. Thou shalt therefore sacrifice the passover—Strictly so called, which was the Paschal Lamb, and so the sheep and oxen, which here follow, are mentioned only as additional sacrifices, which were to be offered in the seven days of the Paschal solemnity. (Numb. xviii. 18.)

V. 3. Even the bread of affliction—Bread which is not usual nor pleasant, to put thee in mind both of thy miseries, and of what thy Redeemer shall suffer for thy sake and for all men.

V. 6. There thou shalt sacrifice the passover—In the court of the Tabernacle or Temple. This he prescribed, that this great work might be done with more solemnity and care in such manner, as God required; because it was not only a Sacrament, but also a sacrifice, and because here was the sprinkling of blood, which is the essential part and character of a sacrifice; and to design the place where Christ the true passover or Lamb of God, was to be slain.

V. 7. Thou shalt turn and go unto thy tents—Thy dwellings, which he calls tents, as respecting their present state, and to put them

Before Ch. 1451. and thou shalt turn in the morning, and go unto thy tents.

8 Six days thou shalt eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day shall be a † solemn assembly to the Lord thy God: thou shalt do no work therein.

† Heb. restraint.

9 ¶ [k] Seven weeks shalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the seven weeks from such time as thou beginnest to put the sickle to the corn.

k Exod. 23. 16 & 34. 22. Lev. 23. 15. Num. 28. 26

10 And thou shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the Lord thy God with ‡ a tribute of a free-will-offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the LORD thy God, according as the Lord thy God hath blessed thee.

‡ Or, sufficiency.

11 And thou shalt rejoice before the Lord thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the Lord thy God hath chosen to place his name there.

12 And thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in Egypt: and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

13 ¶ [l] Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy § corn, and thy wine.

l Exod. 23. 16. Lev. 23. 34. Num. 29. 12.

§ Heb floor, and thy wine press.

14 And [m] thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy man-servant, and thy maid-servant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gates.

m Neh. 8. 9. &c.

15 Seven days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord shall choose: because the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all thy increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice.

Before Christ 1451.

16 ¶ [n] Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the Lord thy God, in the place which he shall choose: in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles: and [o] they shall not appear before the Lord empty.

n Exod. 23. 14. 17 and 34. 23.

o Exod. 23. 15. & 34. 20.

17 Every man shall give ‖ as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which he hath given thee.

‖ Heb. according to the gift of his hand.

18 ¶ [p] Judges and officers shalt thou make thee in all thy gates which the Lord thy God giveth thee throughout thy tribes: and they shall judge the people with just judgment.

p Chap. 1. 16. 1 Chron. 23. 4. and 26. 29. 2 Chron. 19. 8.

19 Thou shalt not wrest judgment, thou shalt not respect persons, [q] neither take a gift: for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wise, and pervert the † words of the righteous.

q Exod. 23. 8. Lev. 19. 15. Prov. 17. 8, 23. Eccles. 7. 7.

† Or, matters.

20 ‡ That which is altogether just shalt thou follow, that thou mayest live, and inherit the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

‡ Heb. justice, justice.

21 ¶ [r] Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the Lord thy God, which thou shalt make thee.

r Exod. 34. 13.

22 [s] Neither shalt thou set thee up any § image, which the Lord thy God hateth.

s Lev. 26. 1.

§ Or, statue, or, pillar.

CHAP. XVII.

THOU [a] shalt not sacrifice unto the Lord thy God any bullock, or * sheep, wherein is blemish, or any evil favouredness: for that is an abomination unto the Lord thy God.

a Chap. 15. 21. Mal. 1. 8.

* Or, goat.

2 ¶ If

them in mind afterwards when they were settled in better habitations, that there was a time when they dwelt in tents, and that however deep they might lay the foundation of their dwelling in the earth, or however high they might raise them, their houses are but as tents, which, with those that live in them, are soon to be removed.

V. 8. On the seventh day thou shalt do no work—But shalt use it for the end for which God hath commanded thee, to cease from thy labour—which is for thy good and his glory.

V. 10. Thou shalt keep the feast of weeks—Of Pentecost.

V. 15. Thou shalt surely rejoice—In God, and the effects of his favour, praising him with gladness of heart.

V. 16. Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the Lord thy God, in the place which he shall choose—Not the women, partly because of their unfitness for many journies, because the care of their children and families lay upon them, and partly because they were represented in the men.

V. 18. Judges—Chief Magistrates to examine and determine causes and differences. Officers—Who were inferior and subordinate to the other, to bring causes and persons before them, and to execute their sentence. In all thy gates—Thy cities, which he here calls gates, because there were seats of judgment set.

V. 19. Thou shalt not wrest judgment—Not give a forced and unjust sentence. Thou shalt not respect persons—Not give sentence according to the quality of the person, his riches or poverty, friendship or enmity, but according to the justice of the cause. A gift doth blind the eyes of the wise—Corrupts his mind, that as he will not, so he cannot discern between right and wrong. And pervert the words of the righteous—The words, the sentence of those Judges who are inclined and used to do righteous things and have the repute of righteous men, it makes them give wrong judgment.

V. 20. That which is altogether just shalt thou follow—Righteousness, nothing but righteousness in all causes and times, and to all persons equally.

V. 21. Thou shalt not plant thee a grove of any trees—Because this was the practise of idolaters, and might be an occasion of reviving idolatry.

V. 22. Neither shalt thou set thee up any image—Statue, whether with a picture or representation, or without it, as the idolaters used to worship.

CHAP. XVII.

V. 1. Blemish, or evil favouredness, is an abomination unto the Lord—Abominable. All that God receives, he requires to be perfect.

Before Christ 1451.

2 ¶ [b] If there be found among you within any of thy gates which the Lord thy God giveth thee, man or woman that hath wrought wickedness in the sight of the Lord thy God, in transgressing his covenant,

3 And hath gone and served other gods, and worshipped them, either [c] the sun, or moon, or any of the host of heaven, [d] which I have not commanded;

4 And it be told thee, and thou hast heard of it, and inquired diligently, and behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that such abomination is wrought in Israel:

5 Then shalt thou bring forth that man, or that woman (which have committed that wicked thing) unto thy gates, even that man or that woman, and [e] shalt stone them with stones till they die.

6 [f] At the mouth of two witnesses, or three witnesses, shall he that is worthy of death be put to death; but at the mouth of one witness he shall not be put to death.

7 [g] The hands of the witnesses shall be first upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hands of all the people: so [h] thou shalt put the evil away from among you.

8 ¶ [i] If there arise a matter too hard for thee in judgment, [k] between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke, being matters of controversy within thy gates: then shalt thou arise, [l] and get thee up into the place which the Lord thy God shall choose;

9 And [m] thou shalt come unto the priests, the Levites, and [n] unto the judge that shall be in those days, and enquire; and they shall shew thee the sentence of judgment.

10 And thou shalt do according to the sentence which they of that place (which the Lord shall choose) shall shew thee, and thou shalt observe to do according to all that they inform thee:

11 According to the sentence of the law which

b Chap. 13. 6.
c Chap. 4. 19. Job 31. 26.
d Jer. 7. 22, 23.
e Lev. 24. 14, 16. Josh. 7. 25. f Num. 35. 30. Chap. 19. 15. Matt. 18. 16. John 8. 17. 2 Cor. 13. 1. 1 Tim. 5. 19. Heb. 10. 28.
g Chap. 13. 9. Acts 7. 58.
h Chap. 13. 5. and 19. 19. 1 Chro 10. 10. Hag. 2. 13. Mal. 2. 7. i See Exod. 21. 13, 20, 22, 28. & 22. 2. Num. 35. 11, 16, 19. Chap. 19. 4, 10. k Chap. 12. 5. and 19. 17. Psal. 122. 5.
l See Jer. 18. 18.
m Chap. 19. 17.
n Chap. 19. 17.

V. 2. Man or woman that hath wrought wickedness—The weakness and tenderness of that sex shall not excuse her sin nor prevent her punishment. In transgressing his covenant—In idolatry as it is explained which is called a transgressing of God's covenant made with Israel, because it is a breach of their faith given to God and of that law which they covenanted to keep, and principally because it is a dissolution of their matrimonial covenant with God, a renouncing of God and his worship and service, and choosing other Gods.

V. 3. Any of the host of heaven—Those glorious creatures, which are to be admired as the wonderful works of God, but not to be set up in God's stead, nor worshipped as Gods; by condemning the most specious and reasonable of all idolatries, he intimates, how absurd a thing it is to worship stocks and stones, the works of mens hands. Which I have not commanded—I have forbidden, such negative expressions often imply the contrary.

V. 4. And it be told thee—By any person, thou shalt not slight so much as a rumour or flying report of so gross a crime. Inquired diligently—By sending messengers, examining witnesses.

V. 6. At the mouth—Upon the testimony delivered upon oath before the Magistrates. Of two witnesses, or three witnesses—Credible competent witnesses. The Jews rejected the testimonies of mad men, children, familiar friends or enemies, persons of dissolute lives and evil fame.

V. 7. The hand of the witnesses shall be first upon him—Either laid upon his head to design the person, or stretched out to throw the first stone at him. God thus ordered it, for the caution of witnesses, that, if they had through malice accused him falsely, they might now be afraid to imbrue their hands in innocent blood; and for the security and satisfaction of the people in the execution of this punishment. And afterward the hands of all the people—Who being all highly and particularly obliged to God, are bound to express their zeal for his honour and service, and their detestation of all persons and things so highly dishonourable and abominable to him.

V. 8. If there arise a matter too hard for thee—He speaks to the inferior Magistrates. Between blood and blood—In capital causes in matter of bloodshed, whether it be wilful or casual murder. Between plea and plea, and between stroke and stroke—In criminal causes, concerning blows, or wounds inflicted by one man upon another, and to be requited to him by the sentence of the Magistrate according to that law. Matters of controversy—any words or matters of strifes or contentions. Then shalt thou arise, and get thee up into the place which the Lord thy God shall choose—To set up his worship and tabernacle, or temple there; because there was the abode, both of their Sanhedrim, or chief council, which was constituted of Priests and civil Magistrates, who were most able to determine all controversies, and of the High-Priests, who were to consult God by Urim, in great matters, which could not be decided otherwise.

V. 9. Thou shalt come unto the priests, the Levites—Unto the great council, which it is here denominated from, because it consisted chiefly of the Priests and Levites, as being the best expositors of the laws of God, by which all those controversies mentioned were to be decided. And the High-Priest was commonly one of that number, and may seem to be understood here under the Priests whereof he was the chief. Unto the judge—The supreme civil Magistrate, who was made by God the keeper of both tables, and was by his Office to take care for the right administration both of justice, and of religion, who was to determine causes and suits by his own skill and authority in civil matters, and by the Priests direction in spiritual or sacred causes. But this seems obnoxious to some difficulties, because this judge was obliged to dwell in the place of God. That great council which had the chief and final determination of all the above controversies, was a mixed assembly consisting of wise and good men, some Ecclesiastical, and some Secular; and being all united in one body, and to give judgment by the consent of all, or the greatest part, are here called by the name of one Judge. The Priests are here spoken of in the plural number, because they were many, as also the other members of that Assembly were, and the Judge in the singular number, because they all constituted but one Judge. They shall shew thee the sentence of judgment—The true state of the cause and the judgment to be given in it.

V. 10. And thou shalt do—Thou shalt pass sentence: for he speaks to the inferior Magistrates who were to give sentence, and came hither to be advised about it. Thou shalt observe to do—It is observable that this place does not speak of all controversies of faith; as if they were to believe every thing which they should teach, but only of some particular matters of practice and strife between man and man; to which it is plainly limited, and they are not here commanded to believe, but only to do, which is thrice repeated.

Before Christ 1451.

which they shall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they shall tell thee thou shalt do: thou shalt not decline from the sentence which they shall shew thee, to the right hand nor to the left.

o Num. 15. 30. Ezra 10. 3. Hos. 4. 4. * Heb. not to hearken.

12 And o the man that will do presumptuously, * and will not hearken unto the priest (p that standeth to minister there before the Lord thy God) or unto the judge, even that man shall die: and thou shalt put away the evil from Israel.

p Chap. 18. 5, 7.

Chap. 13. 11.

13 q And all the people shall hear, and fear, and do no more presumptuously.

14 ¶ When thou art come unto the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, and shalt possess it, and shalt dwell therein, and r 1 Sam. 8. 5.

shalt say, r I will set a king over me, like as all the nations that are about me:

15 Thou shalt in any wise set him king over thee s whom the Lord thy God shall choose: one t from among thy brethren shalt thou set king over thee: thou mayest not set a stranger over thee, which is not thy brother.

s See 1 Sam. 9. 15. and 10. 24. and 16. 12. 1 Chron. 22. 10. t Jer. 30. 21.

16 But he shall not multiply u horses to himself, nor cause the people x to return to Egypt, to the end that he should multiply horses: forasmuch as y the Lord hath said unto you, o Ye shall henceforth return no more that way.

Before Christ 1451.

u 1 Kings 4. 26. and 10. 26, 28.

x Isai. 31. 1. Ezek. 17. 15.

y Exod. 13. 17. Num. 14. 3, 4. o Chap. 28. 68. Hos. 8. 13. See Jer. 42. 15.

17 Neither shall he multiply wives to himself, that a his heart turn not away: neither shall he greatly multiply to himself silver and gold.

a See 1 Kings 11. 3, 4.

18 b And it shall be when he sitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he shall write him a copy of this law in a book, out of c that which is before the priests the Levites.

b 2 Kings 11. 12.

c Chap. 31. 9. See 2 Kings 22. 8.

19 And d it shall be with him, and he shall read therein all the days of his life: that he may learn to fear the Lord his God, to keep all the words of this law, and these statutes, to do them:

d Josh. 1. 8.

20 That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he turn not aside from the commandment to the right hand or to the left:

V. 11. According to the sentence of the law which they shall teach thee.—The Judges in their sentence, shall not upon pretence of this supreme authority, presume to direct otherwise than the law prescribes: The people shall not simply obey them in all things, but so far only as their sentence is according to the law and word of God, but not when their commands are evidently contrary to God's law, for then they must obey God rather than man. But when the sentence of the magistrate is not contrary to the principles of justice, mercy, and truth contained in the Scriptures, (which are too plainly expressed and too faithfully applied to men's consciences to be mistaken,) then all are required to yield their submission to the established authority.

V. 12. The man that will do presumptuously—That will proudly and obstinately oppose the sentence given against him, without any warrant from the word of God. Thou shalt put away the evil—That evil, refractory person, whose practice tends to the dissolution of all government, and the ruin of the common-wealth.

V. 14. And shalt say, I will set a king over me—He only foresees and fortells what they would do, but does not approve of it.

V. 15. Thou shalt in any wise set—Appoint, or instal. If you, will choose a king, which I will suffer you to do, I command you to observe this in your choice. Whom the Lord thy God shall choose—Approve of, or appoint. So it was in Saul, and in David. God reserved to himself the nomination both of the family, and of the person. One from among thy brethren—Of the same nation and religion; most likely to maintain true religion, and to rule with righteousness, gentleness, and kindness to his subjects; and that he might be a fit type of Christ their supreme king, who was to be one of their brethren. Thou mayest not set a stranger over thee—By thy own choice and consent; but if God, by his providence, and for their sins, should set a stranger over them, they must submit to him.

V. 16. But he shall not multiply horses to himself—Excessively, beyond what necessary dignity required. Hereby God would prevent many sins and mischiefs, as pride of heart, and contempt of his people; oppression and tyranny, and the imposition of unnecessary burdens upon his people; carnal confidence, which, by this means would be promoted. Much commerce with Egypt, as it here follows, which was famous for horses. Nor cause the people to return to Egypt—Either for habitation, or for trade. Ye shall henceforth return no more that way—In the way that leads to that place. And those that have set out for the heavenly Canaan, in the ways of true repentance, and by faith in the promises of God; are forbid to return to the contrary conduct, as much as the Israelites were forbid to go back to Egypt.

V. 17. Neither shall he multiply wives to himself—As the manner of other kings was, contrary to the design of God from the beginning. That his heart turn not away—From God and his law, to idolatry and superstition. Neither shall he greatly multiply to himself—Lest this should lift up his heart in confidence and pride, which God abhors, and beget in him a contempt of his people. They are not simply forbidden to be rich, if God made them so, which was the case of David and Solomon, and Jehoshaphat, &c. but they are forbidden either inordinately to desire, or irregularly to procure great riches, by grinding the faces of their own subjects, or by possessing themselves, contrary to justice, of the property of others.

V. 18. He shall write—Either with his own hand, or at least by his command. A copy of this law in a book, which is before the priests the Levites—Out of the true original, which was carefully kept by the priests in the sanctuary; partly that it might be a true and perfect copy, and that it might have the greater authority and influence upon him, coming to him, as from the hand and presence of God. And whoever would govern his life in all things according to the will of God, which is the only course in which certain peace is to be obtained or preserved, must, like the kings of Israel, well acquaint themselves with the word of God, which was the thing intended by writing it over, when they entered upon their government.

V. 19. He shall read therein all the days of his life—Diligently and constantly, neither the greatness of his place, nor the weight and multitude of his business shall excuse or hinder him.

V. 20. That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren—This strongly intimates, that the Scriptures diligently read and studied, are a powerful and probable means to keep him humble, because they shew him that, though a king, he is subject to an higher monarch, to whom he must give an account of all his administrations

Before Christ 1451. left: to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom; he, and his children in the midst of Israel.

CHAP. XVIII.

a Num. 18. 20. Chap. 10. 9. b 1 Cor. 9. 13. THE priests the Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, [a] shall have no part nor inheritance with Israel: they [b] shall eat the offerings of the Lord made by fire, and his inheritance.

2 Therefore shall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the Lord is their inheritance, as he hath said unto them.

c Lev. 7. 30, 34. 3 ¶ And this shall be the priest's due from the people, from them that offer a sacrifice, whether it be ox or sheep; and [c] they shall give unto the priest the shoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw.

d Exod. 22. 29. Num. 18. 12, 24. 4 [d] The first-fruit also of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the first of the fleece of thy sheep shalt thou give him.

e Exod. 28. 1. Num. 3. 10. f Chap. 10. 8. and 17. 12. 5 For [e] the Lord thy God hath chosen him out of all the tribes, [f] to stand to minister in the name of the Lord, him and his sons for ever.

g Chap. 12. 5. 6 ¶ And if a Levite come from any of thy gates out of all Israel, where he sojourned, and come with all the desire of his mind [g] unto the place which the Lord shall choose;

7 Then he shall minister in the name of the Lord his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which stand there before the Lord. Before Christ 1451.

8 They shall have like portions to eat, besides * that which cometh of the sale of his patrimony. * Heb. his sales by the fathers.

9 ¶ When thou art come into the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, thou shalt not learn to do after the abominations of those nations.

10 There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son or his daughter [h] to pass through the fire, [i] or that useth divination, or an observer of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, h Lev. 18. 21. i Lev. 19. 26, 31. & 20. 27. Isai. 8. 19.

k Lev. 20. 27. 11 [k] Or a charmer, or a consulter with familiar spirits, or a wizard, or a [l] necromancer. l 1 Sam. 28. 7.

12 For all that do these things are an abomination unto the Lord: and because of these abominations, the Lord thy God doth drive them out from before thee.

† Or, upright, or, sincere. 13 Thou shalt be † perfect with the Lord thy God.

† Or, inherit. 14 For these nations which thou shalt † possess, hearkened unto observers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee, the Lord thy God hath not suffered thee so to do.

m John 1. 45. Acts 3. 22. and 7. 37. 15 ¶ [m] The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a prophet from the midst of thee,

of.

tions and actions, and receive from him his sentence and doom, agreeable to their quality, which is sufficient to abate the pride of the haughtiest person in the world, if he duly considers it.

CHAP. XVIII.

V. 1. Offerings of the Lord made by fire—Sacrifices, whereof part was offered to the Lord by fire, and part was allotted to the priests for their food. His inheritance—The Lord's portion or inheritance, which God had reserved to himself, as tithes and first fruits, and other oblations.

V. 2. They have no inheritance among their brethren, the Lord is their inheritance—They act as from the Lord, as his servants, in spreading the knowledge of his will amongst their fellow creatures, and God, who is their immediate employer, is also their exceeding great reward. And the true servants of God are known by their leaving their temporal welfare with him, whom they serve with their spirits.

V. 5. The Lord thy God hath chosen him, to minister in the name of the Lord—By authority and commission from him, for his honour, worship, and service.

V. 6. If a Levite come with all the desire of his mind unto the place which the Lord shall choose—To spend his whole time and strength in the service of God; and desired intirely and constantly to devote himself to God's service, he was permitted so to do, because this was an eminent act of piety, joined with self-denial, to part with those great conveniences, which he could and did enjoy in the city of his possession, and to oblige himself to more constant and laborious work.

V. 8. They shall have like portions—With their brethren who were in actual administration. Which cometh of the sale of his patrimony—Though he have an estate whereby he may subsist, raised by the sale of his house, or other effects.

V. 10. There shall not be found among you any one that maketh his son, or his daughter to pass through the fire—By a superstitious dedication, or by a cruel sacrificing of them. That useth divination—Foretelling things secret or to come, by unlawful arts and practices. An observer of times—Superstitiously pronouncing some days good or lucky, and others unlucky, for such or such actions. One that divineth by the motions of the clouds, by the stars, or by the flying or chattering of birds, all which heathens used to observe. Or an enchanter—Or, a conjecturer, that discovers hidden things by a superfluous use of words or ceremonies. Or a witch—One that is in covenant with the devil, and by his help deludes their senses, or hurts their persons.

V. 11. Or a charmer—One that charmeth serpents, or a fortune-teller. Or a consulter with familiar spirits—Whom they call upon by certain words or rites, to engage them in evil designs. Or a wizard—A knowing or cunning man, who, by any superstitious or forbidden ways, undertakes the revelation of secret things. Or a necromancer—One that calleth up and inquireth of the dead.

V. 12. Because of these abominations, the Lord thy God doth drive them—The people of the land which thou art going to possess.

V. 13. Thou shalt be perfect with the Lord—Sincerely and wholly his, seeking him, and cleaving to him, and to his word alone, and therefore abhorring all commerce and conversations with devils, or their agents, such as were now mentioned.

V. 14. The Lord thy God hath not suffered thee so to do—Hath not given to thee, such persons to consult with, but hath given thee prophets to instruct thee, and will, in due time, give thee an eminent prophet.

V. 15. The

Before Christ 1451. of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken.

16 According to all that thou desiredst of u Chap. 9. 10. the Lord thy God in Horeb, [n] in the day of o Exod. 20. 19. Heb. 12. 19 the assembly, saying, [o] Let me not hear again the voice of the Lord my God; neither let me see this great fire any more, that I die not.

p Chap. 5. 28. 17 And the Lord said unto me, [p] They have well spoken that which they have spoken.

v John 1. 45. Acts 3. 22. and 7. 37. w Isai. 51. 16. x John 4. 25. and 8. 28. and 12. 49, 50. 18 [v] I will raise them up a prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and [w] will put my words in his mouth, [x] and he shall speak unto them all that I shall command him.

19 And it shall come to pass, that whosoever will not hearken unto my words which he shall speak in my name, I will require it of him.

Chap. 13. 1. Jer. 14. 14. Zech. 13. 3. 20 But [t] the prophet which shall presume to speak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall u Acts 3. 23. speak in the name of other gods, [u] even that prophet shall die.

21 And if thou say in thine heart, How shall we know the word which the Lord hath not spoken?

z Jer. 28. 9. 22 [z] When a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, [y] if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously: thou shalt not be afraid of him.

Before Christ 1451. y See Chap. 13. 2.

CHAP. XIX.

WHEN the Lord thy God [a] hath cut off the nations, whose land the Lord thy God giveth thee, and thou * succeedest them, and dwellest in their cities, and in their houses;

a Chap. 12. 29. * Heb. inheritest, or, possessest.

2 [b] Thou shalt separate three cities for thee in the midst of thy land which the Lord thy God giveth thee to possess it.

b Exod. 21. 13. Num. 35. 10. Josh. 20. 2.

3 Thou shalt prepare thee away, and divide the coasts of thy land (which the Lord thy God giveth thee to inherit) into three parts, that every slayer may flee thither.

4 ¶ And [c] this is the case of the slayer which shall flee thither, that he may live: Whoso killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not † in time past, c Chap. 4. 42. † Heb. from yesterday, the third day.

5 As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour, to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a stroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the ‡ head slippeth from the § helve, and ‖ lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die; he shall flee unto one of those cities, and live:

‡ Heb. iron. § Heb. wood. ‖ Heb. findeth.

6 Lest

V. 15. The Lord thy God will raise up—Will produce and send into the world in due time. Unto thee a prophet—Those words may be understood secundarily concerning the succession of prophets which God would raise for the instruction of his Church, both because this is alleged as an argument why they need not consult with diviners, because they should have prophets at hand whensoever it was needful, to advise them, and because this prophet is opposed to the false prophets, and a general rule is hereupon given, for the discovery of all succeeding prophets, whether they be true or false, (ver. 20, 21, 22.) but they are chiefly to be understood of Christ, as the following words shew, which do not truly and fully agree to any other, particularly where he is said to be like unto Moses, which is simply denied concerning all other prophets, (Deut. xxxiv. 10.) and therefore it is not probable that it should be simply affirmed concerning all true prophets succeeding him. But Christ was truly like him, in being both a Prophet, and a King, and a Priest and Mediator, as Moses was, in the excellency of his ministry and work, in the glory of his miracles, in his familiar and intimate converse with God: And this place is expounded of Christ alone, by God himself, in the New Testament, (Acts iii. 22. and vii. 37. John i. 45. and vi. 14.)

V. 16. In the day of the assembly—Of that great and general congregation of all the people together.

V. 18. And will put my words in his mouth—Will instruct him what to say, reveal myself and my will to him. He shall speak unto them all that I shall command him—He will faithfully execute the office and trust I commit to him. And will neither omit to declare the whole will of God from the fear of man, nor declare it with any such mixture, as may make it acceptable to any wrong disposition in the minds of men, for the sake of any ease, pleasure, or gain to himself.

V. 19. Whosoever will not hearken, I will require it of him—I will punish him severely for it, as this phrase is taken. The sad effect of this threatening the Jews have felt for above 1700 years together.

V. 22. If the thing follow not—Which he gives as a sign of the truth of this propheey. That is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken—The falsehood of his prediction shews him to be a false prophet, though the truth and accomplishment of his prediction had not proved him to be a true prophet, as is evident from Deut. xiii. 2, 3. The prophet hath spoken it presumptuously—Impudently ascribing his own vain and lying fancies to the God of truth. Thou shalt not be afraid of him—Of his predictions or threatenings, so as to be scared from doing thy duty, in bringing him to deserved punishment.

CHAP. XIX.

V. 2. Three cities for thee in the midst of thy land—Beyond Jordan, to which they might speedily flee from all the parts of the land. The same provision had been made amongst those of Israel on the other side of Jordan, that none of the true worshippers of God might be without a place of refuge; and whosoever will fly for refuge to the hope set before them in Christ Jesus, he is provided wherever they are.

V. 3. Thou shalt prepare thee a way—Distinguish it by evident marks, and make it plain and convenient, to prevent mistakes and delays. Into three parts—Not into more, because it was fit that these places should be at some distance from the friends of the slain person, least the sight of the manslayer might have provoked their passion and occasioned his ruin. But why into three parts? When God is worshipped through the man Christ Jesus, in the everlasting Father, Son and Spirit, the soul finds a sanctuary, a Saviour and a friend.

Before Christ 1451.

6 [d] Leſt the avenger of blood purſue the ſlayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, becauſe the way is long, and * ſlay him, whereas he was not worthy of death, inaſmuch as he hated him not † in time paſt.

d Num. 35. 12.
* Heb. ſmite him in life.
† Heb. from yeſterday the third day.

7 Wherefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee.

8 And if the Lord thy God [e] enlarge thy coaſt (as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers) and give thee all the land which he promiſed to give unto thy fathers;

e Gen. 15. 18. Chap. 12. 20.

9 (If thou ſhalt keep all theſe commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the Lord thy God, and to walk ever in his ways) [f] then ſhalt thou add three cities more for thee, beſide theſe three:

f Joſh. 20. 7.

10 That innocent blood be not ſhed in thy land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and ſo blood be upon thee.

11 ¶ But [g] if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and riſe up againſt him, and ſmite him ‡ mortally that he die, and fleeth into one of theſe cities:

g Exod 21. 12, &c. Num. 35. 16. 24 Chap. 27. 24.
‡ Heb. in life.

12 Then the elders of his city ſhall ſend and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

13 Thine eye ſhall not pity him, [h] but thou ſhalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Iſrael, that it may go well with thee.

h Num 35. 33, 34.

14 ¶ [i] Thou ſhalt not remove thy neighbour's land-mark, which they of old time have ſet in thine inheritance which thou ſhalt inherit, in the land that the Lord thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it.

i Chap. 27. 17. Prov. 22. 28. Hoſ. 5. 10.

15 ¶ [k] One witneſs ſhall not riſe up againſt a man for any iniquity, or for any ſin, in any ſin that he ſinneth: at the mouth of two witneſſes, or at the mouth of three witneſſes ſhall the matter be eſtabliſhed.

Before Christ 1451.

k Num. 35. 30. Chap. 17. 6 Matt. 18. 16. John 8. 17. 2 Cor. 13. 1. 1 Tim. 5. 19. Heb. 10. 28.

16 ¶ If a falſe witneſs riſe up againſt any man to teſtify againſt him § that which is wrong:

§ Or, falling away.

17 Then both the men between whom the controverſy is, ſhall ſtand before the Lord, [l] before the prieſts, and the judges which ſhall be in thoſe days.

l Chap. 17. 9.

18 And the judges ſhall make diligent inquiſition: and behold, if the witneſs be a falſe witneſs, and hath teſtified falſly againſt his brother:

19 [m] Then ſhall ye do unto him, as he had thought to have done unto his brother: ſo [n] ſhalt thou put the evil away from among you.

m Prov. 19. 5, 9. Dan. 13. 62.
n Chap. 13. 5. and 17. 7. and 21. 21. and 22. 21, 24. and 24. 7.

20 [o] And thoſe which remain ſhall hear, and fear, and ſhall henceforth commit no more any ſuch evil among you.

o Chap. 21. 21.

21 And thine eye ſhall not pity, but [p] life ſhall go for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

p Exod. 21. 23. Lev. 24. 20. Matt. 5. 38.

CHAP. XX.

WHEN thou goeſt out to battle againſt thine enemies, and ſeeſt [a] horſes and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the Lord thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt.

a See Pſal. 20. 7. Iſai. 31. 1.

2 And it ſhall be when ye are come nigh unto

V. 6. Leſt the avenger of blood purſue the ſlayer—This verſe is to be joined with ver. 3. the 4th and 5th verſes, coming in as a parentheſis, which is uſual, in Scripture. Becauſe the way is long and ſlay him—Which is ſuppoſed, but not allowed, as appears from the following words. But the avenger of blood is not to be puniſhed with death for killing the manſlayer in caſe he found him without the borders of the city of refuge after he had been received there, (Numb. xxxv. 26, 27.) becauſe then he was guilty of a new crime, a contempt of God's ordinance, and therefore deſerved death from God, who might permit it to be inflicted by the avenger of blood. As all become guilty of the greateſt contempt of the mercy of God, manifeſted to the world in the Mediator with God, for thoſe crimes which they deny leaves them expoſed to the juſtice of God.

V. 9. Then ſhalt thou add three cities more—That they might be equal partakers of all God's gracious deſigns with their brethren.

V. 12. Then the elders of his city—That it might appear how hateful murder is to God, and ought to be to all men. And fetch him thence—Demand him of the elders of the city of refuge, who, upon the hearing of the cauſe and the evidence of the murder, were obliged to deliver the offender to juſtice.

V. 14. Thou ſhalt not remove thy neighbour's land-mark—By which the ſeveral portions of lands diſtributed to ſeveral families were diſtinguiſhed one from another.

V. 15. One witneſs ſhall not riſe up—Not ſtand, or, not be eſtabliſhed accepted, owned as ſufficient.

V. 16. If a falſe witneſs—A ſingle witneſs, though he ſpeak truth, is not to be accepted for the condemnation of another man, but if he be convicted of falſe witneſs, this is ſufficient for his own condemnation.

V. 17. The men between whom the controverſy is, ſhall ſtand before the prieſts, and the judges—The controverſies to be determined by the prieſts and judges, are only between man and man, and not doctrines of faith, and the laws of God.

V. 20. And thoſe which remain—The reſt of the people ſhall be admoniſhed of the danger of the crime, by the public example made of the guilty.

V. 21. Life ſhall go for life, eye for eye—What puniſhment he intended, or the law allotted to the accuſed, if he had been convicted, the ſame ſhall the falſe accuſer bear.

CHAP. XX.

V. 1. When thou goeſt out to battle—Upon a juſt or neceſſary cauſe, or for thy own defence.

V. 2. The prieſt—An eminent prieſt appointed for this work, and to blow with the trumpets. Shall ſpeak unto the people—By himſelf, or others.

Before Christ 1451.

unto the battle, that the prieſt ſhall approach and ſpeak unto the people,

3 And ſhall ſay unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, you approach this day unto battle againſt your enemies: let not your hearts * faint, fear not and do not † tremble, neither be ye terrified becauſe of them.

* Heb. be tender. † Heb. make haſte.

4 For the Lord your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you againſt your enemies, to ſave you.

5 ¶ And the officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people, ſaying, What man is there that hath built a new houſe, and hath not [b] dedicated it? let him go and return to his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it.

b See Neh. 12. 27. Pſa. 30. title.

6 And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet ‡ eaten of it? let him alſo go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man eat of it.

‡ Heb. made it common: See Lev. 19. 23, 24. Chap. 28. 30.

7 [c] And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in battle, and another man take her.

c Chap. 24. 5.

8 And the officer ſhall ſpeak further unto the people, and they ſhall ſay, [d] What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt his brethren's heart § faint as well as his heart.

d Judges 7. 3.

§ Heb. melt.

9 And it ſhall be when the officers have made an end of ſpeaking unto the people, that they ſhall make captains of the armies ‖ to lead the people.

‖ Heb. to be in the head of the people.

10 ¶ When thou comeſt nigh unto a city to fight againſt it, [e] then proclaim peace unto it.

e 2 Sam. 20. 18.

11 And it ſhall be, if it make thee anſwer of peace, and open unto thee, then it ſhall be that all the people that is found therein, ſhall be tributaries unto thee, and they ſhall ſerve thee.

12 And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war againſt thee, then thou ſhalt beſiege it.

13 And when the Lord thy God hath delivered it into thine hands, [f] thou ſhalt ſmite every male thereof with the edge of the ſword.

f Num. 31. 7.

14 But the women, and the little ones, and [g] the cattle, and all that is in the city, even all the ſpoil thereof ſhalt thou * take unto thyſelf: and thou ſhalt eat the ſpoil of thine enemies, which the Lord thy God hath given thee.

Before Christ 1451.

g Joth. 8. 2. * Heb. ſpoil.

15 Thus ſhalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of theſe nations.

16 But [h] of the cities of theſe people which the Lord thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou ſhalt ſave alive nothing that breatheth:

h Num. 33. 52. Chap. 7. 1, 2.

17 But thou ſhalt utterly deſtroy them, namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, as the Lord thy God hath commanded thee:

18 That they teach you not to do after all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods, ſo ſhould ye ſin againſt the Lord your God.

19 ¶ When thou ſhalt beſige a city a long time, in making war againſt it to take it, thou ſhalt not deſtroy the trees thereof by forcing an ax againſt them: for thou mayeſt eat of them, and thou ſhalt not cut them down († for the tree of the field is man's life) ‡ to employ them in the ſiege.

† Or, for a man, the tree of the field is to be employed in the ſiege. ‡ Heb. to go from before thee.

20 Only the trees which thou knoweſt that they be not trees for meat, thou ſhalt deſtroy and cut them down; and thou ſhalt build bulwarks againſt the city that maketh war with thee, until § it be ſubdued.

§ Heb. it come down.

CHAP. XXI.

IF one be found ſlain in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it, lying in the field, and it be not known who hath ſlain him:

2 Then thy elders, and thy judges ſhall come forth, and they ſhall meaſure unto the cities which are round about him that is ſlain.

3 And it ſhall be that the city which is next unto the ſlain man, even the elders of that city ſhall take an heifer which hath not been

V. 7. What man is there that hath betrothed a wife—Which was done by a ſolemn and mutual promiſe.

V. 8. What man is there that is fearful and faint hearted? let him go and return unto his houſe—As he, whoſe heart is not in the work, may do hurt by his example, far beyond any ſervice he will ever perform.

V. 10. When thou comeſt nigh unto a city, proclaim peace unto it—This ſeems to be underſtood not of the cities of the Canaanites, who were under an abſolute ſentence of deſtruction, but of the cities either of other nations who injured or diſturbed them, or commenced war againſt them, or aided their enemies, or oppreſſed their friends and allies.

V. 16. Thou ſhalt ſave alive nothing that breatheth—No ſoul; no man, as that word is uſed.

V. 19. The tree of the field is man's life—The ſuſtenance or ſupport of his life.

CHAP. XXI.

V. 1. If one be found ſlain in the land, lying the in field—Or in the city, or any other place.

V. 4. The

Before Christ 1451.

been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke.

4 And the elders of that city shall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley, which is neither eared nor sown, and shall strike off the heifer's neck there in the valley.

5 And the priests the sons of Levi shall come near (for [a] them the Lord thy God hath chosen to minister unto him, and to bless in the name of the Lord) and [k] by their * word shall every controversy, and every stroke be tried.

6 And all the elders of that city that are next unto the slain man, [c] shall wash their hands over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley.

7 And they shall answer and say, Our hands have not shed this blood, neither have our eyes seen it.

8 Be merciful, O Lord, unto thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, [d] and lay not innocent blood † unto thy people of Israel's charge. And the blood shall be forgiven them.

9 So shalt thou put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the Lord.

10 ¶ When thou goest forth to war against thine enemies, and the Lord thy God hath delivered them into thine hands, and thou hast taken them captive,

11 And seest among the captives a beautiful woman, and hast a desire unto her, that thou wouldest have her to thy wife:

12 Then thou shalt bring her home to thine house, and she shall shave her head, and ‡ § pare her nails.

13 And she shall put the raiment of her captivity from off her, and shall remain in thine house, and [e] bewail her father and her mother a full month: and after that, thou shalt go in unto her, and be her husband, and she shall be thy wife.

14 And it shall be if thou have no delight in her, then thou shalt let her go whither she will, but thou shalt not sell her at all for money, thou shalt not make merchandise of her, [f] because thou hast humbled her.

15 ¶ If a man have two wives, one beloved, [g] and another hated, and they have borne him children, both the beloved and the hated; and if the first-born son be her's that was hated:

16 Then it shall be, [h] when he maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not make the son of the beloved, first-born, before the son of the hated, which is indeed the first-born:

17 But he shall acknowledge the son of the hated for the first-born, [i] by giving him a double portion of all ‖ that he hath: for he is [k] the beginning of his strength, the right of the first-born is his.

18 ¶ If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that when they have chastened him, will not hearken unto them:

19 Then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place:

20 And they shall say unto the elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious, he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard.

21 And all the men of his city shall stone him with stones, that he die: [l] so shalt thou put evil away from among you, and all Israel shall hear, and fear.

22 ¶ And a Chap. 10. 8. 1 Chro 23.13.

k Chap. 17. 8, 9.
* Heb. mouth.
c See Psa. 19. 12. Matt. 27. 24.
d Jonah 1. 14.
† Heb. in the midst.
‡ Or, suffer to grow.
§ Heb. make, or, dress.
e See Psa. 45. 10.
f Judg. 19. 24.
g Gen. 29. 33.
h 2 Chron. 1. 19. 22.
i See 1 Chron. 5. 1.
‖ Heb. that is found with him.
k Gen. 49. 3.
l Chap. 13. 5. and 19. 19, 20 and 22. 21, 24.

V. 4. The elders shall strike off the heifer's neck—To shew what they would have done to the murderer, if they had found him.

V. 5. By their word shall every controversy be tried—Every such controversy as might arise about the matter here spoken of.

V. 6. All the elders shall wash their hands—In testimony of their innocency.

V. 7. Neither have our eyes seen it—Nor have we seen or understood how or by whom this was done.

V. 8. The blood shall be forgiven them—Not imputed to them, nor punished in them. Though there was no moral guilt in the people, yet there was a ceremonial uncleanness in the land, which was to be expiated and forgiven.

V. 10. When thou goest forth to war against thine enemies—Not the Canaanites.

V. 12. She shall shave her head—Rendering her uncomely and deformed, but then the last words must not be rendered, shall pare her nails, but shall nourish them, or suffer them to grow, as the Chaldee, Arabic, and divers of the learned Jews, and other interpreters, render it; or to express her sorrow for the loss of her father and mother, as it follows, verse 13, it being the ancient custom of mourners in most nations to shave themselves, and in some to pare their nails, in others to suffer them to grow, in token of her renouncing her heathenish idolatry, and of her embracing the true religion.

V. 19. His father and his mother shall bring him out unto the elders of his city—Which was a sufficient caution to preserve children from the malice of any hard-hearted parents, because these elders were first to examine the cause with all exactness, and then to pronounce the sentence.

V. 20. This our son is stubborn and rebellious—Adds incorrigibleness to all his wickedness. He is a glutton and a drunkard—Under which two offences, others of a like or worse nature are comprehended.

V. 21. All Israel shall hear and fear—To offend God, the Universal Parent, who thus causes his displeasure to be made known against all disobedience to parents, and against all wickedness.

V. 23

Before Christ 1451.

22 ¶ And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

m Josh. 8. 29. and 10. 26.

23 m His body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day (for n he that is hanged, is * accursed of God) that thy land be not defiled, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

n Gal. 3. 13. * Heb. the curse of God: See Num. 25. 4. Josh. 10. 26. 2 Sam. 21. 6.

CHAP. XXII.

a Exod. 23. 4.

THOU a shalt not see thy brother's ox or his sheep go astray, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt in any case bring them again unto thy brother.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou shalt bring it unto thine own house, and it shall be with thee until thy brother seek after it, and thou shalt restore it to him again.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass, and so shalt thou do with his raiment, and with all lost things of thy brother's, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise: thou mayest not hide thyself.

b Exod. 23. 5.

4 ¶ b Thou shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift them up again.

5 ¶ The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God.

Before Christ 1451.

6 ¶ If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam with the young.

7 But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

8 ¶ When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not blood upon thine house, if any man fall from thence.

9 ¶ c Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds: lest the * fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled.

c Lev. 19. 19. * Heb. fulness of thy seed.

10 ¶ d Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together.

d See 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15, 16.

11 ¶ e Thou shalt not wear a garment of divers sorts, as of woollen and linen together.

e Lev. 19. 19.

12 ¶ Thou shalt make thee f fringes upon the four † quarters of thy vesture, wherewith thou coverest thyself.

f Num. 15. 38. Matt. 23. 5. † Heb. wings.

13 ¶ If

V. 23. He that is hanged, is accursed of God—Punished by God's appointment with a most shameful punishment, as this was held among the Jews, and all nations. This punishment was inflicted only upon the most notorious offenders, and such as brought the curse of God upon the community, and principally to foresignify that Christ should undergo this execrable punishment, and be made a curse for us, (Gal. iii. 13.) which though it was yet to come in respect to men, yet was present to God. That thy land be not defiled—By inhumanity towards the dead; or by suffering the memorial of the man's great wickedness, and of God's curse, to remain public and visible a longer time than God would have it, but be put out of sight, and buried in oblivion.

CHAP. XXII.

V. 1. Thy brothers—A Jew, or a stranger; because this was a duty of common justice and charity, which the law of nature taught even heathens. Hide thyself from them—Dissemble or pretend that thou dost not see them, or neglect and pass them by, as if thou hadst not seen them.

V. 2. If thy brother be not nigh unto thee—Which may make the duty more troublesome or chargeable. If thou know him not—Which implies, that if they did know the owner, they should restore it to him. Bring it unto thine own house—To be used like thine own cattle. Thou shalt restore it to him again—The owner, as it may be presumed, paying the charges.

V. 3. Thou mayest not hide thyself—Dissemble that thou hast found it; conceal the thing lost.

V. 5. The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment—This is forbidden, for decency's sake, that men might not confound, nor seem to confound those sexes which God hath distinguished, that all appearance of evil might be avoided, such change of garments carrying a manifest sign of effeminacy in the man, of arrogance in the woman—of lightness in both.

V. 7. Thou shalt in any wise let the dam go—For the bird's sake, which suffered enough by the loss of its young; for God would not have cruelty exercised towards the brute creatures: and partly for men's sake to restrain their greediness and covetousness, that they should not monopolize all to themselves, but might leave the hopes of a future seed for others.

V. 8. Thou shalt make a battlement—A fence or breastwork, because the roofs of their houses were made flat, that men might walk on them. That thou bring not blood—The guilt of blood, by a man's fall from the top of thy house, through thy neglect of this necessary provision, and thy caution is to be extended in every other case, to prevent any one from suffering an injury.

V. 9. Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds—This, and the two following precepts, though in themselves trivial, are given, according to that time and state of the Church, for instructions in greater matters, and particularly to commend to them simplicity and sincerity towards God and men, and to forbid all mixture of their inventions with God's institutions in doctrine or worship. Lest the fruit be defiled—Heb. The fulness of thy seed, i. e. that seed when it is ripe and full. Either naturally corrupted or marred, whilst one seed draws away the fat and nourishment of the earth from the other, and so both are starved and spoiled. Or, this being prohibited by God's law, and thereby made unclean; as on the contrary, things are sanctified by God's word, allowing and approving them. (1 Tim. iv. 5.)

V. 10. Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together—Because the one was clean, the other unclean; whereby God would teach men to avoid polluting themselves—Because of their unequal strength, whereby the weaker would be oppressed and overwrought.

V. 12. Thou shalt make thee fringes—Laces, or strings, partly to bring the commands of God to their remembrance, as it is expressed, Numb. xv. 38. and partly as a public profession of their nation

Before Christ 1451.

13 ¶ If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her,

14 And give occasion of speech against her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and say, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid:

15 Then shall the father of the damsel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damsel's virginity, unto the elders of the city in the gate.

16 And the damsel's father shall say unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her.

17 And lo, he hath given occasions of speech against her, saying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity: and they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city shall take that man and chastise him.

19 And they shall amerce him in an hundred shekels of silver, and give them unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Israel: and she shall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damsel:

21 Then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die: because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore in her father's house: [g] so shalt thou put evil away from among you.

g Chap. 13. 5

22 ¶ [h] If a man be found lying with a woman married to an husband, then they shall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel.

h Lev. 20. 10. John 8. 5.

23 ¶ If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an husband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her:

24 Then ye shall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones that they die; the damsel, because she cried not, being in the city; and the man, [i] because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: [k] so thou shalt put away evil from among you.

i Chap. 21. 14. k Ver. 21, 22.

25 ¶ But if a man find a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man ‡ force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her, shall die.

‡ Or, take strong hold of her.

26 But unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing, there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and slayeth him, even so is this matter.

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save her.

28 ¶ [l] If a man find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found:

l Exod. 22. 16.

29 Then the man that lay with her, shall give unto the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife, because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

30 ¶ [m] A man shall not take his father's wife, nor [n] discover his father's skirt.

m Lev. 18. 8. and 20. 11. 1 Cor. 5. 1. n See Ruth 3. 9. Ezek. 16. 8.

CHAP. XXIII.

HE that is wounded in the stones, or hath his privy member cut off, shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord.

2 A bastard shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord: even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord.

3 [a] An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to their tenth generation shall they not enter into the congregation of the Lord for ever:

a Neh. 13. 1.

4 [b] Because they met you not with bread and with water in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; and [c] because they hired against thee Balaam the son of Beor of Pethor of Mesopotamia, to curse thee.

b See Chap. 2. 29.

c Num. 22. 5, 6.

5 Nevertheless, the Lord thy God would not hearken unto Balaam: but the Lord thy God nation and religion, whereby they might be discerned and distinguished from strangers, that so they might be more circumspect to behave themselves as became the people of God, and that they should not be ashamed to own their God and religion before all the world.

V. 22. They shall both die: the man and the woman—If convicted of this fault.

CHAP. XXIII.

V. 2. A bastard—The word notes a person base born, or born in fornication, or adultery. This law was only an exclusion from government.

N. 4. Because they met you not with bread and with water in the way—As the manner of those times was to wait and provide for strangers. Their fault was unmercifulness to strangers and afflicted persons. How doth the Father of Mercies take notice of the conduct of men to men, and especially of the treatment which is shewn to strangers, and to the poor.

V. 5. The Lord thy God turned the curse into a blessing unto thee—Forced Balaam to bless thee, who was hired and inclined to curse thee, if possibly he could. And so shall the worst designs of men be turned into blessings to the true Israel of God.

V. 6. Thou shalt not seek their peace—Each particular Israelite is

Before Christ 1451.

22 ¶ And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

m Josh. 8. 29. and 10. 26.

23 [m] His body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day (for [n] he that is hanged, is * accursed of God) that thy land be not defiled, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

n Gal. 3. 13. * Heb. the curse of God: See Num. 25. 4. Josh. 10. 26. 2 Sam. 21. 6.

CHAP. XXII.

a Exod. 23. 4.

THOU [a] shalt not see thy brother's ox or his sheep go astray, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt in any case bring them again unto thy brother.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou shalt bring it unto thine own house, and it shall be with thee until thy brother seek after it, and thou shalt restore it to him again.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass, and so shalt thou do with his raiment, and with all lost things of thy brother's, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise: thou mayest not hide thyself.

b Exod. 23. 5.

4 ¶ [b] Thou shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift them up again.

5 ¶ The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God.

Before Christ 1451.

6 ¶ If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam with the young.

7 But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

8 ¶ When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not blood upon thine house, if any man fall from thence.

9 ¶ [c] Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds: lest the * fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled.

c Lev. 19. 19. * Heb. fulness of thy seed.

10 ¶ [d] Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together.

d See 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15, 16.

11 ¶ [e] Thou shalt not wear a garment of divers sorts, as of woollen and linen together.

e Lev. 19. 19.

12 ¶ Thou shalt make thee [f] fringes upon the four † quarters of thy vesture, wherewith thou coverest thyself. 13 ¶ If

f Num. 15. 38. Matt. 23. 5. † Heb. wings.

V. 23. He that is hanged, is accursed of God—Punished by God's appointment with a most shameful punishment, as this was held among the Jews, and all nations. This punishment was inflicted only upon the most notorious offenders, and such as brought the curse of God upon the community, and principally to foresignify that Christ should undergo this execrable punishment, and be made a curse for us, (Gal. iii. 13.) which though it was yet to come in respect to men, yet was present to God. That thy land be not defiled—By inhumanity towards the dead; or by suffering the memorial of the man's great wickedness, and of God's curse, to remain public and visible a longer time than God would have it, but be put out of sight, and buried in oblivion.

CHAP. XXII.

V. 1. Thy brothers—A Jew, or a stranger; because this was a duty of common justice and charity, which the law of nature taught even heathens. Hide thyself from them—Dissemble or pretend that thou dost not see them, or neglect and pass them by, as if thou hadst not seen them.

V. 2. If thy brother be not nigh unto thee—Which may make the duty more troublesome or chargeable. If thou know him not—Which implies, that if they did know the owner, they should restore it to him. Bring it unto thine own house—To be used like thine own cattle. Thou shalt restore it to him again—The owner, as it may be presumed, paying the charges.

V. 3. Thou mayest not hide thyself—Dissemble that thou hast found it; conceal the thing lost.

V. 5. The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment—This is forbidden, for decency's sake, that men might not confound, nor seem to confound those sexes which God hath distinguished, that all appearance of evil might be avoided, such change of garments carrying a manifest sign of effeminacy in the man, of arrogance in the woman—of lightness in both.

V. 7. Thou shalt in any wise let the dam go—For the bird's sake, which suffered enough by the loss of its young; for God would not have cruelty exercised towards the brute creatures: and partly for men's sake to restrain their greediness and covetousness, that they should not monopolize all to themselves, but might leave the hopes of a future seed for others.

V. 8. Thou shalt make a battlement—A fence or breastwork, because the roofs of their houses were made flat, that men might walk on them. That thou bring not blood—The guilt of blood, by a man's fall from the top of thy house, through thy neglect of this necessary provision, and thy caution is to be extended in every other case, to prevent any one from suffering an injury.

V. 9. Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds—This, and the two following precepts, though in themselves trivial, are given, according to that time and state of the Church, for instructions in greater matters, and particularly to commend to them simplicity and sincerity towards God and men, and to forbid all mixture of their inventions with God's institutions in doctrine or worship. Lest the fruit be defiled—Heb. The fulness of thy seed, i. e. that seed when it is ripe and full. Either naturally corrupted or marred, whilst one seed draws away the fat and nourishment of the earth from the other, and so both are starved and spoiled. Or, this being prohibited by God's law, and thereby made unclean; as on the contrary, things are sanctified by God's word, allowing and approving them. (1 Tim. iv. 5.)

V. 10. Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together—Because the one was clean, the other unclean; whereby God would teach men to avoid polluting themselves—Because of their unequal strength, whereby the weaker would be oppressed and overwrought.

V. 12. Thou shalt make thee fringes—Laces, or strings, partly to bring the commands of God to their remembrance, as it is expressed, Numb. xv. 38. and partly as a public profession of their nation

Before Christ 1451.

13 ¶ If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her,

14 And give occasion of speech against her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and say, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid:

15 Then shall the father of the damsel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damsel's virginity, unto the elders of the city in the gate.

16 And the damsel's father shall say unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her.

17 And lo, he hath given occasions of speech against her, saying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity: and they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city shall take that man and chastise him.

19 And they shall amerce him in an hundred shekels of silver, and give them unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Israel: and she shall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damsel:

21 Then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her with stones that she die: because she hath wrought folly in Israel, to play the whore in her father's house: [g] so shalt thou put evil away from among you.

g Chap. 13. 5.

22 ¶ [h] If a man be found lying with a woman married to an husband, then they shall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel.

h Lev. 20. 10. John 8. 5.

23 ¶ If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an husband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her:

24 Then ye shall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones that they die; the damsel, because she cried not, being in the city; and the man, [i] because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: [k] so thou shalt put away evil from among you.

Before Christ 1451.

i Chap. 21. 14.
k Ver. 21, 22.

25 ¶ But if a man find a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man ‡ force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her, shall die.

‡ Or, take strong hold of her.

26 But unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing, there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and slayeth him, even so is this matter.

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save her.

28 ¶ [l] If a man find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found:

l Exod. 22. 16.

29 Then the man that lay with her, shall give unto the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife, because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

30 ¶ [m] A man shall not take his father's wife, nor [n] discover his father's skirt.

m Lev. 18. 8. and 20. 11. 1 Cor. 5. 1.
n See Ruth 3. 9. Ezek. 16. 8.

CHAP. XXIII.

HE that is wounded in the stones, or hath his privy member cut off, shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord.

2 A bastard shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord: even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord.

3 [a] An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to their tenth generation shall they not enter into the congregation of the Lord for ever:

a Neh. 13. 1.

4 [b] Because they met you not with bread and with water in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; and [c] because they hired against thee Balaam the son of Beor of Pethor of Mesopotamia, to curse thee.

b See Chap. 2. 29.
c Num. 22. 5, 6.

5 Nevertheless, the Lord thy God would not hearken unto Balaam: but the Lord thy God nation and religion, whereby they might be discerned and distinguished from strangers, that so they might be more circumspect to behave themselves as became the people of God, and that they should not be ashamed to own their God and religion before all the world.

V. 22. They shall both die: the man and the woman—If convicted of this fault.

CHAP. XXIII.

V. 2. A bastard—The word notes a person base-born, or born in fornication, or adultery. This law was only an exclusion from government.

N. 4. Because they met you not with bread and with water in the way—As the manner of those times was to wait and provide for strangers. Their fault was unmercifulness to strangers and afflicted persons. How doth the Father of Mercies take notice of the conduct of men to men, and especially of the treatment which is shewn to strangers, and to the poor.

V. 5. The Lord thy God turned the curse into a blessing unto thee—Forced Balaam to bless thee, who was hired and inclined to curse thee, if possibly he could. And so shall the worst designs of men be turned into blessings to the true Israel of God.

V. 6. Thou shalt not seek their peace—Each particular Israelite is Before Christ 1451. God turned the curſe into a bleſſing unto thee, becauſe the Lord thy God loved thee.

d Ezra 9. 12. † Heb. good. 6 d Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace, nor their † proſperity all thy days for ever.

7 ¶ Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite, for he is thy brother: thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, becauſe thou waſt a ſtranger in his land.

8 The children that are begotten of them, ſhall enter into the congregation of the Lord, in their third generation.

9 ¶ When the hoſt goeth forth againſt thine enemies, then keep thee from every wicked thing.

e Lev. 15. 16. 10 ¶ e If there be among you any man that is not clean, by reaſon of uncleanneſs that chanceth him by night, then ſhall he go abroad out of the camp, he ſhall not come within the camp.

† Heb. turneth toward. f Lev. 15. 5. 11 But it ſhall be when evening † cometh on, f he ſhall waſh himſelf with water: and when the ſun is down, he ſhall come into the camp again.

12 ¶ Thou ſhalt have a place alſo without the camp, whither thou ſhalt go forth abroad.

‡ Heb. ſitteſt down. 13 And thou ſhalt have a paddle upon thy weapon: and it ſhall be when thou ‡ wilt eaſe thyſelf abroad, thou ſhalt dig therewith, and ſhalt turn back, and cover that which cometh from thee.

14 For the Lord thy God walketh in the midſt of thy camp, to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee: therefore ſhall thy camp be holy, that he ſee no § unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

Before Chriſt 1451.

§ Heb. nakedneſs of any thing. g 1 Sam. 30. 15. 15 ¶ g Thou ſhalt not deliver unto his maſter, the ſervant which is eſcaped from his maſter unto thee.

16 He ſhall dwell with thee, even among you, h in that place which he ſhall chooſe, in one of thy gates where it ‖ liketh him beſt: thou ſhalt not oppreſs him.

h Chap. 12. 5. ‖ Heb. is good for him.

* Or. ſodomites. i Lev. 19. 29. See Prov. 2. 16. 17 ¶ There ſhall be no * whore i of the daughters of Iſrael, nor a ſodomite of the ſons of Iſrael.

18 Thou ſhalt not bring the hire of a whore, or the price of a dog into the houſe of the Lord thy God for any vow: for even both theſe are abomination unto the Lord thy God.

k Exod. 22. 25. Lev. 25. 36. Neh. 5. 2, 7. Pſal. 15. 5. Luke 6. 34, 35. 19 ¶ k Thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury to thy brother; uſury of money, uſury of victuals, uſury of any thing that is lent upon uſury.

l See Lev. 19. 34. and Chap. 15. 3. 20 l Unto a ſtranger thou mayeſt lend upon uſury, but unto thy brother thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury; that the Lord thy God may bleſs thee in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand to, in the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it.

m Num. 30. 2. Eccleſ. 5. 4. 21 ¶ m When thou ſhalt vow a vow unto the Lord thy God, thou ſhalt not ſlack to pay it: for the Lord thy God will ſurely require it of thee; and it would be ſin in thee.

22 But if thou ſhalt forbear to vow, it ſhall be no ſin in thee.

23 That

not hereby forbid to perform any office of humanity to them, but the body of the nation are forbid all friendly and familiar intercourſe with them.

V. 7. He is thy brother—By Eſau, Jacob's brother. Thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, becauſe thou waſt a ſtranger in his land—And didſt receive habitation, protection and proviſion, from them a long time, which kindneſs thou muſt not forget for their following perſecution. God commandeth us to overlook and forget injuries, and to remember kindneſſes.

V. 9. Then keep thee from every wicked thing—Then eſpecially take heed, becauſe that is a time and ſtate of confuſion and licentiouſneſs, when the laws of God and man cannot be heard for the noiſe of arms; and becauſe the ſucceſs of thy arms and enterprizes depend upon God's bleſſing, which wicked men have no reaſon to expect; and becauſe thou doſt then carry thy life in thy hand, and therefore haſt need to be well prepared for death and judgment.

V. 14. The Lord thy God walketh in the midſt of thy camp—Either becauſe the ark was commonly preſent with them, or at leaſt ſome of the holy inſtruments, which were pledges of God's preſence: or, becauſe God had promiſed to go forth with them, when they engaged in a juſt and neceſſary war. But where is the place in which the judge of All is not preſent?

V. 16. Thou ſhalt not oppreſs him—Taking advantage from his low and afflicted condition to be unreaſonable or injurious to him.

V. 19. Thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury—Take an unlawful advantage of another's neceſſity.

V. 20. Unto a ſtranger thou mayeſt lend upon uſury—To a perſon of any other nation. The reaſon why uſury is permitted to a ſtranger, not to an Iſraelite, may ſeem to be this, becauſe the Iſraelites generally employed themſelves in the management of land and cattle, and therefore could not make any advantage of borrowed money to balance the uſe they ſhould pay for it, and conſequently it may be preſumed that they would not borrow money upon uſe, but for want and poverty, and in that caſe, and principally for that reaſon, uſury ſeems to be forbidden to them. But the ſtrangers made uſe of their money in way of traffick with the Iſraelites, which was more gainful, and could much better bear the burden of uſury, and reap advantage from money ſo borrowed, and theſe ſtrangers here ſpoken of, are ſuppoſed to be competently rich, and not poor, as may plainly appear, by comparing this place with Lev. xxv. 35, 36. where they are no leſs forbidden to take uſury of a ſtranger than of a brother, in caſe of poverty.

V. 21. When thou ſhalt vow a vow, thou ſhalt not ſlack to pay it——If the matter of it be lawful, and in thy own power, becauſe delays may make thee both unable to pay it, and unwilling too, the ſenſe of ones obligation growing weaker by delay. It would be ſin in thee—It would be laid to thy charge as a ſin, and bring judgment upon thee.

V. 23. A free-will-offering—Which, though thou didſt freely make, yet being made, thou art no longer free, but obliged to perform it.

V. 24. When

Before Christ 1451.

23 That which is gone out of thy lips, thou shalt keep and perform; even a free-will-offering, according as thou hast vowed unto the Lord thy God, which thou hast promised with thy mouth.

24 ¶ When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayest eat grapes thy fill, at thine own pleasure; but thou shalt not put any in thy vessel.

25 When thou comest into the standing-corn of thy neighbour's, [n] then thou mayest pluck the ears with thine hand: but thou shalt not move a sickle unto thy neighbour's standing-corn.

n Matt. 12. 1. Mark 2. 23. Luke 6. 1.

CHAP. XXIV.

1 WHEN a [a] man hath taken a wife and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found * some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of † divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house.

a Matt. 5. 31. and 19. 7. Mark 10. 4.

* Heb. matter of nakedness.
† Heb. cutting off.

2 And when she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's wife.

3 And if the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it in her hand, and sendeth her out of his house; or if the latter husband die, which took her to be his wife;

4 [b] Her former husband which sent her away, may not take her again to be his wife, after that she is defiled: for that is abomination before the Lord, and thou shalt not cause the land to sin, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

Before Christ 1451.

b Jer. 3. 1.

5 ¶ [c] When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, ‡ neither shall he be charged with any business: but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken.

c Chap. 20. 7.

‡ Heb. not any thing shall pass upon him.

6 ¶ No man shall take the nether or the upper millstone to pledge: for he taketh a man's life to pledge.

7 ¶ [d] If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die, [e] and thou shalt put evil away from among you.

d Exod. 21. 16.

e Chap. 19. 19.

8 ¶ Take heed, in [f] the plague of leprosy, that thou observe diligently, and do according to all that the priests the Levites shall teach you: as I commanded them, so ye shall observe to do.

f Lev. 13. 2. and 14. 2.

9 Remember what the Lord thy God did [g] unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

g Num. 12. 10. 1490.

10 ¶ When thou dost § lend thy brother any

§ Heb. lend the loan of any thing to, &c.

V. 24. When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayest eat grapes at thine own pleasure—Which was allowed in those parts, because of the great plenty and fruitfulness of vines there.

V. 25. Thou shalt not move a sickle unto thy neighbour's standing-corn—The same law includeth God's command, that no man should do any other injury to the corn or property of another; he that would let his cattle loose upon the corn or grass of his neighbour, if he could do it secretly, is to understand from this word, that He whose eye seeth in secret, will, if not before, in the great day of accounts, bring that and every hidden thing to light; and then how great will their shame be, who have covered their sins from men, and have neither confessed them to God, repented of them in his sight, or made, or endeavoured to make, any reparation for the wrongs which they know they have done to others. He who forbideth every injury between man and man, nation and nation, is above All, and All from the highest to the lowest, must give account of themselves unto him. (Rom. xiv. 12.)

CHAP. XXIV.

V. 1. Then let him write her a bill of divorcement—This is not a command to divorce them, nor an allowance and approbation, as plainly appears from Matth. v. 31, 32. and xix. 8, 9. but merely a permission or toleration of that practice for prevention of greater mischiefs and cruelties towards their wives, and this only for a season, even until the time of reformation, as it is called, (Heb. ix. 10.) i. e. till the coming of the Messias, when things were to return to their first institution, and purest condition.

V. 2. She may go and be another man's wife—For though he could not causelessly put her away without sin, yet she being put away and forsaken by her husband, might marry another without sin.

V. 4. Thou shalt not cause the land to sin—Thou shalt not suffer such abominable lightness and lewdness to be practised, lest the people be polluted, and the land defiled and accursed by that means.

V. 6. No man shall take the nether or the upper millstone to pledge—Under this all other things are to be understood that are necessary to get a livelihood, the taking away whereof is against the laws of charity, seeing by those things alone, he can be enabled both to subsist, and to pay his debts. He taketh a man's life—His livelihood, or the necessary supports of his life.

V. 8. As I commanded them, so ye shall observe to do—By which words God plainly intimates, that they were not only to have an eye to the Levites instructions, but especially to the word and command of God, and that if the Levites sentence was contrary to the command of God, it was not to be obeyed.

V. 9. Unto Miriam—Whom God smote with leprosy for her contempt of Moses, and therefore thou mayest expect the same or like punishment, if thou dost despise the counsel and direction of the Levites. Under the divine government there is an orderly subordination: superiors and teachers are accountable to God, that they rule and teach according to the will of God, and those that are under them are to obey and attend to their instruction, as to the appointed means by which God will do them good, who attend to the will of God in the appointed means, and those that despise and reject them, will make themselves accountable for so doing.

V. 10. Thou shalt not go into his house to fetch his pledge—To prevent both the poor man's reproach, by having his wants exposed to view, and the creditor's insolence and greediness, which might be occasioned by the sight of something which he desired,

and

Before Christ 1451.

22 ¶ And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree:

m Josh. 8. 29. and 10. 26.

23 m His body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day (for n he that is hanged, is * accursed of God) that thy land be not defiled, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

n Gal. 3. 13. * Heb. the curse of God: See Num. 25. 4. Josh. 10. 26. 2 Sam. 21. 6.

CHAP. XXII.

a Exod. 23. 4.

THOU a shalt not see thy brother's ox or his sheep go astray, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt in any case bring them again unto thy brother.

2 And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou shalt bring it unto thine own house, and it shall be with thee until thy brother seek after it, and thou shalt restore it to him again.

3 In like manner shalt thou do with his ass, and so shalt thou do with his raiment, and with all lost things of thy brother's, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise: thou mayest not hide thyself.

b Exod. 23. 5.

4 ¶ b Thou shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift them up again.

5 ¶ The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God.

Before Christ 1451.

6 ¶ If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam with the young.

7 But thou shalt in any wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

8 ¶ When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not blood upon thine house, if any man fall from thence.

9 ¶ c Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds: lest the * fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled.

c Lev. 19. 19. * Heb. fulness of thy seed.

10 ¶ d Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together.

d See 2 Cor. 6. 14, 15, 16.

11 ¶ e Thou shalt not wear a garment of divers sorts, as of woollen and linen together.

e Lev. 19. 19.

12 ¶ Thou shalt make thee f fringes upon the four † quarters of thy vesture, wherewith thou coverest thyself.

f Num. 15. 38. Matt. 23. 5. † Heb. wing.

13 ¶ If

V. 23. He that is hanged, is accursed of God—Punished by God's appointment with a most shameful punishment, as this was held among the Jews, and all nations. This punishment was inflicted only upon the most notorious offenders, and such as brought the curse of God upon the community, and principally to foresignify that Christ should undergo this execrable punishment, and be made a curse for us, (Gal. iii. 13.) which though it was yet to come in respect to men, yet was present to God. That thy land be not defiled—By inhumanity towards the dead; or by suffering the memorial of the man's great wickedness, and of God's curse, to remain public and visible a longer time than God would have it, but be put out of sight, and buried in oblivion.

CHAP. XXII.

V. 1. Thy brothers—A Jew, or a stranger; because this was a duty of common justice and charity, which the law of nature taught even heathens. Hide thyself from them—Dissemble or pretend that thou dost not see them, or neglect and pass them by, as if thou hadst not seen them.

V. 2. If thy brother be not nigh unto thee—Which may make the duty more troublesome or chargeable. If thou know him not—Which implies, that if they did know the owner, they should restore it to him. Bring it unto thine own house—To be used like thine own cattle. Thou shalt restore it to him again—The owner, as it may be presumed, paying the charges.

V. 3. Thou mayest not hide thyself—Dissemble that thou hast found it; conceal the thing lost.

V. 5. The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment—This is forbidden, for decency's sake, that men might not confound, nor seem to confound those sexes which God hath distinguished, that all appearance of evil might be avoided, such change of garments carrying a manifest sign of effeminacy in the man, of arrogance in the woman—of lightness in both.

V. 7. Thou shalt in any wise let the dam go—For the bird's sake, which suffered enough by the loss of its young; for God would not have cruelty exercised towards the brute creatures: and partly for men's sake to restrain their greediness and covetousness, that they should not monopolize all to themselves, but might leave the hopes of a future seed for others.

V. 8. Thou shalt make a battlement—A fence or breastwork, because the roofs of their houses were made flat, that men might walk on them. That thou bring not blood—The guilt of blood, by a man's fall from the top of thy house, through thy neglect of this necessary provision, and thy caution is to be extended in every other case, to prevent any one from suffering an injury.

V. 9. Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds—This, and the two following precepts, though in themselves trivial, are given, according to that time and state of the Church, for instructions in greater matters, and particularly to commend to them simplicity and sincerity towards God and men, and to forbid all mixture of their inventions with God's institutions in doctrine or worship. Lest the fruit be defiled—Heb. The fulness of thy seed, i. e. that seed when it is ripe and full. Either naturally corrupted or marred, whilst one seed draws away the fat and nourishment of the earth from the other, and so both are starved and spoiled. Or, this being prohibited by God's law, and thereby made unclean; as on the contrary, things are sanctified by God's word, allowing and approving them. (1 Tim. iv. 5.)

V. 10. Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together—Because the one was clean, the other unclean; whereby God would teach men to avoid polluting themselves—Because of their unequal strength, whereby the weaker would be oppressed and overwrought.

V. 12. Thou shalt make thee fringes—Laces, or strings, partly to bring the commands of God to their remembrance, as it is expressed, Numb. xv. 38. and partly as a public profession of their nation

Before Christ 1451.

13 ¶ If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her,

14 And give occaſion of ſpeech againſt her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and ſay, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid:

15 Then ſhall the father of the damſel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damſel's virginity, unto the elders of the city in the gate.

16 And the damſel's father ſhall ſay unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her.

17 And lo, he hath given occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, ſaying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet theſe are the tokens of my daughter's virginity: and they ſhall ſpread the cloth before the elders of the city.

18 And the elders of that city ſhall take that man and chaſtiſe him.

19 And they ſhall amerce him in an hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and give them unto the father of the damſel, becauſe he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Iſrael: and ſhe ſhall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days.

20 But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damſel:

21 Then they ſhall bring out the damſel to the door of her father's houſe, and the men of her city ſhall ſtone her with ſtones that ſhe die: becauſe ſhe hath wrought folly in Iſrael, to play the whore in her father's houſe: [g] ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you.

g Chap. 13. 5

[h] Lev. 20. 10. John 8. 5.

22 ¶ [h] If a man be found lying with a woman married to an huſband, then they ſhall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: ſo ſhalt thou put away evil from Iſrael.

23 ¶ If a damſel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an huſband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her:

24 Then ye ſhall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye ſhall ſtone them with ſtones that they die; the damſel, becauſe ſhe cried not, being in the city; and the man, [i] becauſe he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: [k] ſo thou ſhalt put away evil from among you.

Before Christ 1451.

i Chap. 21. 14.
k Ver. 21, 22.

25 ¶ But if a man find a betrothed damſel in the field, and the man ‡ force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her, ſhall die.

‡ Or, take ſtrong hold of her.

26 But unto the damſel thou ſhalt do nothing, there is in the damſel no ſin worthy of death: for as when a man riſeth againſt his neighbour, and ſlayeth him, even ſo is this matter.

27 For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damſel cried, and there was none to ſave her.

28 ¶ [l] If a man find a damſel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found:

l Exod. 22. 16.

29 Then the man that lay with her, ſhall give unto the damſel's father fifty ſhekels of ſilver, and ſhe ſhall be his wife, becauſe he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

30 ¶ [m] A man ſhall not take his father's wife, nor [n] diſcover his father's ſkirt.

m Lev. 18. 8. and 20. 11. 1 Cor. 5. 1.
n See Ruth 3. 9. Ezek. 16. 8.

CHAP. XXIII.

HE that is wounded in the ſtones, or hath his privy member cut off, ſhall not enter into the congregation of the Lord.

2 A baſtard ſhall not enter into the congregation of the Lord: even to his tenth generation ſhall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord.

3 [a] An Ammonite or Moabite ſhall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter into the congregation of the Lord for ever:

a Neh. 13. 1.

4 [b] Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt; and [c] becauſe they hired againſt thee Balaam the ſon of Beor of Pethor of Meſopotamia, to curſe thee.

b See Chap. 2. 29.
c Num. 22. 5, 6.

5 Nevertheleſs, the Lord thy God would not hearken unto Balaam: but the Lord thy God nation and religion, whereby they might be diſcerned and diſtinguiſhed from ſtrangers, that ſo they might be more circumſpect to behave themſelves as became the people of God, and that they ſhould not be aſhamed to own their God and religion before all the world.

V. 22. They ſhall both die: the man and the woman—If convicted of this fault.

CHAP. XXIII.

V. 2. A baſtard—The word notes a perſon baſe-born, or born in fornication, or adultery. This law was only an excluſion from government.

N. 4. Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way—As the manner of thoſe times was to wait and provide for ſtrangers. Their fault was unmerciſulneſs to ſtrangers and afflicted perſons. How doth the Father of Mercies take notice of the conduct of men to men, and eſpecially of the treatment which is ſhewn to ſtrangers, and to the poor.

V. 5. The Lord thy God turned the curſe into a bleſſing unto thee—Forced Balaam to bleſs thee, who was hired and inclined to curſe thee, if poſſibly he could. And ſo ſhall the worſt deſigns of men be turned into bleſſings to the true Iſrael of God.

V. 6. Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace—Each particular Iſraelite is Before Christ 1451. God turned the curse into a blessing unto thee, because the Lord thy God loved thee.

d Ezra 9. 12. † Heb. good. 6 [d] Thou shalt not seek their peace, nor their † prosperity all thy days for ever.

7 ¶ Thou shalt not abhor an Edomite, for he is thy brother: thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian, because thou wast a stranger in his land.

8 The children that are begotten of them, shall enter into the congregation of the Lord, in their third generation.

9 ¶ When the host goeth forth against thine enemies, then keep thee from every wicked thing.

e Lev. 15. 16. 10 ¶ [e] If there be among you any man that is not clean, by reason of uncleanness that chanceth him by night, then shall he go abroad out of the camp, he shall not come within the camp.

† Heb. turneth toward. f Lev. 15. 5. 11 But it shall be when evening † cometh on, [f] he shall wash himself with water: and when the sun is down, he shall come into the camp again.

12 ¶ Thou shalt have a place also without the camp, whither thou shalt go forth abroad.

‡ Heb. firmest deuter. 13 And thou shalt have a paddle upon thy weapon: and it shall be when thou ‡ wilt ease thyself abroad, thou shalt dig therewith, and shalt turn back, and cover that which cometh from thee.

14 For the Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp, to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee: therefore shall thy camp be holy, that he see no § unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

Before Christ 1451.

§ Heb. nakedness of any thing. g 1 Sam. 30. 15. 15 ¶ [g] Thou shalt not deliver unto his master, the servant which is escaped from his master unto thee.

16 He shall dwell with thee, even among you, [h] in that place which he shall choose, in one of thy gates where it ‖ liketh him best: thou shalt not oppress him.

h Chap. 12. 5. ‖ Heb. is good for him.

17 ¶ There shall be no * whore [i] of the daughters of Israel, nor a sodomite of the sons of Israel.

* Or. sodomitess. i Lev. 19. 29. See Prov. 2. 16.

18 Thou shalt not bring the hire of a whore, or the price of a dog into the house of the Lord thy God for any vow: for even both these are abomination unto the Lord thy God.

k Exod. 22. 25. Lev. 25. 36. Neh. 5. 2, 7. Psal. 15. 5. Luke 6. 34, 35. 19 ¶ [k] Thou shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother; usury of money, usury of victuals, usury of any thing that is lent upon usury.

l See Lev. 19. 34. and Chap. 15. 3. 20 [l] Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury, but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury; that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all that thou settest thine hand to, in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

m Num. 30. 2. Eccles. 5. 4. 21 ¶ [m] When thou shalt vow a vow unto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not slack to pay it: for the Lord thy God will surely require it of thee; and it would be sin in thee.

22 But if thou shalt forbear to vow, it shall be no sin in thee.

23 That

not hereby forbid to perform any office of humanity to them, but the body of the nation are forbid all friendly and familiar intercourse with them.

V. 7. He is thy brother—By Esau, Jacob's brother. Thou shalt not abhor an Egyptian, because thou wast a stranger in his land—And didst receive habitation, protection and provision, from them a long time, which kindness thou must not forget for their following persecution. God commandeth us to overlook and forget injuries, and to remember kindnesses.

V. 9. Then keep thee from every wicked thing—Then especially take heed, because that is a time and state of confusion and licentiousness, when the laws of God and man cannot be heard for the noise of arms; and because the success of thy arms and enterprizes depend upon God's blessing, which wicked men have no reason to expect; and because thou dost then carry thy life in thy hand, and therefore hast need to be well prepared for death and judgment.

V. 14. The Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thy camp—Either because the ark was commonly present with them, or at least some of the holy instruments, which were pledges of God's presence: or, because God had promised to go forth with them, when they engaged in a just and necessary war. But where is the place in which the judge of All is not present?

V. 16. Thou shalt not oppress him—Taking advantage from his low and afflicted condition to be unreasonable or injurious to him.

V. 19. Thou shalt not lend upon usury—Take an unlawful advantage of another's necessity.

V. 20. Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury—To a person of any other nation. The reason why usury is permitted to a stranger, not to an Israelite, may seem to be this, because the Israelites generally employed themselves in the management of land and cattle, and therefore could not make any advantage of borrowed money to balance the use they should pay for it, and consequently it may be presumed that they would not borrow money upon use, but for want and poverty, and in that case, and principally for that reason, usury seems to be forbidden to them. But the strangers made use of their money in way of traffick with the Israelites, which was more gainful, and could much better bear the burden of usury, and reap advantage from money so borrowed, and these strangers here spoken of, are supposed to be competently rich, and not poor, as may plainly appear, by comparing this place with Lev. xxv. 35, 36. where they are no less forbidden to take usury of a stranger than of a brother, in case of poverty.

V. 21. When thou shalt vow a vow, thou shalt not slack to pay it——If the matter of it be lawful, and in thy own power, because delays may make thee both unable to pay it, and unwilling too, the sense of ones obligation growing weaker by delay. It would be sin in thee—It would be laid to thy charge as a sin, and bring judgment upon thee.

V. 23. A free-will-offering—Which, though thou didst freely make, yet being made, thou art no longer free, but obliged to perform it.

V. 24. When

Before Christ 1451.

23 That which is gone out of thy lips, thou shalt keep and perform; even a free-will-offering, according as thou hast vowed unto the Lord thy God, which thou hast promised with thy mouth.

24 ¶ When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayest eat grapes thy fill, at thine own pleasure; but thou shalt not put any in thy vessel.

25 When thou comest into the standing-corn of thy neighbour's, [n] then thou mayest pluck the ears with thine hand: but thou shalt not move a sickle unto thy neighbour's standing-corn.

n Matt. 12. 1. Mark 2. 23. Luke 6. 1.

CHAP. XXIV.

[a] WHEN a man hath taken a wife and married her, and it come to pass that she find no favour in his eyes, because he hath found * some uncleanness in her: then let him write her a bill of † divorcement, and give it in her hand, and send her out of his house.

a Matt. 5. 31. and 19. 7. Mark 10. 4.

* Heb. matter of nakedness.
† Heb. cutting off.

2 And when she is departed out of his house, she may go and be another man's wife.

3 And if the latter husband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it in her hand, and sendeth her out of his house; or if the latter husband die, which took her to be his wife;

4 [b] Her former husband which sent her away, may not take her again to be his wife, after that she is defiled: for that is abomination before the Lord, and thou shalt not cause the land to sin, which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

Before Christ 1451.

b Jer. 3. 1.

5 ¶ [c] When a man hath taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war, ‡ neither shall he be charged with any business: but he shall be free at home one year, and shall cheer up his wife which he hath taken.

c Chap. 20. 7.

‡ Heb. not any thing shall pass upon him.

6 ¶ No man shall take the nether or the upper millstone to pledge: for he taketh a man's life to pledge.

7 ¶ [d] If a man be found stealing any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and maketh merchandise of him, or selleth him; then that thief shall die, [e] and thou shalt put evil away from among you.

d Exod. 21. 16.

e Chap. 19. 19.

8 ¶ Take heed, in [f] the plague of leprosy, that thou observe diligently, and do according to all that the priests the Levites shall teach you: as I commanded them, so ye shall observe to do.

f Lev. 13. 2. and 14. 2.

9 Remember what the Lord thy God did [g] unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt.

g Numb. 12. 10. 1490.

10 ¶ When thou dost § lend thy brother any

§ Heb. lend the loan of any thing to, &c.

V. 24. When thou comest into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayest eat grapes at thine own pleasure—Which was allowed in those parts, because of the great plenty and fruitfulness of vines there.

V. 25. Thou shalt not move a sickle unto thy neighbour's standing-corn—The same law includeth God's command, that no man should do any other injury to the corn or property of another; he that would let his cattle loose upon the corn or grass of his neighbour, if he could do it secretly, is to understand from this word, that He whose eye seeth in secret, will, if not before, in the great day of accounts, bring that and every hidden thing to light; and then how great will their shame be, who have covered their sins from men, and have neither confessed them to God, repented of them in his sight, or made, or endeavoured to make, any reparation for the wrongs which they know they have done to others. He who forbideth every injury between man and man, nation and nation, is above All, and All from the highest to the lowest, must give account of themselves unto him. (Rom. xiv. 12.)

CHAP. XXIV.

V. 1. Then let him write her a bill of divorcement—This is not a command to divorce them, nor an allowance and approbation, as plainly appears from Matth. v. 31, 32. and xix. 8, 9. but merely a permission or toleration of that practice for prevention of greater mischiefs and cruelties towards their wives, and this only for a season, even until the time of reformation, as it is called, (Heb. ix. 10.) i. e. till the coming of the Messias, when things were to return to their first institution, and purest condition.

V. 2. She may go and be another man's wife—For though he could not causelessly put her away without sin, yet she being put away and forsaken by her husband, might marry another without sin.

V. 4. Thou shalt not cause the land to sin—Thou shalt not suffer such abominable lightness and lewdness to be practised, lest the people be polluted, and the land defiled and accursed by that means.

V. 6. No man shall take the nether or the upper millstone to pledge—Under this all other things are to be understood that are necessary to get a livelihood, the taking away whereof is against the laws of charity, seeing by those things alone, he can be enabled both to subsist, and to pay his debts. He taketh a man's life—His livelihood, or the necessary supports of his life.

V. 8. As I commanded them, so ye shall observe to do—By which words God plainly intimates, that they were not only to have an eye to the Levites instructions, but especially to the word and command of God, and that if the Levites sentence was contrary to the command of God, it was not to be obeyed.

V. 9. Unto Miriam—Whom God smote with leprosy for her contempt of Moses, and therefore thou mayest expect the same or like punishment, if thou dost despise the counsel and direction of the Levites. Under the divine government there is an orderly subordination: superiors and teachers are accountable to God, that they rule and teach according to the will of God, and those that are under them are to obey and attend to their instruction, as to the appointed means by which God will do them good, who attend to the will of God in the appointed means, and those that despise and reject them, will make themselves accountable for so doing.

V. 10. Thou shalt not go into his house to fetch his pledge—To prevent both the poor man's reproach, by having his wants exposed to view, and the creditor's insolence and greediness, which might be occasioned by the sight of something which he desired,

and

Before Christ 1451. any thing, thou shalt not go into his house to fetch his pledge.

11 Thou shalt stand abroad, and the man to whom thou dost lend shall bring out the pledge abroad unto thee.

12 And if the man be poor, thou shalt not sleep with his pledge.

h Exod. 22. 26. 13 [h] In any case thou shalt deliver him the pledge again when the sun goeth down, that i Job 31. 20. he may sleep in his own raiment, and [i] bless k Chap. 6. 25. Psal. 106. 31. and 112. 9. Dan. 4. 27. thee: and [k] it shall be righteousness unto thee before the Lord thy God.

14 ¶ Thou shalt not oppress an hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy strangers that are in thy land within thy gates.

l Lev. 19. 13. Jer. 22. 13. James 5. 4. 15 At his day [l] thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it, ‖ Heb. lifteth his soul unto it. Psal. 25. 1. and 86. 4. for he is poor, and ‖ setteth his heart upon it: [m] lest he cry against thee unto the Lord, and it be sin unto thee.

m James 5. 4. n 2 Kings 14. 6. 2 Chron. 25. 4. Jer. 31. 29. 30. Ezek. 18. 20. 16 [n] The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man shall be put to death for his own sin.

o Exod. 22. 21. 22. Prov. 22. 22. Isai. 1. 23. Jer. 5. 28. and 22. 3. Ezek. 22. 29. Zech. 7. 10. 17 ¶ [o] Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the stranger, nor of the fatherless, nor take the widows raiment to pledge.

p Before Christ 1451. p Exod. 22. 26. q Verse 22. 18 But [q] thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in Egypt, and the Lord thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

r Lev. 19. 9. and 23. 22. 19 ¶ When thou cuttest down thine harvest in thy field, and hast forgot a sheaf in the field, thou shalt not go again to fetch it: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow: that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all the work of thine hands.

* Heb. thou shalt not bough it after thee. 20 When thou beatest thine olive-tree, [*] thou shalt not go over the boughs again: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

† Heb. after thee. 21 When thou gatherest the grapes of thy vineyard, thou shalt not glean it [†] afterward: it shall be for the stranger, for the fatherless, and for the widow.

s Verse 18. 22 And [s] thou shalt remember that thou wast a bond-man in the land of Egypt: therefore I command thee to do this thing.

CHAP.

and the debtor could not spare. How do these merciful, tender and compassionate laws shew us from whom they come!

V. 11. The man shall bring out the pledge abroad unto thee——From his own house.

V. 12. If the man be poor, thou shalt not sleep with his pledge——But restore it before night, which intimates that he should take no such thing for pledge, without which a man cannot sleep but in distress, it being an idle thing to fetch and carry it every day.

V. 13. That he may bless thee—As ministers are said to convert and save sinners—to bring down the blessing of God upon thee by his prayers; his prayers shall avail for thy benefit. It shall be righteousness unto thee before the Lord thy God——Esteemed and accepted by God as a work of righteousness, or holiness, or goodness and mercy, which often is called righteousness.

V. 14. Thou shalt not oppress an hired servant—By laying too grievous burdens of work upon him, or by with-holding his wages from him, or by teaching him with scorn, or by keeping him so continually at his labour, that he hath not any time to use the means which God hath appointed to receive the knowledge of the things of that blessed kingdom, where masters and servants, kings and their subjects will only be respected for their likeness to God, and not for what they were amongst men.

V. 15. At his day—At the time appointed. Neither shall the sun go down upon it—After the day upon which it is due, and desired or demanded by him, for justice must not be denied nor delayed. He setteth his heart upon it—Lifteth up his soul to it, which notes his great desire and hope of it, and his dependance upon it.

V. 16. Neither shall the children be put to death for the fathers—This law is given to men, not to God, and though God doth visit the fathers sins upon the children, yet he will not suffer men to do so. Every man shall be put to death for his own sin—And not for any other man's sin.

V. 17. Thou shalt not pervert the judgment of the stranger, nor of the fatherless—Nor of the widow, which is to be supplied, nor indeed of any other person, but he particularly mentions these, because men are most apt to wrong such helpless persons, and because God is pleased especially to charge himself, and so to charge others, with the care of those who have no other refuge. (Isai. i. 23. Jer. v. 28.) Nor take the widow's raiment to pledge—Such an one as she hath daily and necessarily use of, as being poor. But this concerns not rich persons, nor superfluous raiment.

V. 18. Thou shalt remember——Affectionately and practically, and by thy compassionate sense of others miseries, thou shalt make it evident that thou hast not forgotten thy own distresses and deliverances. I having thereby authority to command thee, and thou having obligations on that account both to obey me and to pity others in the same calamities which thou hast felt. If I find my heart is unfeeling for the distresses of others, have I not just reason to believe that in my very soul I am unlike Him who is full of pity and tender compassion? And what is the danger of a soul that in the very state of it is unlike Him?—For a soul to be separated from the body in a state opposed to the nature of God, it will be separated from the presence of God. And who is it that hath not occasion to have the heart of stone changed into an heart of flesh, or a right spirit renewed within him?

V. 19. When thou hast forgot a sheaf in the field—All things shall redound to the praise of God but sin, the very infirmities of men, their forgetfulness can by him be made the means by which the poor and friendless shall be fed.—Their heavenly Father knoweth what they have need of, and he can supply the poor's wants, by not giving the power of recollection to the rich.

V. 20. Thou shalt not go over the boughs again—Thou shalt leave of them also what escaped thy first notice.

V. 22. I command thee to do this thing—To leave the gleanings for the poor.

CHAP.

Before Christ 1451.

CHAP. XXV.

IF there be a controverſy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them, then they ſhall juſtify the righteous, and condemn the wicked.

2 And it ſhall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, [a] and to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number.

a Matt. 10. 17.

3 [b] Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed: leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe with many ſtripes, then thy brother ſhould ſeem vile unto thee.

b 2 Cor. 11. 24.

4 ¶ [c] Thou ſhalt not muzzle the ox when he * treadeth out the corn.

c Prov. 12. 10. 1 Cor. 9. 9. 1 Tim. 5. 18.
* Heb. threſheth.

5 [d] If brethren dwell together, and one of them die and have no child, the wife of the dead ſhall not marry without unto a ſtranger: her * huſband's brother ſhall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an huſband's brother unto her.

d Matt. 22. 24. Mark 12. 19. Luke 20. 28.
* Or, next kinſman. Gen. 38. 8. Ruth 2. 12, 13.

6 And it ſhall be, that the firſt-born which ſhe beareth, ſhall ſucceed in the name of his brother which is dead, that his name be not put out of Iſrael.

7 And if the man like not to take his † brother's wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the gate unto the elders, and ſay, [e] My huſband's brother refuſeth to raiſe up unto his brother a name in Iſrael, he will not perform the duty of my huſband's brother.

† Or, next kinſman's wife.
e Ruth 4. 7.

8 Then the elders of his city ſhall call him, and ſpeak unto him: and if he ſtand to it, and ſay, I like not to take her:

9 Then ſhall his brother's wife come unto him in the preſence of the elders, and looſe his ſhoe from off his foot, and ſpit in his face, and ſhall anſwer and ſay, So ſhall it be done unto that man that will not build up his brother's houſe.

10 And his name ſhall be called in Iſrael, The houſe of him that hath his ſhoe looſed.

Before Christ 1451.

11 ¶ When men ſtrive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her huſband out of the hand of him that ſmiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the ſecrets:

12 Then thou ſhalt cut off her hand, thine eye ſhall not pity her.

13 ¶ [f] Thou ſhalt not have in thy bag § divers weights, a great and a ſmall.

f Lev. 19. 35, 36. Prov. 11. 1. Ezek. 45. 10.
§ Heb. a ſtone and a ſtone.

14 Thou ſhalt not have in thine houſe ‖ divers meaſures, a great and a ſmall.

‖ Heb. an ephah, and an ephah.

15 But thou ſhalt have a perfect and juſt weight, a perfect and juſt meaſure ſhalt thou have: that thy days may be lengthened in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

16 For [g] all that do ſuch things, and all that do unrighteouſly, are an abomination unto the Lord thy God.

g Prov. 11. 1.

17 ¶ [h] Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way, when ye were come forth out of Egypt.

h Exod. 17. 8.

18 How he met thee by the way, and ſmote the hindmoſt of thee, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou waſt faint and weary; and he feared not God.

19 Therefore it ſhall be, [i] when the Lord thy God hath given thee reſt from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it, that thou ſhalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven; thou ſhalt not forget it.

i 1 Sam. 15. 8.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND it ſhall be when thou art come in unto the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and poſſeſſeſt it, and dwelleſt therein:

2 [a] That thou ſhalt take of the firſt of all the a Exod. 23. 19. and 34. 26. Chap. 18. 10.

CHAP. XXV.

V. 1. If there be a controverſy between men—About criminal matters. They ſhall juſtify the righteous—Acquit him from guilt, and free him from puniſhment. And condemn the wicked—Declare him guilty, and paſs ſentence of condemnation to ſuitable puniſhments upon him.

V. 2. If the wicked man be worthy to be beaten—Which the Jews ſay was the caſe of all thoſe crimes which the law commanded to be puniſhed, without expreſſing the kind or degree of the puniſhment. The judge ſhall cauſe him to be beaten before his face—That the puniſhment may be duly inflicted, without exceſs or defect, which otherwiſe might eaſily happen, through the executioner's paſſion or partiality.

V. 3. Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed—It ſeems not ſuperſtition, but prudent caution, when the Jews would not exceed thirty-nine ſtripes, leſt through miſtake, or forgetfulneſs, or eagerneſs, they ſhould go beyond their bounds, which they were commanded to keep, but they were not obliged to go to the utmoſt extent of them. Thy brother—Who though faulty and chaſtiſed, yet ſtill is thy brother by nature, and probably by religion too. Seem vile unto thee—Should be made contemptible to his brethren by this cruel uſage. Poor African ſlaves have heard of this law in their native country, and when they come to have more than forty ſtripes given them, by thoſe who have indeed no right to give them any, they complain of cruelty.

CHAP. XXVI.

V. 2. Thou ſhalt take—This ſeems to be required of each particular maſter of a family, either upon his firſt ſettlement, or once every year at one of their three feaſts, when they were obliged to go up to Jeruſalem. The firſt of all the fruit of the earth—Either of their corn, or of the fruits of trees.

Before Christ 1451. the fruit of the earth, which thou ſhalt bring of thy land that the Lord thy God giveth thee, and ſhalt put it in a baſket, and ſhalt go unto the place which the Lord thy God ſhall chooſe, to place his name there.

3 And thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt that ſhall be in thoſe days, and ſay unto him, I profeſs this day unto the Lord thy God, that I am come unto the country which the Lord ſware unto our fathers for to give us.

4 And the prieſt ſhall take the baſket out of thine hand, and ſet it down before the altar of the Lord thy God.

5 And thou ſhalt ſpeak, and ſay before the Lord thy God, [b] A Syrian ready to periſh was my father, and [c] he went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous.

6 And [d] the Egyptians evil intreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage.

7 And [e] when we cried unto the Lord God of our fathers, the Lord heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion.

8 And [f] the Lord brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an out ſtretched arm, and with great terribleneſs, and with ſigns and with wonders.

9 And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth with milk and honey.

10 And now behold, I have brought the firſt-fruits of the land, which thou, O Lord, haſt given me: and thou ſhalt ſet it before the Lord thy God, and worſhip before the Lord thy God. Before Christ 1451.

11 And thou ſhalt rejoice in every good thing which the Lord thy God hath given unto thee, and unto thine houſe, thou, and the Levite, and the ſtranger that is among you.

12 ¶ When thou haſt made an end of tithing all the tithes of thine increaſe, the third year, which is [g] the year of tithing, and haſt given it unto the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled:

13 Then thou ſhalt ſay before the Lord thy God, I have brought away the hallowed things out of mine houſe, and alſo have given them unto the Levite, and unto the ſtranger, to the fatherleſs, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou haſt commanded me: I have not tranſgreſſed thy commandments, neither have I forgotten them.

14 [h] I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean uſe, nor given ought thereof for the dead: but I have hearkened to the voice of the Lord my God, and have done according to all that thou haſt commanded me.

15 [i] Look down from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bleſs thy people Iſrael, and the land which thou haſt given us, as thou ſwareſt unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

16 ¶ This day the Lord thy God hath commanded thee to do theſe ſtatutes and judgments:

b Hoſ. 12. 12. c Gen. 46. 1.
d Exod. 1. 11.
e Exod. 2. 23.
f Exod. 12. 37.
g Chap. 14. 28.
h Hoſ. 9. 4.
i Iſai. 63. 15. Zech. 2. 13.

V. 3. Thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt—To any of the prieſts, who ſhall be appointed in God's ſtead to receive theſe oblations and acknowledgments. I am come unto the country which the Lord ſware unto our fathers for to give us—This was a public acknowledgment of the faithfulneſs of GOD, to the end that all that heard it, and the children of every generation might know that when they lived by faith in the promiſes of God, they truſted to that which in itſelf was no leſs certain, than that the children of Iſrael, who were ſlaves in Egypt, became poſſeſſors of Canaan.

V. 5. A Syrian—So Jacob was by his original, as being born of Syrian parents, as were Abraham and Rebecca, both of Chaldea or Meſopotamia, which was a part of Syria, partly by his education and converſation, for which reaſon Chriſt is called a Nazarite, and a Capernaite, and partly by his relations, his wives being ſuch, and his children too by their mothers. Ready to periſh—Either through want and poverty, or through the rage of my brother Eſau, and the treachery and cruelty of my father-in-law, Laban.

V. 7. The Lord heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion—God requireth to be praiſed for the change in our circumſtances, that we ourſelves may be the more ſenſibly affected with his goodneſs, and that our joys may increaſe, and others be led to look to and love the Giver of all their mercies.

V. 11. Thou ſhalt rejoice—Thou ſhalt hereby be enabled to rejoice and take comfort in all thy enjoyments, when thou haſt ſanctified them by giving God his portion.

V. 12. And haſt given it unto the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and the widow—They that diſcharge the duties of piety and charity as a privilege and not as a taſk, will find that they neither ſeek the favour, nor do the will of God in vain.

V. 13. Then thou ſhalt ſay before the Lord thy God—This is to be ſpoken before the Lord, ſolemnly, ſeriouſly, and in a religious manner, with due reſpect to God's preſence, and will, and glory. It was a ſolemn appeal to God, that they had diſcharged the duties faithfully which were required of them.

V. 15. Look down, and bleſs thy people Iſrael—After that ſolemn profeſſion of their obedience to God's commands, they are taught to pray for God's bleſſing upon their land, whereby they are inſtructed how vain and ineffectual the prayers of unrighteous or diſobedient perſons are.

V. 17. Thou haſt avouched—Or declared, or owned. This day—At this time, in this wilderneſs, where thou haſt accepted and ratified God's covenant.

V. 18. The

Before Christ 1451.

judgments: thou shalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

17 Thou hast avouched the Lord this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice.

k Exod. 19. 5. Chap. 7. 6. and 14. 2.

18 And [k] the Lord hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promised thee, and that thou shouldest keep all his commandments:

l Chap. 4. 7,8. and 28. 1.

19 And to make thee [l] high above all nations which he hath made, in praise, and in name, and in honour, and that thou mayest be an holy people unto the Lord thy God, as he hath spoken.

CHAP. XXVII.

AND Moses with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day.

a Josh. 4. 1.

2 And it shall be on the day [a] when you shall pass over Jordan, unto the land which

b Josh. 8. 32.

the Lord thy God giveth thee, that [b] thou shalt set thee up great stones, and plaister them with plaister.

3 And thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law; when thou art passed over, that thou mayest go in unto the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey: as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised thee.

4 Therefore it shall be when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye shall set up these stones,

c Josh. 8. 30.

which I command you this day, [c] in mount Ebal, and thou shalt plaister them with plaister.

5 And there shall thou build an altar unto the Lord thy God, an altar of stones:

d Exod. 20. 25. Josh. 8. 31.

[d] thou shalt not lift up any iron tool upon them.

6 Thou shalt build the altar of the Lord thy God of whole stones: and thou shalt offer burnt-offerings thereon unto the Lord thy God.

7 And thou shalt offer peace-offerings, and shalt eat there, and rejoice before the Lord thy God.

Before Christ 1451.

8 And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law, very plainly.

9 ¶ And Moses, and the priests the Levites spake unto all Israel, saying, Take heed, and hearken, O Israel, this day thou art become the people of the Lord thy God.

10 Thou shalt therefore obey the voice of the Lord thy God, and do his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day.

11 ¶ And Moses charged the people the same day, saying,

12 These shall stand [e] upon mount Gerizzim to bless the people, when ye are come over Jordan; Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Issachar, and Joseph, and Benjamin.

e Judges 9. 7.

13 And [f] these shall stand upon mount Ebal * to curse; Reuben, Gad, and Asher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

f Chap. 11. 29. Josh. 8. 33. * Heb. for a cursing.

14 ¶ And [g] the Levites shall speak, and say unto all the men of Israel with a loud voice, g Josh. 8. 33. Dan. 9. 11.

15 [h] Cursed be the man that maketh any graven or molten image, an abomination unto the Lord, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and putteth it in a secret place: and all the people shall answer and say, Amen.

h Exod. 20. 4, 23. and 34. 17. Lev. 19. 4. and 26. 1. Chap. 4. 16, 23. and 5. 8. i See Jer. 11. 5. 1 Cor. 14. 16.

16 [k] Cursed be he that setteth light by his father or his mother: and all the people shall say, Amen.

k Exod. 20. 12. and 21. 17. Lev. 19. 3.

17 [l] Cursed be he that removeth his neighbour's land-mark: and all the people shall say, Amen.

l Chap. 19. 14. Prov. 22. 28.

18 [m] Cursed be he that maketh the blind to wander out of the way: and all the people shall say, Amen.

m Lev. 19. 14.

19 [n] Cursed be he that perverteth the judgment of the stranger, fatherless, and widow: and all the people shall say, Amen.

n Exod. 22. 21, 22. Chap. 10. 18.

20 [o] Cursed be he that lieth with his father's o Lev. 18. 8. Chap. 22. 30.

V. 18. The Lord hath avouched thee—Hath owned thee for such before all the world by eminent and glorious communications and manifestations of his power, and grace, and favour in thee and for thee, by a solemn entering into covenant with thee, that by thee he might make known his gracious designs to all mankind. That thou shouldest keep all his commandments—Which is here mentioned as an act of God's, because though this may be man's duty, yet it is the work of God's grace, which is the power by which all that is in itself good is done on earth.

CHAP. XXVII.

V. 3. Thou shalt write upon them all the words of this law—The sum and substance of the precepts or laws of Moses; thus were they to be reminded of those laws, which were as a schoolmaster to lead them to the Lord their Saviour, and then by his grace to be the rule of their lives.

V. 8. Thou shalt write this law very plainly—So as to be easily read by all.

V. 9. Thou art become the people of the Lord thy God—By thy solemn renewing of thy covenant with me.

V. 12. To bless the people—Whence it appears that the blessings also were pronounced as well as the curses, though they be not here mentioned.

V. 15. And all the people shall answer and say, Amen—So let it be: I wish this curse may befal me if I be guilty of this crime.

V. 16. Cursed be he that setteth light—Or despiseth in his heart; or reproacheth or curseth secretly; for if the fact was notorious, it was punished with death.

V. 17. Cursed be he that removeth his neighbour's land-mark—Designedly, to defraud his neighbour, or enlarge his own portion.

V. 18. Cursed

Before Christ 1451. ther's wife; because he uncovereth his father's skirt: and all the people shall say, Amen.

p Lev. 18. 23. 21 [p] Cursed be he that lieth with any manner of beast: and all the people shall say, Amen.

q Lev. 18. 9. 22 [q] Cursed be he that lieth with his sister, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother: and all the people shall say, Amen.

r Lev. 18. 17. and 20. 14. 23 [r] Cursed be he that lieth with his mother in law: and all the people shall say, Amen.

s Exod. 20. 13. and 21. 12, 14. Lev. 24. 17. Num. 35. 31. Chap. 19. 11. 24 [s] Cursed be he that smiteth his neighbour secretly: and all the people shall say, Amen.

t Exod. 23. 8. Chap. 10. 17. and 16. 19. Ezek. 22. 12. 25 [t] Cursed be he that taketh reward to slay an innocent person: and all the people shall say, Amen.

u Jer. 11. 3. Gal. 3. 10. 26 [u] Cursed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law to do them: and all the people shall say, Amen.

CHAP. XXVIII.

a Lev. 26. 3. AND it shall come to pass, [a] if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day; that the Lord thy God [o] will set thee on high above all nations of the earth.

o Chap. 26. 19. 2 And all these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God.

3 Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

c Gen. 49. 25. Psal. 127. 3. 4 Blessed shall be [c] the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

5 Blessed shall be thy basket and thy * store. Before Christ 1451.

6 [d] Blessed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

* Or, dough, or, kneading-troughs.

d Psal. 121. 8.

7 The Lord shall cause thine enemies that rise up against thee [e] to be smitten before thy face: they shall come out against thee one way, and flee before thee seven ways.

e Verse 25.

8 The Lord shall command the blessing upon thee in thy † store-houses, and in all that thou settest thine hand unto: and he shall bless thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

† Or, barns.

9 [f] The Lord shall establish thee an holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, and walk in his ways.

f Exod. 19. 5, 6. Chap. 7. 6.

10 And all people of the earth shall see that thou art called by the name of the Lord, and they shall be afraid of thee.

11 And [g] the Lord shall make thee plenteous ‡ in goods, in the fruit of thy § body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the Lord sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

g Chap. 30. 9. &c.
‡ Or, for good.
§ Heb. belly.

12 The Lord shall open unto thee his good treasure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his season, and to bless all the work of thine hand: and [h] thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow.

h Chap. 15. 6.

13 And the Lord shall make thee [i] the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath: if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the Lord thy God, which I command thee this day to observe and to do them:

i Isai. 9. 14, 15.

14 And

V. 18. Cursed be he that maketh the blind to wander out of the way—That misleadeth simple souls, giving them pernicious counsel either for this life, or for the next.

V. 24. Cursed be he that smiteth—Killeth, as that word is often used.

V. 26. Cursed be he that confirmeth not—Performeth not: for he that transgresseth doth in some sort destroy and make void the law of God, as to the main end for which it was given, even to the regulation of his life and actions, and, as far as lieth in him, disannuls the authority and force of God's law.

CHAP. XXVIII.

V. 1. God will set thee on high—Advance and honour thee with divers privileges and blessings. God will honour them that honour him, and they that do not do so shall be lightly esteemed.

V. 2. All these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake thee—Those blessings which others greedily follow after and often never overtake, they shall follow after thee, and shall be thrown into thy lap by my special kindness.

V. 5. Blessed shall be thy store—It shall always be well replenished, and the provision thou hast there shall be preserved for, and in due time brought forth to, thy use and service.

V. 6. Blessed shalt thou be when thou goest out—In all thy affairs and administrations, which are expressed by this phrase; all thy undertakings shall be blessed; that men may know by thy temporal benefits, how they shall be spiritually blessed that believe in him, and keep his commandments by the strength of his grace.

V. 8. The Lord shall command the blessing—Shall by his sovereign and powerful providence give it, even when it seems farthest from thee, and not likely to come to thee, without a command from God himself.

V. 9. The Lord shall establish thee an holy people unto himself—Shall confirm and establish his covenant with thee, by which he separated thee to himself, as an holy and peculiar people, and shall publicly own thee for such.

V. 10. All people of the earth shall see that thou art called by the name of the Lord—That you are in deed and truth his people and children.

V. 11. The Lord shall make thee plenteous—The same things which were said before are repeated, to shew that God would repeat and multiply his blessings upon them.

V. 12. The Lord shall open unto thee his good treasure—The heaven, which is God's storehouse, where he treasureth up rain or wind, or other things for man's use.

V. 13. The Lord shall make thee the head—The chief of all people

Before Christ 1451.

14 And thou shalt not go aside from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

k Lev. 26. 14. Lam. 2. 17. Dan. 9. 11, 13. Mal. 2. 2.

15 ¶ But it shall come to pass, k if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe to do all his commandments and his statutes which I command thee this day; that all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee.

16 Cursed shalt thou be in the city, and cursed shalt thou be in the field.

17 Cursed shall be thy basket and thy store.

18 Cursed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

19 Cursed shalt thou be when thou comest in, and cursed shalt thou be when thou goest out.

20 The Lord shall send upon thee cursing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou settest thine hand unto § for to do; until thou be destroyed, and until thou perish quickly; because of the wickedness of thy doings, whereby thou hast forsaken me.

§ Heb. which thou wouldest do.

21 The Lord shall make the pestilence cleave unto thee, until he have consumed thee from off the land, whither thou goest to possess it.

l Lev. 26. 16.

22 l The Lord shall smite thee with a consumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the ‖ sword, and with m blasting, and with mildew: and they shall pursue thee until thou perish.

‖ Or, drought. m Amos 4. 9.

n Lev. 26. 19.

23 And n thy heaven that is over thy head shall be brass, and the earth that is under thee shall be iron.

24 The Lord shall make the rain of thy land powder and dust: from heaven shall it come down upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

Before Christ 1451.

o Verse 7. Chap. 32. 30. Mal. 3. 11.

25 o The Lord shall cause thee to be smitten before thine enemies: thou shalt go out one way against them, and flee seven ways before them; and p shalt be * removed into all the kingdoms of the earth.

p Jer. 15. 4. and 24. 9. Ezek. 23. 46.

* Heb. for a removing.

q Psal. 79. 2. Jer. 7. 33. and 16. 4. and 34. 20.

26 And q thy carcase shall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beasts of the earth, and no man shall fray them away.

r Exod. 9. 9. and 15. 26.

27 The Lord will smite thee with r the botch of Egypt, and with s the emerods, and with the scab, and with the itch, whereof thou canst not be healed.

s 1 Sam. 5. 6. Psal. 78. 66.

28 The Lord shall smite thee with madness, and blindness, and astonishment of heart.

t Job 5. 14. Isai. 59. 10.

29 And thou shalt t grope at noon-day, as the blind gropeth in darkness, and thou shalt not prosper in thy ways: and thou shalt be only oppressed, and spoiled evermore, and no man shall save thee.

u Jer. 8. 10.

30 u Thou shalt betroth a wife, and another man shall lie with her: x thou shalt build an house, and thou shalt not dwell therein: y thou shalt plant a vineyard, and shalt not † gather the grapes thereof.

x Job 31. 8. Jer. 12. 13. Amos 5. 11. Zeph. 1. 13.

y Chap. 20. 6.

† Heb. profane, or, use it as common meat: as Chap. 20. 6.

31 Thine ox shall be slain before thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof: thine ass shall be violently taken away from before thy face, and ‡ shall not be restored to thee: thy sheep shall be given unto thine enemies, and thou shalt have none to rescue them.

‡ Heb. shall not return to thee.

32 Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto another people, and thine eyes shall look, and fail with longing for them all the

ple in power, or at least in dignity and privileges, so that even they that are not under thine authority shall reverence thy greatness and excellency.

V. 15. If thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, all these curses shall come upon thee, and overtake thee—So as thou shalt not be able to escape them, as thou shalt vainly hope and endeavour to do.

V. 20. The Lord shall send upon thee cursing, vexation, and rebuke—This seems chiefly to concern the mind, and its torment, arising from the disappointment of hopes, and the presages of its approaching miseries.

V. 23. Thy heaven that is over thy head shall be brass—Like brass, hard and dry, and shut up from giving rain. The earth shall be iron—Hard and barren.

V. 24. The Lord shall make the rain of thy land powder and dust—Instead of rain shall come nothing but dust from heaven, which being raised and carried up by the wind in great abundance, doth return and fall upon the earth as it were in clouds, or showers. Until thou be destroyed—By famine following these great droughts.

V. 25. The Lord shall cause thee to be removed into all the kingdoms of the earth—To be tossed from place to place, and from people to people. How this is fulfilled in the face of the world this day, doth indeed appear, when we reflect on the state of the people of the Jews, as they are living in this and almost every other country in the world.

V. 28. The Lord shall smite thee with blindness—Of mind, so that they shall not know what to do; so as they shall commonly chuse and follow the worst counsels and courses to their own ruin. And astonishment of heart—They shall be filled with wonder and horror, because of the strangeness and soreness of their calamities.

V. 29. Thou shalt grope at noon-day—In the most clear and evident matters thou shalt grossly mistake and miss thy way—Thou shalt not prosper in thy ways—Thy counsels and enterprizes shall be frustrated, and turn to thy destruction.

V. 32. Thy sons and thy daughters shall be given unto another people—By those who have conquered them, and taken them captives, who shall give or sell them to other persons, as the manner was. Thine eyes shall look, and fail—Be consumed with grief and tears shed for them; with earnest desire, and vain and long Before Christ 1451. the day long: and there shall be no might in thine hand.

o Lev. 26. 16. Jer. 5. 17.

33 o The fruit of thy land, and all thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not, eat up; and thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed alway:

a Verse 67.

34 So that thou shalt be mad, a for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

35 The Lord shall smite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a sore botch that cannot be healed, from the sole of thy foot unto the top of thy head.

b 2 Kings 17. 4. 5. and 24. 12. and 25. 7. 2 Chro. 33. 11.

36 The Lord shall bring thee, and b thy king which thou shalt set over thee, unto a nation which neither thou, nor thy fathers have known: and c there shalt thou serve other gods, wood and stone.

c Chap. 4. 28. Jer. 16. 13.

d 1 Kings 9. 7. Jer. 24. 9. and 25. 9. Zech. 8. 13.

37 And thou shalt become d an astonishment, a proverb, e and a by-word, among all nations whither the Lord shall lead thee.

e Psal. 44. 14.

f Mic. 6. 15. Hag. 1. 6.

38 f Thou shalt carry much seed out into the field, and shalt gather but little in: for the locust shall consume it.

39 Thou shalt plant vineyards, and dress them, but shalt neither drink of the wine, nor gather the grapes: for the worms shall eat them,

40 Thou shalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coasts, but thou shalt not anoint thyself with the oil: for thine olive shall cast his fruit, 41 Thou shalt beget sons and daughters, but § thou shalt not enjoy them: for they shall go into captivity.

Before Christ 1451.

§ Heb. they shall not be thine.

42 All thy trees and fruit of thy land shall the locust ‖ consume.

‖ Or, possess.

43 The stranger that is within thee shall get up above thee very high; and thou shalt come down very low.

44 He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him: g he shall be the head, and thou shalt be the tail.

g Verse 13. Lam. 1. 5.

45 Moreover, all these curses shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be destroyed: because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which he commanded thee.

46 And they shall be upon thee for a sign and for a wonder, and upon thy seed for ever.

47 Because thou servedst not the Lord thy God with joyfulness, and with gladness of heart, h for the abundance of all things:

h Chap. 32. 15.

48 Therefore shalt thou serve thine enemies which the Lord shall send against thee, in hunger, and in thirst, and in nakedness, and in want of all things: and he i shall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have destroyed thee.

i Jer. 28. 14.

49 k The Lord shall bring a nation against thee k Jer. 5. 15. and 6. 23. Luke 19. 43.

expectation of their return. There shall be no might in thine hand—No power to rescue them, nor money to ransom them.

V. 33. Thy labours, shall a nation which thou knowest not, eat up—Which shall come from a far country, which thou didst not at all expect or fear, and therefore will be the more dreadful when they come; a nation whose language thou understandest not, and therefore canst not plead with them for mercy, nor expect any favour from them. Thou shalt be only oppressed and crushed alway—Not sometimes conquered, and sometimes conquering, as the course of war commonly is, but at all times, and in all thy actions and attempts, foiled and worsted.

V. 36. The Lord shall bring thee, and thy king—The calamity shall be universal, thy king shall not be able to avoid it, much less the subjects; he who shall protect or rescue them shall be lost with them. There shalt thou serve other gods—Being corrupted by their examples and counsels, or compelled to it by their tyranny. So what formerly was their choice and delight, now becomes their plague and misery. And this doubtless was the condition of many Israelites under the Assyrian and Babylonish captivities, as we may gather from Jer. xliv. 17, 18, 19. and other places, though many of them kept themselves free from that infection, as many may now, by the grace of the Holy One of Israel, the only Redeemer of men, keep themselves from the common corruptions among them. May it not be one way by which the deceiver of men betrayeth those that bear the name of Christians into mistaken thoughts of themselves, by leading them to consider the Jews as wicked beyond example, and thus divert them from seeing their own necessity of being saved from that state into which all are equally fallen, and of which the Jews are made in the Scriptures an example, to lead us to the knowledge of the whole human race, and especially of ourselves.

V. 37. Thou shalt become an astonishment, and a by-word, among all nations—All other nations shall wonder to see such calamities befal such a people, and when they would express any dreadful affliction in a proverbial way, they shall make use of thy example, they shall also sport themselves in thy miseries, and say, These are the people of the Lord, the only saints upon earth, who, for their sins are exposed to all this contempt and misery, that in their sufferings all men may see how God doth visit men for sin.

V. 43. The stranger that is within thee—Within thy gates, who formerly honoured and served thee.

V. 45. Because thou hearkenedst not unto the voice of the Lord thy God——By his spirit, by his word, his servants, his government, and his works.

V. 46. And they——These curses now mentioned. Shall be upon thee for a wonder—Signal and wonderful to all that hear of them.

V. 47. Because thou servedst not the Lord thy God—But despised the Holy One of Israel thy Redeemer, and therefore all those evils have come upon thee, and shall come upon all them that shall live after thee, who shall reject the counsel of God against themselves; and finally they that believe not the record God hath given of the God-man, the only Saviour of men, shall die in their sins. For the abundance of all things—In the abundance of all things bestowed upon thee for his sake alone, who hath stood between the justice of God and thee, and kept from thee every evil, and obtained for thee every blessing.

V. 48. He shall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck—Which thou canst neither bear nor break. Well may it be said, Behold the severity of God.

V. 49. As

Before Christ 1451.

thee from far, from the end of the earth, [l] as swift as the eagle flieth, a nation whose tongue thou shalt not * understand:

50 A nation † of fierce countenance, [m] which shall not regard the person of the old, nor shew favour to the young.

51 And he shall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be destroyed: which also shall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increase of thy kine, or flocks of thy sheep, until he have destroyed thee.

52 And he shall besiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou trustedst, throughout all thy land: and he shall besiege thee in all thy gates, throughout all thy land which the Lord thy God hath given thee.

53 And [n] thou shalt eat the fruit of thine own ‡ body, the flesh of thy sons and of thy daughters (which the Lord thy God hath given thee) in the siege, and in the straitness, wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee:

54 So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye shall be evil toward his brother, and toward [o] the wife of his bosom, and towards the remnant of his children which he shall leave:

55 So that he will not give to any of them of the flesh of his children whom he shall eat: because he hath nothing left him in the siege, and in the straitness wherewith thine enemies shall distress thee in all thy gates.

56 The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to set the sole of her foot upon the ground for delicateness and tenderness, her eye shall be evil towards the husband of her bosom, and towards her son, and towards her daughter, 57 And towards her § young one that cometh out from between her feet, and towards her children which she shall bear: for she shall eat them for want of all things secretly in the siege and straitness wherewith thine enemy shall distress thee in thy gates.

Before Christ 1451.

58 If thou wilt not observe to do all the words of this law that are written in this book, that thou mayest fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD;

59 Then the Lord will make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy seed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and sore sicknesses, and of long continuance.

60 Moreover, he will bring upon thee all [p] the diseases of Egypt, which thou wast afraid of; and they shall cleave unto thee.

61 Also every sickness, and every plague which is not written in the book of this law, them will the Lord ‖ bring upon thee, until thou be destroyed.

62 And ye [q] shall be left few in number, whereas ye were [r] as the stars of heaven for multitude: because thou wouldest not obey the voice of the Lord thy God.

63 And it shall come to pass, that as the Lord rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you: so the Lord [s] will rejoice over you to destroy you, and to bring you to nought; and ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it.

64 And the Lord [t] shall scatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and there thou shalt serve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and stone.

65 And [u] among these nations shalt thou find no ease, neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest: but the Lord shall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and sorrow of mind.

66 And thy life shall hang in doubt before thee,

1 Jer. 48. 40. and 49. 22. Lam. 4. 19. Hos. 8. 1.
* Heb. hear.
† Heb. strong of face, Prov. 7. 13. Eccles. 8. 1. Dan. 8. 23.
m Isa. 47. 6.
n Lev. 26. 29. 2 Kings 6. 28, 29. Jer. 19. 9. Lam. 2. 20. and 4. 10.
‡ Heb. belly.
o Chap. 13. 6.
§ Heb. after-birth.
p Chap. 7. 15.
‖ Heb. cause to ascend.
q Chap. 4. 27.
r Chap. 10. 22.
s Prov. 1. 26. Isai. 1. 24.
t Lev. 26. 33. Neh. 1. 8. Jer. 16. 13.
u Amos 9. 4.

V. 49. As swift as the eagle flieth—As the eagle flieth, not only swiftly, for which the Babylonian is noted and compared to an eagle, but also fiercely and greedily, as the eagle to its prey, also strongly and irresistibly. Possibly this may be understood of the Romans, who did come from far, from the end of the earth, more truly and literally than the Chaldeans, whose country was not far from Judea, and this may allude to the eagle, which was in their ensigns.

V. 50. Of fierce countenance—Bold, hardy, and undaunted, cruel, uncompassionate and inflexible, sparing no age nor sex.

V. 54. His eye shall be evil—Unkind, envious, covetous, and grudging that their dearest relations should have any part of them.

V. 56. The tender and delicate woman, her eye shall be evil—Unmerciful; she will devise or design their destruction for her food. Those that are only delicate in their outward appearance, and whose hearts have resisted the grace of God, may be here represented to us as amongst the hardest-hearted of the human race, and more prone than the rudest, to gratify themselves, though it may be at the cost of others misery, ruin, or destruction.

V. 57. Which she shall bear—Which she shall have born, her more grown children.

V. 58. That thou mayest fear this glorious and fearful name——This glorious God. Names are often put for things and for persons.

V. 63. Ye shall be plucked from off the land whither thou goest to possess it—Which was no ordinary land, but a most pleasant land, a land of promise, a token of God's favour, and a pledge of their eternal inheritance, which was a great aggravation of their loss of it.

V. 65. Neither shall the sole of thy foot have rest—Ye shall have no settlement in the land whither you are banished, but there you shall be tossed about from place to place.

V. 66. Thy life shall hang in doubt before thee—Either because thou art in the hands of thine enemies that have power, and want not

Before Christ 1451.

thee, and thou shalt fear day and night, and shalt have none assurance of thy life.

x Job 7. 4. 67 x In the morning thou shalt say, Would God it were even: and at even thou shalt say, Would God it were morning, for the fear of thine heart, wherewith thou shalt fear, y Verse 34. and y for the sight of thine eyes which thou shalt see.

o Jer. 44. 7. Hos. 8. 13. and 9. 3. 68 And the Lord o shall bring thee into Egypt again, with ships, by the way whereof a Chap. 17. 16. I spake unto thee, a Thou shalt see it no more again: and there ye shall be sold unto your enemies for bond-men and bond-women, and no man shall buy you.

CHAP. XXIX.

THESE are the words of the covenant which the Lord commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel, in the land a Chap. 5. 2, 3. of Moab, beside a the covenant which he made with them in Horeb.

2 ¶ And Moses called unto all Israel, and b Exod. 19. 4. said unto them, b Ye have seen all that the Lord did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, unto Pharaoh, and unto all his servants, and unto all his land;

c Chap. 4. 34. and 7. 19. 3 c The great temptations which thine eyes have seen, the signs and those great miracles:

4 Yet d the Lord hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear unto this day.

Before Christ 1451.

d See Isai. 63. 17. John 8. 43. Ephes. 4. 18. 2 Thess. 2. 11, 12.

5 e And I have led you forty years in the wilderness: f your clothes are not waxen old upon you, and thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot.

e Chap. 1. 3. f Chap. 8. 4.

6 Ye have not eaten bread, neither have you drunk wine, or strong drink: that ye might know that I am the Lord your God.

7 And when ye came unto this place, g Sihon the king of Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, came out against us unto battle, and we smote them.

g Num. 21. 24, 33. Chap. 2. 32. and 3. 1.

8 And we took their land, and h gave it for an inheritance unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to the half-tribe of Manasseh.

h Num. 32. 33. Chap. 3. 12, 13.

9 i Keep therefore the words of this covenant, and do them, that ye may prosper in all that ye do.

i Chap. 4. 6. Josh. 1. 7. 1 Kings 2. 3.

10 ¶ Ye stand this day all of you before the Lord your God; your captains of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, with all the men of Israel,

11 Your little ones, your wives, and thy stranger that is in thy camp, from k the hewer k See Josh. 9. 21, 23, 27.

not will, to destroy thee; or because of the terrors of thy own mind, and the guilt of thy conscience making thee to fear, even where no great cause to fear is.

V. 68. The Lord shall bring thee into Egypt again—Whence he hath now so gloriously delivered thee, as repenting of all his kindness to thee, and resolved to undo what he hath done for thee. With ships—Which was literally fulfilled under Titus, when multitudes of them were carried thither in ships, and sold there for slaves, as Josephus relates. And this expression seems to mind them of that time when they went over the sea without ships, God miraculously drying up the sea before them, which now they would have occasion sadly to remember. No man shall buy you—Because the number of you, captives, shall be so great, that the market shall be glutted with you; or because you shall be so contemptible, that men shall not be willing to have you for slaves. And this was the condition of the Jews after the destruction of Jerusalem, as Josephus relates in his history of his own nation.

CHAP. XXIX.

V. 1. These are the words of the covenant—These are the terms or conditions upon which God hath made—renewed his covenant with you. Beside the covenant which he made with them in Horeb—The covenant was but one in substance, but various in the time and manner of its dispensation.

V. 4. The Lord hath not given you an heart to perceive, and eyes to see, and ears to hear, unto this day—This verse cometh in by way of exception to the foregoing clause, in this manner: I said indeed, ye have seen, but I must recal my words, for in truth you have not seen them; you have seen them with the eyes of your body, but not with your minds and hearts; you have not seen them to any purpose; you have not yet learned rightly to understand the word and works of God, so as to know them for your good, and to make a right use of them, and to comply with them: Which he expresseth thus, the Lord hath not given you, not to excuse their wickedness, but to direct them what course to take, and to whom they must have recourse for the amending of their former errors, and for a good understanding and improvement of God's works, and to aggravate their sin, and to intimate, that although the hearing ear, and the seeing eye, and the understanding heart, be the workmanship of God, and the effects of his special grace, yet their want of this grace was their own fault, and the just punishment of their former sins; their present case being like theirs, who first shut their eyes and ears, that they might not see and hear, and would not understand, and then by the tremenduous, but righteous judgment of God, had their hearts made fat, and their eyes and ears closed, that they should not be able to see and hear, and understand, as is manifest from the history of their carriage in the wilderness.

V. 5. Thy shoe is not waxen old upon thy foot—So far, that it was necessary for you to throw them away, and to get new ones.

V. 6. Ye have not eaten bread—Common bread, purchased by your own money, or made by your own hands, but heavenly and angelical bread. Neither have ye drunk wine or strong drink—But only water out of the rock, and the water was made to you most pleasant and serviceable. That ye might know that I am the Lord your God—The Lord Omnipotent, and All-sufficient for your provision without the help of any creatures, and your God in covenant with you, who hath a true affection to you, and fatherly care of you, even when ordinary means fail. They that worship God in spirit and in truth, through the Son of his love, have in heaven a father and a friend, who knoweth what they have need of; and so long as they first seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness, his faithfulness hath charged itself with adding all other things that are necessary for them.

V. 10. Ye stand this day all of you before the Lord your God—In his presence who sees your hearts.

V. 15. Also

Before Christ 1451.

er of thy wood, unto the drawer of thy water:

12 That thou shouldest * enter into covenant with the Lord thy God, and into his oath, which the Lord thy God maketh with thee this day:

13 That he may establish thee to day for a people unto himself, and that he may be unto thee a God, as he hath said unto thee, and as he hath sworn unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

14 Neither with you only do I make this covenant and this oath;

15 But with him that standeth here with us this day before the Lord our God, [l] and also with him that is not here with us this day:

16 (For ye know how we have dwelt in the land of Egypt, and how we came through the nations which ye passed by.

17 And ye have seen their abominations, and their † idols, wood and stone, silver, and gold, which were amongst them)

18 Lest there should be among you man, or woman, or family, or tribe, [m] whose heart turneth away this day from the Lord our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations; [n] lest there should be among you a root that beareth ‡ § gall and wormwood.

19 And it come to pass, when he heareth the words of this curse, that he bless himself in his heart, saying, I shall have peace, though I walk [o] in the ‖ imagination of mine heart, [p] to add * drunkenness to thirst:

20 [q] The Lord will not spare him, but then the anger of the Lord, and his jealousy shall smoke against that man, and all the curses that are written in this book shall lie upon him, and the Lord [r] shall blot out his name from under heaven.

21 And the Lord [s] shall separate him unto evil, out of all the tribes of Israel, according to all the curses of the covenant, that ‡ are written in this book of the law:

22 So that the generation to come of your children that shall rise up after you, and the stranger that shall come from a far land, shall say, when they see the plagues of that land, and the sicknesses ‡ which the Lord hath laid upon it;

23 And

Before Christ 1451.

* Heb. pass.

l See Acts 2. 39. 1 Cor. 7. 14.

† Heb. dungy gods.

m Chap. 11. 16.

n Heb. 12. 15.

‡ Or, a poisonful herb.

§ Heb. rosh.

o Num. 15. 19.

‖ Or, slumberness.

p Ps. 36. 1.

* Heb. the drunken to the thirsty.

q Exod. 14. 7, 8.

r Chap. 9. 14.

s Matt. 24. 51.

† Heb. is written.

‡ Heb. wherewith the LORD hath made it sick.

V. 15. Also with him that is not here with us this day—With your posterity; for so the covenant was made at first with Abraham and his seed, by which, as God engaged himself to continue the blessing of Abraham upon his posterity, so he also engaged them to the same duties and conditions which were required of Abraham. So it is even amongst men, where a king confers an estate upon a subject and his heirs for ever, upon some certain conditions; all his heirs, who enjoy that benefit, are obliged to the same conditions. But whatsoever becomes of man's right, God, the Creator and Sovereign Lord of all men and things, hath an unquestionable right and power to oblige all persons that are or shall be to such conditions as he pleaseth, and especially to such conditions as are for their own benefit, which is the case in whatever God requireth.

V. 16. How we came through the nations—With what hazards, if God had not appeared for us. And may not all men be reminded to look back and see what God hath brought them through? How great must be the ingratitude of not loving him whose goodness and mercy have followed us all our days!

V. 18. Lest there should be—Take heed or beware lest there be. Lest any of you or your's should be tempted to depart from God. Whose heart turneth away—Who turneth away from God to idols, not by constraint but by choice, and the inclination of his own heart. By this phrase he leadeth them to the spring of their sin and ruin, their own hearts, which he admonisheth them by this to look to above all things. Lest there should be among you a root—An evil heart inclining you to such cursed idolatry, and bringing forth future fruits; or some secret and subtile apostate who lurks and works like a root under ground, and spreads his poison to the infection of others, for both the foregoing and following words speak of some particular person. Gall and wormwood—Which though for the present it may please your fancy, yet in the end, assure yourselves, will produce bitter fruits, not only distasteful to God, but also destructive to yourselves.

V. 19. When he—That man mentioned verse 18. The words of this curse—Of that oath mentioned verse 12, wherein he swore that he would keep covenant with God, and that with a curse pronounced against himself, if he did not perform it. Now if when he reads this again, or hears of it from others. That he bless himself in his heart—Flatter himself in his own eyes with vain conceits and hopes, as if God did not mind such things, and either could not or would not punish them. Saying, I shall have peace—Safety and prosperity. Though I walk in the imagination of mine heart—Though in my practices and worship I do not follow God's command, but my own devices, minding nothing but the gratifying my own inclinations. To add drunkenness to thirst Not only to satisfy his thirst, but to exceed it, out of mere wantonness, or from a desire to be drunk. Instead of restraining and mortifying, as he ought to do, fully and greedily to satisfy his wicked inclinations, and resolvedly to give up himself to all the desires of his own heart. Much doth it concern every man to consider, by the only safe rule of judging—the word of God, whether he is not like the persons here described blessing himself, and crying peace to his soul, thinking himself safe from all danger of the wrath of God, because he is full and abounds; crimes differ in their effects as to others, but to a man's self it is equally dangerous, if he is living in the commission of any crime against the law of God,—and especially living contrary to that law which is the end of all the commands of God—charity, the love of God and men, flowing from faith in the only Mediator and Redeemer, which preserveth from the guilt and misery of sin and from the power of it.

V. 20. The anger of the Lord shall smoke against that man—Shall burn and break forth with flame and smoke, as it were from a furnace. The Lord shall blot out his name from under heaven—Destroy his person and memory from amongst men.

V. 21. The Lord shall separate him unto evil—Unto some exemplary plague, he will make him a monument of his displeasure to the whole land. According to all the curses of the covenant—This intimates that the covenant of grace, which God made with them, hath not only blessings belonging to it, as this foolish person imagined, but curses also to the transgressors of it.

Before Christ 1451.

23 And that the whole land thereof is brimstone, [t] and salt, and burning, that it is not sown, nor beareth, nor any grass groweth therein, [u] like the overthrow of Sodom, and Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboim, which the Lord overthrew in his anger and in his wrath:

t Jer. 17. 6. Zeph. 2. 9.
u Gen. 19. 24, 25.

24 Even all nations shall say, [x] Wherefore hath the Lord done thus unto this land? what meaneth the heat of this great anger?

x 1 Kings 9. 8. Jer. 22. 8.

25 Then men shall say, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord God of their fathers, which he made with them when he brought them forth out of the land of Egypt.

26 For they went and served other gods, and worshipped them, gods whom they knew not, and § whom he had not ‖ given unto them.

§ Or, who had not given to them any portion.
‖ Heb. divided.

27 And the anger of the Lord was kindled against this land, to bring upon it all the curses that are written in this book.

28 And the Lord rooted them out of their land in anger, and in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.

29 The secret things belong unto the Lord our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us, and to our children for ever, that we may do all the words of this law.

CHAP. XXX.

Before Christ 1451.

[a] AND it shall come to pass when [o] all these things are come upon thee, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee, and thou shalt call them to mind among all the nations whither the Lord thy God hath driven thee, a Lev. 26. 40.

o Chap. 28.

2 And shalt return unto the Lord thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy soul:

3 [c] That then the Lord thy God will turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and [d] gather thee from all the nations whither the Lord thy God hath scattered thee.

c Psal. 106. 45. and 126. 1. Jer. 32. 37.
d Psal. 147. 2.

4 [e] If any of thine be driven out unto the utmost parts of heaven, from thence will the Lord thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee.

e Chap. 28. 64. Neh. 1. 9.

5 And the Lord thy God will bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it: and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers.

6 And [f] the Lord thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and f Chap. 10. 16. Jer. 32. 39. Ezek. 11. 19. and 36. 26.

V. 23. The whole land thereof is brimstone, and salt, and burning—Is burnt up and made barren, as with brimstone and salt. A fruitful land is made barren by the judgment of God for the sins of its inhabitants.

V. 25. Then men shall say, Because they have forsaken the covenant of the Lord God of their fathers—Which was made with this people, to make known by the Church the manifold mercies of God to all mankind, and now they have despised him that made them and promised to die for them, they are made monuments of the severity of God, that all that do not believe in him may know their danger, and, with penitent minds, seek his favour whilst it may be found.

V. 26. For they went and served other gods, whom he had not given unto them—Gods known to them by no benefits received from them, as they had from their God, whom therefore it was the greater folly and ingratitude to forsake.

V. 27. The anger of the Lord was kindled against this land—The state of the country of Canaan is at this time a monument of the truth of what is here declared, before the people of Israel entered that country. And he that declareth this judgment, which the whole world may be witness that it is come to pass, also declareth that he will say to the wicked, Depart from me ye cursed into everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels. Who are the wicked? They that die, believing not in God their Redeemer. He that believeth not shall be damned. (Matth. xxv. 41. Mark xvi. 16.)

V. 29. The secret things belong unto the Lord our God—Having now mentioned the dreadful and amazing judgments of God upon the whole land and people of Israel, and foreseeing, by the spirit, the destruction which would come upon them for their wickedness, he breaks out into this pathetical exclamation, either to bridle their curiosity, who, hearing this, would be apt to inquire into the time and manner of so great an event, or to quiet his own mind, and satisfy the scruples of others, who perceiving God to deal so severely with his own people, when in the mean time he suffered those nations which were guilty of grosser idolatry and impiety, than the generality of the Jewish people were, to live and prosper in the world, might thence take occasion to deny or reproach his providence, or question the equity of his proceedings. To this he answers, that the ways and judgments of God, though never unjust, are often secret and hidden from us, and unsearchable, and matter for our admiration, not for our inquiry. But those things which are revealed, belong unto us, and to our children—But those things which are revealed by God and his word, are the proper objects of our inquiries and studies, that thereby we may come to the knowledge of himself and of our duty.

CHAP. XXX.

V. 1. The blessing—When thou art living by faith in God, and by his grace bringing forth fruit unto holiness. And the curse—When thou becomest rebellious. Which I have set before thee—Placed before thy face, and through thee to all mankind; ever, with the command, offering grace to enable the weakest believer in my promises, to do my will on earth as it is done in heaven. And thou shalt call them to mind—Bring them back to thy mind, and deeply affect thy heart with the sense of these things—of the blessings offered and given to them by God's mercy, and the curses brought upon themselves by their sins.

V. 3. Then the Lord thy God will turn thy captivity—Bring back thy captives. And thus is the everlasting Gospel published in the law of Moses—When they come unto him whom they have grieved, he will in no wise cast them out. And gather thee—Thy children, either spiritually such, as it is explained, (John xi. 51, 52.) or literally such.

V. 6. The

Before Christ 1451.

and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live.

7 And the Lord thy God will put all these curses upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee.

8 And thou shalt return and obey the voice of the Lord, and do all his commandments, which I command thee this day.

g Chap. 28. 11. 9 g And the Lord thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the Lord will again h rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers:

h Jer. 32. 41.

10 If thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

11 ¶ For this commandment which I command thee this day, i it is not hidden from thee, neither is it far off.

i Isai. 45. 19.

k Rom. 10. 6, &c.

12 k It is not in heaven, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go up for us to heaven, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

13 Neither is it beyond the sea, that thou shouldest say, Who shall go over the sea for us, and bring it unto us, that we may hear it, and do it?

Before Christ 1451.

14 But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it.

15 ¶ See, l I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil:

l Verse 19. Chap. 11. 26.

16 In that I command thee this day to love the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgments, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the Lord thy God shall bless thee in the land whither thou goest to possess it.

17 But if thine heart turn away, so that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and worship other gods, and serve them:

18 I denounce unto you this day, that ye shall surely perish, and that ye shall not prolong your days upon the land, whither thou passest over Jordan, to go to possess it.

19 m I call heaven and earth to record this day against you, that n I have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing: therefore choose life, that both thou and thy seed may live:

m Chap. 4. 26.

n Verse 15.

20 That thou mayest love the Lord thy God,

V. 6. The Lord thy God will circumcise thine heart—Will, by his Spirit, change and purge thine heart from all thine idolatry, superstition, and wickedness, and incline thy heart to love him. And thus should they be established in that grace received through faith in the Rock of ages.

V. 9. The Lord thy God will make thee plenteous in the fruit of thy land for good—Whereas thou didst formerly receive and enjoy these mercies for thy hurt, through thy own wicked and foolish heart, when thou wast full and fat, forgetting God, and kicking against him, now thou shalt have them for thy good, thy heart shall be changed by grace that thou shalt not now abuse them, but employ them to the more cheerful and faithful service of God, the giver of them. The Lord will again rejoice over thee for good—To do thee good. God rejoices to do men good, and the angels of heaven rejoice at the heart-felt submission of one soul to the convincing and converting grace of God. (Luke xv. 10.)

V. 10. If thou shalt hearken—This caution and condition is added to warn them that they should not receive the grace of God in vain, and to teach them, that the grace of God doth not discharge man's obligation to his duty, nor excuse him for the neglect of it, and that conversion and sanctification, though it be God's work, yet it is man's duty.

V. 11. Which I command thee this day——That great command of loving and obeying God, which is the sum of the law, of which yet he doth not here speak simply, or as it is in itself, but as it is accompanied with the grace of the Gospel, whereby God circumciseth men's hearts to do this. The meaning is, that although the practice of God's law strictly and severely be now far from us, and above our strength, yet, considering the advantage of gospel grace, whereby God enableth us to our duty, and accepteth of our sincere endeavours instead of perfection, and imputes Christ's perfect righteousness unto us that believe, now it is near and easy to us. And so this place well agreeth with Rom. x. 6, &c. where Paul expounds or applies this place to the righteousness of faith; by which alone the law is such as it is here described. Is not hidden from thee—Is not too wonderful for thee, not too hard for thee to know and do: The will of God, which is clearly and fully revealed unto thee; thou canst not pretend ignorance or invincible difficulty. Neither is it far off—Out of thy reach. The law is made plain to thee, and it is not in the power of any to plead ignorance of the law against which they offend, nor can any justly charge God with want of willingness to impart grace to help in every time of need. He that with-held not his only Son, will with him also freely give to those that believe in him all things.

V. 12. It is not in heaven—Shut up there, but it hath been delivered and published.

V. 13. Neither is it beyond the sea—The knowledge of this commandment is not to be fetched from far distant places, to which divers of the wise heathens travelled for their wisdom, but it was brought to thy very doors and ears, and declared to thee in this wilderness.

V. 14. The word is in thy mouth—Thou knowest it so well, that it is the matter of thy common discourse; thou canst not deny thy knowledge of it. In thy heart—In thy mind, as the heart is very uncommonly taken.

V. 15. I have set before thee this day, life and good—Life, and all the blessings of life. And death and evil—That death which all shall die, and that evil which all shall suffer that reject the counsel of God against themselves. This day they are set before thee; to morrow the grace now offered may not return. Shall the heart now be opened to him that knocks at the door of it, ready to enter and to save you, (Rev. iii. 20,) or shall it remain filled with the world and shut against God?

V. 17. If thine heart be drawn away—By thy own evil mind, or by the examples or persuasions of others.

V. 19. Choose life—For why will you die.

V. 20. Love the Lord thy God, for he is thy life—The cause or author

Before Christ 1451. God, and that thou mayeſt obey his voice, and that thou mayeſt cleave unto him (for he is thy life, and the length of thy days) that thou mayeſt dwell in the land which the Lord ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

CHAP. XXXI.

AND Moſes went and ſpake theſe words unto all Iſrael.

a Chap. 34. 7. 2 And he ſaid unto them, [a] I am an hundred and twenty years old this day; I can no more go out and come in: alſo the Lord

b Num. 10. 12. and 27. 13. Chap. 3. 27. hath ſaid unto me, [b] Thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan.

3 The Lord thy God, he will go over before thee, and he will deſtroy theſe nations from before thee, and thou ſhalt poſſeſs them: and Joſhua, he ſhall go over before thee, [c] as the Lord hath ſaid.

c Num. 27. 21. Chap. 3. 28.

d Num. 21. 24, 33. 4 And the Lord ſhall do unto them, [d] as he did to Sihon, and to Og, kings of the Amorites, and unto the land of them, whom he deſtroyed.

e Chap. 7. 2. 5 And [e] the Lord ſhall give them up before your face, that ye may do unto them according unto all the commandments which I have commanded you.

6 Be ſtrong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the Lord thy God, he it is that doth go with thee, [f] he will not fail thee nor forſake thee.

f Joſh. 1. 5. Heb. 13. 5.

7 ¶ And Moſes called unto Joſhua, and ſaid unto him in the ſight of all Iſrael, Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou muſt go with this people unto the land which the Lord hath ſworn unto their fathers to give them; and thou ſhalt cauſe them to inherit it. Before Christ 1451.

g Exod. 13. 21, 22. and 33. 14. 8 And the Lord, [g] he it is that doth go before thee, he will be with thee, he will not fail thee, neither forſake thee: [h] fear not, neither be diſmayed. h Joſh. 1. 9.

i Chap. 17. 18. 9 ¶ And Moſes wrote this law, [i] and delivered it unto the prieſts the ſons of Levi, which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, and unto all the elders of Iſrael.

10 And Moſes commanded them, ſaying, At the end of every ſeven years, in the ſolemnity of the [k] year of releaſe, in the feaſt of tabernacles, k Chap. 15. 1.

11 When all Iſrael is come to appear before the Lord thy God, in the place which he ſhall chooſe: [l] thou ſhalt read this law before all Iſrael, in their hearing. l Joſh. 8. 34, 35. Neh. 8. 1, 2, 5, &c.

12 Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy ſtranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the Lord your God, and obſerve to do all the words of this law.

13 And that their children which have not known any thing, may hear and learn to fear the Lord your God, as long as ye live in the land author of thy natural life, of ſpiritual and eternal life, far more than the ſun is the giver of light and heat to the natural world. O look to the Sun of Righteouſneſs, that thou, by his bleſſed influence, may be changed into the ſame image. (2 Cor. iii. 18.)

CHAP. XXXI.

V. 1. Moſes went and ſpake—Went to the place where he had aſſembled the people, that he might ſpeak to them.

V. 2. I can no more go out and come in—Perform the office of a leader or Governor, becauſe I foreſee the time of my death approacheth.

V. 6. The Lord thy God, he will not fail thee nor forſake thee—Whoſoever thou art, however deſtitute and deſpiſed of men, if thou art but a believer in the Holy One of Iſrael, who rejoiceth to do them good, and to bleſs all that put their truſt in him.

V. 7. Moſes called unto Joſhua, and ſaid, Be ſtrong, and of a good courage; for thou muſt go with this people—And they that go before any people in their journey to the heavenly Canaan, will often have need to remember the encouragement which he giveth who is greater than Moſes.

V. 8. The Lord he will not fail thee, neither forſake thee: fear not—For the Lord reigneth, and will guide thee by his counſel, if thou wilt but liſten to his voice.

V. 9. Moſes wrote this law—The whole law delivered unto Moſes, contained in theſe five books. And delivered it unto the prieſts the ſons of Levi—That they might keep it carefully and religiouſly, and bring it forth upon occaſion, and read it, and inſtruct the people out of it. And unto all the elders of Iſrael—Who were aſſiſtants to the prieſts, and overſeers, to take care that the law ſhould be kept, read, and obſerved.

V. 10. At the end of every ſeven years—When they were freed from cares of worldly matters, and thereby fitter to attend upon God and his ſervice.

V. 11. Thou ſhalt read—Thyſelf in part, for the Jews tell us that the king was in perſon to read ſome part of it, or at leaſt, thou ſhalt cauſe it to be read by the Prieſts or Levites, for he could not read it himſelf in the hearing of all Iſrael, but this was to be done by ſeveral perſons, and to the people met in ſeveral congregations.

V. 12. Gather the people together, that they may hear, and learn, and fear the Lord—The fear of the Lord is the beginning of that wiſdom which cometh from above, and the means of obtaining this fear, is by aſſembling where we may hear what God hath ſaid and done to men in paſt ages, the knowledge and the belief of which come by hearing; and they that neglect to aſſemble where the word of God is read, and the truths of it declared, wilfully deprive themſelves of that which is as the beginning of the creation of God's ſpiritual kingdom in the ſoul, and which kingdom muſt take place before we can be partakers of the kingdom of glory, our inheritance, in which we renounce, by neglecting or rejecting the means which are in our power to uſe, and which we are required to uſe, by him to whom we muſt ſoon give account of ourſelves.

V. 13. That their children—By the example of their parents, may be accuſtomed to frequent the places of public worſhip, that thus the means of knowing the true God may be preſerved, and have a place in the general regard of all people in every generation.

V. 14. The

Before Christ. 1451.

land whither ye go over Jordan to poſſeſs it.

14 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thy days approach that thou muſt die: call Joſhua, and preſent yourſelves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that [m] I may give him a charge. And Moſes and Joſhua went, and preſented themſelves in the tabernacle of the congregation.

m Num. 27. 19.

15 And [n] the Lord appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud ſtood over the door of the tabernacle.

n Exod. 33. 9.

16 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, thou ſhalt * ſleep with thy fathers, and this people will riſe up, and go a whoring after the gods of the ſtrangers of the land whither they go to be amongſt them, and will forſake me, and break my covenant which I have made with them.

* Heb. lie down, 2 Sam. 7. 12.

17 Then my anger ſhall be kindled againſt them, in that day, and I will forſake them, and I will [o] hide my face from them, and they ſhall be devoured, and many evils and troubles ſhall † befal them, ſo that they will ſay in that day, [p] Are not theſe evils come upon us, becauſe our God is not amongſt us?

o Chap. 32. 20. Pſa. 104. 29.

† Heb. find them.

p Judg. 6. 13.

18 And I will ſurely hide my face in that day, for all the evils which they ſhall have wrought, in that they are turned unto other gods.

Before Christ. 1451.

19 Now therefore write ye this ſong for you, and teach it the children of Iſrael: put it in their mouths, that this ſong may be a witneſs for me againſt the children of Iſrael.

20 For when I ſhall have brought them into the land which I ſware unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they ſhall have eaten and filled themſelves, [q] and waxen fat; then will they turn unto other gods, and ſerve them, and provoke me, and break my covenant.

q Chap. 32. 15.

21 And it ſhall come to paſs when many evils and troubles are befallen them, that this ſong ſhall teſtify ‡ againſt them, as a witneſs: for it ſhall not be forgotten out of the mouths of their ſeed: for I know their imagination [r] which they § go about, even now before I have brought them into the land which I ſware.

‡ Heb. before.

r Amos 5. 25, 26.

§ Heb. do.

22 ¶ Moſes therefore wrote this ſong the ſame day, and taught it the children of Iſrael.

23 And he gave Joſhua the ſon of Nun a charge, and ſaid, [s] Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for thou ſhalt bring the children of Iſrael into the land which I ſware unto them: and I will be with thee.

s Joſh. 1. 6.

24 ¶ And

V. 14. The Lord ſaid unto Moſes, call Joſhua, that I may give him a charge—Immediately from myſelf for his greater encouragement, and to gain him more authority with the people.

V. 16. Thou ſhalt ſleep—The death of men, both good and bad, is often called a ſleep, becauſe they ſhall certainly awake out of it by reſurrection. This people will riſe up, and go a whoring—God foreſeeth all things to come, even thoſe which depend upon the wills of men, or contingencies of things, as this unqueſtionably did. After the gods of the ſtrangers of the land—Of the Canaanites, who now are poſſeſſors, but ſhortly will be turned out of their poſſeſſions, and become as ſtrangers in their own land. This aggravates their folly to worſhip ſuch gods as could neither preſerve their friends, nor annoy their enemies.

V. 17. I will hide my face—Withdraw my favour and help.

V. 19. Write ye this ſong—Which is contained Deut. xxxii. and is put into a ſong that it may be better learned, and more fixed in their minds and memories. Put it in their mouths—Cauſe them to learn it, and ſing it one to another, to oblige them to more circumſpection and watchfulneſs. That this ſong may be a witneſs for me—Of my kindneſs in giving them ſo many bleſſings, of my patience in bearing ſo long with them, of my clemency in giving them ſuch warnings, and my juſtice in puniſhing.

V. 20. When I ſhall have brought them into the land, and they ſhall have eaten and filled themſelves, then will they break my covenant—By the diſobedience of the Jews under ſo many mercies, a general opinion ſeems to have ariſen, that they were prone to evil above all other men. The uſe we are to make of their hiſtory, is to compare the inclinations we feel under the ſame kind of circumſtances in which we ſee them; and aſk ourſelves in proſperity whether we are more watchful, ſober, ſelf-denied, and devoted to the will of God; if we find we are not, then we ought to be convinced we are perſons of like paſſions with the people of Iſrael, and that their conduct is no other than ours would have been, had we been in their ſituation; and againſt which conduct, and the conſequences of it, which ſo many of them have and are now ſuffering, it concerns all men well to conſider how they can be preſerved.

V. 21. It ſhall not be forgotten—This ſeems not to be a precept that they ſhould remember it, but a prediction, that God would give them ſad occaſion to remember it, by bringing upon them the dreadful calamities mentioned in it: And what muſt it be, (when the mercies of God are finally rejected,) never to be able to forget all the offers of them? I know their imagination even now—Their inward inclinations to idolatry, their ſecret purpoſes to allow themſelves therein, when they are ſettled in their land, which were clearly known to God, though it may not be fully evident to themſelves. And they that are truly convinced of the importance of their immortal intereſts, will, above all things, examine what manner of ſpirit they are of, and judge themſelves from the very thoughts and inclinations of their hearts, as well as from their outward conduct, that they may know more and more of that myſtery of iniquity which there is in the human heart, and their need of the ſanctifying influence of that grace, by which alone the fallen nature can only be brought to what God requireth—truth, holineſs in the inward parts, without which the ſoul cannot dwell with God.

V. 23. I will be with thee—And faithfully fulfil all that I have promiſed, that thoſe that may hereafter depart from the living God, and deſpiſe their own mercies, may know that their miſery and their ruin is their own, though their ſalvation is altogether of God.

Before Christ 1451.

24 ¶ And it came to pass when Moses had made an end of writing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished;

25 That Moses commanded the Levites which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, saying,

t See 2 Kings 22. 8.

26 Take this book of the law, t and put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee.

u Chap. 9. 24. and 31. 29.

27 u For I know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the Lord; and how much more after my death?

28 Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak

x Chap. 32. 1.

these words in their ears, x and call heaven and earth to record against them.

y Chap. 32. 5.

29 y For I know, that after my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you:

z Gen. 49. 1.

and evil will befal you z in the latter days, because ye will do evil in the sight of the Lord, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

Before Christ 1451.

30 And Moses spake in the ears of all the congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

CHAP. XXXII.

a Chap. 4. 26. and 30. 19. and 31. 28. Psal. 50. 4. Isai. 1. 2. Jer. 2. 12. and 6. 19. b Isa. 55. 10, 11. 1 Cor. 3. 6, 7, 8.

GIVE a ear, O ye heavens, and I will speak; and hear, O earth, the words of my mouth.

2 b My doctrine shall drop as the rain: my speech shall distil as the dew, as the small rain upon the tender herb, and as the showers upon the grass.

3 Because I will publish the name of the Lord: ascribe ye greatness unto our God.

c 2 Sam. 23. 3. Psa. 18. 2, 46. Hab. 1. 12. d 2 Sam. 22. 31. e Job 34. 10.

4 He is c the rock, d his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment: e a God of truth, and without iniquity, just and right is he.

* Heb. He hath corrupted to himself. f Chap. 31. 29. † Or, that they are not his children, that is, their blot.

5 * f They have corrupted themselves, † their spot is not the spot of his children: they are a perverse and crooked generation.

6 Do

V. 26. Take this book of the law, and put it in the side of the ark—Here it was kept for greater security and reverence: And thus should the words of eternal life be laid up in every heart. That it may be there for a witness against thee—Against thy people, to whom he here turns his speech, that they might be more affected with it.

V. 27. I know thy rebellion—And thus did the Lord of life know the evil of all men when he gave himself to die for them. What manner of love was this? And shall we return it by crucifying him afresh by sin, or by never resting till that mind is in us which also was in him; and till it becomes our delight to walk in his steps by the strength of his grace.

V. 28. Gather unto me all the elders, that I may call heaven and earth to record against them—That shall depart from God, that their blood may be upon their own heads, and his justice vindicated, when they shall fall under the effects of their own contempt of his great and freely offered salvation.

V. 29. Ye will turn aside from the way which I have commanded you: and evil will befal you—As consequences follow their causes.

CHAP. XXXII.

V. 1. Give ear, O ye heavens—Angels and men. Heaven and earth, which he calleth upon as witnesses of the truth of his sayings, and the justice of God's proceedings against them.

V. 2. My doctrine shall drop as the rain—Look what effect rain and dew have upon herbs and grass, which they make fresh, fragrant, and growing; the same effect I may justly expect and hope that my discourse will have upon your hearts, to make them soft, pliable, and fruitful. Or this might be a prayer. O that it might do so, that my discourse might not be lost upon you, but be profitable to you.

V. 3. I will publish the name of the Lord—His glorious excellencies, and righteous and worthy actions, by which he hath made himself known, as a man is known by his name, and by which it will appear both that there is no blame to be laid upon him whatsoever befalleth you, and that it is gross madness to forsake such a God for dumb idols and meer vanities. Ascribe ye greatness unto our God—As I am about to publish the great power, and majesty, and glory of God, so do you also own and acknowledge it, as you have reason to do; or do you attend to the words which God hath commanded me to speak to you in his name, with that diligence, reverence, and godly fear, which the presence of so great and glorious a Majesty calleth for. And do this; ascribe all your salvation to his greatness, and not to any power or goodness of your own having any part in it. Reader, is the eye of your mind, the deliberate attention of your soul, fixed on the love of God in Christ Jesus, as the sole cause of your pardon and acceptance with God; and on his grace working in you to will and to do of his good pleasure, as the sole cause of your restoration to his image and likeness; or are you mixing that hay and stubble of your own vain conceits of your doings, as part of the cause of the pardon and favour of God, and the procuring cause of your being renewed in his image? He buildeth on that which will not stand the fire of Divine justice, which is to try us, who buildeth on any foundation short of that which is eternal and almighty, and was and is manifested to the world by Him, to whom all the prophets and all the apostles bear witness. Do you now believe their report and rest your All upon him, as ye would wish to do in that day, when you must take leave of all you love below.

V. 4. He is the rock—As for the stabilility and everlastingness of his nature, and invincibleness of his power, so also for his fixedness and immutability in his counsels, promises, and ways; so that if there shall be a sad change in your affairs, from an high and prosperous to a calamitous and deplorable condition, remember this proceedeth from yourselves, and from the change of your ways, and not from God, in whom there is no variableness nor shadow of change, (James i. 17.) His work is perfect—All his works and actions are unblameable, as being perfectly wise and righteous. All his ways are judgment—All his administrations in the world, and all his dealings with you, are managed with judgment and justice. A God of truth—Constant to his promises: you cannot accuse him of any levity or unfaithfulness towards you to this day.

V. 5. They—The Israelites. Have corrupted themselves—Their wickedness is not from God but from themselves, and their own choice, they have wilfully and industriously depraved themselves, and

Before Christ 1451.

6 Do ye thus requite the Lord, O foolish people and unwise? is not he thy father that hath bought thee? hath he not made thee, and established thee?

7 ¶ Remember the days of old, consider the years of ‡ many generations: ask thy father, and he will shew thee, thy elders, and they will tell thee.

‡ Heb. generation and generation.

g Zech. 9. 2. Acts 17. 26.

8 When the Most High [g] divided to the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sons of Adam, he set the bounds of the people according to the number of the children of Israel.

h Exod. 15. 16.

‖ Heb. cord.

9 For [h] the Lord's portion is his people: Jacob is the ‖ lot of his inheritance.

10 He found him [i] in a desert land, and in the waste howling wilderness: he * led him about, he instructed him, he [k] kept him as the apple of his eye.

Before Christ 1451.

i Chap. 8. 15. Jer. 2. 6. Hos. 13. 5.

* Or, compassed him about.

k Psal. 17. 8. Prov. 7. 2. Zech. 2. 8.

11 [l] As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, beareth them on her wings;

l Exod. 19. 4. Chap. 1. 31. Isai. 31. 5. and 46. 4. and 63. 9. Hos. 11. 3.

12 So the Lord alone did lead him, and there was no strange god with him.

13 [m] He made him ride on the high places of the earth, that he might eat the increase of the fields, and he made him to suck [n] honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock.

m Isa. 58. 14.

n Ezek. 36. 2. n Job 29. 6. Psal. 81. 16.

14 Butter

and sold themselves to sin. Their destruction is not from God, who is just and true, but wholly from themselves, and from their own wickedness. Their spot is not the spot of his children—Their blemishes or sins are not committed through ignorance, but they proceed from wilfulness and contempt, and followed with impenitency. They carry themselves not like my children and people, as they profess to be, but like mine enemies. They are a perverse and crooked generation—Forward and untractable, and crooked—irregular and disorderly, not agreeing with the streight and righteous nature of God and of his law.

V. 6. The Lord, is not he thy father that hath bought thee—That hath redeemed and rescued thee from Egyptian bondage. Hath he not made thee—Not only in a general and common way by creation, but in a peculiar manner by adoption, or making thee his peculiar people and children. And established thee—Renewed and confirmed his grace and favour to thee, and not taken it away from thee, which thou hast often provoked him to do.

V. 7. Remember the days of old—The history and events of former ages.

V. 8. When the Most High divided to the nations their inheritance—When God by his providence did allot the several parts of the world to several people. When he separated the sons of Adam—(i. e.) Divided them in their languages and habitations according to their families. He set the bounds of the people—He disposed of the several lands and limits of the people, so as he did reserve a convenient and sufficient place for the great numbers of the people of Israel, whom he designed to make as numerous as the stars of heaven. And therefore he so guided the hearts of several people, that the posterity of Canaan should be seated in that country which God intended for the children of Israel, that so when their iniquities were ripe and God's time came, they might be rooted out, and the Israelites might come in their stead.

V. 9. The Lord's portion is his people—He chose them out of all mankind, as he chooseth to himself them that look to him by faith, for that righteous nature which he imparts to men in every age and in every country, who are his spiritual children, charging himself with all that concerneth them, as the head is concerned for all the members of the body.

V. 10. He found him—God found him in an eminent manner, and revealed his mind and will to him, and entered into covenant with him, and imparted himself and his grace and blessing to him. By this word he also signifieth, both their lost condition in themselves, and that their recovery was not from themselves, but only from God, who sought and found them out by his grace. In a desert land—In a place destitute of all the necessaries and comforts of life, which also was a type of that desolate and comfortless condition in which all men are before the grace of God findeth them out. In the waste howling wilderness—Where, instead of the voices of men, nothing is heard but the howlings of ravenous beasts, to which every temper, appetite and passion of the unrenewed mind is justly compared; of which we may be convinced, when we consider the proportion of human care, which is exercised in fencing the dwellings of men, their persons and their property not against wild beasts, which are now destroyed out of our land, but against men living every where in it, under the influence of their unregenerate nature. Reader, is the devil deceiving your vain mind into a belief that you have escaped the common corruption within, because you are orderly without, or that there is no danger to which you are exposed, though you know nothing of what it is to be born from above? He led him about—He conducted him from place to place, by his cloudy pillar and providence; he compassed him about, by his provident care over him, watching over him, and preserving him on every side. He instructed him—Made him acquainted with his will. He kept him as the apple of his eye—As men used to keep the apple of their eye, with singular care and diligence, this being as most tender, so a most useful part.

V. 11. As an eagle stirreth up her nest—Her young ones in the nest, which she by her cry and motion, provoketh to fly by her example. Spreadeth abroad her wings—Gently, tenderly, and safely. Some say, the eagle carrieth her young ones upon her wings, till she teacheth them to fly.

V. 12. So the Lord alone did lead him—When they were shut up in Egypt, as in their nest, whence they durst not venture to fly nor stir, he taught, encouraged, and enabled them to fly out, and free themselves from that bondage, and brought them into a state of liberty and safety, he dealt tenderly with them, bearing with their infirmities, keeping them from all harms. And the Lord alone is the leader of all who, living by faith, are travelling to his presence in glory eternal; and he alone who knoweth the heart, is also the spiritual leader of every soul into the true knowledge of its state, and under all the difficulties of perplexing doubts, fears, and temptations. O how great are the concerns which every soul hath to transact with him who made and died to redeem us, and whose providence is over us, and his spirit about us, ready to do all that is for his glory, and the good of them that do but hope in his mercy! There was no strange God with him—To assist him in that work, or to deliver them, all the help that was given them the Lord did it himself alone.

V. 13. He made him ride on the high places of the earth—To conquer their strongest holds, which are in the mountains, and their cities fenced with walls of greatest height and strength. To ride upon in Scripture phrase, is to subdue or conquer. He made him to suck honey out of the rock—Where the bees made honey, even in the holes of rocks. And oil out of the flinty rock—The olive-trees growing in rocky places.

V. 14. By

Before Christ 1451.

14 Butter of kine, and milk of sheep, with fat of lambs, and rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats, [o] with the fat of kidneys of wheat, and thou didst drink the pure blood of the grape.

o Psa. 81. 16. and 147. 14.

15 ¶ But [p] Jeshurun waxed fat, and kicked: [q] thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick, thou art covered with fatness; then he forsook God which made him, and lightly esteemed the Rock of his salvation.

p Chap. 33. 5, 26. Isai. 44. 2.
q Neh. 9. 25. Psal. 17. 10. Jer. 5. 7. and 5. 7. Hos. 13. 6.

16 They provoked him to jealousy with strange gods, with abominations provoked they him to anger.

17 [r] They sacrificed unto devils, † not to God; to gods whom they knew not, to new gods that came newly up, whom your fathers feared not.

r Lev. 17. 7. Psal. 106. 37. 1 Cor. 10. 20. Rev. 9. 20.
† Or, which were not God.

18 Of the Rock that begat thee thou art unmindful, and hast forgotten God that formed thee.

19 [s] And when the Lord saw it, he ‡ abhorred them, [t] because of the provoking of his sons, and of his daughters.

s Jud. 2. 14.
‡ Or, despised.
t Isai. 1. 2.

20 And he said, [u] I will hide my face from them, I will see what their end shall be: for they are a very froward generation, [x] children in whom is no faith.

u Chap. 31. 17.
x Isai. 30. 9.

21 They have moved me to jealousy with that which is not God, they have provoked me to anger [y] with their vanities: and [z] I will move them to jealousy with those which are not a people, I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation.

y 1 Sam. 12. 21. 1 Kings 16. 23, 26. Psal. 31. 6. Jer. 8. 19. and 10. 8.
z Hos. 1. 10. Rom. 10. 19.

22 For [a] a fire is kindled in my anger, and § shall burn unto the lowest hell, and ‖ shall consume the earth with her increase, and set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

a Jer. 15. 14. Lam. 4. 11.
§ Or, hath burned.
‖ Or, hath consumed.

23 I will [b] heap mischiefs upon them, [c] I will spend mine arrows upon them.

b Isai. 26. 15. c Psal. 7. 12, 13.

24 They shall be burnt with hunger, and devoured with * burning heat, and with bitter

Ezek. 5. 16.
* Heb. burning coals.

V. 14. By these natural supplies we may understand, that the spiritual consolations to the Israel of God, consist in every thing that can be pleasant to receive, and in their effects useful and delightful to them.

V. 15. But Jeshurun—Israel, whom he calls upright, or righteous (as the word signifieth) not that they were so indeed, but partly by way of instruction, to remind them what they professed, promised, and ought to be; and to shew them how unlike they were to the people of God, which they pretended to be, and what a shame it was to them to degenerate so much from their name and profession. Waxed fat and kicked—Grew insolent and rebellious against God and against his word and spirit.

V. 16. They provoked him to jealousy—To anger and fury, for jealousy is the rage of a man; and it implies the ground of this anger, the falseness to God, whom they had owned and accepted as their husband, and their spiritual whoredom with other gods.

V. 17. They sacrificed unto devils—Unto idols, which the devils brought into the world in opposition to God, in and by which the devils often manifested themselves unto men, and gave them answers, and received their worship. The Gentiles pretended to worship God in these idols, and the devils which inspired them, deluded the nations with false pretences, that they were a sort of lower gods. Moses therefore taketh off this mask, and sheweth the Israelites, that these pretended gods were really devils, those great enemies of mankind, and therefore that it was the height of madness to honour or worship them. Not to God—This he saith, either because though at first they joined God and idols together in worship, yet at last they quite forsook God, and adhered to idols only: Or because God utterly rejected those sacrifices which they offered to him, together with idols, and took them for no sacrifices. Gods whom they knew not—Never shewed any kindness to them, or did them any good. New gods, that came newly up—Not absolutely, for some of these gods had been worshipped for generations, and had a fair pretence of long antiquity, but comparatively to the true God, who is the ancient of days, and who was worshiped from the beginning of the world. To this original and first antiquity Moses recalleth them; as also our Saviour doth reeal the Jews to the first institution. (Matth. xix. 8.) And therefore we may safely follow both their patterns in despising all pretences of antiquity which are contrary to God's first institutions contained (as all confess) in the holy Scriptures. Whom your fathers feared not—Served not, worshipped not, but justly despised and abhorred them.

V. 18. Of the rock—Of God, one of whose titles this is; or of Christ, who is called the rock, (1 Cor. x. 4.) whom the Israelites are said to have tempted. That begat thee—Who hath adopted you to be his people, and hath shewed as much care and kindness to you, as if he had begotten you.

V. 19. Because of the provoking of his sons, and of his daughters—Because of their sins, whereby they provoked him to anger.

V. 20. I will see what their end shall be—A speech after the manner of men. Or, I will see it put for, I will make them and others to see, what the fruit of such actions shall be. Children in whom there it no faith—Perfidious, that have broken their covenant so solemnly made with me.

V. 21. I will move them to jealousy with those which are not a people—With the Gentiles, or Heathenish nations, who scarce deserve the name of a people, as being without yoke, without the knowledge and fear of God, which is the foundation of all true policy and government, and without righteous and necessary laws; and many of them are destitute of all government, laws, and order, barbarous, rude, savage, and brutish in their manners; when it came to pass how it provoked the Jews to jealousy, may be gathered from (Matth. xxi. 43, &c. Acts xi. 2, 3. 1 Thess. ii. 15, 16.) I will provoke them to anger with a foolish nation—So the Gentiles were, both in the opinion of the Jews, and in truth and reality, notwithstanding all their pretences to wisdom, there being nothing more foolish or brutish than the worship of idols. (1 Cor. xii. 2.)

V. 22. A fire is kindled—Great and grievous judgments shall be inflicted, which come under the name of fire. Mine anger shall burn unto the lowest hell—It shall not only burn up all the corn, fruits, and buildings, which appear above ground, but it shall reach to the inwards and depths of the earth, and burn up the very roots and hopes of future increase, and follow the finally impenitent to their own place.

V. 23. I will spend mine arrows upon them—Empty my quiver, and send upon them all my plagues.

V. 24. They shall be burnt with hunger—With famine, which burneth and parcheth the inward parts, and maketh the face black as a coal, (Lam. iv. 8.) And devoured with burning heat—By fevers, or other distempers. I will also send the teeth of beasts, with the poison of serpents of the dust—Who feed upon the dust, and lurk in it, that they may surprize unwary passengers.

V. 27. Were

Before Christ 1451.

ter deſtruction: I will alſo ſend [d] the teeth of beaſts upon them, with the poiſon of ſerpents of the duſt.

25 [e] The ſword without, and terror † within ſhall ‡ deſtroy both the young man and the virgin, the ſuckling alſo, with the man of gray hairs.

26 I ſaid, I would ſcatter them into corners, I would make the remembrance of them to ceaſe from among men:

27 Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, leſt their adverſaries [f] ſhould behave themſelves ſtrangely, and leſt they ſhould ſay, § Our hand is high, and the Lord hath not done all this.

28 For they are a nation void of counſel, neither is there any underſtanding in them.

29 [g] O that they were wiſe, that they underſtood this, [h] that they would conſider their latter end!

30 How ſhould [i] one chaſe a thouſand, and two put ten thouſand to flight, except their rock [k] had ſold them, and the Lord had ſhut them up?

31 For their rock is not as our Rock, even our enemies themſelves being judges.

32 For their vine § is of the vine of Sodom, and of the fields of Gomorrah: their grapes are grapes of gall, their cluſters are bitter.

33 Their wine is the poiſon of dragons, and the cruel venom of aſps.

34 Is not this [m] laid up in ſtore with me, and ſealed up among my treaſures?

35 To me belongeth [n] vengeance, and recompence, their foot ſhall ſlide in due time: for [o] the day of their calamity is at hand, and the things that ſhall come upon them make haſte.

36 For

d Lev. 26. 22.
e Lam. 1. 20. Ezek. 7. 15. 2 Cor. 7. 5.
† Heb. from the chambers.
‡ Heb. bereave.
f Jer. 10. 4.
§ Or, Our high hand, and not the LORD hath done all this.
g Pſal. 18 8.
h Iſai. 47. 7. Lam. 1. 9.
i Lev. 26. 8. Joſh. 23. 10. 2 Chro 24.24. Iſai. 30. 17.
k Pſal. 44. 12. Iſai. 50. 1. and 52. 3. 1 Sam. 4. 8. Jer. 40. 3.
§ Or, Is worſe than the vine of Sodom, &c. m Job 14. 17. Jer. 2. 22. Hoſ. 13. 12. Rom. 2 5. n Pſal. 94. 1. Rom. 12. 19. Heb. 10. 30. o 2 Pet. 2. 3.

V. 27. Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy—Of my government, and of all mankind. Satan, who would, upon this people's total deſtruction, be furniſhed with freſh arguments to draw men from God, as if he was unnatural and cruel to his people, or unable to deliver them. Fear is aſcribed to God after the manner of men. Leſt their adverſaries ſhould behave themſelves ſtrangely—Inſolently and arrogantly above what they uſed to do.

V. 28. For they—The Iſraelites. A nation void of counſel—That have not wiſdom to direct themſelves, nor diſcretion to deſire and receive counſel from others, but raſhly and madly go on in thoſe courſes which will certainly ruin them.

V. 29. O that they would conſider their latter end—What their end will be, and that although God ſpareth them long, yet at laſt judgment will certainly overtake them. No Scripture is of private interpretation, this is the wiſh of the Father of mercies, that all the children of men, would not, whilſt they are ſeeing their fellow creatures die daily about them, forget that they are to die; for common as it is to all, death can but once come to every creature: the gates of death are placed between our natural and eternal ſtates, and freely do theſe gates open from earth to hell and heaven, but all the powers of angels, men, or devils cannot force a paſſage back for one ſingle mortal, to this buſy dying world; where ſo little are we concerned about the wide extremes of miſery and bliſs, between which we ſtand upon this narrow point of time, that God, whoſe word called the world into exiſtence, calls himſelf to all mankind, and ſays, O that they would conſider their latter end! and never reſt a moment longer unprepared to meet their God, who now invites a ſinful world to ſeek his mercy and his favour whilſt it may be found. Oppoſed to the wiſhes of infinite goodneſs are the intereſts, the pleaſures of this life, and the ambition of living to be magnified in their eſteem, who, with ourſelves, ſhall ſoon mix with the duſt: And can all that belongeth to earth and ſenſe, compenſate for the loſs of that nature, which we are apt to conſider ſo little, and in which our immortal nature can only be found pure and holy, good and happy?

V. 30. How ſhould one chaſe a thouſand—Whence ſhould this miraculous change come, that whereas God had promiſed that five Iſraelites ſhould chaſe an hundred of their enemies; now on the contrary, one enemy ſhould chaſe a thouſand Iſraelites. Except their Rock—Their God, who was their only refuge and defence. Had ſold them—For bond ſlaves, had quitted his right and relation to them, and given them up into their enemies hands. And the Lord had ſhut them up—As in the net which their enemies had laid for them.

V. 31. Our enemies themſelves being judges—Who, by their dear bought experience, have been forced to acknowledge that our God was far ſtronger than they and their falſe gods together.

V. 32. For—But; for theſe words ſeem to contain an anſwer. It was not from impotency in God, for if he had not forſaken and delivered them up, they could not have been ſo eaſily chaſed. But, ſaith he, the true reaſon was this, their vine. Is of the vine of Sodom—The people of Iſrael, which I planted, and brought up as a choice vine, are now degenerated, and become like the vine of Sodom, their principles and practices are all corrupt and abominable. Their cluſters are bitter—Their fruits or actions are moſt loathſome to me, malicious and miſchievous to others, and at laſt will be pernicious to themſelves.

V. 33. The cruel venom of aſps—Whoſe poiſon kills certainly and ſpeedily.

V. 34. Is not this—All their wickedneſs mentioned before. My long-ſuffering towards them, may make them and others think, that I have forgotten their ſins, but I remember them punctually, they are ſealed up as in a bag, and as men ſeal up their treaſures, that nothing be loſt, and I ſhall bring them to their remembrance alſo.

V. 35. To me belongeth vengeance—It is my office to puniſh ſin, and as I know their ſins, ſo I will aſſuredly puniſh them that ſin, and remain impenitent. Their foot ſhall ſlide—They who now think they ſtand faſt and unmoveable, ſhall fall into utter deſtruction. In due time—Though not ſo ſoon as ſome may expect it, yet in that time when it ſhall be moſt proper and ſeaſonable, when they have refuſed my laſt calls to repentance, and filled up the meaſure of their ſins. This due time may be the ſame with that fulneſs of time, (Gal. iv. 4.) when Chriſt came into the world, whom this people, by wicked hands, crucified and ſlew, for which wrath came upon them to the uttermoſt, (1 Theſſ. ii. 15, 16.) The day of their calamity is at hand—Is near. So the Scriptures often ſpeak of thoſe things which are at many hundred years diſtance, to meet with objections ariſing in mens minds from the delays of them, and to ſignify, that though they may be afar off as to our meaſures of time and expectation of things, yet in God's account they are near, they are as near as may be, as ſoon as ever the fit and the full time is come, they come inſtantly, they are nearer

Before Christ 1451.

36 [p] For the Lord shall judge his people, [q] and repent himself for his servants; when he seeth that their ‖ power is gone, and [r] there is none shut up, or left.

37 And he shall say, [s] Where are their gods, their rock in whom they trusted, 38 Which did eat the fat of their sacrifices, and drank the wine of their drink-offerings? let them rise up and help you, and be * your protection.

39 See now that [t] I, even I am he, and [u] there is no god with me: [x] I kill, and I make alive; I wound, and I heal: neither is there any that can deliver out of my hand.

40 [y] For I lift up my hand to heaven, and say, I live for ever.

41 [z] If I whet my glittering sword, and mine hand take hold on judgment; I will render vengeance to mine enemies, and will reward them that hate me.

42 I will make mine arrows drunk with blood (and my sword shall devour flesh) and that with the blood of the slain, and of the captives, from the beginning of [a] revenges upon the enemy.

43 † [b] Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people: for he will avenge the blood of his servants, and will render vengeance to his adversaries, and will be merciful unto his land, and to his people.

44 ¶ And Moses came and spake all the words of this song in the ears of the people, he, and * Hoshea the son of Nun.

45 And Moses made an end of speaking all these words to all Israel.

46 And he said unto them, [c] Set your hearts unto all the words which I testify among you this day; which ye shall command your children to observe to do, all the words of this law.

47 For

p Psal. 135. 14.
q Judg. 2. 18. Psal. 106. 45. Jer. 31. 20.
‖ Heb. hand.
r 1 Kings 14. 10. & 21. 21. 2 Kings 9. 8. and 14. 26.
s Judg. 10. 14. Jer. 2. 28.
* Heb. an hiding for you.
t Psal. 102. 27. Hab. 1. 4. and 48. 12. u Chap. 4. 35. Isai. 45. 5. 18.
x 1 Sam. 2. 6. 2 Kings 5. 7. Job 5. 18. Psal. 68. 20. Hos. 6. 1.
y Gen. 14. 22.
z Isai. 27. 1. and 34. 5. and 66. 16. Ezek. 21. 14, 20.

a Job. 13. 24. Jer. 30. 14. Lam. 2. 5.
† Or, Praise his people, ye nations: or, Sing ye.
b Rom. 15. 10.

* Or, Joshua

c Chap. 6. 6. and 11. 18.

than sinners would have them, when the measure of their sins is once full, the judgment shall not be deferred. And souls that are living in a state of enmity against God, their sufferings are only suspended by that thread of life, which the flying arrows of death may, the next moment, be permitted to hit, and shew the careless wilful sinner against the infinite power that made him, that the judge was at the door, when he thought himself secure and unobserved.

V. 36. For—Nevertheless, or, But yet. He now turns his discourse into a more comfortable strain, according to the usual method of the prophets, and here begineth to shew, That after God had humbled and sorely chastised his people, yet at last he would have mercy upon them, and turn their captivity, as it here followeth. The Lord shall judge his people—Shall plead their cause, shall protect and deliver them. And repent himself for his servants—Repent of the evils he hath brought upon them, will change his course and carriage towards them. When he seeth that their power is gone, and there is none shut up, or left—None shut up, either in their strong cities, castles, or other hiding places, and none left, as the poor and contemptible people are neglected, and usually left in the conquered land, as all seem to be cut off, and the people quite destroyed.

V. 37. And he shall say—The Lord, before he delivereth his people, will first convince them of their former folly in forsaking him and following idols; he will find an occasion from that miserable and hopeless condition into which their idols have brought them, to upbraid them with it.

V. 39. See now—Learn now by your own sad experience, what vain and impotent things idols are, and what a silly thing it was in you to put your trust in them, as they did, verse 37. I, even I am he—The only true and omnipotent and irresistible God. I kill, and I make alive—And how should he be feared, on whom life dependeth from one moment to another.

V. 40. For I lift up my hand to heaven—I solemnly swear, that I will do what here followeth, that, as I will deliver my people, so I will fully avenge myself upon all mine enemies, whom I have used as rods to scourge my people. I live for ever—As sure as I live.

V. 41. If I whet my glittering sword—If once I begin to prepare for war, and for the execution of my sentence. And mine hand take hold on judgment—Of the instruments of judgment, of the weapons of war. A metaphor from warriors, that take their weapons into their hand, when they intend to fight.

V. 42. And that with the blood of the slain, and of the captives—Whom my sword hath sorely wounded, though not utterly killed. From the beginning of revenges upon the enemy—When once I begin I will take vengeance upon all mine enemies, upon the head or heads of them.

V. 43. Rejoice, O ye nations, with his people—He calleth upon the nations to rejoice, and bless God for his favours, and especially for the last wonderful deliverance which shall be given to the Jews, when they shall be converted unto the gospel in the last days, which they have all reason to do, not only from that duty of sympathy which they owe to all people, and especially to God's ancient people, whereby they are to rejoice with them that rejoice, but because of that singular advantage and happiness which all nations will have at that time, and upon that occasion. Or, rejoice, O ye Gentiles, who once were not God's people, but now are his people, do ye rejoice for God's mercies to the Jews, his ancient people, bless God for their conversion, and that salvation, which after being neglected and disregarded by so many generations of men, though published and made known in the Scriptures, is now at last attended to, and mercy and grace is sought and found.

V. 44. And Moses came, and spake all the words of this song, and Hoshea—Or Joshua; who is here joined with Moses in this action, because this was written and kept for future use, and to be repeated again and again upon solemn occasions, which Joshua and other succeeding magistrates were to take care of.

V. 46. Set your hearts unto all the words which I testify—Consider the words which I have declared to you from God with the greatest care, and treasure up the things which they make known to you in your hearts, and command your children after you to do the same, that the way of man's salvation, and the will of God, may be known amongst you from one generation to another, and so be spread by your means, to whom is committed the Scriptures of truth, to all the nations of the world. Those that have the Scriptures, and do not use them—do not set their hearts upon them to understand them, voluntarily deprive themselves of blessings which all material things cannot afford them; and they that have the Scriptures, and know the great truths they contain, and do not spread the knowledge of them amongst those whom God hath given them the charge of as masters, parents, &c. they withhold that which is of more moment to the best interests of all about them, than if they refused them every necessary blessing of life. Are those endeavours used in your family to make all that live

Before Christ 1451.

47 For it is not a vain thing for you: [d] because it is your life; and through this thing ye shall prolong your days in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.

48 [e] And the Lord spake unto Moses that self-same day, saying,

49 [f] Get thee up into this mountain Abarim, unto mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, that is over against Jericho; and behold the land of Canaan which I give unto the children of Israel for a possession:

50 And die in the mount whither thou goest up, and be gathered unto thy people; [g] as Aaron thy brother died in mount Hor, and was gathered unto his people:

51 Because [h] ye trespassed against me among the children of Israel, at the waters of † Meribah-kadesh, in the wilderness of Zin; because ye [i] sanctified me not in the midst of the children of Israel.

52 [k] Yet thou shalt see the land before thee, but thou shalt not go thither unto the land which I give the children of Israel.

d Chap. 30. 19.

e Num. 27. 12.

f Num. 33. 47. Chap. 34. 1.

g Num. 20. 25, 26. and 33. 38.

h Num. 20. 11, 12, 13. and 27. 14.

† Or, strife at Kadesh.

i See Lev. 10. 3.

k Num. 34. 4.

CHAP. XXXIII.

AND this is the blessing wherewith Moses [a] the man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death.

2 And he said, [b] The Lord came from Sinai, and rose up from Seir unto them; he shined forth from mount Paran, and he came with [c] ten thousands of saints: from his right hand went * a fiery law for them.

3 Yea, [d] he loved the people; [e] all his saints are in thy hand: and they sat down at thy feet; every one shall receive of thy words.

4 Moses

a Psa. 90. title. b Exod. 19. 18. Judges 5. 4. Hab. 3. 3. 1491.

c See Psa. 68. 17. Dan. 7. 10. Acts 7. 53. Gal. 3. 19. Heb. 2. 2. Rev. 5. 11. and 9. 16.

* Heb. a fire of law.

d Exod. 19. 5. e Chap. 7. 6. Psal. 50. 5.

live in it understand the Scriptures, which are necessary to enable any person to understand the meaning of any writings? Are they read to them, and are they read by them? Will children and servants be led to believe that there is any thing of real value in the Scriptures, when they see, for one year after another, that their parents and masters treat the Scriptures as men commonly do those books and writings which they consider to be of no use or value to them. And the difficulty there is to prevail with any person to believe that the same thing is of the highest value, which they have only been accustomed to see treated as of no value, may soon be known, when the influence of custom and long habits of thinking are considered.

V. 47. It is not a vain thing for you—It is not an unprofitable or contemptible work which I advise you to, but well worthy of your most serious care to remember and diligently to consider it.

V. 49. Get thee up into mount Nebo—Nebo was a ridge or top of the mountains of Abarim.

V. 52. Thou shalt see the land before thee, but thou shalt not go thither—But when he disappointeth whom Moses served, it is but the chastening of a kind parent to prepare them that fear him for himself. Moses was taken to Canaan above, where pain and sorrow can never come, instead of entering that Canaan, which, blessed as it was as a country, it only was a faint resemblance of that better world, to which this servant of the Most High was now to be removed.

CHAP. XXXIII.

V. 1. This is the blessing, wherewith Moses the man of God blessed—He is said to bless them ministerially, by praying to God with faith for his blessing upon them, and by foretelling the blessings which God would confer upon them. The children of Israel—The several tribes: only Simeon is omitted, because that tribe had no distinct inheritance, but was to have his portion in the tribe of Judah, and therefore he must needs partake with them in their blessings.

V. 2. The Lord came—To the Israelites; manifested himself graciously and gloriously amongst them. From Sinai—Beginning at Sinai, where the first and most glorious appearance of God was, and so going on with them to Seir and Paran. And rose up—He appeared or shewed himself, as the sun doth when it riseth. From Seir—From the mountain or land of Edom, which is called Seir, to which place the Israelites came, and from thence God led them on towards the land of promise, and then gloriously appeared for them, in subduing Sihon and Og before them. All this verse may belong to God's appearance in mount Sinai, where that glorious light which shone upon mount Sinai scattered its beams into the adjacent parts, such as Seir and Paran were, and so this is only a poetical and prophetical variation of the phrase and expression of the same thing in divers words, and God's coming, or rising, or shining from Sinai and Sier, and Paran, note one and the same illustrious action of God appearing there with ten thousands of his saints or holy angels, and there giving a fiery law to them. From mount Paran—A place where God eminently manifested his presence and goodness, in appointing the seventy elders, and pouring forth his Spirit upon them. He came with ten thousands of Saints—(i. e.) With a great company of holy angels, which attended upon him in this great and glorious work of giving the law, as may be gathered from Acts vii. 53. Gal. iii. 19. Heb. ii. 2. and xii. 22. From his right hand—Which both wrote the law and gave it to men. An allusion to men who ordinarily write and give gifts with their right, and not with their left hand. A fiery law—The law is called fiery, because it is of a fiery nature. God's word is compared to fire, to signify that fiery wrath and curse which it inflicteth upon sinners for the violation of it, and principally because it was delivered out of the midst of the fire.

V. 3. He loved the people—The tribes of Israel, which are called people. The sense is, This law, though delivered with fire, smoke, and thunder, which might seem to portend nothing but hatred and error, yet in truth it was given to Israel in great love, as being the great mean of their temporal and eternal salvation. All his saints—All gods, saints, and holy ones. Are in thy hand—Were in thy hand, under God's care, to protect, direct, and govern them. These words are spoken to God. This clause may further note God's kindness to Israel, in upholding and preserving them, when the fiery law was delivered, which was done with so much dread and terror, that not only the people trembled, and were ready to sink under it, but even Moses himself did exceedingly fear and quake. But in this fright God sustained both Moses and the people by his hand, whereby he in a manner hid and covered them, that no harm might come to them by this terrible apparition. They sat down at thy feet—Like scholars, to receive instructions and counsels from thee. He alludeth to the place where the people waited when the law was delivered, which was at the foot of the mount. Every one shall receive of thy words—The people were admitted to receive so great a privilege as the words and laws of God were.

V. 4. Moses commanded us a law—Moses speaketh this of himself in the third person, which is usual. The inheritance of the congregation of Jacob—The law is called their inheritance, because the obligation of it was hereditary passing from parents to their children, and partly because this was the best part of all their inheritance and possessions, the greatest of all those gifts and favours which

God

Before Christ 1451.

4 Moses commanded us a law: [f] even the inheritance of the congregation of Jacob.

5 And he was [g] king in [h] Jeshurun, when the heads of the people and the tribes of Israel were gathered together.

6 ¶ Let Reuben live, and not die; and let not his men be few.

7 ¶ And this is the blessing of Judah: and he said, Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah, and bring him unto his people: let his hands be sufficient for him, and be thou an help to him from his enemies.

8 ¶ And of Levi he said, [i] Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one, [k] whom thou didst prove at Massah, and with whom thou didst strive at the waters of Meribah;

9 Who said unto his father, and to his mother, I have not seen him, [l] neither did he acknowledge his brethren, nor knew his own children: for [m] they have observed thy word, and kept thy covenant.

10 ‡ They shall teach Jacob thy judgments, and Israel thy law: ‡ they shall put incense § before thee, and whole burnt-sacrifice upon thine altar.

11 Bless, Lord, his substance, and accept the work of his hands: smite through the loins of them that rise against him, and of them that hate him, that they rise not again.

12 ¶ And of Benjamin he said, The beloved of the Lord shall dwell in safety by him; and the LORD shall cover him all the day long, and he shall dwell between his shoulders.

13 ¶ And

[f] Ver. 3. [g] See Gen. 36. 31. and Judges 8. 2. and 17. 6. [h] Chap. 32. 15.

[i] Exod. 28. 30. [k] Num. 20. 13.

[l] Exod. 32. 26. [m] See Jer. 18. 18. Mal. 2. 5. ‡ Or, Let them teach, &c. § Or, let them put incense. § Heb. at thy nose.

God bestowed upon them." Reader, the word of God, which directeth you to your only Saviour, is your best earthly inheritance, never let it be out of your possession: Ever carry the whole or some part of it about with you; it is neither of great weight nor cost, but of great worth—every word that it contains cost the Almighty as much trouble as it cost him to call the world into being; and shall we carelessly and willingly deprive ourselves for a moment of the use of that inestimable privilege of consulting our glorious Creator and Redeemer's will. Let us remember how many, even in our own country, have suffered scorn, contempt, hunger, cold, imprisonment, and all the fury of the flames that consumed their venerable persons, that the word of God might not be bound in the chains of unknown tongues, but in our native language be made as much our own as the air we breathe, or the light of heaven. O! how will the spirits of the martyrs, for obtaining this inheritance to all that should live after them, look upon those who willingly remain ignorant of the worth of these sacred and invaluable writings, which cost them their lives to procure us the privilege of reading them?

V. 5. He was king—Moses was their king, not in title, but in reality, being under God, their governor and lawgiver. Though the word often signifieth only a prince or chief ruler. In Jeshrun—In Israel. When the tribes of Israel were gathered together—When the princes and people were met together for the management of public affairs, Moses was owned by them as their king and lawgiver, and he directed and ruled them as their superior. This he saith to shew that the people approved of and consented to the authority and laws of Moses.

V. 6. Let Reuben live, and let not his men be few—Though Reuben deserveth to be cut off or greatly diminished and obscured, according to Jacob's prediction, yet God will spare them, and give them a name and portion amongst the tribes of Israel, and bless them with increase of their numbers.

V. 7. He said, Hear, Lord, the voice of Judah—God will hear his prayer for the accomplishment of those great things promised to that tribe. This implieth the delays and difficulties Judah would meet with, which would drive him to his prayers, and that those prayers should be crowned with success. Bring him unto his people—As thou hast promised the gathering of the people to him, even to the Shiloh, who was to come out of his loins, so do thou bring him—the Messias. Let his hands be sufficient for him—This tribe shall be so numerous and potent, and valiant, that it shall defend itself, without any aid either from foreign nations or from other tribes. Be thou an help to him from his enemies—Thou wilt preserve this tribe in a special manner, so as his enemies shall not be able to ruin it, as they will do other tribes, and that for the sake of the Messias, who shall spring out of it.

V. 8. Let thy Thummim and thy Urim be with thy holy one—The Thummim and the Urim, which are thine, O Lord, by special institution and consecration, by which he understandeth the Ephod in which they were put, and the High Priesthood, to which they were appropriated, and withal the gifts and graces signified by the Urim and Thummim, and necessary for the discharge of that high-office, shall be with thy holy one—with that Levite, that priest, which thou hast consecrated to thyself, and which is holy in a more peculiar manner than all the people were—the priesthood shall be confined to and continued in Aaron's family. Whom thou didst prove—Although thou didst try him, and rebuke him, and shut him out of Canaan for his miscarriage about fetching water out of the rock, yet thou didst not therefore take away the priesthood from him. At Massah—Called Meribah. With whom thou didst strive—Contend; whom thou didst reprove and chastise.

V. 9. Who said I have not seen him—I have no respect to them. For they have observed thy word, and kept thy covenant—When the rest broke their covenant with God by that foul sin of idolatry with the calf, that tribe kept themselves more pure from that infection, and adhered to God, his worship, and service.

V. 10. They—The Priests and Levites. They shall put incense before thee—Upon thine altar of incense, which stood before the ark, the place of God's special presence.

V. 11. Bless, Lord, his substance—His outward estate, because he hath no inheritance of his own, and therefore wholly dependeth upon thy blessing. Accept the work of his hands—All his holy administrations which he fitly calleth the works of his hands; or because a great part of the service of the Levites and Priests was done by the labour of their hand and body, whereas the service of evangelical ministers is more spiritual and heavenly. Smite through the loins of them that rise against him—He prayeth thus earnestly for them, because he foresaw they who were to teach and admonish, and reprove, and chastise others, would have many enemies, and because they were under God, the great preservers and upholders of religion, and their enemies were the enemies of religion itself, as is evident from the history of the Old Testament.

V. 12. Of Benjamin he said, The beloved of the Lord—This beloved tribe so called, in allusion to their father Benjamin, who was the beloved of his father Jacob; and because the love and kindness of God towards this tribe appear in this, That they dwelt in the fattest and best part of the land, (as Josephus affirmeth), and especially in the following privilege. Shall dwell in safety

Before Christ 1451.

13 ¶ And of Joseph he said, [n] Blessed of the Lord be his land, for the precious things n Gen. 49. 25. of heaven, for the dew, and for the deep that coucheth beneath,

14 And for the precious fruits brought forth
† Heb. thrust forth. by the sun, and for the precious things † put ‡ Heb. moons. forth by the ‡ moon, o Gen. 49. 26. 15 And for the chief things of [o] the ancient p Hab. 3. 6. mountains, and for the precious things [p] of the lasting hills,

16 And for the precious things of the earth, and fulness thereof, and for the good will of o Exod. 3. 2, 4. [o] him that dwelt in the bush: let the blessing come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the r Gen. 49. 26. top of the head of him that [r] was separated from his brethren.

17 His glory is like the firstling of his bul-§ Heb. an unicorn. lock, and his horns are like the horns of § s Psal. 44. 5. unicorns: with them [s] he shall push the people together, to the ends of the earth: and t Gen. 48. 19. [t] they are the ten thousands of Ephraim, and they are the thousands of Manasseh.

u Gen. 49. 13, 14, 15. 18 ¶ And of Zebulun he said, [u] Rejoice, Zebulun, in thy going out; and Issachar in thy tents.

Before Christ 1451.

19 They shall call the people unto the mountain, there [x] they shall offer sacrifices of x Psa. 4. 5. righteousness: for they shall suck of the abundance of the seas, and of treasures hid in the sand.

20 ¶ And of Gad he said, Blessed be he that [y] enlargeth Gad: he dwelleth as a lion, y See Josh. 13. 10, &c. 1 Chron. 12. 8, &c. and teareth the arm with the crown of the head.

21 And [o] he provideth the first part for o Num. 32. 16, 17, &c. himself, because there in a portion of the law-giver was he ‖ seated; and [a] he came with ‖ Heb. covered. a Josh. 4. 12. the heads of the people, he executed the justice of the Lord, and his judgments with Israel.

22 ¶ And of Dan he said, Dan is a lion's whelp: he shall leap from Bashan.

23 ¶ And of Naphtali he said, O Naphtali, o Gen. 49. 21. [o] satisfied with favour, and full with the blessing of the Lord, [c] possess thou the west and c See Josh. 19. 32, &c. the south.

24 ¶ And

safety by him—Shall have his lot nigh unto God's temple, which was both a singular comfort and safeguard to him. And the Lord shall cover him all the day long—Shall protect that tribe continually while they cleave to him. He shall dwell between his shoulders—The Lord shall dwell—his temple shall be placed between his shoulders—in his portion, or between his borders: And this was truly the situation of the temple, on both sides whereof was Benjamin's portion; and though mount Sion was in the tribe of Judah, yet mount Moriah, on which the temple was built, was in the tribe of Benjamin.

V. 13. Of Joseph he said, Blessed of the Lord be his land—His portion shall be excellent, and endowed with choice blessings from God. For the precious things of heaven—The precious fruits of the earth, brought forth by the influences of heaven, the warmth of the sun, and the rain which God will send from heaven. For the deep that coucheth beneath—The sweet springs of water out of the earth.

V. 14. The precious fruits brought forth by the sun—Which opens and warms the earth, and ripeneth the fruits of it. The precious things put forth by the moon—Which, by its moisture, refreshes and promotes them.

V. 15. The precious things of the lasting hills—The excellent fruits, which delight in mountains.

V. 16. The good will of him that dwelt in the bush—For all other effects of the good will and kindness of God, who not long since did for a time dwell or appear in the bush to me, in order to the relief of his people. Let the blessing come upon the head of Joseph—Of Joseph's posterity.

V. 17. His glory is like the firstling of his bullock—In whose countenance there is a kind of majesty and comely generosity. His horns are like the horns of unicorns—His strength and power shall be very great. With them he shall push the people—All that shall oppose him, and particularly the Canaanites.

V. 18. Of Zebulun he said, Rejoice—Thou shalt prosper and have cause of rejoicing. In thy going out—To war; or to sea, in way of traffick. And Issachar in thy tents—Thou shalt give thyself to the management of land and cattle, living quietly in thy own possessions, disliking the troubles of war and of merchandize.

V. 19. They—Zebulun. Shall call the people—The Gentiles of Galilee, who were their neighbours, or people of other nations, with whom they had commerce, which they endeavoured to improve, in persuading them to the true God, his worship, and service. Unto the mountain—(i. e.) To the temple, which Moses knew was to be seated upon a mountain—to the rock of Israel, their Redeemer. Do the Christian nations imitate this conduct in their commerce with those nations that have not the Scriptures. They that endeavour to convey to others the knowledge of the love of God to men, for the sake of the only Mediator, however little they may gain by their commerce, will be numbered with those stars that shall shine with the glory of their Redeemer in heaven for ever. There they shall offer sacrifices of righteousness—Such as God requires, and righteousness obligeth them to offer. Their trafficking abroad with heathen nations shall not make them forget or neglect their duty at home, nor shall their distance from the place of sacrifices hinder them from coming to it to discharge their duty. They shall suck of the abundance of the sea—They shall grow rich by the traffick of the sea, and their riches shall not make them the worse as they do others, but they shall consecrate themselves and their riches to the service of God. And of treasures hid in the sand—Such precious things as are contained in the sand of the sea and rivers, gold and silver, pearls, coral, &c.

N. 20. Blessed be he that enlargeth Gad—By praising God for enlarging Gad. He dwelleth as a lion—Safe, and secure from his enemies. And teareth the arm with the crown of the head—(i. e.) Utterly destroys his enemies.

V. 21. He provided the first-part—The first-fruits of the land of promise. There in a portion of the law-giver—Of Moses, whose portion this is called. He executed the justice of the Lord, and his judgment with Israel—He did or will execute the just judgment of God against the Canaanites, as the rest of the Israelites did; he will join in the war against them, as he promised to do, and actually did. (Jos. i. 14.)

V. 22. Dan is a lion's whelp—Courageous, generous, strong, and successful against his enemies.

V. 23. O Naphtali satisfied with favour—With God's favour. Full with the blessing of the Lord—Seated in a pleasant, fertile, and happy soil, such as Galilee (in which their share lay) eminently was, as Josephus and others report.

Before Christ 1451.

24 ¶ And of Asher he said, [d] Let Asher be blessed with children; let him be acceptable to his brethren, and let him [e] dip his foot in oil.

[d] Gen. 49 20.
[e] See Job 29. 6.

25 * Thy shoes shall be iron and brass; and as thy days, so shall thy strength be.

* Or, Under thy shoes shall be iron.

26 ¶ There is none like unto the God of [f] Jeshurun, [g] who rideth upon the heaven in thy help, and in his excellency on the sky.

[f] Chap. 32 15.
[g] Psa. 68. 4. 33. Hab. 3. 8.

27 The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms: and he shall thrust out the enemy from before thee, and shall say, Destroy them.

28 [h] Israel then shall dwell in safety alone: the fountain of Jacob shall be upon a land of corn and wine, also his heavens shall drop down dew.

[h] Num. 23. 9. Jer. 23. 6. and 33. 16.

29 Happy art thou, O Israel: who is like unto thee, O people saved by the Lord, the shield of thy help, and who is the sword of thy excellency! and [i] thine enemies † shall be found liars unto thee, and [k] thou shalt tread upon their high places.

[i] 2 Sam. 22. 45. Psa. 18. 44 and 66. 3. and 81. 15.
† Or, shall be subdued.

Before Christ 1451.

[k] Chap. 32. 13.

CHAP. XXXIV.

AND Moses went up from the plains of Moab, [a] unto the mountain of Nebo, to the top of * Pisgah, that is over against Jericho: and the Lord shewed him [c] all the land of Gilead, [c] unto Dan, [a] Num. 33. 47. and 27. 12. Chap. 32. 49.

* Or, the hill.
[c] Chap. 3. 27.
[c] Gen. 14. 14.

2 And all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim, and Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, [d] unto the utmost sea,

[d] Chap. 11. 24.

3 And the south, and the plain of the valley of Jericho, [e] the city of palm-trees, unto Zoar.

[e] Judges 1. 16. and 3. 13. 2 Chro. 28. 15.

4 And the Lord said unto him, [f] This is the land which I sware unto Abraham, unto Isaac, and unto Jacob, saying, I will give it unto thy seed: [g] I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes, but thou shalt not go over thither.

[f] Gen. 12. 7. and 13. 15. and 15. 18. and 26. 3. and 28. 13.
[g] Chap. 32 52.

5 ¶ So

V. 24. Let Asher be blessed with children—He shall have numerous and healthful children. Let him be acceptable to his brethren—By his sweet disposition and winning carriage he shall gain their affections. Let him dip his foot in oil—In the fatness and fertility of his country.

V. 25. Thy shoes shall be iron and brass—This may note their great strength. As thy days, so shall thy strength be—Thy strength shall not be diminished with thine age, but thou shalt have the vigour of youth even in thy old age: Thy tribe shall grow stronger and stronger. All the blessings of Israel of old are spiritually the inheritance of the Israel of God, the worshippers of God in spirit and in truth, in every age and country. And that blessing—As thy days so shall thy strength be, is never to be forgotten by them that live to him, who will give grace to help in the moment it is required, and who so careth for all that believe in him, that every one may cast their care upon him, in all that he calls them to do, or to suffer.

V. 26. There is none like unto the God of Jesurun, who rideth upon the heaven—Upon the clouds, to succour thee from thence by sending thunder and lightning upon thine enemies. In his excellency—With great majesty as well as power.

V. 27. The eternal God is thy refuge—Thy dwelling-place, into which all may retire for protection and defence against all that can hurt them. Underneath—Though he dwelleth on high, yet he comes down to the earth to assist and deliver thee. He shall say, Destroy them—Shall give thee not only command and commission, but also power to destroy them, for God's saying is doing, his word comes with power.

V. 28. Israel then shall dwell in safety alone—Though they be alone, and have no confederates to defend them, but have all the world against them, yet my single protection shall be sufficient for them: Or, distinct and separated from all other nations, with whom I will not have them to mingle themselves. The posterity of Jacob, which flowed from him as waters from a fountain. They who now only hear of the land of promise shall shortly see it, which I am not suffered to do, and shall enjoy it. His heavens shall drop down dew—Those heavens, or that air which hangs over his land.

V. 29. The Lord is thy excellency—The giver and preserver of all that excellency, that glory, safety, and happiness, which thou hast above all other people, which thou dost not obtain either by or for thy own wisdom, strength, or goodness.

CHAP. XXXIV.

V. 1. And Moses went up—In compliance with God's will, that he should then and there resign up his soul to God. And thus did he shew that he was willing to die at the command of God; the grace of his Redeemer had subdued his will, and, in him, had subjected all things to himself. The Lord shewed him all the land of Gilead unto Dan—To that city which after his death was called Dan; but it seems probable that this chapter was not written by Moses, but by some other man of God, directed by the holy Ghost; this being no more an impeachment to the divine authority of this chapter, that the penman is unknown, which also is the lot of some other books of Scripture, than it is to the authority of the acts of the king or parliament, that they are written or printed by some unknown person.

V. 2. And all Naphtali—The land of Naphtali. And all the land of Judah, unto the utmost sea—The midland sea, which was the utmost bound of the land of promise on the west.

V. 3. The south—The south quarter of the land of Judah, which is towards the salt sea. The valley of Jericho—In which lies Jericho; which was in the tribe of Benjamin. The city of palm-trees—Jericho, so called both here and from the multitude of palm-trees which were in those parts, as Josephus and Strabo write. From whence, and the palm there growing, it was called Jericho, which signifies, odoriferous or sweet-smelling.

V. 4. I have caused thee to see it with thine eyes—By a miraculous power strengthening thy sight, or making a clear representation of all these parts to thy view; that thy dying testimony may be reported to all men, to the end that they may be led to look for that powerful influence of my grace, by which they shall have the heavenly Canaan to come, realized to their view; that they may, under all the trials of mortal life, encourage and comfort themselves by the sure prospects which my promises set before them, and which by faith they see; and which their delight in possessing shall for ever be increased, by the sufferings through which they shall pass in their way to glory.

V. 5. So Moses, the servant of the Lord, died there in the land of Moab—In the land which Israel took from the Amorites, which anciently was the land of Moab.

V. 6. And

Before Christ. 1451.

5 ¶ [h] So Moſes the ſervant of the Lord died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the Lord.

6 ¶ And he buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, over againſt Beth-peor: but [i] no man knoweth of his ſepulchre unto this day.

7 ¶ [k] And Moſes was an hundred and twenty years old when he died: [l] his eye was not dim, nor his † natural force ‡ abated.

8 ¶ And the children of Iſrael wept for Moſes in the plains of Moab [m] thirty days: ſo the days of weeping and mourning for Moſes were ended.

9 ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun was full of the ſpirit of wiſdom; for [n] Moſes had laid his hands upon him: and the children of Iſrael hearkened unto him, and did as the Lord commanded Moſes.

10 ¶ And there aroſe not a prophet ſince in Iſrael like unto Moſes, [o] whom the Lord knew face to face:

11 In all [p] the ſigns and the wonders which the Lord ſent him to do in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his ſervants, and to all his land.

12 And in all that mighty hand, and in all the great terror which Moſes ſhewed in the ſight of all Iſrael.

h Chap. 32. 50.

i See Jude 9.

1451.

k Chap. 31. 2.

l See Joſh. 14. 10, 11.

† Heb. moiſture.

‡ Heb. ſtood.

m See Gen. 50. 3. 10. Num. 20. 29.

Before Christ. 1451.

n Numb. 27. 18, 23.

o Exod. 33. 11. Numb. 12. 6, 8. Chap. 5. 4.

p Chap. 4. 34. and 7. 19.

V. 6. And he—The Lord, buried him either immediately or by the miniſtry of Angels, whereof Michael was the chief or prince, (Jude verſe 9.) But no man knoweth of his ſepulchre—Of the particular place of the valley where he was buried: which God hid from the Iſraelites, to prevent their ſuperſtition and idolatry, to which he knew their great proneneſs. And for this very reaſon the devil endeavoured to have it known, and contended with Michael about it, (Jude verſe 9.) And ſeeing God would not endure the worſhip of the relicks or tomb of ſo eminent a perſon as Moſes was, will God permit this honour to be given to any of the ſucceeding ſaints, who were ſo far inferior to him?

V. 7. His eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated—By a miraculous work of God, in mercy to his Church and people; to ſhew them that no years ſhall ever diminiſh their ſtrength, who, as Moſes, derive all their powers from that fulneſs which will never be emptied by communicating all the grace his creatures need; and that thoſe that behold God by faith in their lives, ſhall, when their natural life expires, have eyes of faith, without one diming veil to darken their views of the infinite compaſſion, and to penetrate far beyond all former views, into the promiſed, glorious inheritance, which God and the Lamb are about to beſtow for ever on all that are faithful unto death.

V. 8. The children of Iſrael wept for Moſes—And how did his death demand their real grief, who had made known to them ſo many mercies of God, and offered his very life to ſave them from the wrath which their conduct had provoked to deſtroy them; and which would have deſtroyed them, had he not ſtood in the gap between offended juſtice and guilty Iſrael, the great reſemblance of Him who ſo loved the children of men as to die in their ſtead: And was all aſcribed to Moſes that was ever ſaid of all the beſt and greateſt kings, governors, and miniſters of God that have been made a bleſſing to mankind? Does not the word of God give a far higher character, only by ſaying Moſes was like unto him?—unto him as man, whoſe mind was the mind of God, and to the ſpiritual communications of which this meekeſt man had ſo ſtedfaſtly, patiently, and humbly yielded an heartfelt ſubmiſſion, till the ſpirit of truth could ſay, The ſervant was like his Lord.

V. 9. And Joſhua the ſon of Nun was full of the ſpirit of wiſdom—And other gifts and graces, but wiſdom is mentioned as being moſt neceſſary for the government to which he was now called. For Moſes had laid his hands upon him—Which God had appointed as a ſign to Moſes and Joſhua, and the Iſraelites, that this was the perſon whom he had appointed and qualified for his great work.

V. 10. There aroſe not a prophet ſince in Iſrael like unto Moſes—In the privileges here following. Whom the Lord knew face to face—Whom God did ſo freely, familiarly, and frequently converſe with.

V. 11. In all the ſigns—This is to be joined either with the words immediately foregoing, as an eminent inſtance wherein God did know or acknowledge, and own and converſe ſo familiarly with Moſes, namely in the working of all his ſigns and wonders in Egypt, where God ſpake to him ſo often, and ſometimes even in Pharaoh's preſence, and anſwered his requeſts ſo particularly and punctually, whether he called for vengeance or for deliverance; or, with the more remote words, there was none like unto Moſes in regard of all the ſigns, &c. the words, whom the Lord knew face to face, coming in by way of parentheſis.

V. 12. In all that mighty hand, which Moſes ſhewed in the ſight of all Iſrael—That though this people publiſhed the hiſtory of their impiety, their wickedneſs, and all that is diſgraceful to men, they ſhould have ſuch a remembrance of the evident manner in which the Almighty revealed his will to Moſes, that the people of Iſrael, in every age, receiving the information from their fathers, ſhould be conſtrained to hold up the writings of Moſes, as the word of God to all mankind. And when will the time come when they ſhall begin to teach their children to compare the words, the life, the ſufferings, the death of JESUS, and the writings of his apoſtles, with the writings of Moſes and the prophets, to the intent that they may ſee and be bleſſed with knowing that there is but one Lord, one faith, one baptiſm, one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and one Lord, Jeſus Chriſt, by whom and for whom all things are made; and that as the law was given by Moſes, ſo is grace and truth only by Jeſus Chriſt, that by faith in him, and by one Spirit, we may all be baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles. (1 Cor. xii. 13. John i. 3, 17. Eph. ii. 13. iv. 5. 2 Cor. v 21. Gal. iii. 13. iv. 4. Phil. ii. 5, 6, 7. Col. i. 16, 20. Tit. iii. 6, 7. Heb. i. 2. v. 9. vii 22. x. 10—13.)

AND now looking back on the life of Moſes, from the time he refuſed to be called—to be looked upon as the ſon of the daughter of the king of Egypt, we may aſk ourſelves whether there appears to be any thing ſhort of the hopes of future, endleſs glory with God his Redeemer, to induce this great, this wiſe man to bear up under all the difficulties he met with, even after he knew he ſhould never enter that country which he was appointed to lead the people of Iſrael to. Why did he not comply with the repeated wiſhes of the people, and lead them back to Egypt, where the knowledge of his character, and his reſtoring a much greater number of ſubjects than the government of that country had with ſuch reluctance parted with, afforded him ſo fair a proſpect of having all that one of the firſt governments in the world could beſtow on any man? What had he to outweigh theſe conſiderations? The Almighty, who is head of his church in all ages, was the king over his people Iſrael, and Moſes knew how much much againſt the Divine will it would be, that the Jews ſhould ever have any other king but GOD. Moſes had therefore no expectations of any of his own deſcendants ſucceeding him in his government, and being honoured by all the people of Iſrael in his place; but any ſuch motive as human regard is evidently contrary to the plaineſt diſcoveries of his principles of acting: He tells the whole nation how unworthily they had acted on ſo many occaſions, as to make it juſt for him to ſay, They had done evil ever ſince he knew them, and yet he was not without affection enough to pray moſt earneſtly for mercy on ſuch as had conſpired to leſſen his authority, and ſo much good-will as to offer his life if the people might be ſpared. The Scriptures do not leave us at a loſs what concluſion we ought to draw from the conduct of this great prophet's life—He endured all the difficulties of his ſtation, without the inducements of human regard, or gain, or praiſe—He endured as ſeeing HIM that is invisible (Heb. xi. 27.) to natural ſight, but who then as now was ſeen by faith, and known by the gracious influence of his new-creating Spirit of power, wiſdom, love, joy, and heavenly peace; and for the endleſs poſſeſſion of this, with HIM from whom it proceeds for ever, Moſes lived, patiently endured, and without a murmur died.

JOSHUA.

IT is not material to know who was the pen-man of this Book, whether JOSHUA, as ſeems moſt probable from Chap. xxiv. 26. or ſome other holy Prophet. It is ſufficient, that this Book was a part of the Holy Scriptures or Oracles of God, committed to, and carefully kept by the Jews, and by them faithfully delivered to us; as appears by the concurring teſtimony of Chriſt and his Apoſtles, who owned and approved of the ſame Holy Scriptures which the Church of the Jews did. But this is certain, that ſeveral paſſages in this Book were put into it after JOSHUA's death. This Book contains twenty-four Chapters.

CHAP. I. The Lord appointeth Joſhua to ſucceed Moſes. The borders of the promiſed land. God promiſeth to aſſiſt Joſhua. He giveth him inſtructions. He prepareth the people to paſs over Jordan. Joſhua putteth the two tribes and half in mind of their promiſe to Moſes. They promiſe him fealty.—CHAP. II. Rahab receiveth and concealeth the two ſpies ſent from Shittim. The covenant between her and them. Their return and relation.—CHAP. III. Joſhua cometh to Jordan. The officers inſtruct the people for the paſſage. The Lord encourageth Joſhua. Joſhua encourageth the people. The waters of Jordan are divided.—CHAP. IV. Twelve men are appointed to take twelve ſtones for a memorial out of Jordan. Twelve other ſtones are ſet up in the midſt of Jordan. The people paſs over. God magnifieth Joſhua. The twelve ſtones are pitched in Gilgal.—CHAP. V. The Canaanites are afraid. Joſhua reneweth circumciſion. The paſſover is kept at Gilgal. Manna ceaſeth. An angel appeareth to Joſhua.—CHAP. VI. Jericho is ſhut up. God inſtructeth Joſhua how to beſiege it. The city is compaſſed. It muſt be accurſed. The walls fall down. Rahab is ſaved. The builder of Jericho is curſed.—CHAP. VII. The Iſraelites are ſmitten at Ai. Joſhua's complaint. God inſtructeth him what to do. Achan is taken by the lot. His confeſſion. He and all that he had are deſtroyed in the valley of Achor. CHAP. VIII. God encourageth Joſhua. The ſtratagem whereby Ai was taken. The king thereof is hanged. Joſhua buildeth an altar, writeth the law on ſtones, propoundeth bleſſings and curſings.—CHAP. IX. The kings combine againſt Iſrael. The Gibeonites, by craft, obtain a league, for which they are condemned to perpetual bondage.—CHAP. X. Five kings war againſt Gibeon. Joſhua reſcueth it. God fighteth againſt them with hailſtones. The ſun and moon ſtand ſtill at the word of Joſhua. The five kings are murdered in a cave. They are brought forth, ſcornfully uſed, and hanged. Seven kings more are conquered. Joſhua returneth to Gilgal.—CHAP. XI. Divers kings overcome at the waters of Merom. Hazor is taken and burnt. All the country taken by Joſhua. The Anakims cut off.—CHAP. XII. The two kings whoſe countries Moſes took and diſpoſed of. The one and thirty kings on the other ſide Jordan, which Joſhua ſmote.—CHAP. XIII. The bounds of the land not yet conquered. The inheritance of the two tribes and half. The Lord and his ſacrifices are the inheritance of Levi. The bounds of the inheritance of Reuben. Balaam ſlain. The bounds of the inheritance of Gad, and of the half-tribe of Manaſſeh.—CHAP. XIV. The nine tribes and an half are to have their inheritance by lot. Caleb by privilege obtaineth Hebron.—CHAP. XV. The borders of the lot of Judah. Caleb's portion and conqueſt. Othniel, for his valour, hath Achſah, Caleb's daughter, to wife. She obtaineth a bleſſing of her father. The cities of Judah. The Jebuſites not conquered.—CHAP. XVI. The general borders of the ſons of Joſeph. The border of the inheritance of Ephraim. The Canaanites not conquered.—CHAP. XVII. The lot of Manaſſeh. His coaſt. The Canaanites not driven out. The children of Joſeph obtain another lot.—CHAP. XVIII. The tabernacle is ſet up at Shiloh. The remainder of the land is deſcribed, and divided into ſeven parts. Joſhua divideth it by lot. The lot and border of Benjamin. Their cities.—CHAP. XIX. The lot of Simeon, of Zebulun, of Iſſachar, of Aſher, of Naphtali, of Dan. The children of Iſrael give an inheritance to Joſhua.—CHAP. XX. God commandeth, and the children of Iſrael appoint the ſix cities of refuge.—CHAP. XXI. Eight and forty cities given by lot out of the other tribes unto the Levites. God gave the land and reſt to the Iſraelites, according to his promiſe.—CHAP. XXII. The two tribes and half with a bleſſing are ſent home. They build the altar of teſtimony, in their journey. The Iſraelites are offended thereat. They give them good ſatisfaction.—CHAP. XXIII. Joſhua's exhortation before his death, by former benefits, by promiſes, and by threatenings.—CHAP. XXIV. Joſhua aſſembleth the tribes at Sechem. A brief hiſtory of God's benefits from Terah. He reneweth a covenant between them and God. A ſtone, the witneſs of the covenant. Joſhua's age, death, and burial. Joſeph's bones are buried. Eleazar dieth.

CHAP.

Before Christ 1451.

CHAP. I.

NOW after the death of Moſes the ſervant of the Lord, it came to paſs, that the Lord ſpake unto Joſhua the ſon of Nun, Moſes a Deut. 1. 38. [a] miniſter, ſaying, b Deut. 34. 5. 2 [b] Moſes my ſervant is dead; now therefore ariſe, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give to them, even to the children of Iſrael.

c Deut. 11. 24. Chap. 14. 9. 3 [c] Every place that the ſole of your foot ſhall tread upon, that have I given unto you, as I ſaid unto Moſes.

d Exod. 23. 31. Num. 34. 3. 4 [d] From the wilderneſs and this Lebanon, even unto the great river the river Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and unto the great ſea, toward the going down of the ſun, ſhall be your coaſt.

Before Christ 1451.

5 There ſhall not any man be able to ſtand before thee all the days of thy life: [e] as I was with Moſes, ſo I will be with thee: [f] I will not fail thee, nor forſake thee.

e Exod. 3. 12.
f Deut. 31. 6, 8. Heb. 13. 5.

6 [g] Be ſtrong and of a good courage: for * unto this people ſhalt thou divide for an inheritance the land which I ſware unto their fathers to give them.

g Deut. 31. 23.
* Or, thou ſhalt cauſe this people to inherit the land, &c.

7 Only be thou ſtrong and very courageous, that thou mayeſt obſerve to do according to all the law, [h] which Moſes my ſervant commanded

h Deut. 31. 7.

CHAP. I.

V. 1. Now after the death of Moſes—Joſhua was appointed and declared his ſucceſſor in the government before this time; and, doubtleſs, entered upon the government immediately after his death; and here he receives the confirmation from God. The ſervant of the Lord—This title is given to Moſes here, and is often repeated not without cauſe, partly to reflect honour upon him, partly to give authority to his laws and writings, in publiſhing whereof he only acted as God's ſervant in his name and ſtead; and partly that the Iſraelites might not think of Moſes above what they ought, remembering that he was not the Lord himſelf, but only the Lord's ſervant; and therefore not to be worſhipped, nor yet to be followed in all his inſtitutions, when the Lord himſelf ſhould come and aboliſh part of the Moſaical diſpenſation; it being but reaſonable that he, who was only a ſervant in God's houſe, ſhould give place to him who was the Son, Heir, and Lord of it, as Chriſt was. (Heb. iii. 3.) It came to paſs, that the Lord ſpake unto Joſhua the ſon of Nun, Moſes miniſter—Who had waited upon Moſes in his great employments, and being intimately acquainted with his government, was fitted and prepared for it.

V. 2. Moſes my ſervant is dead—How much is contained in this ſhort character: God himſelf calls Moſes his ſervant; and in being ſo he was the ſervant of juſtice, truth, and love; and he who does not give men's characters from their outward appearance, or the figure their conduct may make in the ſight of men, but looking at the heart, God calls the man his ſervant who in heart yields to the influence of his grace, and in ſpirit and in truth obeys him. Ariſe, go over this Jordan—This, which is now near thee, which is the only obſtacle in thy way to Canaan. It was at God's command that the people of Iſrael ſet forward from Egypt; it was at his command they paſſed the Red Sea, and it is now at his command that they are to go into Canaan, where they were to live under the government of God himſelf, and be his people; and it is now by the ſame word applied by his grace that the ſoul ſets out to ſeek that heavenly inheritance in the knowledge and love of God, which is eternal life. It is God that juſtifieth from all things, as he ſaved the people from the rage of the king of Egypt; and it is God that makes known his love to men by ſetting up that kingdom in their hearts, which we are taught to pray for, when we ſay, "Thy kingdom come"—thy kingdom of love, and joy, and peace, and power, live and reign within us, till we ſhall reign with thee in that glory which is the purchaſe and the gift of God, for the Redeemer's ſake, and that as freely, entirely, and as unmerited, as Canaan was the free gift of God to the people of Iſrael. What was required of them that they might inherit the promiſed land, is that which is now required that men may obtain mercy and grace. The commands of God, his promiſes, his miracles, and his mercies, were all addreſſed to the people's faith; they were required to believe his word, and go forward to poſſeſs the promiſed inheritance; but thouſands entered not into it becauſe of unbelief. (Heb. iii. 19.) On what then does the mercy and grace of God now depend? On faith in his love through the only Mediator.—By faith, ſelf-condemned guilty ſinners againſt God and men, and againſt their own ſouls are juſtified, as by faith Iſrael paſſed through the Red Sea; and by faith ſouls enter into that reſt that remaineth for the people of God, in loving him as their Parent, Redeemer, and Preſerver, with all their power, as by faith it was that the people of Iſrael were now to paſs over Jordan into Canaan, in obedience to this word to Joſhua—Go over thou, and all this people, unto the land which I do give them,—now the poſſeſſion of as before I gave it by promiſe, That all men, to the end of the world, may learn to truſt in my ſure word, by which I declare to them it is my good pleaſure to give them the kingdom of grace here, and the kingdom of glory hereafter. (Luke xii. 32. 1 Pet. v. 10.)

V. 3. Every place—Within the following bounds. That have I given unto you—It was and is mine, and I give it unto you, that there you may dwell and ſerve the Lord your Redeemer without fear of any evil under his protection, and holding faſt your confidence in his love, ſtedfaſt unto the end of your lives, your God will give you alſo that glorious inheritance in hearing, which he hath promiſed to all them that believe in him, through the Son of his love to the end of the world.

V. 4. From the wilderneſs, and this Lebanon—This being the moſt eminent mountain in Syria, and the Northern border of the land. All the land of the Hittites—Of the Canaanites, who elſewhere are all called Amorites, and here Hittites, the Hittites being the moſt conſiderable people. Unto the great ſea—The midland ſea, great in itſelf, and eſpecially with thoſe leſſer collections of waters, which the Jews called Seas. Shall be your coaſt—All thoſe lands were tributary to them in David's and Solomon's time.

V. 5. As I was with Moſes—To aſſiſt him againſt all his enemies, and in all the difficulties of governing this people, which Joſhua might juſtly fear, no leſs than the Canaanites. I will not fail thee, nor forſake thee—I will not leave thee deſtitute neither of inward ſupport, or of outward aſſiſtance. And as I ſupported Moſes with ſtrength of mind, and defended him by the interpoſition of my power, ſo will I be with thee as the circumſtances through which thou haſt to paſs, in obedience to my will, ſhall require. And in this manner this gracious promiſe belongs to all that worſhip God in Chriſt Jeſus. He being no reſpecter of perſons, but accepting them in every nation that turn unto him by true repentance and faith in his name.

V. 6. Be ſtrong, and of a good courage—Joſhua, though a perſon of great courage and reſolution, ſtands in need of theſe exhortations, becauſe his work was great, and difficult, and long, manded thee: [i] turn not from it to the right hand or to the left, that thou mayest † prosper whithersoever thou goest.

Before Christ 1451.

i Deut. 5. 32. and 28. 14.
† Or, do wisely.

8 [k] This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth, but [l] thou shalt meditate therein day and night, that thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein: for then thou shalt make thy way prosperous, and then thou shalt ‡ have good success.

k Deut. 17. 18, 19.
l Psal. 1. 2.
‡ Or, do wisely.

9 [m] Have not I commanded thee? Be strong and of a good courage, be not afraid, neither be thou dismayed: for the Lord thy God is with thee whithersoever thou goest.

m Deut. 31. 7, 8.

10 ¶ Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people, saying,

11 Pass through the host, and command the people, saying, Prepare you victuals; for [n] within three days ye shall pass over this Jordan, to go in to possess the land which the Lord your God giveth you to possess it.

n Chap. 3. 2.

12 ¶ And to the Reubenites, and to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh, spake Joshua, saying,

13 Remember [o] the word which Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, saying, The Lord your God hath given you rest, and hath given you this land:

o Num. 32. 20, 28.
Chap. 22. 4.

14 Your wives, your little ones, and your cattle shall remain in the land which Moses gave you on this side Jordan; but ye shall pass before your brethren § armed, all the mighty men of valour, and help them:

Before Christ 1451.

§ Heb. marshalled by five: as Exod. 13. 18.

15 Until the Lord have given your brethren rest, as he hath given you, and they also have possessed the land which the Lord your God giveth them: [p] then ye shall return unto the land of your possession, and enjoy it, which Moses the Lord's servant gave you on this side Jordan toward the sun-rising.

p Chap. 22. 4, &c.

16 ¶ And they answered Joshua, saying, All that thou commandest us, we will do, and whithersoever thou sendest us, we will go.

17 According as we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee: only the Lord thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses.

18 Whosoever he be that doth rebel against thy commandment, and will not hearken unto thy words, in all that thou commandest him, he shall be put to death: only be strong and of a good courage.

CHAP. II.

AND Joshua the son of Nun * sent out of Shittim two men, to spy secretly, saying, a * Or, had sent.

a Num. 25. 1.

and in a great measure new; and he had a very mean opinion of himself, compared with Moses.

V. 7. Do according to all the law—Remember, that though thou art the commander of my people, yet thou art my subject, and obliged to observe all my commands. Turn not from it to the right hand or to the left—(i. e.) In any kind, or upon any pretence. That thou mayest prosper—God's assistance promised to him and to the Israelites, was conditional, and might justly be withdrawn upon their breach of the conditions. Whereby he instructs him in the true art of Government; and that his greatest wisdom will lie in the observation of all God's commands, and not in pretended reasons of state. Whithersoever thou goest—Men's actions are often compared to ways, or journies, or steps, by which they come to the end they aim at.

V. 8. This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth—(i. e.) Thou shalt constantly read it, and upon occasion discourse of it, and the sentence which shall come out of thy mouth, shall in all things be given according to this rule. Thou shalt meditate therein day and night—Diligently study, and frequently, and upon all occasions, consider what is God's will and duty. The greatness of thy place and employments shall not hinder thee from this work, because this is the only rule of all thy private actions, and public administrations. That thou mayest observe to do according to all that is written therein—Whereby he teacheth him, that it is his duty to see with his own eyes, and to understand the mind and law of God himself, and not blindly to follow what any other should advise him to. And, as every person's own conduct is of the last moment to themselves, it is material to them that they should be so well acquainted with the laws by which every action is to be tried, as neither to be hindered in the course of their duty, or diverted from it by any advice or persuasions, which are not warranted by the word of God.

V. 9. Have not I commanded thee—I, whom thou art obliged to obey: I, who can carry thee through every thing I put thee upon: I, of whose faithfulness thou hast already seen and heard, and known so much.

V. 11. Within three days ye shall pass over this Jordan—These words, though placed here, seem not to have been delivered by Joshua, till after the return of the spies.

V. 13. Remember the words which Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you—His charge to you, and your promise to him, which they were obliged to keep; and Joshua was to see that they did so. The Lord your God hath given you rest—A place of rest, as that word signifies.

V. 14. Ye shall pass before your brethren armed—For, by this time, they were well furnished with arms: And they that pass on before their brethren in the way to the heavenly Canaan, must put on the whole armour of God. (Eph. vi. 11.)

V. 16. Whithersoever thou sendest us, we will go—This is their language to their Lord, who, in spirit and in truth, do his will on earth as it is done in heaven.

V. 17. As we hearkened unto Moses in all things, so will we hearken unto thee—The same obedience which we owed, and those of us who are now alive, performed to Moses, we promise unto thee. Only the Lord thy God be with thee, as he was with Moses—This is not a limitation of their obedience, as if they would not obey him any further, or longer, than he was prosperous or successful; but an additional prayer for him, As we have hereby promised thee our obedience, so our prayer shall be, that God would bless and prosper thee, as he did Moses.

V. 18. Whosoever will not hearken unto thy words in all that thou commandest him—Not repugnent to God's command.

CHAP. II.

V. 1. Joshua the son of Nun sent—Had sent. Two men—Not twelve, saying, Go view the land, even Jericho: and they went, and [b] came into an harlot's house, named [c] Rahab, and † lodged there.

Before Christ 1451.

b Heb. 11. 31. James 2. 25. c Matt. 1. 5.
† Heb. lay.

2 And it was told the king of Jericho, saying, Behold, there came men in hither to night of the children of Israel, to search out the country.

3 And the king of Jericho sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine house: for they be come to search out all the country.

4 And the woman took the two men, and hid them, and said thus, There came men unto me, but I wist not whence they were:

5 And it came to pass about the time of shutting of the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went, I wot not: pursue after them quickly, for ye shall overtake them.

d See 2 Sam. 17. 19.

6 But [d] she had brought them up to the roof of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof.

7 And the men pursued after them the way to Jordan, unto the fords: and as soon as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.

Before Christ 1451.

8 ¶ And before they were laid down, she came up unto them upon the roof;

9 And she said unto the men, I know that the Lord hath given you the land, and that [e] your terror is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land ‡ faint because of you.

e Gen. 35. 5. Exod. 23. 27.
‡ Heb. melt.

10 For we have heard how the Lord [f] dried up the water of the Red sea for you, when you came out of Egypt; and what you did unto the two kings of the Amorites that were on the other side Jordan, [g] Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly destroyed.

f Exod. 14. 21. Chap. 4. 23.
g Num. 21. 24, 34.

11 And as soon as we had heard these things, [h] our hearts did melt, neither § did there remain any more courage in any man, because of you: for [i] the Lord your God, he is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath.

h Exod. 15. 14.
§ Heb. rose up.
i Deut. 4. 39.

12 Now therefore, I pray you, swear unto me by the Lord, since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness unto [k] my father's house; and give me a true token:

k See 1 Tim. 5. 8.

13 And that ye will save alive my father, and twelve, as Moses did, partly because the people of Canaan were now more alarmed than in Moses's time. To spy—To learn the state of the land and people, and what way and method they should proceed in. It is evident enough, that Joshua did not this out of distrust, and it is most probable, he had God's command and direction in it for the encouragement of himself and his army in their present enterprize. Secretly—With reference not to his enemies, which being the constant and necessary practice of all spies, was needless to be mentioned, but to the Israelites to prevent the inconveniency which possibly might have arisen, if their report had been doubtful or discouraging. Go view the land, even Jericho—The land about Jericho, together with the city. They obeyed Joshua's command, even with the hazard of their own lives, considering that they were under the protection of divine Providence, which could easily secure them; or being willing to sacrifice their lives in their country's service. They went, and came into an harlot's house—So the Hebrew word is used, and so it is rendered by two Apostles, (Heb. xi. 31. James ii. 25.) such she either now was, or formerly had been; and such a person's house they might come to with less observation than to an hostess, as some render it, or to a public victualling-house.

V. 4. The woman took the two men, and hid them—Had hid them before the messengers came from the king; as soon as she understood that there was a suspicion, and guessed that search would be made. And this is mentioned as an act of faith, (Heb. xi. 31.) for she did apparently venture her life upon a stedfast persuasion of the truth of God's word and promise given to the Israelites. I wist not whence they were—Her answer contained in these and the following words, was palpably false, and therefore unquestionably sinful, and therefore as unnecessary. The cause of God and of his church and people, never require to be served at the expence of any man's sin: they that do evil, or commit sin, are the servants of him whom they obey; but this does not prevent infinite goodness from making all things work together for good to them that trust in his mercy; and in doing so, the Divine government does something like that which is done by human governments, who are reminded of necessary provisions for the safety of their peaceable subjects, by new offences committed by the lawless; thus turning past evil into future good, and for which evil neither the government, nor the subjects that obey the laws, can in any wise be answerable. But God, who is rich in mercy, forgave Rahab's crime, and her faith was amply rewarded.

V. 7. The men pursued after them unto the fords—The places where people used to pass over Jordan.

V. 8. And before they were laid down—To sleep, as they intended, after the departure of the searchers.

V. 9. She said unto the men—The Hebrew and the Canaan, or Phœnician languages, have a very great resemblance, and are thought to be but differing dialects of one and the same tongue.

V. 11. As soon as we had heard these things, our hearts did melt—We lost all courage. The Lord your God, he is God in heaven above, and in the earth beneath—He can do whatsoever he pleaseth in heaven and earth.

V. 12. Swear unto me by the Lord—By your God, who is the only true God; so she shews her conversion to God, and owns his worship, one eminent act whereof is swearing by his name. Shew kindness unto my father's house—My near kindred; it seems she had none. And for herself, it was needless to speak, it being a plain and undeniable duty to save their preserver. Give me a true token—Either an assurance that you will preserve me and mine from the common ruin: or, a token which I may produce as a witness of this agreement, and a mean of my security. And shall we say, that it is beyond the power and goodness of God to give unto souls that enter into covenant with himself an assurance of his favour, and of their safety both in life and in death? Surely nothing will prevent a God of love from doing this, but when it is more merciful to with-hold than to give such tokens to them that believe in him.

V. 14. The

Before Christ 1451. and my mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death.

‖ Heb. instead of you to die. 14 And the men answered her, Our life ‖ for yours, if ye utter not this our business. And it shall be when the Lord hath given us
[1] Judg. 1. 24. the land, that [1] we will deal kindly and truly with thee.

15 Then she let them down by a cord through the window: for her house was upon the town-wall, and she dwelt upon the wall.

16 And she said unto them, Get you to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you: and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way.

17 And the men said unto her, We will be blameless of this thine oath which thou hast made us swear.

18 Behold, when we come into the land, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window which thou didst let us down by: and thou shalt * bring thy father, and thy mother, and thy brethren, and all thy father's household home unto thee.

* Heb. gather.

19 And it shall be, that whosoever shall go out of the doors of thy house into the street, his blood shall be upon his head, and we will be guiltless: and whosoever shall be with thee
[m] Matt. 27. 25. in the house, [m] his blood shall be on our head, if any hand be upon him.

20 And if thou utter this our business, Before Christ 1451. then we will be quit of thine oath, which thou hast made us to swear.

21 And she said, According unto your words, so be it. And she sent them away, and they departed: and she bound the scarlet line in the window.

22 And they went, and came unto the mountain, and abode there three days, until the pursuers were returned. And the pursuers sought them throughout all the way, but found them not.

23 ¶ So the two men returned, and descended from the mountain, and passed over, and came to Joshua the son of Nun, and told him all things that befel them;

24 And they said unto Joshua, Truly the Lord hath delivered into our hands all the land; for even all the inhabitants of the country do † faint because of us.

† Heb. melt.

CHAP. III.

AND Joshua rose early in the morning, and they removed [a] from Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the children of Israel, and lodged there before they passed over.

[a] Chap. 2. 1.

2 And it came to pass [b] after three days, that the officers went through the host;

[b] Chap. 1. 10, 11.

3 And they commanded the people, saying, [c] When ye see the ark of the covenant

[c] See Num. 10. 33.

of

V. 14. The men answered her, Our life for yours—We will venture our lives for the security of yours. If ye utter not this our business—This agreement of ours, and the way and condition of it, lest others, under this pretence, secure themselves. By which they shew both their piety and prudence in managing their oath with so much circumspection and caution, that neither their own consciences might be ensnared, nor the public justice obstructed.

V. 15. Her house was upon the town-wall—Which gave her the opportunity of dismissing them when the gates were shut.

V. 16. She said unto them, Get ye to the mountain—To some of the mountains wherewith Jericho was encompassed, in which also there were many caves where they might hide themselves.

V. 17. And the men said—Had said, before she let them down. We will be blameless—Free from guilt, if the following condition be not observed.

V. 18. When we come into the land, thou shalt bind this line of scarlet thread in the window—That it may be seen by our soldiers.

V. 19. Whosoever shall go out of the doors, his blood shall be upon his head—The blame of his death shall rest wholly upon himself, as being occasioned by his own neglect or contempt of the means of safety. Whosoever shall be with thee in the house, his blood shall be upon our head—We are willing to bear the sin, and shame, and punishment of it. If any hand be upon him—So as to kill him. And in this manner does God charge himself with the safety of all that are in covenant with him: they that depart from him by distrust—unbelief leading to all wickedness, their blood will be upon their own head; they that remain with him in a faithful regard to the terms of his covenant, was the world in flames, the destroying fire would not have power to hurt them.

V. 21. She bound the scarlet line in the window—Forthwith, that the spies might see it hung out before their departure, and so the better know it at some distance; and lest some accident might occasion a mistake or neglect about it; and for her own comfort, it being pleasant and encouraging to her to have in her eye the pledge of her deliverance. And they that have fled for refuge to the hope set before them, know how much their happiness depends on living from one moment to another by faith in him, in whom they have believed.

V. 22. The pursuers sought them, but found them not—And were secured by him for whose people they had gone on the public service, at the hazard of their lives.

V. 23. The two men returned, and passed over—Jordan unto Joshua. And came to Joshua the son of Nun, and told him—Alone, not the people.

CHAP. III.

V. 1. Joshua rose early in the morning—Not after the return of the spies, as may seem at first view; but after the three days. They came to Jordan, he, and all the children of Israel, and lodged there—That night, that they might go over in the day time, that the miracle might be more evident and unquestionable; and to strike the greater terror into their enemies.

V. 2. The officers went through the host—The second time, to give them more particular directions, as they had given them a general notice before.

V. 3. They commanded the people—In Joshua's name, and by his authority. When ye see the ark of the covenant of the Lord your God, go after it—Towards Jordan, to go over it.

V. 4. There

Before Christ 1451.

of the Lord your God, [d] and the priests the Levites bearing it, then ye shall remove from your place, and go after it.

d Deut. 31. 25.

4 Yet there shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits by measure: come not near unto it, that ye may know the way by which ye must go: for ye have not passed this way * heretofore.

* Heb. since yesterday and the third day.

5 And Joshua said unto the people, [e] Sanctify yourselves: for to morrow the Lord will do wonders among you.

e Exod. 19. 10, 14, 15. Lev. 20. 7. Num. 11. 18. Chap. 7. 13. 1 Sam. 16. 5. Joel 2. 16.

6 And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, [f] Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people. And they took up the ark of the covenant, and went before the people.

f Num. 4. 15.

7 ¶ And the Lord said unto Joshua, This day will I begin to magnify thee in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that [g] as I was with Moses, so I will be with thee.

g Chap. 1. 5.

8 And thou shalt command the priests that bear the ark of the covenant, saying, When ye are come to the brink of the water of Jordan, ye shall stand still in Jordan.

9 ¶ And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, Come hither, and hear the words of the Lord your God.

10 And Joshua said, Hereby ye shall know that the living God is among you, and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Hivites, and the Perizzites, and the Girgashites, and the Amorites, and the Jebusites.

Before Christ 1451.

11 Behold, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth, passeth over before you into Jordan.

h Verse 13. Mic. 4. 13. Zech. 4. 14. and 6. 5.

12 Now therefore take ye twelve men out of the tribes of Israel, out of every tribe a man.

13 And it shall come to pass, as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the Lord, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, that the waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above: and they [i] shall stand upon an heap.

i Psal. 114. 3.

14 ¶ And it came to pass when the people removed from their tents, to pass over Jordan, and the priests bearing the [k] ark of the covenant before the people;

k Acts 7. 45.

15 And as they that bare the ark were come unto Jordan, and the feet of the priests that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the

V. 4. There shall be a space between you and it, about two thousand cubits—Which make a thousand yards. That ye may know the way by which ye must go—That the ark marching so far before you into the river, and standing still there till you pass over, may give you the greater assurance of your safe passage.

V. 5. Joshua said unto the people, sanctify yourselves—Both in soul and body, that you may be meet to receive such a favour, and, with more attention and reverence, observe and ponder this great work, and fix it in your hearts and memories. And how many discoveries of the Divine power and goodness may pass by unobserved by many, for want of that purity of heart which sees God in his glorious works and ways? How many and great are the motives why all should cry with the king of Israel—Create in me a clean heart, O God? (Psal. li. 10.)

V. 6. Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, Take up the ark, and pass over before the people—That you who are made first in station may be foremost in danger, and by your stedfast reliance on him whom ye serve, the people may learn to stay themselves upon your God and their God, and trust themselves to his Almighty care, in the midst of the waters of Jordan, with all that are dear to them, and experiencing his faithfulness in preserving them, it may for ever after be known to them, and to all men, that when God shall call them, that trust in his mercy, to pass through the dark valley of the shadow of death, that Redeemer, that gave himself to ransom them from the power of sin, satan, and death, both can and will safely keep that which is committed to his care. Who can say, That they are not now as near the borders of the world to come, as Israel was at this time to Jordan? Do I so know in whom I have believed, as to be enabled to say, with an heart-felt confidence, Lord Jesus receive my spirit? (Acts vii. 59.)

V. 7. This day will I begin to magnify thee in the sight of all Israel—To gain thee authority and reputation among them, as the person whom I have set in Moses's stead, and by whom I will conduct them to the possession of the promised land.

V. 8. When ye are come to the brink of the water of Jordan—To the extremity; so far as the river then spread itself, which was now more than ordinary, verse 15. Ye shall stand still in Jordan—Within the waters of Jordan, in the first entrance into the river; where they stood for a season, till the river was divided, and then they went into the midst of it, as it is implied, verse 17. and there abode till all the people were passed over, as it follows.

V. 9. Joshua said unto the children of Israel, Come hither—To the ark or tabernacle, the place of the public assemblies. Hear the words of the Lord your God—Who is now about to give a proof that he is both the Lord, the Omnipotent Governor of heaven and earth, and all creatures; and your God, in covenant with you, having a tender care and true affection for you.

V. 10. Hereby ye shall know—By experience and sensible evidence. That the living God—Not a senseless and inactive God, such as the gods of the nations are; but a God of life, and power, and activity watcheth over you, and worketh for you. Is among you—Is present with you, to strengthen and help you.

V. 11. Behold, the ark passeth over before you into Jordan—Into the river.

V. 12. Now therefore take ye twelve men—For the work described, Josh. iv. 2, 3.

V. 13. It shall come to pass as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests that bear the ark of the Lord—That so it may appear that this is the Lord's doing, and that in pursuance, and for the accomplishment of his covenant made with Israel. The Lord of all the earth—The Lord of all this terrestrial globe made of earth and water, who therefore can dispose of this river and the adjoining land as he pleaseth. The waters of Jordan shall be cut off from the waters that come down from above—The waters which now are united shall be divided, and part shall flow down the channel towards the dead sea, and the other part that is nearer the spring of the river, and flows down from it, shall stand still. They shall

Before Christ 1451. the water (for [l] Jordan overfloweth all his banks [m] all the time of harvest.)

l 1 Chron. 12. 15. Jer. 12. 5. and 49. 19. m Chap. 4. 19. and 5. 10, 12.

16 That the waters which came down from above, stood and rose up upon an heap very far from the city Adam, that is beside [n] Zaretan: and those that came down [o] toward the sea of the plain, even [p] the salt-sea failed, and were cut off: and the people passed over right against Jericho.

n 1 Kings 4. 12. and 7. 46. o Deut. 3. 17. p Num. 34. 3.

17 And the priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, stood firm on dry ground in the midst of Jordan, and all the Israelites passed over on dry ground, until all the people were passed clean over Jordan.

CHAP. IV.

AND it came to pass when all the people were clean passed [a] over Jordan, that the Lord spake unto [b] Joshua, saying, a Deut. 27. 2. b Chap. 3. 12.

2 Take you twelve men out of the people, out of every tribe a man,

3 And command you them, saying, Take you hence out of the midst of Jordan, out of the place where the priests feet stood firm, twelve stones, and ye shall carry them over with you, and leave them in [c] the lodging-place where you shall lodge this night.

c Ver. 19. 20.

4 Then Joshua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of every tribe a man.

5 And Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark of the Lord your God into the midst of Jordan, and take ye up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according unto the number of the tribes of the children of Israel:

Before Christ 1451.

6 That this may be a sign among you, that when your children ask their fathers * in time to come, saying, What mean you by these stones?

* Heb. to morrow.

7 Then ye shall answer them, That [d] the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the Lord, when it passed over Jordan, the waters of Jordan were cut off: and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel for ever.

d Chap. 3. 13, 16.

8 And the children of Israel did so as Joshua commanded, and took up twelve stones out of the midst of Jordan, as the Lord spake unto Joshua, according to the number of the tribes of the children of Israel, and carried them over with them unto the place where they lodged, and laid them down there.

9 And Joshua set up twelve stones in the midst of Jordan, in the place where the feet of the priests which bare the ark of the covenant stood: and they are there unto this day.

10 ¶ For the priests which bare the ark, stood in the midst of Jordan, until every thing was finished that the Lord commanded Joshua to speak unto the people, according to all that Moses commanded Joshua: and the people hasted and passed over. 11 And stood upon an heap—Being as it were congealed, as the Red Sea was, (Exod. xv. 8.) and so kept from overflowing all the country.

V. 15. The feet of the priests that bare the ark were dipped in the brim of the water—And thus, reader, must your feet and mine be one moment set upon the brim of the ocean of eternity, when no other hand but his that saved Peter from sinking, can save any soul of man from sinking, overwhelmed with shame and misery. (Matth. xiv. 28.) For Jordan overfloweth all his banks all the time of harvest—And this time God chose for this work, that the miracle might be more glorious in itself, more obliging to the Israelites, and more amazing and terrible to the Canaanites.

V. 16. The waters stood and rose up upon an heap very far from the city Adam, that is beside Zaretan—The meaning is, That the waters were stopped in their course at that place, and so kept at a due distance from the Israelites whilst they passed over. The people passed over right against Jericho—Here God carried them over, because this part was the strongest, as having in its neighbourhood an eminent city, a potent king, and a stout and warlike people, and was the most pleasant and fruitful, and therefore more convenient for the refreshment of the Israelites, and for their encouragement. How must the inhabitants of the land look and wonder! And how will they wonder that shall see the Israel of God, with Jesus at their head, pass through the elements on fire, (1 Pet. iii. 10.) unhurt, to the heavenly Canaan above; when all those that served other gods are left with the devoted people of Jericho to be destroyed.

V. 17. The priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, stood firm—In one and the same place and posture. On dry ground, in the midst of Jordan—In the middle and deepest part of the river.

CHAP. IV.

V. 2. Take you twelve men, out of every tribe a man—For the greater evidence and certainty, and the more effectual spreading of the report of this marvellous work.

V. 4. Then Joshua called the twelve men, whom he had prepared—Appointed or chosen for that work, and commanded them to be ready for it.

V. 5. Joshua said unto them, Pass over before the ark—Go back again to the place where the ark stands.

V. 6. That this may be a sign among you—A monument or memorial of this day's work.

V. 7. Then ye shall answer them, That the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark—As it were at the sight and approach of the ark, to give it and the Israelites a safe passage.

V. 9. Set up twelve stones in the midst of Jordan—Properly so called, as Joshua iii. 17. They are there unto this day—This might be written by Joshua some years after this was done; or by some other inspired penman who lived after him.

V. 10. The priests stood in the midst of Jordan, until every thing was finished that the Lord commanded Joshua to speak unto the people—To command the people to do. According to all that Moses commanded Joshua—Which he did not particularly, but in the general; because he commanded Joshua to observe and do all that God had commanded him by Moses, and all that he should command him any other way. The people hasted and passed over—Passed over with haste, which is noted as an argument of their fear, or weakness of their faith; as on the contrary, the priests are commended that they stood firm, and fixed, and settled in their minds, as well as in the posture of their bodies.

V. 11. When

Before Christ 1451.

11 And it came to pass when all the people were clean passed over, that the ark of the Lord passed over, and the priests in the presence of the people.

12 And [e] the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and half the tribe of Manasseh, passed over armed before the children of Israel, as Moses spake unto them:

13 About forty thousand † prepared for war, passed over before the Lord unto battle, to the plains of Jericho.

14 ¶ On that day the Lord [f] magnified Joshua in the sight of all Israel, and they feared him as they feared Moses, all the days of his life.

15 And the Lord spake unto Joshua, saying,

16 Command the priests that bear [g] the ark of the testimony, that they come up out of Jordan.

17 Joshua therefore commanded the priests, saying, Come ye up out of Jordan.

18 And it came to pass when the priests that bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, were come up out of the mids of Jordan, and the soles of the priests feet were ‡ lift up unto the dry land, that the waters of Jordan returned unto their place, [h] and § flowed over all his banks, as they did before.

19 ¶ And the people came up out of Jordan on the tenth day of the first month, and encamped [i] in Gilgal, in the east border of Jericho.

20 ¶ And those twelve stones which they took out of Jordan, did Joshua pitch in Gilgal.

21 And he spake unto the children of Israel, saying, When your children shall ask their fathers ‖ in time to come, saying, What mean these stones?

22 Then ye shall let your children know, saying, Israel came over this Jordan on dry land.

23 For the Lord your God dried up the waters of Jordan from before you, until ye were passed over, as the Lord your God did to the Red sea, [k] which he dried up from before us, until we were gone over:

24 That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the Lord, that it is mighty: that ye might fear the Lord your God * for ever.

CHAP. V.

AND it came to pass when all the kings of the Amorites, which were on the side of Jordan westward, and all the kings of the Canaanites, [a] which were by the sea, [b] heard that the Lord had dried up the waters of Jordan from before the children of Israel until we were passed over, that their heart melted; neither was their spirit in them any more, because of the children of Israel.

2 ¶ At that time the Lord said unto Joshua, Make thee * [c] sharp knives, and circumcise again the children of Israel the second time.

3 And Joshua made him sharp knives, and circumcised the children of Israel, at the hill of the † foreskins.

4 And this is the cause why Joshua did circumcise:

e Num. 32. 20, 27, 28.

† Or, ready armed.

f Chap. 3. 7.

g Exod. 25. 16, 22.

‡ Heb. plucked up.

h Chap. 3. 15.

§ Heb. went.

i Chap. 5. 9.

Before Christ 1451.

‖ Heb. to morrow.

k Exod. 14. 21.

* Heb. all days.

a Num. 13. 29.

b Exod. 15. 14.

* Or, knives of flints.

c Exod. 4. 25.

† Or, Gibeah-haaraloth.

V. 11. When all the people were clean passed over, the ark of the Lord passed over, and the priests in the presence of the people—The people looking on, and beholding this wonderful work of God.

V. 16. Command the priests that bear the the ark of testimony, that they come up—For being now in the middle, and lowest, and deepest place of the river, they are said to go up to the land.

V. 17. Joshua therefore commanded the priests—Who staid in the river, till God, by Joshua, called them out; that their faith might be cleared of every suspicion in the sight of all the people, who observed them patiently to wait, surrounded with danger, till he that commanded them to do their duty, told them it was discharged; as faithful Noah continued in the ark after the ground was dry, waiting for the Divine command, to go and take his family and all the living creatures with him. And thus must patience have its perfect work, which is carried on to the full establishment of faith, by tarrying humbly the Lord's leisure to relieve from sufferings, and call the sufferer to inherit the promises.

V. 18. When the priests that bare the ark were come up out of Jordan, the waters returned unto their place—Came down from their heaps, and returned to their channel, according to their usual course; but not before those that trusted in the Lord were all removed beyond the reach of the rushing flood.

V. 19. The people came out of Jordan, on the tenth day of the first month—Nisan, which wanted but five days of forty years from the time of their coming out of Egypt, which was on the fifteenth day of this month. So punctual is God in the performing of his word, whether promised or threatened.

V. 20. These twelve stones which they took out of Jordan, did Joshua pitch in Gilgal—In remembrance of this miraculous benefit to this people.

V. 23. As the Lord your God did to the Red Sea, which he dried up from before us—Myself and Caleb, and all of us here present; for this benefit, though done to their fathers, is justly said to be done to themselves, because their very being, and all their happiness, depended upon that deliverance.

V. 24. That all the people of the earth might know the hand of the Lord, that it is mighty—To save them that put their trust in him, and to destroy them that regard not his power, nor believe their necessity of being saved, or his willingness to do it.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. When all the kings of the Amorites, heard that the Lord had dried up the waters of Jordan, their heart melted—They lost all their courage, and durst attempt nothing upon the Israelites; not without God's special providence, that the Israelites might quietly participate of the two great Sacraments of their Church, Circumcision and the Passover.

V. 2. Circumcise the children of Israel the second time—For the renewing of the covenant between them and me again.

V. 6. The

Before Christ 1451. cumcise: All the people that came out of Egypt, that were males, even all the men of war died in the wilderness by the way, after they came out of Egypt.

5 Now all the people that came out, were circumcised; but all the people that were born in the wilderness by the way, as they came forth out of Egypt, them they had not circumcised.

6 For the children of Israel walked forty years in the wilderness, till all the people that were men of war which came out of Egypt were consumed, because they obeyed not the voice of the Lord: unto whom the Lord d Num. 14. 23. sware, that [d] he would not shew them the land which the Lord sware unto their fathers that he would give us, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

7 And their children, whom he raised up in their stead, them Joshua circumcised: for they were uncircumcised, because they had not circumcised them by the way.

† Heb. when the people had made an end to be circumcised.
e See Gen. 34. 25.
f Num. 14. 33. See Lev. 19. 23. Chap. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 7. and 23. 3, 8.
‡ That is, rolling.
g Chap. 4. 19.
8 And it came to pass † when they had done circumcising all the people, that they abode in their places in the camp, [e] till they were whole.

9 And the Lord said unto Joshua, This day have I rolled away [f] the reproach of Egypt from off you: wherefore the name of the place is called ‡ [g] Gilgal unto this day.

10 ¶ And the children of Israel encamped in Gilgal, and kept the passover [h] on the fourteenth day of the month at even, in the plains of Jericho. Before Christ. 1451.

h Exod. 12. 6.

11 And they did eat of the old corn of the land on the morrow after the passover, unleavened cakes, and parched corn in the self-same day.

12 ¶ And [i] the manna ceased on the morrow after they had eaten of the old corn of the land, neither had the children of Israel manna any more, but they did eat of the fruit of the land of Canaan that year. i Exod. 16. 35.

13 ¶ And it came to pass when Joshua was by Jericho, that he lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there stood [k] a man over against him, with his sword drawn in his hand: and Joshua went unto him, and said unto him, Art thou for us, or for our adversaries? k Exod. 23. 23. Zech. 1. 8.

§ Or, prince.
See Exod. 23. 20.
Dan. 10. 13, 21. & 12. 1. Rev. 12. 7. and 19. 11, 14.
14 And he said, Nay, but as § captain of the host of the Lord am I now come. And Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and did worship, and said unto him, What saith my Lord unto his servant?

15 And the captain of the Lord's host said unto Joshua, [l] Loose thy shoe from off thy foot, for the place whereon thou standest is holy: and Joshua did so. l Exod. 3. 5. Acts 7. 33.

CHAP.

V. 6. The children of Israel walked forty years in the wilderness, till all the people which came out of Egypt were consumed—The word here used for people commonly signifies the Gentiles; so he calls them, to note that they were unworthy of the name and privileges of Israelites. Unto whom the Lord sware that he would not shew them the land—Not give them so much as a sight of it, which he granted to Moses, much less the possession and enjoyment of it.

V. 7. Their children whom he raised up in their stead, them Joshua circumcised—Which God would have now done, to ratify the covenant between God and them, whereof circumcision was a sign and seal, to assure them that God would now make good his covenant, in giving them this land; and to oblige them to perform all the duties and services to which that covenant bound them, of which circumcision was the beginning and foundation, all which they were expressly enjoined to do, as soon as ever they came into Canaan; and they only that are circumcised in heart, and purified by the Holy Spirit from all filthiness of flesh and spirit, can ever have possession of the heavenly Canaan, for without holiness no man shall see the Lord. (Heb. xii. 14.)

V. 9. This day have I rolled away the reproach of Egypt—Because many of them lay under this reproach in Egypt, having neglected this duty there for worldly reasons.

V. 10. And the children of Israel encamped in Gilgal, and kept the passover—Which was their third passover: the first was in Egypt, the second at mount Sinai, and the third here.

V. 11. They did eat of the old corn—The corn of the last year, which the inhabitants of those parts had doubtless left, being fled for fear of the Israelites.

V. 12. The manna ceased—Which God now with-held, to shew that manna was not an ordinary production of nature, as, by the long and constant enjoyment of it, they might think, but an extraordinary and special gift of God to supply their necessity. Extraordinary blessings are only with-held from the church of God, when their place is supplied by the blessings which God gives in the orderly course of his providence.

V. 13. When Joshua was by Jericho—In the country adjoining to Jericho; whither he went to view the fittest place for his attempt. There stood a man—One in the appearance of man. With his sword drawn—In readiness to fight, not, as Joshua thought, against him, but for him and his people.

V. 14. He said, Nay—I am neither Israelite nor Canaanite. But as captain of the host of the Lord—The sense is, I am the chief captain of this people, and will conduct and assist thee and them in this great undertaking. This person is the son of God, who went along with the Israelites in this expedition, (1 Cor. x. 4.) as their chief and captain. And this appears by his acceptance of adoration here, which a created angel durst not admit of, because the place was made holy by his presence, verse 15. which was God's prerogative; and because he is called the Lord Jehovah, Josh. vi. 2. What saith my Lord unto his servant—I acknowledge thee for my Lord and captain, and therefore wait for thy commands, which I am ready to obey.

V. 15. Loose thy shoe from off thy foot—In token of reverence and subjection. The place whereon thou standest is holy—Consecrated by my presence; which, when it was withdrawn, it was no more holy than any other place, the reason of its holiness being removed. Grace, or the Spirit of God, is received by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ; and so far as the Lord, by his Spirit, is present in the believing mind, so far is the place of his presence made holy.

CHAP.

CHAP. VI.

Before Christ 1451.

NOW Jericho * was ſtraitly ſhut up, becauſe of the children of Iſrael: none went out, and none came in.

* Heb. did ſhut up, and was ſhut up.

2 And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, See, I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour.

3 And ye ſhall compaſs the city, all ye men of war, and go round about the city once: thus ſhalt thou do ſix days.

4 And ſeven prieſts ſhall bear before the ark ſeven [a] trumpets of rams horns: and the ſeventh day ye ſhall compaſs the city ſeven times, and the prieſts ſhall blow with the trumpets.

a See Judges 7. 16, 22.

5 And it ſhall come to paſs that when they make a long blaſt with the rams horn, and when ye hear the ſound of the trumpet, all the people ſhall ſhout with a great ſhout: and the wall of the city ſhall fall down † flat, and the people ſhall aſcend up every man ſtraight before him.

† Heb. under it.

6 ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun called the prieſts, and ſaid unto them, Take up the ark of the covenant, and let ſeven prieſts bear ſeven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the Lord.

7 And he ſaid unto the people, Paſs on, and compaſs the city, and let him that is armed paſs on before the ark of the Lord.

8 ¶ And it came to paſs when Joſhua had ſpoken unto the people, that the ſeven prieſts bearing the ſeven trumpets of rams horns, paſſed on before the Lord, and blew with the trumpets; and the ark of the covenant of the Lord followed them.

9 ¶ And the armed men went before the prieſts that blew with the trumpets, [b] and the ‡ rere-ward came after the ark, the prieſts going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

b Num. 10. 25.

Before Christ 1451.

‡ Heb. gathering hoſt.

10 And Joſhua had commanded the people, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſhout, nor § make any noiſe with your voice, neither ſhall any word proceed out of your mouth, until the day I bid you ſhout, then ſhall ye ſhout.

§ Heb. make your voice to be heard.

11 So the ark of the Lord compaſſed the city, going about it once: and they came into the camp, and lodged in the camp.

12 ¶ And Joſhua roſe early in the morning, [c] and the prieſts took up the ark of the Lord.

c Deut. 31. 25.

13 And ſeven prieſts bearing ſeven trumpets of rams horns before the ark of the Lord, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets: and the armed men went before them, but the rere-ward came after the ark of the Lord, the prieſts going on, and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the ſecond day they compaſſed the city once, and returned into the camp: ſo they did ſix days.

15 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that they roſe early about the dawning of the day, and compaſſed the city after the ſame manner, ſeven times: only on that day they compaſſed the city ſeven times.

16 And it came to paſs at the ſeventh time, when the prieſts blew with the trumpets, Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Shout, for the Lord hath given you the city.

17 ¶ And the city ſhall be ‖ accurſed, even it, and all that are therein, to the Lord: only Rahab the harlot ſhall live, ſhe and all that are with her in the houſe, becauſe [d] ſhe hid the meſſengers that we ſent.

‖ Or, devoted. Mic. 4. 13.

d Chap. 2. 4.

18 And

CHAP. VI.

V. 1. Jericho was ſtraitly ſhut up—Not only by night, but conſtantly and diligently.

V. 2. I have given into thine hand Jericho, and the king thereof, and the mighty men of valour—Who are in it, reſolved and ready to defend it with their utmoſt ſtrength.

V. 3. Ye ſhall go round about the city once—At convenient diſtance, out of the reach of their arrows. Thus ſhalt thou do ſix days—Every day once. This and the following courſe might ſeem ridiculous and abſurd, and is therefore preſcribed and uſed by God, that they might learn to take new meaſures of things, and to expect ſucceſs, not from their own valour or ſkill, or probable means, but merely from God's appointment and bleſſing; and, in general, not to judge of any of God's inſtitutions by mere carnal reaſon, to which divers of their ceremonies would ſeem no leſs fooliſh than this action, and that they might have a full demonſtration of the all-ſufficiency of that God who can do what he pleaſeth, even by the means ſo weak and ſmall, as even to be contemptible in the ſight of men.

V. 4. Seven prieſts ſhall bear before the ark ſeven trumpets of rams horns—Such trumpets wherewith they were to ſound in the years of jubilee.

V. 5. The wall of the city—A conſiderable part of it. Shall fall down flat—Without any viſible force.

V. 7. Let him that is armed paſs on before the ark of the Lord—God would have them armed, for the defence of themſelves and the ark, and for the execution of the Lord's vengeance upon that city.

V. 9. The rere-ward came after the ark—Which being oppoſed to the armed men, may ſeem to note the unarmed people, who were deſirous to be ſpectators of this wonderful work.

V. 10. Joſhua commanded the people, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſhout—Becauſe ſhouting before the time appointed would be ineffectual, and ſo might give them ſome diſcouragement, and their enemies matter of inſulting.

V. 16. Joſhua ſaid unto the people, Shout—To teſtify your faith in God's promiſe.

V. 17. The city ſhall be accurſed—Devoted to utter deſtruction, Levit. xxvii. 21, 29. Deut. xii. This he ſpake by direction from God. (1 Kings xvi. 34.)

Before Christ 1451.

18 And you, [e] in any wise keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make yourselves accursed when ye take of the accursed thing, and make the camp of Israel a curse, and [f] trouble it.

e Deut. 7. 26. and 13. 17.

f Chap. 7. 25.

19 But all the silver and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, are * consecrated unto the Lord: they shall come into the treasury of the Lord.

* Heb. holiness.

20 So the people shouted when the priests blew with the trumpets: and it came to pass when the people heard the sound of the trumpet, and the people shouted with a great shout, that [g] the wall fell down † flat, so that the people went up into the city, every man straight before him, and they took the city.

g Heb. 11. 30.

† Heb. under it.

21 And they utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old, and ox, and sheep, and ass, with the edge of the sword.

22 But Joshua had said unto the two men that had spied out the country, Go into the harlot's house, and bring out thence the woman, and all that she hath, [h] as ye sware unto her.

h Chap. 2. 12. Heb. 11. 31.

23 And the young men that were spies, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father, and her mother, and her brethren, and all that she had: and they brought out all her ‡ kindred, and left them without the camp of Israel.

Before Christ 1451.

‡ Heb. families.

24 And they burnt the city with fire, and all that was therein: only the silver and the gold, and the vessels of brass and of iron, they put into the treasury of the house of the Lord.

25 And Joshua saved Rahab the harlot alive, and her father's household, and all that she had; and she dwelleth in Israel even unto this day: because she hid the messengers which Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

26 ¶ And Joshua adjured them at that time, saying, [i] Cursed be the man before the Lord, that riseth up and buildeth this city Jericho: he shall lay the foundation thereof in his first-born, and in his youngest son shall he set up the gates of it.

i 1 Kings 16. 34.

27 So the Lord was with Joshua, and his fame was noised throughout all the country.

CHAP.

V. 18. Keep yourselves from the accursed thing, lest ye make the camp of Israel a curse—By provoking God to punish them for your sin, in which they may be one way or other involved; or at least upon the occasion of your sin; for God will not (the case of Adam's sin only excepted) punish one man for the sin of another, as he hath often declared; but the whole camp having sins of their own, God might take what occasion he saw fit to inflict this punishment.

V. 19. But all the silver, and gold, and vessels of brass and iron, shall come into the treasury of the Lord—To be employed wholly for the public service, or uses of the tabernacle, and not to be applied to the use of any private person, or priest.

V. 21. They utterly destroyed all that was in the city, both man and woman, young and old—Being commanded to do so by the Sovereign Lord of every man's life. Who can read these expressions of the severity of God against sin, without calling to mind that God is no less displeased with any man's committing sin now, than he was at the times of his sending those dreadful judgments, that are recorded in so many places in the history of his dealings with men?

V. 22. Joshua had said unto the two men that had spied out the country, Go into the harlot's house—Which, together with the wall upon which it leaned, was left standing; and this Joshua did, that the public faith might be exactly maintained.

V. 23. And left them without the camp of Israel—Till they were cleansed from the impurities of their Gentile state, and instructed in the Jewish religion, and solemnly admitted into that Church in the usual way, to which Rahab's good counsel and example had doubtless very much prepared them; and this work of God confirmed their purposes.

V. 25. Joshua saved Rahab the harlot alive—For that general commanding of rooting out the Canaanites evidently had exceptions, in case any of them had sincerely cast off their idolatry and wickedness, and submitted themselves to the Israelites, and become professed members of the Church of God; infinite justice, in all these public judgments, not shutting that door which infinite mercy had opened through a Mediator, by which every penitent person might turn unto God, and have redemption, through the blood of the Lamb, even the forgiveness of sins (Col. i. 14.); which benefits were only to be received by faith in the Redeemer of men, as appears by this instance before us, for it was "by faith the harlot Rahab perished not with them that believed not." (Heb. xi. 31.) By which we are plainly informed, that it was one and the same cause which occasioned the death of the people of Israel in the wilderness, and the destruction of the ancient inhabitants of Canaan—the Israelites entered not in because of unbelief, (Heb. iii. 19.) and Rahab's faith prevented her perishing with the people of Jericho, who believed not:—They believed not first how much every one stood exposed to the wrath of God; and they believed not his power and willingness to save all them that believe in him; or, in other words, apply unto him for pardon and for grace. Not to believe we stand in need of mercy, is to be wilfully ignorant of ourselves, both of our tempers, passions, and affections, as well as of our conduct; and not to believe in the love and good will of God, is to be wilfully ignorant of that which is so evident in the whole creation, and which calls for the entire love of every rational creature to its Creator; a law which not having been obeyed, leaves all mankind without any other plea for the mercy of God but that which shall make atonement for those that have offended; and as the guilty cannot in the nature of things atone for themselves, faith in God, our Redeemer, is the only way by which the guilty can escape the necessary consequences of any crime against the unalterable laws of God, requiring every soul to love him; and, in doing so, live a life of obedience to his holy will.

V. 26. Joshua adjured them—Made them to swear; caused the people, or some in the name of all, to swear for the present and succeeding generations, and to confirm their oath by a curse. Cursed be the man before the Lord—From God's presence. He that riseth up and buildeth this city—God would have the ruins of this city remain as a standing monument of God's justice against this wicked and idolatrous people, and of his Almighty power in destroying

Before Christ 1451.

CHAP. VII.

BUT the children of Israel committed a trespass in the accursed thing: for [a] * Achan the son of Carmi, the son of † Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the Lord was kindled against the children of Israel.

a Chap. 22. 20. * 1 Chro. 2. 7, Achar. † Or, Zimri, 1 Chro. 2. 6.

2 And Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Beth-el, and spake unto them, saying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai.

3 And they returned to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up: but let ‡ about two or three thousand men go up and smite Ai, and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few.

‡ Heb. about 2000 men, or about 3000 men.

4 So there went up thither of the people about three thousand men, and they fled before the men of Ai.

5 And the men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men: for they chased them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and smote them § in the going down: wherefore [b] the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

§ Or, in Morad. b Chap. 2. 9, 11. Psal. 22. 14.

6 ¶ And Joshua rent his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his face, before the ark of the Lord, until the even-tide, he and the elders of Israel, and [c] put dust upon their heads.

Before Christ 1451.

c 1 Sam. 4. 16. 2 Sam. 13. 19. Neh. 9. 1. Job 2. 12.

7 And Joshua said, Alas, O Lord God, wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan.

8 O Lord, what shall I say, when Israel turneth their ‖ backs before their enemies?

‖ Heb. necks.

9 For the Canaanites, and all the inhabitants of the land shall hear of it, and shall environ us round, and cut off our name from the earth: and [d] what wilt thou do unto thy great name?

d See Exod. 32. 12. Num. 14. 13.

10 ¶ And the Lord said unto Joshua, Get thee up, wherefore * liest thou thus upon thy face?

* Heb. fallest.

11 Israel hath sinned, and they have also transgressed my covenant which I commanded them: [e] for they have even taken of the accursed thing, and have also stolen, and dissembled also, and they have put it even amongst their own stuff.

e Chap. 6. 17.

12 Therefore

destroying so great and strong a city by such contemptible means. That shall attempt or endeavour to build it. He shall lose all his children in the work, the first at the beginning, others in the progress of it by degrees, and the youngest in the close of it, when the gates use to be set up. This was fulfilled, 1 Kings xvi. 34.

CHAP. VII.

V. 1. But the children of Israel—One of them. Committed a trespass in the accursed thing—In taking some of the forbidden and accursed goods. Why did God punish the whole society for this one man's sin? Ans. All of them were punished for their own sins, whereof each had a sufficient proportion; and God took this occasion to inflict the punishment upon the society, to make the sin more hateful, as being the cause of such dreadful and public judgments; and to oblige all the members of every society to be both circumspect in the ordering of their own actions, and more diligent to watch over one another.

V. 3. They returned to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up: but let about two or three thousand men go up—Which was done, that their sins might be punished, and they awakened and reformed, with as little hazard, and mischief, and reproach, as might be: For if the defeat of these caused so great a consternation in Joshua, it is easy to guess what dread, confusion, and despair it would have caused in the people, if a great host had been defeated; and thus does the Almighty make use of what the people themselves thought the wisest measure, in order to punish them for the crimes which they were guilty of.

V. 4. So there went up thither of the people about three thousand men, and they fled—Not having their usual courage, which was a plain evidence that God had forsaken them; and an useful instruction, to shew them what weak and inconsiderable creatures they were when God left them; and that it was God, not their own valour, that gave the Canaanites, and their land, into their hands.

V. 5. The men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men—A dear victory to them, whereby Israel was awakened and reformed, and reconciled to their God and shield, and they hardened to their own ruin. The heart of the people melted, and became as water—Soft and weak, fluctuating and trembling.

V. 6. Joshua rent his clothes—In testimony of great sorrow for the loss felt, the consequent mischief feared, and the sin which he suspected. Fell to the earth upon his face—In deep humiliation and fervent supplication; continuing the whole day in fasting and prayer. He, and the Elders of Israel, and put dust upon their heads—As was usual in case of grief and astonishment.

V. 7. O Lord God, wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan—This, and the following clause, though well intended, and offered to God only by way of expostulation and argument, yet fall short of that reverence and submission which he owed to God, and are mentioned as instances, that the holy men of God were subject to like passions and infirmities with other men.

V. 8. O Lord, what shall I say—In answer to the reproaches cast by our insulting enemies upon us, and upon thy name. When Israel—God's own people, which he hath singled out of all nations for his own. Turneth their backs before their enemies—Unable to make any resistance.

V. 9. And what wilt thou do unto thy great name—Which will, upon this occasion, be charged with inconstancy, unkindness, and unfaithfulness to thine own people, and with inability to resist them, or to do thy people that good thou didst intend them.

V. 10. Wherefore liest thou thus upon thy face—This business is not to be done by unactive supplication, but by vigorous endeavours for reformation.

V. 11. Israel—Some of them. And have also transgressed my covenant—Broken the conditions of my covenant which I have commanded them, and they have promised to perform. They have taken of the accursed thing—Which I charged them not to meddle with. And have also stolen—Taken my portion, which I had

Before Christ 1451.

12 Therefore the children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, but turned their backs before their enemies, because they were accursed: neither will I be with you any more, except ye destroy the accursed from amongst you.

f Chap. 3. 5.

13 Up, sanctify the people, and say, [f] Sanctify yourselves against to morrow: for thus saith the Lord God of Israel, There is an accursed thing in the midst of thee, O Israel: thou canst not stand before thine enemies, until ye take away the accursed thing from among you.

14 In the morning therefore ye shall be brought according to your tribes: and it shall be that the tribe which the Lord taketh, shall come according to the families thereof; and the family which the Lord shall take, shall come by households; and the household which the Lord shall take, shall come man by man.

15 And it shall be, that he that is taken with the accursed thing, shall be burnt with fire, he and all that he hath: because he hath transgressed the covenant of the Lord, and because he [g] hath wrought † folly in Israel.

g Gen. 34. 7. Judg. 20. 6.
† Or, wickedness.

16 ¶ So Joshua rose up early in the morning, and brought Israel by their tribes; and the tribe of Judah was taken:

17 And he brought the family of Judah; and he took the family of the Zarhites: and he brought the family of the Zarhites man by man; and Zabdi was taken:

Before Christ 1451.

18 And he brought his household man by man; and Achan the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, was taken.

19 And Joshua said unto Achan, My son, [h] give, I pray thee, glory to the Lord God of Israel, [i] and make confession unto him; and tell me now what thou hast done, hide it not from me.

h See 1 Sam. 6. 5. Jer. 13. 16. John 9. 24.
i Num. 5. 6.

20 And Achan answered Joshua, and said, Indeed I have sinned against the Lord God of Israel, and thus and thus have I done.

21 When I saw among the spoils a goodly Babylonish garment, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a ‡ wedge of gold of fifty shekels weight, then I coveted them, and took them, and behold, they are hid in the earth, in the midst of my tent, and the silver under it.

‡ Heb. tongue.

22 ¶ So Joshua sent messengers, and they ran unto the tent, and behold, it was hid in his tent, and the silver under it.

23 And

had reserved. And dissembled—Covered the fact with dissimulation. And they have put it even amongst their own stuff—Converted it to their own use.

V. 12. The children of Israel could not stand before their enemies, because they were accursed—They have put themselves out of my protection and blessing, and therefore are liable to the same destruction which belongs to this accursed people.

V. 13. Up, sanctify the people, and say, Sanctify yourselves—Purify yourselves from that defilement, which you have all in some sort contracted by this accursed fact, and prepare yourselves to appear before the Lord, expecting the sentence of God for the discovery and punishment of the sin, and that the guilty person might hereby be awakened and terrified, and brought to a free and seasonable confession of his fault.

V. 14. The tribe which the Lord taketh—Which shall be discovered, or declared guilty by the lot, which is disposed by the Lord, (Prov. xvi. 33.) and which was to be cast, in the Lord's presence, before the ark. Of such use of lots, see 1 Sam. xiv. 41, 42. Jon. i. 7. Acts i. 26.

V. 15. He that is taken with the accursed thing, shall be burnt with fire—As persons and things accursed were to be. He, and all that he hath—His children and goods, as is noted, verse 24. Because he hath wrought folly—So sin is often called in Scripture, in opposition to the idle opinion of sinners, who commonly esteem it to be their wisdom and interest. In Israel—Among the Church and people of God, who had such excellent laws to direct them, and such an all-sufficient and gracious God to provide for them, without any such indirect and unworthy practices.

V. 17. He brought the family—The tribe or people, as the word family sometimes signifies. Man by man—Every head of the several families.

V. 18. And he brought—Either Joshua, or Zabdi, by Joshua's appointment.

V. 19. Joshua said unto Achan, My son—So he calls him, to shew, that this severe inquisition and sentence did not proceed from any hatred to his person, which he loved as a father doth his son, and as a prince ought to do each of his subjects. Give, I pray thee, glory to the Lord God of Israel—As thou hast highly dishonoured him, now take the shame and blame to thyself, and ascribe unto God the glory of his omniscience in knowing thy sin, of his justice in punishing it in thee, and others, for thy sake; of his omnipotency, which was obstructed by thee; and of his kindness and faithfulness to his people, which was eclipsed by thy wickedness; all which will now be evident by thy sin confessed and punished.

V. 20. Achan answered Joshua, and said, Indeed, I have sinned—He seems to make a sincere and ingenuous confession, and loads his sin with all just aggravations. Against the Lord—Against his express command, just rights, and glorious attributes. God of Israel—Against the true God, who hath chosen me, and all Israel, to be the people of his peculiar love and care.

V. 21. When I saw—He accurately describes the progress of his sin, which began at his eye, which he permitted to gaze and fix upon them, which inflames his desire, and made him covet them; and that desire put him upon action, and made him take them; and having taken them, resolve to keep them; and to that end hide them in his tent. They that would avoid condemnation and shame, must guard against the beginnings of evil, and resist every inducement to whatever is wrong in its first offers to the mind, and this against all the considerations of pleasure, gain, or credit; shame, sufferings, or sorrow, being the sure consequences of every compliance with whatever is evil in itself.

V. 22. So Joshua sent messengers—That the truth of his confession might be evident. And they ran—Longing to see themselves and all the people from the curse under which they lay.

V. 23. And

Before Christ 1451.

23 And they took them out of the midſt of the tent, and brought them unto Joſhua, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and § laid them out before the Lord.

§ Heb. poured.

24 And Joſhua and all Iſrael with him, took Achan the ſon of Zerah, and the ſilver, and the garment, and the wedge of gold, and his ſons, and his daughters, and his oxen, and his aſſes, and his ſheep, and his tent, and all that he had: and they brought them unto [k] the valley of Achor.

k Verſe 26.

25 And Joſhua ſaid, [l] Why haſt thou troubled us? the Lord ſhall trouble thee this day. [m] And all Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, and burned them with fire, after they had ſtoned them with ſtones.

l Chap. 6. 18. Gal. 5. 12.

m Deut. 17. 5.

26 And they [n] raiſed over him a great heap of ſtones unto this day: So the Lord turned from the fierceneſs of his anger: wherefore the name of that place was called, [o] The valley of ‖ Achor unto this day.

n Chap. 8. 29. 2 Sam. 18. 17. Lam. 3. 53.

o Iſai. 65. 10. Hoſ. 2. 15.

‖ That is, trouble.

CHAP. VIII.

AND the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, [a] Fear not, neither be thou diſmayed: take all the people of war with thee, and ariſe, go up to Ai: ſee, I have given into thy hand the king of Ai, and his people, and his city, and his land.

a Deut. 1. 21. and 7. 18.

2 And thou ſhalt do to Ai and her king, as thou didſt unto [b] Jericho and her king: only [c] the ſpoil thereof, and the cattle thereof ſhall ye take for a prey unto yourſelves: lay thee an ambuſh for the city, behind it.

b Chap. 6. 21.

c Deut. 20. 14.

3 ¶ So Joſhua aroſe, and all the people of war, to go up againſt Ai: and Joſhua choſe out thirty thouſand mighty men of valour, and ſent them away by night.

Before Christ 1451.

4 And he commanded them, ſaying, Behold, [d] ye ſhall lie in wait againſt the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready:

d Judg. 20. 29.

5 And I, and all the people that are with me, will approach unto the city: and it ſhall come to paſs when they come out againſt us, as at the firſt, that we will flee before them.

6 (For they will come out after us) till we have * drawn them from the city; for they will ſay, They flee before us, as at the firſt: therefore we will flee before them.

* Heb. pulled.

7 Then ye ſhall riſe up from the ambuſh, and ſeize upon the city: for the Lord your God will deliver it into your hand.

8 And it ſhall be when ye have taken the city, that ye ſhall ſet the city on fire: according to the commandment of the Lord ſhall ye do. See, I have commanded you.

9 ¶ Joſhua therefore ſent them forth; and they went to lie in ambuſh, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the weſt ſide of Ai: but Joſhua lodged that night among the people.

10 And Joſhua roſe up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Iſrael, before the people to Ai.

11 And all the people, even the people of war that were with him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north ſide of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai. 12 And

V. 23. And laid them out before the Lord—Where Joſhua and the elders continued yet in their aſſembly, waiting the final determination of this buſineſs.

V. 24. And his ſons, and his daughters—It is very probable they were conſcious of the fact, as the Jewiſh doctors affirm. And his oxen, and his aſſes, and his ſheep—Which, though not capable of ſin, yet, as they were made for man's uſe, and being daily killed for food, it cannot ſeem ſtrange to kill them for the inſtruction of our minds, that hereby we might learn the deteſtable and contagious nature of ſin, which involves innocent creatures in its plagues.

V. 25. All Iſrael ſtoned him with ſtones, and burned them with fire—God would have them burned, to ſhew his utmoſt deteſtation of ſuch perſons as break forth into ſins of ſuch a public ſcandal and miſchief.

V. 26. They raiſed over him a great heap of ſtones—As a monument of the ſin and judgment here mentioned, that others might be inſtructed and warned by the example; and as a brand of infamy. The name of that place was called, The valley of Achor—Or, the valley of trouble.

CHAP. VIII.

V. 1. Take all the people of war with thee—To ſtrengthen them againſt thoſe fears which their late defeat had wrought in them.

V. 2. Thou ſhalt do to Ai—The city and people of Ai. As thou didſt unto Jericho and her king—Overcome and deſtroy them.

V. 5. We will flee before them—Though they acted under the immediate command of God in their general undertaking, yet, in many particulars, they muſt exerciſe their own judgment. The Iſraelites fled after their leader, Joſhua, before their enemies; and many times muſt the Iſrael of God fly before their ſpiritual enemies; but it muſt always be to their Leader and living Head, who has promiſed to give all them the victory that look to him.

V. 8. Ye ſhall ſet the city on fire—As a ſign to their brethren of their ſucceſs.

V. 9. Joſhua lodged that night among the people—The main body of that hoſt, conſiſting of 30,000: And thus does Jeſus lodge amongſt all that are acting in obedience to his command.

V. 10. Joſhua numbered the people—The reſt of that hoſt of 30,000, whereof 5000 were ſent away; and now the remainder are numbered, partly to ſee whether ſome of them had not withdrawn themſelves, taking the advantage of the night, and of the deſign of laying an ambuſh; and partly that it might be evident, that this work was done without any loſs of men, and thereby they might be encouraged to truſt in God, and to proceed vigorouſly and reſolutely in their work. He, and the elders of Iſrael—The chief magiſtrates and rulers of Iſrael under Joſhua.

V. 11. And all the people of war that were with him, went up—The 30,000, or the moſt of them.

Before Christ 1451.

12 And he took about five thousand men, and set them to lie in ambush between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side † of the city.

† Or, of Ai.

13 And when they had set the people, even all the host that was on the north of the city, and ‡ their liers in wait on the west of the city: Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

‡ Heb. their lying in wait.

14 ¶ And it came to pass when the king of Ai saw it, that they hasted and rose up early, and the men of the city went out against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he wist not that there were liers in ambush against him, behind the city.

15 And Joshua and all Israel made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the way of the wilderness.

16 And all the people that were in Ai, were called together to pursue after them: and they pursued after Joshua, and were drawn away from the city.

17 And there was not a man left in Ai, or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel: and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel.

18 And the Lord said unto Joshua, Stretch out the spear that is in thy hand, toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward the city.

19 And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and hasted, and set the city on fire.

20 And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and behold, the smoke of the city ascended up to heaven, and they had no § power to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the pursuers.

Before Christ. 1451.

§ Heb. hands.

21 And when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended, then they turned again, and slew the men of Ai.

22 And the other issued out of the city against them, so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side: and they smote them, so that they [e] let none of them remain, or escape.

e Deut. 7. 2.

23 And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

24 And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai, in the field, in the wilderness wherein they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the sword, until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned unto Ai, and smote it with the edge of the sword.

25 And so it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai.

26 For Joshua drew not his hand back wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants of Ai.

27 [f] Only the cattle and the spoil of that city, Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the Lord, which he [g] commanded Joshua.

f Num. 31. 22, 26.

g Verse 2.

28 And Joshua burnt Ai, and made it an heap for ever, even a desolation unto this day.

29 And the king of Ai he hanged on a tree

V. 12. He took—He had taken, out of the number of 30,000.

V. 13. Joshua went—Accompanied with a small part of the host now mentioned. Into the midst of the valley—Which was near the city, thereby to allure them forth.

V. 14. The king of Ai, and all his people—All his men of war. At a time appointed—At a certain hour, agreed upon by the king and people of Ai. But he wist not that there were liers in ambush against him—The former success having made him more careless and secure, God blinding his mind, as he useth to do with those which he intends to destroy.

V. 15. Joshua and all Israel made as if they were beaten before them—Fled from them. And fled by the way of the wilderness—Which lay between Ai and Jericho, whither they now seemed to fly.

V. 16. And all the people—All that were able to bear arms.

V. 17. There was not a man left in Ai—Fit for war. Or Bethel—Which, being a neighbouring city, and encouraged by the former success, had sent some forces to assist them; and now all their men of war join with those of Ai in the pursuit.

V. 18. And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward the city—As a token of God's presence and assistance.

V. 19. They set the city on fire—Some part of it, enough to raise a smoke, and give notice to their brethren of their success.

V. 21. When Joshua and all Israel—All the Israelites present, or all those who seemed to flee away before.

V. 22. And the other—They who lay in ambush. They let none of them remain or escape—So their late success was a real mischief to them, as being the occasion of their total ruin.

V. 23. The king of Ai they took alive—Reserving him to a peculiar punishment.

V. 24. The Israelites returned unto Ai, and smote it—The inhabitants of it.

V. 25. Twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai—The men of Bethel are included in this number.

V. 26. Joshua drew not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear—He kept his hand and spear, stretched out and lifted up, as a sign both to encourage them, and to direct them to go on in the work.

V. 29. The king of Ai he hanged on a tree—He dealt more severely with the kings of Canaan than with the people, partly because the abominable wickedness of that people was not restrained tree until even-tide: [h] and as soon as the sun was down, Joshua commanded that they should take his carcase down from the tree, and cast it at the entering of the gate of the city, and [i] raise thereon a great heap of stones that remaineth unto this day.

Before Christ 1451.

h Deut. 21. 23. Chap. 10. 26.

i Chap. 7. 26.

30 ¶ Then Joshua built an altar unto the Lord God of Israel [k] in mount Ebal, k Deut. 27. 4.

31 As Moses the servant of the Lord commanded the children of Israel as it is written in the [l] book of the law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, over which no man hath lift up any iron: and they offered thereon burnt-offerings unto the Lord, and sacrificed peace-offerings.

l Exod. 20. 25. Deut. 27. 5.

32 And [m] he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel.

m Deut. 27. 2, 8.

33 And all Israel, and their elders, and officers, and their judges, stood on this side the ark, and on that side, before the priests the Levites, [n] which bare the ark of the covenant of the Lord, as well the stranger, as he that was born among them; half of them over against mount Gerizzim, and half of them over against mount Ebal: [o] as Moses the servant of the Lord had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel.

n Deut. 31. 25.

o Deut. 11. 29. and 27. 12.

34 And afterward he read all the words of the law, the blessings and cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the law.

35 There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, which Joshua read not before all the congregation of Israel, [p] with the women, and the little ones, and the strangers that ‖ were conversant among them.

Before Christ 1451.

p Deut. 31. 12.

‖ Heb. walked.

CHAP. IX.

AND it came to pass, when all the kings which were on this side Jordan, in the hills, and in the valleys, and in all the coasts of the great sea over against Lebanon, the Hittite, and the Amorite, the Canaanite, the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebusite heard thereof;

2 That they gathered themselves together to fight with Joshua, and with Israel, with one * accord.

* Heb. mouth.

3 ¶ And when the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done unto Jericho, and to Ai,

4 They did work wilily, and went and made as if they had been ambassadors, and took old sacks upon their asses, and wine-bottles, old, and rent, and bound up,

5 And old shoes, and clouted upon their feet, and old garments upon them, and all the bread of their provision was dry and mouldy.

6 And they went to Joshua unto the camp at Gilgal, and said unto him, and to the men of Israel, We be come from a far country: now therefore make ye a league with us.

7 And strained and punished, (as it should have been) but countenanced and encouraged by their evil examples and administrations; and partly because they were the principal authors of the destruction of their own people, by engaging them in an obstinate opposition against the Israelites. Joshua commanded, that they should take his carcase down from the tree—According to God's command in that case. And cast it at the entering of the gate of the city—Because this was the usual place of judgment; and therefore proper to bear the monument of God's just sentence against him, not without reflection upon that injustice which he had been guilty of in that place.

V. 30. Then—After the taking of Ai. Joshua built an altar—That they might renew their covenant with, and profess their subjection to that God by whose help alone they could expect success. In mount Ebal—That in that place, whence the curses of the law were denounced against sinners, there might also be the tokens and means of grace, peace, and reconciliation with God.

V. 32. He wrote the law of Moses—Not upon the stones of the altar, which were to be rough and unpolished, verse 31. but upon other stones, smooth and plastered, as is manifest from Deut. xxvii. 2. Not certainly the whole five books of Moses, for what stones and time would have sufficed for this! nor the blessings and the curses here following, which never are, nor can without great impropriety be called the law of Moses, seeing they presuppose the law, and the observation or transgression thereof, to which they belong, only as rewards of the one, and punish the most weighty and substantial parts of the law, as may be gathered from the laws which are mentioned, and to the violators whereof the curses are applied, and especially the law of the ten commandments.

V. 33. And all Israel—The whole congregation, old and young, male and female. Half of them over mount Gerizzim—These two places were in the tribe of Ephraim, not far from Shechem.

V. 34. And afterward—After the altar was built. He read all that is written in the book of the law—He saith not, according to all that was written upon those stones, but in the book of the law.

V. 35. There was not a word of all that Moses commanded, which Joshua read not—Therefore he read not the blessings and curses only, but the whole law.

CHAP. IX.

V. 2. They gathered themselves together—They entered into a league to do this.

V. 3. And—But. When the inhabitants of Gibeon—A great and royal city of the Hivites.

V. 4. They made as if they had been ambassadors—Sent from a far country.

V. 6. They went to Joshua, unto the camp at Gilgal—The place of their head quarters. And said unto him, and to the men of Israel—To those who used to meet in council with Joshua. Now therefore make ye a league with us—Because we are not of this people, whom, as we are informed, you are obliged utterly to destroy.

V. 7. The men of Israel said unto the Hivite—The Gibeonites, who were Hivites. Peradventure ye dwell among us—In this land,

and

Before Christ 1451.

7 And the men of Israel said unto the Hivites, Peradventure ye dwell among us, and [a] how shall we make a league with you?

a Exod. 23. 32.

8 And they said unto Joshua, We are thy servants. And Joshua said unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye?

9 And they said unto him, From a very far country thy servants are come, because of the name of the Lord thy God; for we have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt.

b Num. 21. 24, 33.

10 And [b] all that he did to the two kings of the Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon king of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, which was at Ashtaroth.

11 Wherefore our elders and all the inhabitants of our country, spake to us, saying. Take victuals † with you for the journey, and go to meet them, and say unto them, We are your servants: therefore now make ye a league with us.

† Heb. in your hand.

12 This our bread we took hot for our provision out of our houses, on the day we came forth to go unto you; but know behold, it is dry, and it is mouldy:

13 And these bottles of wine which we filled, were new, and behold, they be rent: and these our garments and our shoes are become old, by reason of the very long journey.

Before Christ 1451.

14 And the § men took of their victuals, [c] and asked not counsel at the mouth of the Lord.

§ Or, they received the men by reason of their victuals.

c Num. 27. 21.

15 And Joshua made peace with them, and made a league with them, to let them live: and the princes of the congregation sware unto them.

16 And it came to pass at the end of three days, after they had made a league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

17 And the children of Israel journeyed, and came unto their cities on the third day: now their cities were Gibeon, [d] and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kirjath-jearim.

d Chap. 18. 25, 26. Ezra 2. 25.

18 And the children of Israel smote them not, because the princes of the congregation had sworn unto them by the Lord God of Israel: and all the congregation murmured against the princes.

19 But all the princes said unto all the congregation, We have sworn unto them by the Lord God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them.

20 This and so are of that people with whom we are forbidden to make any league or covenant. In all doubtful cases, when any man wants to know his duty, he is to ask wisdom of God; Joshua did not do so, and he was deceived. Whilst the human mind remains in its natural state, power and deceit are its ordinary means of bringing about its ends; one part of the inhabitants of the land thought to resist the danger with force, the other to evade it by fraud; but neither of them turned from their vain and sinful courses to the living God, that he might unite them to his people.

V. 8. They said unto Joshua, We are thy servants—We desire a league with you upon your own terms; we are ready to accept of any conditions. Joshua said unto them, Who are ye? and from whence come ye—For this free and general concession of theirs gave Joshua just cause to suspect that they were of the cursed Canaanites.

V. 9. Thy servants are come, because of the name of the Lord—Being moved thereunto by the report of his great and glorious nature and works; so they gave them hopes that they would embrace their religion. We have heard the fame of him, and all that he did in Egypt—They cunningly mentioned those things only which were done some time since, and say nothing of the dividing of Jordan, nor of the destruction of Jericho and Ai, as if they lived so far off that the fame of those things had not yet reached them.

V. 14. And the men—The princes of Israel. Took of their victuals—That they might examine the truth of what they said. And asked not counsel at the mouth of the Lord—As they ought to have done upon all such weighty and doubtful occasions. So they are accused of rashness and neglect of their duty. For though it is probable, if God had been consulted, he would have consented to the sparing of the Gibeonites.

V. 15. Joshua made peace with them, to let them live—That they would not destroy them. Some question whether this league was lawful, because it is contrary to a positive and precedent law of God, by which they were enjoined to make no peace with them, but utterly to destroy them. But this law seems to admit of some exception, because God foresaw that the Israelites would be most prone to err on that hand, by sparing those whom they should destroy; yet that it, as to penitents and true converts, might easily be gathered both from the example of Rahab, and from the tenor of Divine threatenings, which, though absolutely delivered, allow of this exception, from the great kindness and favour which God hath manifested unto all true penitents, in delivering them from evils threatened to them, and inflicted upon others; which kindness of God we also are obliged to imitate, by virtue of that natural and moral law of God implanted in us, and revealed to us, to which such positive commands as this, of killing the Canaanites, must give place. And that this league was lawful and obliging, may seem probable, 1. Because Joshua, and all the princes upon the review concluded it so to be, and spared them accordingly. 2. Because God punished the violation of it long after, (2 Sam. xxi. 1.)

V. 17. Their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth and Kirjath-jearim—Which cities were subject to Gibeon, which was the royal city.

V. 18. All the congregation murmured against the princes—From that proneness which is in people to censure the actions of their rulers, and because they might think the princes, by their rashness, had brought them into a snare, that they could neither kill them for fear of the oath, nor spare them for fear of God's command to the contrary; and partly from their desire of the possession and spoil of these cities, of which they thought themselves hereby deprived.

V. 19. We have sworn unto them by the Lord—They plead not the lawfulness nor the prudence of the action, but only the obligation of an oath. Therefore we may not touch them—Not hurt them, nor smite them.

V. 21. Let them be hewers of wood, and drawers of water unto all the congregation—Let them be public servants, and employed in the meanest offices and drudgeries, for the benefit of the congregation.

V. 23. Now

Before Christ 1451.

20 This we will do to them; we will even let them live, leſt [e] wrath be upon us, becauſe of the oath which we ſware unto them.

e See 2 Sam. 21. 1, 6.

21 And the princes ſaid unto them, Let them live, (but let them be [f] hewers of wood, and drawers of water unto all the congregation) as the princes had [g] promiſed them.

f Deut. 29. 11.

g Verſe 15.

22 ¶ And Joſhua called for them, and he ſpake unto them, ſaying, Wherefore have ye beguiled us, ſaying, We are very far from you; when ye dwell among us?

23 Now therefore ye are curſed, and there ſhall ‖ none of you be freed from being bondmen, and hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the houſe of my God.

‖ Heb. not be cut off from you.

24 And they anſwered Joſhua, and ſaid, Becauſe it was certainly told thy ſervants, how that the Lord thy God [h] commanded his ſervant Moſes to give you all the land, and to deſtroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore we were ſore afraid of our lives becauſe of you, and have done this thing.

h Deut. 7. 1, 2.

25 And now behold, we are in thine hand: as it ſeemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do.

26 And ſo did he unto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Iſrael, that they ſlew them not.

27 And Joſhua made them that day hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the altar of the Lord, even unto this day, [i] in the place which he ſhould chooſe.

i Deut. 12. 5.

CHAP. X.

NOW it came to paſs, when Adonizedek king of Jeruſalem had heard how Joſhua had taken Ai, and had utterly deſtroyed it, ([a] as he had done to Jericho and her king, ſo he had done to [b] Ai and her king) and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Iſrael, and were among them;

a Chap. 6. 15.

b Chap. 8. 3.

Before Christ 1451.

2 That they feared greatly, becauſe Gibeon was a great city, as one of the * royal cities, and becauſe it was greater than Ai, and all the men thereof were mighty.

* Heb. cities of the kingdom.

3 Wherefore Adoni-zedek king of Jeruſalem, ſent unto Hoham king of Hebron, and unto Piram king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachiſh, and unto Debir king of Eglon, ſaying,

4 Come up unto me, and help me, that we may ſmite Gibeon: for it had made peace with Joſhua, and with the children of Iſrael.

5 Therefore the five kings of the Amorites, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, the king of Eglon, gathered themſelves together, and went up, they and all their hoſts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war againſt it.

6 ¶ And the men of Gibeon ſent unto Joſhua, to the camp to Gilgal, ſaying, Slack not thy hand from thy ſervants; come up to us quickly, and ſave us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains, are gathered together againſt us.

7 So Joſhua aſcended from Gilgal, he and all the people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

8 ¶ And the Lord ſaid unto Joſhua, Fear them not: for I have delivered them into thine hand; there ſhall not a man of them ſtand before thee.

9 Joſhua therefore came unto them ſuddenly, and went up from Gilgal all night.

10 And

V. 23. Now therefore ye are curſed—You ſhall not eſcape the curſe of God, which, by Divine ſentence, belongs to all the Canaanites, who are a people devoted by God to ruin; but only change the quality of it. There ſhall none of you be freed from being bondmen—The ſlavery which is upon you ſhall be entailed to your poſterity. And hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the houſe of my God—This only ſervice they mention here, becauſe it was their principal and moſt durable ſervitude, being firſt in the tabernacle, and then in the temple, whence they were called Nethinims.

V. 25. We are in thine hand—In thy power to uſe us as thou wilt. As it ſeemeth good and right unto thee to do unto us, do—We refer ourſelves to thee, and thy own piety, and probity, and faithfulneſs to thy word and oath; If thou wilt deſtroy us, we ſubmit.

V. 27. Joſhua made them hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the altar of the Lord—By which it appears, that they were not only to do this ſervice in God's houſe, but upon all other occaſions, as the congregation needed or required their help.

CHAP. X.

V. 5. The five kings of the Amorites—This name being here taken generally for any of the Canaanites.

V. 6. The men of Gibeon ſent—When their enemies were drawing towards them. Unto Joſhua to the camp to Gilgal, ſaying, Slack not thy hand—Do not neglect nor delay to help us. From thy ſervants—Whom thou art obliged to protect, both in duty, as thou art our maſter and ruler, and by thy own intereſt, we being part of thy poſſeſſions; and we have given ourſelves to thee, and put ourſelves under thy protection. The Amorites that dwell in the mountains—In the mountainous country.

V. 7. So Joſhua aſcended—Having, no doubt, aſked advice of God firſt, which is implied by the anſwer God gives to him, verſe 8. All the mighty men of valour—An army of the moſt valiant men picked out from the reſt.

V. 9. Joſhua therefore came unto them ſuddenly—Though aſſured by God of the victory, yet he uſeth all prudent means, and ſurprizeth them. And went up from Gilgal all night—It is not ſaid

Before Christ 1451.

10 And the Lord [c] discomfited them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up [d] to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

[c] 1 Sam. 7. 10, 12. Psal. 18. 14. Isai. 28. 21.
[d] Chap. 16. 3. 5.

11 And it came to pass as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going down to Beth-horon, that the Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died: they were more which died with hailstones, than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

12 ¶ Then spake Joshua to the Lord in the day when the Lord delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, [e] Sun, † stand thou still upon Gibeon, and thou moon, in the valley of Ajalon.

[e] Isai. 28. 21. Hab. 3. 11.
† Heb. be silent.

13 And the sun stood still, and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies. [f] Is not this written in the book of ‡ Jasher? so the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day.

[f] 2 Sam. 1. 18. 19.
‡ Or, the upright.

14 And there was no day like that before it or after it, that the Lord hearkened unto the voice of a man: for the Lord fought for Israel.

Before Christ 1451.

15 ¶ [g] And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

[g] Verse 43.

16 But these five kings fled, and hid themselves in a cave at Makkedah.

17 And it was told Joshua, saying, The five kings are found hid in a cave at Makkedah.

18 And Joshua said, Roll great stones upon the mouth of the cave, and set men by it for to keep them.

19 And stay you not, but pursue after your enemies, and § smite the hindmost of them, suffer them not to enter into their cities: for the Lord your God hath delivered them into your hand.

§ Heb. cut off the tail.

20 And it came to pass when Joshua and the children of Israel had made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they were consumed, that the rest which remained that he went from Gilgal to Gibeon in a night's space, but only that he travelled all night.

V. 10. The Lord discomfited them before Israel, and slew them—He slew them; either God, or Israel.

V. 11. The Lord cast down great stones from heaven upon them—Hailstones of extraordinary greatness and hardness, cast down with that certainty as to hit the Canaanites, and not kill their pursuers, the Israelites; and with that force as to kill them.

V. 12. Then spake Joshua to the Lord—He speaks the following words before the people, that they might be witnesses of it. He said in the sight of Israel—In the presence of Israel; seeing being sometimes put for hearing, may seem rather to be joined with the following, thus, in the sight of Israel, stand still, O Sun, &c. which sense the Hebrew accents favour. Sun, stand thou still upon Gibeon—In that place in which now it stands, and looks upon Gibeon. Let it not go down lower. It may seem that the sun was declining, and Joshua perceiving that his work was great and long, and his time but short, begs of God the lengthening out of the day, and that the sun and moon might stop their course, and keep the place in which they now were. He begs that he may have the help and benefit of longer light to pursue them, and to that end that the sun might stand still, and the moon also; not that he needed the moon's light when he had the sun's, but because it was fit either that both sun and moon should go, or that both should stand still, to prevent disorder and confusion in the heavenly bodies.

V. 13. And the sun stood still—Was still. Until the people had avenged themselves upon their enemies—Till they had utterly destroyed them, as is mentioned in the following chapter. Is not this written in the book of Jasher—But this, as well as some few other historical books, is lost, not being a canonical book, and therefore not preserved by the Jews with the same care as they were. So the sun stood still—Here is no mention of the moon, because the sun's standing was the only thing which Joshua needed. Some take this to be but a poetical phrase and relation of the victory, that Joshua did so many and such great things in that day, as if the sun and moon had stood still and given him longer time for it. But the frequent repetition and magnificent declaration of this wonder manifestly confutes that. That the sun and moon did really stand still, is affirmed (Habak. iii. 11.) And if it seem strange to any one, that so wonderful a work, observed by the whole world that then was, should not be mentioned in any heathen writers, he must needs be satisfied, if he considers that it is confessed by the generality of writers, heathens and others, that there is no certain history or monument in heathen authors of any thing done before the Trojan wars, which was a thousand years after Joshua's time; and that all time before that is called, by the learnedest heathens, the uncertain, unknown, or obscure time. And hasted not to go down about a whole day—For the space of a whole day; between sun-rising and sun-setting; for that was the day which Joshua needed and desired—a day to give him light for his work.

V. 14. The Lord hearkened unto the voice of a man—In such a manner as to alter the course of nature, and of the heavenly bodies. For the Lord fought for Israel—This is added, as the reason why God was so ready to answer Joshua's petition herein, because he was engaged and resolved to fight for Israel, and that in a more than ordinary manner.

V. 15. And Joshua returned—After he had dispatched the matter which follows.

V. 16. These five kings—Named, verse 3. And hid themselves in a cave—But there is no escaping the eye or hand of God, who here brought them into a net of their own making. At Makkedah—Not in the city, for that was not yet taken; but in the territory of it.

V. 19. Stay ye not—Lose not your opportunity. Smite the hindmost of them—All whom you can overtake. Suffer them not to enter into their cities—Whereby they will recover their strength, and renew the war. The Lord your God hath delivered them into your hand—Your work will be easy; God hath already done the work to your hands.

V. 20. When Joshua and the children of Israel—Joshua by the children of Israel; a party of them, by the command of Joshua; for Joshua himself went not with them, but abode in the siege before Makkedah, verse 21.

V. 21. And

Before Christ 1451.

mained of them, entered into fenced cities.

21 And all the people returned to the camp to Joſhua at Makkedah in peace: [h] none moved his tongue againſt any of the children of Iſrael.

h Exod. 11. 7.

22 Then ſaid Joſhua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out thoſe five kings unto me out of the cave.

23 And they did ſo, and brought forth thoſe five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jeruſalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachiſh, and the king of Eglon.

24 And it came to paſs when they brought out thoſe kings unto Joſhua, that Joſhua called for all the men of Iſrael, and ſaid unto the captains of the men of war, which went with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of theſe kings. And they came near and put their feet upon the necks of them.

25 And Joſhua ſaid unto them, Fear not nor be diſmayed, be ſtrong and of good courage: for thus ſhall the Lord do to all your enemies againſt whom ye fight.

26 And afterward Joſhua ſmote them, and ſlew them, and hanged them on five trees: and they were hanging upon the trees [i] until the evening.

Before Christ 1451.

i Chap. 8. 29.

27 And it came to paſs at the time of the going down of the ſun, that Joſhua commanded, and they [k] took them down off the trees, and caſt them into the cave wherein they had been hid, and laid great ſtones in the cave's mouth, which remain until this very day.

k Deut 21. 23. Chap. 8. 29.

28 ¶ And that day Joſhua took Makkedah, and ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and the king thereof he utterly deſtroyed, them, and all the ſouls that were therein, he let none remain: and he did to the king of Makkedah, [l] as he did unto the king of Jericho.

l Chap. 6. 21.

29 Then Joſhua paſſed from Makkedah, and all Iſrael with him, unto Libnah, and fought againſt Libnah.

30 And the Lord delivered it alſo, and the king thereof, into the hand of Iſrael, and he ſmote it with the edge of the ſword, and all the ſouls that were therein: he let none remain in it, but did unto the king thereof, as he did unto the king of Jericho.

31 ¶ And

V. 21. And all the people returned to the camp—To the body of the army, which were encamped there with Joſhua to beſiege that place. None moved his tongue—They were all ſo confounded, that they could not move their tongues to reproach, as doubtleſs they did when the Iſraelites were firſt repulſed and ſmitten at Ai; but now they were ſilenced as well as conquered.

V. 22. Then ſaid Joſhua, bring out thoſe five kings unto me—And thus in the great day of the Lord will Jeſus, the Judge of all, command the kings of the earth to be brought before him, to give an account of themſelves, how far they governed according to what they knew, or might have known, of juſtice, mercy, and truth; and how, as men, they lived to him who made and died to redeem them.

V. 24. Come near, put your feet upon the necks of theſe kings—This he did not from pride and contempt of their dignity in itſelf, but partly as a puniſhment of their impious rebellion againſt their Sovereign Lord; partly in purſuance of that curſe of ſervility pronounced on all this people; partly as a token to aſſure his captains, that God would ſubdue the proudeſt of them under their feet; and partly to oblige and teach his people to execute the judgment of God upon them, and not to ſpare any of them, either out of a fooliſh pity, or out of reſpect to their dignity; that all the millions of mankind might learn to live in the fear of that God, whoſe ſeverity againſt all ſin, and contempt of his divine power, is thus expreſſed.

V. 25. Thus ſhall the Lord do to all your enemies—And you, the ſpiritual Iſrael of God, who are contending with thoſe natural enemies to the kingdom of God within you—pride, anger, ſelf-will, ſelf-love; thus will the Lord of all put them under your feet that look unto him. Read not his word in vain; his kingdom will come to all that look for it as the free gift of God, for the ſake of his beloved Son; by his grace are ye ſaved through faith in him; and delay not to exercite it according to the meaſure that he has given you, that you may have all the peace and comfort of Chriſt's reigning in you by his Spirit; and as you ſee the Church of old conquering their enemies, and putting their feet upon their necks, fear not, but believe that all the native corruptions of your heart, and the inbred enemies of God and of your conſcious peace in him, ſhall be caſt out or trampled under your feet. Faith makes the fulneſs of redeeming love your own. Look to him who is the author and the finiſher of your faith; delight yourſelf in him, and he will give you your hearts deſires.

V. 26. Joſhua ſmote them, and ſlew them, and hanged them—That it might be known to all Iſrael that he had done this. And when the Spirit of the Lord gives the victory over thoſe evils that reigned as kings in the heart, it is for the honour of God and the good of mankind, that it ſhould be made known to all them that fear the Lord what God has done, and the victory he hath given, that others may be led to look unto the Redeemer of Iſrael for his ſanctifying grace. (1 Theſſ. iv. 3.)

V. 27. Joſhua caſt them into the cave—The whole work is here aſcribed to Joſhua, as the whole work of every ſoul's redemption, as well as ſanctification, is only to be aſcribed to Jeſus, who may make uſe of means as Joſhua uſed the Iſraelites to do his pleaſure, but all that was done flowed from him under God; and ſo does all power, and every good and perfect gift, come through the perſon of the God-man, Chriſt Jeſus, to all that believe in him; and all the good that is done, he does it alone himſelf. Reader, is your ſole dependance on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt for mercy and for grace? Who is there in heaven but him to receive gifts for you? God knows no man but through the Son of his love, ſo as to pardon and to ſave him. Separate from Jeſus, God is a conſuming fire. It is grace, the gift of God, for Chriſt's ſake, that muſt convince of ſin, and alſo caſt it out and deſtroy it.

V. 28. And that day—On which the ſun ſtood ſtill. Nor is it ſtrange that ſo much work was done, and places ſo far diſtant taken in one day, when the day was ſo long, and the Canaanites ſtruck with ſuch a terror.

V. 29. Then Joſhua paſſed down, and all Iſrael—Who were with him in this expedition. Unto Libnah—A city of Judah.

Before Christ 1451.

31 ¶ And Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him, unto Lachish, and encamped against it, and fought against it.

32 And the Lord delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, which took it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Libnah.

33 ¶ Then Horam king of Gezer, came up to help Lachish; and Joshua smote him and his people, until he had left him none remaining.

34 ¶ And from Lachish, Joshua passed unto Eglon, and all Israel with him, and they encamped against it, and fought against it.

35 And they took it on that day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein he utterly destroyed that day, according to all that he had done to Lachish.

36 And Joshua went up from Eglon, and all Israel with him, unto [m] Hebron, and they fought against it.

[m] See Chap. 14. 13. and 15. 13.

37 And they took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and all the souls that were therein: he left none remaining (according to all that he had done to Eglon) but destroyed it utterly, and all the souls that were therein.

38 ¶ And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him to [n] Debir, and fought against it.

Before Christ 1451.

39 And he took it, and the king thereof, and all the cities thereof, and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and utterly destroyed all the souls that were therein, he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir, and to the king thereof, as he had done also to Libnah, and to her king.

[n] Chap. 15. 15.

40 ¶ So Joshua smote all the country of the hills, and of the south, and of the vale, and of the springs, and all their kings: he left none remaining, but utterly destroyed all that breathed, as the Lord God of Israel [o] commanded.

[o] Deut. 20. 16, 17.

41 And Joshua smote them from Kadesh-barnea, even unto Gaza [p] and all the country of Goshen, even unto Gibeon.

[p] Chap. 11. 16.

42 And all these kings, and their land did Joshua take at one time: because the Lord God of Israel fought for Israel.

43 And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, unto the camp to Gilgal.

CHAP. XI.

AND it came to pass when Jabin king of Hazor had heard those things, that he sent to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king [a] of Shimron, and to the king of Achshaph, 1450.

[a] Chap. 19. 15.

2 And

V. 34. Joshua passed unto Eglon—A city of Judah.

V. 35. They took it on that day—On which they first attempted it.

V. 36. Joshua went, and all Israel with him, unto Hebron—Which though they took, and killed all its inhabitants, yet they did not keep it.

V. 37. And all the cities thereof—Which were subject to its jurisdiction; this being, it seems, a royal city, as Gibeon was, verse 2. and having cities under it, as that had.

V. 38. Joshua returned to Debir—He is said to return thither, not as if he had been there before, but because, having gone as far westward and southward as he thought fit, he now returned towards Gilgal, which lay northward and eastward from him, and in his return fell upon Debir.

V. 40. He left none remaining, but utterly destroyed all that breathed—All mankind. As the Lord God of Israel commanded—This is added for the vindication of the Israelites, whom God would not have to suffer in their reputation for executing his commands; and therefore he acquits them of that implacable hatred and heinous cruelty, which they might be thought guilty of, and ascribes it to himself, and his own just indignation against this people, who had forfeited their lives to the author of their being, by their disregard of the duties they owed to him. And God, who so often under the ordinary administration of his providence, takes away the lives of men before they have lived out half their days, by various diseases and accidents, here makes use of the people of Israel to destroy the inhabitants of Canaan, that it might be made known to all mankind the danger to which they exposed themselves, who live without worshipping God as he requires to be worshipped—that is in spirit and in truth, as their Creator, Preserver, and Redeemer, and to whom they owe unfeigned love and devotion to his Almighty will.

V. 41. Joshua smote them from Kadesh-barnea—Which lay in the south of Canaan. Even unto Gaza—Which was in the south-west of Canaan. So he here signifies that Joshua did, in this expedition, subdue all those parts which lay south and west from Gilgal. And all the country of Goshen—Not that Goshen in Egypt, but another in Judah.

V. 42. All these kings did Joshua take at one time, because the Lord God of Israel fought for Israel—All power belongeth to God, and he imparts it to whom and when he pleases; and Israel conquered all their enemies, because God fought for Israel, and this was the sole cause of their success. And the heirs of faith may ever say, If God be for us, who can be against us? (Rom. viii. 31.)

V. 43. Joshua returned, and all Israel, to Gilgal—And what must be their reflections on what they had experienced of the power and faithfulness of God, in performing for them thus far all that he had promised?

CHAP. XI.

V. 1. Jabin king of Hazor—The chief city of all those parts. Had heard those things—This was a remarkable instance of the wisdom and goodness of Divine providence, which so governed the minds and hearts of the Canaanites, that they were not at all united under one king, but divided amongst many petty kings; and next, that these did not all unanimously join their counsels and forces together, to oppose the Israelites at their first entrance, but quietly suffered the destruction of their brethren, thereby preparing the way for their own. The king of Shimron—Called Shimronmeron. The king of Achshaph—A place in the tribe of Aser.

V. 2. The

Before Christ 1450.

2 And to the kings that were on the north of the mountains, and of the plains, south of Cinneroth, and in the valley, and in the b Chap. 17. 11 Judges 1. 27. 1 Kings 4. 12. borders [b] of Dor, on the west; 3 And to the Canaanite on the east and on the west, and to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite in the c Judg. 3. 3. mountains, [c] and to the Hivite under Hermon, [d] in the land of Mizpeh.
d Gen. 31. 48. 4 And they went out, they and all their hosts with them, much people, even as the sand that is upon the sea-shore in multitude, with horses and chariots very many.
* Heb. assembled by appointment. 5 And when all these kings were * met together, they came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel.
6 ¶ And the Lord said unto Joshua, Be not afraid because of them: for to morrow about this time will I deliver them up all slain e 2 Sam. 8. 4. before Israel: thou shalt [e] hough their horses, and burn their chariots with fire.
7 So Joshua came, and all the people of war with him, against them by the waters of Merom suddenly, and they fell upon them.

Before Christ 1450.

8 And the Lord delivered them into the hand of Israel, who smote them, and chased them unto † great Zidon, and unto [f] ‡ § Misrephoth-maim, and unto the valley of Mizpeh eastward, and they smote them until they left them none remaining.
† Or, Zidon-rabbah. f Chap. 13. 6. ‡ Or, fair-, &c. § Heb. burnings of waters.
9 And Joshua did unto them as the Lord bade him: he houghed their horses, and burnt their chariots with fire.
10 ¶ And Joshua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and smote the king thereof with the sword: for Hazor beforetime was the head of all those kingdoms.
11 And they smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them: there was not ‖ any left to breathe; and he burnt Hazor with fire.
‖ Heb. any breath.
12 And all the cities of those kings, and all the kings of them did Joshua take, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and he

V. 2. The kings that were on the north of the mountains—In the mountainous country The plains of Cinneroth—In the plain lying southward from Cinneroth, or the lake of Genesareth. The borders of Dor—A place upon the coast of the midland sea.

V. 3. To the Canaanite on the east, and on the west—The Canaanites lived part of them on the east near Jordan, and part on the west near the sea, and both are here united. The Hivite under Hermon—That dwelt under mount Hermon, in the north of Canaan, from those Hivites who lived in Gibeon, of which before. The land of Mizpeh—That Mizpeh which was in the northern part of Gilead; but there were other cities called by that name, which signified a watching-place.

V. 5. These kings met together, and pitched at the waters of Merom—A lake made by the river Jordan, which was in the territory of the king of Schimron, and near Hazor, Jabin's royal city, and almost in the middle of these confederate kings.

V. 6. The Lord said, To morrow about this time will I deliver them up all slain before Israel—How seasonably does God repeat his promises, and apply his word when it is wanted, to encourage them that fear him to go forward in the ways of his Almighty will. Thou shalt hough their horses—Cut their hamstrings, that they may be unfit for war; for God forbade them to have or keep many horses, that they might not trust to their horses, as men are apt to do, nor distrust God for want of so necessary an help in war; nor ascribe the conquest of the land to their own strength, but wholly to God, by whose power alone a company of raw and unexperienced footmen were able to subdue so potent a people, which, besides their great numbers, and giants, and walled cities, had the advantage of many thousands of horses and chariots. These things are written for our learning, that we may encourage ourselves in the Lord, when our hearts are fully set to do his will, that we may be convinced no opposition from within, nor difficulties from without, are too great to be overcome by that patient faith which trusts in God for help to do his will, or suffer whatever he sees best.

V. 7. Joshua came, and all the people of war against them suddenly—When they least expected them; intending there to refresh, prepare, and order themselves for the offensive war which they designed; and in this way—suddenly, must every one fall upon those enemies of their peace—wrong habits and ways of living, and, as at one stroke, cut them off. Reader, what are the compliances with your own corrupt desires, or the customs of those that fear not God, which daily wound your peace, and fill you with the bitterness of self-condemnation? Make war on all that is spiritually opposed to God, not by any thought, word, or action of unkindness to others, but suddenly set upon all God would have you do. Whose friendship will compensate you for the loss of God's favour? His favour is better than life; and if the sudden change of your conduct to please God was to cost you your life, fear not them that can only kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do; but fear Him, who after death will condemn the wicked, whoever they had to countenance them in their course. With the end of this day the night may come, in which you shall find repentance and turning to God are things that continue no longer than the day of salvation, which, neglected and despised, infinite as was the price, it returns no more again for ever, and the miseries consequent upon its loss never to be abated. (Luke xvi. 24.)

V. 8. Israel chased them unto great Zidon—A great and famous city in the northwest part of Canaan, and upon the sea. Unto Misrephoth-maim—A place not far from Zidon. And unto the valley of Mispeh—This lay on the east as Zidon did on the west; and as they fled several ways, the Israelites also divided themselves in pursuing.

V. 9. Joshua did as the Lord bade him—And strengthened by grace thus must all do, that hope to hear the Judge of all say to them—Well done ye good and faithful servants, enter ye into the joy of your Lord. Joy, how great who can tell, any more than how near it may be at hand. Faithful reader, soon, very soon it will be that this hour shall be the last that you shall have patiently to endure temptations and trials, and to live to God. But who that knows what a gracious God and king they serve in the person of Christ Jesus the Lord, would not be thankful to live a thousand years in weakness, pain, poverty, persecution and temptation, that by his grace they might approve themselves to God, and promote his glory, and the present and eternal interests of those for whom he died.—The souls of all he made.

Before Christ 1450. he utterly destroyed them, [g] as Moses the servant of the Lord commanded.

g Num. 33. 52. Deut. 7. 2. and 20. 16, 17. * Heb. in their heap.

13 But as for the cities that stood still * in their strength, Israel burned none of them, save Hazor only; that did Joshua burn.

14 And all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, the children of Israel took for a prey unto themselves: but every man they smote with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.

h Exod. 34. 11. i Deut. 7. 2. † Heb. he removed nothing.

15 ¶ [h] As the Lord commanded Moses his servant, so [i] did Moses command Joshua, and so did Joshua: † he left nothing undone of all that the Lord commanded Moses.

k Chap. 12. 8. l Chap. 10. 41.

16 [k] So Joshua took all that land, the hills, and all the south-country, [l] and all the land of Goshen, and the valley, and the plain, and the mountain of Israel, and the valley of the same:

m Chap. 12. 7. ‡ Or, the smooth mountain.

17 [m] Even from ‡ the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-gad, in the valley of Lebanon, under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and smote them, and slew them.

§ Till 1445. Verse 23.

18 § Joshua made war a long time with all those kings.

n Chap. 9. 3.

19 There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save [n] the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon; all other they took in battle.

20 For it was of the Lord to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour, but that he might destroy them, [p] as the Lord commanded Moses.

Before Christ 1450.

p Deut. 20. 16, 17.

21 ¶ And at that time came Joshua, and cut off [q] the Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities.

q Num. 13. 22, 28. Deut. 1. 28.

22 There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel: only in Gaza, in Gath, [r] and in Ashdod, there remained.

r Chap. 15. 46.

23 So Joshua took the whole land, according to all that the Lord said unto Moses, and Joshua gave it for an inheritance unto Israel, [s] according to their divisions by their tribes. [t] And the land rested from war.

s Num. 26. 53. t Chap. 14. 15. and 21. 43. and 22. 4. and 23. 1.

CHAP. XII.

NOW these are the kings of the land, which the children of Israel smote, and possessed their land on the other side Jordan, toward the rising of the sun: from the river Arnon, [a] unto mount Hermon, and all the plain on the east.

1445. Verse 18.

a Deut. 3. 9.

2 [b] Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in 1452. b Num. 21. 24. Deut. 2. 36. and 3. 6, 16.

V. 13. But as for the cities that stood still in their strength—The walls or bulwarks, which were not utterly ruined in the taking of them. Israel burned none of them, save Hazor only—Which though taken by the Israelites, was not so much destroyed as other places were. That did Joshua burn—Because this city began the war.

V. 15. Joshua left nothing undone of all that the Lord commanded—Is there any thing which you, reader, have left undone, were you now to be called to give an account of your stewardship to God, who gave you life, reason, time, and all the talents with which he has intrusted you?

V. 16. Joshua took all that land—Of Canaan. The hill—Or the mountainous country of Judea. And all the south country—All the country of Judea. And the vale—The low countries. The plain—The fields. The mountain of Israel—The mountainous country of Israel. The vale of the same—Of Israel.

V. 17. That goeth up to Seir—To the country of Sier or Edom. Unto Baal-Gad—A part of mount Lebanon.

V. 18. Joshua made war a long time—For divers years together God would have the land to be conquered gradually, for many reasons. 1. Lest the sudden extirpation of those nations should have made a great part of the land desert, and thereby have encreased the number of wild beasts. 2. Lest being done suddenly and easily, it should soon be forgotten and despised, as the nature of man is apt to do in those cases. 3. That by long exercise the Israelites might grow skilful in the art of war, which was very useful and needful for them in that land. 4. For the trial and exercise of their patience and courage, and trust in God. 5. To oblige them to the greater care to please and obey God, whom they yet needed for their help against their enemies.

V. 19. All other they took in battle—All that were taken by Joshua, were taken by the sword. All that did not submit were taken by force.

V. 20. It was of the Lord to harden their hearts—They were given up to their own animosity, pride, confidence and stubbornness, that so their incorrigible wickedness might be punished.

V. 21. At that time came Joshua, and cut off the Anakims—A race of giants. From Anab—A place in the tribe of Judah. And from all the mountain of Israel—It doth not follow from hence, which some conclude, that this book was written by some other person long after Joshua's death, even after the division of the Israelites into two kingdoms, of Israel and Judah; but only that this was one of those clauses which were added or altered, and suited to the stile of the present times by Ezra. Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities—How could Joshua utterly destroy these, when Caleb and Othoniel destroyed some of them after Joshua's death? This might be, because this work, though done by the particular valour and industry of Caleb, is ascribed to Joshua as the general of the army, according to the manner of all historians; and therefore it is here attributed to Joshua, though afterwards, that Caleb might not lose his deserved honour, the history is more particularly described, and Caleb owned as the great instrument in the atchievement of it.

V. 22. In Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod—Three cities of the Philistines.

V. 23. So Joshua took the whole land—The greatest and the best part of it. The land rested from war—From actual war, so far that they could now quietly survey, distribute, and possess the land.

CHAP. XII.

V. 1. All the plain on the east—On the east of Jordan, called the plain, and the plains of Moab.

V. 3. The

Before Christ 1452. in Heſhbon, and ruled from Aroer, which is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and from the middle of the river, and from half Gilead, even unto the river Jabbok, which is the border of the children of Ammon:

c Deut. 3. 17. 3 And [c] from the plain to the ſea of Cinneroth on the eaſt, and unto the ſea of the d Chap. 13. 20. plain, even the ſalt-ſea on the eaſt, [d] the way

* Or, Teman. to Beth-jeſhimoth: and from [*] the ſouth,

† Or, the ſprings of Piſgah, or, the hill. under † [e] Aſhdoth-piſgah.

e Deut. 3. 17. and 4. 49. 4 And the coaſt of Og king of Baſhan, f Deut. 3. 11. Chap. 13. 12. which was of [f] the remnant of the giants g Deut. 1. 4. [g] that dwelt at Aſhtaroth, and at Edrei, h Deut. 3. 10. 5 And reigned in mount Hermon, [h] and i Deut. 3. 14. in Salcah, and in all Baſhan, [i] unto the border of the Geſhurites, and the Maachathites, and half Gilead, the border of Sihon king of Heſhbon.

k Num. 21. 24, 33. 6 [k] Them did Moſes the ſervant of the l Num. 32. 29, 33. Deut. 3. 12. Chap. 13. 8. Lord, and the children of Iſrael ſmite, and [l] Moſes the ſervant of the Lord gave it for a poſſeſſion unto the Reubenites, and Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh.

7 ¶ And theſe are the kings of the country which Joſhua and the children of Iſrael ſmote on this ſide Jordan on the weſt, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon, even unto m Chap. 10. 40. and 11. 17. [m] the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, which Joſhua gave unto the tribes of Iſrael for a poſſeſſion, according to their diviſions:

n Chap. 11. 16. 8 [n] In the mountains, and in the valleys, and in the plains, and in the ſprings, and in the wilderneſs, and in the ſouth country: the Hittites, the Amorites, and the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites.

1451. 9 ¶ [o] The king of Jericho, one: [p] the o Chap. 6. 2. p Chap. 8. 29. king of Ai, which is beſide Beth-el, one:

q Chap. 10. 23. 10 [q] The king of Jeruſalem, one: the king of Hebron, one:

r Chap. 10. 32. 11 The king of Jarmuth, one: [r] the king of Lachiſh, one:

s Chap. 10. 33. 12 The king of Eglon, one: [s] the king of Gezer, one:

t Chap. 10. 38. 13 [t] The king of Debir, one: the king of Geder, one:

14 The king of Hormah, one: the king of Arad, one: Before Christ 1451.

u Chap. 10. 29. 15 [u] The king of Libnah, one: the king of Adullam, one:

x Chap. 10. 28. y Chap. 8. 17. 16 [x] The king of Makkedah, one: [y] the king of Beth-el, one:

z 1 Kings 4. 10. 17 The king of Tappuah, one: [z] the king of Hepher, one:

18 The king of Aphek, one: the king of ‡ Or, Sharon. ‡ Laſharon, one:

a Chap. 11. 10. 19 The king of Madon, one: [a] the king of Hazor, one:

1450. b Chap. 11. 1. and 19. 15. 20 The king [b] of Shimron-meron, one: the king of Achſhaph, one:

21 The king of Taanach, one: the king of Megiddo, one:

c Chap. 19. 37. 22 [c] The king of Kedeſh, one: the king of Jokneam of Carmel, one:

d Gen. 14. 1, 2. Iſai. 9. 1. 23 The king of Dor, in the coaſt of Dor, one: the king of [d] the nations of Gilgal, one:

24 The king of Tirzah, one: all the kings thirty and one.

CHAP. XIII.

1445. NOW Joſhua [a] was old, and ſtricken in years; and the Lord ſaid unto him, Thou art old and ſtricken in years, and there remaineth yet very much land [*] to be poſſeſſed.

a See Chap. 14. 10. and 23. 1. * Heb. to poſſeſs it.

b Judg. 3. 3. c Joel 3. 4. 2 [b] This is the land that yet remaineth: [c] all the borders of the Philiſtines, and all Geſhuri.

d Jer. 2. 18. 3 [d] From Sihor, which is before Egypt, even unto the borders of Ekron northward, which is counted to the Canaanite: [e] five lords of the Philiſtines; the Gazathites, and the Aſhdothites, the Eſhkalonites, the Gittites, and the Ekronites; alſo [f] the Avites.

e Judges 3. 3. 1 Sam. 6. 16. Zeph. 2. 5. f Deut. 2. 23.

4 From the ſouth, all the land of the Canaanites, and † Mearah that is beſide the Sidonians, [g] unto Aphek, to the borders of [h] the Amorites:

† Or, the cave. g Chap. 19. 30. h See Judges 1. 34.

5 And the land of [i] the Giblites, and all Lebanon, toward the ſun-riſing, from Baal-gad, i 1 Kings 5. 18. Pſal. 83. 7. Ezek. 27. 9.

V. 3. The ſea of the plain—So called, becauſe it was a famous plain, pleaſant and fruitful, before it was turned into a ſalt ſea.

V. 4. The coaſt of Og king of Baſhan, that dwelt at Aſhtaroth, and at Edrei—Succeſſively, both being his royal manſions.

V. 8. In the wilderneſs—This word here, and elſewhere in Scripture, notes not a land wholly deſart and uninhabited, but one thin of inhabitants.

V. 9. Which is beſide Bethel—This is added to diſtinguiſh it from Ai of the Ammonites.

V. 24. All the kings thirty and one—Each being confined to a narrow compaſs, and being king only of one city, or ſmall province belonging to it.

CHAP. XIII.

V. 1. The Lord ſaid unto him, Thou art old—Therefore delay not to do the work which I have appointed and commanded thee to do. And did ſo wiſe a man as Joſhua was, require to be reminded of ſo plain a truth? There remaineth yet very much land to be poſſeſſed—To be conquered, and ſo poſſeſſed by the people.

V. 2. This is the land that yet remaineth—Unconquered by thee, and to be conquered by the Iſraelites. All Geſhuri—A people in the north-eaſt of Canaan, as the Philiſtines are on the ſouth-weſt.

V. 3. Which is counted to the Canaanite—Which, though now poſſeſſed by the Philiſtines, is a part of the land of Canaan, and therefore belongs to the Iſraelites.

V. 6. Them

Before Christ 1445. gad, under mount Hermon, unto the entering into Hamath.

6 All the inhabitants of the hill-country, from Lebanon unto [k] Misrephoth-maim, and all the Sidonians, them will I drive out from before the children of Israel: only divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance, as I have commanded thee.

7 Now therefore divide this land for an inheritance unto the nine tribes, and the half tribe of Manasseh,

8 With whom the Reubenites, and the Gadites have received their inheritance, [l] which Moses gave them beyond Jordan eastward, even as Moses the servant of the Lord gave them:

9 From Aroer, that is upon the bank of the river Arnon, and the city that is in the midst of the river, [m] and all the plain of Medeba unto Dibon:

10 And all the cities of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, unto the border of the children of Ammon:

11 [n] And Gilead, and the border of the Geshurites, and Maachathites, and all mount Hermon, and all Bashan unto Salcah:

12 All the kingdom of Og in Bashan, which reigned in Ashtaroth and in Edrei, who remained of [o] the remnant of the giants: for these did Moses smite, and cast them out.

13 Nevertheless, the children of Israel expelled [p] not the Geshurites, nor the Maachathites: but the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites until this day.

14 [q] Only unto the tribe of Levi he gave none inheritance; the sacrifices of the Lord God of Israel made by fire, are their inheritance, [r] as he said unto them.

15 ¶ And Moses gave unto the tribe of the children of Reuben, inheritance according to their families:

16 And their coast was [s] from Aroer that is on the bank of the river Arnon, [t] and the city that is in the midst of the river, [u] and all the plain by Medeba:

17 Heshbon, and all her cities that are in the plain; Dibon, and ‡ Bamoth-baal, and Beth-baal-meon,

18 [x] And Jahaz, and Kedemoth, and Mephaath,

19 [y] And Kirjathaim, and Sibmah, and Zareth-shahar, in the mount of the valley,

20 And Beth-peor, and [z] § Ashdoth-pisgah, and Beth-jeshimoth,

21 [a] And all the cities of the plain, and all the kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites, which reigned in Heshbon, [b] whom Moses smote [c] with the princes of Midian, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, which were dukes of Sihon, dwelling in the country.

22 ¶ [d] Balaam also the son of Beor, the ‖ sooth-sayer did the children of Israel slay with the sword, among them that were slain by them.

23 And

k Chap. 11. 8.
l Num. 32. 33. Deut. 3. 12, 13. Chap. 22. 4.
m Num. 21. 30.
n Chap. 12. 5.
o Deut. 3. 11. Chap. 12. 4. p Verse 13.
q Chap. 14. 3, 4.
r Verse 33.
s Chap. 12. 2.
t Num. 21. 28.
u Num. 21. 30.
‡ Or the high places of Baal, and house of Baal-meon: See Num. 32. 38.
x Num. 21. 23.
y Num. 32. 37.
z Deut. 3. 17. Chap. 12. 3.
§ Or springs of Pisgah, or, the hill.
a Deut. 3. 10.
b Num. 21. 24.
c Num. 31. 8.
d Num. 22. 5. and 24. 8.
‖ Or, diviner.

V. 6. Them will I drive out from before the children of Israel—Presently after thy death, if the Israelites do not hinder it by their unbelief and consequent wickedness. Divide thou it by lot unto the Israelites for an inheritance—Though they be now unconquered, yet divide them, as a pledge to assure them of my help in conquering them after thy death; and to lay an obligation upon the Israelites to proceed, and to bear witness against them, in case they did not; and as a wall of partition between them and the Canaanites, to prevent all agreements and confederacies with them.

V. 8. As Moses the servant of the Lord gave them—Which Moses gave them by my command, and therefore do not thou disturb them in their possessions, but proceed to divide the other possessions to the rest.

V. 11. The border of the Maachathites—Whose land God had been given to the Israelites without Jordan, though they had not yet used the gift of God, nor taken possession of it.

V. 13. But the Geshurites and the Maachathites dwell among the Israelites unto this day—This seems added by way of reflection upon the present Israelites; implying that although Moses did and might permit them to remain, both because the land which he had conquered was more than enough for the Israelitish possessors; and because, being intent upon their passage over Jordan into the land of Canaan, he would not delay them, by searching their enemies out of all their corners; yet they were in fault, in not going on and perfecting the work which was begun by Moses, and carried on so far by Joshua.

V. 14. The sacrifices of the Lord God of Israel are their inheritance—This passage is often repeated, to prevent those calumnies and injuries which God foresaw the Levites were likely to meet with from the malice, envy, and covetousness of their brethren; and to oblige all the other tribes to a cheerful giving to the Levites their dues, to which they had as good a title as they had to the several possessions which God continued to the descendants of Abraham, till the ceremonial law, with the Levitical priesthood, were together abolished.

V. 15. Moses gave unto the children of Reuben inheritance—Dividing the inheritance into as many parts as they had families.

V. 21. Which were dukes of Sihon—There were divers petty kings in those parts, which were subject to greater kings, and such are here called dukes or princes of Sihon, because they were subject and tributaries to him, and therefore did one way or other assist Sihon in this war, though they were not killed at this time.

V. 22. Balaam the soothsayer—So he was in truth, though a prophet, in title and profession. Him did the children of Israel slay with the sword—He had shewn his desire to curse Israel for reward: They that despise the Israel of God, despise God himself, who is related to his church and people by the tenderest ties—as the head is to the body; and whatever is done against one is felt by the other, and our Lord takes directly to himself both the good and ill treatment which those receive which live by faith in him. (Matth. xxv. 35. Acts ix. 5.) And, in this instance of Balaam, we see how long after the time of his shewing his desire to have the people of Israel destroyed, he himself is destroyed by them,

Before Christ 1445.

23 And the border of the children of Reuben was Jordan, and the border thereof. This was the inheritance of the children of Reuben after their families, the cities, and the villages thereof.

24 And Moſes gave inheritance unto the tribe of Gad, even unto the children of Gad, according to their families:

e Num.21.35. and 32. 35.

25 [e] And their coaſt was Jazer, and all the cities of Gilead, and half the land of the children of Ammon, unto Aroer, that is before Rabbah:

26 And from Heſhbon unto Ramoth-mizpeh, and Betonim: and from Mahanaim unto the border of Debir:

f Num. 32.36. g Gen. 33. 17. 1 Kings 7. 46.

27 And in the valley, [f] Beth-aram, and Beth-nimrah, [g] and Succoth, and Zaphon, the reſt of the kingdom of Sihon king of Heſhbon, Jordan and his border, even unto

h Num.34.11.

the edge [h] of the ſea of Cinnereth, on the other ſide Jordan eaſtward.

28 This is the inheritance of the children of Gad after their families, the cities, and their villages.

29 ¶ And Moſes gave inheritance unto the half-tribe of Manaſſeh: and this was the poſſeſſion of the half-tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, by their families.

30 And their coaſt was from Mahanaim, all Baſhan, all the kingdom of Og king of i Num.32.41. 2 Chron. 2.23.

Baſhan, and [i] all the towns of Jair, which are in Baſhan, threeſcore cities:

31 And half Gilead, and Aſhtaroth, and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan, were pertaining unto the children of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, even to the one half of

k Num.32.39.

the [k] children of Machir by their families.

32 Theſe are the countries which Moſes did diſtribute for inheritance in the plains of Moab, on the other ſide Jordan by Jericho eaſtward.

Before Christ 1445.

33 [l] But unto the tribe of Levi Moſes gave not any inheritance: the Lord God of Iſrael was their inheritance, [m] as he ſaid unto them.

l Chap. 18. 7.

m Num.18.20. Deut. 10. 9. and 18. 1, 2.

CHAP. XIV.

1444.

AND theſe are the countries which the children of Iſrael inherited in the land of Canaan, [a] which Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael diſtributed for inheritance unto them.

a Num.34.17.

2 [b] By lot was their inheritance, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moſes, for the nine tribes, and for the half-tribe.

b Num.26.55. and 33. 54. and 34. 13.

3 For Moſes had given the inheritance of two tribes, and an half-tribe, on the other ſide Jordan: but unto the Levites he gave none inheritance among them.

4 For [c] the children of Joſeph were two tribes, Manaſſeh and Ephraim: therefore they gave no part unto the Levites in the land, ſave cities to dwell in, with their ſuburbs for their cattle, and for their ſubſtance.

c Gen. 48. 5. 1 Chron.5.1,2.

5 [d] As the Lord commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael did, and they divided the land.

d Num. 35. 2. Chap. 21. 2.

6 ¶ Then the children of Judah came unto Joſhua in Gilgal: and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh the [e] Kenezite ſaid unto him, Thou knoweſt [f] the thing that the Lord ſaid unto Moſes the man of God, concerning me and thee, [g] in Kadeſh-barnea.

e Num.32.12. and Chap. 15. 17. f Num. 14.24. g Num.13.26.

7 Forty

them, God giving in his perſon an example to all men, that as a man ſoweth ſo ſhall he reap; that whoever does but wiſh or deſire any thing to another's prejudice, does but lay up for himſelf ſorrow, or ſuffering—ſorrow for his crime againſt that univerſal charity which God requires of all, or ſuffering if he does not truly repent of the crime. And ſo jealous is God of his own honour, that many times, when he has forgiven the ſin and ſaved the ſouls of men, he has allowed their lives to be taken for the crimes they did commit, or would have committed if they could.

V. 29. Moſes gave inheritance unto the half-tribe of Manaſſeh—As a recompence to Machir the Manaſſite, for his valiant acts againſt Og; and becauſe the country was too large for the two tribes of Reuben and Gad.

V. 33. The Lord God of Iſrael was their inheritance—He was their portion and exceeding great reward; without him nothing is good; and they that have found his favour have found that which is better than life, and all things in it.

CHAP. XIV.

V. 1. Eleazar the prieſt—He beſt underſtood the laws of God by which this diviſion was to be regulated. The heads of the fathers of the tribes—Twelve perſons, each the head of his tribe, which were appointed by God, (Numb. xxxiv. 19.)

V. 2. By lot was their inheritance—This courſe God ordained, partly to prevent diſcontents, enmities, animoſities, and quarrels among the tribes about the quality of their ſeveral portions; and partly to demonſtrate the truth and wiſdom of his providence, by which alone thoſe parts fell to each of them, which Jacob long ſince, and Moſes lately, foretold.

V. 4. The children of Joſeph were two tribes—Had the double portion, or the portion of two tribes; and therefore, though Levi was excluded, there remained nine tribes and a half to be provided for in Canaan.

V. 5. They divided the land—They; the perſons named, who repreſented and acted in the name of the children of Iſrael.

V. 6. The children of Judah came unto Joſhua: and Caleb—Not ſo much to intercede for Caleb, which was not needful for Joſhua, eſpecially in a thing already promiſed by God, but only to juſtify and countenance him in his deſire. Thou knoweſt the thing that the Lord ſaid unto Moſes—In general, the gracious promiſe he made us of poſſeſſing this land, and in particular for my part.

V. 7. I brought him word again, as it was in mine heart—I ſpake ſincerely without flattery and fear, when the other ſpies were biaſſed by their own fears, and the dread of the people, to ſpeak otherwiſe than in their conſciences they believed.

Before Christ 1444.

7 Forty years old was I when Moſes the servant of the Lord [h] ſent me from Kadeſh-barnea, to eſpy out the land; and I brought him word again, as it was in mine heart.

8 Nevertheleſs, [i] my brethren that went up with me, made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly [k] followed the Lord my God.

9 And Moſes ſware on that day, ſaying, [l]
Surely the land [m] whereon thy feet have trodden, ſhall be thine inheritance, and thy childrens for ever: becauſe thou haſt wholly followed the Lord my God.

10 And now behold, the Lord hath kept me alive, [n] as he ſaid, theſe forty and five years, even ſince the Lord ſpake this word unto Moſes, while the children of Iſrael * wandered in the wilderneſs: and now lo, I am this day fourſcore and five years old.

11 [o] As yet I am as ſtrong this day, as I was in the day that Moſes ſent me: as my ſtrength was then, even ſo is my ſtrength now, for war, both to go out, and to come in.

12 Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the Lord ſpake in that day, (for thou heardeſt in that day how [p] the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced) if ſo be the Lord will be with me, then I ſhall be able to drive them out, as the Lord ſaid.

13 And Joſhua bleſſed him, [o] and gave unto Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, Hebron for an inheritance.

Before Christ 1444.

14 [r] Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh the Kenezite, unto this day: becauſe that he wholly followed the Lord God of Iſrael.

15 And [s] the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba, which Arba was a great man among the Anakims. [t] And the land had reſt from war.

CHAP. XV.

THIS then was the lot of the tribe of the children of Judah by their families, [a] even to the border of Edom; the [b] wilderneſs of Zin ſouthward, was the uttermoſt part of the ſouth coaſt.

2 And their ſouth border was from the ſhore of the ſalt ſea, from the * bay that looketh ſouthward.

3 And it went out to the ſouth ſide [c] to † Maaleh-acrabbim, and paſſed along to Zin, and aſcended up on the ſouth ſide unto Kadeſh-barnea: and paſſed along to Hezron, and went up to Adar, and fetched a compaſs to Karkaa.

4 From thence it paſſed toward Azmon, and went out unto the river of Egypt, and the goings out of that coaſt were at the ſea: this ſhall be your ſouth coaſt.

5 And the eaſt border was the ſalt ſea, even

[h] Num. 13. 6. and 14. 6.
[i] Num 13. 31, 32.
[k] Num. 14. 24.
[l] Deut. 11. 24. Chap. 1. 3.
[m] See Num. 13. 22.
[n] Num. 14. 30.
* Heb. walked.
[o] See Deut. 34. 7.
[p] Num. 13. 28, 32, 33.
[o] Chap. 10. 36 and 11. 21. and 15. 13. Judg. 1. 20.
[r] See Chap. 21. 11, 12. 1 Chr. 6. 55, 56.
[r] Chap. 21. 12.
[s] Gen. 23. 2. Chap. 15. 13.
[t] Chap. 11. 23.
[a] Num. 34. 3.
[b] Num. 33. 36.
* Heb. tongue.
[c] Num. 34. 4.
† Or, the going up to Acrabbim.

V. 8. But I wholly followed the Lord my God—Which ſelf-commendation is juſtifiable, becauſe it was neceſſary, as being the ground and foundation of his petition.

V. 10. Now behold, the Lord hath kept me alive—No power ſhort of that which gave life to all the living, can continue life to any creature from one breath to another. How great the obligation of living to him, to whoſe mighty power all are thus indebted for life. Theſe forty and five years—Whereof thirty-eight years were ſpent in the wilderneſs, and ſeven ſince they came into Canaan.

V. 11. I am as ſtrong this day, as I was in the day that Moſes ſent me. Thus we ſee that they that wholly follow the Lord have the bleſſings of the life that now is, and full ſtrength is continued to advanced age. So is my ſtrength now, for war—Not only for counſel but for action, for marching and fighting. Both to go out, and to come in—To perform all the duties belonging to my place.

V. 12. Now therefore give me this mountain—This mountainous country, in which was Hebron. For thou heardeſt—Didſt underſtand, both by the reports of others, and by thy own obſervation. If ſo be the Lord will be with me—A modeſt, humble, and pious expreſſion, ſignifying both the abſolute neceſſity of God's help and his godly fear, leſt God for his ſins ſhould deny his aſſiſtance to him, as he might juſtly do; for, although he was well aſſured in general, that God would crown his people with ſucceſs in this war, yet he might doubt of his particular ſucceſs in this or that enterprize. Then I ſhall be able to drive them out, as the Lord ſaid—Out of their faſtneſſes where they yet remain. Caleb deſires this difficult work as a teſtimony of his own faith, and as a motive to quicken and encourage his brethren to the like attempts.

V. 13. Joſhua bleſſed him—Prayed to God to bleſs and help him, according to his own deſire.

V. 14. Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb, becauſe he wholly followed the Lord God of Iſrael—His obtaining his inheritance was the conſequence of his obedience, and his obedience was the conſequence of his faith: by faith he followed the Lord, and he obtained all that God had promiſed: and will not they do the ſame, who, by faith, wholly follow the Lord?

V. 15. Which Arba was a great man—In ſtature, ſtrength, dignity, and authority, as being the progenitor of Anak, the father of thoſe famous giants called Anakims. The land had reſt from war—Which gave them opportunity for the diſtribution of the land.

CHAP. XV.

V. 1. This then was the lot—This work of caſting lots was tranſacted with great ſerioufneſs and ſolemnity in God's preſence, with prayer and appeal to him for the deciſion of the matter. It is probable that there were two urns, into one of which were put the names of all the tribes, each in a diſtinct paper, and into the other the names of each portion deſcribed; then Eleazar, or ſome other perſon, drew out firſt the name of one of the tribes, and then the name of one portion out of the other, and that portion was appropriated to that tribe, and ſo the reſt. And with reſpect to theſe urns, in the bottom of which the papers lay, theſe lots are often ſaid to come up, or come forth. Of the children of Judah—Whoſe lot came out firſt by God's diſpoſition, as a note of his pre-eminency above his brethren.

Before Christ 1444.

even unto the end of Jordan: and their border in the north quarter, was from the bay of the sea, at the uttermost part of Jordan.

6 And the border went up to Bethogla, and passed along by the north of Beth-arabah, and the border went up [d] to the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben.

d Chap. 18. 17.

7 And the border went up toward Debir from the valley of Achor, and so northward looking toward Gilgal, that is before the going up to Adummim, which is on the south side of the river: and the border passed towards the waters of En-shemesh, and the goings out thereof were at [e] Enrogel.

e 2 Sam. 17. 17. 1 Kings 1. 9.

8 And the border went up [f] by the valley of the son of Hinnom, unto the south side of the Jebusite, the same is Jerusalem: and the border went up to the top of the mountain, that lieth before the valley of Hinnom, westward, which is at the end [o] of the valley of the giants northward.

f Jer. 19. 6.

o Chap. 18. 16.

9 And the border was drawn from the top of the hill unto the fountain of the water of Nephtoah, and went out to the cities of mount Ephron, and the border was drawn [h] to Baalah, which is Kirjath-jearim.

h 1 Chron. 13. 6.

10 And the border compassed from Baalah westward unto mount Seir, and passed along unto the side of mount Jearim (which is Chesalon) on the north-side, and went down to Beth-shemesh, and passed on to Timnah.

11 And the border went out unto the side of Ekron northward: and the border was drawn to Shicron, and passed along to mount Baalah, and went out unto Jabneel; and the goings out of the border were at the sea.

12 And the west border was [i] to the great sea, and the coast thereof: this is the coast of the children of Judah round about, according to their families.

i Verse 47. Num. 34. 6, 7.

Before Christ 1444.

13 ¶ [k] And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh, he gave a part among the children of Judah, according to the commandment of the Lord to Joshua, even [l] ‡ the city of Arba the father of Anak, which city is Hebron.

k Chap. 14. 13.

l Chap. 14. 15. ‡ Or, Kirjath-arba.

14 And Caleb drove thence [m] the three sons of Anak, [n] Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai, the children of Anak.

m Judges 1. 10, 20.

n Num. 13. 22.

15 And [o] he went up thence to the inhabitants of Debir: and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher.

o Chap. 10. 38. Judg. 1. 11.

16 ¶ And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

17 And [p] Othniel the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

p Judg. 1. 13. and 3. 9.

18 And it came to pass, as she came unto him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and [q] she lighted off her ass: and Caleb said unto her, What wouldest thou?

q See Gen. 24. 64. 1 Sam. 25. 23.

19 Who answered, Give me a blessing; for thou hast given me a south land, give me also springs of water: and he gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs.

20 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Judah, according to their families.

21 And the uttermost cities of the tribe of the children of Judah, toward the coast of Edom southward, were Kabzeel, and Eder, and Jagur,

22 And Kinah, and Dimonah, and Adadah,

23 And Kedesh, and Hazor, and Ithnan,

24 Ziph, and Telem, and Bealoth,

25 And

V. 5. The east border was the salt sea, even unto the end of Jordan—The place where Jordan runs into the salt sea.

V. 13. And unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh he—Joshua. Gave a part among the children of Judah—Of which tribe Messiah was to come; so that Caleb had also a part with them to whom the promise of this distinguished blessing was made; and they that follow the Lord with their whole heart, whatever tribe they are of, will have part with them on whom the best blessings are bestowed.

V. 14. Caleb drove thence the three sons of Anak—These giants having either recovered their cities, or defended themselves in the mountains.

V. 16. Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife—Which is to be understood with some conditions, as if he were one who could marry her by God's law; for every promise contrary to that is void: And if she were willing—for though parents had a great power over their children, they could not force them to marry any person against their own wills. He might otherwise be an unfit and unworthy person; but this was no ordinary proposal for the imitation of others, but a divine impulse, that Othniel's valour might be more manifest, and so the way prepared for his future government of the people.

V. 17. Othniel the son of Kenaz, the brother of Caleb, took it—The word brother is commonly used for any kinsman.

V. 18. As she came unto him—As she went from her father's house to her husband's. She moved him to ask—She persuaded her husband, that he would suffer her to ask as she did.

V. 19. Give me a blessing—A gift, as that word signifies. Thou hast given me a south land—(i. e.) A dry land, which was much exposed to the south wind, which in those parts was very hot and drying, as coming from the deserts of Arabia. Give me also springs of water—A field wherein are springs of water, which, in that country, were of great price.

V. 21. The uttermost cities—Those which were on the borders of the land, not the midland cities.

V. 45. Ekron

Before Christ 1444.

25 And Hazor, Hadattah, and Kerioth, and Hezron, which is Hazor.
26 Amam, and Shema, and Moladah,
27 And Hazar-gaddah, and Heſhmon, and Beth-palet, 28 And Hazar-ſhual, and Beerſheba, and Bizjothjah, 29 Baalah, and Iim, and Azem,
30 And Eltolad, and Cheſil, and Hormah,
31 And Ziklag, and Madmannah, and Sanſannah, 32 And Lebaoth, and Shilhim, and Ain, and Rimmon: all the cities are twenty and nine, with their villages.
33 And in the valley, Eſhtaol, and Zoreah, and Aſhnah, 34 And Zanoah, and En-gannim, Tappuah, and Enam, 35 Jarmuth, and Adullam, Socoh, and Azekah, 36 And Sharaim, and Adithaim, and Gederah, ‖ and Gederothaim: fourteen cities with their villages.
37 Zenan, and Hadaſhah, and Migdelgad;
38 And Dilean, and Mizpeh, [t] and Jokthеel, 39 Lachiſh, and Bozkath, and Eglon,
40 And Cabbon, and Lahmas, and Kithliſh,
41 And Gederoth, Beth-dagon, and Naamah, and Makkedah: ſixteen cities with their villages.
42 Libnah, and Ether, and Aſhan,
43 And Jiphtah, and Aſhnah, and Nezib,
44 And Keilah, and Achzib, and Mareſhah: nine cities with their villages.
45 Ekron, with her towns, and her villages.
46 From Ekron even unto the ſea, all that ‖ near Aſhdod, with their villages.
47 Aſhdod with her towns and her villages, Gaza with her towns and her villages, unto the river of Egypt, and the great ſea, and the border thereof.
48 ¶ And in the mountains, Shamir, and Jattir, and Socoh, 49 And Dannah, and Kirjath-ſannah, which is Debir,
50 And Anab, and Eſhtemoh, and Anim,
51 [s] And Gothen, and Holon, and Giloh: eleven cities with their villages.
52 Arab, and Dumah, and Eſhean,
53 And * Janum, and Beth-tappuah, and Aphekah, 54 And Humtah, and [t] Kirjath-arba (which is Hebron) and Zior: nine cities with their villages.
55 Maon, Carmel, and Ziph, and Juttah,
56 And Jezreel, and Jokdeam, and Zanoach,
57 Cain, Gibeah, and Timnah: ten cities with their villages.
58 Halhul, Beth-zur, and Gedor,
59 And Maarath, and Beth-anoth, and Eltekon: ſix cities with their villages.
60 Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim) and Rabbah: two cities with their villages.
61 ¶ In the wilderneſs, Beth-arabah, Middin, and Secacah, 62 And Nibſhan, and the city of Salt, and En-gedi: ſix cities with their villages.
63 As for the Jebuſites the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, [u] the children of Judah could not drive them out: [x] but the Jebuſites dwell with the children of Judah at Jeruſalem unto this day.

Before Christ 1444.

t 2 Kings 14. 7.
‖ Or, or.
‖ Heb. by the lay place of.
s Chap. 10. 41. and 11. 16.
* Or, Janus.
t Chap. 14. 15.
u See Judges 1. 8. 2 Sam. 5. 7.
x Judges 1. 21.

CHAP. XVI.

AND the lot of the children of Joſeph * fell from Jordan by Jericho, unto the water of Jericho on the eaſt, to the wilderneſs that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Beth-el,
2 And goeth out from Beth-el to [a] Luz, and paſſeth along unto the borders of Archi to Ataroth,
3 And

* Heb. went forth.
a Judg. 1. 26.

V. 45. Ekron—Here, and in the following verſes, are contained all the cities of the Philiſtines, among which are Gath and Aſkelon, which probably are here omitted, becauſe they were not, at this time, places of ſuch power as afterwards they were. With her towns—Leſſer cities, or towns, ſubject to Ekron's juriſdiction. And her villages—Leſſer towns or hamlets.

V. 47. The border thereof—The ſea-coaſt and all other cities, towns, and villages upon it.

V. 48. The mountains—In the higher grounds called mountains or hills, in compariſon of the ſea-coaſt.

V. 61. In the wilderneſs—So the Hebrews call places having but few inhabitants.

V. 63. The Jebuſites the inhabitants of Jeruſalem, the children of Judah could not drive them out—Becauſe of their unbelief, as Chriſt could do no mighty work—becauſe of the people's unbelief, (Mark vi. 5, 6.) and becauſe of their ſloth, cowardice, and wickedneſs, whereby they forfeited God's help, and then they muſt needs be impotent; but this inability was wilful, and brought upon them by themſelves. The Jebuſites dwell at Jeruſalem unto this day—When this book was written, whether in Joſhua's life, or after his death, when this clauſe was added here, and elſewhere in this book, by ſome other man of God, which muſt needs be done before David's time, when the Jebuſites were quite expelled, and their fort taken.

CHAP. XVI.

V. 1. The lot of the children of Joſeph—Of Ephraim, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, which are here put together.

V. 4. The

Before Christ 1444.

3 And goeth down westward to the coast of Japhleti, [b] unto the coast of Beth-horon the nether, and to Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the sea.

[b] Chap. 18. 13. 2 Chron. 8. 5.

4 [c] So the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.

[c] Chap. 17. 14.

5 ¶ And the border of the children of Ephraim, according to their families, was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the east side, was Ataroth-addar, [d] unto Beth-horon the upper.

[d] 2 Chron. 8. 5.

6 And the border went out toward the sea, to Michmethah on the north side, and the border went about eastward unto Taanath-shiloh, and passed by it on the east to Janohah:

7 And it went down from Janohah, to Ataroth, [e] and to Naarath, and came to Jericho, and went out at Jordan.

[e] 1 Chro. 7. 28.

8 The border went out from Tappuah westward unto the river Kanah: and the goings out thereof were at the sea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families.

[f] Chap. 17. 9.

9 And [f] the separate cities for the children of Ephraim, were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages.

[g] Judg. 1. 29. See 1 Kings 9. 16.

10 [g] And they drave not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephramites unto this day, and serve under tribute.

CHAP. XVII.

[a] Gen. 41. 51. and 46. 20. [b] Gen. 50. 23. Num. 26. 20. and 32. 39, 40. 1 Chron. 7. 14.

THERE was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh; (for he was the [a] first-born of Joseph) to wit, for [b] Machir the first-born of Manasseh the father of Gilead: because he was a man of war, therefore he had Gilead and Bashan.

[c] Num. 26. 29. [d] 1 Chro. 7. 18. * Num. 26. 30. Jezer. [e] Num. 26. 31. [f] Num. 26. 32.

2 There was also a lot for [c] the rest of the children of Manasseh by their families; [d] for the children of * Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, [e] and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, [f] and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: these were the male-children of Manasseh the son of Joseph by their families.

3 ¶ But [g] Zelophead the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

Before Christ 1444.

[g] Num. 26. 33. and 27. 1. and 36. 2.

4 And they came near before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before the princes, saying, The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brethren: therefore according to the commandment of the LORD, he gave them an inheritance among the brethren of their father.

5 And there fell ten portions to Manasseh, beside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan;

6 Because the daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons: and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

7 ¶ And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, that lieth before Shechem, and the border went along on the right hand, unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah.

8 Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but Tappuah on the border of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim.

† Or, brook of reeds. [h] Chap. 16. 9.

9 And the coast descended unto the † river Kanah, southward of the river: [h] these cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh: the coast of Manasseh also was on the north side of the river, and the out-goings of it were at the sea.

10 Southward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea is his border, and they met together in Asher on the north, and in Issachar on the east.

[i] 1 Chro. 7. 29.

11 [i] And Manasseh had in Issachar and in Asher, Beth-shean and her towns, and Ibleam and her towns, and the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Endor and her towns, and the inhabitants of Taanach and her towns, and the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns, even three countries.

[k] Judg. 1. 27.

12 Yet [k] the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities, but

V. 4. The children of Joseph, Manasseh—Half Manasseh. Ephraim, took their inheritance—Their several portions.

CHAP. XVII.

V. 6. The daughters of Manasseh had an inheritance among his sons—No less than the sons; their sex was no bar to their inheritance. In that glory which is to come, the daughters of Israel will have the same inheritance as the sons.

V. 9. These cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh—Are intermixed with their cities, these two being united together by a nearer alliance than the rest.

V. 11. Manasseh had the inhabitants of Dor—Not the places only, but the people; whom, contrary to God's command, they spared and used for servants.

V. 12. The Canaanites would dwell in that land—Were resolved to fight, rather than be turned out of their ancient habitations. Those that only seek to enter into that rest that remaineth for the Before Christ 1444. but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

13 Yet it came to pass when the children of Israel were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but did not utterly drive them out.

1 Chap. 16. 4. 14 [1] And the children of Joseph spake unto Joshua, saying, Why hast thou given me but one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am a great people, forasmuch as the Lord hath blessed me hitherto?

15 And Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood-country, and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites, and of the * giants, if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee.

* Or, Rephaims.

16 And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley, have [m] chariots of iron, both they who are of Bethshean and her towns, and they who are [n] of the valley of Jezreel.

m Judg. 4. 3.

n Chap 19. 18. 2 Kings 4. 12.

17 And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim, and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power: thou shalt not have one lot only.

18 But the mountain shall be thine, for it is a wood: and thou shalt cut it down: and the out-goings of it shall be thine: for thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots, and though they be strong.

Before Christ 1444.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together [a] at Shiloh, and set up the tabernacle of the congregation there, and the land was subdued before them.

a Chap. 19. 51. and 21. 2. and 22. 9.

2 And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance.

3 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, How long are you slack to go to possess the land which the Lord God of your fathers hath given you?

4 Give out from among you three men, for each tribe: and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go through the land, and describe it according to the inheritance of them, and they shall come again to me.

5 And they shall divide it into seven parts: Judah shall abide in their coast on the south, and the house of Joseph shall abide in their coasts on the north.

6 Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the Lord our God.

7 But people of God, will also find that the Canaanites—their evil dispositions and habits will remain with them; but they that will strive to enter into the spiritual possessions that are promised them, will, by faith, be able to bind and cast out all that oppose their peace.

V. 13. When the children of Israel were waxen strong, they put the Canaanites to tribute—They made gain of them, which, according to the command of God, they ought to have driven out.

V. 14. The children of Joseph—Of Ephraim and Manasseh. I am a great people—Or numerous, for so the Hebrew word often signifies.

V. 15. Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people—Turn thy complaints into actions and valiant exploits, and enlarge thy borders by thy own hand. In the land of the Perizzites—Supposed to be a savage kind of people, that lived in woods and mountains.

V. 16. The hill is not enough for us—If we should conquer it, yet it would not be sufficient for us. The Canaanites have chariots of iron—Not all made of iron, but armed with iron, having scythes and swords fastened to them, to cut down all that stood in the way. They at once complain of what they wanted, and of the difficulty of obtaining it—dissatisfied with their present circumstances, and unwilling to use the means of changing them for the better.

V. 17. Thou shalt not have one lot only—Thou needest and deservest more than that lot of which thou art actually possessed, and thou hast power to get more, which, if thou endeavourest to do, God will bless thee and give thee more.

CHAP. XVIII.

V. 1. The children of Israel assembled together at Shiloh, and set up the tabernacle of the congregation there—By God's appointment; hither it was removed from Gilgal, partly for the honour and convenience of Joshua, that he being of the tribe of Ephraim, and seating himself there, might have the opportunity of consulting with God as often as he desired and needed; and partly for the conveniency of all the tribes, that, being in the heart and center of them, they might more easily resort to it from all places. Here the tabernacle continued for above 300 years, till Samuel's days.

V. 3. How long are you slack to go to possess the land—Having sufficient plenty of all things in their present condition, they grew slothful, and were unwilling to run into new hazards and wars. And is it not thus with many of the spiritual Israel, when they have advanced far enough in religion to become somewhat easy in themselves, and creditable in the esteem of others, they are willing to sit still, and forget what is the will of God concerning their advancement, in obtaining all the spiritual blessings he hath promised, and in living to his praise?

V. 4. Give out from among you three men of each tribe—Of each of these tribes, who were yet unprovided for.

V. 5. They shall divide it into seven parts—All which the Lord of the whole earth had given them a right to, and of which, when they pleased, they might take possession.

V. 6. That I may cast lots for you here before the Lord—Before the ark, that God may be witness, judge, and author of the division, that each may be contented with his lot, and that your several possessions may be secured to you as things sacred, and not to be alienated. And as the possessions of the people of Israel were divided to them by lot, so is every one's lot in life given them by the Almighty disposer of all things; and from hence arises the duty of all being contented with the things that they have. And when it is considered that God has the good of all and of every one continually in view, and that it is a part of his gracious government to make difficulties and afflictions the very means of doing good to them that fear him, how much must the happiness of all

Before Christ 1444.

7 But the Levites have no part among you, for the prieſthood of the Lord is their inheritance: and Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the eaſt, which Moſes the ſervant of the Lord gave them.

8 ¶ And the men aroſe, and went away: and Joſhua charged them that went to deſcribe the land, ſaying, Go, and walk through the land, and deſcribe it, and come again to me, that I may here caſt lots for you before the Lord in Shiloh.

9 And the men went, and paſſed through the land, and deſcribed it by cities, into ſeven parts, in a book, and came again to Joſhua to the hoſt at Shiloh.

10 ¶ And Joſhua caſt lots for them in Shiloh, before the Lord: and there Joſhua divided the land unto the children of Iſrael according to their diviſions.

11 ¶ And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up according to their families: and the coaſt of their lot came forth between the children of Judah, and the children of Joſeph.

12 And their border on the north ſide was from Jordan, and the border went up to the ſide of Jericho, on the north ſide, and went up through the mountains weſtward, and the goings out thereof were at the wilderneſs of Beth-aven.

13 And the border went over from thence b Gen. 28. 19. toward Luz, to the ſide of Luz, (b which is Beth-el) ſouthward, and the border deſcended to Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth c Chap. 16. 3. on the ſouth ſide c of the nether Beth-horon.

14 And the border was drawn thence, and compaſſed the corner of the ſea ſouthward, from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon ſouthward: and the goings out thereof were at Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim) a city of the children of Judah: this was the weſt quarter.

15 And the ſouth quarter was from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the weſt, and went out to the well of waters of Nephtoah.

16 And the border came down to the end of the mountain that lieth before the valley of the ſon of Hinnom, and which is in the valley of the giants on the north, and deſcended to the valley of Hinnom, d to the ſide of Jebuſi on the ſouth, and deſcended to e En-rogel,

Before Christ 1444.

d Chap. 15. 8.

e Chap. 15. 7.

17 And was drawn from the north, and went forth to En-ſhemeſh, and went forth toward Geliloth, which is over againſt the going up of Adummim, and deſcended to f the ſtone of Bohan the ſon of Reuben,

f Chap. 15. 6.

18 And paſſed along toward the ſide over againſt * Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah.

* Or, the plain.

19 And the border paſſed along to the ſide of Beth-hoglah northward: and the outgoings of the border were at the north † bay of the ſalt ſea at the ſouth end of Jordan: This was the ſouth coaſt.

† Heb. tongue.

20 And Jordan was the border of it on the eaſt ſide. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coaſt thereof round about, according to their families.

21 Now the cities of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, according to their families, were Jericho, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz,

22 And Beth-arabah, and Zemaraim, and Beth-el,

23 And Avim, and Parah, and Ophrah,

24 And Chephar-haammonai, and Ophni, and Gaba: twelve cities with their villages.

25 Gibeon, and Ramah, and Beeroth,

26 And Mizpeh, and Chephirah, and Mozah,

27 And Rekem, and Irpeel, and Taralah,

28 And Zelah, Eleph, and Jebuſi, (which is Jeruſalem) Gibeath, and Kirjath: fourteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Benjamin according to their families.

CHAP. XIX.

AND the ſecond lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon, according to their families: and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children of Judah.

2 And all depend on a thankful ſubmiſſion to his will, whatever their lot may be in this ſhort life of trial?

V. 9. The men went, and deſcribed it by cities—According to the cities, to which the ſeveral parts or territories belonged.

V. 11. The lot of Benjamin came up, between the children of Judah and the children of Joſeph—Wherein we ſee the wiſdom of Divine providence, this being the only place in which that prophecy (Deut. xxxiii. 12.) could have been accompliſhed.

V. 14. Kirjath-baal (which is Kirjath-jearim)—The Iſraelites changed the name, to blot out the remembrance of Baal.

V. 16. To the ſide of Jebuſi—To that part where the Jebuſites lived, which was in and near Jeruſalem.

V. 21. Now the cities of Benjamin were Jericho, &c.—Though the city was deſtroyed, the territory remained, and ſome houſes probably were built and inhabited there, though it was not made a city with walls and gates, which was the thing forbidden.

CHAP

Before Christ 1444.

2 And [a] they had in their inheritance, Beer-ſheba, and Sheba, and Moladah, a 1 Chron. 4. 28.

3 And Hazar-ſhual, and Balah, and Azem,

4 And Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah,

5 And Ziklag, and Beth-marcaboth, and Hazar-ſuſah,

6 And Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuhen: thirteen cities and their villages.

7 Ain, Remmon, and Ether, and Aſhan: four cities and their villages.

8 And all the villages that were round about theſe cities, to Baalath-beer, Ramath of the ſouth. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon, according to their families.

9 Out of the portion of the children of Judah, was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them: therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 ¶ And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun, according to their families: and the border of their inheritance was unto Sarid.

b Gen. 49. 13.

11 [b] And their border went up toward the ſea, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbaſheth, and reached to the river that is [c] before Jokneam,

c Chap. 12. 22.

12 And turned from Sarid eaſtward, toward the ſun-riſing, unto the border of Chiſloth-tabor, and then goeth out to Daberath, and goeth up to Japhia, 13 And from thence paſſeth on along on the eaſt to Gittah-hepher, to Ittah-kazin, and goeth out to Remmon-* methoar to Neah.

*Or, which is drawn.

14 And the border compaſſeth it on the north ſide to Hannathon: and the out-goings thereof are in the valley of Jiphthah-el.

15 And Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem: twelve cities with their villages.

16 This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun, according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

17 ¶ And the fourth lot came out to Iſſachar, for the children of Iſſachar, according to their families.

18 And their border was toward Jezreel, and Cheſulloth, and Shunem, Before Christ 1444.

19 And Hapharaim, and Shihon, and Anaharath,

20 And Rabbith, and Kiſhion, and Abez,

21 And Remeth, and En-gannim, and En-haddah, and Beth-pazzez.

22 And the coaſt reacheth to Tabor, and Shahazimah, and Beth-ſhemeſh, and the out-goings of their border were at Jordan: ſixteen cities with their villages.

23 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, according to their families, the cities and their villages.

24 ¶ And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of Aſher, according to their families.

25 And their border was Helkath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achſhaph, 26 And Alammelech, and Amad, and Miſheal; and reacheth to Carmel weſtward, and to Shihor-libnath,

27 And turneth toward the ſun-riſing to Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the north ſide of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul on the left hand,

28 And Hebron, and Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, [d] even unto great Zidon:

d Judg. 1. 31.

29 And then the coaſt turneth to Ramah, and to the ſtrong city † Tyre, and the coaſt turneth to Hoſah: and the out-goings thereof are at the ſea from the coaſt to [e] Achzib.

† Heb. Tzor.

e Gen. 38. 5. Judg. 1. 31. Mic. 1. 14.

30 Ummah alſo, and Aphek, and Rehob: twenty and two cities with their villages.

31 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Aſher, according to their families, theſe cities with their villages.

32 ¶ The ſixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali: even for the children of Naphtali, according to their families.

33 And their coaſt was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel unto Lakum: and the out-goings thereof were at Jordan.

34 And then [f] the coaſt turneth weſtward to Aznoth-tabor, and goeth out from thence to f Deut. 33. 23.

CHAP. XIX.

V. 15. Beth-lehem—Not that where the Lord Jeſus was born, which was in Judah, thence called Bethlehem-Judah, but another.

V. 26. Carmel weſtward—Carmel by the ſea, to diſtinguiſh it from that Carmel in the tribe of Judah. This was a place of eminent fruitfulneſs, agreeable to the prophecy concerning Aſher, Gen. xlix. 20.

V. 28. Great Zidon—Called great for its antiquity, riches, and glory. This city either was not given to the Iſraelites, but is only mentioned as their border, or at leaſt never was poſſeſſed by them; not without a ſingular providence of God, that they might not, by the opportunity of ſo good a port, be engaged in much commerce with other nations; from which, together with wealth, that great corrupter of mankind, they might contract their errors and vices.

V. 29. To the ſtrong city Tyre—This city was no part of the land given them.

V. 35. Cinnereth

Before Christ 1444. to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sun-rising.

35 And the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath, and Cinnereth, 36 And Adamah, and Ramah, and Hazor,

37 And Kedesh, and Edrei, and En-hazor,

38 And Iron, and Migdal-el, Horem, and Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh: nineteen cities with their villages.

39 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

40 ¶ And the seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families.

41 And the coast of their inheritance was Zorah, and Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh, 42 And Shaalabbin, and Ajalon, and Jethlah,

43 And Elon, and Thimnathah, and Ekron,

44 And Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Baalath,

45 And Jehud, and Bene-berak, and Gath-rimmon,

46 And Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the border ‡ before § Japho.

‡ Or, over against § Or, Joppa, Acts, 9. 39.

47 And [g] the coast of the children of Dan went out too little for them: therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem, and took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, [h] Dan, after the name of Dan their father.

g See Judg. 18.

h Judg. 18. 29.

48 This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan, according to their families, these cities with their villages. Before Christ 1444.

49 ¶ When they had made an end of dividing the land for inheritance by their coasts, the children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua the son of Nun, among them:

50 According to the word of the LORD, they gave him the city which he asked, even [i] Timnath-[k]serah in mount Ephraim: and he built the city, and dwelt therein.

i Chap. 24. 30.
k 1 Chron. 7. 24.

51 [l] These are the inheritances which Eleazar the priest, and Joshua the son of Nun, and the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel, divided for an inheritance by lot, [m] in Shiloh before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: so they made an end of dividing the country. 1443.

l Num. 34. 17.

m Chap. 18. 1.

CHAP. XX.

THE LORD also spake unto Joshua, saying, 1444.

2 Speak to the children of Israel, saying, [a] Appoint out for you cities of refuge, whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses:

a Exod. 21. 13. Num. 35. 6, 11, 14. Deut. 19. 2, 9.

3 That the slayer that killeth any person unawares, and unwittingly, may flee thither: and they shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood.

4 And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities, shall stand at the entering of the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city; they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place that he may dwell among them.

5 [b] And if the avenger of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer

b Num. 35. 12.

V. 35. Cinnereth—Whence the lake of Cinnereth or Genesareth received its name.

V. 49. The children of Israel gave an inheritance to Joshua—They are said to give it, because the whole land was given to Joshua; and Eleazar and the princes as trustees, acting in the name, and for the good of the people; so that even Joshua could take nothing without their gift. As Joshua lived to glorify God by promoting the people's good, the people gave to him his share in their possessions.

V. 50. According to the word of the Lord—As God promised; Joshua having shewed the same courage and faithfulness which Caleb did, received equal encouragement from God.

V. 51. So they made an end of dividing the country—Thus carefully did infinite wisdom and goodness provide for preserving the several tribes in the peaceable possession of the several inheritances which he gave them, by describing the limits of each, and giving to them all enough and to spare. And thus will the redeemed of the Lord have their heavenly inheritance in Canaan above secured to them, in the full possession of all the blessings they are capable of enjoying for ever.

CHAP. XX.

V. 2. Appoint out for you cities of refuge—The possessions being now divided among you, do you reserve some of them for the use which I have commanded.

V. 3. That the slayer that killeth any person unawares, and unwittingly—Without knowledge. The same thing twice repeated, to cut off all the claims and expectations that wilful murderers might have of protection here; and God having declared, That such should be taken even from his altar, that they might be killed, (Exod. xxi. 14.) and accordingly Joab was, by Solomon's order, killed even at the altar. They shall be your refuge from the avenger of blood—The kinsman, who had right or power to demand, or take vengeance of the slaughter.

V. 4. He that doth flee shall stand at the entering of the gate—Where the judges used to sit. Shall declare his cause—What he hath done. The ears of the elders of that city; they shall take him into the city unto them, and gave him a place—Which they might well allow him, because God gave them the city with a reservation for such persons. And, thus may the guilty against God fly for refuge to the hope set before them; and confessing their

Before Christ 1444. slayer up into his hand: because he smote his neighbour unwittingly, and hated him not before-time.

6 And he shall dwell in that city, until he stand before the congregation for judgment, and [c] until the death of the high priest that shall be in those days: then shall the slayer return and come unto his own city, and unto his own house, unto the city from whence he fled.

c Num. 35. 12, 25.

* Heb sanctified.

7 ¶ And they * appointed Kedesh in Galilee in mount Naphtali, and Shechem in mount Ephraim, and Kirjath-arba (which is Hebron) in the mountain of Judah.

8 And on the other side Jordan by Jericho eastward, they assigned [d] Bezer in the wilderness upon the plain, out of the tribe of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead out of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Bashan out of the tribe of Manasseh.

d Deut. 4. 43. 1 Chron. 6. 78.

9 These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger that sojourneth among them, that whosoever killeth any person at unawares, might flee thither, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he stood before the congregation.

CHAP. XXI.

THEN came near the heads of the fathers of the Levites unto Eleazar the priest, and unto Joshua the son of Nun, and unto the heads of the fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel. Before Christ 1444.

2 And they spake unto them at [a] Shiloh, in the land of Canaan, saying, [b] The Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, to give us cities to dwell in, with the suburbs thereof for our cattle. a Chap. 18. 1. b Num. 35. 2.

3 And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites out of their inheritance at the commandment of the Lord, these cities and their suburbs.

4 And the lot came out for the families of the Kohathites: and [c] the children of Aaron the priest, which were of the Levites, [d] had by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin, thirteen cities. c Verse 8. 19. d See Chap. 24. 33.

5 And [e] the rest of the children of Kohath had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, ten cities. e Verse 20, &c.

6 And [f] the children of Gershon had by lot, out of the families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities. f Verse 27, &c.

7 [g] The children of Merari by their families, had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out g Verse 34, &c.

crimes to God, and in that truly repenting of them, they shall find mercy, and not be rejected or given up to the avenging justice of God.

V. 6. He shall dwell in that city, until he stand before the congregation—Assembly; the counsel appointed to judge of these matters.

V. 7. In the mountain of Judah—Concerning these cities, they were all upon mountains, that they might be seen at a great distance, and so direct those who fled thither. They were seated at a convenient distance one from another, for the benefit of the several tribes; for Kedesh was in the north, Hebron in the south, and Shechem between them; and they all belonged to the Levites; partly, that these causes might be more impartially examined, and justly determined by them who are presumed best able to understand the law of God, and most obliged and likely to follow it in their judgment, and not to be biassed by any affection or corrupt interest; and partly, that their just reputation with the people, and their good counsels, might lay some restraint upon revengeful persons, who might be inclined or tempted to follow the man-slayer thither, and endeavour to kill him.

V. 8. They assigned Bezer on the plain—And to be seen from far.

V. 9. These were the cities appointed for all the children of Israel, and for the stranger—Not only proselytes, but others also; because this was a matter of common right, that a distinction might be made between casual man-slayers and wilful murderers. Refuge was provided for all, but those whose lives were to be taken for their wilful crimes: And such is the mercy purchased by redeeming love, that those whose lives are taken for their crimes—their souls shall not be left to perish who look unto Jesus for mercy. (Luke xxiii. 43.)

V. 1. Then—When the whole land was distributed unto the several tribes, but not actually possessed by them; which was the proper season for them to put in their claim. The heads of the fathers of the Levites—The fathers of the Levites were Kohath, Gershom, and Merari, and the heads of these were the chief persons now alive of these several families.

V. 3. The children of Israel gave unto the Levites out of their inheritance—Out of their several possessions; partly, that the burden and loss might be equally divided; and principally, that the Levites being dispersed among the several tribes, according to Jacob's prediction, (Gen. xlix. 7.) might more easily, and frequently, teach the Israelites God's law and judgments, which they were engaged to do, (Deut. xxxiii. 10.) and that the people might upon all occasions resort to them, and require the meaning of the law at their mouths. These cities and their suburbs—Not only the use but the dominion of them.

V. 4. The Levites had by lot, out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin—Which three tribes were nearest to the temple, where their business lay. Thirteen cities—For though the priests were now few enough for one city, yet respect was to be had to their succeeding numbers; this division being made for all future generations. And seeing the Levites might sell their houses until the jubilee, much more might they let them; and therefore it is probable their cities were not very long uninhabited, many being inclined to dwell with them, by virtue of relations contracted with them, or out of respect to the service of God, and the constant opportunity of hearing and conversing on the things of God, and their own immortal interests.

V. 12. But

Before Christ 1444.

out of the tribe of Gad, and out of the tribe of Zebulun, twelve cities.

8 And the children of Israel gave by lot unto the Levites these cities with their suburbs, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses.

9 ¶ And they gave out of the tribe of the children of Judah, and out of the tribe of the children of Simeon, these cities which

* Heb. called. are here * mentioned by name,

10 Which the children of Aaron being of the families of the Kohathites, who were of the children of Levi, had: (for theirs was the first lot)

† Or, Kirjath-arba, Gen. 23. 2.

11 And they gave them † the city of Arba, the father of [h] Anak (which city is Hebron) in the hill-country of Judah, with the suburbs thereof round about it.

h Chap. 15. 13. 14.

i Chap. 14. 14. 1 Chron. 6. 56.

12 But [i] the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb the son of Jephunneh, for his possession.

k 1 Chron. 6. 57.

13 ¶ Thus [k] they gave to the children of Aaron the priest, [l] Hebron with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer, [m] and Libnah with her suburbs,

l Chap. 15. 54.

m Chap. 15. 42.

n Chap. 15. 48.

14 And [n] Jattir with her suburbs, [o] and Eshtemoa with her suburbs,

o Chap. 15. 20.

p 1 Chron. 6. 58. Hilen, Chap. 15. 51.

15 And [p] Holon with her suburbs, [q] and Debir with her suburbs,

q Chap. 15. 49.

r 1 Chron. 6. 59. Ashan, Chap. 15. 7.

s Chap. 15. 54. 55.

t Chap. 15. 10.

16 And [r] Ain with her suburbs, [s] and Juttah with her suburbs, and [t] Beth-shemesh with her suburbs: nine cities out of those two tribes.

17 And out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon with her suburbs, Geba with her suburbs, u 1 Chron. 6. 60. Alemeth.

18 Anathoth with her suburbs, and [u] Almon with her suburbs: four cities.

19 All the cities of the children of Aaron, the priests, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

20 ¶ And the families of the children of Kohath, the Levites, which remained of the children of Kohath, even they had the cities of their lot out of the tribe of Ephraim.

21 For they gave them Shechem with her suburbs in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the slayer, and Gezer with her suburbs, 22 And Kibzaim with her suburbs, and Beth-horon with her suburbs: four cities.

Before Christ 1444.

23 And out of the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with her suburbs, Gibbethon with her suburbs, 24 Aijalon with her suburbs, Gath-rimmon with her suburbs: four cities.

25 And out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Tanach with her suburbs, and Gath-rimmon with her suburbs: two cities.

26 All the cities were ten with their suburbs, for the families of the children of Kohath that remained.

27 ¶ And unto the children of Gershon of the families of the Levites, out of the other half-tribe of Manasseh, they gave Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer: and Beesh-terah with her suburbs: two cities.

28 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishon with her suburbs, Dabareh with her suburbs, 29 Jarmuth with her suburbs, En-gannim with her suburbs: four cities:

30 And out of the tribe of Asher, Mishal with her suburbs, Abdon with her suburbs, 31 Helkath with her suburbs, and Rehob with her suburbs; four cities:

32 And out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer: and Hammoth-dor with her suburbs, and Kartan with her suburbs: three cities.

33 All the cities of the Gershonites, according to their families, were thirteen cities with their suburbs.

34 ¶ And unto the families of the children of Merari the rest of the Levites, out of the tribe of Zebulun, Jokneam with her suburbs, and Kartah with her suburbs, 35 Dimnah with her suburbs, Nahalal with her suburbs: four cities.

36 And out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer with her suburbs, and Jahazah with her suburbs, 37 Kedemoth with her suburbs, and Mephaath with her suburbs: four cities.

38 And out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer: and Mahanaim with her suburbs,

39 Heshbon

V. 12. But the fields of the city, and the villages thereof, gave they to Caleb—(i. e.) All beyond the 2000 cubits expressed, (Numb. xxxv. 5.) This is here mentioned, not as his peculiar case, but as one eminent instance, to shew, that it was so in all the rest of the cities here named; that the fields and villages thereof still belonged to the several tribes from whom the cities and their suburbs were taken; and to make the rest of the Israelites more contentedly and cheerfully resign so great a part of their possessions to the Levites, because even Caleb did so, though his possession had been long before promised, and now actually given to him by God's special command, as a mark of honour and compensation for his long and faithful service.

V. 41. All

Before Christ 1444.

39 Heshbon with her suburbs, Jazer with her suburbs: four cities in all.

40 So all the cities for the children of Merari by their families, which were remaining of the families of the Levites, were by their lot, twelve cities.

41 All the cities of the Levites within the possession of the children of Israel were forty and eight cities with their suburbs.

42 These cities were every one with their suburbs round about them: thus were all these cities.

43 ¶ And the Lord gave unto Israel all the land which he sware to give unto their fathers: and they possessed it, and dwelt therein.

x Chap.11.23. 44 x And the Lord gave them rest round about, according to all that he sware unto their fathers: and there stood not a man of all their enemies before them; the Lord delivered all their enemies into their hand.

y Chap.23.14, 15. 45 y There failed not ought of any good thing which the Lord had spoken unto the house of Israel: all came to pass.

CHAP. XXII.

THEN Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, a Num.32.20. Deut. 3. 18. 2 And said unto them, Ye have kept a all that Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you.

3 Ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the Lord your God.

4 And now the Lord your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get ye unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave you on the other side Jordan. Before Christ 1444. b Num.32.33. Deut. 29. 8. Chap. 13. 8.

5 But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the Lord charged you, c to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart, and with all your soul. c Deut.10.12.

6 So Joshua blessed them, and sent them away: and they went unto their tents.

7 ¶ Now to the one half of the tribe of Manasseh, Moses had given possession in Bashan: but unto the other half thereof gave Joshua among their brethren on this side Jordan westward. And when Joshua sent them away also unto their tents, then he blessed them,

8 And he spake unto them, saying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with brass, and with iron, and with very much raiment: d divide the spoil of your enemies with your brethren. d Num.31.27. 1 Sam. 30.24.

9 ¶ And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, returned, and departed from the children of Israel out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto the country of Gilead, to the land of their possession, whereof they were possessed, according to the

V. 41. All the cities of the Levites were forty and eight cities—God was pleased to deal liberally with his ministers, that, being free from all outward distractions, they might more intirely and fervently devote themselves to the service of God, and the instruction of souls. And that no neglect of theirs might be chargeable against the Father of Mercies, but against those who were thus provided for, if they were careless and remiss in the discharge of their great and important duties to God, under whom they were to be employed for the general good of the people.

V. 43. The Lord gave unto Israel all the land—He gave them the right to all, and the actual possession of the greatest part of it, and power to possess the rest as soon as it was needful and convenient for them, which was by degrees, when their numbers were increased, and the absolute dominion of all the people remaining in it.

V. 44. There stood not a man of all their enemies before them—All the days of Joshua; afterwards it was otherwise with them.

V. 45. All came to pass—All was found true which God had promised, that all men might know, that whoever believes in the faithfulness of God, to them there will assuredly be an accomplishment of the things promised, notwithstanding any difficulties which may appear to be in the way of their performance.

CHAP. XXII.

V. 3. Ye have not left your brethren these many days—For years together, so long as the war lasted.

V. 4. Get ye unto your tents—To your settled habitations, which are often called tents.

V. 5. Take diligent heed—Watch over yourselves and all your actions. Do the commandment and the law—Two words expressing the same thing, the law of commandments delivered by Moses. Love the Lord your God, walk in all his ways, keep his commandments, cleave unto him, serve him with all your heart, and with all your soul—With the whole strength of your minds, wills, and affections.

V. 7. When Joshua sent them away unto their tents, then he blessed them—For having fulfilled their promise, and discharged their duty: And blessed will they be of God who faithfully do his will, whatever their reward may be from men.

V. 8. Divide the spoil of your enemies with your brethren—With them who staid beyond Jordan for the defence of their land, and wives, and children, who therefore were to have a share, though not an equal share with these.

V. 10. When they came unto the borders of Jordan, they built there an altar—On the other side Jordan in Gilead. The reason they

Before Christ 1444.

the word of the Lord by the hand of Moſes.

10 ¶ And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh built there an altar by Jordan, a great altar to ſee to.

11 ¶ And the children of Iſrael heard ſay, Behold, the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, have built an altar over againſt the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the paſſage of the children of Iſrael.

12 And when the children of Iſrael heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael gathered themſelves together at Shiloh, [e] to go up to war againſt them.

e Deut. 13. 15. Judg. 20. 1, 2.

13 And the children of Iſrael ſent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half-tribe of Manaſſeh into the land of Gilead, [f] Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, f Exod. 6. 25. Num. 25. 7.

* Heb. houſe of the father.

14 And with him ten princes, of each * chief houſe a prince, throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, and each one was an head of the houſe of their fathers, among the thouſands of Iſrael.

15 And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half-tribe of Manaſſeh unto the land of Gilead, and they ſpake with them, ſaying, 16 Thus ſaith the whole congregation of the Lord, What treſpaſs is this that ye have committed againſt the God of Iſrael, to turn away this day from following the Lord, in that ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel this day againſt the Lord?

Before Christ 1444.

17 Is the iniquity [g] of Peor too little for us, from which we are not cleanſed until this day, (although there was a plague in the congregation of the Lord)

g Num. 25. 3, 4. Deut. 4. 3.

18 But that ye muſt turn away this day from following the Lord? and it will be, ſeeing ye rebel to day againſt the Lord, that to morrow he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Iſrael.

19 Notwithſtanding, if the land of your poſſeſſion be unclean, then paſs ye over unto the land of the poſſeſſion of the Lord, wherein the Lord's tabernacle dwelleth, and take poſſeſſion among us: but rebel not againſt the Lord, nor rebel againſt us, in building you an altar, beſide the altar of the Lord our God.

20 [h] Did not Achan the ſon of Zerah commit a treſpaſs in the accurſed thing, and wrath fell on all the congregation of Iſrael? and that man periſhed not alone in his iniquity.

h Chap. 7. 1, 5.

21 ¶ Then the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the half-tribe of Manaſſeh, anſwered and ſaid unto the heads of the thouſands of Iſrael,

22 The Lord God of gods, the Lord God of they give for building of this altar, for fear leſt the Iſraelites within Jordan, and in Canaan, ſhould ſay unto their children dwelling beyond Jordan, The Lord hath made Jordan a border between us and you, &c. Which jealouſy would have been much confirmed by building the altar in Canaan, but would be ſatisfied and confuted by having on the other ſide of Jordan, and in their own land, a pattern of that altar at which God was ſerved in the land of Canaan, as a witneſs that they owned the ſame God, and the ſame way of worſhip with their brethren that lived in Canaan.

V. 11. In the borders of Jordan, at the paſſage of the children of Iſrael—Where they paſſed over Jordan, either at their firſt entrance into Canaan, or afterwards, and uſually.

V. 12. When the children of Iſrael—Not in their own perſons, but by their elders, who uſed to tranſact all affairs of this kind in the name and ſtead of all the people. Iſrael gathered themſelves together at Shiloh, to go up to war againſt them—As apoſtates from God, according to God's command, (Deut. xiii. 13, &c.)

V. 16. Thus ſaith the whole congregation of the Lord—Who do and are reſolved to cleave unto that God from whom you have revolted, and who ſpeak this to you in the name of the Lord. What treſpaſs is this—How heinous a crime is this! To turn away this day—(i. e.) So ſoon after God hath obliged you by ſuch wonderful favours, and when God is now conducting you home, to reap the fruits of all your pains and hazards. That ye have builded you an altar, that ye might rebel—With a deſign to revolt from, and rebel againſt God, and againſt his expreſs command of worſhipping him at one altar.

V. 17. Is the iniquity of Peor—Of our worſhipping of Baal-Peor. Too little for us, from which we are not cleanſed until this day—For though God had pardoned it, as to the national puniſhment of it, yet they were not yet purged from it, becauſe the ſhame of that odious practice was not yet wiped off; and becauſe ſome of that corrupt leaven ſtill remained among them, and though ſmothered for a time, yet was ready to break forth upon all occaſions. And God alſo took notice of theſe idolatrous inclinations in particular perſons, and found out ways to puniſh them.

V. 18. That to morrow—Suddenly. He will be wroth with the whole congregation of Iſrael—With you for doing ſo, and with us for ſuffering, or not puniſhing it.

V. 19. If the land of your poſſeſſion be unclean—For want of the tabernacle and altar there, as the following words imply; if you now repent of your former choice, in preferring the worldly advantages of that country before the advantage of God's preſence and favour, and more frequent opportunities of his ſervice. Paſs ye over, and take poſſeſſion among us—We will readily reſign part of our poſſeſſions to you for the prevention of this ſin and miſchief, wherein they ſhew great zeal for God's honour, and charity to their brethren.

V. 20. That man periſhed not alone—But brought deſtruction upon his whole family, and part of our forces ſent againſt Ai.

21. Heads of the thouſands of Iſrael—Theſe ſeem to be greater perſons than thoſe that were rulers of thouſands.

V. 22. The Lord God of gods—That Jehovah whom we no leſs than you acknowledge and adore as the God of gods, infinitely ſuperior to all that are called gods. The multiplying of his titles,

Before Christ 1444. of gods, he knoweth, and Israel he shall know, if it be in rebellion, or if in transgression against the Lord, (save us not this day)

23 That we have built us an altar to turn from following the Lord, or if to offer thereon burnt-offering, or meat-offering, or if to offer peace-offerings thereon, let the Lord himself require it;

24 And if we have not rather done it for fear of this thing, saying, † In time to come your children might speak unto our children, saying, What have you to do with the Lord God of Israel?

† Heb. To morrow.

25 For the Lord hath made Jordan a border between us and you; ye children of Reuben, and children of Gad, ye have no part in the Lord: so shall your children make our children cease from fearing the Lord.

26 Therefore we said, Let us now prepare to build us an altar, not for burnt-offering, nor for sacrifice:

‡ Gen. 31. 48. Chap. 24. 27. Verse 34.

27 But that it may be ‡ a witness between us and you, and your generations after us, that we might do the service of the Lord before him with our burnt-offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace-offerings, that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the Lord.

28 Therefore said we, that it shall be, when they should so say to us, or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern of the altar of the Lord, which our fathers made, not for burnt-offerings, nor for sacrifices, but it is a witness between us and you.

Before Christ 1444.

29 God forbid that we should rebel against the Lord, and turn this day from following the Lord, to build an altar for burnt-offerings, for meat-offerings, or for sacrifices, besides the altar of the Lord our God, that is before his tabernacle.

30 ¶ And when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the congregation, and heads of the thousands of Israel which were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, and the children of Manasseh spake, † it pleased them.

† Heb. it was good in their eyes.

31 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, said unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manasseh, This day we perceive that the Lord is among us, because ye have not committed this trespass against the Lord: § now ye have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the Lord.

§ Heb. then.

32 ¶ And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to the children of Israel, and brought them word again.

33 And the thing pleased the children of Israel, and the children of Israel blessed God, and and the repetition of these words, shew their zeal, earnestness, and their abhorrency of the very thoughts of it. The Lord God of gods, he knoweth—To him we appeal who knoweth all things, and the truth of what we are now saying. Israel he shall know if it—Not only our present words, but our future and constant course shall satisfy all Israel of our perseverance in the true religion. If in transgression against the Lord (save us not this day)—Thou, O Lord, to whom we have appealed, and without whom we cannot be saved or preserved, save us not from any of our enemies, nor from the sword of our brethren

V. 23. Let the Lord himself require it—Call us to an account, and punish us for it.

V. 24. What have you to do with the Lord God of Israel—You have no relation to him, nor interest in him, or his worship. And what have we to do this day with the Lord God of Israel? We have to cry to him for mercy, to live in his fear, and to look to him for every blessing that we can possess or hope for.

V. 25. For the Lord hath made Jordan a border between us and you—To shut ye out of the land of promise, and consequently from the covenant made between God and our fathers. Ye have no part in the Lord—Nothing to do with him, no right to serve him, or expect favour from him.

V. 27. That it may be a witness between us and you, and that we might do the service of the Lord before him—That we may have our privilege of serving and worshipping God, not upon this altar, but in the place of God's presence, in your tabernacle, and upon your altar.

V. 28. That we may say again, Behold the pattern—An exact representation and resemblance. It is a witness between us and you—That we both serve one God, and approve and make use of one and the same altar.

V. 30. When Phinehas, and the princes, and heads of the thousands of Israel, heard the words, it pleased them—They were fully satisfied with this answer.

V. 31. This day we perceive that the Lord is among us—By his gracious presence, and preventing goodness, in keeping you from so great an offence, and all of us from those dismal calamities that would have followed upon it. Ye have delivered the children of Israel out of the hand of the Lord—From the wrath and dreadful judgments of God, by avoiding that sin which would have involved both you and us in war: You have delivered us from the evils we feared.

V. 33. The children of Israel did not intend to go up to destroy the land—As they were by the law of God obliged to do, if they had been guilty and persisted therein. How much did all the people of Israel, in the land of Canaan, mistake the design of the two tribes and half which dwelt on the other side Jordan: they concluded them guilty, and charged them with the crime, before they inquired into the motives for their conduct. And if all these thousands of Israel were so much mistaken in judging from appearances, have we not, by this instance, sufficient cause to believe that there is an evil spirit which addresses false accusations to the minds of men, and is ever ready to set them against one another, to their mutual discontent or destruction? And ought we not from such an eminent instance as this, of a whole nation drawing a most mistaken conclusion from appearances, never allow ourselve

Before Christ 1444. and did not intend to go up against them in battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad dwelt.

34 And the children of Reuben, and the children of Gad, called the altar ‖ Ed: for it shall be a witness between us, that the Lord is God.

‖ That is, A witness: See chap. 24. 27.

CHAP. XXIII.

cir. 1427. AND it came to pass, a long time after that the Lord [a] had given rest unto Israel from all their enemies round about, that Joshua waxed old and * stricken in age.

a Chap. 21. 43. and 22. 6.

* Heb. come into days.

2 And Joshua called for all Israel, and for their elders, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and said unto them, I am old and stricken in age:

3 And ye have seen all that the Lord your God hath done unto all these nations, because of you; for the [b] Lord your God is he that hath fought for you.

b Exod. 14. 14.

4 Behold, I have divided unto you by lot these nations that remain, to be an inheritance for your tribes, from Jordan, with all the nations that I have cut off, even unto the great sea † westward.

Before Christ cir. 1427.

† Heb. at the sun-set.

5 And the Lord your God, he shall expel them from before you, and drive them from out of your sight, and ye shall possess their land, [c] as the Lord your God hath promised unto you.

c Num. 33. 53.

6 Be ye therefore very courageous to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moses, [d] that ye turn not aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left,

d Deut. 5. 32. and 28. 14.

7 That ye come not among these nations, these that remain amongst you, neither [e] make mention of the name of their gods, nor cause to swear by them, neither serve them, nor bow yourselves unto them:

e Exod. 23. 13. Num. 32. 38. Psal. 16. 4. Jer. 5. 7. Zeph. 1. 5.

8 ‡ But [f] cleave unto the Lord your God, as ye have done unto this day.

‡ Or, For if you will cleave, &c.

f Deut. 11. 22.

9 § For the Lord hath driven out from before you, great nations and strong: but as for you, no man hath been able to stand before you unto this day.

§ Or, Then the LORD will drive.

10 One

ourselves to judge in our own minds, or express a single sentence of condemnation of any person's conduct, till the accused or suspected person has leave to answer for himself? What mischiefs amongst mankind in public, and what miseries in private life, might be prevented by a constant careful regard to the Scripture rules, and examples against judging from any appearances, or concluding from any suspicions, or even information, without hearing the accused.

V. 34. It shall be a witness between us, that the Lord is God—Over all; and to be worshipped as our Creator, Preserver, Governor, and Redeemer.

CHAP. XXIII.

V. 1. And it came to pass, a long time after—About 14 years.

V. 2. And Joshua called—Either to his own city, or to Shiloh, the usual place of such assemblies. All Israel—Not all the people in their own persons, but in their representatives, by their elders, heads, judges, and officers.

V. 3. Ye have seen all that the Lord your God hath done because of you—For your sake and good, that you might gain by their losses.

V. 4. I have divided unto you by lot these nations that remain—Not yet conquered. To be an inheritance for your tribes—You shall certainly subdue them, and inherit their land, as you have done the rest, if you be not wanting to yourselves. With all the nations that I have cut off—With the land of these nations. Unto the great sea westward—Where the Philistines, your most formidable adversaries, yet survive; but them also and their land I have given to you, and you shall undoubtedly destroy them, if you will proceed in obedience to my commands.

V. 5. Ye shall possess their land, as the Lord your God hath promised unto you—For faithful is He that has promised, who also will assuredly do it; and as plainly as God promised this land to the people of Israel, so plainly has He also declared that it is his good pleasure to give an inheritance in the kingdom of glory to all them that look for it by faith in his never-failing goodness, through and for the sake of the Redeemer of men. (Luke xii. 32.) Why did the last generation of the Israelites wander forty years in the wilderness, and never entered the promised land? They entered not in because of unbelief. And let us fear lest, a promise being left us of entering into heaven by the blood of the covenant of grace, we should fall short of it after the example of unbelief. (Heb. iii. and iv.)

V. 6. Be ye therefore very courageous—For it requires great courage and resolution to execute all the commands of God. Turn not aside therefrom, to the right hand or to the left—In one kind or other, by adding to the law, or taking from it; but strictly and exactly regard and follow all that the Lord your God hath commanded you, no conduct being safe or advisable but such as is warranted by the word of God.

V. 7. Come not among these nations—Avoid all familiar converse and contracts, but especially marriages with them. And so should they that fear God avoid all unnecessary intercourse with them that live as without God in the world, living for their interest or pleasure, without regarding his holy will as the rule of life, or his mercy and favour as the end of living. Neither make mention of the name of their gods—Unnecessarily and familiarly, lest the mention of them breed discourse about them, and so by degrees bring you to the approbation and worship of them. Nor cause to swear by them—Nor require the Gentiles to swear by them. Nor bow yourselves unto them—Neither give them any inward reverence, or outward adoration. Here is an observable gradation, whereby he shews what progress sin usually makes, and what need there is to look to the beginning of it, forasmuch as a civil and common conversation with their persons was likely to bring them, and indeed did actually bring them, by insensible steps, to the worship of their gods. So it is no wonder if some things, not simply and in themselves evil, be forbidden by God, as here the naming of their gods is, because they are occasions and introductions to evil.

V. 8. Cleave unto the Lord—By firm faith, constant obedience, intire affection, and spiritual worship of him alone. As ye have done unto this day—Since you came into Canaan.

V. 9. As for you, no man—Whom you have invaded. Hath been able to stand before you—The Lord fulfilling his word in putting the fear of you into their hearts.

V. 10. The

Before Christ cir. 1427.

10 [g] One man of you shall chase a thousand: for the Lord your God, he it is that fighteth for you, [h] as he hath promised you.

g Lev. 26. 8. Deut. 32. 30. See Judg. 3. 31. and 15. 15. 2 Sam. 23. 8.

11 Take good heed therefore unto yourselves, that ye love the Lord your God.

h Exod. 14. 14. and 23. 27.

12 Else if ye do in any wise go back, and cleave unto the remnant of these nations, even these that remain among you, and shall make marriages with them, and go in unto them, and they to you:

‖ Heb. souls.

i Judg. 2. 3.

13 Know for a certainty, that [i] the Lord your God will no more drive out any of these nations from before you; [k] but they shall be snares and traps unto you, and scourges in your sides, and thorns in your eyes, until ye perish from off this good land which the Lord your God hath given you.

k Exod. 23. 33. Num. 33. 55. Deut. 7. 16.

l 1 Kings 2. 2. See Heb. 9. 27.

14 And behold, this day [l] I am going the way of all the earth, and ye know in all your hearts and in all your souls, that [m] not one thing hath failed of all the good things which the Lord your God spake concerning you; all are come to pass unto you, and not one thing hath failed thereof.

m Chap. 21. 45.

15 Therefore it shall come to pass, that as all good things are come upon you, which the Lord your God promised you: so shall the Lord bring upon you [n] all evil things, until he have destroyed you from off this good land which the Lord your God hath given you.

n Lev. 26. 16. Deut. 28. 15, 16.

16 When ye have transgressed the covenant of the Lord your God, which he commanded you, and have gone and served other gods, and bowed yourselves to them: then shall the anger of the Lord be kindled against you, and ye shall perish quickly from off the good land which he hath given unto you.

Before Christ cir. 1427.

CHAP. XXIV.

AND Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers, and they presented themselves before God.

2 And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, [a] Your fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah the father of Abraham, and the father of Nachor: and [b] they served other gods.

a Gen. 11. 26, 31. and 12. 1.

b Gen. 31. 53.

3 And [c] I took your father Abraham from the other side of the flood, and led him throughout all the land of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and [d] gave him Isaac.

c Gen. 12. 1.

d Gen. 21. 2.

4 And I gave unto Isaac, [e] Jacob and Esau: and I gave unto [f] Esau mount Seir, to possess it; [g] but Jacob and his children went down into Egypt.

e Gen. 25. 24, 26.

f Gen. 36. 8. Deut. 2. 5.

g Gen. 46. 1, 6.

5 [h] I sent Moses also and Aaron, and I plagued Egypt, according to that which I did amongst

h Exod. 3. 10.

V. 10. The Lord your God, he it is that fighteth for you—Impute not this therefore to your own valour, as you will be ready to do, but to God's gracious and powerful assistance.

V. 11. Take good heed unto yourselves—Now it requires more watchfulness and diligence than it did in the wilderness, because your temptations are now more and stronger; from the examples and insinuations of your bad neighbours, the remainder of this wicked people; and from your own peace and prosperity; and the pride, security, forgetfulness of God, and luxury, which usually attend upon that condition.

V. 12. Else if ye do in any wise go back—From God, and from his worship and service.

V. 13. Know for a certainty, these nations shall be snares and traps unto you—And you will be inticed and drawn by degrees into their errors and impieties. And thorns in your eyes—When they have seduced, and thereby weakened you, then they will vex you, no less than a severe scourge, or a thorn doth the eye, when it is got within it. Until ye perish from off this good land—They shall persecute you, and fight against you with success.

V. 14. This day I am going the way of all the earth—Of all men, the way which all men go; I am about to die, as all men must, (Heb. ix. 27.) Ye know in all your hearts and in all your souls—You know assuredly. That not one thing hath failed of all the Lord your God spake concerning you; all are come to pass unto you—According to his word, in all the variety of trials which you have had of his faithfulness.

V. 15. So shall the Lord bring upon you all evil things—The accomplishment of God's promises is a pledge that he will also fulfil his threatnings, both of them depending upon the same ground, the faithfulness of God.

V. 16. When ye have transgressed the covenant of the Lord your God, then shall the anger of the Lord be kindled against you—And which never can be quenched but by your sincere repentance, and forsaking your sins, and looking to the only Mediator with your offended God for mercy.

CHAP. XXIV.

V. 1. Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem—To Shiloh. They presented themselves before God—Before the ark or tabernacle.

V. 2. And they—Both Abraham and Nahor were no less idolaters than the rest of mankind. This is said to prevent their vain boasting in their worthy ancestors, and to assure them that whatsoever good was in, or had been done by their progenitors, was wholly from God's free grace, and not for their own merit or righteousness.

V. 3. I took your father Abraham—I apprehended him by my grace, and snatched him out of that idolatrous and wicked place, and took him into acquaintance and covenant with myself, which was the highest honour and happiness he was capable of. And led him throughout all the land of Canaan—I brought him into Canaan, and conducted and preserved him in safety in all his travels. And multiplied his seed—Gave him a numerous posterity. And gave him Isaac—By my special power and grace to be the heir of my covenant, and all my promises, and the seed in or by which all nations were to be blessed.

V. 4. I gave unto Esau mount Seir, to possess it—That he might leave Canaan intire to his brother Jacob, and his posterity. Jacob and his children went down into Egypt—Where they long lived in grievous bondage.

V. 5. According to that which I did—With such plagues as I inflicted, and are recorded.

V. 7. Your

Before Christ cir. 1427.

amongst them: and afterward I brought you out.

i Exod. 12. 37.

6 And I [i] brought your fathers out of

k Exod. 14. 2.

Egypt: and [k] you came unto the sea, and the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with

l Exod. 14. 9.

chariots and horsemen unto [l] the Red sea.

7 And when they cried unto the Lord, he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and your eyes have seen what I have done in Egpyt: and ye dwelt in the wilderness a long season.

8 And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan;

m Num. 21. 21, 33. Deut. 2. 32.

[m] and they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land, and I destroyed them from before you.

n See Judges 11. 25.

9 Then [n] Balak the son of Zippor king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and o Num. 22. 5. Deut. 23. 4.

[o] sent and called Balaam the son of Beor to curse you:

10 But I would not hearken unto Balaam,

p Deut. 23. 5.

[p] therefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his hand.

q Chap. 3. 14. and 4. 13.

11 And [q] ye went over Jordan, and came r Chap. 6. 1. and 10. 1. and 11. 1.

unto Jericho: and [r] the men of Jericho fought against you, the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Girgashites, the Hivites, and the Jebusites, and I delivered them into your hand.

s Exod. 23. 28. Deut. 7. 20.

12 And [s] I sent the hornet before you, which drave them out from before you, even t Psal. 44. 3, 6.

the two kings of the Amorites: but [t] not with thy sword, nor with thy bow.

13 And I have given you a land for which ye did not labour, and [u] cities which ye built not, and ye dwell in them: of the vineyards and olive-yards which ye planted not, do ye eat.

Before Christ cir. 1427.

u Deut. 6. 10, 11.

14 ¶ Now therefore, fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth, and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and [x] in Egypt: and serve ye the Lord.

x Lev. 17. 7. Ezek. 20. 8. and 23. 3.

15 And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, [y] choose you this day whom you will serve, whether the gods which your fathers served, that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.

y See Ruth 1. 15. 1 Kings 18. 21. Ezek. 20. 39. John 6. 67.

16 And the people answered and said, God forbid that we should forsake the Lord, to serve other gods.

17 For the Lord our God, he it is that brought us up, and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed.

18 And the Lord drave out from before us all the people, even the Amorites, which dwelt in the land: therefore will we also serve the Lord, for he is our God.

19 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye cannot serve the Lord; for he is an holy God: he is a jealous God, [z] he will not forgive your transgressions, nor your sins.

z Exod. 23. 21.

20 If

V. 7. Your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt—He speaketh this to the elders, who were so, not only by power and dignity, but many of them by age; and there being now not sixty years past since those Egyptian plagues, it is very probable that a considerable number of those present had seen those things in Egypt, and being not twenty years old, were exempted from that dreadful sentence of destruction, passed upon all who were then of more years standing.

V. 9. Balak warred against Israel—Though not by open force, yet by counsel and wicked devices.

V. 10. But I would not hearken unto Balaam—Who hereby appears to have desired of God leave to curse Israel; and therefore it is not strange, that God, who permitted him simply to go, was highly angry with him for going with so wicked an intent. So I delivered you out of his hand—From Balak's malicious design against you.

V. 12. I sent the hornet—Terrors and plagues.

V. 14. Fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth—Either of these two expressions note the same thing; or sincerity is opposed to the mixture of false gods with the true, as it here follows; or of a false and corrupt worship of God, with that which God appointed; and truth is opposed to dissimulation and falseness, and instability of heart. And put away the gods—Whereby it appears, that although Joshua had doubtless prevented and purged out all public and manifest idolatry, yet there were some of them who practised it in their private houses and retirements.

V. 15. If it seem evil—Unjust or unreasonable. Choose you this day whom you will serve—Not that he leaves them to their liberty, whether they would serve God or idols; for Joshua had no such power or liberty himself, nor could give it to any other; and both he and they were obliged, by the law of Moses, to give their worship to God only, and to forbear all idolatry in themselves, and severely to punish it in others; but it implies, that the worship of God is so highly reasonable, so necessary and beneficial, and the service of idols is so absurd, vain, and pernicious, that, if it were left free to all men to make their choice, every man must needs choose the service of God, or be left without any reasonable excuse. As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord—But know this, if you should all prefer senseless and impotent idols before the true and living God, it is my firm purpose, that I will, and my children and servants (as far as I can influence them) shall be constant and faithful to the Lord.

V. 19. Ye cannot serve the Lord—The meaning is, God's service is not, as you seem to fancy, a slight and easy thing, as soon done as said, but it is a work of great difficulty, and requires great care, courage, and resolution; and when I consider the in-

Before Christ cir. 1427.

20 If ye forsake the Lord, and serve strange gods, [a] then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good.

[a] Chap. 23. 15.

21 And the people said unto Joshua, Nay, but we will serve the Lord.

22 And Joshua said unto the people, Ye are witnesses against yourselves, that [b] ye have chosen you the Lord, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses.

[b] Psa. 119. 173.

23 Now therefore put away (said he) the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the Lord God of Israel.

24 And the people said unto Joshua, The Lord our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey.

[c] See Exod. 15. 25.

25 So Joshua [c] made a covenant with the people that day, and set them a statute, and an ordinance [d] in Shechem.

[d] Verse 26.

26 ¶ And Joshua wrote these words in the book of the law of God, and took [e] a great stone, and set it up there [f] under an oak that was by the sanctuary of the Lord.

[e] See Judges 9. 6.

[f] Gen. 35. 4.

27 And Joshua said unto all the people, Behold, this stone shall be a witness unto us; for [g] it hath heard all the words of the Lord which he spake unto us: it shall be therefore a witness unto you, lest ye deny your God.

Before Christ cir. 1427.

[g] See Deut. 32. 1.

28 So [h] Joshua let the people depart, every man unto his inheritance.

[h] Judg. 2. 9.

29 ¶ [i] And it came to pass after these things, that Joshua the son of Nun the servant of the Lord died, being an hundred and ten years old.

[i] Judg. 2. 8.

cir. 1426.

30 And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in [k] Timnath-serah, which is in mount Ephraim, on the north side of the hill of Gaash.

[k] Chap. 19. 50. Judg. 2. 9.

31 And [l] Israel served the Lord all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that † overlived Joshua, and which had known all the works of the Lord, that he had done for Israel.

[l] Judg. 2. 7.

† Heb. prolonged their days after Joshua.

32 ¶ And [m] the bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem, in a parcel of ground which finite purity of God, that he will not be mocked or abused; and withal your great and often manifested proneness to superstition and idolatry, even during the life of Moses, and in some of you, whilst I live, and whilst the obligations which God hath laid upon you in this land, are fresh in remembrance; I cannot but fear that after my decease you will think the service of God too hard and burdensome for you, and therefore will cast it off, and revolt from him, if you do not double your watch, and carefully avoid all occasions of idolatry, which I hereby exhort you to do. He is an holy God: he is a jealous God—He will not endure a rival or partner in his worship; you cannot serve him and idols together, as you will be inclined and tempted to do. He will not forgive your transgressions—If you, who own yourselves for his people and servants, shall wickedly and wilfully transgress his laws by idolatry, or other crimes, he will not let this go unpunished in you, as he doth in other nations; therefore consider what you do when you take the Lord for your God, weigh your advantages and inconveniences together; for as if you be sincere and faithful in God's service, you will have great benefits by it; so if you be false to your professions, and forsake him whom you have so solemnly avouched to be your God, he will deal more severely with you, than with any people in the world.

[m] Gen. 50. 25. Exod. 13. 19.

V. 20. If ye forsake the Lord, then he will turn—He will alter his course and the manner of his dealing with you, and will be as severe as ever he was kind and gracious. And consume you, after that he hath done you good—He will repent of all his former kindness, and his goodness abused will be turned into fury.

V. 21. We will serve the Lord—Him only, and not strange gods, as was supposed by Joshua, verse 20.

V. 22. Ye are witnesses against yourselves—This solemn profession will be a witness against you, if hereafter you apostatize from God.

V. 23. Put away the strange gods which are among you—Those idols which you either brought out of Egypt, or have taken in Canaan.

V. 24. The Lord our God will we serve—We will live to please God, who only requires our obedience for our good. And his voice will we obey—His will made known to us by his word, his servants, or by his spirit, shall be the rule of our conduct.

V. 25. So Joshua set them an ordinance—To bind themselves, and their posterity, unto God for ever, as a statute and ordinance of God doth.

V. 26. Joshua wrote these words—This covenant or agreement of the people with the Lord. In the book of the law of God—In that volume which was kept in the ark; this he did for the perpetual remembrance of this great and solemn action, to lay the greater obligation upon the people to be true to their engagement; and as a witness for God, and against the people, if afterwards he severely punished them for their defection from God, to whom they had so solemnly and freely engaged themselves. And took a great stone, and set it up there—As a monument of this great transaction. An oak that was by the sanctuary of the Lord—Near to the place where the ark and tabernacle then were.

V. 27. This stone shall be a witness unto us; for it hath heard—It shall be as sure a witness against you, as if it had heard. This is a common figure, whereby the sense of hearing is often ascribed to the heavens and the earth.

V. 29. Joshua died—After having been a faithful servant to God from his youth; in which service he was so determined to persevere, that had there been none but himself to have made the will of God the rule of life, he was resolved to do it, and to require all that were under his immediate authority to do the same thing. All men are required to take the prophets who have spoken, as Joshua did, in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering afflictions, however great, in the course of their duty. (James v. 10.).

V. 31. Israel served the Lord all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that overlived Joshua—So much did it please God to make their lives the means of influencing the minds of the whole nation.

V. 32. The bones of Joseph, which the children of Israel brought up out of Egypt, buried they in Shechem—Joseph in faith gave charge concerning his remains, and by this we see whatever is committed to the care of a merciful Redeemer, he will faithfully keep.

Before Christ cir. 1426. which Jacob bought of [n] the sons of Hamor the father of Shechem, for an hundred † pieces of silver; and it became the inheritance of the children of Joseph.

n Gen. 33. 19.
† Or, lambs.

33 And Eleazar the son of Aaron died, and they buried him in a hill that pertained to [o] Phinehas his son, which was given him * in mount Ephraim.

Before Christ cir. 1420.

o Judg. 20. 28.

keep. Precious in his sight is the very dust of them who living put their trust in his sacred promises.

* V. 33. By special favour, and for his better conveniency in attending upon the ark, which then was, and for a long time was to be in Shiloh, which was near to this place; whereas the cities which were given to the priests, were in Judah, Benjamin, and Simeon, which were remote from Shiloh, though near to the place where the ark was afterwards to have its settled abode. Who can look back to the promises made to Abraham, and compare them with their performance to this period of the sacred History, without adoring the wisdom of God, in foreseeing all the complication of events and circumstances from the making of the promises to the performance of them, and the power by which they were performed. And from this the feebleſt believer may encourage themselves in the gracious promises of life and immortality, so fully made known to us in the Scriptures of truth: Can greater difficulties oppose our passage to the heavenly Canaan, than those through which we have seen the children of faithful Abraham pass to the promised land? The Lord Jehovah is the strength of all them that trust in him, and he will bring them into the possession of whatever he has promised, who are faithful to the end.

JUDGES

JUDGES.

THE Author of this Book is not certainly known; whether it was SAMUEL, or EZRA, or ſome other prophet: Nor is it material to know. It matters not who was the King's Secretary, or with what pen it was written, if it be once known that it was the King who made the order or decree: It is ſufficient, that unto the Jews were committed the oracles of God, (Rom. iii. 2.) the Holy Scriptures of the Old Teſtament, one part of which this was, by confeſſion of all; and that the Jews did not falſify their truſt, but kept thoſe Holy Books themſelves, and delivered them to the world entire, without addition or diminution: for neither Chriſt nor his Apoſtles, who ſeverely rebuke them for their miſtakes and miſunderſtandings of ſome paſſages of Scripture, ever charge them with any perfidiouſneſs about the Books of the Scripture. This is called the Book of Judges, becauſe it treats of the judges, or of the ſtate of the commonwealth of Iſrael under all the judges, except Eli and Samuel, who being the laſt of the judges, and the occaſions or inſtruments of the change of this government, are omitted in this Book. The judges were a ſort of magiſtrates inferior to kings, and could neither make new laws, nor impoſe any tributes, but were the ſupreme executors of God's laws and commands, and the generals of their armies.

This Book contains twenty-one Chapters.

CHAP. I. The acts of Judah and Simeon. Adoni-bezek juſtly requited. Jeruſalem taken. Hebron taken. Othniel hath Achſah to wife for taking of Debir. The Kenites dwell in Judah. Hormah, Gaza, Aſkelon and Ekron taken. The acts of Benjamin. Of the houſe of Joſeph, who take Bethel. Of Zebulun. Of Aſher. Of Naphtali. Of Dan.—CHAP. II. An angel rebuketh the people at Bochim. The wickedneſs of the new generation after Joſhua. God's anger and pity towards them. The Canaanites are left to prove Iſrael.—CHAP. III. The nations which were left to prove Iſrael. By communion with them they commit idolatry. Othniel delivereth them from Chuſhan-riſhathaim, Ehud from Eglon, Shamgar from the Philiſtines.—CHAP. IV. Deborah and Barak deliver Iſrael from Jabin and Siſera. Jael killeth Siſera.—CHAP. V. The ſong of Deborah and Barak.—CHAP. VI. The Iſraelites for their ſins are oppreſſed by Midian. A prophet rebuketh them. An angel ſendeth Gideon for their deliverance. Gideon's preſent is conſumed with fire. Gideon deſtroyeth Baal's altar, and offereth a ſacrifice upon the altar Jehovah-ſhalom. Joaſh defendeth his ſon, and calleth him Jerubbaal. Gideon's army. Gideon's ſigns.—CHAP. VII. Gideon's army of two and thirty thouſand is brought to three hundred. He is encouraged by the dream and interpretation of the barley cake. His ſtratagem of trumpets and lamps in pitchers. The Ephraimites take Oreb and Zeeb.—CHAP. VIII. Gideon pacifieth the Ephraimites. Succoth and Penuel refuſe to relieve Gideon's army. Zebah and Zalmunna are taken. Succoth and Penuel are deſtroyed. Gideon revengeth his brethren's death on Zebah and Zalmunna. He refuſeth government. His ephod cauſe of idolatry. Midian ſubdued. Gideon's children and death. The Iſraelites idolatry, and ingratitude.—CHAP. IX. Abimelech, by conſpiracy with the Shechemites, and murder of his brethren, is made king. Jotham, by a parable, rebuketh them, and foretelleth their ruin. Gaal conſpireth with the Shechemites againſt him. Zebul revealeth it. Abimelech overcometh them, and ſoweth the city with ſalt. He burneth the hold of the god Berith. At Thebaz he is ſlain by a piece of a millſtone. Jotham's curſe is fulfilled.—CHAP. X. Tola judgeth Iſrael in Shamir. Jair, whoſe thirty ſons had thirty cities. The Philiſtines and Ammonites oppreſs Iſrael. In their miſery, God ſendeth them to their falſe gods, upon their repentance he pitieth them.—CHAP. XI. The covenant between Jephthah and the Gileadites, that he ſhould be their head. The treaty of peace between him and the Ammonites is in vain. Jephthah's vow. His conqueſt of the Ammonites. He performeth his vow on his daughter.—CHAP. XII. The Ephraimites quarrelling with Jephthah, and diſcerned by Shibboleth, are ſlain by the Gileadites. Jephthah dieth. Ibzan, who had thirty ſons, and thirty daughters, and Elon, and Abdon, who had forty ſons, and thirty nephews, judged Iſrael.—CHAP. XIII. Iſrael is in the hand of the Philiſtines. An angel appeareth to Manoah's wife. The angel appeareth to Manoah. Manoah's ſacrifice, whereby the angel is diſcovered. Samſon is born.—CHAP. XIV. Samſon deſireth a wife of the Philiſtines. In his journey he killeth a lion. In a ſecond journey he findeth honey in the carcaſe. Samſon's marriage-feaſt. His riddle by his wife is made known. He ſpoileth thirty Philiſtines. His wife is married to another.—CHAP. XV. Samſon is denied his wife. He burneth the Philiſtines' corn with foxes and fire-brands. His wife and her father are burnt by the Philiſtines. Samſon ſmiteth them. He is bound by the men of Judah, and delivered to the Philiſtines. He killeth them with a jaw-bone. God maketh the fountain En-hakkore for him in Lehi.—CHAP. XVI. Samſon at Gaza eſcapeth, and carrieth away the gates of the city. Delilah corrupted by the Philiſtines, enticeth Samſon. Thrice ſhe is deceived. At laſt ſhe overcometh him. The Philiſtines take him, and put out his eyes. His ſtrength renewing, he pulleth down the houſe upon the Philiſtines, and dieth.—CHAP. XVII. Of the money that Micah firſt ſtole, then reſtored; his mother maketh images, and he ornaments for them. He hireth a Levite to be his prieſt.—CHAP. XVIII. The Danites ſend five men to ſeek out an inheritance. At the houſe of Micah they conſult with Jonathan, and are encouraged in their way. They ſearch Laiſh, and bring back news of good hope. Six hundred men are ſent to ſurprize it. In the way they rob Micah of his prieſt and his conſecrated things. They win Laiſh, and call it Dan. They ſet up idolatry, wherein Jonathan inherited the prieſthood.—CHAP. XIX. A Levite goeth to Bethlehem to fetch home his wife. An old man entertaineth him at Gibeah. The Gibeathites abuſe his concubine to death. He divideth her into twelve pieces, to ſend them to the twelve tribes.—CHAP. XX. The Levite in a general aſſembly declareth his wrong. The decree of the aſſembly. The Benjamites being cited, make head againſt the Iſraelites. The Iſraelites in two battles loſe forty thouſand. They deſtroy, by a ſtratagem, all the Benjamites, except ſix hundred.—CHAP. XXI. The people bewail the deſolation of Benjamin. By the deſtruction of Jabeſh-gilead, they provide them four hundred wives. They adviſe them to ſurpriſe the virgins that danced at Shiloh.

CHAP.

Before Christ cir. 1425?

CHAP. I.

NOW after the death of Joshua, it came to pass, that the children of Israel [a] asked the Lord, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first to fight against them?

a Num. 27. 21. Chap. 20. 18.

2 And the Lord said, Judah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand.

3 And Judah said unto Simeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites, and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him.

4 And Judah went up, and the Lord delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in Bezek ten thousand men.

5 And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites, and the Perizzites.

6 But Adoni-bezek fled, and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes.

7 And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings, having * their thumbs and their great toes cut off, † gathered their meat under my table: as I have done, so God hath requited me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

* Heb. the thumbs of their hands and of their feet.
† Or, gleaned.

b See Josh. 15. 63.

8 (Now [b] the children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire.)

Before Christ cir. 1425.

9 ¶ [c] And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight against the Canaanites that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the ‡ valley.

c Josh. 10. 36. and 11. 21. and 15. 13.

‡ Or, low country.

10 And Judah went against the Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron, (now the name of Hebron before was [d] Kirjath-arba) and they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.

d Josh. 15. 13.

11 [e] And from thence he went against the inhabitants of Debir: (and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher)

e Josh. 15. 15, &c.

12 [f] And Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife.

1444. f Josh. 15. 16.

13 And Othniel the son of Kenaz [g] Caleb's younger brother took it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife.

g Chap. 3. 9.

14 And it came to pass when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou?

15 And she said unto him, [h] Give me a blessing: for thou hast given me a south land, give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs, and the nether springs.

h Gen. 33. 11.

cir. 1425.

16 ¶ [i] And the children of the Kenite, Moses' father in law, went up out [k] of the city of palm-trees, with the children of Judah into i Chap. 4. 11, 17. 1 Sam. 15. 6. 1 Chro. 2. 55. Jer. 35. 2. k Deut. 34. 3.

CHAP. I.

V. 1. After the death of Joshua—Not long after it Othniel, the first judge, lived in Joshua's time. The children of Israel asked the Lord—Being assembled together at Shiloh, they inquired of the high-priest. Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first—They do not inquire who shall be the Captain General to all the tribes; but (as appears by the answer) what tribe shall first undertake the expedition, that by their success the other tribes may be encouraged to make the like attempt upon the Canaanites in their several lots.

V. 2. The Lord said, Judah—The tribe of Judah is chosen for the first enterprise, because they were both most populous, and so most needing enlargement; and withal most valiant, and therefore most likely to succeed: for God chooseth fit means for the work which he designs.

V. 3. Judah said unto Simeon his brother—As nearest to him by relation, being his brother, and by habitation.

V. 4. They slew of them in Bezek—In the territory of it.

V. 5. They found Adoni-bezek—The lord or king of Bezek, as his name signifies. In Bezek—Whither he fled, when he had lost the field. And they fought against him—Against the city into which he had gone to secure himself, and the rest of his army.

V. 6. They cut off his thumbs and his great toes—That he might be disenabled to fight with his hands, or to run away upon his feet. And this they did, either by the direction of God, or upon notice of his former tyranny and cruelty expressed upon others, in this manner, as a just requital.

V. 7. Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings—Anciently each ruler of a city, or great town, was called a king, and had kingly power in that place; and many such kings we meet with in Canaan: and it is probable that, some years before, kings were more numerous there, till the greater devoured many of the less. Having their thumbs and their great toes cut off—That so their hands might be unable to manage weapons of war. Gathered their meat under my table—An act of barbarous inhumanity thus to insult over the miserable. As I have done, so God hath requited me—He acknowledgeth the providence and vindictive justice of God, which also Pharaoh did, and others too, without any true sense of piety. They brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died—They carried him in triumph, as a monument of God's righteous vengeance. As a man sows, so shall he reap. None can offend and escape the justice of God but by repentance, which will ever have included in it the best restitution that can be made.

V. 8. The children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem—In Joshua's time; which, though done before, may be here repeated, to shew why they brought Adoni-bezek to Jerusalem, because that city was in their hands.

V. 16. The children of the Kenite, Moses' father in law—Of Jethro, so called from the people from whom he descended. His posterity came into Canaan with the Israelites, and were there seated with them. Went up out of the city of palm-trees, into the wilderness of Judah—From Jericho, so called, (Deut. xxxiv. 3.) not the city, which was utterly destroyed; but the territory belonging to it, where it seems they were seated as in a most plea-

Before Christ cir. 1425. into the wilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of [t] Arad, and they went and dwelt among the people.

[t] Num. 21. 1.

17 And Judah went with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it: (and the name of the city was called [m] Hormah.)

[m] Num. 21. 3. Josh. 19. 4.

18 Also Judah took [n] Gaza with the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof.

[n] Josh. 11. 22.

19 And the Lord was with Judah, and § he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain, but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had [o] chariots of iron.

§ Or, he possessed the mountain.

[o] Josh. 17. 16, 18.

20 [p] And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said: and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak.

[p] Num. 14. 24. Josh. 14. 9, 13. and 15. 13.

21 And the children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem: but the Jebusites dwell [q] with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem [r] unto this day.

[q] Josh. 18. 28. [r] Josh. 15. 63.

22 ¶ And the house of Joseph, they also went up against Beth-el: and the Lord was with them.

23 ¶ And the house of Joseph sent to descry Beth-el: (now the name of the city before was [s] Luz)

[s] Gen. 28. 19.

24 And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city, and they said unto him, Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and [t] we will shew thee mercy.

[t] Josh. 2. 12, 14.

25 And when he shewed them the entrance into the city, they smote the city with the edge of the sword: but they let go the man and all his family.

26 And the man went into the land of the Hittites, and built a city, and called the name thereof Luz: which is the name thereof unto this day.

Before Christ cir. 1425.

27 ¶ [u] Neither did Manasseh drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shean and her towns, nor Taanach and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Dor and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and her towns, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and her towns: but the Canaanites would dwell in that land.

[u] Josh. 17. 11, 12, 13.

28 And it came to pass when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.

29 ¶ [x] Neither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

[x] Josh. 16. 10. 1 Kings 9. 16.

30 ¶ [y] Neither did Zebulun drive out the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol: but the Canaanites dwelt among them, and became tributaries.

[y] Josh. 19. 15.

31 ¶ [z] Neither did Asher drive out the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor Achzib, nor Helbah, nor Aphik, nor of Rehob:

[z] Josh. 19. 30.

32 But the Asherites dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: for they did not drive them out.

33 ¶ Neither did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath; but he dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and of Beth-anath became tributaries unto them.

34 And the Amorites forced the children of sant, fruitful, and safe place, according to the promise made by Moses to their father, (Num. x. 31, 32.) and whence they might remove, either to avoid society, or out of love to the children of Judah, whom they went to; or to avoid temptations to luxury, and exercise themselves in self-denial, and contempt of the world, and the lusts thereof; as may be thought from Jer. xxxv. 6, &c.

V. 18. Judah took Gaza, Askelon, and Ekron—They took the cities, and probably contented themselves with making them tributary; but it is not said that they slew the people, as it is said of the other cities. And being thus spared, did, by God's just judgment, recover their strength, and expel the Jews out of their cities, as we find afterwards.

V. 19. Judah drave out the inhabitants of the mountain, but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley—Because of their unbelief, whereby they doubted and distrusted God's power to destroy those who had chariots of iron, and so gave way to their own fear and sloth, whereby God was provoked to withdraw his helping hand from them, and so they were really made as impotent as they were unwilling. Those tempers and desires which shew themselves as the inhabitants of the mountains are more easily overcome, than those which, like the inhabitants of the valley, are less observed from the view of others, and often lay concealed from ourselves: but whatever difficulty we may find in driving out our inbred foes, the things impossible with men are possible with God; and they who, without fearing the future, will now act against the sinful tempers, desires, and habits which most easily beset them, relying on the communications of spiritual strength, will be more than conquerors.

V. 20. They gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses said—They remembered and obeyed the word of the Lord by Moses.

V. 22. The house of Joseph—The tribe of Ephraim.

V. 24. Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city—On which side it is weakest, that we may best invade and take it. And in our spiritual warfare great is the advantage of having those to go before us, and direct us how to take advantage of all that must be overcome, before we can dwell in that rest which remaineth for the people of God.

V. 26. The man went into the land of the Hittites—Where the Hittites seated themselves after they were driven out of Canaan, which seems to be northward from Canaan, and near unto it.

V. 27. Neither did Manasseh drive out the inhabitants—That half of this tribe which dwelt in Canaan.

V. 29. The Canaanites dwelt in Gezer—Which they possessed till Solomon's time.

V. 33. Beth-shemesh—A place differing from that Beth-shemesh, (Josh. xv. 10.)

V. 35. The

Before Christ cir. 1425.

of Dan into the mountain: for they would not suffer them to come down to the valley.

35 But the Amorites would dwell in mount Heres [a] in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim: yet the hand of the house of Joseph ‖ prevailed, so that they became tributaries.

36 And the coast of the Amorites was [b] from * the going up to Akrabbim, from the rock, and upward.

CHAP. II.

AND an * angel of the Lord came up from Gilgal [a] to Bochim, and said, I made you to go up out of Egypt, and have brought you unto the land which I sware unto your fathers; and [b] I said, I will never break my covenant with you.

2 And [c] ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land, [d] you shall throw down their altars: but ye have not obeyed my voice; why have ye done this?

3 Wherefore I also said, I will not drive them out from before you: but they shall be [e] as thorns in your sides, and [f] their gods shall be a [g] snare unto you.

4 And it came to pass, when the angel of the Lord spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lift up their voice, and wept.

5 And they called the name of that place † Bochim: and they sacrificed there unto the Lord.

6 ¶ And when [h] Joshua had let the people go, the children of Israel went every man unto his inheritance to possess the land.

7 [i] And the people served the Lord all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders ‡ that outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great works of the Lord, that he did for Israel.

8 And [k] Joshua the son of Nun, the servant of the Lord, died, being an hundred and ten years old.

9 [l] And they buried him in the border of his inheritance in [m] Timnath-heres, in the mount of Ephraim, on the north side of the hill Gaash.

10 And also all that generation were gathered unto their fathers: and there arose another generation after them, which knew not the Lord, nor yet the works which he had done for Israel.

11 ¶ And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and served Baalim:

12 And they forsook the Lord God of their fathers, which brought them out of the land

Before Christ cir. 1425.

† That is, weepers. cir. 1444.

h Josh. 22. 6. and 24. 28.

i Josh. 24. 31.

‡ Heb. prolonged days after Joshua.

k Josh. 24. 29. cir. 1426.

l Josh. 24. 30.

m Josh. 19. 50. and 24. 30. Timnath-serah.

cir. 1406.

Before Christ cir. 1425.

a Josh. 19. 42.

‖ Heb. was heavy.

b Num. 34. 4.

* Or, Maaleh-akrabbim.

* Or, messenger.

a Verse 5.

b Gen. 17. 7.

c Deut. 7. 2.

d Deut. 12. 3.

e Josh. 23. 13. 1 Cor. ap. 3. 7.

f Or, idols.

g Exod. 23. 33. and 34. 12. Deut. 7. 16.

V. 35. The Amorites would dwell in mount Heres—And as the ancient inhabitants of the country would do this, so will every natural passion bear rule which the will consents to allow to live within.

V. 36. The coast of the Amorites was from the going up to Akrabbim—Which was in the southern part of Canaan, from whence it went up towards the north. This is added to shew the power and extent of their dominion.

CHAP. II.

V. 1. An angel of the Lord came—Christ, the angel of the covenant, who is often called the angel of the Lord; who alone could speak the following words in his own name and person; whereas created angels and prophets do universally usher in their divine messages with Thus saith the Lord, or some equivalent expression. And this angel having assumed the outward shape of a man, it is not strange that he imitates the local motion of a man, and comes as it were from Gilgal to the place where now they were; by which motion he signified, that he was the person that brought them to Gilgal, the first place where they rested in Canaan, and there renewed covenant with them, and protected them there so long, and from thence went out with them to battle, and gave them success. I will never break my covenant with you—But as I have done hitherto, so I will for the time to come fulfil all I have promised; and whatever you may suffer by your not driving out the enemies of your peace in obedience to my word, it is owing to your want of faith in me, and not from any alteration of my designs in performing all I promised to your fathers.

V. 2. Ye shall make no league with the inhabitants of this land—They that have entered into covenant with God by unfeigned repentance and faith in his mercy, must make no league—comply with nothing contrary to the nature and will of God. Why have ye done this—Disobeyed these express commands of mine?

V. 3. Wherefore I also said—With myself I have now taken up this resolution. They shall be as thorns in your sides—And thus shall you suffer for having sown to your corrupt inclinations—love of ease and temporal interest, rather than a resolute compliance with the whole will of God. And as the Lord came to remind the children of Israel of their short-comings, so does he in love and faithfulness come to all his children, to admonish them by his Spirit, which brings every duty and every defect to remembrance.

V. 4. The people lift up their voice, and wept—From a true sense of their sins, and of their danger.

V. 5. They sacrificed there unto the Lord—For the expiation of their sins, by which they had provoked God to this resolution; and for the regaining of God's favour.

V. 6. When Joshua had let the people go—When he had distributed their inheritances, and dismissed them severally to take possession of them. This was done before this time, whilst Joshua lived; but is now repeated, in order to the discovery of the time and cause of the people's defection from God, and of God's desertion of them.

V. 10. There arose another generation after them, which knew not the Lord—Which had no experimental nor affectionate knowledge of God. Though it is not in the power of them that know the Lord, either to convince others of sin or turn them to the Lord; yet it has pleased God to shew us in his word, that it is by means of men that fear, know, and love God, that others are brought to, and preserved in, the possession of the same mind and spirit; how great then must be the value of this means of grace—religious fellowship. Reader, are you willingly allowing yourself to live without the great advantage of being connected with some or other of your fellow creatures, for the set purpose of receiving and communicating the knowledge of those things which make for your present and endless peace; or are you afraid to confess that you are resolved to worship and obey God according to his word?

V. 11. The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and served Baalim—Whoever commits sin does it in the sight of God; land of Egypt, and followed other gods, of the gods of the people that were round about them, and bowed themſelves unto them, and provoked the Lord to anger.

13 And they forſook the Lord, [n] and ſerved Baal and Aſhtaroth.

14 ¶ And the anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael, and he delivered them into the hands of ſpoilers that ſpoiled them, and [o] he ſold them into the hands of their enemies round about, ſo that they could not any longer ſtand before their enemies.

15 Whitherſoever they went out, the hand of the Lord was againſt them for evil, as the Lord had ſaid, and [p] as the Lord had ſworn unto them: and they were greatly diſtreſſed.

16 ¶ Nevertheleſs, [q] the Lord raiſed up Judges, which § delivered them out of the hand of thoſe that ſpoiled them.

17 And yet they would not hearken unto their judges, but they went a whoring after other gods, and bowed themſelves unto them: they turned quickly out of the way, which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandments of the Lord; but they did not ſo.

18 And when the Lord raiſed them up judges, then the Lord was with the judge, and delivered them out of the hand of their enemies, all the days of the judge: ([r] for it repented the Lord, becauſe of their groanings, by reaſon of them that oppreſſed them, and vexed them)

19 And it came to paſs, [s] when the judge was dead, that they returned, and ‖ corrupted themſelves more than their fathers, in following other gods, to ſerve them, and to bow down unto them: * they ceaſed not from their own doings, nor from their ſtubborn way.

20 ¶ And the anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael; and he ſaid, Becauſe that this people hath tranſgreſſed my covenant which I commanded their fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voice:

21 [t] I alſo will not henceforth drive out any from before them, of the nations which Joſhua left when he died:

22 [u] That through them I may prove Iſrael, whether they will keep the way of the Lord, to walk therein, as their fathers did keep it, or not.

23 Therefore the Lord † left thoſe nations, without driving them out haſtily, neither delivered he them into the hand of Joſhua.

CHAP.

n Chap. 3. 7. and 10. 6.

o Pſal. 44. 12. Iſai. 50. 1.

p Lev. 26. Deut. 28.

q Chap. 3. 9, 10, 15.

§ Heb. ſaved.

r See Gen. 6 6 Deut. 32. 36.

s Chap. 3. 12. and 4. 1. and 8. 33.

‖ Or, were corrupt.

* Heb. they let nothing fall of their.

t Joſh. 23. 13.

u Chap. 3. 4.

† Or, ſuffered.

God; and however the immortal ſpirit may be veiled in a mortal body till death opens its paſſage to the world of ſpirits, yet God beholds every motion of the ſoul, and ſees, hears, and knows all that is intended, ſaid, or done; and they that are not living to God, are, with Iſrael of old, ſerving ſome other god, living to another end—none being able to ſerve two maſters. To whom am I now living, is an inquiry of the laſt moment, and cannot be too frequently made by all; for of all is it required, that whether they eat or drink, or whatſoever they do, to do all to the glory of God.

V. 12. They forſook the Lord God, and followed other gods—But what ſhall be ſaid of thoſe that have not only heard and read of all the mighty acts which God performed to the Jews, and of all thoſe gracious things which Jeſus did, to ſhew his power and willingneſs to ſave, and all he ſuffered to purchaſe pardon and grace for men, and yet chuſe, love, and follow ſome object of time and ſenſe, which ſhall as certainly periſh as any idol?

V. 13. They ſerved Aſhtaroth—The ſun and the moon, whom many heathens worſhipped, though under divers names: They ran into that error which God had ſo expreſsly warned them againſt, (Deut iv. 19.)

V. 14. The Lord delivered them into the hand of ſpoilers that ſpoiled them, and ſold them—Delivered them up, as the ſeller doth his commodities, unto the buyer. All power belongeth to God, and he giveth victory to whom he pleaſeth; and none are ſo weak as they who know what the Lord their God requireth of them, and at the ſame time comply with evil cuſtoms, and yield themſelves the ſervants and ſlaves of ſin.

V. 15. Whitherſoever they went out—Whatſoever expedition or buſineſs they undertook, which is uſually ſignified by going out, and coming in. The hand of the Lord was againſt them, and they were greatly diſtreſſed—As all muſt be whom God is againſt. The Jews believed not, when they were at eaſe in the ways of their own inclinations, that they ſhould ever feel the divine diſpleaſure; as little as he feared the pains of future miſery, who lived to himſelf till he finally fell ſhort of the favour of God. And with all the diſcoveries God hath given to us of his diſpleaſure at ſin, ſhall any go on fearleſs of the wrath to come, till they know themſelves to be in the way to heaven?

V. 16. The Lord raiſed up—By inward inſpiration, and teſtified by ſome extraordinary action. Judges—Supreme magiſtrates, whoſe office it was, under God, and by his particular direction, to govern the commonwealth of Iſrael by God's laws, and to protect and ſave them from their enemies; to preſerve and purge religion; to maintain the liberties of the people againſt all oppreſſors.

V. 17. And yet they would not hearken unto their judges—Who admoniſhed them of their ſin and folly, and of the danger and miſery which would certainly befal them.

V. 18. For it repented the Lord—(i. e.) The Lord changed his courſe and dealings with them, as penitent men uſe to do; removed his judgments, and returned to them in mercy. O! who would offend againſt a Being ſo full of goodneſs and compaſſion.

V. 19. When the judge was dead, that they returned—To their former courſe. And corrupted themſelves more than their fathers—In Egypt, or in the wilderneſs. They ceaſed not from their own doings—From their evil practices, which he calls their own, becauſe they were agreeable to their own natures, which, in all mankind, are deeply and univerſally corrupted, (Gen. vi. 5.) and becauſe they were familiar and cuſtomary to them.

V. 21, 22. I will not drive out any of the nations; that through them I may prove Iſrael—That I may try and ſee whether Iſrael will be true and faithful to me, or whether they will ſuffer themſelves to be corrupted by the evil counſels and examples of their bad neighbours, whom I will leave among them for their trial and exerciſe.

V. 23. The Lord left thoſe nations, without driving them out haſtily—Speedily, when the Iſraelites deſired it. What hiſtory can be compared with this, which makes known the cauſes as plainly as the events that flowed from them?

CHAP.

CHAP. III.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

NOW these are the nations which the Lord left, to prove Israel by them, (even as many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan;

2 Only that the generations of the children of Israel might know to teach them war, at the least such as before knew nothing thereof.)

a Josh. 13. 3. 3 Namely, [a] five lords of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Sidonians, and the Hivites, that dwelt in mount Lebanon, from mount Baal-hermon, unto the entering in of Hamath.

b Chap. 2. 22. 4 [b] And they were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the Lord, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

5 ¶ And the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites:

c Exod. 34. 16. Deut. 7. 3. 6 And [c] they took their daughters to be their wives, and gave their daughters to their sons, and served their gods.

cir. 1406. d Chap. 2. 11. 7 [d] And the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and forgat the Lord their God, [e] and served Baalim, and [f] the groves.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

e Chap. 2. 13.
f Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 16. 21. Chap. 6. 25.

8 ¶ Therefore the anger of the Lord was hot against Israel, and he sold them into the hand of [g] Chushan-rishathaim king of * Mesopotamia: and the children of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim eight years.

g Hab. 3. 7.
* Heb. Aram-naharaim.

cir. 1402. cir. 1394.

9 And when the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, the Lord raised up a † deliverer to the children of Israel, who delivered them, even [h] Othniel the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother.

† Heb. saviour.

h Chap. 1. 13.

10 And [i] the spirit of the Lord ‡ came upon him, and he judged Israel, and went out to war; and the Lord delivered Chushan-rishathaim king of § Mesopotamia into his hand: and his hand prevailed against Chushan-rishathaim.

i See Num. 27. 18. Chap. 6. 34. and 11. 29. and 13. 25. 1 Sam. 11. 6.
‡ Heb. was.
§ Heb. Aram.

11 And the land had rest forty years: and Othniel the son of Kenaz died.

12 ¶ [k] And the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the Lord: and the Lord strengthened [l] Eglon the king of Moab against Israel, because they had done evil in the sight of the Lord.

k Chap. 2. 19. cir. 1354.
l 2 Sam. 12. 9.

13 And he gathered unto him the children of

CHAP. III.

V. 1. Many of Israel as had not known all the wars of Canaan—Had no experience of those wars, nor of God's extraordinary power and providence manifested in them.

V. 2. That the generations might know to teach them war—That, by the neighbourhood of such warlike enemies, they might be purged from sloth and security, and obliged to inure themselves to martial exercises, and to stand continually upon their guard, and consequently to keep close to that God, whose assistance they had so great and constant need of. And does not the same God leave many trials and temptations in the way of his church in all ages, that the true members of it may be blessed with enduring temptations, and suffering after the example of the children of God, whose lives are recorded in his word; that, from living witnesses, every rising generation may learn also to endure the trials of this life, as becometh those that are the disciples of a crucified Saviour?

V. 3. All the Canaanites—Numerous, and dispersed through several parts of the land, whence they gave denomination to all the rest of the people. The Sidonians—The people living near Zidon, and subject to its jurisdiction. Baal-Hermon—Which was the eastern part of mount Lebanon.

V. 4. They were to prove Israel by them, to know whether they would hearken unto the commandments of the Lord—That they and others might know by experience.

V. 6. They took their daughters, and served their gods—Were drawn to idolatry by their persuasions and examples.

V. 7. The children of Israel served Baalim and the groves—In the groves, in which the heathens usually worshipped their idols. The crimes of the people are thus carefully recorded, that the divine justice may be vindicated as the righteous governor of the world.

V. 8. The children of Israel served Chushan-rishathaim—Were made subject and tributary to him.

V. 9. When the children of Israel cried—Prayed fervently for deliverance. The Lord raised up a deliverer—And blessed be his name, his mercy endureth for ever; and he is no respecter of persons—This poor man cried, and the Lord heard him, and saved him out of all his troubles. (Psal xxxiv. 6.)

V. 10. The spirit of the Lord came upon him—With extraordinary influences, indowing him with singular wisdom, courage, and resolution; and stirring him up to this great undertaking. He judged Israel—Pleaded and avenged the cause of Israel against their oppressors. And in judging of them, declaring to them wherein they had offended God, that they might turn to him by true repentance, and so obtain his mercy and gracious support which he had promised to them, and to all that wait for his mercy in his appointed ways.

V. 11. The land had rest forty years—Recovered its interrupted rest in the fortieth year, either after Joshua's death, or after that first and famous rest procured for them by Joshua, when he subdued the Canaanites, and gave them quiet possession of the land.

V. 12. The children of Israel did evil again, and the Lord strengthened Eglon—By giving him courage, power, and success against them, to punish them for the evil they had committed, and with the merciful design that in their sufferings they might again turn unto the Lord, who does not willingly afflict the children of men, but as a kind parent chastens them for their profit, that men may be brought to himself, and perfected by that grace which accompanies every trial and temptation to the penitent mind; that in all things souls may be benefited, and glory and praise be given to God, whose wisdom, power, and goodness, makes all things work together for good to all that truly fear him. Reader, are you yet blessed with any degree of that mind which enabled one to say of old—Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil? (Job ii. 10.)

Before Christ cir. 1354.

of Ammon, and [m] Amalek, and went and smote Israel, and possessed [n] the city of palm-trees.

m Chap. 5. 14.
n Chap. 1. 16.

14 So the children of Israel served Eglon the king of Moab eighteen years.

cir. 1336.

15 But when the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, the Lord raised them up a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera, ‖ a Benjamite, a man * left-handed: and by him the children of Israel sent a present unto Eglon the king of Moab.

‖ Or, the son of Jemini.
* Heb. shut of his right hand, Chap. 20. 16.

16 But Ehud made him a dagger (which had two edges) of a cubit length, and he did gird it under his raiment, upon his right thigh.

17 And he brought the present unto Eglon king of Moab: and Eglon was a very fat man.

18 And when he had made an end to offer the present, he sent away the people that bare the present.

o Josh. 4. 20.

19 But he himself turned again [o] from the † quarries that were by Gilgal, and said, I have a secret errand unto thee, O king: who said, Keep silence. And all that stood by him, went out from him.

† Or, graven images.

20 And Ehud came unto him, and he was sitting in ‡ a summer-parlour, which he had for himself alone: and Ehud said, I have a message from God unto thee. And he arose out of his seat.

‡ Heb. a parlour of cooling: See Amos 3. 15.

21 And Ehud put forth his left hand, and took the dagger from his right thigh, and thrust it into his belly.

22 And the haft also went in after the blade: and the fat closed upon the blade, so that he could not draw the dagger out of his belly, and § the dirt came out.

§ Or, it came out at the fundament.

23 Then Ehud went forth through the porch, and shut the doors of the parlour upon him, and locked them.

24 When he was gone out, his servants came; and when they saw, that behold, the doors of the parlour were locked, they said, Surely he ‖ covereth his feet in his summer-chamber.

Before Christ cir. 1336.

‖ Or, doeth his easement.

25 And they tarried till they were ashamed: and behold, he opened not the doors of the parlour, therefore they took a key, and opened them: and behold, their lord was fallen down dead on the earth.

26 And Ehud escaped while they tarried: and passed beyond the quarries, and escaped unto Seirath.

27 And it came to pass when he was come, that [p] he blew a trumpet in the mountain of Ephraim, and the children of Israel went down with him from the mount, and he before them.

p Chap. 5. 14. and 6. 34.

28 And he said unto them, Follow after me: for the Lord hath delivered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they went down after him, and took the fords of Jordan towards Moab, and suffered not a man to pass over.

29 ¶ And they slew of Moab at that time about ten thousand men, all * lusty, and all men of valour; and there escaped not a man.

* Heb. fat.

30 So Moab was subdued that day under the hand of Israel: and the land had rest fourscore years.

q Chap. 5. 6, 8.
1 Sam. 13. 19, 22.
It seems to concern only the country next to the Philistines.

31 ¶ And after him was [q] Shamgar the son of Anath, which slew of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox-goad, and he also delivered [r] Israel.

cir. 1306.

r So part is called Israel, Chap. 4. 1. Chap. 4. 1, 3. &c. and 10. 7, 17. & 11. 4. &c. 1 Sam. 4. 1.

CHAP. IV.

AND [a] the children of Israel again did evil in the sight of the Lord when Ehud was dead.

cir. 1316.

a Chap. 2. 19.

2 And the Lord [b] sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan, that reigned [c] in Hazor; the captain of whose host was [d] Sisera, which dwelt in Harosheth of the Gentiles.

b Chap. 2. 14.
c Josh. 19. 36.
d 1 Sam. 12. 9. Psal. 83. 9.
It seems to concern only North-Israel.

3 And

V. 15. The Lord raised them up a deliverer, Ehud the son of Gera, a Benjamite—The son of Jemini, who was of the tribe of Benjamin.

V. 17. He brought the present—Which was to be paid to him as a part of his tribute.

V. 19. He himself turned again—As if he had forgot or neglected some important business. From the quarries—Either first, Whence they hewed stones: Or, secondly, The twelve stones which Joshua set up there, by the fight whereof he was animated to his work: Or, thirdly, The idols, as the word also signifies, which that heathen king might place there, either in spight and contempt to the Israelites who had that place in great veneration; or, that he might ascribe his conquest of the land to his idols, as the Israelites did to the true God, by setting up this monument. Who said, Keep silence—Till my servants be gone.

V. 20. He arose out of his seat—In token of reverence to God.

V. 24. They said, Surely he covereth his feet—To take a little sleep or rest.

V. 25. They tarried till they were ashamed—Lest they should either disturb him, or be guilty of neglect.

V. 28. They took the fords of Jordan—Where they passed over Jordan, that neither the Moabites that were got into Canaan might escape, nor any more Moabites come over Jordan to their succour.

V. 31. Shamgar slew of the Philistines six hundred men with an ox-goad—When God is pleased to save, or to destroy, he can do it by any means, however small; he can produce the greatest events from the least causes.

CHAP. IV.

V. 2. The Lord sold them into the hand of Jabin king of Canaan—Of the land where the most of the Canaanites now dwelt.

V. 3. Twenty

Before Christ cir. 1316.

3 And the children of Israel cried unto the Lord: for he had nine hundred [e] chariots of iron; and twenty years [f] he mightily oppressed the children of Israel.

[e] Chap. 1. 19.
[f] Chap. 5. 8.

4 ¶ And Deborah a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, she judged Israel at that time.

5 [g] And she dwelt under the palm-tree of Deborah, between Ramah and Beth-el in mount Ephraim: and the children of Israel came up to her for judgment.

[g] Gen. 35. 8.

cir. 1296.

6 And she sent and called [h] Barak the son of Abinoam, out [i] of Kedesh-naphtali, and said unto him, Hath not the Lord God of Israel commanded, saying, Go, and draw toward mount Tabor, and take with thee ten thousand men of the children of Naphtali, and of the children of Zebulun?

[h] Heb. 11. 32.
[i] Josh. 19. 36.

7 And I will draw unto thee, to the [k] river Kishon, Sisera the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots, and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand.

[k] Psal. 83. 9, 10. Chap. 5. 21.

8 And Barak said unto her, If thou wilt go with me, then I will go: but if thou wilt not go with me, then I will not go.

9 And she said, I will surely go with thee: notwithstanding the journey that thou takest shall not be for thine honour; for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman. And Deborah arose, and went with Barak to Kedesh.

10 ¶ And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh, and he went up with ten thousand men [l] at his feet: and Deborah went up with him.

Before Christ cir. 1296.

[l] 1 Sam. 12. 1 Kings 20. 10.

11 Now Heber [m] the Kenite, which was of the children of [n] Hobab the father in law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the plain of Zaanaim, [o] which is by Kedesh.

[m] Chap. 1. 16.
[n] Num. 10. 29.
[o] Ver. 6.

12 And they shewed Sisera, that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor.

13 And Sisera * gathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles, unto the river of Kishon.

* Heb. gathered by cry or proclamation.

14 And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the Lord hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: [p] is not the Lord gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him.

[p] 2 Sam. 5. 24. Psal. 68. 7.

15 And [o] the Lord discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host with the edge of the sword, before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet.

[o] Psal. 83. 9, 10.

16 But

V. 3. Twenty years he mightily oppressed the children of Israel—More than the former tyrants; partly from his malice and hatred against the Israelites, and principally from God's just judgment, the growing punishment being most suitable to their aggravated wickedness. But this affliction was in mercy, to lead them to a sense of their sins, and that they might return unto that gracious God and Redeemer against whom they had so highly offended.

V. 4. Deborah a prophetess—As there were men-prophets, so there were also women-prophetesses. She judged Israel—Determined causes and controversies arising among the Israelites.

V. 5. The children of Israel came up to her for judgment—To have their suits and causes determined by her sentence. Those that are sent of God to discharge any duty, are to be known by their being found able to go through the employment; and when they have done so, by their ascribing all the power, and giving all the praise to God alone.

V. 6. She sent and called Barak—By virtue of that power which God had given her, and the people owned in her. Hath not the Lord God of Israel commanded—Assuredly God hath commanded thee; this is not the fancy of a weak woman, but the command of God by my mouth. Go, and draw toward mount Tabor—A place most fit for his purpose.

V. 7. I—The Lord. Will draw unto thee Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army—By my powerful providence, ordering and overruling his inclinations that way.

V. 9. The Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman—The honour of the victory shall be ascribed to her. In this instance the Almighty gave the same knowledge of his will and authority in Israel to the prophetess, as on other occasions he gave to several of the prophets.

V. 10 He went up with ten thousand men at his feet—Who followed him.

V. 11. Now Heber—The husband of Jael, v. 17. Of the children of Hobab—Called also Jethro. Who had severed himself from the Kenites—From the rest of his brethren, who lived in the wilderness of Judah; which removal is here mentioned, lest any should wonder to find the Kenites in this place. And pitched his tent unto the plain of Zaanaim—His dwelling, which probably was in tents, as shepherds used.

V. 12. They shewed Sisera—He was told.

V. 14. Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the Lord hath delivered Sisera into thine hand—Arise, delay not, fall to thy work. Is not the Lord gone out before thee—As general of thine army, to fight for thee. So Barak went down from mount Tabor—He does not make use of the advantage which he had of the hill, where he might have been out of the reach of his iron chariots, but marcheth down into the valley, where Sisera could use all his horses and chariots, that so the victory might be more glorious and wonderful.

V. 15. The Lord discomfited Sisera—And his army, by withdrawing their strength and courage of mind. With great terror and noise, as the word signifies; most probably with thunder, lightning, and hailstones, or other such instruments of destruction poured upon them from heaven. With the edge of the sword—By the sword of Barak and his army, whose ministry God used to execute his justice on this people. Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet—That he might flee away more secretly and securely in the quality of a common soldier, whereas his chariot would have exposed him to more observation and hazard. But who-

Before Christ cir. 1296.

16 But Barak purſued after the chariots, and after the hoſt unto Haroſheth of the Gentiles: and all the hoſt of Siſera fell upon the edge of the ſword, and there was not † a man left.

† Heb. unto one.

17 Howbeit, Siſera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor, and the houſe of Heber the Kenite.

18 ¶ And Jael went out to meet Siſera, and ſaid unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me, fear not: and when he had turned in unto her, into the tent, ſhe covered him with a ‡ mantle.

‡ Or, rug, or, blanket.

19 And he ſaid unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink, for I am thirſty: and ſhe opened r a bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him.

r Chap. 5. 25.

20 Again he ſaid unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it ſhall be when any man doth come and inquire of thee, and ſay, Is there any man here? that thou ſhalt ſay, No.

Before Christ cir. 1296.

21 Then Jael Heber's wife, took a nail of the tent, and § took an hammer in her hand, and went ſoftly unto him, and ſmote the nail into his temples, and faſtened it into the ground: (for he was faſt aſleep, and weary) ſo he died.

§ Heb. put.

22 And behold, as Barak purſued Siſera, Jael came out to meet him, and ſaid unto him, Come, and I will ſhew thee the man whom thou ſeekeſt. And when he came into her tent, behold, Siſera lay dead, and the nail was in his temples.

23 So God ſubdued on that day, Jabin the king of Canaan, before the children of Iſrael.

24 And who can eſcape beyond the reach of infinite juſtice, any more than make a ſucceſsful reſiſtance to infinite power.

V. 16. There was not a man left—In the field; for there were ſome who fled away, as Siſera did.

V. 17. Siſera fled to the tent of Jael—And here he thought to lay ſecure. For there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor, and the houſe of Heber the Kenite—Not a league, which they were forbidden to make, but only a ceſſation of hoſtilities, which he afforded them becauſe they were a peaceable people, abhorring war, and wholly minding paſturage, and were not Iſraelites, with whom his principal quarrel was; and eſpecially by God's overruling diſpoſal of his heart to favour them who were careful to keep themſelves uncorrupted with Iſrael's ſins, and therefore are preſerved from their plagues.

V. 18. Jael went out to meet Siſera, and ſaid unto him, Turn in, my lord, turn in to me, fear not—This was a promiſe of ſecurity, and therefore ſhe cannot be excuſed from diſſimulation and treachery in the manner of executing her purpoſe. So weak and wicked is human nature, that one and the other is conſtantly breaking out, as if God could not carry on the deſigns of his providence without the aid of that wiſdom which is from beneath, and which we are ſhewn in the Scriptures, as in this caſe he frequently allows to produce its own effects, that men may ſee how prone they are to err, and that no fleſh may pretend to juſtify themſelves in his ſight; but that in the very way and manner in which they forward the purpoſes of the divine will, all muſt acknowledge themſelves to be unprofitable ſervants.

V. 19. She gave him drink, and covered him—Under pretence of hiding him, but really to diſpoſe him to ſleep.

V. 20. He ſaid unto her, When any man doth come and inquire of thee, and ſay, Is there any man here? that thou ſhalt ſay, No—It is obſervable, that ſhe gives him no promiſe to do ſo, nor makes him any anſwer; poſſibly becauſe ſhe knew ſhe had proceeded too far in uſing diſſimulation already, and found herſelf condemned for uſing treachery, in doing what ſhe thought to be a duty. He required her to tell an untruth for his ſafety. This was doing evil that good might come of it, and his laſt words, before he laid him down to ſleep, were falſe; he awoke in the world of ſpirits. And let thoſe that juſtify themſelves in uſing deceit and falſhood, conſider, that the author of life may require their ſouls of them at the time they are wilfully oppoſing themſelves to the nature of a God of truth, who has declared their damnation to be juſt, that think they ought to do evil as the means of obtaining ſecurity againſt evil, or of obtaining any good; or in other words, yield obedience to ſatan to obtain the bleſſings of God, who alone can give whatever in itſelf is good.

V. 21. Jael ſmote the nail into his temples, and he died—What ſhall we judge of this act of Jael's? On the one hand, there ſeems to be groſs perfidiouſneſs, and an horrid violation of all the laws of hoſpitality and friendſhip, and of the peace which was eſtabliſhed with Siſera; and on the other ſide, is not this fact of hers applauded and commended in Deborah's ſong? (Judg. v. 24, &c.) Deborah does not commend Jael's words, Turn in my Lord, fear not; but only her actions. Every word or diſcourſe which is recorded in Scripture, is not divinely inſpired, becauſe ſome of them were uttered by the devil, and others by holy men of God, but miſtaken (the prophets themſelves not always ſpeaking by inſpiration) ſuch as the diſcourſe of Nathan to David, (2 Sam. vii. 3.) which God preſently contradicted, ver. 4, 5, &c. and ſeveral diſcourſes of Job's three friends, which were ſo far from being divinely inſpired, that they were in a great degree unſound, as God himſelf tells them, (Job xlii. 7.) Ye have not ſpoken of me the thing that is right, as my ſervant Job hath; this being ſo, the worſt that any malicious mind can infer from this place is, That this ſong, though indicted by a good man or woman, was not divinely inſpired, but only compoſed by a perſon piouſly minded, and tranſported with joy for the deliverance of God's people, but ſubject to miſtake; who therefore, out of zeal to commend the happy inſtrument of ſo great a deliverance, might eaſily overlook the indirectneſs of the means by which it was accompliſhed, and commend that which ſhould have been diſliked. And if it be further objected, that it was compoſed by a propheteſs, Deborah, and therefore muſt be divinely inſpired; it may be replied, that every expreſſion of a true prophet was not divinely inſpired, as is evident from Nathan's miſtake above-mentioned, and from Samuel's miſtake concerning Eliab, whom he thought to be the Lord's anointed, (1 Sam. xvi. 6.) And ſo far from its being the deſign of the Scriptures to vindicate all that is ſaid and done by all, or any of the ſervants or prophets of God, it is the deſign of the Scriptures to ſhew us the contrary, that ſo univerſal is the corruption of men that none eſcaped it, but that it is of the Lord's mercy that the beſt that ever lived were not conſumed; (Lam. iii. 22.) which they would have been, had it not been for that Mediator by whom, and for whoſe ſake alone, all muſt be ſaved.

CHAP.

Before Christ cir. 1296.

24 And the hand of the children of Israel ‖ prospered, and prevailed against Jabin the king of Canaan, until they had destroyed Jabin king of Canaan.

‖ Heb. going went and was hard.

CHAP. V.

THEN sang Deborah and Barak the son of Abinoam, on that day, saying,

2 Praise ye the Lord for the avenging of Israel, [a] when the people willingly offered themselves.

a 2 Chro. 17. 6.

3 Hear, O ye kings, give ear, O ye princes; I, even I will sing unto the Lord, I will sing praise to the Lord God of Israel.

4 Lord, [b] when thou wentest out of Seir, when thou marchedst out of the field of Edom, [c] the earth trembled, and the heavens dropped, the clouds also dropped water.

b Deut. 4. 11. and 33. 2.

c Deut. 32. 2. Psal. 68. 8. Isa. 64. 3. Hab. 3. 3.

5 [d] The mountains * melted from before the Lord, even [e] that Sinai from before the Lord God of Israel.

d Psal. 97. 5. * Heb. flowed. e Exod. 19. 18.

6 In the days of [f] Shamgar the son of Anath, in the days of [g] Jael, [h] the highways were unoccupied, and the † travellers walked through ‡ by-ways.

Before Christ cir. 1296.

f Chap. 3. 31.
g Chap. 4. 18.
h Lev. 26. 22. 2 Chro. 15. 5. Isai. 33. 8. Lam. 1. 4. and 4. 18.
† Heb. walkers of paths.
‡ Heb. crooked ways.

7 The inhabitants of the villages ceased, they ceased in Israel, until that I Deborah arose, that I arose [i] a mother in Israel.

i Isai. 49. 23.

8 They chose new gods; then was war in the gates: [k] was there a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel?

k So 1 Sam. 13. 19, 22. Chap. 4. 3.

9 My heart is toward the governors of Israel, that offered themselves willingly among the people: Bless ye the Lord.

10 § Speak ye [l] that ride on white asses, ye that sit in judgment, and walk by the way.

§ Or, Meditate.
l Chap. 10. 4. and 12. 14.

11 They that are delivered from the noise of archers in the places of drawing water; there shall they rehearse the ‖ righteous acts of the Lord, even the righteous acts towards the ‖ Heb. righteousnesses of the LORD.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. Then sang Deborah—The composer of this song, as may be gathered from verse 7.

V. 2. Praise ye the Lord—Give him the praise who hath delivered you, and take that to yourselves which belongs to all men in the sight of God—shame and confusion of face. For the avenging of Israel—For taking vengeance upon his and their enemies. When the people willingly offered themselves—When neither Deborah nor Barak had any power to compel them, but were led to offer themselves by God, who inclined their hearts to do so.

V. 3. Hear, O ye kings, give ear, O ye princes—You especially that live near to Israel, and have evil minds and designs against Israel, know this, if ye shall presume to molest them. I will sing praise to the Lord God of Israel—Who is both able and resolved to defend them from all their enemies, who worship him as he requires to be worshipped—by faith in his mercy, and protecting care, through and for the sake of their living head and Redeemer.

V. 4. When thou wentest out of the field of Edom—Seir and Edom are the same place; and these two expressions note the same thing—God's marching in the head of his people from Seir or Edom, towards the land of Canaan. The earth trembled—Either the inhabitants of the land, or the earth itself. God prepared the way for his people, and struck a dread into their enemies, by earthquakes, as well as by other terrible signs. The clouds dropped water—Thou didst send dreadful showers of rain, storms and tempests, and other tokens of thy displeasure upon thine enemies.

V. 5. The mountains melted—Flowed, with floods of water poured out of the clouds upon them, and from them flowing down in a mighty stream upon the lower grounds. Even that Sinai—Or, as that Sinai did upon a like manifestation of thyself.

V. 6. The travellers walked through by-ways—Because of the Canaanites, who, besides the public burdens and tributes which they laid upon them, waited for all opportunities of doing them mischief secretly; and because of the robbers even of their own people, who having cast off the fear and worship of God, and there being no king or ruler in Israel to restrain or punish them, and being also many of them reduced to great want, through the oppression of the Canaanites; it is not strange, if, in those times of public disorder, divers of the Israelites themselves broke out into acts of injustice and violence, even against their own brethren, whom they could meet with in convenient places, which made travellers seek for by-paths. By how many ways can God punish a people that forget him, and carelessly or wilfully offend against him.

V. 7. The inhabitants of the villages ceased—The people forsook all their unfortified towns, as not being able to protect them. Until I Deborah arose a mother in Israel—(i. e.) To be to them as a mother, to instruct, rule, and protect them.

V. 8. They chose—They did not only submit to idolatry when they were forced to it by tyrants, but they freely chose. New gods—New to them, and unknown to their fathers, and new in comparison of the true and everlasting God of Israel, being but of yesterday. Then was war in the gates—In their walled cities. Was there a shield or spear seen among forty thousand in Israel—(i. e.) They had but few arms among them, being many thousands of them disarmed by the Canaanites; or, that they generally neglected the use of arms, as being utterly dispirited, and without all hope of recovering their lost liberty.

V. 9. My heart is toward the governors of Israel—I greatly honour and love those, who, being the chief of the people in wealth and dignity, did not withdraw themselves from the work, but exposed themselves to the same hazards, and joined with their brethren in this noble, but dangerous attempt; and, by their examples and countenance, engaged others in it. Bless ye the Lord—Who inclined their hearts to this undertaking, and gave them success in it. As she gives instruments their due, so she is careful the Sovereign Cause, and Lord of all, lose not his glory.

V. 10. Speak—Celebrate the praises of our mighty God, whose hand hath done this. Ye that ride on white asses—Magistrates and nobles, who used to do so, horses being in a manner forbidden there. And ye that walk by the way—You that now can safely travel about your business in those highways, which before you durst neither ride nor walk in: So great and small are jointly excited to praise God.

V. 11. They that are delivered from the archers in the places of drawing water—At those springs of water, which were scarce and precious in those hot countries, to which the people's necessities forced them to resort, and nigh to which the archers laid in wait to kill and spoil them. There shall they rehearse the righteous acts of the Lord—When they come to those places with freedom and safety, which before they could not, they shall with thankfulness rehearse this righteous, faithful, and gracious work of God, in rescuing his people, and punishing his enemies. Even Before Christ cir. 1296. the inhabitants of his villages in Israel: then shall the people of the Lord go down to the gates.

12 Awake, awake, Deborah: awake, awake, utter a song: arise, Barak, and lead thy captivity captive, thou son of Abinoam.

13 Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people: the Lord made me have dominion over the mighty.

m Chap. 3. 27. n Chap. 3. 13.

14 [m] Out of Ephraim was there a root of them [n] against Amalek; after thee, Benjamin, among thy people: out of Machir came down governors, and out of Zebulun they that * handle the pen of the writer.

* Heb. draw with the pen, &c.

15 And the princes of Issachar were with Deborah: even Issachar, and also [o] Balak, he was sent on † foot into the valley: ‡ for the divisions of Reuben there were great § thoughts of heart.

o Chap. 4. 14. † Heb. his feet. ‡ Or, in the divisions, &c. § Heb. impressions.

16 Why abodest thou [p] among the sheepfolds, to hear the bleatings of the flocks? ‖ for the divisions of Reuben there was great searchings of heart.

p Gen. 49. 14. ‖ Or, in.

17 Gilead abode beyond Jordan: and why did Dan remain in ships? [q] Asher continued on the sea-* shore, and abode in his † breaches.

q Josh. 19. 29 * Or, port. † Or, creeks.

18 [r] Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that ‡ jeoparded their lives unto the death, in the high places of the field.

r Chap. 4. 10. ‡ Heb. exposed to reproach.

19 The kings came and fought, then fought the kings of Canaan in Taanach by the waters of Megiddo, [s] they took no gain of money.

s Chap. 4. 16. Psal. 44. 12.

20 They fought from heaven, [t] the stars in their § courses fought against Sisera.

t Chap. 4. 15. § Heb. paths.

21 The river of Kishon swept them away, that ancient river, the river Kishon: O my soul, thou hast trodden down strength.

22 Then were the horse-hoofs broken, by the means of the ‖ pransings, the pransings of their mighty ones.

‖ Or, tramplings, or plungings.

23 Curse

the righteous acts towards the inhabitants of his villages—Whom he mentions, because as their danger was greater, so was their deliverance and their obligation to praise God. Then shall the people of the Lord go down to the gates—Of their cities, which were the chief places to which both city and country resorted for public business and matters of justice, from which they had been debarred by their oppressors; but now they had free access and passage, either in or out of the gates, as their occasions required; and they who had been driven from their cities, now returned to them in peace.

V. 12. Awake, awake—Stir up thyself, and all that is within thee, to admire and praise the Lord. Lead thy captivity captive—Those that might be taken after the battle, and led in triumph.

V. 13. Then he made him that remaineth have dominion over the nobles among the people—Thus God did not only preserve the poor and despised remnant of his people from the fury of the oppressor before this war, and from the destruction which Sisera designed and promised himself to bring upon them, but also gave them the victory, and thereby the dominion over the princes and nobles of Canaan, who were combined against them. The Lord made me have dominion over the mighty—Though but a weak woman.

V. 14. Out of Machir came down governors—Either civil governors, the princes and great persons, who were as ready to hazard themselves, and their ample estates, as the meanest; or, military officers and commanders, such as some of Machir's posterity are noted to have been. Out of Zebulun they that handle the pen of the writer—Even the Scribes, who gave themselves to study and writing, whereby they were exempted from military service, did voluntarily enter into this service.

V. 15. For the divisions of Reuben—Or, separations, whereby they were divided or separated, not so much one from another in their thoughts, counsels, and carriage in this war, (for they seem to be all too well agreed in abiding at home with their sheep, as it follows) as all from their brethren, from whom they were divided no less in their designs and affections, than in their situation by the river Jordan; and they would not join their interests and forces with them in this common cause. There were great thoughts of heart—Great and sad thoughts among the Israelites, to see themselves deserted by so great a tribe as Reuben was.

V. 16. Why abodest thou among the sheep-folds, to hear the bleatings of the flocks—Why wast thou so void of all zeal for God, and compassion towards thy brethren, and care for the recovery of thy own liberties and privileges, that thou wouldst not engage thyself in so just, so necessary, and so noble a cause, but didst prefer the care of thy sheep, and thy own present ease and safety, before this generous undertaking? Reuben thought neutrality their wisest course; being very rich in cattle, they were loath to run the hazard of so great a loss, by taking up arms against so potent an enemy as Jabin was.

V. 17. Gilead—Gilead is sometimes taken more largely, for all the land of the Israelites beyond Jordan; so it is not here taken, because Gilead is here distinguished from Reuben and his land: Sometimes it is taken more strictly for that part of the land beyond Jordan which fell to the half-tribe of Manasseh, and sometimes both for that part of Manasseh's and for Gad's portion; and so it seems to be understood here; and the land Gilead is here put for the people or inhabitants of it, Gad and Manasseh. Beyond Jordan—In their own portions, and did not come over Jordan to the help of the Lord, and of his people, as they ought to have done. And why did Dan remain in ships—Dan, whose coast was near the sea, was wholly intent upon his merchandise and shipping, as the great instrument both of his riches and safety; and therefore would not join in this expedition.

V. 18. Zebulun and Naphtali were a people that jeoparded their lives—They chose rather to venture upon an honourable death, than to enjoy a shameful and servile life. In the high places of the field—Upon that large and eminent plain in the top of mount Tabor, where they put themselves in order of battle.

V. 20. They fought from heaven—The heavenly host fought, by thunder, lightning, and hailstones.

V. 21. The river of Kishon swept them away—Which, though not great in itself, was now much swelled by the storm and rain, and drowned those who were pursued by the hand of God, and by the Israelites. O my soul, thou hast trodden down strength—Thou, O Deborah, though but a weak woman, hast, by God's assistance and blessing upon thy counsels and prayers, subdued a potent enemy. Such apostrophes and abrupt speeches are frequent in poetical Scriptures.

V. 22. Then were the horse-hoofs broken—Their horses, in which they put most confidence, had their hoofs broken, when they fled away with all possible speed from God, and from Israel. By the means of the pransings—Or, because of their fierce or swift courses.

V. 23. Curse

Before Christ cir. 1269.

23 Curse ye Meroz, (said the angel of the Lord) curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof: [u] because they came not to the help of the Lord, to the help of the Lord against the mighty.

u Chap. 21. 9, 10. Neh. 3. 5.

x Chap. 4. 17.

24 Blessed above women shall [x] Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite be, blessed shall she be above women in the tent.

y Chap. 4. 19.

25 [y] He asked water, and she gave him milk, she brought forth butter in a lordly dish.

26 She put her hand to the nail, and her right hand to the workmen's hammer: and

* Heb. she hammered.

* with the hammer she smote Sisera, she smote off his head, when she had pierced and stricken through his temples.

† Heb. Between.

27 † At her feet he bowed, he fell, he lay down: at her feet he bowed, he fell; where he bowed, there he fell down ‡ dead.

‡ Heb. destroyed.

28 The mother of Sisera looked out at a window, and cried through the lattess, Why is his chariot so long in coming? why tarry the wheels of his chariots?

29 Her wise ladies answered her, yea, she returned

‖ Heb. her words.

‖ answer to herself,

z Exod. 15. 9.

30 [z] Have they not sped? have they not

* Heb. to the head of a man.

divided the prey, * to every man a damsel or two? to Sisera a prey of divers colours, a prey of divers colours of needle-work, of divers colours of needle-work on both sides, meet for the necks of them that take the spoil?

Before Christ cir. 1269.

31 So let all thine enemies perish, O Lord: but let them that love him, be [a] as the sun when he goeth forth in his might. And the land had rest forty years.

a 2 Sam. 23. 4.

CHAP. VI.

AND the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord: and the Lord delivered them into the hand [a] of Midian seven years.

cir. 1256.

a Hab. 3. 7.

2 And the hand of Midian * prevailed against Israel: and because of the Midianites the children of Israel made them [b] the dens which are in the mountains, and caves, and strong holds.

* Heb. was strong.

b 1 Sam. 13. 6.

3 And so it was when Israel had sown, that the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, [c] and the children of the east, even they came up against them:

c Chap. 7. 12. and 8. 10.

4 And they encamped against them, and destroyed the increase of the earth, till thou come unto Gaza, and left no sustenance for Israel, neither † sheep, nor ox, nor ass.

† Or, goat.

5 For

V. 23. Curse ye Meroz—A place then, no doubt, eminent and considerable, though now there be no remembrance of it left—the effect of this bitter curse. This place, above all others, may be thus severely cursed; because it was near the place of the fight, and had the greatest opportunity and obligation to engage with, and to assist their brethren, and did not. Said the angel of the Lord—She signifies, that this curse proceeded not from her ill-will to that place. Because they came not to the help of the Lord—Of the Lord's people; for God takes what is done for or against his people, as if it was done to himself. (Isai. lxiii. 9. Zech. ii. 8. Matth. xxv. 45.) Or, of the Lord himself, who though he did not need, yet did require and expect their help and concurrence; and he expressed it thus, to shew the sinfulness of their desertion of this cause, because it was the cause of God; and they had the call of God to it, whom they knew to be able easily to crush that enemy whom they dreaded, and who had promised to do it.

V. 24. Blessed above women—Celebrated, praised, and endowed with all sorts of blessings more than they.

V. 27. He bowed, he fell, he lay down—Here is a lively representation of the thing done. At the first blow or wound he was awakened, and made some attempt to rise; but being astonished and very weak, she also following her first blow with others, he found himself impotent, and fell down dead.

V. 28. The mother of Sisera looked out at a window—Expecting to see him returning; for she concluded, that he went forth not so much to fight, as to take the spoil. This is to be placed among the many proofs there are of the uncertainty of those expectations that are placed in human strength or power, how great soever it be; for God, whose disposals are only known to himself, and to whom he pleases, raiseth up the weak or casteth down the mighty, as shall most advance the designs of his gracious providence, in humbling all pride in men, and to shew that no dependance is well placed that has not God for its object, and his mercy through a Mediator, as the sole meritorious cause of his goodness to men.

V. 30. Have they not divided the prey—It is certain they have got the prey, only they tarry to distribute it, according to every man's quality and merit.

V. 31. So—So suddenly, so surely, so effectually, and irrecoverably. Let all thine enemies perish, O Lord: but let them that love him, be as the sun when he goeth forth in his might—When he first riseth, and so goeth on in his course with irresistible might.

CHAP. VI.

V. 1. The children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord—How does this sacred history of the human conduct prove that the heart of man is only evil continually; and that those that are most favoured of God, as the people of Israel were, when they are lifted up by self-confidence, and resist the grace by which alone they can be saved, the moment they are left to themselves, like weights suspended losing their support, they descend to the earth from which they were raised. The Lord delivered them into the hand of Midian—For although the generality of the Midianites had been cut off by Moses about 200 years ago, yet many of them, doubtless, fled into the neighbouring countries, whence afterwards they returned into their own land, and in that time might easily grow to a great number; especially when God furthered their increase, that they might be a fit scourge for his people Israel when they transgressed. And when men cease to live by faith in God their Saviour, those evil tempers and desires which were subdued by the merciful influence of the grace of God, like the Midianites, rise up again, and overcome those who before had them as under their feet.

V. 2. Because of the Midianites the children of Israel made them the dens which are in the mountains, and caves—In which they might secure themselves, and their property, from the hands of the Midianites.

V. 3. When Israel had sown, the Midianites came up, and the Amalekites, and the children of the east—The Arabians, who are commonly called the children of the east.

V. 5. Their

Before Christ cir. 1256.

5 For they came up with their cattle, and their tents, and they came as grashoppers for multitude, for both they and their camels were without number: and they entered into the land to destroy it.

6 And Israel was greatly impoverished, because of the Midianites; and the children of Israel cried unto the Lord.

cir. 1249.

7 ¶ And it came to pass when the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, because of the Midianites;

‡ Heb. a man a prophet.

8 That the Lord sent ‡ a prophet unto the children of Israel, which said unto them, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I brought you up from Egypt, and brought you forth out of the house of bondage,

9 And I delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all that oppressed you, and drave them out from before you, and gave you their land;

10 And I said unto you, I am the Lord your God, [d] fear not the gods of the Amorites in whose land ye dwell: but ye have not obeyed my voice.

d 2 Kings 17. 35. 38. Jer. 10. 2.

11 ¶ And there came an angel of the Lord, and sat under an oak which was in Ophrah, that pertained unto Joash the [e] Abiezrite: and his son [f] Gideon threshed wheat by the wine-press, ‖ to hide it from the Midianites.

e Josh. 17. 2.

f Heb. 11. 32, called Gedeon.

‖ Heb. to cause it to flee.

12 And the angel of the Lord appeared unto him, and said unto him, The Lord is with thee, thou mighty man of valour.

13 And Gideon said unto him, Oh my lord, if the Lord be with us, why then is all this befallen us? and where be all his miracles which our fathers told us of, saying, Did not the Lord bring us up from Egypt? but now the Lord hath forsaken us, and delivered us into the hands of the Midianites.

Before Christ cir. 1256.

14 And the Lord looked upon him, and said, [g] Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hand of the Midianites: have not I sent thee?

g 1 Sam. 12. 11. Heb 11. 32.

15 And he said unto him, Oh my lord, wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, [h] * my family is poor in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house.

h See 1 Sam. 9. 21. * Heb. my thousand is the meanest: Exod. 18. 21, 25. Mic. 5. 2.

16 And the Lord said unto him, Surely I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites, as one man.

17 And he said unto him, If now I have found grace in thy sight, then shew me a sign that thou talkest with me.

18 Depart not hence, I pray thee, until I come unto thee, and [i] bring forth my † present, and set it before thee. And he said, I will tarry until thou come again.

cir. 1249.

i Chap. 13. 15. † Or, meat-offering.

19 And Gideon went in, and made ready ‡ a kid, and unleavened cakes of an ephah of flour: the flesh he put in a basket, and he put the broth in a pot, and brought it out unto him, under the oak, and presented it.

‡ Heb. a kid of the goats.

20 And the angel of God said unto him, Take the flesh, and the unleavened cakes, and lay them upon this rock, and [k] pour out the broth. And he did so.

k See 1 Kings 18. 33, 34.

21 ¶ Then

V. 5. Their camels were without number—So many that it was not easy to number them.

V. 7, 8. When the children of Israel cried unto the Lord, the Lord sent a prophet—To acquaint them that their unfaithfulness was the cause of the calamities under which they now suffered.

V. 10. I said unto you, I am the Lord your God, fear not the gods of the Amorites—Neither fear their pretended power to do you hurt, nor place any expectation in them to do you good.

V. 11. There came an angel of the Lord, and sat under an oak which was in Ophrah—In Manasseh. That pertained unto Joash the Abi-ezrite—Of the posterity of Abiezer. By the wine-press—In the place where the wine-press stood; not in the common floor.

V. 12. The Lord is with thee—Will assist thee against thine and mine enemies. Thou mighty man of valour—To whom I have given strength and courage for this end.

V. 13. The Lord hath forsaken us—This is the answer Gideon makes, when he was told the Lord was with him: And thus do many think themselves forsaken of the Lord, when in truth he is with them. Is not the Lord with them that are convinced of the evil nature of sin—that have sorrow for sin committed—that hate sin—that have power to forsake sin—that resist it and pray against it—that have no other hope of salvation but in the Lord Jesus Christ, however afflicted or tempted they may be?

V. 14. The Lord looked upon him—With a settled and pleasant countenance, as a testimony of his favour to him, and of his readiness to help him. And said, Go in this thy might—Or, the strength which thou hast already received from me. Have not I sent thee—I do hereby give thee command and commission for this work, and therefore am obliged in honour to assist thee in it. They that are sent of God to do any particular work, that intend any thing for his glory, and strictly regard the will of God in the manner of doing it, need not fear being left unassisted by his grace and providence.

V. 15. Oh my Lord, wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, my family is poor—Weak and contemptible. And I am the least in my father's house—Either for age, or for wisdom, and fitness for so great a work

V. 16. I will be with thee, and thou shalt smite the Midianites, as one man—As easily, as if they were all but one man.

V. 17. Shew me a sign, that thou talkest with me—Or, a sign of that which thou talkest with me—that thou wilt by me smite the Midianites.

V. 18. Depart not, I pray thee, until I bring forth my present—A repast, or some food for the Angel, which he thought to be a man, (verse 22.) And set it before thee—That thou mayest eat and refresh thyself.

V. 19. And presented it—And here it may be said, Be careful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained Angels unawares.

V. 21. Then

Before Christ cir. 1249.

21 ¶ Then the angel of the Lord put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh, and the unleavened cakes: and [l] there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh, and the unleavened cakes: then the angel of the Lord departed out of his sight.

l Lev. 9. 24.

22 And when Gideon perceived that he was an angel of the Lord, Gideon said, Alas, O Lord God: [m] for because I have seen an angel of the Lord face to face.

m Gen. 16. 13. and 32. 30. Exod. 33. 20. Chap. 13. 22.

23 And the Lord said unto him, Peace be unto thee, fear not, thou shalt not die.

24 Then Gideon built an altar there unto the Lord, and called it § Jehovah-shalom: unto this day it is yet [n] in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

§ That is, the LORD send peace. See Exod. 17. 15. Jer. 33. 16. Ezek. 48. 35.

n Chap. 8. 32.

25 ¶ And it came to pass the same night, that the Lord said unto him, Take thy father's young bullock, ‖ even the second bullock of seven years old, and throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath, and [o] cut down the grove that is by it:

‖ Or, and

o Exod. 34. 13. Deut. 7. 5.

26 And build an altar unto the Lord thy God upon the top of this * rock, † in the ordered place, and take the second bullock, and offer a burnt-sacrifice with the wood of the grove which thou shalt cut down.

* Heb. strong place.
† Or, in an orderly manner.

27 Then Gideon took ten men of his servants, and did as the Lord had said unto him: and so it was, because he feared his father's household, and the men of the city, that he could not do it by day, that he did it by night.

Before Christ cir. 1249.

28 ¶ And when the men of the city rose early in the morning, behold, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the grove was cut down that was by it, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built.

29 And they said one to another, Who hath done this thing? And when they enquired and asked, they said, Gideon the son of Joash hath done this thing.

30 Then the men of the city said unto Joash, Bring out thy son, that he may die: because he hath cast down the altar of Baal, and because he hath cut down the grove that was by it.

31 And Joash said unto all that stood against him, Will ye plead for Baal? will ye save him? he that will plead for him, let him be put to death, whilst it is yet morning: if he be a god, let him plead for himself, because one hath cast down his altar.

32 Therefore on that day he called him [p] Jerubbaal, saying, Let Baal plead against him, because he hath thrown down his altar.

p 2 Sam. 11. 21. Jerub-besheth.

33 ¶ Then all the Midianites and the Amalekites,

V. 21. Then the angel of the Lord put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the flesh, and the unleavened cakes: and there rose up fire out of the rock, and consumed the flesh, and the unleavened cakes—By which, he shewed himself to be no man that needed such provisions, but the Son of God; and, by this instance of his power, gave him assurance that he both could and would consume the Midianites.

V. 22. Gideon said, Alas, O Lord God—I am an undone man; I must die, and that speedily, according to the common opinion. God hath shewed me this sight as a presage of my death.

V. 23. The Lord said unto him, Peace be unto thee—Thou shalt receive no hurt by this vision, as thou fearest; but only peace—all the blessings needful for thy own happiness, and for the present work; for this is a very comprehensive phrase among the Hebrews.

V. 24. Gideon called it Jehovah-shalom—The Lord's peace; the sign or witness of God's speaking peace to me, and to his people; or the place where he spake peace to me, when I expected nothing but destruction. And with delight are those places remembered, where the Lord in mercy speaks peace to any fearful, troubled, guilty mind.

V. 25. Take thy father's young bullock—And this he calls his father's young bullock. Throw down the altar of Baal that thy father hath—Which thy father built in his own ground. Cut down the grove that is by it—This action might seem injurious to his father's rights and authority; but God's command was sufficient warrant, and Gideon was now called to be the supreme magistrate, whereby he was made his father's superior, and was impowered and enjoined to root out all idolatry and superstition, and the instruments thereof.

V. 26. Build an altar unto the Lord thy God upon the top of this rock, and offer a burnt-sacrifice—Gideon was no priest, nor was this the appointed place of sacrifice; but God can dispense with his own institutions, though we may not; and his call gave Gideon sufficient authority.

V. 27. Then Gideon took ten men of his servants—Whom doubtless he had acquainted with his design, and the assurance of success in it; whereby they were easily induced to assist him. Because he feared, he did it by night—He did not fear lest he should suffer for it, for he knew very well the doing it by night, with so many hands, could not hinder the discovery, and consequently the punishment of it; but lest he should be prevented from doing it.

V. 28. When the men of the city rose, the altar of Baal was cast down, and the second bullock was offered upon the altar that was built—Not upon Baal's altar, but upon an altar erected in contempt of Baal.

V. 31. Will ye plead for Baal—Why are you so zealous in pleading for that Baal, for the worship whereof you suffer such grievous calamities at this day, and from whom you have no help? He that will plead for him, let him be put to death—He that shall further plead for such a god as this, deserves to die for his folly and impiety. Whilst it is yet morning—Instantly; without delay. If he be a god, let him plead for himself—As the God of Israel hath often done, when any indignity or injury hath been done to him. But Baal hath now shewed, that he is neither able to help you, nor himself; and therefore is not worthy to be served any longer. This resolute answer was necessary to stop the torrent of the people's fury against Gideon.

V. 32. Therefore on that day he called him Jerubbaal—Joash called Gideon so, in remembrance of this noble exploit, and to put a brand upon Baal.

V. 33. All the Midianites and the Amalekites, and the children of the east, pitched in the valley of Jezreel—In the borders of Manasseh

Before Christ cir. 1249. Amalekites, and the children of the east were gathered together, and went over, [q] and pitched in the valley of Jezreel.

q Josh. 17. 16.

cir. 1249. 34 But [r] the spirit of the Lord † came upon Gideon, and he [s] blew a trumpet, and Abiezer ‡ was gathered after him.

r 1 Chron. 12. 18. 2 Chron. 24. 20. † Heb. clothed. s Numb. 10. 3. Chap. 3. 27. ‡ Heb. was called after him.

35 And he sent messengers throughout all Manasseh, who also was gathered after him, and he sent messengers unto Asher, and unto Zebulun, and unto Naphtali, and they came up to meet them.

36 ¶ And Gideon said unto God, If thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said, 37 Behold, I will put a fleece of wool in the floor: and if the dew be on the fleece only, and it be dry upon all the earth beside, then shall I know that thou wilt save Israel by mine hand, as thou hast said.

38 And it was so: for he rose up early on the morrow, and thrust the fleece together, and wringed the dew out of the fleece, a bowl-full of water.

t Gen. 18. 32. 39 And Gideon said unto God, [t] Let not thine anger be hot against me, and I will speak but this once: Let me prove, I pray thee, but this once with the fleece; let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew.

40 And God did so that night: for it was dry upon the fleece only, and there was dew on all the ground.

CHAP. VII.

a Chap. 6. 32. THEN [a] Jerubbaal (who is Gideon) and all the people that were with him, rose up early, and pitched beside the well of Harod: so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them by the hill of Moreh, in the valley. Before Christ cir. 1249.

2 And the Lord said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee, are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me.

3 Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, [o] Whosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead: and there returned of the people twenty and two thousand, and there remained ten thousand.

o Deut. 20. 8.

4 And the Lord said unto Gideon, The people are yet too many: bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go.

5 So he brought down the people unto the water: and the Lord said unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink.

6 And the number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed and Issachar, which was not far distant from Ophrah, where Gideon dwelt, and now was.

V. 34. The spirit of the Lord came upon Gideon—Inspiring him with extraordinary wisdom, courage, and zeal to vindicate God's honour, and his country's liberty. He blew a trumpet, and Abiezer was gathered after him—The Abiezrites, his kindred, their servants, and others; who finding no harm coming to him for the destroying of Baal, but rather a blessing from God, in giving him strength and courage for so great and dangerous an attempt, changed their minds and followed him, as the person by whose hands God would deliver them.

V. 35. He sent messengers throughout all Manasseh—On both sides of Jordan. And he sent messengers unto Asher, and unto Zebulun, and unto Naphtali—These tribes were nearest to him, and therefore were most sensible of the calamity, and would be most forward to rescue themselves from it.

V. 36. Gideon said unto God—In way of humble supplication, for the strengthening of his own faith, and for the greater encouragement of his soldiers in this great attempt.

V. 37. And it be dry upon all the earth beside—(i. e.) Upon all that spot of ground about the fleece.

V. 39. Let it now be dry only upon the fleece, and upon all the ground let there be dew—Which was greater than the former instance, because if there be any moisture, such bodies as fleeces of wool are most likely to drink it up.

V. 40. And God did so—Thus full of condescension is God to all them that truly mean to do his will.

CHAP. VII.

V. 2. The people are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me—There are too many for my purpose; which is, so to deliver Israel, that it may appear to be my own miraculous act, that so I may have all the glory of it, and they may be more strongly obliged to love and serve me. God can save by few as well as by many; and nothing being more dangerous to men, than their attributing any part of their salvation to any wisdom or power of their own, it is a part of the divine government to hide pride from man, and to shew them that all the help that is done upon earth, the Lord doth it himself.

V. 3. There returned of the people twenty and two thousand—So many were they who would not hazard their lives in obedience to God's command; notwithstanding the recovery of their civil and religious liberties depended on their gaining the victory over their oppressors.

V. 4. I will try them for thee—Because thy proclamation hath not sufficiently tried them; for many who are fearful indeed, will put on the face, and desire the opinion of being valiant persons; I will prove them, that they may be known to thee with whom thou art willing to hazard thy life in doing what I have commanded thee.

V. 6. The

Before Christ cir. 1249. bowed down upon their knees to drink water.

7 And the Lord said unto Gideon, By the three hundred men that lapped, will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place.

8 So the people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel, every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men: and the host of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

9 ¶ And it came to pass the same night, that the Lord said unto him, Arise, get thee down unto the host, for I have delivered it into thine hand.

10 But if thou fear to go down, go thou with Phurah thy servant down to the host.

11 And thou shalt hear what they say, and afterward shall thine hands be strengthened to go down unto the host. Then went he down with Phurah his servant, unto the outside of the * armed men that were in the host.

* Or, ranks by five.

12 And the Midianites, and the Amalekites, and [c] all the children of the east, lay along in the valley like grasshoppers for multitude; and their camels were without number, as the sand by the sea-side for multitude.

c Chap. 6. 5, 33. & 8. 10.

13 And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and lo, a cake of barley-bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent lay along.

Before Christ cir. 1249.

14 And his fellow answered, and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the host.

15 ¶ And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and † the interpretation thereof, that he worshipped, and returned into the host of Israel, and said, Arise, for the Lord hath delivered into your hand the host of Midian.

† Heb. the breaking thereof.

16 And he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and he put ‡ a trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and § lamps within the pitchers.

‡ Heb. trumpets in the hand of all of them

§ Or, firebrands, or torches.

17 And he said unto them, Look on me, and do likewise: and behold, when I come to the outside of the camp, it shall be that as I do, so shall ye do.

18 When I blow with a trumpet, I and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets also on every side of all the camp, and say, The sword of the Lord, and of Gideon.

19 ¶ So Gideon and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp, in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch, and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.

20 And the three companies blew the trumpets,

V. 6. The number of them that lapped, putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men—Who took up a little water in the palm of their hands to put into their mouths.

V. 7. Let all the other people go every man unto his place—To his own home; thus they that laid themselves down to drink, were sent away from serving the Lord. And are there not many who exclude themselves from the service of God by self-indulgence?

V. 8. The people took victuals in their hand, and their trumpets—The trumpets belonging to the whole army, even to those who were gone away.

V. 9. It came to pass the same night—After he had dismissed all but the three hundred. The Lord said unto him—In a dream or vision of the night.

V. 10. If thou fear to go down—Without some farther assurance of thy success, I will condescend so far to thee, as to give thee another sign. So abundant in mercy is God, that he continues to give, after his praying servants have ceased to ask.

V. 11. Thou shalt hear what they say, and afterward shall thine hands be strengthened—Thou wilt be encouraged to proceed, notwithstanding the smallness of thy number, which may deter thee.

V. 13. A cake of barley-bread—A weak and contemptible thing; and in itself as unable to overthrow a tent, as to remove a mountain; but being thrown by a divine hand, bore down all before it; which fitly resembled Gideon's case, which was mean and poor, as himself saith, yet he was mighty, through God, to destroy the Midianites.

V. 14. This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon—Who himself was there to hear the dream, and its interpretation for his encouragement; thus, exactly and strangely as it appears to us, can God fulfil his word.

V. 15. When Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and the interpretation thereof, that he worshipped—He praised God for this miraculous work and encouragement, whereby he was confirmed in his design.

V. 16. He divided the three hundred men into three companies—To make a shew of a vast army encompassing them. He put a trumpet in every man's hand, with empty pitchers, and lamps within the pitchers—To preserve the flame from the violence of wind and weather; and to conceal it, and surprize their enemy with sudden and unexpected flashes of light.

V. 18. And say, The sword of the Lord, and of Gideon—He mentions his own name, together with God's, not out of vain ostentation or arrogance, as if he would equal himself with God; for he mentions God in the first and chief place, and himself only as his minister; but from prudent policy, because his name was grown formidable to them, and so was likely to further his design, and their flight, as it did.

V. 19. Of the middle watch—(i. e.) Of the second watch; for though afterwards the night was divided into four watches by the Romans, (Matth. xiv. 25) yet in more ancient times, and in the eastern parts, it was divided into three. He chose the dark and dead of the night, to increase their terror by the trumpets, whose sound trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The sword of the Lord, and of Gideon.

Before Christ cir. 1249.

21 And they stood every man in his place, round about the camp: and all the host ran, and cried, and fled.

d Josh. 6. 4. 16. 20.
See 2 Cor. 4. 7.
e Psal. 83. 9. Isai. 9. 4.
f 1 Sam. 14. 20. 2 Chron. 20. 23.
§ Or, towards.
‖ Heb. lip.

22 And the three hundred [d] blew the trumpets, and [e] the Lord set [f] every man's sword against his fellow, even throughout all the host: and the host fled to Beth-shittah, in Zererath, and § to the ‖ border of Abelmeholah, unto Tabbath.

23 And the men of Israel gathered themselves together out of Naphtali, and out of Asher, and out of all Manasseh, and pursued after the Midianites.

24 ¶ And Gideon sent messengers throughout all mount Ephraim, saying, Come down against the Midianites, and take before them the waters unto Beth-barah, and Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered themselves together, and took the waters unto [g] Beth-barah and Jordan.

g John 1. 28.
h Psal. 83. 11. Isai. 10. 26.

25 And they took [h] two princes of the Midianites, Oreb and Zeeb; and they slew Oreb upon the rock Oreb, and Zeeb they slew at the wine-press of Zeeb, and pursued Midian, and brought the heads of Oreb and Zeeb to Gideon on the other side Jordan.

CHAP. VIII.

Before Christ cir. 1249.

AND [a] the men of Ephraim said unto him, * Why hast thou served us thus, that thou calledst us not when thou wentest to fight with the Midianites? and they did chide with him † sharply.

a See chap. 12. 1.
2 Sam. 19. 41.
* Heb. what thing is this thou hast done unto us?
† Heb. strongly.

2 And he said unto them, What have I done now in comparison of you? Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim, better than the vintage of Abiezer?

3 God hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you? Then their ‡ anger was abated toward him, when he had said that.

‡ Heb. spirit.

4 ¶ And Gideon came to Jordan, and passed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet pursuing them.

5 And he said unto the men of Succoth, Give, I pray you, loaves of bread unto the people that follow me, for they be faint, and I am pursuing after Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.

6 ¶ And the princes of Succoth said, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that [o] we should give bread unto thine army?

o See 1 Sam. 25. 10.

7 And Gideon said, Therefore when the Lord hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into mine hand, then I will § tear your flesh with sound would then be loudest and best heard; and the lamps, whose light would then shine most brightly, and seem biggest, to surprise them at disadvantage, and to conceal the smallness of their numbers.

§ Heb. thresh.

V. 20. And held their lamps in their left hands—That they might be thought to be a mighty host, having as many troops, or companies, as there were trumpets and lights.

V. 21. They stood every man in his place—As if they had only been torch-bearers to the several companies.

V. 22. The Lord set every man's sword against his fellow—And the darkness of the night made them unable to distinguish friends from foes.

V. 24. Take before them the waters unto Beth-barah—The passes over those waters to which they are like to come. And Jordan—The fords of Jordan, which river they must pass over into their own country.

V. 25. On the other side Jordan—For Gideon in the pursuit had passed over Jordan, as we read, Judg. viii. 4. which, though mentioned after this, may seem to have been done before it, such transpositions being frequent in sacred story. Or, on this side Jordan, for the Hebrew word is indifferent to both sides, see Gen. l. 10. And so this is opposed to what follows of his passing over Jordan, (Judg. viii. 4.) And then there is no anticipation here.

CHAP. VIII.

V. 1. Why hast thou served us thus, that thou calledst us not—Why hast thou neglected and despised us, in not calling us in to thy help, as thou didst other tribes? These were a proud people, puffed up with a conceit of their number and strength, and the preference which Jacob, by Divine direction, gave them above Manasseh, of which tribe Gideon was, who, by this act, had seemed to advance his own tribe, and to depress theirs.

V. 2. What have I done now in comparison of you—What was done was done by God's immediate hand, making them one to kill another: What I have done, in cutting off some of the fugitive common soldiers, is not to be compared with your exploit in destroying their princes: I began the war, but you have finished. Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim—What you have gleaned or done after me. Better than the vintage of Abiezer—Of the Abiezrites, to whom he modestly communicateth the honour of the victory, and doth not arrogate it to himself.

V. 3. Then their anger was abated toward him, when he had said that—His soft and humble answer allayed their rage and envy.

V. 4. Gideon came to Jordan, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet pursuing them—Determining not to be wearied till their work was done.

V. 5. He said unto the men of Succoth—A place beyond Jordan. (Gen. xxxiii. 17. Jos. xiii. 27. Psal. lx. 8.) Kings of Midian—Where, before this time, were five kings at once, (Numb. xxxi. 8.) who either reigned separately in divers parts of the land, or governed by common counsel and consent; as sometimes there were two or three Roman Emperors together.

V. 6. Are the hands of Zeba and Zalmunna now in thine hand—Art thou so foolish to think, with thy 300 faint and weary soldiers, to conquer and destroy an host of many thousands! They judged from appearance, and were mistaken.

Before Christ cir. 1249.

with the thorns of the wilderneſs, and with briers.

c Gen. 32. 30.

8 And he went up thence [c] to Penuel, and ſpake unto them likewiſe: and the men of Penuel anſwered him, as the men of Succoth had anſwered him.

9 And he ſpake alſo unto the men of Penuel, ſaying, When I come again in peace, I will break down this tower.

10 ¶ Now Zebah and Zalmunna were in Karkor, and their hoſts with them, about fifteen thouſand men, all that were left of all the hoſts of the children of the eaſt: for there fell ‖ an hundred and twenty thouſand men that drew ſword.

‖ Or, an hundred and twenty thouſand, every one drawing a ſword.

d Num. 32. 35, 42.

11 ¶ And Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents, on the eaſt of [d] Nobah, and Jogbehah, and ſmote the hoſt: for the hoſt was ſecure.

e Pſal. 83. 11.

12 And when Zebah and Zalmunna fled, he purſued after them, and [e] took the two kings of Midian, Zebah and Zalmunna, and

* Heb. terrified.

* diſcomfited all the hoſt.

13 ¶ And Gideon the ſon of Joaſh returned from battle before the ſun was up, † Heb. writ.

14 And caught a young man of the men of Succoth, and inquired of him: and he † deſcribed unto him the princes of Succoth, and the elders thereof, even threeſcore and ſeventeen men.

15 And he came unto the men of Succoth, and ſaid, Behold, Zebah and Zalmunna, with whom ye did upbraid me, ſaying, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we ſhould give bread unto thy men that are weary?

Before Chriſt cir. 1249.

16 And he took the elders of the city, and thorns of the wilderneſs, and briers, and with them he ‡ taught the men of Succoth.

‡ Heb. made to know.

17 And he beat down the tower of [f] Penuel, and ſlew the men of the city.

f 1 Kings 12. 25.

18 ¶ Then ſaid he unto Zebah and Zalmunna, What manner of men were they whom ye ſlew at Tabor? And they anſwered, As thou art, ſo were they, each one § reſembled the children of a king.

§ Heb. according to the form, &c.

19 And he ſaid, They were my brethren, even the ſons of my mother: as the Lord liveth, if ye had ſaved them alive, I would not ſlay you.

20 And he ſaid unto Jether his firſt-born, Up, and ſlay them: but the youth drew not his ſword: for he feared, becauſe he was yet a youth.

21 Then Zebah and Zalmunna ſaid, Riſe thou, and fall upon us: for as the man is, ſo is his ſtrength. And Gideon aroſe, and ſlew Zebah and Zalmunna, and took away the ‖ ornaments that were on their camels necks.

‖ Or, ornaments like the moon.

22 ¶ Then

V. 7. I will tear your fleſh with the thorns of the wilderneſs—Becauſe ye ſpeak with contempt of the army of the God of Iſrael: He that deſpiſeth, deſpiſeth not only man but God; and you ſhall be puniſhed for that crime, and to the end that all men may know the danger of living in a diſpoſition that deſpiſes any one, eſpecially thoſe that are acting in obedience to the command of God, however unequal they may appear to be, to the work which they venture to undertake.

V. 8. He went up thence to Penuel—Another city beyond Jordan.

V. 9. When I come again in peace, I will break down this tower—Your confidence in which makes you thus proud and preſumptuous. He implies, that he would afterwards deſtroy their perſons.

V. 10. There fell an hundred and twenty thouſand men that drew ſword—Perſons expert and exerciſed in war.

V. 11. Gideon went up by the way of them that dwelt in tents—Of the Arabians, ſo fetching a compaſs, and falling upon them where they leaſt expected it. And ſmote the hoſt: for the hoſt was ſecure—Being now got ſafe over Jordan, and a great way from the place of battle. But where is the place in which thoſe can be ſecure, that are living in oppoſition to the will of God?

V. 13. Gideon returned before the ſun was up—By which it may be gathered, that he came upon them in the night.

V. 14. He deſcribed unto him the princes of Succoth—He told him their names and ſituation.

V. 16. He taught the men of Succoth—By that ſevere puniſhment, he made the men, the elders of Succoth, to know their ſin, in anſwering them with the contempt they had done.

V. 18. What manner of men—For outward ſhape and quality. Were they whom ye ſlew at Tabor—Whither he underſtood they fled for ſhelter, upon the approach of the Midianites. Each one reſembled the children of a king—Not for their garb or outward ſplendor, but for the majeſty of their looks: By which commendation they thought to ingratiate themſelves with their conqueror.

V. 19. If ye had ſaved them alive, I would not ſlay you—For being not Canaanites, he was not obliged to kill them; but they having killed his brethren, and that in cool blood, he was by law the avenger of their blood. Bleſſed are the merciful, for they ſhall obtain mercy; and they that are unjuſt or cruel, are laying up for themſelves the return of that treatment which they have ſhewn to others; and it is one part of this Sacred Hiſtory to prove, by many examples, That as a man ſows, ſo ſhall he reap, that all men may know when they do evil, however ſecretly, or however far above the reach of puniſhment they may think themſelves at the time; yet ſooner or later, for all that is wrong, they will have their own way recompenſed on their own head, (Ezek. ix. 10.) which is not to be avoided but by true repentance, and applying for mercy before the conſequences of their crimes overtake them.

V. 20. He ſaid unto Jether his firſt-born, Up, and ſlay them—And to them that die in their ſins, and ſhall at laſt be found fighting againſt God, and enemies to the Moſt High by wicked works, will it be ſaid, Bring them hither, and ſlay them before me. (Luke xix. 27.)

V. 21. Riſe thou, and fall upon us: for as the man is, ſo is his ſtrength—Thou excelleſt him, as in age and ſtature, ſo in ſtrength; and it is more honourable to die by the hands of a valiant man, and by this, the honour that cometh of men may appear to have been the uppermoſt thought in their hearts, now even when they were entering the very gate of death.

V. 22. The men of Iſrael ſaid unto Gideon, Rule thou over us—Not as a judge, but as a king. Both thou, and thy ſon, and thy ſons ſon

Before Christ cir. 1249.

22 ¶ Then the men of Israel said unto Gideon, Rule thou over us, both thou, and thy son, and thy sons son also: for thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian.

23 And Gideon said unto them, I will not rule over you, neither shall my son rule over you: [g] the Lord shall rule over you.

[g] 1 Sam. 8. 7. and 10. 19. and 12. 12.

24 And Gideon said unto them, I would desire a request of you, that you would give me every man the ear-rings of his prey: (for they had golden ear-rings, [h] because they were Ishmaelites)

[h] Gen. 25. 13.

25 And they answered, We will willingly give them. And they spread a garment, and did cast therein, every man the ear-rings of his prey.

26 And the weight of the golden ear-rings that he requested, was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold, besides ornaments, and [*] collars, and purple raiment that was on the kings of Midian, and besides the chains that were about their camels necks.

[*] Or, sweet jewels.

[i] Chap. 17. 5.

27 And Gideon [i] made an ephod thereof, and put it in his city, even [k] in Ophrah; and all Israel went thither a whoring after it: which thing became a snare unto Gideon, and to his house.

[k] Chap. 6. 24.

28 ¶ Thus was Midian subdued before the children of Israel, so that they lifted up their heads no more: and the country was in quietness forty years in the days of Gideon.

Before Christ cir. 1249.

29 ¶ And Jerubbaal the son of Joash went and dwelt in his own house.

30 And Gideon had threescore and ten sons † of his body begotten: for he had many wives.

† Heb. going out of his thigh.

31 And his concubine that was in Shechem, she also bare him a son, whose name he ‡ called Abimelech.

‡ Heb. set.

32 ¶ And Gideon the son of Joash died in a good old age, and was buried in the sepulchre of Joash his father, [l] in Ophrah of the Abi-ezrites.

cir. 1209.

[l] Chap. 6. 24.

33 And it came to pass as soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again, and went a whoring after Baalim, [m] and made Baal-berith their god.

[m] Chap. 9. 46.

34 And the children of Israel remembered not the Lord their God, who had delivered them out of the hands of all their enemies on every side:

35 Neither shewed they kindness to the house of Jerubbaal, namely Gideon, according to all the goodness which he had shewed unto Israel.

CHAP.

also—Let the kingdom be hereditary to thee, and to thy family. For thou hast delivered us from the hand of Midian—This miraculous and glorious deliverance by thy hands, deserves no less from us.

V. 23. Gideon said unto them, I will not rule over you—As a king, which you desire. The Lord shall rule over you—To whom you are indebted for this deliverance and not to me, whom he has been pleased to use as he might have done any other person, as the means by which he has done you this good.

V. 24. They were Ishmaelites—They are all called by one general name, Ishmaelites, or Arabians, who used to wear ear-rings; but the greatest part of them were Midianites.

V. 27. Gideon made an ephod thereof, and put it in his city—The case seems to be this: Gideon having, by God's command, erected an altar in his own city, Ophra, so he designed to make priestly garments, and especially an ephod, which was the chief and most costly; which, besides its use in sacred ministrations, was also the instrument by which the mind of God was inquired and discovered, (1 Sam. xxvi. 6, 9. and xxx. 7.) which might seem necessary for the judge to have at hand, that he might consult with God upon all occasions. Which thing became a snare—An occasion of sin and ruin to him and his.

V. 28. They lifted up their heads no more—Recovered not their former strength or courage, so as to conquer or oppress others, as they had done. The country was in quietness forty years—To the fortieth year, from the beginning of the Midianitish oppression. In the days of Gideon—As long as Gideon lived. And as the children of Israel had quietness after the oppression they suffered under these people, so shall they that believe in the power and willingness of God to save, sooner or later experience that those causes of human misery, inbred corruptions, shall no more be able to lift up their heads, and they shall find quietness and peace in the assurance of God's pardoning love.

V. 29. Jerubbaal went and dwelt in his own house—Not in his father's house, as he did before; nor yet in a court like a king, as the people desired; but in a middle state, as a judge, for the preservation and maintenance of their religion and liberties.

V. 31. Whose name he called Abimelech—My father the king; so he called him, probably to gratify his concubine, who desired it either out of pride or design.

V. 32. Gideon died in a good old age—His long life being crowned with the continuance of his honour, tranquillity, and happiness.

V. 33. As soon as Gideon was dead, that the children of Israel turned again—Did no longer cleave to God, than they were constrained to it by the presence and authority of their judge. Baalim—This was the general name including all their idols. Baal-berith—The Lord of the covenant. He was reputed the God and Judge of all covenants, promises, and contracts, to whom it belonged to maintain them, and to punish the violaters of them. Satan wanting to be equal to the Most High, is ever leading men to offer that worship to idols, which is only due to God. And whatever by common consent is made most interesting to men in the things of this life, that seems to be the object of which this use is made; and when money is found to be the common sign of all the advantages men can enjoy on earth, then is it the design of satan to tempt the souls of men to depart from the living God, and delight themselves supremely, and make an idol-god of that which they find will gratify the natural, fallen, fleshly inclinations of the heart, and keep them from that spiritual worship of God, by which the souls of men can only become holy and happy.

V. 34, 35. The children of Israel remembered not the Lord their God, neither shewed they kindness to the house of Gideon—And thus prone to forget God their Saviour are all the children of men. And the conduct of the Israelites in departing from God, and the miseries

Before Christ cir. 1209.

CHAP. IX.

AND Abimelech the ſon of Jerubbaal went to Shechem, unto [a] his mother's brethren, and communed with them, and with all the family of the houſe of his mother's father, ſaying,

a Chap. 8. 31.

2 Speak, I pray you, in the ears of all the men of Shechem, * Whether is better for you, either that all the ſons of Jerubbaal (which are threeſcore and ten perſons) reign over you, or that one reign over you? remember alſo that I am your bone and your fleſh.

* Heb. What is good? Whether, &c.

3 And his mother's brethren ſpake of him in the ears of all the men of Shechem all theſe words: and their hearts inclined † to follow Abimelech; for they ſaid, He is our brother.

† Heb. after.

4 And they gave him threeſcore and ten pieces of ſilver, out of the houſe of Baal-berith: wherewith Abimelech hired [b] vain and light perſons, which followed him.

b Chap. 11. 3.

5 And he went unto his father's houſe [c] at Ophrah, and ſlew his brethren the ſons of Jerubbaal, being threeſcore and ten perſons, upon one ſtone: notwithſtanding, yet Jotham the youngeſt ſon of Jerubbaal was left; for he hid himſelf.

c Chap. 6. 24.

6 And all the men of Shechem gathered together, and all the houſe of Millo, and went, and made Abimelech king, ‡ by the plain of the pillar that was in Shechem.

‡ Or, by the oak of the pillar: See Joſh. 24. 26.

7 ¶ And when they told it to Jotham, he went and ſtood in the top of [d] mount Gerizim, and lift up his voice, and cried, and ſaid unto them, Hearken unto me, you men of Shechem, that God may hearken unto you.

d Deut. 11. 27.

8 [e] The trees went forth on a time to anoint a king over them, and they ſaid unto the olive-tree, Reign thou over us.

e See 2 Kings 14. 9.

9 But the olive-tree ſaid unto them, Should I leave my fatneſs [f] wherewith by me they honour God and man, and § go to be promoted over the trees?

f Pſal. 104. 15.

§ Heb. go up and down for other trees.

10 And the trees ſaid to the fig-tree, Come thou, and reign over us.

11 But

miſeries they brought upon themſelves by doing ſo, is written to admoniſh all men of their danger in forgetting him that made us, and lightly eſteeming him that died to redeem us.

CHAP. IX.

V. 2. Whether is better for you, either that all the ſons of Jerubbaal (which are threeſcore and ten perſons) reign over you, or that one reign over you?—He ſeems to have expected that they would take that government which their father modeſtly refuſed; and that the multitude of his ſons would occaſion diviſions and conteſts about the ſovereign power; all which they might avoid, by chooſing him king; and ſo they might enjoy the monarchy which they had long deſired. Remember alſo, that I am your bone and your fleſh—Your kinſman, of the ſame tribe and city with you; which will be no ſmall honour and advantage to you.

V. 3. And his mother's brethren—Kinſmen, as that word is uſed. Their hearts inclined to follow Abimelech; for they ſaid, He is our brother—They were eaſily perſuaded to follow his advice.

V. 4. They gave him threeſcore and ten pieces of ſilver—Agreeably to the number of Gideon's ſons. Out of the houſe of Baal-berith—Out of his treaſury. The worſhippers of Baal had a ſtock provided to forward their cauſe. Abimelech hired vain and light perſons—Who being vain in their own conceits, and miſtaking honeſt induſtry for meanneſs, were idle, and, in conſequence of being ſo, were light and trifling perſons, and in the way of being called into this ſervice.

V. 5. He went unto his father's houſe at Ophrah, and ſlew his brethren the ſons of Jerubbaal—The only perſons who were likely to hinder him in eſtabliſhing himſelf. Being threeſcore and ten perſons—Wanting one, who is here expreſſed. Upon one ſtone—Whereby he would ſignify, that this was either an act of juſtice, in cutting them off for ſome ſuppoſed crime, probably as deſigning ſedition and rebellion: Or, an act of religion in avenging the diſhonour and injury done to Baal by Gideon, upon his children, whom he offered up as ſo many ſacrifices to Baal upon this ſtone, which ſerved for an altar; and for this reaſon it ſeems the money was taken out of Baal's houſe, becauſe it was to be laid out in his ſervice. And in this we have an inſtance of the miſerable conſequences which have ſo often followed a departure from that divine inſtitution which was from the beginning, when the firſt parents of mankind were given to each other.

V. 6. The men of Shechem went, and made Abimelech king—Over all Iſrael, ver. 22. By the plain of the pillar—By the oak, where Joſhua erected a pillar as a witneſs of the covenant renewed between God and Iſrael. This place they might chooſe, to ſignify that they ſtill owned God, and their covenant with him; and did not worſhip Baal in oppoſition to God, but in conjunction with him, or in ſubordination to him.

V. 7. When they told it to Jotham, he went and ſtood in the top of mount Gerizim—Which lay near Shechem, and near mount Ebal. The valley between theſe two mountains of Gerizim and Ebal, was a famous place, employed for the ſolemn reading of the law, and its bleſſings and curſes, and therefore it is probable it was ſtill uſed by the idolatrous Iſraelites for ſuch like occaſions, who delighted to uſe the ſame places which their religious anceſtors had conſecrated and uſed. And lift up his voice, and cried—So as they that ſtood in the valley might hear him, though not ſuddenly come at him to take him. Hearken unto me, you men of Shechem—Who are here met together. That God may hearken unto you—When you cry unto him for mercy; ſo he conjures and perſuades to give him patient audience, as they did.

V. 8. The trees went forth on a time—A parabolical diſcourſe, uſual among the ancients, eſpecially in the eaſtern parts; wherein, under the names of trees, men are repreſented. To anoint a king—To make a king. They ſaid unto the olive-tree, Reign thou over us—By which he underſtands Gideon.

V. 9. The olive-tree ſaid unto them, Should I leave my fatneſs wherewith by me they honour God—In whoſe worſhip and ſervice oil was uſed for the anointing of ſacred perſons and things. And man—For oil was uſed in the conſtitution of kings, and prieſts, and prophets, and for a preſent to great perſons, and to anoint the head. And go to be promoted over the trees—Exchange my ſweet tranquillity, for inceſſant cares and travels for the good of others, as a king muſt do, that diſcharges the duty which is required of all that govern.

V. 10. And the trees ſaid to the fig-tree—This, as alſo the vine, ſignifies the ſame thing with the olive-tree; but here are various

Before Christ cir. 1209.

11 But the fig-tree said unto them, Should I forsake my sweetness, and my good fruit, and go to be promoted over the trees?

12 Then said the trees unto the vine, Come thou, and reign over us.

13 And the vine said unto them, Should I leave my wine, [g] which cheereth God and man, and go to be promoted over the trees?

[g] Psa. 104.15.

14 Then said all the trees unto the ‖ bramble, Come thou, and reign over us.

‖ Or, thistle.

15 And the bramble said unto the trees, If in truth ye anoint me king over you, then come and put your trust in my shadow: and if not, [h] let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon.

[h] Ezek.29.14.

16 Now therefore, if ye have done truly and sincerely, in that ye have made Abimelech king, and if ye have dealt well with Jerubbaal and his house, and have done unto him according to the deserving of his hands:

* Heb. cast his life.

17 (For my father fought for you, and * adventured his life far, and delivered you out of the hand of Midian:

18 And ye are risen up against my father's house this day, and have slain his sons, threescore and ten persons, upon one stone, and have made Abimelech the son of his maidservant, king over the men of Shechem, because he is your brother)

cir. 1206.

19 If ye then have dealt truly and sincerely with Jerubbaal, and with his house this day, then rejoice ye in Abimelech, and let him also rejoice in you:

20 But if not, let fire come out from Abimelech, and devour the men of Shechem, and the house of Millo: and let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech.

Before Christ cir. 1206.

21 And Jotham ran away and fled, and went [i] to Beer, and dwelt there, for fear of Abimelech his brother.

[i] 2 Sam.20.14.

22 ¶ When Abimelech had reigned three years over Israel,

cir. 1206.

23 Then [k] God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem: and the men of Shechem dealt treacherously with Abimelech:

[k] 1 Sam.16.14. See 1 Kings 22. 22. 2 Chron. 10.15. and 18.19, &c.

24 That the cruelty done to the threescore and ten sons of Jerubbaal might come, and their blood be laid upon Abimelech their brother which slew them, and upon the men of Shechem which † aided him in the killing of his brethren.

† Heb. strengthened his hands to kill.

25 And the men of Shechem set liers in wait for him in the top of the mountains, and they robbed all that came along that way by them: and it was told Abimelech.

26 And Gaal the son of Ebed came with his brethren, and went over to Shechem: and the men of Shechem put their confidence in him.

27 And they went out into the fields, and and gathered their vineyards, and trode the grapes, and made ‡ merry, and went into the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and cursed Abimelech.

‡ Or, sung: See Isai. 16.9, 10. Jer. 25. 30.

28 And

various expressions used, either because Gideon refused this honour, both for himself, and for his sons; or, to signify that the sons of Gideon, whom Abimelech had slain, upon pretence of their desiring the kingdom, were as far from such thoughts as their father; and therefore were unjustly and wickedly murdered.

V. 13. Wine, which cheereth God and man—Wherewith God is well pleased, because it was offered to God.

V. 14. Then said all the trees unto the bramble—Or, thorn, a mean, and barren, and hurtful tree, fitly representing Abimelech, a person of small use, and great cruelty.

V. 15. If in truth ye anoint me king over you—If you deal truly and justly in making me king. Then come and put your trust in my shadow—Then you may expect protection under his government. If not, let fire come out of the bramble, and devour the cedars of Lebanon—Instead of protection, you shall receive destruction by him, especially you cedars, (i. e.) Nobles, such as the house of Millo, who have been most forward in this work.

V. 17. My father adventured his life—Exposed himself to utmost hazard for your sakes.

V. 18. Ye are risen up against my father's house, and have slain his sons—Abimelech's act is charged upon them, as done by their consent. Abimelech the son of his maid-servant—His concubine. King over the men of Shechem—By which limitation of their power, and his kingdom, he reflects contempt upon him, and chargeth them with presumption, that having only power over their own city, they durst impose a king upon all Israel.

V. 20. Let fire come out from the men of Shechem, and from the house of Millo, and devour Abimelech—This is not a prediction, but an imprecation or curse.

V. 22. Abimelech had reigned three years over Israel—For though the men of Shechem were the first authors of Abimelech's advancement, it is more than probable that the rest of the people easily consented to that form of government which they so much desired; or at least made no resistance against it.

V. 23. God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the men of Shechem—God gave the devil commission to work upon their minds and hearts; knowing that he would fill them with mistakes, and jealousies, and dissentions, and heart-burnings, which would end in civil wars and mutual ruin: God thus making use of the author of all evil, to punish those that have done evil.

V. 24. That the cruelty might be laid upon Abimelech—Who was the first in the wicked design.

V. 25. The men of Shechem set liers in wait for him—To seize his person. They robbed all that came along that way by them—Such as favoured or served Abimelech.

V. 26. And Gaal the son of Ebed—It is not known who, or of what tribe he was. He went over to Shechem—By his presence and counsel to animate and assist them against Abimelech.

V. 27. They went into the house of their god, and did eat and drink, and cursed Abimelech—An evil spirit was sent among them, and this was their conduct—They were guilty of idolatry, they were intemperate, and they cursed their enemy.

V. 28. Who is Abimelech—But a person unworthy of the station he holds.

V. 29. Then

Before Christ cir. 1206.

28 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed ſaid, Who is Abimelech, and who is Shechem, that we ſhould ſerve him? is not he the ſon of Jerubbaal, and Zebul his officer? ſerve the men of Hamor the father of Shechem: for why ſhould we ſerve him?

29 And would to God this people were under my hand; then would I remove Abimelech. And he ſaid to Abimelech, Increaſe thine army, and come out.

30 ¶ And when Zebul the ruler of the city heard the words of Gaal the ſon of Ebed, his anger was § kindled.

§ Or, hot.

31 And he ſent meſſengers unto Abimelech ‖ privily, ſaying, Behold, Gaal the ſon of Ebed, and his brethren be come to Shechem; and behold, they fortify the city againſt thee.

‖ Heb craftily, or, to Tormah.

32 Now therefore up by night, thou and the people that is with thee, and lie in wait in the field.

33 And it ſhall be, that in the morning as ſoon as the ſun is up, thou ſhalt riſe early, and ſet upon the city: and behold, when he and the people that is with him come out againſt thee, then mayeſt thou do to them * as thou ſhalt find occaſion.

* Heb. as thine hand ſhall find.

34 ¶ And Abimelech roſe up, and all the people that were with him, by night, and they laid wait againſt Shechem in four companies.

35 And Gaal the ſon of Ebed went out, and ſtood in the entering of the gate of the city: and Abimelech roſe up, and the people that were with him from lying in wait.

36 And when Gaal ſaw the people, he ſaid to Zebul, Behold, there come people down from the top of the mountains. And Zebul ſaid unto him, Thou ſeeſt the ſhadow of the mountains as if they were men.

37 And Gaal ſpake again, and ſaid, See, there come people down by the † middle of the land, and another company come along by the plain of ‡ Meonenim.

Before Christ cir. 1206.

† Heb. navel.

‡ Or, the regarders of times.

38 Then ſaid Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou ſaidſt, Who is Abimelech, that we ſhould ſerve him? is not this the people that thou haſt deſpiſed? go out, I pray now, and fight with them.

39 And Gaal went out before the men of Shechem, and fought with Abimelech.

40 And Abimelech chaſed him, and he fled before him, and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate.

41 And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul thruſt out Gaal and his brethren, that they ſhould not dwell in Shechem.

42 And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the people went out into the field, and they told Abimelech.

43 And he took the people, and divided them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and behold, the people were come forth out of the city, and he roſe up againſt them, and ſmote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the company that was with him, ruſhed forward, and ſtood in the entering of the gate of the city: and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and ſlew them.

45 And Abimelech fought againſt the city all that day, and he took the city, and ſlew the people that was therein, and [l] beat down the city, and ſowed it with ſalt.

[l] Deut. 29.23. 1 Kings 12.25.

46 ¶ And when all the men of the tower of Shechem heard that, they entered into an hold of the houſe [m] of the god Berith.

[m] Chap. 8.33.

47 And it was told Abimelech, that all the

V. 29. Then would I remove Abimelech—As you have driven him out of your city, I would drive him out of your country. And he ſaid to Abimelech—He ſent this meſſage or challenge to him. Increaſe thine army, and come out—I deſire not to ſurprize thee at any diſadvantage; ſtrengthen thyſelf as much as thou canſt, and come out into the open field, that thou and I may decide it by our arms.

V. 31. He ſent meſſengers unto Abimelech privily—So as Gaal and his confederates might not know it. They fortify the city againſt thee—They guard the city of Shechem, ſo as none may go out to thee, nor come in from thee.

V. 35. And Gaal went out, and ſtood in the entering of the gate of the city—To put his army in order, and to conduct them againſt Abimelech, whom he ſuppoſed to be at a great diſtance.

V. 36. When Gaal ſaw the people, he ſaid to Zebul—Who concealed the anger which he had conceived, that he might draw him forth into the field, where Abimelech might have the opportunity of fighting with him, and overthrowing him. Thou ſeeſt the ſhadow of the mountains as if they were men—He intimates that he was afraid of ſhadows.

V. 38 Where is now thy mouth—Now thou betrayeſt thy fears, and therefore now ſhew thyſelf a man, and fight valiantly for thyſelf and people.

V. 42. On the morrow, the people went out into the field—To renew the fight, and avenge themſelves for their laſt loſs.

V. 44. Abimelech ſtood in the entering of the gate of the city—To prevent their retreat into the city, and give the other two companies opportunity to cut them off.

V. 45. Abimelech beat down the city, and ſowed it with ſalt—In token of his deſire of their utter and irrecoverable deſtruction: Salt is the ſign of perpetuity.

V. 46. The men of the tower of Shechem—A ſtrong place belonging to the city of Shechem. It is thought this was that Millo which was confederate with Shechem, in their deſign againſt Abimelech,

Before Christ cir. 1206.

the men of the tower of Shechem were gathered together.

48 And Abimelech gat him up to mount Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him; and Abimelech took an ax in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, What ye have seen ‖ me do, make haste, and do as I have done.

‖ Heb. I have done.

49 And all the people likewise cut down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put them to the hold, and set the hold on fire upon them: so that all the men of the tower of Shechem died also, about a thousand men and women.

50 ¶ Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and encamped against Thebez, and took it.

51 But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the tower.

52 And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it with fire.

m 2 Sam. 11. 21.

53 And a certain woman [m] cast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech's head, and all to break his scull.

o So 1 Sam. 31. 4.

54 Then [o] he called hastily unto the young man his armour-bearer, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that men say not of me, A woman slew him. And his young man thrust him through, and he died.

55 And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man unto his place.

Before Christ cir. 1206.

56 ¶ Thus God rendered the wickedness of Abimelech which he did unto his father, in slaying his seventy brethren.

57 And all the evil of the men of Shechem, did God render upon their heads: and upon them came the curse of Jotham the son of Jerubbaal.

CHAP. X.

AND after Abimelech there arose to * † defend Israel, Tola the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, a man of Issachar; and he dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim.

* Or, deliver.
† Heb. save.

2 And he judged Israel twenty and three years, and died, and was buried in Shamir.

cir. 1183.

3 ¶ And after him arose Jair, a Gileadite, and judged Israel twenty and two years.

4 And he had thirty sons that [a] rode on thirty ass-colts, and they had thirty cities, [b] which are called ‡ Havoth-jair unto this day, which are in the land of Gilead.

a Chap. 5. 10. and 12. 14.
b Deut. 3. 14.
‡ Or, the villages of Jair, Num. 32. 41.

5 And Jair died, and was buried in Camon.

cir. 1161.

6 And [c] the children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the Lord, and served Baalim, and [d] Ashtaroth, and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon, and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines, and forsook the Lord, and served not him.

c Chap. 2. 11. and 3. 7. and 4. 1. and 6. 1. and 13. 1.
d Chap. 2. 13.

7 ¶ And the anger of the Lord was hot against Israel, and he [e] sold them into the hands

cir. 1161.

e Chap. 2. 14. 1 Sam. 12. 9.

melech, verse 6. which also Jotham cursed with Shechem, verse 20. and that curse is noted to have its effect, verse 57. And this place may be called the tower of Shechem; either because those who possessed and defended it, were sent from Shechem; or, because it was built and kept for the safe-guard of Shechem. They entered into an hold of the house of the god of Berith—Baal-berith. Hither they fled out of the town belonging to it, fearing the same event with Shechem; and here they thought to be secure.

V. 48. Abimelech gat him up to mount Zalmon—A place so called from its shadiness, because there were many trees there.

V. 49. The people followed Abimelech, and set the hold on fire upon them—And thus did those treat one another who were punished for their mutual crimes, by the presence and influence of an evil spirit.

V. 50. Then went Abimelech to Thebez—Another town near to Shechem, and within its territory.

V. 51. Thither fled all the men and women—All that were not slain in the taking of the town.

V. 53. A certain woman cast a piece of a millstone upon Abimelech—The justice of God is remarkable in suiting the punishment to his sin. He slew his brethren upon a stone, and he loseth his own life by a stone.

V. 54. Slay me, that men may say not of me, A woman slew him—Which was esteemed a matter of disgrace. He was only intent on dying honourably in the esteem of men.

V. 56. Thus God rendered the wickedness of Abimelech which he did unto his father—In rooting out, as far as he could, the name and memory of his father.

V. 57. And all the evil of the men of Shechem, did God render upon their heads—The crimes of both were against God, as all crimes are; and continuing in their wickedness, God sent an evil spirit as the executioner of his justice, and left to themselves, they were led to do one another all the injuries we have seen, and so receiving the reward of their own doings.

CHAP. X.

V. 1. There arose—Not of himself, but raised by God, as the other judges were. To defend Israel—Or, to save; which he did, not by fighting against, and overthrowing their enemies, but by a prudent and pious government of them, whereby he kept them from sedition, as also from idolatry; as may be gathered from verse 6. which, if not restrained and purged out, would have brought certain ruin upon them. Tola the son of Puah, and he dwelt in Shamir in mount Ephraim—Which was in the midst of the land.

V. 3. And after him arose Jair, a Gileadite—Of Gilead beyond Jordan.

V. 6. The children of Israel did evil again in the sight of the Lord, and served Baalim, and forsook the Lord, and served not him—Before they worshipped God and idols together; now they utterly forsake God, and wholly cleave to idols.

V. 7. The

Before Christ cir. 1161.

hands of the Philiſtines, and into the hands of the children of Ammon.

§ Heb. crushed

8 And that year they vexed and § oppreſſed the children of Iſrael: eighteen years, all the children of Iſrael that were on the other ſide Jordan, in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead.

9 Moreover the children of Ammon paſſed over Jordan, to fight alſo againſt Judah, and againſt Benjamin, and againſt the houſe of Ephraim; ſo that Iſrael was ſore diſtreſſed.

f 1 Sam. 12. 10.

10 ¶ [f] And the children of Iſrael cried unto the Lord, ſaying, We have ſinned againſt thee, both becauſe we have forſaken our God, and alſo ſerved Baalim.

11 And the Lord ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites, [g] from the children of Ammon, [h] and from the Philiſtines?

g Chap. 3. 12, 13.
h Chap. 3. 31.

i Chap. 5. 19.
k Chap. 6. 3.

12 [i] The Zidonians alſo, [k] and the Amalekites, and the Maonites did oppreſs you, and ye cried to me, and I delivered you out of their hand.

l Deut. 32. 32, 15.
Jer. 2. 13.

13 [l] Yet ye have forſaken me, and ſerved other gods: wherefore I will deliver you no more.

m Deut. 32. 37, 38.
Jer. 2. 28.

14 Go and [m] cry unto the gods which ye have choſen; let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation.

15 ¶ And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto the Lord, We have ſinned, do thou unto us whatſoever ‖ ſeemeth good unto thee, deliver us only, we pray thee, this day.

Before Christ cir. 1161.

‖ Heb. is good in thine eye.

16 And they put away the * ſtrange gods from among them, and ſerved the Lord: and [n] his ſoul † was grieved for the miſery of Iſrael.

* Heb. gods of ſtrangers. n Iſai. 63. 9.
† Heb. was ſhort.

17 Then the children of Ammon were ‡ gathered together, and encamped in Gilead: and the children of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves together, and encamped in [o] Mizpeh.

‡ Heb. cried together.
o Chap. 11. 11.

18 And the people and princes of Gilead ſaid one to another, What man is he that will begin to fight againſt the children of Ammon? he ſhall [p] be head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

p Chap. 11. 8, 11.

CHAP. XI.

NOW [a] Jephthah the Gileadite was a mighty man of valour, and he was the ſon of * an harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah.

a Heb. 11. 32, called, Jephthae.
* Heb. a woman, an harlot.

2 And Gilead's wife bare him ſons, and his wife's ſons grew up, and they thruſt out Jephthah, and ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not inherit in our father's houſe, for thou art the ſon of a ſtrange woman.

3 Then Jephthah fled † from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob: and there were gathered [b] vain men to Jephthah, and went out with him.

† Heb. from the face.
b Chap. 9. 4. 1 Sam. 22. 2.

4 ¶ And it came to paſs ‡ in proceſs of time,

‡ Heb. after-days.

V. 7. The anger of the Lord was hot againſt Iſrael, and he ſold them into the hands of the Philiſtines, and into the hands of the children of Ammon—The one on the weſt, the other on the eaſt; thus they were moleſted on both ſides.

V. 8. That year they vexed and oppreſſed the children of Iſrael eighteen years—This was the eighteenth year from the beginning of that oppreſſion.

V. 10. We have forſaken our God, and alſo ſerved Baalim—Becauſe not contented to add idols to thee, we have preferred them before thee, and rejected thee to receive and worſhip them.

V. 11. The Lord ſaid—The ſon of God appearing in a viſible ſhape, which then was uſual; or by ſome prophet whom he raiſed and ſent; or by the high-prieſt, who was conſulted. Did not I deliver you from the Egyptians, and from the Amorites—Both Sihon and Og, and their people, and other kings of the Amorites within Jordan. From the children of Ammon—Who were confederate with the Moabites.

V. 13. Ye have forſaken me, and ſerved other gods—You have neglected your Creator, Preſerver, and Redeemer; and not only ſo, but you have given your hearts to idols, and worſhipped them. Wherefore I will deliver you no more—Except you repent, which, when they performed, God ſuſpends the execution of this threatning. Infinite compaſſion was not weary of doing them good, but they were no longer willing to believe in God, to love and ſerve him. So long as we look upon God as our God, ſo long may we hope for and expect deliverance from him. His mercy is never withdrawn from them that humbly confide in him as their Redeemer; who is never below that to any of his helpleſs creatures which they believe him to be; and whoever delight themſelves in him, to them does he grant the deſires of their hearts.

V. 14. Go and cry unto the gods which ye have choſen—You have not been forced to worſhip thoſe gods by your oppreſſors and tyrants; but you have freely choſen theſe gods before me. Let them deliver you in the time of your tribulation—And will not thoſe that finally make choice of any other ſervice but the ſervice of God, be left with this anſwer at the laſt?

V. 15. The children of Iſrael ſaid unto the Lord, We have ſinned, do thou unto us whatſoever ſeemeth good unto thee. They confeſſed their ſin unto the Lord, and then reſigned themſelves into his hands, ſaying, Do deliver us only this day—Do not give us up into the hands of theſe cruel men.

V. 16. They put away the ſtrange gods from among them—This was an evidence of the ſincerity of their ſorrow, that they did not only confeſs their ſins, but alſo forſake them. And ſerved the Lord—Again they began to worſhip and ſerve him. And his ſoul was grieved for the miſery of Iſrael—Not properly, or as to inward affection; for God being infinitely happy, is not capable of grieving; but figuratively, and as to outward expreſſion. He acted towards them, like one that felt their ſufferings; he had pity upon them, and changed his conduct towards them.

V. 17. The children of Iſrael aſſembled themſelves together in Mizpeh—Which was beyond Jordan.

CHAP. XI.

V. 3. There were gathered vain men to Jephthah—Idle perſons, who deſire to get their living rather by ſpoil and rapine than by honeſt labour. Theſe perſons Jephthah employed againſt the enemies of God and of Iſrael. They went out with him—When he made excurſions.

V. 4. It came to paſs in proceſs of time—The Ammonites had vexed and oppreſſed them eighteen years; and now that the

Iſraelites

Before Christ cir. 1161. time, that the children of Ammon made war against Israel.

5 And it was so, that when the children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob:

6 And they said unto Jephthah, Come and be our captain, that we may fight with the children of Ammon.

7 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, [c] Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when ye are in distress?

8 [d] And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead.

9 And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, If ye bring me home again to fight against the children of Ammon, and the Lord deliver them before me; shall I be your head?

10 And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, The Lord § be witness between us, if we do not so according to thy words.

11 Then Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him head and captain over them: and Jephthah uttered all his words [e] before the Lord in Mizpeh.

12 ¶ And Jephthah sent messengers unto cir. 1143. the king of the children of Ammon, saying, What hast thou to do with me, that thou art come against me to fight in my land?

13 And the king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah, [f] Because Israel took away my land when they came up out of Egypt, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and unto Jordan: now therefore restore those lands again peaceably. Before Christ cir. 1143.

14 And Jephthah sent messengers again unto the king of the children of Ammon:

15 And said unto him, Thus saith Jephthah, [g] Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon:

16 But when Israel came up from Egypt, and [h] walked through the wilderness, unto the Red sea, and [i] came to Kadesh;

17 Then [k] Israel sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying, Let me, I pray thee, pass through thy land: [l] but the king of Edom would not hearken thereto. And in like manner they sent unto the king of Moab; but he would not consent: and Israel abode in Kadesh.

18 Then they went along through the wilderness, and [m] compassed the land of Edom, and the land of Moab, and [n] came by the east side of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other side of Arnon, [o] but came not within the border of Moab: for Arnon was the border of Moab.

19 And [p] Israel sent messengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, the king of Heshbon; and Israel said unto him, [q] Let us pass, we pray thee, through thy land unto my place.

20 [r] But Sihon trusted not Israel to pass through his coast: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and pitched in Jahaz, and fought against Israel.

21 And

[c] Gen. 26. 27.
[d] Chap. 10. 18.
§ Heb. be the hearer between us.
[e] Chap. 10. 17. and 20. 1. 1 Sam. 10. 17.
[f] Num. 21. 13.
[g] Deut. 2. 9, 19.
[h] Num. 14. 25.
[i] Num. 20. 1.
[k] Num. 20. 14.
[l] Num. 20. 18, 21.
[m] Num. 21. 4. Deut. 2. 1, 8.
[n] Num. 21. 11.
[o] Num. 21. 13. and 22. 36.
[p] Deut. 2. 26.
[q] Num 21. 22.
[r] Num. 21. 23. Deut. 2. 32.

Israelites begin to make opposition, they commence a war against them.

V. 6. They said unto Jephthah, Come and be our Captain—They say not our king; for they were now willing that God should be their king, and govern them by his providence, shewing their willingness by their submission to his laws.

V. 7. Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house—This act, though desired and promoted by his brethren, was executed by the decree of the elders, to whom the determination of all controversies about inheritances belonged; and therefore it was their fault that they did not protect him from the injuries of his brethren, as their duty was. How often has it happened that men have been obliged to apply to those for aid, who have been unjustly or unkindly treated by them. Whatever is contrary to justice and kindness is contrary to God, and must therefore, sooner or later, meet with its return.

V. 8. The elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now—Being sensible that we have done thee injury, we come now to make thee full reparations.

V. 9. If ye bring me home again—If you recall me from this place where I am now settled, to the place whence I was expelled. To fight against the children of Ammon, and the Lord deliver them before me, shall I be your head—Will you make good this promise? Jephthah was solicitous of this case, either from his zeal for the public good, which required his zeal, or that he might secure himself from his brethren; or there might be some degree of ambition in his request.

V. 10. The elders of Gilead said, The Lord be witness between us—They confirm their promise by a solemn oath.

V. 11. Jephthah uttered all his words before the Lord—In God's presence, calling him to be present, as a witness and judge between them.

V. 12. Jephthah sent messengers—Ambassadors, to prevent bloodshed, and make peace, as far as in him lay; that so the Israelites might be acquitted, before God and men, from all the consequences of this war.

V. 13. The king of the children of Ammon answered, Because Israel took away my land—This land of Gilead, which was mine, but unjustly taken from me by Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites; and the injury is perpetuated by Israel's detaining it from me.

V. 17. And Israel abode in Kadesh—Peaceably, and did not revenge their unkindness and inhumanity, as they could have done.

V. 19. Israel sent messengers unto Sihon, and said, Let us pass through thy land unto my place—Unto the land of Canaan, which God hath given to me.

V. 20. But Sihon fought against Israel—And was the beginner of the war.

V. 23. So

Before Christ cir. 1143.

21 And the Lord God of Israel delivered Sihon and all his people into the hand of Israel, and they smote them: so Israel possessed all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of that country.

s Deut. 2. 36.

22 And they possessed [s] all the coasts of the Amorites, from Arnon even unto Jabbok, and from the wilderness even unto Jordan.

23 So now the Lord God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites from before his people Israel, and shouldest thou possess it?

t Num. 21. 29.

24 Wilt not thou possess that [t] which Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess? So whomsoever the Lord our God shall drive out from before us, them will we possess.

u Num. 22. 2. Deut. 23. 4. Josh. 24. 9.

25 [u] And now art thou any thing better than Balak the son of Zippor king of Moab? did he ever strive against Israel, or did he ever fight against them, x Num. 21. 25.

26 While Israel dwelt in [x] Heshbon and her towns, and in Aroer and her towns, and in all the cities that be along by the coasts of

cir. 1152.

Arnon, three hundred years? why therefore did ye not recover them within that time?

27 Wherefore I have not sinned against thee, but thou doest me wrong to war against me: the Lord the Judge be judge this day between the children of Israel and the children of Ammon.

28 Howbeit, the king of the children of Ammon hearkened not unto the words of Jephthah, which he sent him.

y Chap. 3. 10.

29 ¶ Then [y] the spirit of the Lord came upon ‖ Jephthah, and he passed over Gilead, and Manasseh, and passed over Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead, he passed over unto the children of Ammon.

‖ Jephthah seems to have been Judge only of North east Israel.

30 And Jephthah vowed a vow unto the Lord, and said, If thou shalt without fail deliver the children of Ammon into mine hands,

Before Christ cir. 1143.

31 Then it shall be, that * whatsoever cometh forth of the doors of my house to meet me, when I return in peace from the children of Ammon, shall surely be the Lord's, † [z] and I will offer it up for a burnt-offering.

* Heb. that which cometh forth, which shall come forth.

† Or, or I will offer it, &c.

z Psa. 66. 13.

32 ¶ So Jephthah passed over unto the children of Ammon to fight against them, and the Lord delivered them into his hands.

33 And he smote them from Aroer, even till thou come to [a] Minnith, even twenty cities, and unto ‡ the plain of the vineyards, with a very great slaughter. Thus the children of Ammon were subdued before the children of Israel.

a Ezek. 27. 17.

‡ Or, Abel.

34 ¶ And Jephthah came to Mizpeh unto his house, and behold [b] his daughter came out to meet him with timbrels and with dances, and she was his only child: § ‖ beside her he had neither son nor daughter.

b Exod. 15. 20. 1 Sam. 18. 6. Psal. 68. 25. Jer. 31. 4.

§ Or, he had not of his own, either son or daughter.

‖ Heb. of himself.

35 And it came to pass when he saw her, that he rent his clothes, and said, Alas, my daughter, thou hast brought me very low, and thou art one of them that trouble me: for I have opened my mouth unto the Lord, and I cannot go back.

36 And she said unto him, My father, if thou hast opened thy mouth unto the Lord, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth; forasmuch as the Lord hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies, even of the children of Ammon.

37 And she said unto her father, Let this thing be done for me: Let me alone two months, that I may * go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity, I and my fellows.

* Heb. go and go down.

38 And

V. 23. So now the Lord God of Israel hath dispossessed the Amorites—God, the sovereign Lord of all lands, hath given us this land: This he adds, as a further and a convincing reason; because otherwise it might have been alledged against the former argument, that they could gain no more right to that land from Sihon, than Sihon himself had; and he had but an unjust claim to it.

V. 24. Wilt not thou possess that which Chemosh thy god giveth thee to possess—He speaks according to their fond and absurd opinion: The Ammonites and Moabites got their land by conquest of the old inhabitants, whom they cast out; and this success, though given them by the true God, for Lot's sake, (Deut. ii. 9, 19.) they ascribe to their god Chemosh, whose gift they owned to be a sufficient title.

V. 25. Art thou any thing better than Balak—Art thou wiser than he? Or, hast thou more right than he had? Balak, though he plotted against Israel in defence of his own land, which he feared they would invade and conquer, yet he never contended with them about the restitution of those lands which Sihon took from him or his predecessors, after the Israelites had conquered them.

V. 26. Israel dwelt in Heshbon, and in all the cities that be along by the coasts of Arnon, three hundred years—About that time, from their first conquest of those lands.

V. 27. Wherefore I have not sinned against thee—I have done thee no wrong. The Lord the Judge be judge this day—Let him determine this controversy by the success of this war.

V. 29. Then the spirit of the Lord came upon Jephthah—Endued him with a more than ordinary courage and resolution. And he passed over Mizpeh of Gilead—Having gathered what forces he suddenly could, he came hither to the borders of the Ammonites.

V. 35. I have opened my mouth unto the Lord, and I cannot go back—Not retract my vow; I am indispensably obliged to perform it.

V. 36. She said unto him, My father, do to me according to that which hath proceeded out of thy mouth—Do not, for my sake, make thyself a transgressor. Forasmuch as the Lord hath taken vengeance for thee of thine enemies—I am willing to bear my burthen; being abundantly satisfied with the great deliverance which God hath given to his people by thy hands.

V. 37. That I may go up and down upon the mountains, and bewail my virginity—That I shall die childless, which was esteemed both a curse and a disgrace for the Israelites; because such were

Before Christ cir. 1143.

38 And he said, Go. And he sent her away for two months: and she went with her companions, and bewailed her virginity upon the mountains.

39 And it came to pass at the end of two months, that she returned unto her father, who did with her according to his vow which he had vowed: and she knew no man. And it was a † custom in Israel,

† Or, ordinance.

40 That the daughters of Israel went ‡ yearly § to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite four days in a year.

‡ Heb. from year to year.
§ Or, to talk with.

CHAP. XII.

a See Chap. 8. 1.

AND [a] the men of Ephraim * gathered themselves together, and went northward, and said unto Jephthah, Wherefore passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee? we will burn thine house upon thee with fire.

* Heb. were called.

2 And Jephthah said unto them, I and my people were at great strife with the children of Ammon; and when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands.

3 And when I saw that ye delivered me not, I put my life in my hands, and passed over against the children of Ammon, and the Lord delivered them into my hand: wherefore then are ye come up unto me this day, to fight against me?

4 Then Jephthah gathered together all the men of Gilead, and fought with Ephraim: and the men of Gilead smote Ephraim, because they said, Ye Gileadites ° are fugitives of Ephraim, among the Ephraimites, and among the Manassites.

° Psal. 78. 9.

5 And the Gileadites took the [c] passages of Jordan before the Ephraimites: and it was so, that when those Ephraimites which were escaped, said, Let me go over; that the men of Gilead said unto him, Art thou an Ephraimite? If he said, Nay:

Before Christ cir. 1143.

c Josh. 22. 11.

6 Then said they unto him, Say now Shibboleth: and he said, Sibboleth: for he could not frame to pronounce it right. Then they took him, and slew him at the passages of Jordan: and there fell at that time of the Ephraimites, forty and two thousand.

7 And Jephthah judged Israel six years: then died Jephthah the Gileadite, and was buried in one of the cities of Gilead.

cir. 1137.

8 ¶ And after him † Ibzan of Beth-lehem judged Israel.

cir. 1137.

† He seems to have been only a civil Judge to do justice in North-east Israel.

9 And he had thirty sons, and thirty daughters, whom he sent abroad, and took in thirty daughters from abroad for his sons. And he judged Israel seven years.

10 Then died Ibzan, and was buried at Beth-lehem.

11 ¶ And after him, ‡ Elon a Zebulonite judged Israel, and he judged Israel ten years.

cir. 1130.

‡ A civil Judge in North-east Israel.

12 And Elon the Zebulonite died, and was buried in Aijalon in the country of Zebulun.

13 ¶ And after him, § Abdon the son of Hillel, a Pirathonite judged Israel.

cir. 1120.

§ A civil Judge also in North-east Israel.

14 And he had forty sons, and thirty ‖ nephews, that [d] rode on threescore and ten ass-colts: and he judged Israel eight years.

‖ Heb. sons sons.

d Chap. 5. 10. and 10. 4.

15 And Abdon the son of Hillel the Pirathonite died, and was buried in Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, [e] in the mount of the Amalekites.

cir. 1112.

e Chap. 3. 13, 27. and 5. 14.

CHAP.

excluded from that great privilege of contributing to the birth of the Messiah, who was to be born of an Israelitish woman.

V. 39. Her father did with her according to his vow which he had vowed—It seems most probable that Jephthah did indeed sacrifice his daughter. These were times, wherein the Israelites had learned and followed the practices and worships of the heathen nations, of which this was one, to offer up human sacrifices to Moloch; and although they seem now to have repented and forsaken their idols, (Judg. x. 16.) yet they seem still to have retained part of the old leaven, and this among the rest, that they might offer human sacrifices, not to Moloch, as they had done, but unto the Lord.

V. 40. The daughters of Israel went yearly to lament the daughter of Jephthah—Who had so willingly yielded up herself for a sacrifice, in obedience to her father's vow.

CHAP. XII.

V. 1. The men of Ephraim said unto Jephthah, Wherefore passedst thou over to fight against the children of Ammon, and didst not call us to go with thee—Through pride and envy, contending with him, as they did before with Gideon.

V. 2. Jephthah said unto them, when I called you, ye delivered me not out of their hands—Hence it appears that he craved their assistance, which they denied, though it is not elsewhere expressed.

V. 3. I put my life in my hands—I exposed myself to utmost danger, as a man that carries a brittle and precious thing in his hand, which may easily either fall to the ground, or be snatched from him. Wherefore then are you come up unto me this day, to fight against me—Why do you thus requite my kindness, in running into such hazard to preserve you and yours.

V. 4. Ye Gileadites are fugitives of Ephraim—These words are a scoffing and contemptuous expression of the Ephraimites.

V. 6. Say now Shibboleth—Which signifies a stream or river, which they desired to pass over: So it was a word proper for the occasion, and gave them no cause to suspect the design, because they were required only to express their desire to go over the Shibboleth, or river. And he said, Sibboleth—It is well known that parts of the same nation, who use the same language, differ in their dialect and manner of pronunciation. He could not frame to pronounce it right—He suspecting not the design of it, uttered it speedily, according to his manner of expression. There fell at that time—Being slain either in the battle, the pursuit, or at Jordan.

V. 15. And Abdon died—How hastily do we see one of these judges of Israel passing away after another, to give account both of the motives for their conduct, and of the manner in which they discharged the duties of their stations to God, who made them what they were.

CHAP.

CHAP. XIII.

Before Christ cir. 1161.

AND the children of Iſrael * [a] did evil again in the ſight of the Lord, † and the Lord delivered them into the hand of the Philiſtines forty years.

* Heb. added to commit, &c. a Chap. 2. 11. and 3. 7. and 4. 1. and 6. 1. and 10. 6.
† This ſeems a partial captivity.

2 ¶ [o] And there was a certain man of Zorah, of the family of the Danites, whoſe name was Manoah, and his wife was barren and bare not.

o Joſh. 19. 41.

3 And the angel of the Lord appeared unto the woman, and ſaid unto her, Behold now, thou art barren and beareſt not: but thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon.

4 Now therefore beware, I pray thee, and [c] drink not wine, nor ſtrong drink, and eat not any unclean thing.

c Num. 6. 2, 3.

5 For lo, thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon, and [d] no razor ſhall come on his head: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite unto God from the womb: and he ſhall begin to deliver Iſrael out of the hand of the Philiſtines.

d Num. 6. 5. 1 Sam. 1. 11.

6 ¶ Then the woman came and told her huſband, ſaying, A man of God came unto me, and his countenance was like the countenance of an angel of God, very terrible: but I aſked him not whence he was, neither told he me his name.

7 But he ſaid unto me, Behold, thou ſhalt conceive and bear a ſon; and now drink no wine, nor ſtrong drink, neither eat any unclean thing: for the child ſhall be a Nazarite to God, from the womb to the day of his death.

8 ¶ Then Manoah intreated the Lord, and ſaid, O my Lord, let the man of God which thou didſt ſend, come again unto us, and teach us what we ſhall do unto the child that ſhall be born.

9 And God hearkened to the voice of Manoah; and the angel of God came again unto the woman as ſhe ſat in the field: but Manoah her huſband was not with her.

Before Christ cir. 1161.

10 And the woman made haſte, and ran, and ſhewed her huſband, and ſaid unto him, Behold, the man hath appeared unto me, that came unto me the other day.

11 And Manoah aroſe, and went after his wife, and came to the man, and ſaid unto him, Art thou the man that ſpakeſt unto the woman? And he ſaid, I am.

12 And Manoah ſaid, Now let thy words come to paſs: ‡ How ſhall we order the child, and § ‖ how ſhall we do unto him?

‡ Heb. What ſhall be the manner of the, &c.
§ Or, what ſhall he do?
‖ Heb. what ſhall be his work?

13 And the angel of the Lord ſaid unto Manoah, Of all that I ſaid unto the woman, let her beware.

14 She may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, neither let her drink wine or ſtrong drink, nor eat any unclean thing: all that I commanded her, let her obſerve.

15 ¶ And Manoah ſaid unto the angel of the Lord, I pray thee, [e] let us detain thee, until we ſhall have made ready a kid * for thee.

e Gen. 18. 3. Chap. 6. 18.
* Heb. before thee.

16 And the angel of the Lord ſaid unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread: and if thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou muſt offer it unto the Lord: for Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the Lord.

17 And Manoah ſaid unto the angel of the Lord, What is thy name, that when thy ſayings come to paſs, we may do thee honour?

18 And the angel of the Lord ſaid unto him, [f] Why aſkeſt thou thus after my name, ſeeing it is † ſecret?

f Gen. 32. 29.
† Or, wonderful, Iſai. 9. 6.

19 So Manoah took a kid, with a meat-offering,

CHAP. XIII.

V. 1. The children of Iſrael did evil again in the ſight of the Lord—Fell into idolatry, and other crimes proceeding from that unbelief, which neither fears God for his power and juſtice, nor loves him for his mercy and goodneſs.

V. 3. The angel of the Lord appeared unto the woman—The Son of God, who appeared here as a meſſenger ſent from God, and a diſtinct perſon from God the Father.

V. 4. Drink not wine, nor ſtrong drink, and eat not any unclean thing—Any of thoſe meats which were forbidden to all, but eſpecially to the Nazarites.

V. 5. The child ſhall be a Nazarite—A perſon ſeparated from others, and conſecrated to God's ſervice. He ſhall begin to deliver Iſrael—And the deliverance ſhall be carried on and perfected by others, as it was in part by Eli, Samuel, Saul, but eſpecially by David.

V. 6. The woman came and told her huſband, ſaying, A man of God came unto me—A prophet, or ſacred perſon, ſent with a meſſage from God. His countenance was like an angel of God, very terrible—Awful; full of majeſty.

V. 12. Manoah ſaid, Now let thy words come to paſs—Or, thy words ſhall come to paſs: I firmly believe that thy promiſes ſhall be fulfilled. How ſhall we order the child—What rules ſhall we obſerve about his education.

V. 15. I pray thee, let us detain thee, until we ſhall have made ready a kid for thee—Suppoſing him to be a man and a prophet, to whom he would in this manner expreſs his reſpect, as was uſual to ſtrangers.

V. 16. If thou wilt offer a burnt-offering, thou muſt offer it unto the Lord—Not unto a man, as now thou apprehendeſt me to be; but unto the Lord, as thou wilt by and by perceive me to be.

V. 17. What is thy name, that when thy ſayings come to paſs, we may do thee honour—Either by making honourable mention of thee, or by performing reſpect and ſervice to thee, by a preſent, which they uſually gave to prophets.

V. 18. Why aſkeſt thou thus after my name, ſeeing it is ſecret—Or, hidden from mortal men; or, wonderful; ſuch as thou canſt not comprehend. My nature or eſſence (which is often ſignified by name in Scripture) is incomprehenſible. This ſhews, that this was the angel of the covenant, the Son of God.

Before Christ cir. 1161.

offering, [g] and offered it upon a rock unto the Lord: and the angel did wonderously, and Manoah and his wife looked on.

g Chap. 6. 19, 20.

20 For it came to pass, when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the angel of the Lord ascended in the flame of the altar: and Manoah and his wife looked on it, and fell on their faces to the ground.

21 (But the angel of the Lord did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife.) Then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the Lord.

h Gen. 32. 30. Exod. 30. 20. Deut. 5. 26. Chap. 6. 22.

22 And Manoah said unto his wife, [h] We shall surely die, because we have seen God.

23 But his wife said unto him, If the Lord were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt-offering and a meat-offering at our hands, neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor would as at this time have told us such things as these.

24 ¶ And the woman bare a son, and called his name [i] Samson: and the child grew, and the Lord blessed him.

i Heb. 11. 32.

k Chap. 3. 10. 1 Sam. 11. 6.

25 [k] And the spirit of the Lord began to move him at times, in § the camp of Dan, [l] between Zorah and Eshtaol.

§ Heb. Mahanehdan, as Chap. 18. 12.

l Josh. 15. 33.

CHAP. XIV.

cir. 1141.

AND Samson went down [a] to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines.

a Gen. 38. 13.

2 And he came up and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines: now therefore get her for me to wife.

Before Christ cir. 1161.

3 Then his father and his mother said unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of the uncircumcised Philistines? And Samson said unto his father, Get her for me, for * she pleaseth me well.

* Heb. she is right in mine eyes.

4 But his father and his mother [o] knew not that it was of the Lord, that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that time the Philistines had dominion over Israel.

o 1 Kings 12. 15. 2 Chro. 10. 15. and 22. 7. and 25. 20.

5 Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and behold, a young lion roared † against him.

† Heb. in meeting him.

6 And [c] the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done.

c Chap. 3. 10. and 13. 25. 1 Sam. 11. 6.

7 And he went down, and talked with the woman, and she pleased Samson well.

8 ¶ And after a time, he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcase of the lion: and behold, there was a swarm of bees, and honey in the carcase of the lion.

9 And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother,

V. 19. So Manoah took a kid, with a meat-offering—Which was generally joined with the chief sacrifices. And offered it upon a rock—The angel's presence and command being a sufficient warrant for the offering of sacrifice by a person who was no priest, and in a place otherwise forbidden.

V. 20. It came to pass when the flame went up toward heaven—Arising from the fire which Manoah brought for the offering; or produced by the angel out of the rock in a miraculous manner. From off the altar—From that part of the rock which served instead of an altar, upon which the sacrifice was laid. The angel of the Lord ascended in the flame—To manifest his nature and essence to be spiritual, because not capable of hurt by the fire; and celestial. Manoah and his wife looked on it, and fell on their faces—In reverence to that glorious presence manifested in so wonderful a manner; and partly, out of a religious fear of death upon this occasion, as is expressed verse 22; for the prevention whereof they fell down in way of supplication to God.

V. 23. If the Lord were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt-offering, neither would he have shewed us all these things at this time—This expression seems to have some emphasis in it, to inhance God's mercy to them, as being afforded them in a time of such public and grievous calamity; and in a time when the word of the Lord was precious; and there was no open vision.

V. 24. The Lord blessed him—Endowed him with all those graces, and gifts of mind and body, which were necessary for the work he was designed for.

V. 25. The spirit of the Lord began to move him at times—(i. e.) To stir him up to heroical designs; to shew forth its power in him, in the frame of his mind, and in the strength of his body, discovered to his neighbours in extraordinary actions; to incline his heart to great attempts to the help and deliverance of God's people, and to give some essays of it to his brethren, and to seek all opportunities for it.

CHAP. XIV.

V. 1. Samson went down to Timnath—After he was come to mature age.

V. 3. Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, that thou goest to take a wife of the Philistines—With whom the Israelites were forbidden to marry, as believers in all ages are forbid to be unequally yoked with unbelievers; and no reasons are good against the word of God, who himself only may dispense in any particular instance with his own law, which he seems to have done in the case of Samson, as the means by which God was pleased, at this time, to deliver the children of Israel, and his church on earth, from their state of subjection to a people, who themselves were subject to satan, the head of idol worship, because the father of lies, and therefore only capable of prevailing with men to make gods of the works of their hands, and worshipping what in itself was nothing.

V. 6. The spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him—Stirred up and increased his courage and bodily strength. He told not his father or his mother what he had done—Lest, by their means, it should be publicly known; for he wisely considered, that it was not yet a fit time to awaken the jealousies and fears of the Philistines concerning him, as this would have done.

Before Christ cir. 1141. mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcase of the lion.

10 ¶ So his father went down unto the woman, and Samson made there a feast: for so used the young men to do.

11 And it came to pass when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.

12 ¶ And Samson said unto them, I will [d] now put forth a riddle unto you: if you [e] can certainly declare it me within the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will ‡ give you thirty sheets, and thirty change of garments.

d 1 Kings 10. 1.
e Gen. 29. 27.
‡ Or, shirts.

13 But if ye cannot declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets, and thirty change of garments. And they said unto him, Put forth thy riddle, that we may hear it.

14 And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the riddle.

15 And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, [f] lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us ‖ to take that we have? is it not so?

f Chap. 15. 6.
‖ Heb. to possess us, or, to impoverish us.

16 And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father, nor my mother, and shall I tell it thee?

* Or, the rest of the seven days, &c.

17 And she wept before him * the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she lay sore upon him: and she told the riddle to the children of her people.

18 And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down, What is sweeter than honey? and what is stronger than a lion? And he said unto them, If ye had not plowed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.

Before Christ cir. 1141.

19 ¶ And the spirit of the Lord came upon him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their † spoil, and gave change of garments unto them which expounded the riddle: and his anger was kindled, and he went up to his father's house.

† Or, apparel.

20 But Samson's wife was given to his companion, whom he had used as his friend.

CHAP. XV.

cir. 1140. BUT it came to pass within a while after, in the time of wheat-harvest, that Samson visited his wife with a kid, and he said, I will go into my wife into the chamber. But her father would not suffer him to go in.

2 And her father said, I verily thought that thou hadst utterly [a] hated her, therefore I gave her to thy companion: is not her younger sister fairer than she? * take her, I pray thee, instead of her.

a Chap. 14. 19.
* Heb. let her be thine.

3 ¶ And Samson said concerning them, † Now shall I be more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure.

† Or, Now shall I be blameless from the Philistines, though, &c.

4 And Samson went and caught three hundred foxes, and took ‡ fire-brands, and turned tail to tail, and put a fire-brand in the midst between two nails.

‡ Or, torches.

5 And when he had set the brands on fire, he let them go into the standing-corn of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks, and also the standing-corn, with the vineyards and olives.

6 ¶ Then the Philistines said, Who hath done this? And they answered, Samson the son in law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion. [n] And the Philistines came up, and burnt her and her father with fire.

n Chap. 14. 15.

7 ¶ And

V. 12. I will now put forth a riddle—An obscure sentence, for you to resolve and explain. If you can certainly declare it me within the seven days of the feast—For so long marriage-feasts lasted.

V. 18. If ye had not plowed with my heifer—If you had not employed my wife to find it out.

V. 19. The spirit of the Lord came upon him—Though he had a constant habit of eminent strength and courage; yet that was exceedingly increased upon special occasions, by the extraordinary influences of God's spirit. His anger was kindled—For the treachery of his wife and companions. He went up to his father's house—Without his wife.

V. 20. Samson's wife was given to his companion—By her father. Whom he had used as his friend—The chief of the bridemen, to whom he had shewed most respect and kindness.

CHAP. XV.

V. 3. Samson said concerning them, Now shall I be more blameless than the Philistines, though I do them a displeasure—It appears that Samson designed this very thing before he had received any personal injury (Judg. xiv. 4.) He acted as a judge of the public wrong, and his design was to deliver the people.

V. 4. When God is pleased to save or to destroy, all things serve his might, and he can make use of any means to accomplish his gracious and just designs.

V. 6. The Philistines came up and burnt her and her father with fire—Thus she brought upon herself that mischief which she studied to avoid, (Judg. xiv. 15.) by betraying the confidence her husband placed in her.

Before Christ cir. 1140.

7 ¶ And Samson said unto them, Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you, and after that I will cease.

8 And he smote them hip and thigh with a great slaughter; and he went down and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam.

9 ¶ Then the Philistines went up, and pitched in Judah, and spread themselves [c] in Lehi.

[c] Verse 10.

10 And the men of Judah said, Why are ye come up against us? And they answered, To bind Samson are we come up, to do to him, as he hath done to us.

§ Heb. went down.

11 Then three thousand men of Judah § went to the top of the rock Etam, and said to Samson, Knowest thou not that the Philistines are rulers over us? what is this that thou hast done unto us? And he said unto them, As they did unto me, so have I done unto them.

12 And they said unto him, We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines. And Samson said unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me yourselves.

13 And they spake unto him, saying, No: but we will bind thee fast, and deliver thee into their hand: but surely we will not kill thee. And they bound him with two new cords, and brought him up from the rock.

14 ¶ And when he came unto Lehi, the Philistines shouted against him: and the spirit of the Lord came mightily upon him, and the cords that were upon his arms became as flax that was burnt with fire, and his bands ‖ loosed from off his hands.

Before Christ cir. 1140.

‖ Heb. were melted.

15 And he found a * new jaw-bone of an ass, and put forth his hand and took it, and slew a thousand men therewith.

* Heb. moist.

16 And Samson said, With the jaw-bone of an ass, † heaps upon heaps, with the jaw of an ass have I slain a thousand men.

† Heb. an heap, two heaps.

17 And it came to pass when he had made an end of speaking, that he cast away the jaw-bone out of his hand, and called that place ‡ Ramath-lehi.

‡ That is, the lifting up of the jaw-bone, or, casting away of the jaw-bone.

18 ¶ And he was sore athirst, and called on the Lord, and said, Thou hast given this great deliverance into the hand of thy servant: and now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised?

19 But God clave an hollow place that was in ‖ the jaw, and there came water thereout; and when he had drank, his spirit came again, and he revived: wherefore he called the name thereof * En-hakkore, which is in Lehi unto this day.

‖ Or, Lehi.

* That is, the well of him that called, or, cried.

20 † And he judged Israel [d] in the days of the Philistines twenty years.

† He seems to have judged South-west Israel, during twenty years of their servitude of the Philistines.

[d] Chap. 13. 1. cir. 1120.

CHAP. XVI.

THEN went Samson to Gaza, and saw there * an harlot, and went in unto her.

* Heb. a woman an harlot.

2 And

V. 7. Though ye have done this, yet will I be avenged of you—By this it appears, that it was not his private injuries, but the public wrongs which he did revenge.

V. 8. He smote them hip and thigh—Altogether; entirely—them that appeared against him. He went and dwelt in the top of the rock Etam—Because he would not involve his brethren in the same danger with himself, from the resentment of the people whose relations and countrymen he had killed, and against whose power he had revolted.

V. 9. Then the Philistines went up, and pitched in Judah—Where the rock Etam was. And spread themselves—In great numbers.

V. 11. What is this that thou hast done unto us—Thou hast by these actions punished not them, as thou intendedst; but us, who, being under their dominion, are sure to suffer for it.

V. 12. We are come down to bind thee, that we may deliver thee into the hand of the Philistines—They wanted to betray their deliverer into the hands of his enemies. Samson said unto them, Swear unto me, that ye will not fall upon me yourselves—Not that he feared them, or could not as easily have conquered them as he did the Philistines; but, because he would be free from all obligation or temptation of doing them any harm, though it were in his own just and necessary defence.

V. 14. The Philistines shouted against him—For joy and triumph, because they had now their great enemy, as they supposed, in their hands. His hands loosed from off his hands—Were dissolved, as things are which are melted in the fire.

V. 18. He was sore athirst—So as he was ready to faint and die; that, by the experience of his own helplessness, he might be forced to ascribe the victory to God only, and not to himself. Now shall I die for thirst, and fall into the hand of the uncircumcised—This seems to be the language of a tempted mind: His own great strength availed him nothing, in procuring water to quench his extreme thirst; and he concludes that God, who had given him so great a victory, either could not or would not give him relief under the present difficulty.

V. 19. God clave an hollow place that was in the jaw—Causing the jaw-bone to send forth water, as the rock formerly did; the miracle being in effect the same, though in a differing subject. He called the name thereof En-hakkore—The fountain of him that called upon God for deliverance; the fountain which was given in answer to my prayer.

V. 20. He judged Israel—He avenged them against the Philistines. In the days of the Philistines twenty years—Whilst the Philistines had the power and dominion, from which he was not fully to deliver, but only to begin to deliver them, as it was foretold, (Judg. xiii. 5.) From this place it appears, that in the computation of the times of the judges, the years of servitude are not to be separated from the years of the judges, but are comprehended within them; which is of importance for clearing this part of Scripture-chronology.

CHAP. XVI.

V. 1. Then went Samson to Gaza—A chief city, to make some new attempt upon the Philistines, whom he feared not either in their cities, or in their camps, having had such experience of his own strength, and of God's assistance. And saw there an harlot—Going into an house of public entertainment, as the manner was, he there saw this harlot; which implies, that he did not go thither

Before Christ cir. 1120.

2 And it was told the Gazites, saying, Samson is come hither. And they compassed him in, and laid wait for him all night in the gate of the city, and were † quiet all the night, saying, In the morning when it is day, we shall kill him.

† Heb. silent.

3 And Samson lay till midnight and arose at midnight, and took the doors of the gate of the city, and the two posts, and went away with them, ‡ bar and all, and put them upon his shoulders, and carried them up to the top of an hill that is before Hebron.

‡ Heb. with the bar.

4 ¶ And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a woman § in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah.

§ Or, by the brook.

5 And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to * afflict him: and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver.

* Or, humble.

6 And Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherein thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be bound to afflict thee.

7 And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven † ‡ green withs, that were never dried, then shall I be weak, and be as § another man.

† Or, new cords.
‡ Heb. moist.
§ Heb. one.

8 Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs, which had not been dried, and she bound him with them.

9 (Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber) And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it ‖ toucheth the fire: so his strength was not known.

Before Christ cir. 1120.

‖ Heb. smelleth.

10 And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

11 And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with new ropes * that never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

* Heb. wherewith work hath not been done.

12 Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. (And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber) And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

13 And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web.

14 And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

15 ¶ And she said unto him, How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? Thou hast mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

16 And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was † vexed unto death;

† Heb. shortened.

17 That he told her all his heart, and said unto her, [a] There hath not come a razor upon ther upon so evil a design. He began his journey, in order to execute the duty to which God had called him; but forgetting God's severe displeasure at sin, his own evil desires consented to the tempter's designs, which is recorded, to caution all that set out in the spiritual service of God, that they do not comply with those desires and temptations which war against the soul, and which when complied with, unless truly repented of, will be its eternal ruin.

[a] Num. 6. 5.

V. 2. When it is day, we shall kill him—This is the language of men that know not God, and who have not an abiding sense that God governs all events; and therefore every thing to come to be spoken of in submission to the will of God, and not say at such a time we will or shall do this or that.

V. 3. Samson arose at midnight—Probably fearing danger, as he had just cause to do.

V. 4. He loved a woman whose name was Delilah—She is not called an harlot, as she of Gaza was; nor yet his wife, as she of Timnath was; yet it may seem more probable, because the dreadful punishment now inflicted upon Samson, is an intimation that this sin was not inferior to the former.

V. 5. The Lords of the Philistines said unto her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver—The advantage they gained by their bribe terminated in their own ruin.

V. 7. Samson is guilty both of the sin of lying, and of great folly in encouraging her inquiries; but as he had forsaken God, so God had now forsaken him, and deprived him of common prudence.

V. 15. How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me—When thy love consists only in outward expression, not in affection; and thou wilt not open thy heart to me, as one true friend doth to another.

V. 16. His soul was vexed unto death—Being tormented by two contrary and violent passions—desire to gratify her whom he so much doated upon, and fear of betraying himself to utmost hazard. But being deserted by God, it is no wonder that he chooseth the worse part.

V. 17. If I be shaven, then my strength will go from me—Not that his hair was in itself the seat or cause of his strength, but because it was the chief condition of that vow or covenant, whereby as he stood obliged to him, so God was pleased graciously to engage himself to fit him for, and assist him in that great work to which he called him; but, upon his violation of his condition, God withdraws his help, and leaves him to himself; when so void

of

Before Christ cir. 1120.

on mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: If I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

18 And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

19 And she made him sleep upon her knees, and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head, and she began to afflict him, and his strength went from him.

20 And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he wist not that the Lord was departed from him.

† Heb. bored out.

21 ¶ But the Philistines took him, and † put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of brass, and he did grind in the prison-house.

‡ Or, as when he was shaven

22 Howbeit, the hair of his head began to grow again, ‖ after he was shaven.

23 Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together, for to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice: for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into our hand.

Before Christ cir. 1120.

24 And when the people saw him, they praised their god: for they said, Our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy, and the destroyer of our country, ‖ which slew many of us.

‖ Heb. and who multiplied our slain.

25 And it came to pass when their hearts were merry, that they said, Call for Samson, that he may make us sport. And they called for Samson out of the prison-house; and he made * them sport: and they set him between the pillars.

* Heb. before them.

26 And Samson said unto the lad that held him by the hand, Suffer me that I may feel the pillars whereupon the house standeth, that I may lean upon them.

27 Now the house was full of men and women, and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women, that beheld while Samson made sport.

28 And Samson called unto the Lord, and said, O Lord God, remember me, I pray thee, of understanding does he become, that he acts contrary to his own knowledge of the repeated discoveries of the person's treachery he now trusts with his life; the influence of one sensual or selfish desire blinds the very reason, and leaves those that are led by whatever is sinful, sooner or later, equally exposed to shame and sufferings.

V. 18. When Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines—She distinguishes between this information which was true, and the former which was not so. Though all men may be deceived by falsehood, yet God, who is the author and approver of truth, causes it to be known for what it is whoever speaks it; whilst that which proceeds from deceit, though delivered with ever so much eloquence, fails to convince either the wise or the ignorant; all that hear may be pleased with the speaker, but they feel themselves in want of that which alone carries conviction to the heart—the Spirit of truth. Satan, the father of lies, is ever wanting to retain his dominion in every human mind; and all that obey him by complying with the deceit of their own hearts, and with the suggestions of his spirit, and either wish that to appear true which they know to be false, or that false which they know to be true, whatever is the purpose to be answered by it, the soul is the servant of him whom it obeys. (Rom. vi. 16.) And though Samson finally obtained mercy, and is numbered among the faithful, (Heb. xi. 32.) and God, by his means, executed his judgments upon his enemies, yet if infinite compassion, for the sake of the Mediator, had not spared him for repentance, the falsehoods he spoke, without the addition of any other crime, would have left him exposed to that wrath which is revealed from heaven against all unrighteousness of men. (Rev. xxi. 8.)

V. 19. She caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head—Such influence had she obtained over him, that she caused him to be his own destroyer; and thus it is that all that finally perish are self-destroyed.

V. 20. He wist not that the Lord was departed from him—He had before grieved the holy Spirit of God, and chosen other gods to have dominion over him; and now so insensible was he become, that he knew not whether the gracious influence of God rested upon him or not.

V. 21. The Philistines took him—And now he knew, by finding himself without power, that, as he had despised the sign of God's presence, God had withdrawn his inward strength, and he became as another man. And they put out his eyes—Which they did to disenable him from doing them harm, in case he should recover his strength; but not without God's providence, punishing him in that part which had been instrumental to his sin. And brought him down to Gaza—A great and strong city, where he would be kept safely; and upon the sea-coast, at a distance from Samson's people; and to repair the honour of that place, upon which he had cast so much scorn; God also ordering it thus, that where he first sinned, there he should receive his punishment. He did grind in the prison-house—As a slave. He made himself a slave to sin, and now God suffers him to be made a slave.

V. 22. The hair of his head began to grow again—This circumstance, though in itself inconsiderable, is noted as a sign of the recovery of God's favour, and his former strength, in some good degree, upon his bitter repentance and turning unto God; and which it is to be believed he did, by the effects which followed.

V. 23. The lords of the Philistines gathered them together—To praise Dagon for this singular favour. Dagon their god—Which is by most supposed to be an idol, whose upper part was like a man, and whose lower part was like a fish.

V. 25. Samson made them sport—He lulled them asleep in security, until, by this seeming complaisance, he prepared the way for that which he designed.

V. 27. Upon the roof—Which in many of the eastern countries are flat.

V. 28. Samson

Before Christ cir. 1120. thee, and ſtrengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philiſtines for my two eyes.

29 And Samſon took hold of the two middle pillars, upon which the houſe ſtood, and † on which it was borne up, of the one with his right hand, and of the other with his left.

† Or, he leaned on them.

30 And Samſon ſaid, Let ‡ me die with the Philiſtines: and he bowed himſelf with all his might; and the houſe fell upon the lords, and upon all the people that were therein: ſo the dead which he ſlew at his death, were more than they which he ſlew in his life.

‡ Heb. my ſoul.

31 Then his brethren, and all the houſe of his father, came down and took him, and brought him up, ° and buried him between Zorah and Eſhtaol, in the burying-place of Manoah his father: and he judged Iſrael twenty years.

° Chap. 13.25.

cir. 1120.

CHAP. XVII.

cir. 1406. AND there was a man of mount Ephraim, whoſe name was Micah.

2 And he ſaid unto his mother, The eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver that were taken from thee, about which thou curſedſt, and ſpakeſt of alſo in mine ears; behold, the ſilver is with me, I took it. And his mother ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the Lord, my ſon.

Before Chriſt cir. 1406.

3 And when he had reſtored the eleven hundred ſhekels of ſilver to his mother, his mother ſaid, I had wholly dedicated the ſilver unto the Lord, from my hand, for my ſon, to make a graven image, and a molten image: now therefore I will reſtore it unto thee.

4 Yet he reſtored the money unto his mother, and his mother took two hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and gave them to the founder, who made thereof a graven image, and a molten image: and they were in the houſe of Micah.

5 And the man Micah had an houſe of gods, and made an [a] ephod, and [o] teraphim, and * conſecrated one of his ſons, who became his prieſt.

a Chap. 8. 27.
o Gen. 31. 19. Hoſ. 3. 4.
* Heb. filled the hand.

6 [c] In thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael, [d] but every man did that which was right in his own eyes.

c Chap. 18. 1. and 21. 25. Deut. 33. 5. d Deut. 12. 8.

7 ¶ And

V. 28. Samſon called unto the Lord—This prayer was not an act of malice and revenge, but of faith and zeal for God, who was publicly diſhonoured by theſe people. And this appears from hence, becauſe God, who heareth not ſinners, and would never uſe his omnipotency to gratify any man's malice, ſhewed, by the effect, that he accepted his prayer as the dictate of his own ſpirit. Samſon mentions only his perſonal injury, the loſs of his eyes; and not their indignities to God and his people, which muſt be aſcribed to that care which he had, and took upon former occaſions, to prevent the reſentment of the Philiſtines from falling upon his own people.

V. 29. Samſon took hold of the two middle pillars—Pliny, in the 15th chapter of the 36th book of his Natural Hiſtory, mentions two theatres, built by one C. Curio, who lived in Julius Cæſar's time; each of which was ſupported only by one pillar, though very many thouſands of people might ſit in it together.

V. 30. Let me die with the Philiſtines—I am contented to die, ſo I can but therewith contribute any thing to the vindication of God's glory, here trampled upon; and to the deliverance of God's people. This is neither an example for the encouragement of ſelf-murder, nor private or perſonal revenge. Samſon did this by the Divine approbation, as God's anſwer to his prayer manifeſts. Samſon's laſt words were prayer, and his laſt action was agreeable to the will of God; and, after all the diſhonour and miſery which he brought upon himſelf, he finally caſt himſelf upon the love of God, and is numbered among thoſe, that only truſted their ſalvation to the Redeemer, then to come and die for the ſins of the world; and Samſon's example is to be numbered with the clouds of witneſſes, which there are of that never-to-be-forgotten truth—Whoſoever believeth on the Son of God ſhall not periſh, but have everlaſting life.

V. 31. His brethren, and all the houſe of his father, came down, and buried him—Which they adventured to do, becauſe the barbarous nations allowed burial even to their enemies, and would permit this to be done by their friends; and Samſon had taken the blame of this action wholly to himſelf, for which his relations could not juſtly be puniſhed.

CHAP. XVII.

V. 2. About which thou curſedſt—Didſt curſe the perſon who had taken them away, and that in my hearing. The ſilver is with me, I took it—The fear of thy curſe makes me acknowledge this. His mother ſaid, Bleſſed be thou of the Lord—I willingly conſent to, and beg from God the removal of the curſe, and a bleſſing inſtead of it. Be thou free from my curſe, becauſe thou haſt ſo honeſtly reſtored it.

V. 3. I had wholly dedicated the ſilver unto the Lord—Jehovah; by which it appears ſhe did not intend to forſake the true God, or his worſhip; but only to worſhip God by an image.

V. 4. His mother took two hundred ſhekels of ſilver—But a part of the ſum ſhe had dedicated.

V. 5. Micah had an houſe of gods—A place conſecrated for the ſervice of God in this manner. And conſecrated one of his ſons, who became his prieſt—Becauſe the Levites, in that corrupt ſtate of the church, neglected the exerciſe of their office, and were neglected by the people.

V. 6. In thoſe days there was no king in Iſrael—No judge to govern and controul them; the word King being here uſed largely for a chief magiſtrate. God raiſed up Judges to rule and deliver the people when he ſaw fit; and at other times, for their ſins, he ſuffered them to be without them, and ſuch a time this was; and therefore they ran into that idolatry, from which the Judges uſually kept them, as appears by that frequently repeated paſſage in this book, that, after the death of ſuch or ſuch a Judge, the people forſook the Lord, and turned to idols. Every man did that which was right in his own eyes—Not what pleaſed God, but what beſt ſuited his own inclinations.

V. 7. A young man out of Beth-lehem-judah, a Levite—Or, of Beth-lehem judah, ſo called here, as Matth. ii. 1, 5. to diſtinguiſh it from Bethlehem in Zebulun, (Joſh. xix. 15.) There he was born and bred. (i. e.) Of, or belonging to, the tribe of Judah;

Before Christ cir. 1406.

7 ¶ And there was a young man out of [e] Beth-lehem-judah, of the family of Judah, who was a Levite, and he sojourned there.

e See Josh. 19. 15.

8 And the man departed out of the city from Beth-lehem-judah, to sojourn where he could find a place: and he came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah, † as he journeyed.

† Heb. in making his way.

9 And Micah said unto him, Whence comest thou? And he said unto him, I am a Levite of Beth-lehem-judah, and I go to sojourn where I may find a place.

10 And Micah said unto him, Dwell with f Chap. 18. 19. me, [f] and be unto me a father and a priest, and I will give thee ten shekels of silver by the year, and ‡ § a suit of apparel, and thy victuals. So the Levite went in.

‡ Or, a double suit, &c. § Heb. an order of garments.

11 And the Levite was content to dwell with the man, and the young man was unto him as one of his sons.

12 And Micah consecrated the Levite, and g Chap. 18. 30. the young man [g] became his priest, and was in the house of Micah.

13 Then said Micah, Now know I that the Lord will do me good, seeing I have a a Levite to my priest.

CHAP. XVIII.

a Chap. 17. 6. and 21. 25. b Josh. 19. 47.

IN [a] those days there was no king in Israel: and in those days [b] the tribe of the Danites sought them an inheritance to dwell in: for unto that day all their inheritance had not fallen unto them among the tribes of Israel.

2 And the children of Dan sent of their family, five men from their coasts, * men of valour, from [c] Zorah, and from Eshtaol, to spy out the land, and to search it; and they said unto them, Go search the land: who when they came to mount Ephraim, to the house of Micah, they lodged there.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

* Heb. sons.

c Chap. 13. 25.

3 When they were by the house of Micah, they knew the voice of the young man the Levite: and they turned in thither, and said unto him, Who brought thee hither? and what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here?

4 And he said unto them, Thus and thus dealeth Micah with me, and hath hired me, and I am his priest.

5 And they said unto him, Ask counsel, we pray thee, of God, that we may know whether our way which we go shall be prosperous.

6 And the priest said unto them, Go in peace: before the Lord is your way, wherein ye go.

7 ¶ Then the five men departed, and came to [d] Laish, and saw the people that were therein, [e] how they dwelt careless, after the manner of the Zidonians, quiet and secure, and there was no † magistrate in the land, that might put them to shame in any thing: and they were far from the Zidonians, and had no business with any man.

d Josh. 19. 47. called Leshem. e Ver. 27. 28.

† Heb. possessor, or, heir of restraint.

8 And not by birth, for he was a Levite; nor by his mother, for though that might be true, the mother's side is not regarded in genealogies; but by his habitation: And, in times of irreligion, the Levites were dispersed among all the tribes; which seems to be here noted by way of reflection upon that tribe; and as an evidence of the general defection, that a Levite could not find entertainment in that great tribe, but was forced to wander, and seek for subsistence elsewhere. He sojourned there—Because this was not the proper nor usual place of his abode, this being no Levitical city.

V. 8. Where he could find a place—For employment, and a livelihood; for the tithes and offerings, which were their maintenance, not being brought into the house of God, many of the Levites and priests must needs be reduced to poverty.

V. 10. Micah said, be unto me a father and a priest—A spiritual father, a teacher, or instructor.

V. 11. The Levite was content—Being constrained by necessity, and infected with the common superstition of the times. And the young man was unto him as one of his sons—Treated with the same degree of kindness and affection.

V. 12. Micah consecrated the Levite—To be a priest, for which he thought a consecration necessary, as knowing that the Levites were no less excluded from the priest's office without it—than the people. And the young man became his priest—Instead of his son, whom he had consecrated.

V. 13. Now know I that the Lord will do me good—I am assured God will bless me. This was the principle of selfishness, expecting a beneficial return from God for his money and good deeds. Certain it is, that the Judge of all the earth must distinguish between right and wrong in every man's conduct; but no human conduct can be right in the sight of God, which does not proceed from this principle—That the cause and foundation of the mercy of God to men, and of all the blessings he bestows, is only laid in the Son of his love. It cost more than the whole human race could ever do, to reconcile one soul to God, or purchase one blessing from him, for the most blameless of the fallen sons of Adam.

CHAP. XVIII.

V. 1. The tribe of the Danites sought them an inheritance to dwell in—The lot had fallen to them before this time, but they had not obtained the actual possession of their lot, because the Philistines and Amorites opposed them.

V. 3. What makest thou in this place?—This being not thy usual place, nor proper for thy employment.

V. 6. Before the Lord is your way—His answer was ambiguous, and such as might have been interpreted either way, as they had success or disappointment.

V. 7. The five men saw the people that they dwelt careless, after the manner of the Zidonians—Who, abounding in wealth, and understanding that they were not a part of that land which God gave to his people, and perceiving that the Israelites never attempted any thing against them, were grown secure and careless.

There

Before Christ cir. 1406.

8 And they came unto their brethren to Zorah, and Eſhtaol: and their brethren ſaid unto them, What ſay ye?

9 And they ſaid, Ariſe, that we may go up againſt them: for we have ſeen the land, and behold, it is very good: and are ye ſtill? be not ſlothful to go, and to enter to poſſeſs the land.

10 When ye go, ye ſhall come unto a people ſecure, and to a large land: for God hath given it into your hands: a place where there is no want of any thing that is in the earth.

11 ¶ And there went from thence of the family of the Danites out of Zorah, and out of Eſhtaol, ſix hundred men ‡ appointed with weapons of war.

‡ Heb girded.

12 And they went up, and pitched in Kirjath-jearim, in Judah: wherefore they called that place [f] Mahaneh-dan, unto this day: behold, it is behind Kirjath-jearim.

f Chap. 13.25.

13 And they paſſed thence unto mount Ephraim, and came unto the houſe of Micah.

14 ¶ Then anſwered the five men that went to ſpy out the country of Laiſh, and ſaid unto their brethren, [g] Do ye know that there is in theſe houſes an ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image and a molten image? now therefore conſider what ye have to do.

g Chap. 17.5.

15 And they turned thitherward, and came to the houſe of the young man the Levite, even unto the houſe of Micah, and * ſaluted him.

* Heb. aſked him of peace.

16 And the ſix hundred men appointed with their weapons of war, which were of the children of Dan, ſtood by the entering of the gate.

17 And the five men that went to ſpy out the land, went up, and came in thither, and took the graven image, and the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: and the prieſt ſtood in the entering of the gate, with the ſix hundred men that were appointed with weapons of war.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

18 And theſe went into Micah's houſe, and fetched the carved image, the ephod, and the teraphim, and the molten image: then ſaid the prieſt unto them, What do ye?

19 And they ſaid unto him, Hold thy peace, lay thine hand upon thy mouth, and go with us, [h] and be to us a father, and a prieſt: is it better for thee to be a prieſt unto the houſe of one man, or that thou be a prieſt unto a tribe and a family in Iſrael?

h Chap. 17.10.

20 And the prieſt's heart was glad, and he took the ephod, and the teraphim, and the graven image, and went in the midſt of the people.

21 So they turned and departed, and put the little ones, and the cattle, and the carriage before them.

22 ¶ And when they were a good way from the houſe of Micah, the men that were in the houſes near to Micah's houſe, were gathered together, and overtook the children of Dan.

23 And they cried unto the children of Dan: and they turned their faces, and ſaid unto Micah, What aileth thee, † that thou comeſt with ſuch a company?

† Heb. that thou art gathered together.

24 And he ſaid, Ye have taken away my gods which I made, and the prieſt, and ye are gone away: and what have I more? and what is this that ye ſay unto me, What aileth thee?

25 And

There was no magiſtrate in the land, that might put them to ſhame in any thing—That might rebuke or puniſh any thing. They were far from the Zidonians—Who otherwiſe could have ſuccoured them. And had no buſineſs with any man—No league or confederacy, nor much converſe with other cities, it being in a pleaſant and plentiful ſoil, between the two rivulets of Jor and Dan, not needing ſupplies from others, and therefore minding only their own eaſe and pleaſure.

V. 10. God hath given it into your hands—Thus confidently do they conclude; on what grounds they did ſo, remains to be ſeen.

V. 12. They pitched in Kirjath-jearim—A city in the northern parts of Judah.

V. 14. Then anſwered—Spake; the word anſwering being often uſed in Scripture of the firſt ſpeaker. Now therefore conſider what ye have to do—Whether it be not expedient, either to conſult them again for your own ſatisfaction, or rather to take them away for your further uſe, as you ſhall have occaſion.

V. 15. They came to the young man the Levite, and ſaluted him—Aſked him of his peace, health, and proſperity.

V. 17. The five men that went to ſpy out the land came in thither—Into the houſe where thoſe things were.

V. 18. Then ſaid the prieſt unto them, What do ye—What do you mean to do? I hope you will not do ſo impious and injurious an action.

V. 19. Hold thy peace, lay thine hand upon thy mouth—Be ſilent. Go with us, and be to us a father, and a prieſt—To a tribe, or a numerous family.

V. 20. And the prieſt's heart was glad—Being governed by his preſent intereſt. He took the ephod, and went in the midſt of the people—(i. e.) Among the people; or, for the greater ſecurity; and that Micah might not be able either to injure or upbraid him. Micah had thought he ſhould ſecure to himſelf the Divine bleſſing, by the expence he was at in hiring a prieſt: The children of Dan were, if poſſible, in greater danger, and thought ſtolen images, and a ſelf-intereſted Levite, would be the means of procuring them the favour of God.

V. 24. Ye have taken away my gods, and what have I more—I value nothing I have in compariſon of what you have taken away. When we are taken up with the love of any idol, any object, whether it belongs to the love of praiſe, pleaſure, or gain, to be deprived of it is to rob us of our All; and ſo long as our deſire continues

Before Christ cir. 1406.

25 And the children of Dan said unto him, Let not thy voice be heard amongst us, lest ‡ angry fellows run upon thee, and thou lose thy life, with the lives of thy household.

‡ Heb. bitter of soul.

26 And the children of Dan went their way: and when Micah saw that they were too strong for him, he turned and went back unto his house.

27 And they took the things which Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came unto Laish, unto [i] a people that were at quiet, and secure: and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and burnt the city with fire.

i Verse 7. 10.

28 And there was no deliverer, because it was far from Zidon, and they had no business with any man; and it was in the valley that lieth [k] by Beth-rehob: and they built a city, and dwelt therein.

k Num. 13. 21.

29 And [l] they called the name of the city [m] Dan, after the name of Dan their father, who was born unto Israel: howbeit the name of the city was Laish at the first.

l Josh. 19. 47.

m Gen. 14. 14. Chap. 20. 1.

30 ¶ And the children of Dan set up the graven image: and Jonathan the son of Gershom, the son of Manasseh, he and his sons were priests to the tribe of Dan, [n] until the day of the captivity of the land.

n Chap. 13. 1. 2 Sam. 4. 2, 3.

31 And they set them up Micah's graven image, which he made, [o] all the time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

o Josh. 18. 1. Chap. 19. 18. and 21. 12.

CHAP. XIX.

AND it came to pass in those days, [a] when there was no king in Israel, that there was a certain Levite sojourning on the side of mount Ephraim, who took to him * a concubine out of Beth-lehem-judah.

a Chap. 17. 6. and 18. 1. and 21. 25.

* Heb. a woman a concubine, or, a wife a concubine.

2 And his concubine played the whore against him, and went away from him unto her father's house to Beth-lehem-judah, and was there † ‡ four whole months.

† Or, a year and four months.

‡ Heb. days four months.

3 And her husband arose, and went after her to speak § friendly unto her, and to bring her again, having his servant with him, and a couple of asses: and she brought him into her father's house, and when the father of the damsel saw him, he rejoiced to meet him.

§ Heb. to her heart.

4 And his father in law, the damsel's father, retained him, and he abode with him three days: so they did eat and drink, and lodged there.

5 And it came to pass on the fourth day, when they arose early in the morning, that he rose up to depart: and the damsel's father said unto his son in law, ‖ Comfort thine heart with a morsel of bread, and afterward go your way.

‖ Heb. Strengthen.

6 And

continues fixed on that which we are deprived of, peace we cannot have; and hence it is that no idolater hath everlasting life, because, separated from the object of his love, he cannot have that happiness in eternity which consists in the love of God alone. Reader, Did you ever deeply consider, that no object less than God is suited, or can answer all the desires of your immortal nature; and that if you love or delight in any thing besides God your Saviour, however your conduct may have for its warrant the example of the world about you, whether it must not be, when the moment of separation takes place between you and the idol of your heart, that, with Micah, you will have nothing more to lose in order to make you miserable? And is not this misery the very penalty annexed by God himself, to the crime of offending against his great command, To love him, the author of our life, and who died, in our nature, for our salvation; and who alone is worthy to be feared, honoured, served, and loved by all?

V. 25. Thy voice—Thy complaints and reproaches. Angry fellows—The soldiers, who are in themselves sharp and fierce, and will soon be inflamed by thy provoking words. Thy life—Which, notwithstanding all thy pretences, thou dost value more than thy images.

V. 26. Micah saw that they were too strong for him—His misery, arising from the loss of his idols, was brought upon him by a power he could not resist.

V. 27. Burnt the city with fire—Not wholly, but in a great measure, to strike terror into the inhabitants, and to make the conquest of the place more easy.

V. 28. There was no deliverer—When that day shall come in which the elements shall melt with fervent heat, what will be their confusion who have lived and died in the careless, wilful neglect of Him, who alone can in that day be a deliverer?

V. 29. Dan their father—That it might be manifest that they belonged to the tribe of Dan, whose lot was in the southern part of Canaan.

V. 30. The children of Dan set them up the graven image—Having succeeded in their expedition according to the prediction, which, as they supposed, they had from this image, they had a great veneration for it. Until the day of the captivity of the land—When the whole land of the ten tribes, whereof Dan was one, was conquered, and the people carried captive by the Assyrian, (2 Kings xvii. 6, 23.) which is called, by way of eminency, the captivity. (1 Chron. v. 22.)

V. 31. They set them up Micah's graven image—At once a monument of their impiety and of their injustice.

CHAP. XIX.

V. 1. A concubine—A wife; such a concubine as was also his wife, as appears from verse 3.

V. 2. Against him—Against her faith given to him, or, with him, (i. e.) in his house, or whilst she lived with him, which is opposed to her going away, which here follows. Went away from him—For fear of his severe rebukes or punishment; or, because her heart was alienated from him. Unto her father's house, and was there four whole months—Wherein not only she sinned, but her father, by neglect of just endeavours for her reconciliation to her husband, the ill effects whereof he speedily felt, in the loss of his daughter in so dreadful a manner.

V. 3. Friendly—Kindly to offer her pardon, reconciliation, and restitution to her former state. To bring her again—To his own house. Rejoiced—Hoping the breach would be made up by this means.

V. 12. A

Before Christ cir. 1406.

6 And they sat down, and did eat and drink both of them together: for the damsel's father had said unto the man, Be content, I pray thee, and tarry all night, and let thine heart be merry.

7 And when the man rose up to depart, his father in law urged him: therefore he lodged there again.

8 And he arose early in the morning on the fifth day to depart: and the damsel's father said, Comfort thine heart, I pray thee. And they tarried * until afternoon, and they did eat both of them.

* Heb. till the day declined.

9 And when the man rose up to depart, he and his concubine, and his servant; his father in law, the damsel's father said unto him, Behold, now the day † draweth towards evening, I pray you tarry all night: behold, ‡ the day groweth to an end, lodge here, that thine heart may be merry; and to morrow get you early on your way, that thou mayest go § home.

† Heb. is weak.

‡ Heb. it is the pitching time of the day.

§ Heb. to thy tent.

10 But the man would not tarry that night, but he rose up and departed, and came ‖ over [b] against Jebus, (which is Jerusalem) and there were with him two asses saddled, his concubine also was with him.

‖ Heb. to over against.

b Chap. 1. 21.

11 And when they were by Jebus, the day was far spent, and the servant said unto his master, Come, I pray thee, and let us turn in unto this city of the Jebusites, and lodge in it.

12 And his master said unto him, We will not turn aside hither into the city of a stranger, that is not of the children of Israel; we will pass over [c] to Gibeah.

c Josh. 18. 28.

13 And he said unto his servant, Come, and let us draw near to one of these places to lodge all night, in Gibeah, or in Ramah.

14 And they passed on and went their way, and the sun went down upon them when they were by Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin.

15 And they turned aside thither, to go in and to lodge in Gibeah: and when he went in, he sat him down in a street of the city: for there was no man that took them into his house to lodging.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

16 ¶ And behold, there came an old man from his work out of the field at even, which was also of mount Ephraim; and he sojourned in Gibeah, but the men of the place were Benjamites.

17 And when he had lift up his eyes, he saw a wayfaring man in the street of the city: and the old man said, Whither goest thou? and whence comest thou?

18 And he said unto him, We are passing from Beth-lehem-judah, toward the side of mount Ephraim, from thence am I: and I went to Beth-lehem-judah, [d] but I am now going to the house of the Lord, and there is no man that * receiveth me to house.

d Chap. 18. 31.

* Heb. gathereth.

19 Yet there is both straw and provender for our asses; and there is bread and wine also for me and for thy handmaid, and for the young man which is with thy servants; there is no want of any thing.

20 And the old man said, Peace be with thee; however, let all thy wants lie upon me; [e] only lodge not in the street.

e Gen. 19. 2.

21 So he brought him into his house, and gave provender unto the asses: [f] and they washed their feet, and did eat and drink.

f John. 13. 5.

22 ¶ Now as they were making their hearts merry, behold, [g] the men of the city, certain [h] sons of Belial, beset the house round about, and beat at the door, and spake to the master of the house, the old man, saying, Bring forth the man that came into thine house, that we may know him.

g Gen. 19. 4.

h Hos. 9. 9. & 10. 9.

23 And [i] the man, the master of the house, went out unto them, and said unto them, Nay, my brethren, nay, I pray you, do not so wickedly; seeing that this man is come into mine house, do not this folly.

i Gen. 19. 6.

24 Behold

V. 12. A stranger.—The Canaanites.

V. 13. Gibeah, or in Ramah—Both which places lay in Benjamin's portion.

V. 14. Gibeah, which belongeth to Benjamin—This is added, to distinguish it from another Gibeah in Judah.

V. 15 No man took them to lodging—Either there were no public houses to receive travellers, or, if there were, they might perceive it to be so wicked a place, that they might decline it, and expect that some private person would exercise hospitality to them, as persons of any worth used to do. (Gen. xviii. 1, 2, 3, 4. and xix. 1, 2. Heb. xiii. 2.)

V. 16. Mount Ephraim—Whence also the Levite was. Were Benjamites—This was one of the cities belonging to the priests; but the cities which were given to the priests, and whereof they were possessors and owners, were not inhabited by the priests or Levites only, but by many other persons.

V. 18 The house of the Lord—Which was in Shilo.

V. 20. Let all thy wants lie upon me—It matters not whether thou wantest nothing, or every thing; I will take care to supply all thy wants.

V. 21. They washed their feet—As they used to do to travellers in those countries.

V. 22. Merry—Refreshing themselves. Sons of Belial—Wicked and licentious men. The man—Under the name of the man, they comprehended those that belong to him.

V. 23. House—And therefore I am obliged to protect him by the laws of hospitality.

V. 24. With what abhorrence and pity must the Father of

Before Christ cir. 1406.

24 [k] Behold, here is my daughter a maiden, and his concubine, them I will bring out now, [l] and humble ye them, and do with them what seemeth good unto you: but unto this man do not † so vile a thing.

k Gen. 19. 7, 8.
l Deut 21. 14.
† Heb. the matter of this folly.

25 But the men would not hearken to him: so the man took his concubine, and brought her forth unto them; and they knew her, and abused her all the night, until the morning: and when the day began to spring, they let her go.

26 Then came the woman in the dawning of the day, and fell down at the door of the man's house, where her lord was, till it was light.

27 And her lord rose up in the morning, and opened the doors of the house, and went out to go his way: and behold, the woman his concubine was fallen down at the door of the house, and her hands were upon the threshold.

28 And he said unto her, Up, and let us be going: but none answered. Then the man took her up upon an ass, and the man rose up, and gat him unto his place.

29 ¶ And when he was come into his house, he took a knife, and laid hold on his concubine, and [m] divided her, together with her bones, into twelve pieces, and sent her into all the coasts of Israel.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

m See 1 Sam. 11. 7.

30 And it was so, that all that saw it, said, There was no such deed done nor seen, from the day that the children of Israel came up out of the land of Egypt, unto this day: consider of it, take advice, and speak your minds.

CHAP. XX.

THEN [a] all the children of Israel went out, and the congregation was gathered together, as one man, from [b] Dan even to Beer-sheba, with the land of Gilead, unto the Lord [c] in Mizpeh.

a Deut 13. 12. Chap. 21. 5. b Chap 18 20. 1 Sam. 3. 20. 2 Sam. 3. 10. and 24. 2. c 1 Sam. 7. 5. and 10. 17.

2 And the chief of all the people, even of all the tribes of Israel, presented themselves in the assembly of the people of God, four hundred thousand footmen that drew sword.

3 (Now the children of Benjamin heard that the children of Israel were gone up to Mizpeh.) Then said the children of Israel, Tell us, how was this wickedness?

4 And

mercies look down on such evils and such sufferings as these amongst mankind; and O! what must be that patience which waits for the repentance of the guilty, and does not with all as he often has done with some, for the example of all, strike with instant death the shameless, brutal violators of every law, natural, human, and divine.

V. 25. The men would not hearken—Being deaf to all that was good; and only alive to feelings which make the man an equal partaker of the nature of the most sensual beast, and the uncleanest spirits that live in foul and eternal disgrace, to suffer under the justice of the infinite Being, by whom they are condemned to those burning desires and flames which never shall be quenched (Luke xvi. 24.) His concubine—Being willing to expose her, rather than the daughter of his host, who had expressed such a singular care and affection for him. What good has not been left undone, and what evil has not arisen from the guilty fear of the wicked? Levite, hadst thou never heard of HIM who struck with blindness the men of that other wicked city, which, in the time of believing Lot, was made an example, still in the world's view, of the Divine vengeance against the sins of men, and whose hand neither was nor ever will be shortened, nor deprived of the power of saving all, whose forest trials do but find them living in that faith, to which he gives the victory to overcome and defeat the united efforts of men and devils against the most helpless; and this, without requiring the aid of any human hand to be lifted up with the violence of human wrath? And they that would not have the Almighty mock when their calamity cometh, must use the present moment in that repentance and turning unto God by faith in the promised Mediator, by whom alone God became the friend of the fallen sinful race of Adam.

V. 26. Down—Dead; killed with grief of heart, and with abuse. Thus the sin she formerly chose, v. 2. is now her destruction; and though her husband pardoned her, God would punish her as to this life. Her lord—So he is called, either because he was her husband, or because she had been his maid-servant.

V. 27. The woman was fallen down—As one that was laid down to sleep; and therefore he thought to awake her, and raise her up.

V. 28. None answered—She being dead.

V. 29. He took a knife, and divided her—That the sadness of the example might contribute to stir up the zeal of all the Israelites to avenge her death, and to execute justice upon such profligate offenders. Twelve pieces—That one piece might be sent to every tribe; none to Levi, because they would meet with it in every tribe, being dispersed among them; but one to Benjamin; for he might well presume, that they would as much abhor the crime, though committed by some of their own tribe, as any of the rest. Sent her—By several messengers, with a particular relation of the fact.

V. 30. Deed—So wicked and abominable. Speak your minds—Let us meet together, and seriously consider, and every one freely speak what is to be done in this case.

CHAP. XX.

V. 1. The children of Israel—A great number, and especially the rulers of all the tribes, except Joseph, v. 3, 12. Went out—From their several habitations. As one man—With one consent. From Dan to Beer-sheba—Dan was the northern border of the land, near Lebanon; and Beer-sheba the southern border. With the land of Gilead—Beyond Jordan, where Reuben, Gad, and half Manasseh were. Unto the Lord—As to the Lord's tribunal; for God was not only present in the place where the ark and tabernacle was, but also in the assemblies of the Judges, and in all the places where God's name is recorded, (Exod. xx. 24.) and where two or three are met together in his name, (Matth. xviii. 20.) for his service, and to seek for counsel and mercy from him: (Judg. xi. 11.) In Mizpeh—A place in the borders of Judah and Benjamin. This they chose, as being near the place where the fact was done, that it might be more thoroughly examined.

V. 2. The chief of all the people—The nobles and rulers. Four hundred thousand—The number is here set down, to shew their zeal in punishing the Benjamites.

V. 3. Tell us—Like persons unconcerned and resolved, they neither

Before Christ cir. 1406.

4 And † the Levite the husband of the woman that was slain, answered and said, [d] I came into Gibeah, that belongeth to Benjamin, I and my concubine, to lodge.

† Heb. the man the Levite.

d Chap. 19. 12

5 And the men of Gibeah arose against me, and beset the house round about upon me by night, and thought to have slain me: and my concubine have they † forced, that she is dead.

† Heb. humbled.

6 And I took my concubine, and cut her in pieces, and sent her throughout all the country of the inheritance of Israel: for they [e] have committed lewdness and folly in Israel.

e Josh. 7. 15.

7 Behold, ye are all children of Israel, give here your advice and counsel.

8 ¶ And all the people arose as one man, saying, We will not any of us go to his tent, neither will we any of us turn into his house.

9 But now, this shall be the thing which we will do to Gibeah, we will go up by lot against it:

10 And we will take ten men of an hundred throughout all the tribes of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand out of ten thousand, to fetch victual for the people, that they may do, when they come to Gibeah of Benjamin, according to all the folly that they have wrought in Israel.

11 So all the men of Israel were gathered against the city, ‡ knit together as one man.

‡ Heb. fellows

12 ¶ [i] And the tribes of Israel sent men through all the tribe of Benjamin, saying,

i Josh. 22. 16.

What wickedness is this that is done among you?

Before Christ cir. 1406.

13 Now therefore deliver us the men, [g] the children of Belial, which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil from Israel. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel:

g Deut. 13. 13. Chap. 19. 22.

14 But the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities, unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel.

15 And the children of Benjamin were numbered at that time out of the cities, twenty and six thousand men that drew sword, beside the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered seven hundred chosen men.

16 Among all this people there were seven hundred chosen men [h] left-handed, every one could sling stones at an hair-breadth, and not miss.

h Chap. 3. 15. 1 Chro. 12. 2.

17 And the men of Israel, beside Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thousand men that drew sword; all these were men of war.

18 ¶ And the children of Israel arose, and went up to the house of God, and [i] asked counsel of God, and said, Which of us shall go up first to the battle against the children of Benjamin? And the Lord said, Judah shall go up first.

i Chap. 1. 1.

19 And

neither went nor sent; because, as they were not willing to give up any of their brethren to justice, they presumed the other tribes would never proceed to a war against them; and partly, from a Divine infatuation, hardening that wicked tribe to their own destruction Tell us—They speak as to the Levite, and his servant, and his host, who doubtless were present upon this occasion.

V. 4. The Levite—To whose relation the other two would, of course, give their consent.

V. 5. Slain me—Except I would either submit or deliver up my concubine to them.

V. 6. Folly—Most ignominious and impudent wickedness.

V. 7. Israel—The sons of that holy man, who, for one filthy action, left an eternal brand upon one of his own sons; a people in covenant with the holy God, whose honour you are obliged to vindicate, and who hath expressly commanded you to punish all such enormities.

V. 8. Tent—His habitation, until we have revenged this injury.

V. 10. According to all they have wrought—That we may punish them as such a wickedness deserves. In Israel—This is added as an aggravation, that they should do that in Israel, or among God's peculiar people, which was esteemed abominable even among the heathen.

V. 12. Tribe—Family. They take a wise and a just course, in sending to all the parts and families of the tribe, to separate the innocent from the guilty, and to give them a fair opportunity of preventing their ruin, by doing nothing but what their duty, honour, and interest obliged them to; even by delivering up those vile malefactors, whom they could not keep without guilt and shame, and bring the curse of God upon themselves.

V. 13. That we may put them to death, and put away evil—Both the guilt and the punishment, wherein all Israel will be involved, if they do not punish it. Benjamin would not hearken—From the pride of their hearts, which made them scorn to submit to their brethren, or to suffer them to meddle in their territory; and from a conceit of their own valour and military skill; and partly from God's just judgment.

V. 14. To go out to battle—The guilty were forward in vindicating themselves.

V. 16. Left-handed—Using their left hand instead of their right. At an hair-breadth—An hyperbolical expression, signifying, that they could do this with great exactness; that they could throw stones, or shoot arrows with great certainty, so as seldom or never to miss: And this might be the ground of the Benjamites confidence, because in those times they had no guns.

V. 17. Israel—Such as were here present; for otherwise it is most probable they had a far greater number of men, being 600,000 before their entrance into Canaan. (Num. i. 2.)

V. 18. Israel—Some, sent in name of all. The house of God—To Shiloh, which was not far from Mizpeh, where they were. Which shall go first to battle—This they ask to prevent emulations and contentions; but they do not ask whether they should go against them or no, for that, they knew, they ought to do by the will of God already revealed; nor yet do they seek to God for his help by prayer, and fasting, and sacrifice, as in all reason they ought to have done; but were confident of success, because

of

Before Christ cir. 1406.

19 And the children of Israel rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah.

20 And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin, and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah.

21 And the children of Benjamin came forth out of Gibeah, and destroyed down to the ground of the Israelites that day, twenty and two thousand men.

22 And the people the men of Israel encouraged themselves, and set their battle again in array in the place where they put themselves in array the first day.

23 (And the children of Israel went up and wept before the Lord until even, and asked counsel of the Lord, saying, Shall I go up again to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother? And the Lord said, Go up against him.)

24 And the children of Israel came near against the children of Benjamin the second day.

25 And Benjamin went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and destroyed down to the ground of the children of Israel again, eighteen thousand men; all these drew the sword.

26 ¶ Then all the children of Israel, and all the people went up, and came unto the house of God, and wept, and sat there before the Lord, and fasted that day until even, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings before the Lord.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

27 And the children of Israel enquired of the Lord, (for the ark of the covenant of God was there in those days.

28 [k] And Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, stood before it in those days) saying, Shall I yet again go out to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother, or shall I cease? And the Lord said, Go up; for to morrow I will deliver them into thine hand.

[k] Josh. 24.33.

29 And Israel [l] set liers in wait round about Gibeah.

[l] So Josh. 8.4.

30 And the children of Israel went up against the children of Benjamin on the third day, and put themselves in array against Gibeah, as at other times.

31 And the children of Benjamin went out against the people, and were drawn away from the city, and they began § to smite of the people, and kill as at other times in the highways, of which one goeth up to ‖ the house of God, and the other to Gibeah in the field, about thirty men of Israel.

§ Heb. to smite of the people wounded as at, &c.

‖ Or, Beth-el.

32 And

of their great numbers, and their design of punishing the wicked; but neither numbers, nor the justice of a cause, will procure the blessing of success, without that real heart-felt and actual turning to God for mercy, through a Mediator, which is the sole cause of God's goodness to nations as well as to individuals.

V. 21. Benjamin destroyed twenty and two thousand men—Why would God suffer them to have so great a loss in so good a cause? Because they had many and great sins reigning amongst themselves, and they should not have come to so great a work of God as this with polluted hands, but should have pulled the beam out of their own eye, before they attempted to take that out of their brother's; which, because they did not, God makes them, by this loss, more clearly to see their own sins, and their need of God's help, without which their great numbers were insignificant; and bringing through the fire, that they might be purged from their dross.

V. 22. Encouraged—Strengthened themselves by the justice of their cause, and the hopes of success. Place—Hereby shewing their freedom from that heathenish superstition, whereby they might have been apt to have rejected that as an unlucky place. (1 Kings xx. 23, 28.)

V. 23. Wept—Not so much for their sins, as for their defeat and loss, as appears by the sequel. Brother—They impute their ill success not to their sins, as they had great reason to do, but to their taking up arms against their brethren, the lawfulness whereof they now begin to doubt of. But still they persist in their former neglect of seeking God's assistance in the way which he had appointed, as they themselves soon after acknowledge, by doing those very things which now they sinfully neglected, v. 26. and therefore are again punished. Go up—God answers to their question; but as they did not desire his assistance and success, so he doth not promise it.

V. 26. Fasted—Being now sensible of their former slightness, and not being truly humbled for their sins, which now they discover to be the true cause of their ill success. Burnt-offerings—To make atonement to God for their own sins. Peace-offerings—To bless God for sparing so many of them, whereas he might justly have cut off all of them when their brethren were slain; and to implore his assistance for the future.

V. 27. There—In Shiloh, where they now assembled.

V. 28. Stood—Ministered, because standing is the usual posture of servants. Before it—Before the ark; or, before the Lord's presence; which shews that he was the high-priest, for none might appear there. Shall I cease—Which, if thou requirest, we are to do. I will deliver them into thine hand—Now, when they had sought God after the due order, and truly humbled themselves for their sins, he gives them a full and satisfactory answer to their desires.

V. 29. Israel set liers in wait—Though they were assured of the success, by a particular and absolute promise, yet they do not neglect the use of means; as well knowing that the certainty of God's purposes or promises doth not excuse, but rather require Man's diligent use of all fit means for the accomplishment of them. About Gibeah—On several sides of it, as may be gathered from the following verses.

V. 30. The children of Israel—A considerable part of them, who were ordered to give the first onset, and then to counterfeit flight, to draw the Benjamites after them. The third day—After the second battle; for the first day after it, they thought in perplexing thoughts, and going up to the house of the Lord; the second, in fasting and prayer there; and this third, in the fight.

V. 31. Drawn away from the city—By the dissembled flight of the Israelites. To smite as at other times—With the same kind, though not the same degree of success.

V. 33. Israel

Before Christ cir. 1406.

32 And the children of Benjamin said, They are smitten down before us as at the first. But the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the highways.

33 And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar: and the liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the meadows of Gibeah.

34 And there came against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was sore: but they knew not that evil was near them.

35 And the Lord smote Benjamin before Israel: and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day, twenty and five thousand, and an hundred men; all these drew the sword.

36 So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten; for the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the liers in wait which they had set beside Gibeah.

37 And the liers in wait hasted, and rushed upon Gibeah, and the liers in wait * drew themselves along, and smote all the city with the edge of the sword.

* Or, made a long sound with the trumpets.

‡ Or, time.

38 Now there was an appointed ‡ sign between the men of Israel ‡ and the liers in wait, that they should make a great § flame with smoke to rise up out of the city.

‡ Heb. with.

§ Heb. elevation.

39 And when the men of Israel retired in the battle, Benjamin began ‖ to smite and kill of the men of Israel about thirty persons; for they said, Surely they are smitten down before us, as in the first battle.

‖ Heb. To smite the wounded.

40 But when the flame began to arise up out of the city, with a pillar of smoke, the Benjamites looked behind them, and behold, * the flame of the city ascended up to heaven.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

* Heb. the whole consumption.

41 And when the men of Israel turned again, the men of Benjamin were amazed: for they saw that evil † was come upon them.

† Heb. touched them.

42 Therefore they turned their backs before the men of Israel, unto the way of the wilderness, but the battle overtook them: and them which came out of the cities, they destroyed in the midst of them.

43 Thus they enclosed the Benjamites round about, and chased them, and trode them down ‡ with ease § over against Gibeah toward the sun-rising.

‡ Or, from Menuchah, &c.

§ Heb. unto over against.

44 And there fell of Benjamin eighteen thousand men; all these were men of valour.

45 And they turned and fled toward the wilderness unto the rock of Rimmon: and they gleaned of them in the highways five thousand men, and pursued hard after them unto Gidom, and slew two thousand men of them.

46 So that all which fell that day of Benjamin, were twenty and five thousand men that drew the sword; all these were men of valour.

47 [m] But six hundred men turned and fled to the wilderness unto the rock Rimmon, and abode in the rock Rimmon four months.

m Chap. 21. 13.

48 And the men of Israel turned again upon the children of Benjamin, and smote them with the edge of the sword, as well the men of every city, as the beast, and all that ‖ came to hand: also they set on fire all the cities that * they came to.

‖ Heb. was found.

* Heb. were found.

CHAP.

V. 33. Israel rose up out of their place—Where they had disposed themselves, that they might fall upon the Benjamites, when they were drawn forth to a sufficient distance from their city, and when they were pursuing. Israel came out of their places—To execute what was agreed upon; to take Gibeah, and burn it, as they did.

V. 34. They knew not that evil was near them—They were so lifted up with their former successes, that they were insensible of their danger.

V. 35. The Lord smote—All crimes being against God; he it is that inflicts the punishment, whatever means are made use of; and this destruction, with many others the Lord hath made, do indeed shew the truth of what is declared—That it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God. Heb. x. 31.

V. 37. Drew themselves along—Extended themselves, or marched.

V. 41. Amazed—Because of their great disappointment, and the present danger wherewith they were surrounded on every side.

V. 42. Destroyed in the midst of them—All the Benjamites, 600 excepted.

V. 43. With ease—Without great difficulty. Now that God gave them his presence and assistance, they easily did that which before they found too hard for them.

V. 44. Eighteen thousand men—In the field.

V. 45. Gleaned—They cut off the remainder in the pursuit, and spared none. A metaphor from those who gather grapes or corn so clearly and fully, that they leave no relicks for those who come after them.

V. 46. Twenty and five thousand—Besides the odd hundred expressed verse 35; but here only the great number is expressed, the less being omitted as inconsiderable; which way of numbering is frequent in Scripture.

V. 47. Abode in the rock—In a cave within that rock.

V. 48. Benjamin—Having destroyed those that came to Gibeah, and into the field, now they follow them home to their several habitations. The men—Comprehensively taken, so as to include women and children. The cause of this great loss of lives on both sides arose from the general corruption; and when the Divine Governor sees fit to punish men for their sins, from what small and inconsiderable circumstances may the ruin of a whole nation be brought about? And when it appears that such great events arise from such small causes as that of the Levite's going to bring back his wife, how evident is it that no human wisdom can guard against the destruction of any people whose conduct is that of open rebellion against God? and hence it is, that all true wisdom is laid alone in that fear of the Lord, by which men are

CHAP. XXI.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

NOW [a] the the men of Israel had sworn in Mizpeh, saying, There shall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife.

[a] Chap. 20. 1.

2 And the people came to the house of God, and abode there till even before God, and lift up their voices, and wept sore:

3 And said, O Lord God of Israel, why is this come to pass in Israel, that there should be to day one tribe lacking in Israel?

4 And it came to pass on the morrow, that the people rose early, and built there an altar, and offered burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings.

5 And the children of Israel said, Who is there among all the tribes of Israel, that came not up with the congregation unto the Lord? for they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the Lord to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death.

6 And the children of Israel repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day:

7 How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the Lord, that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

8 ¶ And they said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel, that came not up to Mizpeh to the Lord? and behold, there came none to the camp from Jabesh-gilead to the assembly.

9 For the people were numbered, and behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there.

10 And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the valiantest, and commanded them, saying, [b] Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and the children.

[b] Judg. 5. 23. 1 Sam. 11. 7.

11 And this is the thing that ye shall do, [c] Ye shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that [*] hath lien by man.

[c] Numb. 31. 17. [*] Heb. knoweth the lying with man.

12 And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead, four hundred [†] young virgins that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

Before Christ cir. 1406.

[†] Heb. young women virgins.

13 And the whole congregation sent some [‡] to speak to the children of Benjamin that were in the rock Rimmon, and to § call peaceably unto them.

[‡] Heb. and spake and called. § Or, proclaim peace.

14 And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead: and yet so they sufficed them not.

15 And the people repented them for Benjamin, because that the Lord had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

16 ¶ Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed out of Benjamin?

17 And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not destroyed out of Israel.

18 Howbeit, we may not give them wives of our daughters: for the children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin.

19 Then they said, Behold, there is a feast of the Lord in Shiloh [‖] yearly in a place which is on the north side of Beth-el, on the east side [*] of the highway that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and on the south of Lebonah.

[‖] Heb. from year to year. [] Or, towards the sun-rising [] Or, on.

20 Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go, and lie in wait in the vineyards:

21 And see, and behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out [d] to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and go to the land of Benjamin.

[d] See Exod. 15. 20.

22 And

led to live according to his holy laws, or of returning to them by true repentance when they have been departed from.

CHAP. XXI.

V. 1. Sworn—In the beginning of this war. To wife—It does not appear that they vow to extirpate the whole tribe, but only to give their daughters to those who should survive.

V. 2. The people came to the house of God—To mourn for the common loss, and to ask counsel about the repairing of it.

V. 3. Why—Has our rage carried us to such dreadful lengths.

V. 5. A great oath—A [illegible] an oath. Be put to death—Because, by refusing to execute the vengeance due to such malefactors, they were presumed guilty of their crime, and therefore liable to the same punishment, as was the case of that city that would not deliver up an idolater dwelling among them to justice.

V. 6. Israel repented them—Not for the war, but for their immoderate severity in the execution of it, and for the consequences of it.

V. 8. Jabesh-gilead—A city in Gilead, and in the tribe of Manasseh.

V. 11. Every woman—But not the virgins.

V. 14. Benjamin—The poor remains of the tribe of Benjamin.

V. 15. The Lord made a breach—The Benjamites were the authors of the sin; but God was the author of the punishment, and the Israelites were but his executioners.

V. 16. Remain—For the 200 who are yet without wives.

V. 17. An inheritance—The inheritance promised by Jacob and Moses, and given by Joshua to the tribe of Benjamin.

V. 18. We may not give—To this generation of Benjamites, who have made themselves guilty of this foul wickedness.

V. 19. Yearly—On the three solemn feasts.

V. 21. The

Before Christ cir. 1406.

22 And it shall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, ‡ Be favourable unto them for our sakes: because we reserved not to each man his wife in the war: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that you should be guilty.

‡ Or, gratify us in them.

23 And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and repaired the cities, and dwelt in them. Before Christ cir. 1406.

24 And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe, and to his family, and they went out from thence every man to his inheritance. a 25 [e] In those days there was no king in Israel: every man did that which was right in his own eyes. e Chap. 17. 6. and 18. 1. and 19. 1.

V. 21. The daughters of Shiloh—All who come thither on this occasion.

V. 22. Be favourable—Pass by their offence, if not for their sakes, yet for our sakes. It was folly to take such an oath as is expressed; so the manner of freeing themselves from their own snare is injurious to the parents, in disposing of their children without their consent.

V. 23. According to their number—Each man his wife; and they did not allow them more wives than one, even now when it might seem most necessary for the reparation of a lost tribe.

V. 25. In his own eyes—This may be repeatedly mentioned with the evils that were committed, and the calamities they suffered, to remind mankind of the blessings of a just and orderly government.

RUTH.

THIS Book relates the affliction, first and then the comfort of Naomi; the conversion and then the marriage of Ruth. God saw fit to transmit the knowledge of this domestic history; and, doubtless, with the gracious design of discovering to all how much every one comes within his infinite compassion, and by presenting us with these beautiful examples of humility, affection, and industry; and then by his providence turning distress into happiness and poverty into plenty, thousands may be led to imitate the example, and repose their confidence in that boundless goodness which then, as now, excludes none but such as wilfully exclude themselves. This Book, besides shewing the providential care of God over all human concerns, is useful to shew us the genealogy of David, and the rise of Christ from a Moabitish woman, which was a great encouragement to the Gentiles to believe in the promised Redeemer of men. This Book contains four chapters.

CHAP. I. Elimelech driven by famine into Moab, dieth there. Naomi returning homeward, Ruth accompanieth her.—CHAP. II. Ruth gleaneth in the fields of Boaz: He taketh knowledge of her: Sheweth her favour.—CHAP. III. By Naomi's instruction, Ruth lieth at Boaz's feet. Boaz acknowledgeth the right of a kinsman.—CHAP. IV. Boaz calleth into judgment the next kinsman. He refuseth the redemption. Boaz marrieth Ruth.

CHAP. I.

Before Christ cir. 1312.

NOW it came to pass in the days when the judges * ruled, that there was [a] a famine in the land: and a certain man of Beth-lehem-judah went to sojourn in the country of Moab, he and his wife, and his two sons.

* Heb. judged.

a See 2 Kings 8. 1.

2 And the name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wife Naomi, and the name of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion, [o] Ephrathites of Beth-lehem-judah: and they came [c] into the country of Moab, and † continued there. Before Christ cir. 1312.

o See Gen. 35. 19.

c Judg. 3. 30.

† Heb. were.

3 And Elimelech Naomi's husband died, and she was left, and her two sons.

4 And they took them wives of the women of Moab: the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth: and they dwelt there about ten years.

5 And Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons, and her husband.

6 ¶ Then

V. 1. A famine—because they were guilty of great defection from God. Moab—A fruitful land, beyond Jordan, eastward.

V. 2. Continued there—During the Famine.

V. 4. Ten years—As long as the Famine lasted.

V. 6. Bread—Food, so she staid no longer there than necessity forced her.

V. 8. The

Before Christ cir. 1312.

6 ¶ Then she arose with her daughters in law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab, how that the Lord had visited his people, in giving them bread.

7 Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters in law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah.

8 And Naomi said unto her two daughters in law, [d] Go, return each to her mother's house: the Lord deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me.

d See Josh. 24. 15.

9 The Lord grant you that you may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband. Then she kissed them: and they lift up their voice and wept.

10 And they said unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people.

11 And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters: why will ye go with me? are there yet any more sons in my womb, [e] that they may be your husbands?

e Deut. 25. 5.

12 Turn again, my daughters, go your way, for I am too old to have an husband: if I should say, I have hope, ‡ if I should have an husband also to night, and should also bear sons:

‡ Or, if I were with an husband.

13 Would ye § tarry for them till they were grown? would ye stay for them from having husbands? nay, my daughters: for ‖ it grieveth me much for your sakes, that [f] the hand of the Lord is gone out against me.

§ Heb. hope.

‖ Heb. I have much bitterness.

f Job 19. 21.

14 And they lift up their voice, and wept again: and Orpah kissed her mother in law, but Ruth clave unto her.

15 And she said, Behold, thy sister in law is gone back unto her people, and unto her gods: [g] return thou after thy sister in law.

g See Josh. 24. 15, 19. 2 Kings 2. 2. Luke 24. 28.

16 And Ruth said, * Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: [h] thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God:

* Or, be not against me.

Before Christ cir. 1312.

h Chap. 2. 11, 12.

17 Where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: [i] the Lord do so to me, and more also, if ought but death part thee and me.

i 1 Sam. 3. 17. & 25. 22. 2 Sam. 19. 13. 2 Kings 6. 31.

18 When she saw that she † was stedfastly minded to go with her, then she left speaking unto her.

† Heb. strengthened herself.

19 ¶ So they two went until they came to Beth-lehem. And it came to pass when they were come to Beth-lehem, that all the city was moved about them, and they said, Is this Naomi?

20 And she said unto them, Call me not ‡ Naomi, call me § Mara: for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me.

‡ That is pleasant.

§ That is, bitter.

21 I went out full, and the Lord hath brought me home again empty: why then call ye me Naomi, seeing the Lord hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?

22 So Naomi returned, and Ruth the Moabitess her daughter in law with her, which returned out of the country of Moab: and they came to Beth-lehem [k] in the beginning of barley-harvest.

k Exod. 9. 31, 32. Chap. 2. 23.

CHAP. II.

AND Naomi had a kinsman of her husband's, a mighty man of wealth, of the family of Elimelech; and his name was [a] * Boaz.

a Chap 4. 21. * Called, Booz, Matth. 1. 5.

2 And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi, Let me now go to the field, and glean ears of corn after him, in whose sight I shall find grace. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter.

3 And she went, and came, and gleaned in

V. 8. The dead—With my sons, your husbands, whilst they lived

V. 9. Rest—A quiet and happy life, free from those cares, and troubles which widows are exposed to. She kissed them—As the manner there was when friends parted.

V. 11. Husbands—According to the law of God.

V. 13. It grieveth me—that I must part with such dear and affectionate daughters; and that my circumstances are such, that I cannot invite nor encourage you to go along with me.

V. 14. Orpah—Departed from her.

V. 15. Gods—That she might intimate to her, that if she went with her, she must embrace the True God and Religion.

V. 16. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God—I renounce those idols which my sister hath returned to, and I will worship no other God but thine, who is indeed the only true God.

V. 19. Is this Naomi—Is this she that formerly lived in so much plenty and honour, that is returned in this forlorn condition?

V. 20. Naomi—Which signifies pleasant, chearful, or amiable. Mara—Which signifies bitter or sorrowful.

V. 21. Full—With my husband and Sons, and a plentiful Estate for our support. Testified against me—Hath borne witness, as in judgment, and given sentence against me. How ready she was to conclude from her sufferings that she was under the divine displeasure; forgetting that mercy is God's strange work, and that sorrows and afflictions can, by his over-ruling power, be made the very means of our greatest good.

CHAP. II.

V. 2. Glean—Which was permitted to the poor, and the stranger, both which she was; nor was she ashamed to confess her poverty, nor would she eat the bread of idleness: Grace—For though it was their duty to permit this, yet she might fear, that being a stranger, it might be denied to her; for many are the fears of the poor and friendless, especially such as have had experience of the contrary.

V. 3. Her hap was—in reference to Second Causes, but ordered and designed by God's Providence.

V. 4. The

Before Christ cir. 1312.

in the field after the reapers: and her † hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech.

† Heb. hap happened.

4 ¶ And behold, Boaz came from Bethlehem, and said unto the reapers, [b] The Lord be with you: and they answered him, The Lord bless thee.

b Psal. 129. 7, 8.

5 Then said Boaz unto his servant that was set over the reapers, Whose damsel is this?

6 And the servant that was set over the reapers, answered and said, It is the Moabitish damsel that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab.

7 And she said, I pray you, let me glean, and gather after the reapers amongst the sheaves: so she came, and hath continued even from the morning until now, that she tarried a little in the house.

8 Then said Boaz unto Ruth, Hearest thou not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here fast by my maidens.

9 Let thine eyes be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them: have I not charged the young men, that they shall not touch thee? and when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels, and drink of that which the young men have drawn.

10 Then she fell on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me, seeing I am a stranger?

Before Christ cir. 1312.

11 And Boaz answered and said unto her, It hath fully been shewed me, all that thou hast done unto thy mother in law since the death of thine husband; and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore.

12 The Lord recompense thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the Lord God of Israel, [c] under whose wings thou art come to trust.

c Chap. 1. 16. Psal. 17. 8. and 36. 7.

13 Then she said, ‡ Let me find favour in thy sight, my lord, for that thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken § friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaidens.

‡ Or, I find favour.

§ Heb. to the heart.

14 And Boaz said unto her, At mealtime come thou hither, and eat of the bread, and dip thy morsel in the vinegar. And she sat beside the reapers: and he reached her parched corn, and she did eat and was sufficed, and left.

15 And when she was risen up to glean, Boaz commanded his young men, saying, Let her glean even among the sheaves, and * reproach her not.

* Heb. shame her not.

16 And let fall also some of the handfuls of purpose for her, and leave them that she may glean them, and rebuke her not.

17 So

V. 4. The Lord bless thee—They expressed and professed their piety, in their civil conversation and worldly transactions.

V. 6. That came back—That came with Naomi when she came back.

V. 7. Let me glean—She did not intrude herself, but asked leave of us. Until now—She is not retired through idleness, for she hath been diligent in her labours. She tarried a little in the house—To take a little rest.

V. 8. By my maidens—Herein he shews his piety and prudence.

V. 9. Have I not charged the young men—So as not to offer any incivility or injury to thee.

V. 10. Fell on her face—The humblest posture of reverence, either civil when performed to men, or religious, when to God. Of me—Shew any respect and kindness to me. For words of knowledge in Scripture, commonly include affection.

V. 11. Knewest not—Of whom thou hadst no experience. And thus does He, who hath the hearts of all men in his hands, cause disinterested affection to meet with unlooked-for kindness in return.

V. 12. Whose wings—Protection and care: an allusion either to hens, which protect and cherish their young ones under their wings; or to the wings of the cherubims, between which God dwelt.

V. 13. Let me find favour in thy sight—I humbly implore the continuance of thy good opinion of me, though I do not deserve it. —Though I be not like thy handmaidens—A person more mean, and necessitous, and obscure, being a stranger, and one born of heathenish parents.

V. 14. Bread—Which in those simple and frugal times was the usual food of servants, and the meaner sort, at least when they were engaged in such works as this, which required speed, and therefore must be quick in their eating, as well as in their work. Or, Bread may be here put for any food, as it oft is. Vinegar—Either simple vinegar, in which the poorer sort used to dip their bread, and so eat it in hot countries, as they did not only in Canaan, but afterwards in Italy; it being very proper, especially in those parts, for cooling them in those hot seasons, for strengthening their sinews, &c. or vinegar mixed with other things to make some kind of sauce. She sat beside the reapers—Not among them, but at some little distance from them, and as one inferior to them.

V. 15. Reproach her not—As if she were rude in so doing. Why did he not rather give her as much corn as she could carry, and send her away? Because he would not have her to eat the bread of idleness, but honestly to get it, according to her duty and present condition; and with which he knew a truly pious person would be far better satisfied; all such knowing it to be much more blessed to give than receive.

V. 16. Let fall handfuls. In this unobserved manner did this generous person bestow his kindness, that the meek and humble stranger might not have the weight of an obligation which she would feel herself unable to return, and might fear to owe. Rebuke her not—His former order was, that his servants should not reproach her for her necessity; this was, that they should not blame her for benefiting herself by their master's liberality.

V. 17. An ephah—Which is thought to contain about a bushel.

Before Christ cir. 1312.

17 So she gleaned in the field until even, and beat out that she had gleaned: and it was about an ephah of barley.

18 ¶ And she took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law saw what she had gleaned: and she brought forth, and gave to her that she had reserved, after she was sufficed.

19 And her mother in law said unto her, Where hast thou gleaned to day? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he that did take knowledge of thee. And she shewed her mother in law with whom she had wrought, and said, The man's name with whom I wrought to day, is Boaz.

20 And Naomi said unto her daughter in law, [d] Blessed be he of the Lord, who hath not left off his kindness to the living and to the dead. And Naomi said unto her, The man is near of kin unto us, [e] ‡ one of our next kinsmen.

21 And Ruth the Moabitess said, He said unto me also, Thou shalt keep fast by my young men, until they have ended all my harvest.

22 And Naomi said unto Ruth her daughter in law, It is good, my daughter, that thou go out with his maidens, that they ‖ meet thee not in any other field.

23 So she kept fast by the maidens of Boaz to glean, unto the end of barley-harvest, and of wheat-harvest; and dwelt with her mother in law.

d Chap. 2. 10. p 1 Sam. 2. 5.

e Chap. 4. 6. ‡ Or, one that hath right to redeem: See Lev. 25. 25.

‡ Or, fall upon thee.

CHAP. III.

THEN Naomi her mother in law said unto her, My daughter, shall I not seek rest for thee, that it may be well with thee?

2 And now is not Boaz of our kindred, with whose maidens thou wast? Behold, he winnoweth barley to night in the threshing-floor.

Before Christ cir. 1312.

3 Wash thyself therefore, [a] and anoint thee, and put thy raiment upon thee, and get thee down to the floor: but make not thyself known unto the man, until he shall have done eating and drinking.

a 2 Sam. 14. 2.

4 And it shall be when he lieth down, that thou shalt mark the place where he shall lie, and thou shalt go in, and ‖ uncover his feet, and lay thee down; and he will tell thee what thou shalt do.

‖ Or, lift up the clothes that are on his feet.

5 And she said unto her, All that thou sayest unto me, I will do.

6 ¶ And she went down unto the floor, and did according to all that her mother in law bade her.

7 And when Boaz had eaten and drunk, and his heart was merry, he went to lie down at the end of the heap of corn: and she came softly, and uncovered his feet, and laid her down.

8 ¶ And it came to pass at midnight, that the man was afraid, and § turned himself: and behold, a woman lay at his feet.

§ Or, took hold on.

9 And he said, Who art thou? And she answered, I am Ruth thine handmaid: [o] spread therefore thy skirt over thine handmaid, for thou art ‡ a near kinsman.

o Ezek. 16. 8.

‡ Or, one that hath right to redeem.

10 And he said, [c] Blessed be thou of the Lord, my daughter: for thou hast shewed more kindness in the latter end, than at the beginning, inasmuch as thou followedst not young men, whether poor or rich.

c Chap. 2. 20.

11 And now, my daughter, fear not, I will do to thee all that thou requirest: for all the § city of my people doth know, that thou art a virtuous woman.

§ Heb. gate.

12 And

V. 18. Sufficed—She did eat as much as she desired of what she had gleaned, and her mother with her, and the residue she gave to her mother, to lay up for future use.

V. 20. Dead—i. e. Which he formerly shewed to those who are now dead, my husband and his sons whilst they were living, and now continues to us, their wives. Next kinsmen—To whom it belongs to redeem our lands, and to marry thee, the widow and relict of his next kinsman.

V. 21. My harvest—Both barley-harvest and wheat harvest.

V. 22. Any other field—Whereby thou wiltst both expose thyself to many inconveniences, which thou mayest expect from strangers; and incur his displeasure, as if thou didst either despise his kindness, or doubt of the sincerity of his affections and offers.

V. 23. Dwelt—Continued at home.

CHAP. III.

V. 1. Shall I not seek rest for thee—A life of rest, comfort, and safety, under the care of a husband. The question supposeth an affirmative answer: I will seek it, as my duty binds me.

V. 2. Threshing-floor—Which was in a place covered at the top, but open at the sides.

V. 3. Raiment—Thy best raiment.

V. 4. Lieth down—To sleep. Thou shalt go in—This manner of proceeding seems to have arisen from a distrust of God's Providence, to bring about what she desired.

V. 5. I will do—The confidence she had in Naomi's wisdom and piety, and true love to her, made her ready to follow her advice, wherein she was the more excusable, because she did not understand the laws and customs of the country, as Naomi did.

V. 9. Thou art a near kinsman—Or, one that hath right to redeem.

V. 10. More kindness—Both to thy deceased husband, the continuance of whose name and memory thou preferrest, and to thy mother-in-law; whose commands thou hast punctually obeyed, even with thy own hazard, in so doubtful an enterprize. Young men—To seek thy marriage either here, or in thy own country, as thou wouldst have done if thou hadst not preferred obedience to God's command, before the pleasing of thyself.

V. 11. Fear not—Think not that I despise and reject thee.

V. 13. The

Before Christ cir. 1312.

12 And now it is true, that I am thy near kinſman: howbeit there is a kinſman nearer than I.

13 Tarry this night, and it ſhall be in the morning, that if he will perform unto thee the part of a kinſman, well, let him do the kinſman's part; but if he will not do the part of a kinſman to thee, then will I do the part of a kinſman to thee, as the Lord liveth: lie down until the morning.

14 ¶ And ſhe lay at his feet until the morning: and ſhe roſe up before one could know another. And he ſaid, Let it not be known that a woman came into the floor.

‖ Or. ſheet, or, apron.

15 Alſo he ſaid, Bring the ‖ vail that thou haſt upon thee, and hold it. And when ſhe held it, he meaſured ſix meaſures of barley, and laid it on her: and ſhe went into the city.

16 And when ſhe came to her mother in law, ſhe ſaid, Who art thou, my daughter? And ſhe told her all that the man had done to her.

17 And ſhe ſaid, Theſe ſix meaſures of barley gave he me; for he ſaid to me, Go not empty unto thy mother in law.

18 Then ſaid ſhe, Sit ſtill, my daughter, until thou know how the matter will fall: for the man will not be in reſt, until he have finiſhed the thing this day.

CHAP. IV.

THEN went Boaz up to the gate, and ſat him down there: and behold, the kinſman of whom Boaz ſpake, came by; unto whom he ſaid, Ho, ſuch a one, turn aſide, ſit down here. And he turned aſide, and ſat down.

2 And he took ten men of the elders of the city, and ſaid, Sit ye down here. And they ſat down.

3 And he ſaid unto the kinſman, Naomi that is come again out of the country of Moab, ſelleth a parcel of land, which was our brother Elimelech's.

Before Christ cir. 1312.

4 And † I thought to advertiſe thee, ſaying, Buy it before the inhabitants, and before the elders of my people. If thou wilt redeem it, redeem it; but if thou wilt not redeem it, then tell me, that I may know: for there is none to redeem it beſides thee, and I am after thee. And he ſaid, I will redeem it.

† Heb. I ſaid I will reveal in thine ear.

5 Then ſaid Boaz, What day thou buyeſt the field of the hand of Naomi, thou muſt buy it alſo of Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of the dead, [a] to raiſe up the name of the dead upon his inheritance.

a Deut. 25. 5.

6 ¶ [b] And the kinſman ſaid, I cannot redeem it for myſelf, leſt I mar mine own inheritance: redeem thou my right to thyſelf, for I cannot redeem it.

b Chap. 2. 20.

7 [c] Now this was the manner in former time in Iſrael, concerning redeeming, and concerning changing, for to confirm all things: a man plucked off his ſhoe, and gave it to his neighbour: and this was a teſtimony in Iſrael.

c Deut. 25. 7, 9.

8 Therefore the kinſman ſaid unto Boaz, Buy it for thee: ſo he drew off his ſhoe.

9 ¶ And Boaz ſaid unto the elders, and unto all the people, Ye are witneſſes this day, that I have bought all that was Elimelech's, and all that was Chilion's, and Mahlon's, of the hand of Naomi.

10 Moreover, Ruth the Moabiteſs, the wife of Mahlon, have I purchaſed to be my wife, to raiſe up the name of the dead upon his inheritance, that the name of the dead be not cut off from among his brethren, and from the gate of his place: ye are witneſſes this day.

11 And all the people that were in the gate, and the elders ſaid, We are witneſſes: The Lord make the woman that is come into thine

V. 13. The part of a kinſman—Take thee to wife, as he ought to do.

V. 14. Let it not be known—He takes care to preſerve not only his conſcience towards God, but his reputation, and her's alſo, among men.

CHAP. IV.

V. 1. Gate—The place where controverſies were decided. Such a one—His name is omitted as a juſt puniſhment upon him, that he who would not preſerve his brother's name, might loſe his own. Sit down here—I have ſome buſineſs of importance with you.

V. 2. Ten men—To be umpires or witneſſes between them: for though two or three witneſſes were ſufficient, yet in weightier matters they uſed more. And ten was the uſual number among the Jews, in cauſes of matrimony and divorce, and tranſlation of inheritances; who were both judges of the cauſes, and witneſſes of the fact.

V. 4. Buy it before the elders—Before this aſſembly, that it may be legally made over to thee.

V. 5. Thou muſt buy it—According to the law. To raiſe up—To revive his name.

V. 6. Redeem thou my right—Which I freely renounce and reſign to thee.

V. 7. To confirm all things—In all alienation of lands. His ſhoe—He who relinquiſhed his right to another, plucked off his own ſhoe, and gave it to him. A teſtimony—This was admitted for ſufficient evidence.

V. 10. His place—From among the inhabitants dwelling within the gate of this city, which was Bethlehem-Judah.

V. 11. Like Rachel, and like Leah—Amiable and fruitful. Theſe two are ſingled out; partly becauſe they were of a foreign original, and yet ingrafted into God's people, as Ruth alſo was. Build the houſe—Increaſe the poſterity.

Before Christ cir. 1312.

thine houſe, like Rachel and like Leah, which two did build the houſe of Iſrael: and † do thou worthily in [d] Ephratah, and ‡ be famous in Beth-lehem.

† Or, get thee riches, or, power. Gen. 35. 16, 19.

‡ Heb. proclaim thy name. e Gen. 38. 29. 1 Chron. 2. 4. Matth. 1. 3.

12 And let thy houſe be like the houſe of Pharez, (e whom Tamar bare unto Judah) of the ſeed which the Lord ſhall give thee of this young woman.

13 ¶ So Boaz took Ruth, and ſhe was his wife: and when he went in unto her, the Lord gave her conception, and ſhe bare a ſon.

14 And the woman ſaid unto Naomi, Bleſſed be the Lord which hath not § left thee this day without a ‖ kinſman, that his name may be famous in Iſrael.

§ Heb. ceaſed to ceaſe unto thee.

‖ Or, redeemer.

15 And he ſhall be unto thee a reſtorer of thy life, and * a nouriſher of † thine old age: for thy daughter in law which loveth thee, which is [i] better to thee than ſeven ſons, hath born him.

* Heb. to nouriſh. † Heb. thy grey hairs.

Before Chriſt cir. 1312.

16 And Naomi took the child, and laid it in her boſom, and became nurſe unto it.

i 1 Sam. 1. 8.

17 And the women her neighbours gave it a name, ſaying, There is a ſon born to Naomi, and they called his name Obed: he is the father of Jeſſe, the father of David.

18 ¶ Now theſe are the generations of Pharez: [g] Pharez begat Hezron, g 1 Chro. 2. 4, &c. Matth. 1. 3.

19 And Hezron begat Ram, and Ram begat Amminadab, 20 And Amminadab begat [h] Nahſhon, and Nahſhon begat [i] ‡ Salmon, h Num. 1. 7.

i Matth. 1. 5.

‡ Or, Salmah.

21 And Salmon begat Boaz, and Boaz begat Obed,

22 And Obed begat Jeſſe, and Jeſſe begat David.

V. 12 Pharez—As honourable and numerous as his family was.

V. 13. Boaz took Ruth—Which he might do, becauſe Ruth was a ſincere proſelyte.

V. 14. That his name may be famous in Iſrael—For this noble and worthy action.

V. 15. A reſtorer—Of the comfort of thy life.

V. 17. Her neighbours gave it a name—They gave her advice about the name. Obed—A ſervant to thee, to nouriſh, and comfort, and aſſiſt thee, which duty children owe to their progenitors.

V. 18—21. It is not certain that each of theſe was the immediate parent of him whom he is ſaid to beget: for ſometimes grand-fathers are ſaid, in Scripture, to beget their grand-children, by the intervention of their immediate ſons.

I. S A M U E L.

THIS Book cotains thirty-one chapters.

CHAP. I. Elkanah, and his two wives. Hannah's prayer. Samuel is born, and preſented to the Lord.—CHAP. II. Hannah's ſong. The ſin of Eli's ſons. Samuel's miniſtry. A prophecy againſt Eli's houſe.—CHAP. III. How the word of the Lord was firſt revealed to Samuel. God telleth Samuel the deſtruction of Eli's houſe.—CHAP. IV. The Iſraelites are overcome by the Philiſtines. The ark is taken, and Eli's ſons ſlain. Eli hearing the news, breaketh his neck.—CHAP. V. The Philiſtines bring the ark into the houſe of Dagon. Dagon falleth down. They are ſmitten with emerods.—CHAP. VI. The Philiſtines counſel how to ſend back the ark: They bring it on a new cart to Beth-ſhemeſh.—CHAP. VII. The Iſraelites, by Samuel's means, ſolemnly repent at Mezpeh. Samuel praying, the Philiſtines are diſcomfited.—CHAP. VIII. By the occaſion of the ill government of Samuel's ſons, the Iſraelites aſk a king. The manner of a king.—CHAP. IX. Saul deſpairing to find his father's aſſes, by the counſel of his ſervant, and direction of young maidens, according to God's revelation, cometh to Samuel. Samuel entertaineth Saul at the feaſt.—CHAP. X. Samuel anointeth Saul, and confirmeth him by prediction of three ſigns. Saul's heart is changed, and he propheſieth.—CHAP. XI. Nahaſh offereth them of Jabeſh-gilead a reproachful condition. They ſend to Saul, and are delivered.—CHAP. XII. Samuel teſtifieth his integrity, reproveth the people of ingratitude: He terrifieth them with thunder in harveſt-time, and comforteth them in God's mercy.—CHAP. XIII. Saul's ſelected band. The Philiſtines great hoſt. The Iſraelites diſtreſs. Saul weary of ſtaying for Samuel, ſacrificeth: Samuel reproveth him.—CHAP. XIV. Jonathan miraculouſly ſmiteth the Philiſtines garriſon: a divine terror maketh them beat themſelves. Saul's unadviſed adjuration hindereth the victory.—CHAP. XV. Samuel ſendeth Saul to deſtroy Amalek: He ſpareth Agag and the beſt of the ſpoil. Samuel killeth Agag.—CHAP. XVI. Samuel ſent by God under pretence of a ſacrifice, cometh to Beth-lehem: His humane judgment is reproved.—CHAP. XVII. The armies of the Iſraelites and Philiſtines being ready to battle, Goliath cometh proudly forth to challenge a combat. David ſent by his father to viſit his brethren, accepteth the challenge.—CHAP. XVIII. Jonathan loveth David: Saul envying his praiſe, ſeeketh to kill him in his fury: fearing him for his good ſucceſs, he offereth him his daughter for a ſnare.—CHAP. XIX. Jonathan diſcloſeth his father's purpoſe to kill David: He perſuadeth his father to reconciliation. By reaſon of David's good ſucceſs in a new war, Saul's malicious rage breaketh out againſt him.—CHAP. XX. David conſulteth with Jonathan for his ſafety: Their covenant renewed by oath. Saul miſſing David, ſeeketh to kill Jonathan.—CHAP. XXI. David at Nob Nob obtaineth of Ahimelech hallowed bread: He taketh Goliath's ſword: And at Gath feigneth himſelf mad—CHAP. XXII. Companies reſort to David at Adullam. Doeg accuſeth Ahimelech. Saul commandeth to kill the prieſts.—CHAP. XXIII. David inquiring of the Lord, reſcueth Keilah: God ſhewing him Saul's coming, and the treachery of the Keilites, he eſcapeth from Keilah.—CHAP. XXIV. David in a cave at En-gedi, having cut off Saul's ſkirt, ſpareth his life: He ſheweth thereby his innocency. —CHAP. XXV. Samuel dieth. David provoked by Nabal's churliſhneſs, mindeth to deſtroy him. Abigail by her wiſdom pacifieth David: Nabal hearing thereof, dieth.—CHAP. XXVI. Saul cometh to Hachilah againſt David. David in the trench ſtayeth Abiſhai from killing Saul, but taketh his ſpear and cruſe.—CHAP. XXVII. Saul hearing David to be in Gath, ſeeketh no more for him. David beggeth Ziklag of Achiſh.—CHAP. XXVIII. Saul having deſtroyed the witches, afterwards ſeeketh to one, who being encouraged by him, raiſeth up Samuel. Saul's ruin foreſhewn.—CHAP. XXIX. David marching with the Philiſtines, is diſallowed by their princes: Achiſh diſmiſſeth him, with commendations of his fidelity.—CHAP. XXX. The Amalekites ſpoil Ziklag: David encouraged by God, purſueth them, and overtaking them, recovereth all the ſpoil.—CHAP. XXXI. Saul having loſt his army, and his ſons ſlain, he and his armour-bearer kill themſelves. The Philiſtines triumph over the dead carcaſes.

CHAP. I.

Before Chriſt cir. 1171.

NOW there was a certain man of Ramathaim-zophim, of mount Ephraim, and his name was [a] Elkanah, the ſon of Jeroham, the ſon of Elihu, the ſon of Tohu, the ſon of Zuph, [b] an Ephrathite:

a 1 Chron. 6. 27, 34.

b Ruth 1. 2.

2 And he had two wives, the name of the one was Hannah, and the name of the other Peninnah: and Peninnah had children, but Hannah had no children.

3 And this man went up out of his city [c] * yearly, to worſhip and to ſacrifice unto the Lord of hoſts in Shiloh; and the two ſons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, the prieſts of the Lord, were there.

c Exod. 23. 14. Deut. 16. 16.
* Heb. from year to year.

4 ¶ And when the time was that Elkanah offered, he gave to Peninnah his wife, and to all her ſons and her daughters, portions.

5 But unto Hannah he gave † a worthy portion: for he loved Hannah, [d] but the Lord had ſhut up her womb;

† Or, a double portion.
d Gen. 30. 2.

6 And her adverſary alſo ‡ [e] provoked her ſore, for to make her fret, becauſe the Lord had ſhut up her womb.

‡ Heb. angered her.
e Job 24. 21.

7 And as he did ſo year by year, § ‖ when ſhe went up to the houſe of the Lord, ſo ſhe provoked her; therefore ſhe wept, and did not eat.

§ Or, from the time that ſhe, &c.
‖ Heb from her going up.

Before Chriſt cir. 1171.

8 Then ſaid Elkanah her huſband to her, Hannah, why weepeſt thou? and why eateſt thou not? and why is thy heart grieved; am not I [f] better to thee than ten ſons?

f Ruth 4. 15.

9 So Hannah roſe up after they had eaten in Shiloh, and after they had drunk: (now Eli the prieſt ſat upon a ſeat by a poſt of the temple of the Lord)

10 And ſhe was * in bitterneſs of ſoul, and prayed unto the Lord, and wept ſore.

* Heb. bitter of ſoul.

11 And ſhe vowed a vow, and ſaid, O Lord of hoſts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thine handmaid, and remember me, and not forget thine handmaid, but wilt give unto thine handmaid † a man-child, then I will give him unto the Lord all the days of his life, and [g] there ſhall no razor come upon his head.

† Heb. ſeed of men.
g Num. 6. 5. Judg. 13. 5.

12 And it came to paſs as ſhe ‡ continued praying before the Lord, that Eli marked her mouth.

‡ Heb. multiplied to pray.

13 Now Hannah, ſhe ſpake in her heart, only her lips moved, but her voice was not heard:

CHAP. I.

V. 1. An Ephrathite—One of Bethlehem-Judah by his birth and habitation, though by his original a Levite. Thus divers Jews by nation are called Medes, Elamites, Cretians, &c. becauſe they were born and bred there.

V. 3. Yearly—At one of the ſolemn feaſts. In Shiloh—Where the tabernacle had long been, and now was. Were there—Were the prieſts of the Lord there. And this clauſe ſeems to be added, to ſhew, that this good man did not run into that error, of neglecting his duty of offering to God on account of the wickedneſs of the prieſts, who, with all men, muſt for themſelves undergo the righteous judgment of God.

V. 4. Portions—Out of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings.

V. 5. A worthy portion—An honourable or ſelect part. He loved Hannah—With a ſingular and eminent love.

V. 6. Her adverſary—Her troubler. Fret—Againſt her huſband, or againſt God, or within herſelf.

V. 7. As he did ſo—As often as he went, and carried them with him to worſhip. She wept, and did not eat—Being overwhelmed with grief.

V. 8. Am not I better to thee than ten ſons—Oughteſt thou not to value my love to thee, more than many ſons? Peninnah would willingly change conditions with thee.

V. 9. A ſeat—Here he might ſit as judge, or rather as high-prieſt, to hear and anſwer ſuch as came to him for advice, and to inſpect and direct the worſhip of God. Temple—Of the tabernacle, which is called the temple here.

V. 10. Bitterneſs—Oppreſſed with grief.

V. 11. Look on—Favourably. The affliction—The reproach. I will give him—Conſecrate him to God's ſervice. No razor come upon his head—He ſhall be a perpetual Nazarite: for under this one rule, as the chief, all the reſt are contained.

V. 12. Continued praying—By which it appears, that ſhe ſaid much more than is here expreſſed. And the like may be underſtood of the prayers and ſermons of other holy perſons recorded in Scripture, which gives us only the ſubſtance of them. Which conſideration may help us much in the underſtanding of ſome paſſages of the Bible. Mouth—The motion of her lips.

V. 13. Not heard—Becauſe ſhe would not diſturb others, or have any but God acquainted with the matter of her prayer. Known unto him are the hearts of all, and the requeſts of all may be made to him; and thoſe things which cannot be named to Before Christ cir. 1171. heard: therefore Eli thought she had been drunken.

14 And Eli said unto her, How long wilt thou be drunken? put away thy wine from thee.

15 And Hannah answered and said, No, my lord, I am a woman § of a sorrowful spirit: I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but have [h] poured out my soul before the Lord.

§ Heb. hard of spirit.

h Psal. 62. 8. and 142. 2.

16 Count not thine handmaid for a daughter of Belial: for out of the abundance of my ‖ complaint and grief have I spoken hitherto.

‖ Or, meditation.

17 Then Eli answered and said, Go in peace: and the God of Israel grant thee thy petition that thou hast asked of him.

18 And she said, Let thine handmaid find grace in thy sight. So the woman went her way, and did eat, and her countenance was no more sad.

19 ¶ And they rose up in the morning early, and worshipped before the Lord, and returned, and came to their house to Ramah; and Elkanah knew Hannah his wife, and the Lord remembered her.

* Heb. in revolution of days.

20 Wherefore it came to pass, * when the time was come about, after Hannah had conceived, that she bare a son, and called his name † Samuel, saying, Because I have asked him of the Lord.

Before Christ cir. 1171.

† That is, asked of God.

21 And the man Elkanah, and all his house, went up to offer unto the Lord the yearly sacrifice, and his vow.

22 But Hannah went not up; for she said unto her husband, I will not go up until the child be weaned, and then I will bring him, that he may appear before the Lord, and there abide for ever.

23 [i] And Elkanah her husband said unto her, Do what seemeth thee good, tarry until thou have weaned him, only the Lord establish his word: so the woman abode, and gave her son suck until she weaned him.

i Num. 30. 7.

cir. 1165.

24 ¶ And when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, with three bullocks, and one ephah of flour, and a bottle of wine, and brought him unto the house of the Lord in Shiloh: and the child was young.

25 And they slew a bullock, and brought the child to Eli.

26 And she said, O my lord, [k] as thy soul liveth, my lord, I am the woman that stood by thee here, praying unto the Lord.

k Gen. 42. 15. 2 Kings 2. 2, 4, 6.

27 For this child I prayed; and the Lord hath given me my petition which I asked of him:

28 Therefore

others, may be confessed unto the infinitely compassionate friend and Saviour of mankind, who is ever waiting to be gracious to all that call upon, and especially to those that are burthened and heavy laden with their share of human sorrow. Eli thought—The high-priest judging, without giving the suspected person leave to answer for herself, formed an unjust judgment. When it is considered that satan is represented to us in the Scriptures, as going about to deceive and to destroy the peace of men, and is, in a particular manner, the false accuser of every person professing godliness, with what caution ought we to guard against every thought to the prejudice of any person; for even so to judge another is to condemn ourselves, the sentence of which we must unavoidably feel in our own loss of peace, because that holy spirit of love and peace, which is the only comforter, is grieved at our want of that charity which is commanded us of God.

V. 14. Put away thy wine—Come not before the Lord in thy drunkenness, but go and repent of this thy sin. If we form our judgments without first hearing the suspected or the accused, it is but just that we should be left to ourselves to make known to others our want of wisdom in judging, and of our inclination to do it with severity, that our rash sentences may become known, as being entitled to little regard, and that our fellow-creatures may be informed of our want of justice and charity, that they may, as much as they can, avoid those unknown injuries which are done to the rights and to the peace of men, by groundless, mistaken, and unjust judgments.

V. 15. My lord—The respect with which she answers the high priest, is an example for all to follow, who receive any such treatment at the hands of another. I am a woman—In whom drunkenness is most abominable. Poured out—Have been breathing forth the griefs and desires of my soul.

V. 16. Belial—For such is a wicked woman. Have I spoken—The oppression of my spirits hath forced me to speak.

V. 17. Go in peace—I recal my censure, and give thee my blessing, and wish thee peace—a quiet and composed mind, free from whatsoever it is that grieves and oppresses thee; and withal, good success and prosperity in what thou desirest.

V. 18. Find grace—Favourable opinion and good-will. No more sad—Her heart being cheered by the high-priest's words, and especially by God's spirit applying them, and assuring her that both his and her prayers should be heard, her sorrow vanished away.

V. 19. Early—For their journey, and for prayer, for which this was the usual time. Remembered—Manifested his remembrance of her.

V. 20. Samuel—That is, asked of God.

V. 21. His house—His family, which is often called a man's house in Scripture. The yearly sacrifice—That solemn sacrifice which was offered up once every year. Vow—By which it appears, that he heard and consented to her vow, which was necessary to make it obligatory.

V. 22. Weaned—Till the child be something grown up, and fit to do some service in the tabernacle. There abide—That when once he is presented to the Lord, he may continue in his service as long as he liveth.

V. 23. His word—The word of God made known to them.

V. 24. Three bullocks—Either, first, one to be offered at that time; the other two presented to the priest, whether for his own use, or one for a burnt-offering, the second for a sin-offering, the third for a peace-offering. Flour—For the meat-offerings belonging to the principal sacrifices. Wine—For drink-offerings.

V. 26. O my lord—A form of speech to engage favourable attention. As thy soul liveth—The usual form of an oath.

V. 28. Lent

Before Christ cir. 1165.

28 Therefore also I have ‡ lent him to the Lord as long as he liveth, § he shall be lent to the Lord. And he worshipped the Lord there.

‡ Or, returned him, whom I have obtained by petition to the LORD.
§ Or, he whom I have obtained by petition, shall be returned.

C H A P. II.

AND Hannah prayed, and said, [a] My heart rejoiceth in the Lord, mine horn is exalted in the Lord: my mouth is enlarged over mine enemies: because I rejoice in thy salvation.

a See Luke 1. 46, &c.

2 [b] There is none holy as the Lord: for there is none besides thee: neither is there any rock like our God.

b Deut. 3. 24 and 32. 4. Psal. 86. 8. and 89. 6, 8.

3 Talk no more so exceeding proudly, [c] let not * arrogancy come out of your mouth: for the Lord is a God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed.

c Mal. 3. 13. Jude 15.

Before Christ cir. 1165.

* Heb. hards.

4 The bows of the mighty men are broken, and they that stumbled, are girt with strength.

5 [d] They that were full, have hired out themselves for bread; and they that were hungry, ceased: so that the barren hath born seven: and [e] she that hath many children, is waxed feeble.

d Psal. 34. 10. Luke 1. 53.

e Isai. 54. 1. Jer. 15. 9.

6 [f] The Lord killeth, and maketh alive: he bringeth down to the grave, and bringeth up.

f Deut. 32. 39. Job 5. 18. Hos. 6. 2.

7 The

V. 28. Lent—Given him as long as he liveth; for this was the condition of my prayer, that he should be the Lord's. He worshipped—Not Eli, but young Samuel; signifying, that hereby he entered himself into the worship and service of God in that place, to which he was devoted by his parents, and now did devote himself. Happy are they that devote themselves to God in the beginning of their days, and live and die in his service: and this every one may do in every rank and station of life; and whatever they design or do, may do all to the glory of God; and which is his right, we not being our own, but God's, and are bound by every tie, every obligation, to live to him that made, and died to redeem us And so far as we live unmindful of, or contrary to, the will of God, we defraud him of all his right as a parent, king, redeemer, and the giver of every natural and spiritual gift; and whose boundless goodness is ever pouring out new blessings upon all that are using those already given in living lives of devotion to his holy will.

C H A P. II.

V. 1. Prayed—Praised God, which is a part of prayer, (Col. iv. 2.) Rejoiceth—Or, leapeth for joy: for the words note not only inward joy, but also the outward demonstrations of it. In the Lord—As the author of my joy, that he hath heard my prayer, and accepted my son for his service. Mine horn is exalted—My strength and glory (which are often signified by an horn) are advanced and manifested. Enlarged—(i. e.) Opened to pour forth praises to God. Enemies—She does not name Peninnah, but only her enemies in general. When it is necessary to speak of any evil that has been said or done, there may be no occasion to mention him who spake the words, or did the action; and which never can be done without guilt, when we are under no lawful necessity to mention the name of any person to their prejudice, because the commands of God extend to the forbidding whatever might be the most distant occasion of evil to every one; and the wrong done by one person is no warrant to another to return evil for evil. We bring upon ourselves many sufferings and many sorrows by the want of that caution which this pious woman here makes use of, in not naming the person by whom she had been unkindly treated. We err in not considering the will of God as it is discovered to us in the Scriptures, and not thinking that it is a part of his government that every one shall reap the fruit of their own conduct to others; and that as surely as the merciful shall obtain mercy, the severe and censorious shall have, by ways they cannot prevent, the return of their treatment of others; and when we do so, to acknowledge our guilt so far as we are convinced, and to submit with a patient resignation to the will of God, under such chastenings for our own misconduct, is no less our duty than it is for our own peace, and the means of our having that grace by which we may be enabled to avoid being for the future the cause of our own sufferings. I rejoice—Because the matter of my joy is no trivial or worldly thing, but that glorious salvation which thou hast given me; and they that have the salvation of God for the subject of their joy, may praise God, and rejoice against every opposition, or in the season of any sufferings.

V. 2. There is none holy as the Lord—None so perfectly, unchangeably, and constantly holy as God hath shewed himself to me, and as he does to all that call upon him: he has pleaded the cause of his afflicted servants that trusted in him, and also fulfilled his promise in giving me a son, whom he hath sanctified by his grace to his service; all which are the effects of God's holiness. Besides thee—Not only none is so holy as thou art, but in truth there is none holy (which word is easily understood out of the former clause) besides thee; intirely, or independently, but only by participation from thee. Or, as none have any holiness like thine, so none have any being besides thee, unless by receiving from thee. Neither is there any rock like our God—Thou only art a sure defence and refuge to all that flee to thee, and trust in thee, as I have found by my experience.

V. 3. Proudly—Boast no more of thy numerous offspring, and speak no more insolently and scornfully of me, as thou hast done. She speaks of Peninnah in the plural number, because she would not expose her name to censure, but only instruct and reprove her for her good. Arrogancy—hard speeches, harsh and severe. The Lord is a God of knowledge—He knoweth thy heart, and all that pride, and envy, and contempt of me, which thy own conscience knows. Weighed—He pondereth or trieth all men's thoughts and actions, (for the Hebrew word signifies both) as a just Judge, to give to every one according to their works; and therefore he hath pitied my oppressed innocency, and rebuked her arrogancy. Or, by him councels, or actions, or events, are disposed or ordered, and not by ourselves; and therefore he brings many things to pass contrary to men's expectations, as now he hath done; he maketh one barren, and another fruitful, when and how it pleaseth him; his actions are not, or, cannot be directed by any others; none can mend his work, he doth every thing best, and in the best season, as now he hath done; his ways are unsearchable: Who can blame his actions?

V. 4. The bows—Their virulent tongues, which are compared to bows that shoot their arrows, even bitter words.

V. 5. For bread—Through extreme necessity.

V. 6. The Lord killeth, and maketh alive—The same person whom he first killeth, or bringeth very nigh unto death, he afterwards raiseth to life. Me, who was almost overwhelmed and consumed with grief, he hath revived. The name of death is often given to great calamities; and the Lord killeth, taketh away the living by various deaths at his pleasure, and he alone maketh alive; and so dependant are all that live upon God for life, and not upon any wisdom or power separate from his, that the united efforts of all mankind could neither cause any creature to live at first, nor restore life to that which was dead.

V. 7. The

Before Christ cir. 1165.

7 The Lord maketh poor, and maketh rich: [g] he bringeth low, and lifteth up.

8 [h] He raiſeth up the poor out of the duſt, and lifteth up the beggar from the dunghil, [i] to ſet them among princes, and to make them inherit the throne of glory: for [k] the pillars of the earth are the Lord's, and he hath ſet the world upon them.

9 [l] He will keep the feet of his ſaints, and the wicked ſhall be ſilent in darkneſs; for by ſtrength ſhall no man prevail.

10 The adverſaries of the Lord ſhall be broken to pieces: [m] out of heaven ſhall he thunder upon them: the Lord ſhall judge the ends of the earth, and he ſhall give ſtrength unto his king, and [n] exalt the horn of his anointed.

11 And Elkanah went to Ramah to his houſe; [o] and the child did miniſter unto the Lord before Eli the prieſt.

12 ¶ Now the ſons of Eli were ſons of Belial, [p] they knew not the Lord.

13 And the prieſt's cuſtom with the people was, that when any man offered ſacrifice, the prieſt's ſervant came, while the fleſh was in ſeething, with a fleſh-hook of three teeth in his hand:

Before Christ cir. 1165.

14 And he ſtruck it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or pot; all that the fleſh-hook brought up, the prieſt took for himſelf: ſo they did in Shiloh, unto all the Iſraelites that came thither.

15 Alſo before they burnt the fat, the prieſt's ſervant came, and ſaid to the man that ſacrificed, Give fleſh to roaſt for the prieſt; for he will not have ſodden fleſh of thee, but raw.

16 And if any man ſaid unto him, Let them not fail to burn the fat † preſently, and then take as much as thy ſoul deſireth: then he would anſwer him, Nay, but thou ſhalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force.

† Heb. as on the day.

17 Wherefore the ſin of the young men was very great before the Lord: for men abhorred the offering of the Lord.

18 ¶ But Samuel miniſtered before the Lord,

g Pſal. 75. 7.
h Pſal. 113. 7, 8.
Dan. 4. 17.
Luke 1. 52.
i Job 36. 7.
k Pſal. 24. 2. and 104. 5.
Heb. 1. 3.
l Pſal. 91. 11.
m Chap. 7. 10. Pſal. 18. 13.
n Pſal. 89. 24.
o Chap. 3. 1.
p Jer. 22. 16.

V. 7. The Lord maketh poor—Depriveth them of riches and property who poſſeſſed them, in ſpite of all human endeavours to prevent it. And maketh rich—Them that are poor. He bringeth low—Thoſe that were placed in high ſtations; and lifteth up the loweſt to the ſhort-lived honours this world can afford.

V. 8. Duſt—Out of their low and miſerable condition. Dunghil—From the moſt ſordid place, and mean eſtate. Inherit—Not only poſſeſs themſelves, but tranſmit to their poſterity. The pillars—The foundations of the earth, which God created and upholds, and therefore it is not ſtrange if he diſpoſeth of perſons and things therein as he pleaſeth. Or, the Princes or Governors of the earth, which are called Pillars, becauſe they uphold the world, and keep it from ſinking into confuſion: And theſe are here ſaid to be the Lord's, becauſe he advanceth them to their ſtate, and preſerves them in it; and puts the world, or the kingdoms of the world, upon them, as burdens upon their ſhoulders.

V. 9. The feet—i. e. The ſteps, paths, counſels and actions, he will keep, uphold that they may not fall, and direct and preſerve from wandering, and from thoſe fatal miſtakes that wicked men run into. Silent—Shall be put to ſilence: they who uſed to open their mouths againſt Heaven, and againſt the ſaints, ſhall be confounded with the unexpected diſappointment of all their hopes. Darkneſs—Both inward, in their own minds, which are wholly in the dark, perplexed by their own choice and counſels, not knowing what to ſay or do; and outward, in a ſtate of diſtreſs and miſery. Prevail—Againſt God, or againſt his ſaints, as the wicked were confident they ſhould do, becauſe of their great power, wealth, and numbers: whereas God's people were mean, impotent, and helpleſs. And particularly, Peninnah ſhall not prevail againſt me by that ſtrength which ſhe hath, or thinks to have from her numerous offſpring. But it is to be obſerved, that although Hannah takes the riſe of this ſong from her own condition, yet ſhe extends her thoughts and words further, even to the uſual methods of God's providence in the government of the world.

V. 10. Adverſaries of the Lord—And of his people; eſpecially the Philiſtines, who at this time were the chief oppreſſors of Iſrael. Pieces—They who are now our lords, ſhall be ſubdued. The Lord ſhall judge—Shall condemn and puniſh. The earth—Or, of the Philiſtines, and all mankind. His king—The judge or ruler whom he ſhall ſet up for the protection and deliverance of his people. Exalt the horn—Increaſe, or advance the ſtrength. Of his anointed—Of his king. The ſame thing repeated in other words; although it may have reſpect to Chriſt, the ſingular anointed one of God, and the ſpecial king of his people, whom all their other kings did typify and repreſent, and from whom they received authority and power, and of whom all the prophets wrote.

V. 11. Did miniſter—In ſome way agreeable to his years. Before Eli—Under the direction and inſtruction of Eli.

V. 12. They knew not the Lord—Practically. They did not acknowledge, honour, regard, love, or ſerve God. And not knowing him and worſhipping him in ſpirit and in truth, they lived according to the courſe of this world, under the influence of the prince of darkneſs, and agreeable to the dictates of corrupt human nature.

V. 13. Offered ſacrifice—Preſented it to the Lord, to be offered by the prieſt. Seething—For as the Lord's part of the peace-offerings were burnt upon the altar, ſo the prieſts and offerers parts were to be ſodden.

V. 14. The prieſt took for himſelf—Not being ſatisfied with what God had appointed for them.

V. 16. Take—We are content to relinquiſh our parts to thee, only let not God be wronged of his due.

V. 17. The ſin was great—Becauſe they violently took away both man's and God's dues, and that with manifeſt contempt of God and men; and all this merely for the gratifying of their ſenſual appetite. Before the Lord—In the place of God's ſpecial preſence. They neglected and abhorred the practice of carrying up ſacrifices to be offered, which they knew would be ſo groſly abuſed; and which, as they might think, would be rejected and abhorred by God himſelf; and therefore they would not contribute to the prieſt's ſin, and the corruption of God's worſhip; but judged it better to neglect their duty, than to expoſe their offering to the prieſts, wherein yet they erred, as we ſee, verſe 24. This is counted a tranſgreſſion in the people.

V. 18. But

Before Christ cir. 1165. Lord, being a child, [r] girded with a linen ephod.

[r] Exod. 28. 4.

19 Moreover, his mother made him a little coat, and brought it to him from year to year, when she came up with her husband, to offer the yearly sacrifice.

20 ¶ And Eli blessed Elkanah, and his wife, and said, The Lord give thee seed of this woman, for the [‡] loan which is lent to the Lord. And they went unto their own home.

[‡] Or, petition which she asked, &c.

21 And the Lord visited Hannah, so that she conceived and bare three sons, and two daughters: and the child Samuel grew before the Lord.

22 ¶ Now Eli was very old, and heard all that his sons did unto all Israel, and how they lay with [r] the women that [§] assembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

[r] See Exod. 38. 8.

[§] Heb. assembled by troops.

23 And he said unto them, Why do ye such things; for [*] I hear of your evil dealings, by all this people.

Before Christ cir. 1165.

24 Nay, my sons: for it is no good report that I hear; ye make the Lord's people [†] to transgress.

[*] Or, I hear evil words of you.

[†] Or, to cry out.

25 If one man sin against another, the judge shall judge him: but if a man sin against the Lord, who shall intreat for him? Notwithstanding they hearkened not unto the voice of their father, [s] because the Lord would slay them.

[s] Josh. 11. 20.

26 (And the child Samuel grew on, and was [t] in favour both with the Lord, and also with men.)

[t] Prov. 3. 4. Luke 2. 52. Acts 2. 47. Rom. 14. 18.

27 ¶ And there came a man of God unto Eli, and said unto him, Thus saith the Lord, [u] Did I plainly appear unto the house of thy father, when they were in Egypt in Pharaoh's house?

[u] Exod. 4. 14, 27.

28 And

V. 18. But Samuel ministered—Performed his ministration carefully and faithfully, not corrupting nor abusing it. Before the Lord—In God's tabernacle; or, as in God's presence, sincerely, and with God's approbation. Ephod—A garment used in God's service, and allowed not only to the inferior priests and Levites, but also to eminent persons of the people: and therefore to Samuel, who, though no Levite, was a Nazarite, and that from his birth.

V. 19. His mother made, and brought—Him his apparel, and by which this pious person discovers, that she continues in the same spirit in which she was when she gave her son to the Lord.

V. 20. Eli blessed Elkanah, and his wife—As God's high-priest, he blessed them in God's name, and they received his blessing by faith, which made it effectual, verse 21. Seed—A child, or children; as she asked him not so much for herself (for she seldom sees him) as for the Lord, to whose service she hath wholly devoted him: So now, I pray, that God would give you other children for both your comfort.

V. 21. Visited—In mercy, and with his blessing. Samuel grew—In age, stature, wisdom, and goodness, and favour. Before the Lord—Not only before men, who might be deceived, but in the presence and judgment of the all-seeing God.

V. 22. All Israel—Whom they injured in their offerings, and alienated from the service of God by their sensuality and impiety.

V. 23. Such things—As those above-mentioned. Eli's sin was not only that he reproved them too gently, but that he contented himself with a verbal rebuke, and did not restrain them, and inflict those punishments upon them, of putting them out of their priests office, and cutting them off from God's people; which such high crimes deserved by God's law, and which he, as judge and high-priest, ought to have done, without all respect of persons. By all this people—That dwell here, or come hither to worship. But he does not bring the accused and their accusers face to face, that they may have leave to answer for themselves, and, after a fair hearing, pronounce sentence according to the evidence; acquitting them if unjustly accused, or condemning them if guilty. This all are required to do, from the father of a private family to the head of a church, or the power that is charged with the execution of justice over a whole nation. To pass over offences with slight, or with taking no notice, is to be guilty of betraying that trust which God himself hath committed to parents, ministers, and magistrates; as acting contrary to justice, condemning the accused unheard, or punishing where there are no crimes, or more than they deserve, is to act in defiance of the power of God, to whom all are accountable for the faithful discharge of the duties of those stations in which his providence has placed them.

V. 24. No good report—Had Eli been in a state of servitude to his sons, and fearing God himself, had reproved them as his superiors, he might perhaps have been blameless in speaking in these mild terms; but to express himself thus as a father, and as the head of the church, is no less than an acknowledgment that they had nothing to fear from him for their highly guilty conduct. The Lord's people—Pious and honest minds, who were so highly offended with the great dishonour done to God, and to his worship, and with the horrible wickedness of the priests, that upon that occasion they were hurried into the other extreme, and lived in the neglect and contempt of their own indispensable duty of offering sacrifices, because they came through the priest's hands.

V. 25. Sin—By doing any injury. The judge shall judge him—If only man be wronged, man can right it, and reconcile the persons. Against the Lord—As you have done, wilfully and presumptuously. Intreat for him—The offence is of so high a nature, that few or none will dare to intercede for him, but will leave him to the just judgment of God. He speaks after the manner of men, who do often intercede with the prince for such as have injured any private person; but will not presume to do so when the injury is committed against his own person. Who shall interpose himself between God and him? Who shall compound that difference? None can or dare do it, and therefore he must be left to the dreadful but righteous judgment of God. The Lord would slay them—They having abused the grace he gave them, and wilfully and impenitently continuing to resist the light and power of it, choosing darkness and wickedness, God withdrew his offered mercy and grace, and left them to the hardness of their hearts, determining to destroy them for their many and great sins; and therefore would not, and did not give them grace to hearken to Eli's counsel, and to repent of their wickedness.

V. 26. Grew—In stature, and in the knowledge and love of God, and in a serious, careful, diligent regard to his holy will in the duties of his station, which procured him the sincere regard of all that feared God.

V. 27. A man of God—A prophet or preacher sent from God. Appear—Did shew thee such favour, and appear so evidently for thee, and is this thy requital? Thy father—Unto Aaron, the chief of thy father's house. In Pharaoh's house—As a person in

Before Christ cir. 1165.

28 And did I choose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer upon mine altar, to burn incense, to wear an ephod before me? and [x] did I give unto the house of thy father all the offerings made by fire of the children of Israel?

[x] Lev. 7. 35, 36. and 8. 16. and 7. 8. and 10. 14. Num. 5. 9, 10. and 18. 8.

29 Wherefore kick ye at my sacrifice, and at mine offering which I have commanded in my habitation, and honourest thy sons above me, to make yourselves fat with the chiefest of all the offerings of Israel my people?

30 Wherefore the Lord God of Israel saith, [y] I said indeed, that thy house, and the house of thy father should walk before me for ever: but now the Lord saith, Be it far from me; for them that honour me, I will honour, and [z] they that despise me shall be lightly esteemed.

[y] Exod. 29. 9.

[z] Psal. 18. 26. Mal. 2. 9.

31 Behold, [a] the days come that I will cut off thine arm, and the arm of thy father's house, that there shall not be an old man in thine house.

[a] 1 Kings 2. 27. Ezek. 44. 10. See Chap. 4. 11, 18, 20. and 14. 3. and 22. 18, &c.

32 And thou shalt see † an enemy in my habitation, in all the wealth which God shall give Israel: and there shall not be [b] an old man in thine house for ever.

Before Christ cir. 1165.

† Or, the affliction of the tabernacle for all the wealth which God would have given Israel.

[b] See Zech. 8. 4.

33 And the man of thine, whom I shall not cut off from mine altar, shall be to consume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart: and all the increase of thine house shall die ‡ in the flower of their age.

‡ Heb. men.

34 And this shall be a sign unto thee, that shall come upon thy two sons, on Hophni and Phinehas: [c] in one day they shall die both of them.

[c] Chap. 4. 11.

35 And [d] I will raise me up a faithful priest, that shall do according to that which is in mine heart, and in my mind: and I will build him a sure house, and he shall walk before mine anointed for ever.

[d] 1 Kings 2. 35. 1 Chro. 29. 22. Ezek. 44. 15.

36 [e] And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left in thine house, shall come and crouch to him for a piece of silver, and a morsel

[e] 1 Kings 2. 27.

a public station, he is reminded of the obligations which the whole nation owed to God, and which he was required gratefully and publicly to acknowledge, not in word only, but by a conduct agreeable to the will of God.

V. 28. Him—Aaron, thy father. An ephod—That golden ephod which was peculiar to the high-priest. The offerings—(i. e.) All the priest's part of the offerings.

V. 29. Kick—By abusing them to your own luxury, and by causing the people to abhor and neglect them. God charged Eli with his sons faults. Above me—Choosing rather to offend me by thy connivance at their sin, than to displease them by severe rebukes, and effectual restraints, and just punishments; and so prefer their will, pleasure, and honour, before mine. Make yourselves fat—To pamper yourselves. Not contented with those parts which I had allotted you.

V. 30. I said indeed—God's promise was recalled and made void, though not absolutely and universally to all Aaron's family; yet respectively to Eli and his family, which were wholly excluded from the benefit of it, wherein otherwise they should have shared. For ever—As long as the Mosaical law and worship lasted. Be it far from me—To fulfil my promise, which I hereby retract. Honour me—That worship, and serve me with reverence and godly fear, and according to my will, which I esteem as an honour done to me. I will honour—I will advance them to honour, and maintain them in it. Despise—By presumptuous disobedience of my commands; by defiling and disgracing my worship and ordinances, by transgressing the rules I have given them therein, by their ungodly and shameful conduct, and by making my service contemptible and abominable to others; all which are manifest arguments of contempt of God. Lightly esteemed—Both by God and men.

V. 31. Cut off—I will take away thy strength, which is often signified by the arm; or all that in which thou placest thy confidence and security. Thy father's house—Thy family. There shall not be an old man—They shall generally be cut off by an untimely death, before they be old.

V. 32. Thou shalt see—Not in thy person, but in thy posterity. An enemy—Thy competitor, or him who shall possess that place of high trust and honour which now thou enjoyest; (such persons being, through man's corrupt nature, esteemed as a man's enemy.) In my habitation—In the sanctuary. In a time when God should eminently bless Israel, and make good all his promises to them, which was in Solomon's days, when Abiathar of Eli's race was put out of the high-priesthood, and Zadock was put in his place, when the priesthood was most glorious.

V. 33. Thine—Those of thy posterity. Altar—Whom I shall not suffer to live, and wait at the altar. Consume thine eyes, and to grieve thine heart—Shall be so forlorn and miserable, that if thou wast alive to see it, it would grieve thee at the heart, and thou wouldest consume thine eyes with weeping for their calamities. The phrase is like that of Rachel weeping for her children, (Jer. xxxi. 15.) which were slain long after her death. Thine house—Thy children. The flower of their age—About the thirtieth year of their age, when they were to be admitted to the full administration of their office, then they shall die.

V. 34. A sign—Of the certain truth of all those sad predictions.

V. 35. A faithful priest—Of another line. The person designed is Zadok, one eminent for his faithfulness to God, and to the king. That do according to that which is in mine heart—And shall not dishonour and disobey me, to gratify his sons, as thou hast done. I will build him a sure house——Give him a numerous posterity. He shall walk—Minister as High-priest. Before mine Anointed—Before Jesus Christ. This title of Anointed, or Christ, or Messias, (both which words signify only the Anointed) is most frequently and eminently ascribed to Christ, both in the Old and New Testament. Christ is the main scope and design, not only of the New but of the Old Testament, which, in all its types and ceremonies, represented Christ; and particularly, the High-priest was an eminent type of Christ, and represented his person, and did mediately, what John the Baptist did immediately, go before the face of the Lord Christ; and when Christ came, that office and officer was to cease. The high priest is seldom or never said to walk or minister before the kings of Israel or Judah, but constantly before the Lord, and consequently before Christ, who, as he was God blessed for ever, (Rom. ix. 5.) was present with, and the builder and governor of the ancient church of Israel, (Acts vii. 35. 1 Cor. x. 4. Heb. iii. 3, 4, 5, 6.) and their temple is particularly called his temple, and all the temple-worship was performed in his presence, and had a special respect to him, and therefore the High priest is most properly said to walk before him.

V. 36. Shall crouch—In humble supplication. For a morsel of bread

Before Christ cir. 1165.

morſel of bread, and ſhall ſay, † Put me (I pray thee) into ‡ one of the prieſt's offices, that I may eat a piece of bread.

† Heb. Join.
‡ Or, ſomewhat about the prieſthood.

C H A P. III.

AND [a] the child Samuel miniſtered unto the Lord before Eli: and [b] the word of the Lord was precious in thoſe days; there was no open viſion.

a Chap. 2. 11.
b Pſal. 74. 9. Amos 8. 11.

cir. 1141.

2 And it came to paſs at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, [c] and his eyes began to wax dim, that he could not ſee;

c Chap. 2. 22. and 4. 15.

3 And ere [d] the lamp of God went out [e] in the temple of the Lord, where the ark of God was, and Samuel was laid down to ſleep:

d Exod 27. 21. Lev. 24. 3.
e Chap. 1. 9.

4 That the Lord called Samuel, and he anſwered, Here am I.

5 And he ran unto Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou calledſt me. And he ſaid, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6 And the Lord called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel aroſe and went to Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou didſt call me. And he anſwered, I called not, my ſon; lie down again.

* Or, Thus did Samuel before he knew the LORD, and before the word of the LORD was revealed unto him.
f See Acts 19. 2.

7 * Now Samuel [f] did not yet know the Lord, neither was the word of the Lord yet revealed unto him.

8 And the Lord called Samuel again the third time. And he aroſe, and went to Eli, and ſaid, Here am I, for thou didſt call me. And Eli perceived that the Lord had called the child.

Before Christ cir. 1141.

9 Therefore Eli ſaid unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it ſhall be, if he call thee, that thou ſhalt ſay, Speak, Lord, for thy ſervant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10 And the Lord came, and ſtood and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel anſwered, Speak, for thy ſervant heareth.

11 ¶ And the Lord ſaid to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Iſrael, at which both the ears of [g] every one that heareth it ſhall tingle.

g 2 Kings 21. 12. Jer. 19. 3.

12 In that day I will perform againſt Eli, [h] all things which I have ſpoken concerning his houſe: † when I begin, I will alſo make an end.

h Chap. 2. 30, 31, 32.
† Heb. beginning and ending.

13 ‡ [i] For I have told him, that I will judge his houſe for ever, for the iniquity which he knoweth: becauſe his ſons made themſelves § vile, and he ‖ reſtrained them not.

‡ Or, And I will tell him, &c. i Chap. 2. 29, 30, 31, &c.
§ Or, accurſed.
‖ Heb. frowned not upon them.

14 And therefore I have ſworn unto the houſe bread—Whereas before my liberal allowance could not ſatisfy them: Thus is the puniſhment ſuited to the nature of their ſin.

C H A P. III.

V. 1. Before Eli—Under his inſpection. The word of the Lord—The revelation of God's will to and by prophets. Precious—Rare, or ſcarce, ſuch things being moſt precious in men's eſteem. No open viſion—God did not impart his mind by way of viſion or revelation openly, or to any public perſon, to whom others might reſort for ſatisfaction, though he might privately reveal himſelf to ſome pious perſons for their particular direction.

V. 2. In his place—In the court of the tabernacle.

V. 3. Ere the lamp—Before the lights of the golden candleſtick were put out.

V. 5. He ran—Shewing his great faithfulneſs and diligence.

V. 7. Now—Thus did Samuel before he knew the Lord, and before the word of the Lord was revealed unto him. Did not yet know—He was not acquainted with God, (Job xxii. 21. John xvii. 3.) And this ſerved God's deſign, that his ſimplicity might give Eli the better aſſurance of the truth of God's meſſage to Samuel.

V. 8. Samuel again went to Eli—He perſiſts in the ſame readineſs to obey and ſerve him, and was not diſcouraged in his duty. Eli perceived—By the conſideration of Samuel's piety, and of the ſolitude of the place, where there was no perſon beſides himſelf, who could, or would, have called Samuel in that manner.

V. 9. Thy ſervant heareth—I am ready to hear what thou ſpeakeſt, and to do what thou requireſt.

V. 10. The Lord came—Before he ſpake to him at a diſtance, but now came near to him. And he is ever nigh unto all them that call upon him, and ready to impart himſelf to as many as are willing to receive him. (John i. 12.) And ſtood—Before the voice paſſed by him, now the ſpeaker bode with him till he had uttered his whole mind to him. As at other times—As he had done before. Samuel, Samuel—His name is here doubled, to engage him to the more diligent attention.

V. 11. I will do a thing—Which, though done by the Philiſtines, God here aſcribes to himſelf, becauſe his juſtice was the cauſe of it. Shall tingle—Which will be ſo terrible, that not only thoſe that feel it ſhall groan under it, but thoſe that hear the report of it ſhall be ſtruck with amazement and horror. A metaphor from him, who being ſurprized with ſome great noiſe, the ſound of it abides in his ears.

V. 12. In that day—In that time which I have appointed for this work, which was about twenty or thirty years after this threatening. So long ſpace of repentance God allows to this wicked generation to make their peace with God, and prevent the execution, as others did in like caſes. An end—Though this vengeance may and ſhall be delayed for a ſeaſon, to manifeſt my patience, and incite them to repentance; yet when once I begin to inflict, I ſhall certainly go on with it, and not deſiſt till I have made a full end.

V. 13. I will judge—Condemn, puniſh, or deſtroy. His houſe—His children and poſterity. For ever—Till they be utterly rooted out; or, for a long time, as that phraſe is often uſed. Which he knoweth—Both by common fame, and by his own obſervation. He cannot pretend ignorance, or want of proof of their wickedneſs, which aggravates his ſin. Vile—Hateful to God, contemptible to the people. This expreſſion may be uſed by way of reflection upon their father, becauſe he did not denounce the ſentence of God againſt their ſin, nor put them out of the prieſthood. He reſtrained them not—He contented himſelf with a cold and gentle reproof, and did not ſeverely rebuke, puniſh, and actually reſtrain them, as by the law of God he was obliged to do.

V. 14. I

Before Christ cir. 1141. house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offering for ever.

15 ¶ And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the Lord: and Samuel feared to shew Eli the vision.

16 Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel my son. And he answered, Here am I.

17 And he said, What is the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee k Ruth. 1. 17. hide it not from me: k God do so to thee,
* Heb. so add. † Or, word. and * more also, if thou hide any † thing from me, of all the things that he said unto thee.

‡ Heb. all the things, or words. 18 And Samuel told him ‡ every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, It is the Lord: let him do what seemeth him good.

19 ¶ And Samuel grew, and the Lord
l Chap. 9. 6. was with him, l and did let none of his words fall to the ground.

m Judg. 20. 1. 20 And all Israel m from Dan even to § Or, faithful. Beer-sheba knew that Samuel was § established to be a prophet of the Lord.

21 And the Lord appeared again in Shiloh: for the Lord revealed himself to Samuel in Shiloh, by the word of the Lord.

Before Christ cir. 1141.

CHAP. IV.

AND the word of Samuel * † came to all Israel. Now Israel went out against the Philistines to battle, and pitched beside a Chap. 7. 12. Eben-ezer: and the Philistines pitched in Aphek.

* Or, came to pass. † Heb. was.

2 And the Philistines put themselves in array against Israel: and when ‡ they joined battle, Israel was smitten before the Philistines: and they slew of § the army in the field about four thousand men.

‡ Heb. the battle was spread. § Heb. the array.

3 ¶ And when the people were come into the camp, the elders of Israel said, Wherefore hath the Lord smitten us to day before the Philistines? Let us ‖ fetch the ark of the covenant of the Lord out of Shiloh unto us, that when it cometh among us, it may save us out of the hand of our enemies.

‖ Heb. take unto us.

4 So the people sent to Shiloh, that they might bring from thence the ark of the covenant of the Lord of hosts, b which dwelleth between c the cherubims: and the two sons of

b 2 Sam. 6. 2. Psal 80. 1. & 99. 1.
c Exod. 25. 18, 22.

V. 14. I have sworn—I do swear. With sacrifice—Which they have dishonoured in the sight of others, and despised for themselves; and now the punishment threatened against Eli and his family, shall not be prevented or hindered by all their sacrifices.

V. 15. Samuel opened the doors of the house of the Lord—That those that came to worship might have free access. Samuel feared—It was to him a painful task to declare the will of God to Eli. Those that know the Lord, as Samuel now did, will frequently find many fears in making known to others, how much their conduct appears to be condemned by the word of God; but painful as this may be, it is one of the ways by which all that believe are called to follow a crucified Saviour, that by suffering with him in some degree or other, for their faithful regard to their fellow-creatures, they may reign with him who ever loveth all the children of men too sincerely, to leave any one uninformed of the danger to which every sin exposes the sinner, till sin is forsaken, and God is known as their Redeemer. The vision—The matter of the vision or revelation.

V. 17. Do so to thee—Thus he adjures him to utter the whole truth.

V. 18. It is the Lord—This severe sentence is from the sovereign Lord of the world, who hath an absolute power and right to dispose of me, and all his creatures, as he pleaseth; to whose good pleasure I therefore submit:—from Israel's God, who was known by his name Jehovah, who is in a special manner the ruler of the people of Israel, to whom it properly belongs to punish all mine offences; whose chastisement I therefore resign myself to.

V. 19. Samuel grew—As in stature, so in wisdom and piety, and God's favour, and reputation with the people. Fall to the ground—Want their effect or success: God made good all his predictions. A metaphor from precious liquors, which, when they are spilt upon the ground, are altogether useless and ineffectual. With what prayer, charity, meekness, wisdom, and seriousness is it necessary to speak on all occasions, if we would have our words produce any good or useful effect on the minds of others, or be made a blessing to ourselves, which is surely done whenever we speak in the fear of God, however they may be received by those to whom we speak.

V. 20. From Dan to Beer-sheba—Through the whole land, from the northern bound, Dan, to the southern, Beer-sheba; which was the whole length, and largest extent of the land. Knew—Both by Eli's testimony, and particular relation of the Lord's will made known to Samuel, which was doubtless told by him to faithful men.

V. 21. To Samuel—Did use to reveal his mind to Samuel. The word of the Lord—Which he chose to deliver to Israel by his mouth.

CHAP. IV.

V. 1. The word of Samuel—The word of the Lord revealed to Samuel, and by him to the people. Against the Philistines—To meet the Philistines, who, having recruited themselves after their loss by Samson, and perceiving an eminent prophet arising among them, by whom they were likely to be united and assisted, thought fit to suppress them in the beginning of their hopes and designs of recovering their power.

V. 2. Joined battle—Began to fight.

V. 3. Wherefore—Seeing our cause is so just, our own just and necessary defence from God's and our enemies, and we came not forth to battle by our own motion, but by God's command delivered by Samuel. They forgot the great corruption in their worship and manners; and, being ignorant of themselves and of their sinful conduct, they could not see sufficient reason why God should suffer them to fall by their enemies. The ark—That great pledge of God's presence and help, by whose conduct our ancestors obtained success; and this they thought of, rather than confessing and forsaking the evil of their doings, and humbling themselves deeply for all their sins, for which God was displeased with them, and now had chastised them. They put their trust in their ceremonial observances, not doubting but the very presence of the ark would give them the victory; and therefore it is no wonder they meet with so sad a disappointment.

V. 4. With the ark—Attending upon it.

V. 5. Israel

Before Christ cir. 1141. of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there, with the ark of the covenant of God.

5 And when the ark of the covenant of the Lord came into the camp, all Israel shouted with a great shout, so that the earth rang again.

6 And when the Philistines heard the noise of the shout, they said, What meaneth the noise of this great shout in the camp of the Hebrews? And they understood that the ark of the Lord was come into the camp.

7 And the Philistines were afraid, for they said, God is come into the camp. And they said, Wo unto us; for there hath not been such a thing * heretofore.

* Heb. yesterday, or, the third day.

8 Wo unto us: Who shall deliver us out of the hand of these mighty Gods? these are the Gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness.

9 Be strong, and quit yourselves like men, O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, [d] as they have been to you: ‡ quit yourselves like men, and fight.

d Judg. 13. 1.

‡ Heb. be men.

10 ¶ And the Philistines fought, and [e] Israel was smitten, and they fled every man into his tent: and there was a very great slaughter, for there fell of Israel thirty thousand footmen.

e Psal. 78. 9.

11 And [f] the ark of God was taken; and [g] the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, ‡ were slain.

f Psal. 78. 61.

g Chap. 2. 34.

‡ Heb. died.

12 And there ran a man of Benjamin out of the army, and [h] came to Shiloh the same day with his clothes rent, and [i] with earth upon his head.

h 2 Sam. 1. 2.

i Josh. 7. 6 2 Sam. 13. 19. and 15. 32. Neh. 9. 1. Job 2. 12.

13 And when he came, lo, Eli sat upon [k] a seat by the way-side, watching: for his heart trembled for the ark of God. And when the man came into the city and told it, all the city cried out.

k Chap. 1. 9.

Before Christ cir. 1141.

14 And when Eli heard the noise of the crying, he said, What meaneth the noise of this tumult? And the man came in hastily, and told Eli.

15 Now Eli was ninety and eight years old; and [l] his eyes § were dim, that he could not see.

l Chap. 3. 2. § Heb. stood.

16 And the man said unto Eli, I am he that came out of the army, and I fled to day out of the army. And he said, What * is there done, my son?

* Heb. is the thing.

17 And the messenger answered and said, Israel is fled before the Philistines, and there hath been also a great slaughter among the people, and thy two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God is taken.

18 And it came to pass when he made mention of the ark of God, that he fell from off the seat backward by the side of the gate, and his neck brake, and he died: for he was an old man, and heavy. † And he had judged Israel forty years.

cir. 1141.

† He seems to have been a judge to do justice only, and that in South-west Israel.

19 ¶ And his daughter in law Phinehas wife was with child near ‡ to be delivered: and when she heard the tidings that the ark of God was taken, and that her father in law, and her husband were dead, she bowed herself and travailed; for her pains * came upon her.

‡ Or, to cry out.

* Heb. were turned.

20 And about the time of her death, the women that stood by her, said unto her, Fear not, for thou hast born a son. But she answered not, † neither did she regard it.

† Heb. set not her heart.

21 And she named the child ‡ [m] Ichabod, saying,

‡ That is, Where is the glory? or, There is no glory.

m Chap. 14. 3.

V. 5. Israel shouted—From their great joy and confidence of success, and to encourage themselves and terrify their enemies.

V. 6. Understood—By information from the Israelites.

V. 7. God is come—With his ark; or, they give the name of God to the ark before which he was worshipped, as they used to do to the images of their false gods. Heretofore—Not in our times.

V. 8. Mighty Gods—They confess the Lord to be higher and greater than their gods, and yet against their knowledge presume to oppose him. And is it not thus with many, who are assured of the power of God to punish for sin both here and hereafter, and yet are so besotted with sin, and willingly inslaved by the influence of satan, that they still go on, under a conscious sense that the Mighty is against them?

V. 9. Quit yourselves—Since you can expect no relief from your gods, who are not able to resist theirs, it concerns you to put forth all your strength and courage, and, once for all, to act like brave and valiant men.

V. 10. Tent—To his habitation, called by the ancient name of his tent. There fell of Israel—Before they lost but 4000, now, in the presence of the ark, 30,000; to teach them that the ark and ordinances of God were never designed for sanctuaries to impenitent sinners, but only for the comfort and relief of those that repent.

V. 11. The ark was taken—Which God permitted, to punish the Israelites for the profanation of it; and that, by taking away the pretence of their confidence, he might more deeply humble them, and bring them to true repentance.

V. 12. With earth—The usual rites in great sorrows.

V. 13. Watching—That he might soon receive the tidings which he longed for. Trembled for the ark—Whereby he now discovered a fervent zeal for God, and for his honour and service.

V. 18. He fell—Being so oppressed with grief and astonishment, that he had no strength left to support himself. The gate—Of the city. He judged Israel—Was their supreme governor.

V. 19. Thus did God begin to inflict the judgments he had declared against this family.

V. 20. Neither did she regard it—Being overwhelmed with sorrow, and so incapable of comfort.

V. 21. The glory—The type and assurance of God's presence; the ark, which is often called God's glory, and which Israel could glory in above all other nations.

Before Christ cir. 1141.

saying, [n] The glory is departed from Israel: (because the ark of God was taken, and because of her father in law and her husband) n Psal. 78. 61.

22 And she said, The glory is departed from Israel: for the ark of God is taken.

CHAP. V.

a Chap. 4. 1. and 7. 12.

AND the Philistines took the ark of God, and brought it [a] from Eben-ezer unto Ashdod.

2 When the Philistines took the ark of God, they brought it into the house of Dagon, and set it by Dagon.

3 ¶ And when they of Ashdod arose early on the morrow, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the earth, before the ark of the Lord: and they took Dagon, and set him in his place again.

4 And when they arose early on the morrow morning, behold, Dagon was fallen upon his face to the ground, before the ark of the Lord: and the head of Dagon, and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold, only * the stump of Dagon was left to him.

* Or, the fishy part.

b See Zeph. 1. 9.

5 Therefore neither the priests of Dagon, nor any that come into Dagon's house, [b] tread on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

c Chap. 6. 5.
d Psal. 78. 66.

6 But the hand of the Lord was heavy upon them of Ashdod, and he [c] destroyed them, and smote them with [d] emerods, even Ashdod, and the coasts thereof.

7 And when the men of Ashdod saw that it was so, they said, The ark of the God of Israel shall not abide with us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

8 They sent therefore and gathered all the lords of the Philistines unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither.

Before Christ cir. 1141.

9 And it was so, that after they had carried it about, the hand of the Lord was against the city with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret parts.

10 Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron: and it came to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to ‡ us, to slay us and our people.

‡ Heb. me, to slay me and my.

11 So they sent and gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay ‡ us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there.

‡ Heb. me not, and my.

12 And the men that died not, were smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

CHAP. VI.

AND the ark of the Lord was in the country of the Philistines seven months.

2 And the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners, saying, What shall we do to the ark of the Lord? tell us wherewith we shall send it to his place.

3 And they said, If ye send away the ark of

V. 22. The ark is taken—This is repeated to shew her piety, and that the public loss affected her most.

CHAP. V.

V. 1. Ashdod—A great and famous city, and eminent for the worship of Dagon.

V. 2. Dagon—To whom, doubtless, his worshippers would have ascribed this victory.

V. 3. They—The priests of Dagon. Arose—To worship Dagon according to their manner. They set him in his place again—Supposing, or pretending, that his fall was wholly casual.

V. 4. The head of Dagon, and his hands were cut off—The head is the seat of wisdom; the hands, the instruments of action: both are cut off, to shew that he had neither wisdom nor strength to defend himself, nor his worshippers. Only the stump of Dagon—Heb. Only Dagon, (i. e. that part of it from which it was called Dagon, to wit, the fishy part, for Dag, in Hebrew, signifies a fish. And hence their opinion seems most probable, that this idol of Dagon had in its upper parts an human shape, and in its lower parts the form of a fish; for such was the form of divers of the Heathen gods, and particularly of a god of the Phœnicians (under which name the Philistines are comprehended) as Diodorus Siculus, and Lucian, both witnesses, though they call it by another name. Was left to him—Or, upon it, (i. e.) the trunk abode in the place where it fell, but the head and hands were flung at some distance.

V. 5. Threshold—Out of religious reverence, supposing this place to be sanctified by the touch of their god. This day—When this history was written, which, if by Samuel, towards the end of his life, was a sufficient ground for this expression, this superstitious usage having then continued for many years.

V. 6. Destroyed them—Killed many of their persons.

V. 8. Gath—Supposing that this plague was confined to Ashdod.

V. 10. To slay us—This they expected would be the event of it.

V. 11. The city—Of Ekron, during its short stay there.

V. 12. The cry of the city—The city is put for the people inhabiting it.

CHAP. VI.

V. 1. Seven months—So long they kept it, unwilling to lose so great a prize, and willing to try all ways to keep it, and yet free themselves from the mischiefs accompanying its presence.

V. 2. Diviners—Whose art was in great esteem with Heathen nations. Wherewith—In what manner, and with what gifts.

V. 3. A

Before Christ cir. 1140. of the God of Israel, send it not empty; but in any wise return him a trespass-offering: then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you, why his hand is not removed from you.

4 Then said they, What shall be the trespass-offering, which we shall return to him? They answered, Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, [a] according to the number of the lords of the Philistines: for one plague was on * you all, and on your lords.

a See Ver. 17.

* Heb. them.

5 Wherefore ye shall make images of your emerods, and images of your mice that [b] mar the land, and ye shall give glory unto the God of Israel: peradventure he will lighten his hand from off you, and from off your gods, and from off your land.

b Chap. 5. 6.

6 Wherefore then do ye harden your hearts [c] as the Egyptians and Pharaoh hardened their hearts? when he had wrought † wonderfully among them, [d] did they not let ‡ the people go, and they departed?

c Exod. 7. 13. and 8. 15. and 14. 17.

† Or, reproachfully.

d Exod. 12. 31.

‡ Heb. them.

7 Now therefore make [e] a new cart, and take two milch-kine, [i] on which there hath come no yoke, and tie the kine to the cart, and bring their calves home from them:

e 2 Sam. 6. 3.

i Num. 19. 2.

8 And take the ark of the Lord, and lay it upon the cart, and put the jewels of gold which ye return him for a trespass-offering, in a coffer by the side thereof, and send it away, that it may go.

9 And see, if it goeth up by the way of his own coast to Beth-shemesh, then § he hath done us this great evil: but if not, then we shall know that it is not his hand that smote us; it was a chance that happened to us.

§ Or, it.

10 ¶ And the men did so: and took two milch-kine, and tied them to the cart, and shut up their calves at home: Before Christ cir. 1140.

11 And they laid the ark of the Lord upon the cart, and the coffer with the mice of gold, and the images of their emerods.

12 And the kine took the straight way to the way of Beth-shemesh, and went along the highway, lowing as they went, and turned not aside to the right hand or to the left; and the lords of the Philistines went after them unto the border of Beth-shemesh.

13 And they of Beth-shemesh were reaping their wheat-harvest in the valley: and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and rejoiced to see it.

14 And the cart came into the field of Joshua a Beth-shemite, and stood there, where there was a great stone: and they clave the wood of the cart, and offered the kine a burnt-offering unto the Lord.

15 And the Levites took down the ark of the Lord, and the coffer that was with it, wherein the jewels of gold were, and put them on the great stone: and the men of Beth-shemesh offered burnt-offerings, and sacrificed sacrifices the same day unto the Lord.

16 [g] And when the five lords of the Philistines had seen it, they returned to Ekron the same day.

g Josh. 13. 3.

17 And these are the golden emerods which the Philistines returned for a trespass-offering unto the Lord; for Ashdod one, for Gaza one, for Askelon one, for Gath one, for Ekron one.

18 And the golden mice, according to the number of all the cities of the Philistines, belonging

V. 3. A trespass-offering—Thereby to acknowledge our offence, and obtain the remission of the calamities with which we have been visited. Known—You shall understand, what is hitherto doubtful, whether he was the author of these calamities, and why they continued so long upon you.

V. 4. Emerods—Which they offered in testimony of their humiliation, that they might obtain pity from God, and freedom from their disease. Golden mice—Representing those which had destroyed the produce of their land.

V. 5. Ye shall give—The glory of his power in conquering you—of his justice in punishing you, and of his goodness if he shall relieve you.

V. 6. Wherefore do ye harden your hearts, as the Egyptians—They express themselves thus, either because they perceived that some opposed the sending home the ark, or because they thought they would hardly send it away in the manner prescribed, by giving glory to God, and taking shame to themselves; the report of which they had heard.

V. 7. A new cart—In reverence to the ark. No yoke—And therefore most unlikely to keep the road to Israel's land. Bring their calves—Which would naturally cause them to return home.

V. 8. In a coffer—For they durst not open the ark, to put them within it.

V. 9. His own coast—The country to which it belongs. Then he hath done us this great evil—Which they might well conclude was an unjust inference, it being uncertain whether God would please to give them this sign; but those that do not believe in God, as he has revealed himself, will sooner believe the most uncertain and ridiculous things, than own the visible demonstrations of God's power and providence.

V. 12. Beth-shemesh—A city of the priests, who were by office to take care of it. Lowing as they went—Testifying at once both their natural inclination to their calves, and the supernatural and divine power, which over-ruled them to a contrary course. The lords went after them—To get assurance of the truth of the event.

V. 14. They—The Beth-shemites—the priests that dwelt there.

V. 15. Sacrifices—To express their gratitude and praise for the discovery God had given them, of his power and goodness in this unlooked-for favour.

V. 16. Had seen—The return of the ark to its own country.

V. 18. Abel—This place is here called Abel, by anticipation, from the great mourning mentioned in the following verse.

V. 19. The

Before Christ cir. 1140.

belonging to the five lords, both of fenced cities, and of country villages, even unto the ‖ great stone of Abel, whereon they set down the ark of the Lord: which stone remaineth unto this day, in the field of Joshua the Bethshemite.

‖ Or, great stone.

19 ¶ And [b] he smote the men of Bethshemesh, because they had looked into the ark of the Lord, even he smote of the people fifty thousand and threescore and ten men: and the people lamented, because the Lord had smitten many of the people with a great slaughter.

[b] See Exod. 19. 21. Numb. 4. 5, 15, 20.

20 And the men of Beth-shemesh said, Who is able to stand before this holy Lord God? and to whom shall he go up from us?

21 ¶ And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim, saying, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the Lord; come ye down, and fetch it up to you.

V. 19. The ark of the Lord—Having now an opportunity which they never yet had, nor were ever like to have, it is not strange they had a vehement curiosity and desire to see the contents of the ark, or whether the Philistines had taken them away, and put other things in their place; and they thought they might now presume the more, because the ark had been polluted by the Philistines, and was now exposed to open view, and not yet put into that most holy place, which they were forbidden to approach. The people—(i. e.) Of the people living in and near Bethshemesh, or coming thither from all parts upon this great and glorious occasion. Heb. And, or also he smote of the people; to wit, of or belonging to other places, though now here: So these are distinguished from the men of Bethshemesh, of whom he speaks only in general and indefinitely, he smote the men; i. e. some or many of them; and then sets down the number of the persons smitten, or slain, either excluding the Bethshemites, or including them. Fifty thousand and threescore and ten men—God took this occasion to punish them for that crime, which was forbidden to the common Levites under pain of death; (Numb. iv. 18, 19, 20.) Yet it is apparent, that the people were at this time guilty of many other and greater miscarriages, for which God might justly inflict the present punishment upon them. There are many secret sins which escape man's observation, but are seen by God: The judgments of God are often secret, but never unrighteous.

V. 20. To stand before—To minister before the ark, where the Lord is present. This holy Lord God—Who has given us this dreadful example of his severity against the sins of his people, who dare to presume to come into his presence? It seems to be an expostulation with God, concerning this last and great instance of his severity. To whom shall he go—Who will dare to receive the ark with so much hazard to themselves?

V. 21. Kirjath-jearim—Which was in the way to Shiloh.

CHAP. VII.

V. 1. The men came—They gladly embrace the offer, wisely considering, that their great calamity was not to be charged upon the ark, but upon themselves, and their own irreverence and presumption in looking into the ark. To keep the ark—The place where it was, and to guard it, that none might approach or touch it, but such as God required, or allowed to do so.

V. 2. Lamented—They followed after God with lamentation for his departure, and so long estrangement from them, and with prayers for his return.

CHAP. VII.

Before Christ cir. 1140.

AND the men of [a] Kirjath-jearim came, and fetcht up the ark of the Lord, and brought it into the house of [b] Abinadab in the hill, and sanctified Eleazar his son, to keep the ark of the Lord.

[a] Psal. 132. 6.
[b] 2 Sam. 6. 4.

2 And it came to pass while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, that the time was long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented after the Lord.

3 ¶ And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye do return unto the Lord with all your hearts, then [c] put away the strange gods, and [d] Ashtaroth from among you, and prepare your hearts unto the Lord, and [e] serve him only: and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines.

cir. 1120.
[c] Josh. 24. 14, 23.
[d] Judg. 2. 13.
[e] Deut. 6. 13. and 10. 20. Matth. 4. 10. Luke 4. 8.

4 Then the children of Israel did put away [i] Baalim, and Ashtaroth, and served the Lord only.

[i] Judg. 2. 11.

5 And

V. 3. Samuel spake—To all the rulers and people. If ye do return—If you do indeed what you profess. With all your hearts—Sincerely, and in good earnest. Put away the strange gods—Out of your houses, where some of you keep and worship them; and out of your hearts and affections, where they still have an interest in many of you. And they that would know, of a truth, that God is merciful to their unrighteousness, must not only turn unto him, by regulating their words and actions by the rules of his revealed will, but must depart in design and in affection from every end and object in which they have been looking for happiness separate from God. Ashtaroth—Whom they, together with the neighbouring nations, more eminently worshipped. Prepare your hearts—By ceasing from all sin, and particularly from all inclination to other gods. The preparation of the hearts of men is from the Lord; but such is his faithfulness for the sake of the Mediator between God and men, that he lighteneth every man that cometh into the world, and giveth to every man a measure of grace to profit withal; but every soul of man is required to become a worker together with the grace of God, by accepting of, and complying with, the grace already given; and those that resist the dictates of the Holy Spirit, and sin against its convictions in their own breasts, resist their own mercies, and frustrate the grace of God. So that to prepare our hearts, by complying with the gracious offers of mercy and grace, is that work which every one must attend to in their own minds who would obtain mercy, or have grace to help them in time of need; or ever attain that holiness, without which no man can see the Lord. He will deliver—Will give them that power over sin, peace in believing, joy in the Holy Ghost, who thus prepare their hearts, and turn unto the Lord; and of which deliverance, that which was promised to Israel over their enemies is an evident representation to us—these Scriptures not being of private interpretation.

V. 4. Did put away—They were won, by the gracious offers of mercy and support from God, to return to worship him, and obey his will. And when their long-continued and repeated acts of rebellion and idolatry are considered, what a discovery is it of His mercy with whom we have to do, that to the same people he should still be willing to shew mercy, and to promise his favour to them, after all that they had done? His gracious nature and designs to the children of men are still the same, and those that are the deepest sunk in sinful habits, and are ever so much entangled with unreasonable and wicked men, and incumbered with outward difficulties,

Before Christ cir. 1120.

5 And Samuel said, [g] Gather all Israel to Mizpeh, and I will pray for you unto the Lord.

6 And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and drew water, and poured it out before the Lord, and fasted on that day, and said there, We have sinned against the Lord. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpeh.

7 And when the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel: and when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the Philistines.

8 And the children of Israel said to Samuel, * Cease not to cry unto the Lord our God for us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

9 ¶ And Samuel took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt-offering wholly unto the Lord; and [i] Samuel cried unto the Lord for Israel, and the Lord † heard him.

10 And as Samuel was offering up the burnt-offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: [k] but the Lord thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited them, and they were smitten before Israel.

11 And the men of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, until they came under Beth-car.

12 Then Samuel took a stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it ‡ Eben-ezer, saying, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us.

13 ¶ So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more into the coast of Israel: and the hand of the Lord was against the Philistines, all the days of Samuel.

14 And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel, were restored to Israel, from Ekron, even unto Gath, and the coasts thereof did Israel deliver out of the hands of the Philistines: and there was peace between Israel and the Amorites.

15 And

[g] Judg. 20. 1. 2 Kings 25. 23.

[h] 2 Sam. 14. 14.

* Heb. Be not silent from us from crying.

[i] Psal. 99. 6.

† Or, answered.

Before Christ cir. 1120.

[k] See Josh. 10. 10. Judg. 4. 15. and 5. 20.

‡ That is, The stone of help: Chap. 4. 1.

difficulties, instead of despairing of God's mercy and Almighty aid; when once they begin truly to turn unto God with a penitent mind, and look for that mercy and aid from God, through Jesus the only Saviour of men, their feet shall be set on firm ground, and God will strengthen them, by his mighty power, in the inner man of their hearts, and enable them to serve him without fear, in righteousness and holiness, all the days of their life, and finally, with all his redeemed ones, receive them to glory.

V. 5. I will pray—And if the prayer of a faithful man hath power with God, what mercy and gracious support may not all expect, whose sole dependance is on that Advocate with the Father, who ever liveth to make intercession for us.

V. 6. Poured it out—As an external sign, whereby they professed their own sinfulness, and need of washing by the grace and spirit of God, and blood of the covenant, which are often signified by water, and their sincere desire to pour out their very hearts before the Lord, in true repentance, and to cleanse themselves from all filthiness of flesh and spirit. We have sinned—With the mouth confession is made unto salvation: They that confess and forsake their sins, shall find mercy. Samuel judged—(i. e.) Governed them; reformed all abuses against God or man; took care that the laws of God should be observed and executed, and wilful transgressors punished.

V. 7. Went up—With an army. Were afraid—Of the power of that people, by whom they had been already subdued. And thus are those fearful of being again overcome by the sin which did most easily beset them; and God in mercy gives this fear, to stir up those to pray, and apply to him for help, who are convinced of their own weakness, and the vanity of all other help.

V. 8. For us—We are ashamed and afraid to look God in the face, because of our great wickedness this day remembered and acknowledged; do thou therefore intercede for us, as Moses did for this generation. And who could look up to infinite purity and justice, without a Mediator at the throne of God?

V. 9. The Lord heard him—As he does all them that ask in his dear Son's name; and not only hears, as he does all that is ever said, but graciously answers, according to his promise—That whatsoever is asked in his name he will do it. (John xiv. 13.)

V. 10. They were smitten—By the lightnings which accompanied the thunder; or by the Israelites, who, perceiving them to flee, pursued, and smote them. Samuel prayed, God heard, Israel was relieved from their fears, and their enemies made to fly before them. How plainly is it discovered to us, that God is nigh unto all them that call upon him; and though we cannot, whilst we are partakers of mortality, look into the eternal world, but by believing the discoveries made to us in the revealed will of God, yet, by such facts as these, we may be as well assured as we could be by the evidence of our senses, that the whole earth is under the immediate government of God, disposing all events for the highest possible good of them that fear him, and to bring down all them that forget God, and exalt themselves against him.

V. 11. Smote them—They who were deprived of all power of resistance before they repented, turned unto God, and desired Samuel to pray for them, have now power given them from God to be more than conquerors. And when we apply these discoveries to ourselves, and consider how dishonourable to God, how unhappy for ourselves, and how often sinful tempers, producing a sinful conduct, is the cause of the misery of others, who, but souls dead in trespasses and sins, would not turn to God with their whole heart, and make all their requests known unto him by prayer and supplication, that they, with pardon, may receive the communications of his grace, and all the blessings of his providence.

V. 12. Eben-ezer—That is, the stone of help. Helped us—By which expression, he exciteth both their thankfulness for their mercy received, and their holy fear and care to please and serve the Lord, that he might proceed to help and deliver them more effectually.

V. 13. Came no more—While Samuel was their sole judge, or ruler.

V. 14. The cities were restored—By the Philistines, who, it seems, were frighted into this restitution by their dread of the Divine vengeance. Peace—An agreement for the cessation of all acts of hostility.

V. 15. All his life—For though Saul was king in Samuel's last days, yet Samuel did not then cease to be a judge, but upon great

Before Christ cir. 1120.

15 And Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life.

§ Heb. and he circuited.

16 And he went from year to year § in circuit to Beth-el, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and judged Israel in all those places.

1 Chap. 8. 4.

17 And [1] his return was to Ramah; for there was his house: and there he judged Israel, and there he built an altar unto the Lord.

CHAP. VIII.

cir. 1112.

AND it came to pass when Samuel was old, that he made his sons judges over Israel.

* Vashni, 1 Chron. 6. 28.

2 Now the name of his first-born was * Joel, and the name of his second, Abiah: they were judges in Beer-sheba.

a Deut. 16. 19.

3 And his sons walked not in his ways, but turned aside after lucre, and [a] took bribes, and perverted judgment.

4 Then all the elders of Israel gathered themselves together, and came to Samuel unto Ramah, 1095.

b Hosea 13. 10. Acts 13. 21.

† Heb. was evil in the eyes of Samuel.

5 And said unto him, Behold, thou art old, and thy sons walk not in thy ways: now [b] make us a king to judge us like all the nations.

6 ¶ But the thing † displeased Samuel, when they said, Give us a king to judge us: and Samuel prayed unto the Lord.

Before Christ 1095.

7 And the Lord said unto Samuel, Hearken unto the voice of the people in all that they say unto thee: for [c] they have not rejected thee, but [d] they have rejected me, that I should not reign over them.

c See Exod. 16. 8.

d Chap. 10. 19. and 12. 17, 19. Hos. 13. 10, 11.

8 According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt even unto this day, wherewith they have forsaken me, and served other gods: so do they also unto thee.

9 Now therefore ‡ hearken unto their voice: § howbeit, yet protest solemnly unto them, and shew them the manner of the king that shall reign over them.

‡ Or, obey.

§ Or, notwithstanding when thou hast solemnly protested against them, then thou shalt shew, &c.

10 ¶ And Samuel told all the words of the Lord unto the people, that asked of him a king.

11 And he said, [e] This will be the manner of the king that shall reign over you: [i] He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen, and some shall run before his chariots.

e See Deut. 17. 16, &c. Chap. 10. 25.

i Chap. 14. 52.

12 And he will appoint him captains over thousands, occasions, though not ordinarily, he did exercise the office of a judge after the beginning of Saul's reign.

V. 16. Circuit—He went from place to place, to discharge the duties of that station to which God had called him. The servants of God are the public servants of the world, and are required to give up their own ease and choice, to wait upon the people for whose good they are employed.

V. 17. There he built an altar—That, by joining sacrifices with his prayers, he might obtain direction and assistance from God.

CHAP. VIII.

V. 1. Old—And unable for his former labours. He made his sons judges—Not so much out of paternal indulgence, the sad effects whereof he had seen in Eli, but because he had doubtless instructed them for the highest employments.

V. 2. In Beer-sheba—In the southern border of the land of Canaan, sending his sons to reside and judge in distant places, for the ease and convenience of the people.

V. 3. Took bribes—Opportunity and temptation drew forth, and discovered that corruption in them, which, till now, was hid from their father, and it may be from themselves.

V. 4. The elders—Either for age or dignity.

V. 5. Thy sons walk not in thy ways—Their ruin arose from the endeavours they used to be rich, and their unrighteousness proved the greatest folly, as sooner or later it ever must, a just God being the governor of all things. A king—To govern and to judge us, whose own honour will be our security against any future injuries from corruption, as he can have no interest contrary to that of the people's.

V. 6. Samuel was displeased—Because their desiring a king was a discovery of their ingratitude, of their distrust in God, and of their desire to be like the rest of the world about them. He prayed that their sin might be forgiven, not allowing his displeasure to excuse his own neglect to do them, for whom his Saviour died, every possible good.

V. 7. Hearken—Comply with their request, that they, and all that shall hereafter become acquainted with what they experienced, may be convinced, that sufferings and misery must befal them that will not have God to reign over them, however unlike it may be to the common course of the world, which lieth in the wicked one.

V. 8. So do they unto thee—As they have done unto me, notwithstanding thou hast judged them agreeable to my will, without having any other end in view but their good.

V. 9. Protest—Declare to them the evil that they are about to bring upon themselves, that God may be justified when they come to suffer the consequences of their own choice, and that whatever their misery may be, no charge may lay against the Divine compassion and faithfulness, for not having made known to them their danger, in wanting to take themselves from under God's government, and placing their confidence in the person of a man, who, notwithstanding he may be exalted to the highest office, yet he is still by nature born in sin, and as liable to err and to do wickedly as his subjects, unless he prepares his heart to do the will of God.

V. 10. Told—Faithfully informed them, however disagreeable it might be to them, of all that God had declared to him against the request they had made; and in this he is to be imitated by all that would preserve a conscience void of offence, in those stations which are charged with declaring what the law and will of God is, to such as he has placed under their authority; and this duty is far from being confined to the ministers of religion, every father being required, with all diligence, seriousness, and care, to teach his children the will of God; and when they do or desire any thing contrary to it, not to fail to acquaint them with their sin and danger.

V. 11. He will take—Whatever he pleases from you, whether you will or no, when he is possest of the power so to do; the human mind, when left to itself unrestrained, being as unjust as it is deceitful, so far as it is unassisted by the grace of God.

V. 12. He will—Both in the things that concern war and peace,

Before Christ 1095.

thousands, and captains over fifties, and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harveſt, and to make his inſtruments of war, and inſtruments of his chariots.

13 And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

g 1 Kings 21. 7. 14 And [g] he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your olive-yards, even the beſt of them, and give them to his ſervants.

15 And he will take the tenth of your ſeed, and of your vineyards, and give to his ‖ officers, and to his ſervants.

‖ Heb. eunuchs.

16 And he will take your men-ſervants, and your maid-ſervants, and your goodlieſt young men, and your aſſes, and put them to his work.

17 He will take the tenth of your ſheep: and ye ſhall be his ſervants.

18 And ye ſhall cry out in that day, becauſe of your king which ye ſhall have choſen you; and the Lord will not hear you in that day.

19 ¶ Nevertheleſs, the people refuſed to obey the voice of Samuel; and they ſaid, Nay, but we will have a king over us:

20 That we alſo may be like all the nations, and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles.

21 And Samuel heard all the words of the people, and he rehearſed them in the ears of the Lord.

22 And the Lord ſaid to Samuel, Hearken unto their voice, and make them a king. And Samuel ſaid unto the men of Iſrael, Go ye every man unto his city.

CHAP. IX.

Before Christ 1095.

NOW there was a man of Benjamin, whoſe name was [a] Kiſh, the ſon of Abiel, the ſon of Zeror, the ſon of Bechorath, the ſon of Aphiah, * a Benjamite, a mighty man of † power.

a Chap. 14. 51. 1 Chron. 8. 33. * Or, the ſon of a man of Jemini. † Or, ſubſtance.

2 And he had a ſon, whoſe name was Saul, a choice young man, and a goodly: and there was not among the children of Iſrael a goodlier perſon than he: [b] from his ſhoulders and upward, he was higher than any of the people.

b Chap. 10. 23.

3 And the aſſes of Kiſh, Saul's father, were loſt; and Kiſh ſaid to Saul his ſon, Take now one of the ſervants with thee, and ariſe, go ſeek the aſſes.

4 And he paſſed through mount Ephraim, and paſſed through the land of Shaliſha, but they found them not: then they paſſed through the land of Shalim, and there they were not: and he paſſed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not.

5 And when they were come to the land of Zuph, Saul ſaid to his ſervant that was with him, Come, and let us return; leſt my father leave caring for the aſſes, and take thought for us.

6 And he ſaid unto him, Behold now there is in this city a man of God, and he is an honourable man; [c] all that he ſaith, cometh ſurely to paſs: now let us go thither; peradventure he can ſhew us our way that we ſhould go.

c Chap. 3. 19.

7 Then ſaid Saul to his ſervant, But behold, if we go, [d] what ſhall we bring the man?

d See Judges 13. 17. 1 Kings 14. 3. 2 Kings 4. 42. and 8. 8.

peace, do thoſe things which ſhall pleaſe himſelf, without regard to you.

V. 13. Take your daughters—From you, whatever you may feel for the want of their tender and affectionate ſervices; and without regarding all your fears for the injuries to which they may be expoſed in his ſervice.

V. 14. To his ſervants—That he may ſtrengthen himſelf againſt your complaints, by dividing the public ſpoil among thoſe that are willing to make themſelves partakers of the gains of oppreſſion, and who thereby bind themſelves to forward all his views, and ſupport all his meaſures.

V. 15. He will take the tenth—Of your produce, or any other proportion he ſees fit, not leaving you the liberty of refuſing.

V. 16. To his work—And he ſhall conſtrain them to do it, on the terms he himſelf pleaſes.

V. 17. Ye ſhall be his ſervants—He ſhall uſe you like ſlaves, and deprive you of that liberty which you now enjoy.

V. 18. Ye ſhall cry—Bitterly in that day, becauſe you will not hear him, nor obey his counſel this day.

V. 19. Nay, there ſhall be a king over us—We will have a king whatſoever it coſt us, although all thy predictions ſhould be verified. Thus headſtrong in the ſelf-will of the human mind, that though it is aſſured of the danger of any courſe from God himſelf, yet till He is allowed to reign by his Spirit in the heart, ſelf will be obeyed.

V. 20. Like—That we may no longer be the ſingular people we and our fore-fathers have been, but live as other men do.

V. 21. Rehearſed—Repeated them privately between God and himſelf; reporting the anſwer to his Lord which he had received from the people.

V. 22. Go—And I ſhall wait upon God for the determination of the perſon, which he hath wholly reſerved to himſelf.

CHAP. IX.

V. 1. Of power—A man of great courage and ſtrength.

V. 2. Goodly—Comely and perſonable, as evil is put for deformed.

V. 3. Seek the aſſes—Which were there of great uſe, and not held unworthy of Saul's ſeeking, in thoſe times when ſimplicity, humility, and induſtry, were in faſhion among perſons of quality.

V. 4. He—Who was humble enough to go on this buſineſs, entered, at the ſame time, upon the way by which he was exalted to the height of human greatneſs.

V. 5. Saul—Now diſcovers his concern for his father's peace, as by going he had ſhewn his willingneſs to obey him.

V. 6. A man of God—Blameleſs before men, and devoted to the will of God.

V. 7. What

Before Christ 1059.

man? for the bread † is spent in our vessels, and there is not a present to bring to the man of God: what § have we?

† Heb. is gone out of, &c.
§ Heb. is with us.

8 And the servant answered Saul again, and said, Behold, ‖ I have here at hand the fourth part of a shekel of silver: that will I give to the man of God, to tell us our way.

‖ Heb. there is found in my hand.

9 (Beforetime in Israel, when a man [e] went to inquire of God, thus he spake, Come, and let us go to the seer: for he that is now called a Prophet, was beforetime called [i] a Seer.)

e Gen. 25. 22.

i 2 Sam. 24. 11. 2 Kings 17. 13. Amos 7. 12.

10 Then said Saul to his servant, * Well said, come let us go: so they went unto the city where the man of God was.

* Heb. Thy word is good.

11 ¶ And as they went up † the hill to the city, [s] they found young maidens going out to draw water, and said unto them, Is the seer here?

† Heb. in the ascent of the city.
s Gen. 24. 11.

12 And they answered them, and said, He is; behold, he is before you; make haste now, for he came to day to the city; for [h] there is a ‡ sacrifice of the people to day in the high place.

h Chap. 16. 2.
‡ Or, feast.

13 As soon as ye be come into the city, ye shall straightway find him, before he go up to the high place to eat: for the people will not eat until he come, because he doth bless the sacrifice, and afterwards they eat that be bidden. Now therefore get you up, for about § this time ye shall find him.

§ Heb. to day.

14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out against them, for to go up to the high place.

15 ¶ [i] Now the Lord had ‖ told Samuel in his ear a day before Saul came, saying, i Chap. 15. 1. Acts 13. 21.

‖ Heb. revealed the ear of Samuel.

16 To morrow about this time I will send thee a man out of the land of Benjamin, [k] and thou shalt anoint him to be captain over my people Israel, that he may save my people out of the hand of the Philistines: for I have looked upon my people, because their cry is come unto me.

k Chap. 10. 1.

17 And when Samuel saw Saul, the Lord said unto him, Behold the man whom I spake to thee of: this same shall † reign over my people.

† Heb. restrain in.

18 Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where the seer's house is.

19 And

V. 7. What have we—To present to him; for we must bespeak his favour by some token of respect.

V. 8. I give—This that I have to him, with a willing mind; and, as it is all I have to present, he will surely accept it at our hand.

V. 9. A Seer—Anciently they were not commonly called Prophets, but Seers.

V. 10. Saul—Was easy to be advised at this time.

V. 11. In reading the Scriptures, it is a constant satisfaction to see how infinite wisdom and goodness is manifested in little things as well as in the greatest, and carrying on the gracious purposes of his providence by means of both.

V. 12. He came to day—This implies they came in a good and seasonable time to meet with him.

V. 13. He doth bless the sacrifice—By prayer to God.

V. 14. Samuel came out—Of his own house, just as they passed by.

V. 15. Told Samuel—Secretly, that he might prepare himself for Saul's reception: Those that are employed in the service of God with devoted minds, will not be left without the knowledge of his will, and their duty, in those things in which there may be no particular directions in the Scriptures.

V. 16. I will send—By my providence, though he comes with a very different design to that which I now make thee acquainted with. I have looked upon my people—With compassion and resolution to help them. Their cry—Their earnest prayers are come unto me for help; and notwithstanding many of them desired a king from wrong motives, yet, because they cry unto me, I will even make the king, which they offended me in asking, the means of their relief.

V. 17. The Lord said—To Samuel, who knew the Lord's voice, that Saul was the person of whom he had before spoken to him. And are not those, who would in all things live to please God, under a necessity of knowing his will on many occasions, for which no particular directions are given in the Scriptures? As for instance, Those that have ceased to live for no higher end than gain, or to please themselves, have no particular directions in the Scriptures, as to the person with whom it may be their duty to enter into the most lasting engagements; and if those, that are devoted to God, could not be made conscious of his will on such occasions, they would be left in a state of greater perplexity what they ought to do to please God, than those are who only live to themselves, which would place the heirs of faith, to whom all the promises are made, in a worse situation than such as are living without God in the world. It has pleased God to make it the privilege of all that live by faith in him, to know his will in all things, for which no particular directions are given in the Scriptures; and this by the Holy Spirit, the dictates of which can never be contrary to, but must ever be in agreement with, the Scriptures. And this blessed privilege of knowing the will of God is doubtless included in those words, (John x. 4.) that declare that those that follow the Lord, in simplicity and godly sincerity, shall know his voice—shall be made conscious of his holy will, in all those cases which cannot, in the nature of things, be particularly expressed in the Scriptures.

V. 18. Saul drew near—How do such passages of Scripture as this discover to us that all things, small and great, are under the government of God; and had any one said, on this occasion of Saul's meeting Samuel, that every circumstance of it was under the immediate government of God, another might have been as ready to doubt of the particular providence of the Almighty in this, as we often have been, when we excluded all thoughts of the Divine interposition and government from things in which we ourselves were concerned; but when it pleases God to open our understandings to understand the Scriptures, they then afford us an increasing delight, by shewing us, with greater and greater clearness, that it is not as we have often thought, that things in public or private life happen by chance or accident; but that whatever second excuses are made use of to produce any event, yet both cause and event are under His gracious government who numbers the very hairs of the head, and is ever making all things, even losses, disappointments, and afflictions, work together for their good that fear him.

V. 19. In

Before Christ 1095.

19 And Samuel answered Saul, and said, I am the seer: go up before me unto the high place, for ye shall eat with me to day; and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart.

‡ Heb. to day three days.

20 And as for thine asses that were lost ‡ three days ago, set not thy mind on them, for they are found: and on whom is all the desire of Israel? is it not on thee, and on all thy father's house?

† Psal. 68. 27.

21 And Saul answered and said, Am not I † a Benjamite of the smallest of the tribes of Israel? and my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? wherefore

§ Heb. according to this word.

then speakest thou § so to me?

22 And Samuel took Saul, and his servant, and brought them into the parlour, and made them sit in the chiefest place among them that were bidden, which were about thirty persons.

23 And Samuel said unto the cook, Bring the portion which I gave thee, of which I said unto thee, Set it by thee.

24 And the cook took up the shoulder, and that which was upon it, and set it before Saul: and Samuel said, Behold, that which is ‖ left, set it before thee, and eat; for unto this time hath it been kept for thee, since I said, I have invited the people: so Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

‖ Or, reserved.

25 ¶ And when they were come down from the high place into the city, Samuel communed with Saul upon the top of the house.

Before Christ 1095.

26 And they arose early: and it came to pass about the spring of the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, saying, Up, that I may send thee away. And Saul arose, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad.

27 And as they were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Bid the servant pass on before us, (and he passed on) but stand thou still * a while, that I may

* Heb. to day.

shew thee the word of God.

CHAP. X.

a Chap. 9. 16.
b Psal. 2. 12.
c Acts 13. 21.
d Deut. 32. 9.

THEN [a] Samuel took a vial of oil, and poured it upon his head, [b] and kissed him, and said, Is it not because [c] the Lord hath anointed thee to be captain over [d] his inheritance?

e Gen. 35. 19, 20.
i Josh. 18. 28.

2 When thou art departed from me to day, then thou shalt find two men by [e] Rachel's sepulchre in the border of Benjamin, [i] at Zelzah: and they will say unto thee, The asses which thou wentest to seek are found: and lo, thy father hath left * the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, saying, What shall I do for my son? 3 Then

* Heb. the business.

V. 19. In thine heart—Either all that thou desirest to know, or rather the secret thoughts of thy heart, or such actions as none know but God and thy own heart; that so thou mayest be assured of the truth and certainty of those things which I am to acquaint thee with.

V. 20. On whom—Who is he that shall be that person which all Israel desire to have for their king? That honour is designed for thee; and, after thy death, for thy family or posterity, if, by thy sin, thou dost not cut off the entail.

V. 21. The smallest of the tribes—For so this was, having been all cut off except six hundred, (Judg. 20.) which blow they never recovered. Wherefore—Why dost thou feed me with vain hopes of the kingdom?

V. 22. Samuel took Saul, and his servant—Whom he honoured for Saul's sake; and thereby both giving all the guests occasion to think how great that person was, or should be, whose very servant was advanced above the chief persons of the city, who were doubtless present upon this occasion, and shewing how far himself was from envying Saul that honour and power which was to be translated from him to Saul. Made them sit in the chiefest place—Thereby to raise all their expectations, and to prepare them for giving that honour to Saul which his approaching dignity required.

V. 23. Which I gave thee—Which I bade thee reserve for this use.

V. 24. Unto this time—Till thou shouldest come hither and sit down here, whereby thou mayest know that thy coming hither was not unknown to me, and was designed by God for an higher purpose than thou didst expect.

V. 25. Samuel communed with Saul—Concerning the kingdom designed to him by God, and his duty to expect it patiently, till God actually called him to it; and to administer it piously, and justly, and with resolution in well-doing.

V. 26. He and Samuel—Samuel, to shew his respect, accompanying Saul part of his way.

V. 27. That I may shew thee—A message delivered to me from God, which now I shall impart to thee.

CHAP. X.

V. 1. His head—Which was the usual rite in the designation, as of priests and prophets, so also of kings, whereby was signified the pouring forth of the gifts of God's spirit upon him, to qualify him for the administration of his office which he was to expect. Kissed him—In token of that reverence and subjection which he and all the people were shortly to perform to him, and as a testimony of his sincere friendship and affection to him, and to shew how far he was from envying him in the supreme dignity. His inheritance—Over his own peculiar people: Whereby he admonisheth Saul, that this people were not so much his as God's; and that he was not to rule and manage them according to his own will and pleasure, but according to the will and mind of God.

V. 2. Thou shalt find—Samuel here informed Saul what was speedily to come to pass, that he might the more confidently believe what he had told him concerning his being raised to the supreme government; God seeing it necessary thus certainly to encourage the hopes of his servant, that, with the greater diligence, he might prepare himself for the duties of his station. The prophets of God thus foretelling events, proved to those to whom they were sent that their messages were from God, who alone could enable them to do it; and this is one of the many proofs, which runs through the Scriptures, of their divine authority; for who, but God, can enable any one to say what shall certainly come to pass under the government of his all-wise providence for a day, a year, an age, or for a continuance of ages to come, as

Before Christ 1095.

3 Then shalt thou go on forward from thence, and thou shalt come to the plain of Tabor, and there shall meet thee three men going up to God to Beth-el, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a bottle of wine.

† Heb. ask thee of peace: as Judg. 18. 15.

4 And they will † salute thee, and give thee two loaves of bread, which thou shalt receive of their hands.

g Chap. 13. 3.

5 After that, thou shalt come to the hill of God, g where is the garrison of the Philistines: and it shall come to pass when thou art come thither to the city, that thou shalt meet

h Chap. 9. 12.

a company of prophets coming down h from the high place, with a psaltery, and a tabret, i Exod. 15. 20. 2 Kings 3. 15.

and a pipe, and a harp before them, i and they shall prophesy.

k Num. 11. 25.

6 And the spirit of the Lord will come upon thee, and k thou shalt prophesy with them, and shalt be turned into another man.

‡ Heb. it shall come to pass that when these signs, &c.

7 And ‡ let it be when these signs are come unto thee, § that thou do as occasion shall serve thee, for God is with thee.

§ Heb. do for thee as thine hand shall find.

8 And thou shalt go down before me to Gilgal, and behold, I will come down unto thee, to offer burnt-offerings, and to sacrifice sacrifices of peace-offerings: l seven days shalt thou tarry, till I come to thee, and shew thee what thou shalt do.

l Chap. 13. 8.

Before Christ 1095.

9 ¶ And it was so, that when he had turned his ‖ back to go from Samuel, God * gave him another heart: and all those signs came to pass that day.

‖ Heb. shoulder.
* Heb. turned.

10 And when they came thither to the hill, behold, a company of prophets met him, and the spirit of God came upon him, and he prophesied among them.

11 And it came to pass, when all that knew him beforetime, saw, that behold, he prophesied among the prophets, then the people said * one to another, What is this that is come unto the son of Kish? m Is Saul also among the prophets?

* Heb. a man to his neighbour.
m Chap. 19. 24.

† Heb. from thence.

12 And one † of the same place answered and said, But who is their father? Therefore it became a proverb, Is Saul also among the prophets?

13 And when he had made an end of prophesying, he came to the high place.

14 ¶ And Saul's uncle said unto him, and to his servant, Whither went ye? And he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw that they were no where, we came to Samuel.

15 And

we see the prophets, the Lord Jesus and his apostles, have done in the Scriptures?

V. 3. Going up—To the house of God, where the ark, the habitation of God, now was.

V. 4. They will give thee—That by this Saul might be convinced, beyond all doubt, that Samuel was acquainted with the will of God concerning him.

V. 5. The hill of God—A place devoted to the service of God; either for sacrifice or for a school of prophets.

V. 6. Will come upon thee—Thou shalt be suddenly endowed with another spirit, filled with skill of divine things, with courage, wisdom, an hatred of covetousness, patience, good-will to men, and every other qualification for the high station to which God is pleased to call thee.

V. 7. Do as occasion shall serve thee—Do what thy hand findeth to do, as thou shalt have a call and opportunity. He doth not intend that he should take the kingly government upon him, before his call to it was known to, and owned by, the people, but that he should dispose his mind to a readiness of undertaking any public service, when necessity required it, and he should be called to his office.

V. 8. Till I come to thee—This, though mentioned and commanded, yet was not immediately to be performed; the meaning may be this—Another sign I will add to strengthen thy faith; thou shalt in due time, and upon a great occasion which shall then happen, go down before me to Gilgal, and there I will come unto thee. But when thou comest thither, be sure thou tarry there seven days, and then I will come, as I have said, and give the necessary instructions and assistance.

V. 9. God gave him another heart—And all the thoughts and desires of the heart of man being very wickedness, every one hath equal need of having a new heart—new designs and tempers given them by the God of all grace.

V. 10. The spirit of God—By which this change of heart was wrought. He prophesied among them—The accomplishment of the two former signs is supposed; and the third is expressed, being more eminent than the former; the other were only transient acts, which passed in private between two or three persons; but this was a more permanent sign, done in a more solemn manner, and before many and considerable witnesses.

V. 11. What is this that is come unto Saul—A man ever thought fitter to look after his father's asses, than to bear a part in the sacred exercises of the prophets; but the Lord of all has a right to call whom he pleases to be employed for any purpose of his grace or providence; and whom he calls, those he will qualify; and this he does with those that are thought most unfit by men, that all boasting may be excluded; and also the good that is done on earth may the more evidently appear to be of God, if they are faithful to his grace; and if they are not, that though willingness of God to do men good, and to advance his gracious purposes by them, may equally appear from what he did enable them to do, so much above their natural power, or any acquired abilities of their own.

V. 12. One of the same place—From which Saul came. Said, But who is their father—Who is the father of all these prophets of whom you speak, and among whom Saul is now one? Who is it that instructs and inspires them with this holy wisdom but God? They have it not from their natural parents, nor from their education, but by inspiration from God, who, when he pleaseth, can give Saul, or any other man, the same spirit; and therefore wonder not at this, but give God the glory of it. Father is here put for teacher, or instructor. A proverb—Used when any strange or unexpected thing happened.

V. 13. He came—Returning thither with the prophets to praise God for these wonderful favours, and to beg counsel and help from God for the time to come.

V. 14. Saul's uncle—Being present, and observing this great alteration in his nephew, made this inquiry of him.

V. 16. He

Before Christ 1095.

15 And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.

16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were found. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.

17 ¶ And Samuel called the people together [n] unto the Lord [o] to Mizpeh;

18 And said unto the children of Israel, Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you.

19 [p] And ye have this day rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities, and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore present yourselves before the Lord by your tribes, and by your thousands.

20 And when Samuel had caused all the tribes of Israel to come near, [q] the tribe of Benjamin was taken.

21 When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him, he could not be found.

22 Therefore they inquired of the Lord further, if the man should yet come thither: and the Lord answered, Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff.

Before Christ 1095.

23 And they ran and fetched him thence: and when he stood among the people, [r] he was higher than any of the people, from his shoulders and upward.

24 And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him whom the Lord hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? And all the people shouted, and said, [s] † God save the king.

25 Then Samuel told the people [t] the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the Lord: and Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

26 ¶ And Saul also went home [u] to Gibeah, and there went with him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched.

27 [x] But the children of Belial said, How shall this man save us? And they despised him, [y] and brought him no presents: but ‖ he held his peace.

CHAP. XI.

THEN [a] Nahash the Ammonite came up, and encamped against [b] Jabesh-gilead:

n Judg. 11. 11. and 20. 1. Chap. 11. 15.
o Chap. 7. 5, 6.
p Chap. 8. 7, 19. and 12. 12.
q Josh. 7. 14, 16.
r Chap. 9. 2.
s 1 Kings 1. 25.
† Heb. Let the king live.
t See Deut. 17. 14. &c. Chap. 8. 11.
u Chap. 11. 4.
x Chap. 11. 12.
y 1 Kings 4. 21. and 10. 25. 2 Chron. 17. 5. Psal. 72. 10. Matth. 2. 11.
‖ Or, he was as though he had been deaf.
a Chap. 12. 12.
b Judg. 21. 7.

V. 16. He told him not—From an humble modesty, and in prudence, lest, by an unseasonable publishing of it, he should raise envy in some, disbelief and contempt in others.

V. 17. Unto the Lord—To appear before the Lord, being present in all the assemblies of his people. Mizpeh—A city of Benjamin.

V. 18. I delivered you—From the neighbouring kingdoms which molested you, and would have utterly destroyed you.

V. 19. Ye have this day rejected your God—You this day declare, That you persist in your former act of neglecting God's government. Who himself saved you—Who, by his special providence, took care to raise up judges and saviours for you, and to deliver you at all times when you needed his help. Ye have said unto him—Unto me his prophet, and consequently unto the Lord, whom I represent, and in whose name I spoke and acted. By your thousands—For each tribe was divided into thousands; as, in England, counties are into hundreds.

V. 20. To come near—Unto the place appointed for the casting of lots. Tribe of Benjamin was taken—Which tribe was now preferred before Judah, because the kingdom was freely promised by God to Judah, and was to be given to him in love; but now the kingdom was in a manner forced from God, and given to them in anger, and therefore conferred on an obscure tribe.

V. 21. He could not be found—Those that are truly called to the discharge of any difficult employment, are discovered to us in the Scriptures as most sensible of their own insufficiency, and by which they are led into a more entire dependance on God, without whose help and blessing the wisest, the strongest, and best, can do nothing that is truly and in itself good.

V. 22. Among the stuff—The carriages or baggage of those that were there assembled.

V. 24. God save the king—Let the king live long and prosperously. By this they accept and own him for their king, and promise subjection to him.

V. 25. The manner—Of the king he had spoken before; now, of the laws and rules by which the kingly government was to be managed. Before the Lord—In the sanctuary where it was kept.

V. 26. Saul went to Gibeah—Not being actually inaugurated into his kingdom, he thought fit to retire to his former habitation, and to live privately till he had an occasion to shew himself: Those that are qualified for any great employment are the least inclined to intermeddle in any thing unnecessarily, or which does not call for their aid. Whose hearts God had touched—Affected or renewed by his Spirit working upon their hearts; those that feared God, and made conscience of their duty: for they are opposed to the children of Belial in the next verse. These, though they did not desire a king, as the generality of the people did, yet, when God had given them a king, they were most forward to pay him that reverence and obedience which they owed him; both which proceeded from the same principle, that they were, in both cases, guided by God's will, which was, that they should not desire a king in their circumstance; and yet, that they should obey him, when God had set a king over them.

V. 27. This man—So mean a person, and of the weakest of all the tribes. They brought him no presents—As subjects, in those times and places, used to do to their kings. He held his peace—Thereby manifesting his prudence and clemency.

CHAP. XI.

V. 1. We will serve thee—We will be thy subjects and tributaries. The occasion of this offer was, that they seeing no likelihood of relief from their brethren the Israelites in Canaan, who were remote from them, and then weak and divided, and unable to defend themselves, they make this proposal of submission, from despair of a successful resistance; and how many fall before their spiritual

Before Christ 1095.

gilead: and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, Make a covenant with us, and we will serve thee.

2 And Nahash the Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thrust out all your right eyes, and lay it for a reproach upon all Israel.

3 And the elders of Jabesh said unto him, * Give us seven days respite, that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel: and then if there be no man to save us, we will come out to thee.

* Heb. Forbear us.

c Chap. 10. 26. and 15. 34.

4 ¶ Then came the messengers [c] to Gibeah of Saul, and told the tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lift up their voices, and wept.

5 And behold, Saul came after the herd out of the field, and Saul said, What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabesh.

d Judg. 3. 10. and 6. 34. and 11. 29. and 13. 25. and 14. 6.

6 [d] And the spirit of God came upon Saul, when he heard those tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly.

e Judg. 19. 29.

7 And he took a yoke of oxen, and [e] hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coasts of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, [i] Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall it be done unto his oxen: and the fear of the Lord fell on

i Judg. 21. 8, 10.

the people, and they came out † with one consent.

Before Christ 1095.

† Heb. as one man, Judg. 20. 1.

8 And when he numbered them in Bezek, the children [g] of Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand.

g 2 Sam. 24. 9.

9 And they said unto the messengers that came, Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To morrow by that time the sun be hot, ye shall have ‡ help. And the messengers came and shewed it to the men of Jabesh, and they were glad.

‡ Or, deliverance.

10 Therefore the men of Jabesh said, To morrow we will come out unto you, and ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you.

11 And it was so on the morrow, that [h] Saul put the people in three companies, and they came into the midst of the host in the morning watch, and slew the Ammonites until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together.

h See Chap. 13. 11.

12 ¶ And the people said unto Samuel, [i] Who is he that said, Shall Saul reign over us? [k] bring the men, that we may put them to death.

i Chap. 10. 27.

k See Luke 19. 27.

13 And Saul said, [l] There shall not a man be

l 2 Sam. 19. 22.

spiritual enemies merely from want of hope, and submit themselves to be led and governed by those that know not God, forgetting that he is the strength of all that put their trust in him, resisting evil, and doing his will against all opposition; and that there never is a necessity for any that fear God, to do what this part of the people of Israel desired to do on this occasion—take themselves from under the government of God, and enter into covenant with such as observe not his laws, God having promised never to leave nor forsake such as put their trust in him.

V. 2. These are the hard terms proposed to a people, who were afraid of human power in opposition to the power of God, in which they would not put their trust, after all they had heard from their fathers, of his ability and willingness to save from all adversities. And they that enter into covenant with such as know not God, and submit to serve in the ways of sinners, must, sooner or later, expect to receive their reward in reproach and misery.

V. 3. Respite—Which it is probable Nahash granted, out of self-confidence, and contempt of the weak condition of the Israelites.

V. 4. To Gibeah—Because Saul, their new-chosen king, was there.

V. 5. The messengers found Saul thus humbly employed after he had been anointed king. And thus did many of the first characters, in distant ages, employ themselves in the plain, honest, manly, and humble labours of a country life.

V. 6. The spirit of God came upon Saul—Inspiring him suddenly with more than ordinary courage and zeal, to engage himself and the people for their rescue. The spirit of God is here discovered to us, as the first cause of deliverance to the people of Israel in their present distress. And does God thus send his grace to deliver them who were wanting to make a covenant with his enemies? Yes, such is his love to men, for the dear Redeemer's sake, that his grace descends to save and quicken us when we are dead in trespasses and sins. His anger was kindled—Against Nahash, for so barbarous a proposition.

V. 7. He took and sent—Wisely considering, that the sight of men's eyes do much more affect their hearts, than what they only hear with their ears. And Samuel—Whom he joins with himself, because he was present with him; and that he might gain the more authority to his command, and strike the greater terror into all despisers of it. The fear—A fear sent upon them by God, that they should not dare to deny their help. How easy is it for the Almighty to save from the power of inbred corruption, and to deliver from all outward evil, who can thus at once affect the hearts of men.

V. 8. Three hundred thousand—This great terror drew so many forth. Of Judah thirty thousand—Who are numbered apart to their honour, to shew how readily they, to whom the kingdom was promised, submitted to their king, though of another tribe.

V. 9. To morrow—The day after your return home; for it seems probable, that some few days had been spent in the gathering and disposing of the forces, and bringing them together.

V. 10. Ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you—If none come to save us.

V. 11. Three companies—That so invading them on several sides with a great force, he might both strike them with the greater terror, and prevent their escape. In the morning watch—Having marched all the day and night before it.

V. 12. Who is he that said—They did not say so in direct terms, but this was the design of their speech. That we may put them to death—And thus will they be destroyed who finally refuse to have Jesus reign over them, who, as man, is appointed of God to be the head as well as the only Saviour of men. (Luke xix. 27.)

V. 13. I will not destroy any of those whom God hath so graciously

Before Christ 1095. be put to death this day: for to day the Lord hath wrought salvation in Israel.

14 Then said Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal, and renew the kingdom there.

15 And all the people went to Gilgal, and d Chap 10.17. there they made Saul king [d] before the Lord in Gilgal: and there they sacrificed sacrifices of peace-offerings before the Lord: and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

C H A P. XII.

AND Samuel said unto all Israel, Behold, I have hearkened unto your voice in all that ye said unto me, and have made a king over you.

2 And now behold, the king walketh be- a Chap. 8.1,5. fore you; [a] and I am old, and grey-headed, and behold, my sons are with you: and I have walked before you from my childhood unto this day. Before Christ 1095.

3 Behold, here I am, witness against me before the Lord, and before his anointed: b b Num. 16.15. Acts 20. 33. 1 Thess. 2 5. whose ox have I taken? or whose ass have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppressed? or of whose hand have I received any * bribe † to blind mine eyes therewith? and I will restore it you.

* Heb. ransom.
† Or, that I should hide mine eyes at him.

4 And they said, Thou hast not defrauded us, nor oppressed us, neither hast thou taken ought of any man's hand.

5 And he said unto them, The Lord is witness against you, and his anointed is witness this day, that ye have not found ought in my hand. And they answered, He is witness.

6 ¶ And Samuel said unto the people, It is ciously preserved, nor fully this glorious and comfortable day with the slaughter of any of my subjects; and therefore I freely forgive them. And thus was Saul greater in clemency than the friends of his government, sparing those that opposed the divine appointment, that his kindness might win their affections, and establish his throne in the hearts of his subjects.

V. 14. Then—Whilst the people were together by Jabesh-Gilead, wherein Samuel's great prudence and fidelity to Saul is evident. He suspended the confirmation of Saul at first, whilst the generality of the people were disaffected and discontented at the meanness of his person: and now, when he had given such eminent proof of his princely virtues, and when the people's hearts were unanimously and eagerly set upon him, he takes this as the fittest season for that work. Gilgal—This place he chose, both because it was near, and, to most of them, in the way to their homes; and because thither the Israelites on this side, and beyond Jordan, might more easily resort; and because it was famous for public conventions there kept, and particularly for the covenant there renewed by Joshua between God and the people. Renew—Confirm our former choice, to prevent all such seditious expressions and actions as we had experience of at the former election.

V. 15. Made Saul king—They owned and accepted him for their king by consent; for, to speak properly, Saul was not made or constituted king by the people, but by the Lord's immediate act. Before the Lord—Who was there present in a special manner. Peace-offerings—To praise God for so glorious a victory, and to implore the presence and assistance of God to the king and kingdom in all their affairs and exigencies.

C H A P. XII.

V. 1. Samuel said—Whilst they were assembled together in Gilgal. And this is another instance of Samuel's great wisdom and integrity. He would not reprove the people for their sin, in desiring a king, whilst Saul was unsettled in his kingdom and in the people's hearts, lest, through their accustomed levity, they should as hastily cast off their king, as they had passionately desired him, and so add one sin to another; and therefore he chooseth this season for it; partly, because Saul's kingdom was now confirmed by an eminent victory, which circumstance was also Samuel's vindication, that it might appear, that his reproof did not proceed from any selfish desires, which he might be supposed to have of retaining the power in his own hands, but from a sincere desire of all their good; and because the people rejoiced greatly, and upon this occasion applauded themselves for their desires of a king; and interpreted the success which God had now given them, as a divine approbation of those desires; whereby they were like to be hardened in their impenitency, and might be drawn to many other inconveniences: Samuel therefore thinks fit to temper their excessive joys, and to excite them to that repentance and holy fear which he saw wanting in them, and which he knew to be absolutely necessary, to prevent the curse of God upon their new king, and the whole kingdom. And by the seasonableness of Samuel's reproof, they were reminded of that which is necessary ever to be kept in mind—That we should rejoice with trembling; and when it pleases God to bestow the greatest blessings upon us, and our hearts rejoice from a sense of his goodness, that then we are required to remember how poor a title we have to the mercies of God, and with what care and watchfulness we ought to conduct ourselves in all things.

V. 2. Walketh before you—Ruleth over you. To him I have fully resigned all my power and authority, and do hereby renounce it, and own myself for a private person, and one of his subjects. I am old—And therefore unable to bear the burden of government, and feel myself greatly at ease to see it cast upon other shoulders; and therefore do not speak what I am about to say, from envy of Saul's advancement, or from discontent at the diminution of my own power.

V. 3. Witness against me—I here present myself before the Lord, and before your king, being ready to give an account of all my administrations, and to make satisfaction for any injuries that I have done. And this protestation Samuel makes of his integrity, not out of ostentation or vain-glory, but for his own just vindication, that the people might not hereafter, for the defence of their own irregularities, reproach his government; that, being publicly acquitted from all faults in his government, he might more freely and boldly reprove the sins of the people, and particularly that sin of theirs in desiring a king when they had so little reason for it, and they had so just a governor, from whom they might have promised themselves an effectual redress of his son's mal-administrations, if they had acquainted him therewith; and partly, that by his example he might tacitly admonish Saul of his duty. To blind mine eyes therewith—That I should not discern what was right and just, or dissemble, as if I did not see it.

V. 5. Against you—That I gave you no cause to be weary of God's government of you by judges, or to desire a change of the government; and therefore the blame of it wholly rests upon yourselves. Ought—Any thing which I have gotten by bribery or oppression. They—The whole people, who are here spoken of as one person, because they answered thus with one consent.

V. 6. It is the Lord—That for your sakes raised, constituted, and exalted Moses and Aaron to that great power and reputation which they had, and used, to deliver you.

Before Christ 1095.

is the Lord that † advanced Moſes and Aaron, and that brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt.

† Or, made.

7 Now therefore ſtand ſtill, that I may reaſon with you before the Lord, of all the ‡ righteous acts of the Lord, which he did § to you and to your fathers.

‡ Heb. righteousnesses, or, benefits. § Heb. with.

8 [c] When Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers [d] cried unto the Lord, then the Lord [e] ſent Moſes and Aaron, which brought forth your fathers out of Egypt, and made them dwell in this place.

c Gen. 46. 5, 6. d Exod. 2. 23. e Exod. 3. 10. and 4. 16.

9 And when they forgat the Lord their God, [f] he ſold them into the hand of Siſera, captain of the hoſt of Hazor, and into the hand of [g] the Philiſtines, and into the hand of the king [h] of Moab, and they fought againſt them.

f Judg. 4. 2. g Judg. 10. 7 h Judg. 3. 12.

10 And they cried unto the Lord, and ſaid, [i] We have ſinned, becauſe we have forſaken the Lord, [k] and have ſerved Baalim and Aſhtaroth: but now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will ſerve thee.

i Judg. 10. 10. k Judg. 2. 13.

11 And the Lord ſent [l] Jerubbaal, and Bedan, and [m] Jephthah, and [n] Samuel, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every ſide, and ye dwelled ſafe.

l Judg. 6. 14, 32. m Judg. 11. 1. n Chap. 7. 13.

12 And when ye ſaw that Nahaſh the king of the children of Ammon came againſt you, [o] ye ſaid unto me, Nay, but a king ſhall reign over us; when [p] the Lord your God was your king.

o Chap. 8. 5, 19. p Judg. 8. 23. Chap. 8. 7.

13 Now therefore, behold the king [q] whom ye have choſen, and whom ye have deſired: and behold, the Lord hath ſet a king over you.

Before Christ 1095.

q Chap. 10. 19.

14 If ye will fear the Lord, and ſerve him, and obey his voice, and not rebel againſt the § commandment of the Lord, then ſhall both ye, and alſo the king that reigneth over you, ‖ continue following the Lord your God.

§ Heb. mouth. ‖ Heb. be after.

15 But if ye will not obey the voice of the Lord, but rebel againſt the commandment of the Lord, then ſhall the hand of the Lord be againſt you, as it was againſt your fathers.

16 ¶ Now therefore ſtand and ſee this great thing which the Lord will do before your eyes.

17 Is it not wheat-harveſt to day? [r] I will call unto the Lord, and he ſhall ſend thunder and rain: that ye may perceive and ſee that your wickedneſs is great, which ye have done in the ſight of the Lord, in aſking you a king.

r Prov. 26. 1.

18 So Samuel called unto the Lord, and the Lord ſent thunder and rain that day: and [s] all the people greatly feared the Lord and Samuel.

s See Ezra 10. 9.

19 And all the people ſaid unto Samuel, Pray for thy ſervants unto the Lord thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our ſins, this evil, to aſk us a king.

20 ¶ And Samuel ſaid unto the people, Fear not: (ye have done all this wickedneſs: yet

V. 7. That I may reaſon with you—Since God hath laid ſo great obligations upon you, let us conſider them. Righteous acts—Mercies or benefits, which is the chief ſubject of the following diſcourſe; ſome of their calamities being but briefly named, and that for the illuſtration of God's mercy in their deliverances.

V. 8. In this place—In this land: in which Moſes and Aaron are ſaid to ſettle them; becauſe they were, under God, the principal authors of their entering into the land of Canaan; as they brought them out of Egypt, conducted them through the wilderneſs; and there, by their prayers to God, and counſel to them, preſerved them from utter ruin, and gave command and direction from God for the diſtribution of the land among them, and encouraged them to enter into it by promiſes and aſſurances of ſucceſs.

V. 9. They forgat—They revolted from him, and carried themſelves as ungratefully towards God, as if they had wholly forgotten his great and innumerable favours, and their infinite obligations to him. Forgetting of God, is often put for all manner of wickedneſs, whereof indeed that is the true cauſe.

V. 11. Ye dwelled ſafe—So that it was no neceſſity, but wantonneſs, that made you deſire a change.

V. 12. Your king—When God was your immediate king and governor, and your deſire of another was a manifeſt reproach againſt God.

V. 13. Whom ye have choſen—The people are ſaid to chooſe him, becauſe they choſe that form of government.

V. 14. Continue following—This phraſe ſignifies a promiſe of a privilege to be received upon the performance of their duty; becauſe it is oppoſed to a threatening denounced, in caſe of diſobedience, in the next verſe. Such is the goodneſs of God, that notwithſtanding they had rejected his immediate government, and deſired a king, yet now he had given them their deſire; if they did but live in his fear, and obey his will, he ſtill promiſes them the continuance of thoſe mercies which his faithfulneſs beſtows upon all them that live to pleaſe him.

V. 15. As it was againſt your fathers—Who lived under the judges; and you ſhall have no advantage by the change of government, nor ſhall your kings be able to protect you againſt God's diſpleaſure.

V. 16. Now ſtand—He intends not the poſture of their bodies, but of their minds, by ſerious and fixed conſideration.

V. 17. Is it not wheat-harveſt to day—At which time it was a rare thing in thoſe parts to have thunder or rain, as the Scripture often implies. Thunder and rain—That by this unſeaſonable ſtorm, you may underſtand that God is diſpleaſed with you; and alſo how fooliſhly and wickedly you have done in rejecting the government of that God, at whoſe command are all things both in heaven and in earth. Thunder and lightning, wind and rain, are under his immediate guidance, on whom all things every moment depend, and by theſe he threatens or puniſhes mankind; and by theſe expreſſions of his diſpleaſure, makes known that wrath which his juſtice will pour out on thoſe who finally neglect and deſpiſe the offers of his mercy and grace.

V. 18. And Samuel—Who had ſuch great power and favour with God.

V. 19. Thy ſervants—For ſo we ſhall ſtill own ourſelves to be.

The

Before Christ 1095. yet turn not aside from following the Lord, but serve the Lord with all your heart;

t Jer. 16 19. 21 And turn ye not aside: t for then should ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver, for they are vain)

22 For the Lord will not forsake his people, for his great name's sake: because it hath pleased the Lord to make you his people.

* Heb. from ceasing. 23 Moreover, as for me, God forbid that I should sin against the Lord, * in ceasing to pray for you: but I will teach you the good and the right way.

† Or, what a great thing, &c. 24 Only fear the Lord, and serve him in truth with all your heart: for consider † how great things he hath done for you.

25 But if ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed, both ye and your king.

C H A P. XIII.

* Heb. the son of one year in his reigning. SAUL * reigned one year, and when he had reigned two years over Israel, 1093. 2 Saul chose him three thousand men of Israel; whereof two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and in mount Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin: and the rest of the people he sent every man to his tent.

Before Christ 1093. 3 And Jonathan smote a the garrison of the Philistines that was in † Geba, and the Philistines heard of it: and Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear.

a Chap. 10. 5. † Or, the hill.

4 And all Israel heard say, that Saul had smitten a garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel also ‡ was had in abomination with the Philistines: and the people were called together after Saul to Gilgal.

‡ Heb. did stink.

5 ¶ And the Philistines gathered themselves together, to fight with Israel, thirty thousand chariots, and six thousand horsemen, and people as the sand which is on the sea-shore in multitude: and they came up, and pitched in Michmash, eastward from Beth-aven.

6 When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, (for the people were distressed) then the people b did hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits.

b Judg. 6. 2.

7 And

The Lord thy God—Whom thou hast so great an interest in, and canst so easily prevail with for any mercy, whilst we are ashamed and afraid to call him our God, because we have so highly offended him. That we die not—That this terrible storm may be taken away, lest our persons, and the fruits of the earth, be all destroyed. We have added this evil—So much were they biassed with their prejudices and passions, that nothing but a miracle could convince them of this particular sin.

V. 20. Fear not—With a desponding fear, as if there were no hope left for you. Those that are truly sorry for having offended God, and sincerely turn unto him by true repentance, are thus encouraged to hope in his mercy: the threatenings of God are directed against the impenitent, the self-righteous, and self-confident; and those of the contrary character are continually encouraged not to fear, but to hope in the mercy of God, through the Mediator between God and men—Christ Jesus, for whose sake alone the guilty is forgiven, and grace communicated to save to the uttermost.

V. 21. Turn ye not aside—After idols. Vain things—So idols are called, having no divinity nor power in them, no influence upon us, nor use or benefit to us. God only having the capacity, as well as the continual willingness to communicate purity, strength, and peace to the mind; and to live for any other end than the supreme good—the spiritual worship of God, through a Mediator, is to live for that which is vain, and must, sooner or later, end in our own disappointment and misery.

V. 22. For his great name's sake—For his own honour, which would seem to suffer among men, if he should not preserve and deliver those that look for all their help from him. And this reason God here alledgeth to take them off from all conceit of their own merit; and to assure them, that if they did truly repent of all their sins, and served God with all their heart, which is here supposed, yet even in that case their salvation would not be due to their merits, but only the effect of God's free mercy. To make you his people—Out of his own free grace, without any desert of yours.

V. 23. God forbid that I should sin against the Lord—Against whom all sin is committed; and who will withhold his mercy from me, was I to be unmerciful to others. I will teach you—Heb. I will not only pray for you, which is one branch of my duty, but I will also use the ability which God giveth me to instruct you.

V. 24. Fear the Lord, and serve him—Otherwise neither my prayers nor counsels will stand you in any stead. Done for you—Both at this time and formerly. When we consider the natural, providential, and spiritual obligations which God has given, and graciously promised, how highly guilty and ungrateful must we be, when we do not love and devoutly live to please God.

V. 25. If ye shall still do wickedly, ye shall be consumed—And this without respect of persons; God being of purer eyes than to behold iniquity with favour in any person or people; and his presence too holy for any soul of man to be admitted into it, unless the heart is cleansed from the last remains of evil by the Spirit of God.

C H A P. XIII.

V. 1. Saul reigned one year—Had now reigned one year, peaceably and righteously.

V. 2. Three thousand men—Which he thought sufficient for constant attendance and service.

V. 3. Jonathan smote—The first design of Saul and Jonathan was to free their land from the garrisons which the Philistines had in it; and they first begin to clear their own country of Benjamin. Let the Hebrews hear—He sent messengers to tell them all what Jonathan had done, and how the Philistines were enraged at it, and what necessity there was of gathering themselves together, and coming to him, for his and their own defence.

V. 4. That Saul—Jonathan, by Saul's direction.

V. 6. In a strait—Notwithstanding their former presumption, that if they had a king, they should be free from all such straits. And hereby God intended to teach them the vanity of all confidence in men; and that they did not less need the help and favour of God now, than they did before, when they had no king. Distressed—They were not mistaken in their apprehensions of danger, for their enemies host far exceeded theirs in number.

V. 7. All the people—His whole army.

V. 8. He

Before Christ 1093.

7 And some of the Hebrews went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead: as for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people § followed him trembling.

§ Heb. trembled after him.

8 ¶ [c] And he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal, and the people were scattered from him.

c Chap. 10. 8.

9 And Saul said, Bring hither a burnt-offering to me, and peace-offerings. And he offered the burnt-offering.

10 And it came to pass that as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt-offering, behold, Samuel came, and Saul went out to meet him, that he might ‖ salute him.

‖ Heb. bless him.

11 ¶ And Samuel said, What hast thou done? And Saul said, Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together to Michmash:

12 Therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not * made supplication unto the Lord: I forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt-offering.

* Heb. intreated the face.

13 And Samuel said to Saul, Thou hast done foolishly: [d] thou hast not kept the commandment of the Lord thy God, which he commanded thee: for now would the Lord have established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever.

d Chap. 15. 11.

14 [e] But now thy kingdom shall not continue: [i] the Lord hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the Lord hath commanded him to be captain over his people, because thou hast not kept that which the Lord commanded thee.

e Chap. 15. 28.

Before Christ 1093.

i Psal. 89. 20. Acts 13. 22.

15 And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal, unto Gibeah of Benjamin: and Saul numbered the people that were † present with him, [g] about six hundred men.

† Heb. found.

g Chap. 14. 2.

16 And Saul and Jonathan his son, and the people that were present with them, abode in ‡ Gibeah of Benjamin: but the Philistines encamped in Michmash.

‡ Heb. Gebah.

17 ¶ And the spoilers came out of the camp of the Philistines, in three companies: one company turned unto the way that leadeth to [h] Ophrah, unto the land of Shual, h Josh. 18. 23.

18 And another company turned the way to Beth-horon: and another company turned to the way of the border, that looketh to the valley of Zeboim toward the wilderness.

19 ¶ Now [i] there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel: (for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears)

i See 2 Kings 24. 14. Jer. 24. 1.

20 But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share and his coulter, and his ax, and his mattock.

21 Yet they had § a file for the mattocks, and for the coulters, and for the forks, and for the axes, and ‖ to sharpen the goads.

§ Heb. a file with mouths.

‖ Heb. to set.

22 So it came to pass in the day of battle, that

V. 8. He tarried seven days—Samuel came on the seventh day, and that with intent to sacrifice; so doubtless he came in due time for that work which was to be done before sun-set.

V. 9. He offered—Not waiting for Samuel; by which it appears he did it in his own self-will, and with impatience; and this rendered the action displeasing to God, besides that of his doing what ought to have been done by Samuel, or in his presence, and by his immediate directions.

V. 10. Samuel came—It was told Saul, behold Samuel is coming. Salute him—Congratulate his coming.

V. 11. Thou camest not within the days appointed—When the seventh day was come, and a good part of it past, whence I concluded thou wouldst not come that day, and that thou hadst forgotten thy appointment, or been hindered by some extraordinary occasion.

V. 12. Made supplication—Hence it appears, that sacrifices were accompanied with solemn prayers. I forced myself—I did it against my own mind and inclination. My conscience told me I should forbear it, and punctually obey God's command delivered to me by Samuel, but my necessity urged me to make haste.

V. 13. Done foolishly—In disobeying my express command upon a pretended necessity, or reason of state. The Lord thy God—Who hath conferred peculiar favours and honours upon thee; which is an aggravation of thy sin. For ever—Upon condition of his obedience.

V. 14. Sought—Hath found or discovered, as men do by seeking. A man after his own heart—Such a man as I desire; one who will fulfil all the desires of my heart, and not oppose them, as thou dost. Commanded—Hath appointed, as the word command is sometimes used; for it was not yet actually done. Though God threaten Saul with the loss of his kingdom for this sin, yet it is not improbable, that there was a condition implied, if he did not heartly repent of this and of all his sins; for the full, and final, and peremptory sentence of Saul's rejection, is plainly ascribed to another cause, and till that second offence, neither the spirit of the Lord departed from him, nor was David anointed in his stead.

V. 15. Samuel gat him up unto Gibeah—Whither Saul followed him.

V. 17. In three companies—That they might march several ways, and waste several parts of the country.

V. 19. The state of oppression the Israelites were under, appears by their being deprived of this means of preparing to make resistance.

V. 20. Went down—To the stations and garrisons the Philistines retained in several parts of Israel's land.

V. 21. They had a file—They allowed them some small helps.

V. 22. There was neither sword nor spear—God so governed the affairs of the Israelites, that they had no swords or spears, that so they might be kept in more dependance upon, and subjection unto, God, wherein their safety and happiness consisted. And therefore that famous victory obtained against the Philistines in Samuel's days, was not got by the sword of men, but only by thunder from heaven.

V. 23. Michmash

Before Christ 1093. that [k] there was neither sword nor spear found in the hand of any of the people that were with Saul and Jonathan: but with Saul and with Jonathan his son was there found.

k So Judg. 5. 8.

23 [l] And the * garrison of the Philistines went out to the passage of Michmash.

l Chap. 14. 4. * Or, standing camp.

CHAP. XIV.

cir. 1087. NOW * it came to pass upon a day, that Jonathan the son of Saul said unto the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over to the Philistines garrison, that is on the other side: but he told not his father.

* Or, there was a day.

2 And Saul tarried in the uttermost part of Gibeah, under a pomegranate-tree, which is in Migron: and the people that were with him were [a] about six hundred men;

a Chap. 13. 15.

3 And [b] Ahiah the son of Ahitub, [c] I-chabod's brother, the son of Phinehas, the son of Eli, the Lord's priest in Shiloh, wearing an ephod: and the people knew not that Jonathan was gone.

b Chap. 22. 9, 11, 20, called Ahimelech. c Chap. 4. 21.

4 ¶ And between the passages, by which Jonathan sought to go over [d] unto the Philistines garrison, there was a sharp rock on the one side, and a sharp rock on the other side: and the name of the one was Bozez, and the name of the other Seneh.

d Chap. 13. 23.

† Heb. tooth.

5 The † forefront of the one was situate northward over against Michmash, and the other southward over against Gibeah.

6 And Jonathan said to the young man that bare his armour, Come, and let us go over unto the garrison of these uncircumcised; it may be that the Lord will work for us: for there is no restraint to the Lord, [e] to save by many or by few.

e Judg. 7. 4. 2 Chro. 14. 11.

7 And his armour-bearer said unto him, Do all that is in thine heart: turn thee, behold, I am with thee, according to thy heart.

Before Christ cir. 1087.

8 Then said Jonathan, Behold, we will pass over unto these men, and we will discover ourselves unto them.

9 If they say thus unto us, ‡ Tarry until we come to you; then we will stand still in our place, and will not go up unto them.

‡ Heb. Be still.

10 But if they say thus, Come up unto us; then we will go up: for the Lord hath delivered them into our hand; and [i] this shall be a sign unto us.

i See Gen. 24. 14.

11 And both of them discovered themselves unto the garrison of the Philistines: and the Philistines said, Behold, the Hebrews come forth out of the holes, where they had hid themselves.

12 And the men of the garrison answered Jonathan and his armour-bearer, and said, Come up to us, and we will shew you a thing. And Jonathan said unto his armour-bearer, Come up after me; for the Lord hath delivered them into the hand of Israel.

13 And Jonathan climbed up upon his hands, and upon his feet, and his armour-bearer after him: and they fell before Jonathan; and his armour-bearer slew after him.

14 And that first slaughter which Jonathan and his armour-bearer made was about twenty men, within as it were § an half-acre of land, which a yoke of oxen might plow.

§ Or, half a furrow of an acre of land.

15 And there was trembling in the host, in the field, and among all the people: the garrison, and [g] the spoilers, they also trembled, and the earth quaked: so it was ‖ [h] a very great trembling. 16 And g Chap. 13. 17. ‖ Heb. a trembling of God. h Gen. 35. 5.

V. 23. Michmash—Which, it seems, they designed to besiege.

CHAP. XIV.

V. 1. Jonathan said unto the young man that bare his armour, let us go over to the Philistines garrison—This was a rash attempt, if it be examined only by the rules of reason; but not so, if we consider the singular promises made to the Israelites, That one should chase a thousand, &c. He told not his father—Lest he should hinder him in so improbable an enterprise.

V. 2. Saul tarried in Gibeah—To observe the motions of the Philistines.

V. 3. Ahitub—The high-priest, who was here to attend upon the ark which was brought hither. Wearing an ephod—The high-priest's ephod, wherein the Urim and Thummim was.

V. 4. The passages—These might be two known and common passages, both which Jonathan must cross, or pass over to go to the Philistines, between which the two rocks lay.

V. 6. These uncircumcised—So he calls them, principally to strengthen his faith by this consideration, That his enemies were enemies to God, and without any hope in God, or help from him; whereas he was in covenant with God, who was both able, and engaged to assist his people. It may be that the Lord will work—Great and wonderful things. There is no restraint to the Lord—There is no person nor thing which can hinder God from doing what pleaseth him, either without all human means, or by the least and weakest. The things impossible with men are possible with God.

V. 7. Turn thee—March on to the enemies.

V. 10. This shall be a sign—Jonathan not being assured of success, desires a sign; and this is suggested to him by the spirit of God.

V. 11. The Hebrews come out of the holes—From which they are driven by their necessity.

V. 12. We will shew you a thing—We have something of importance to communicate to you. A speech of contempt and derision. The Lord hath delivered them—He piously ascribes the success, which he now foresees, to God only.

V. 13. After him—The Philistines could easily have hindered their ascent, but scorned to do it, not questioning but they could cut them off when they were come up to them.

V. 15. Trembling—A great consternation from the Lord, who took away their spirits and strength, and struck them with fear and amazement. In the field—In the host which was there in the field. The earth quaked—How little need they fear who have God on their side:

Before Christ cir. 1087.

16 And the watchmen of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin looked; and behold, the multitude melted away, and they went on beating down one another.

17 Then said Saul unto the people that were with him, Number now, and see who is gone from us. And when they had numbered, behold, Jonathan and his armour-bearer were not there.

18 And Saul said unto Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of God: (for the ark of God was at that time with the children of Israel.)

19 ¶ And it came to pass while Saul talked unto the priest, that the * noise that was in the host of the Philistines went on, and increased: and Saul said unto the priest, Withdraw thine hand.

* Or, tumult.

20 And Saul and all the people that were with him, † assembled themselves, and they came to the battle: and behold, ‡ every man's sword was against his fellow, and there was a very great discomfiture.

† Heb. were cried together.
‡ Judg. 7. 22. 2 Chron. 20. 23.

21 Moreover, the Hebrews that were with the Philistines before that time, which went up with them into the camp from the country round about, even they also turned to be with the Israelites, that were with Saul and Jonathan.

22 Likewise all the men of Israel which [k] had hid themselves in mount Ephraim, when they heard that the Philistines fled, even they also followed hard after them in the battle.

k Chap. 13. 6.

23 So the Lord saved Israel that day: and the battle passed over unto Beth-aven.

24 ¶ And the men of Israel were distressed that day: for Saul had adjured the people, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth any food until evening, that I may be avenged on mine enemies: so none of the people tasted any food.

Before Christ cir. 1087.

25 [l] And all they of the land came to a wood, and there was honey upon the ground.

l Deut. 9. 21.

26 And when the people were come into the wood, behold, the honey dropped, but no man put his hand to his mouth: for the people feared the oath.

27 But Jonathan heard not when his father charged the people with the oath: wherefore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipt it in an honey-comb, and put his hand to his mouth; and his eyes were enlightened.

28 Then answered one of the people, and said, Thy father straitly charged the people with an oath, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were ‡ faint.

‡ Or, weary.

29 Then said Jonathan, My father hath troubled the land: see, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightened, because I tasted a little of this honey:

30 How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely to day of the spoil of their enemies which they found? for had there not been now a much greater slaughter among the Philistines?

31 And they smote the Philistines that day from Michmash to Aijalon: and the people were very faint.

32 And

side: He thunders from heaven, and makes the earth quake, and withdraws all power from the minds of men at his pleasure. And tho' we have not armies of Philistines to go against, yet the world about us, our own evil desires, and evil spirits, are as dangerous to our peace and spiritual prosperity, as the enemies of Israel were to their temporal welfare, and nothing less than the same power which delivered them, can only give us the victory; and those things are written that we may believe in him, without whose aid we can neither patiently endure evil nor do good.

V. 16. The multitude melted away—Were suddenly dispersed, and put to flight. Beating down one another—Through hasty flight: or with design to destroy one another.

V. 17. See who is gone from us—For he probably supposed, that not only Jonathan, but also some of his army was gone, and that by them that slaughter was made.

V. 18. Bring hither the ark—That the priest may inquire of the Lord before the ark, what the occasion of this tumult among our enemies is, and what we shall do.

V. 19. Withdraw thine hand—Trouble not thyself in putting on the breast-plate, with the ephod, to inquire of God; for I now plainly discern the matter, the business calls not for prayer, but for action. But if it did so, there was the more need of God's direction and blessing, that they might act with more success. Herein therefore he shews his willingness to neglect waiting upon God, when he thought victory was to be obtained without it.

V. 20. Against his fellow—They slew one another.

V. 21. The Hebrews that were with the Philistines—By constraint, as servants; or to gain their favour and protection.

V. 23. And the battle passed over—The warriors who were engaged in the battle, and were pursuing and fighting with the Philistines.

V. 24. The men were distressed—With hunger and faintness. That I may be avenged on mine enemies—As Saul's intention was to execute vengeance upon God's and his enemies: so the matter of the obligation was not simply and in itself unlawful, if it had not been so rigorous in excluding all food, without any exception of cases of necessity; and in obliging the people to it under pain of death; which was a punishment far exceeding the fault. None of the people tasted any food—In obedience to the king's command, and for fear of the curse.

V. 25. All they of the land—All the Israelites who were with Saul.

V. 26. The honey dropped—From trees where the bees had made their hives.

V. 27. His eyes were enlightened—He was refreshed, and recovered his lost spirits.

V. 28. One of the people—Who came along with Saul, whose forces were now united with Jonathan's.

V. 29. The land—The people of the land, the whole army, whom, by this rash oath, he had greatly injured. The zeal of defending

Before Christ cir. 1087.

32 And the people flew upon the ſpoil, and took ſheep, and oxen, and calves, and ſlew them on the ground: and the people did eat them [m] with the blood.

[m] Lev. 7. 26. and 19. 26. Deut. 12. 16.

33 ¶ Then they told Saul, ſaying, Behold, the people ſin againſt the Lord, in that they eat with the blood. And he ſaid, Ye have § tranſgreſſed: roll a great ſtone unto me this day.

§ Or, dealt treacherouſly.

34 And Saul ſaid, Diſperſe yourſelves among the people, and ſay unto them, Bring me hither every man his ox, and every man his ſheep, and ſlay them here, and eat; and ſin not againſt the Lord in eating with the blood. And all the people brought every man his ox ‖ with him that night, and ſlew them there.

‖ Heb. in his hand.

35 And Saul built an altar unto the Lord: * the ſame was the firſt altar that he built unto the Lord.

* Heb. that altar he began to build unto the LORD.

36 ¶ And Saul ſaid, Let us go down after the Philiſtines by night, and ſpoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they ſaid, Do whatſoever ſeemeth good unto thee. Then ſaid the prieſt, Let us draw near hither unto God.

37 And Saul aſked counſel of God, Shall I go down after the Philiſtines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Iſrael? But [n] he anſwered him not that day.

Before Christ cir. 1087.

38 And Saul ſaid, [o] Draw ye near hither all the † chief of the people: and know and ſee wherein this ſin hath been this day.

n Chap. 28. 6.
o Joſh. 7. 14. Chap. 10. 19.
† Heb. corners.

39 For as the Lord liveth, which ſaveth Iſrael, though it be in Jonathan my ſon, he ſhall ſurely die. But there was not a man among all the people that anſwered him.

Judg. 20. 2.

40 Then ſaid he unto all Iſrael, Be ye on one ſide, and I and Jonathan my ſon will be on the other ſide. And the people ſaid unto Saul, Do what ſeemeth good unto thee.

41 Therefore Saul ſaid unto the Lord God of Iſrael, ‡ Give a perfect lot. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people § eſcaped.

‡ Or, Shew the innocent.
§ Heb. went forth.

42 And Saul ſaid, Caſt lots between me and Jonathan my ſon. And Jonathan was taken.

43 Then Saul ſaid to Jonathan, Tell me what thou haſt done. And Jonathan told him, and ſaid, I did but taſte a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and lo, I muſt die.

44 And Saul anſwered, [p] God do ſo, and more alſo: for thou ſhalt ſurely die, Jonathan.

p Ruth 1. 17.

45 And

defending himſelf makes him run into the other extreme of accuſing his father, and that before the people, whom, by this means, he might have ſtirred up to ſedition.

V. 32. Flew upon the ſpoil—When the time prefixed by Saul was expired. With the blood—Not having patience to tarry till the blood was perfectly gone out of them, as they ſhould have done. So they who ſeemed to make conſcience of the king's commandment, for fear of the curſe, made no ſcruple of tranſgreſſing God's command.

V. 33. Ye have tranſgreſſed—He ſees their fault, but not his own, in giving the occaſion to it. Roll a great ſtone unto me—That the cattle might be all killed in one place, under the inſpection of Saul.

V. 35. The firſt altar that he built—This ſeems to be noted as another evidence of his neglect of God and his worſhip.

V. 36. Let us draw near unto God—Remembering Saul's contempt of God's ordinance the laſt time, and the ill conſequence of it; and perceiving Saul ready to run into the ſame error again, even though he had not now the ſame pretence of the neceſſity of haſte as before, and that the people were forward to comply with the king's deſign, the high-prieſt gives them this pious and prudent advice.

V. 37. He anſwered him not that day—Becauſe he was diſpleaſed with Saul for his former neglect (v. 18, 19.) where he began to aſk advice of God, but did not wait for an anſwer; and now when Saul did aſk, God would not vouchſafe him an anſwer. And alſo to manifeſt his diſlike of the violation of oaths. For although Jonathan might have a fair excuſe from his ignorance, and though Saul had done fooliſhly in making this oath, yet, when once it was made, God would hereby teach them, that it ſhould be obſerved; and that they ſhould abſtain even from all appearance of the breach of it.

V. 38. The chief—In the name of all the people, that you may be witneſſes, and may ſee where the fault lies.

V. 39. Not a man anſwered him—None of thoſe who either ſaw Jonathan eating, or heard of it, informed againſt him; partly, becauſe they were ſatisfied that his ignorance excuſed him, and that there was ſome other reaſon of God's not anſwering; and partly from their great love to Jonathan, whom they would not expoſe to death for ſo ſmall an offence.

V. 41. Give a perfect lot—O Lord, ſo guide the lot, that it may diſcover who is guilty in this matter, and that it may clear the innocent. The people eſcaped—They were found guiltleſs.

V. 42. Jonathan was taken—By caſting the lot, the righteous judgment of God was appealed to; and by this diſcovery of what was done by Jonathan, we ſee God brings to light even thoſe things which are far from being done with any wicked intent. Who then ſhall ſtand in that righteous judgment, when the ſecrets of all hearts ſhall be made known, excepting ſuch as have accepted the offered mercy through a Mediator, and ſubmitted themſelves to the eternal Judge and King during this ſhort life of trial, and have waſhed their robes, and made them white through the blood of the Lamb?

V. 43. I muſt die—I am ſentenced to death, for that which I thought no crime at the time I committed it. And though Jonathan might have juſtified himſelf againſt his father's raſh ſentence; yet who is there, without knowing what they did, that have not expoſed themſelves to the righteous judgment of God? Surely all ought to cry, O! cleanſe thou me from my ſecret faults, that they may neither go before nor follow after me to judgment.

V. 44. Do ſo—An oath that he would execute his oath; by which it appears Saul would have done no leſs than Herod did, (Matth. xiv. 9.) who, for his oath's ſake, cut off the head of an holy man, to gratify the reſentment of a wicked woman. But thoſe

Before Christ cir. 1087.

45 And the people said unto Saul, Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid: [q] as the Lord liveth, there shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died not.

q 2 Sam. 14. 11. 1 Kings 1. 52.

46 Then Saul went up from following the Philistines: and the Philistines went to their own place.

47 ¶ So Saul took the kingdom over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, and against the children of [r] Ammon, and against Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines: and whithersoever he turned himself, he vexed them.

r Chap. 11. 11.

48 And he ‖ gathered an host, and [s] smote the Amalekites, and delivered Israel out of the hands of them that spoiled them.

‖ Or, wrought mightily.
s Chap. 15. 3.

49 Now [t] the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishui, and Melchishua: and the names of his two daughters were these; the name of the first-born Merab, and the name of the younger Michal:

t Chap. 31. 2. 1 Chron. 8. 33.

50 And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz: and the name of the captain of his host was * Abner the son of Ner, Saul's uncle.

* Heb. Abiner.

51 And Kish was the father of Saul; and Ner the father of Abner was the son of [u] Abiel.

Before Christ cir. 1087.
u Chap. 9. 1.

52 And there was sore war against the Philistines all the days of Saul: and when Saul saw any strong man, or any valiant man, [x] he took him unto him.

x Chap. 8. 11.

C H A P. XV.

SAmuel also said unto Saul, [a] The Lord sent me to anoint thee to be king over his people, over Israel: now therefore hearken thou unto the voice of the words of the Lord.

cir. 1079.
a Chap. 9. 16.

2 Thus saith the Lord of hosts, I remember that which Amalek did to Israel, [b] how he laid wait for him in the way when he came up from Egypt.

b Exod. 17. 8, 14. Num. 24. 20. Deut. 25. 18.

3 Now go, and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, ox and sheep, camel and ass.

4 And Saul gathered the people together, and numbered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen, and ten thousand men of Judah.

5 And Saul came to a city of Amalek, and * laid wait in the valley.

* Or, fought.

6 ¶ And Saul said unto [c] the Kenites, Go, depart, c Num. 24. 21. Judg. 1. 16.

those are only among the petty proofs which the history of mankind has given to the world, of the desperate lengths the pride of the human heart will go when left to itself, rather than its fancied honour shall receive any stain in the esteem of men. Thousands, and tens of thousands, have lost their lives to spare one proud worm the mortification of acknowledging that he had said, done, or designed that which was unjust or inconsiderate. And let them that know any thing of themselves say, from what they have felt of the pride of their hearts, that if they had been raised to the power of taking away the lives of others, or of leading and sending armies and fleets to fight, whether they would not have vindicated what they thought was due to their own honour at the same expence.—Expence, how great! who shall be able to say till that day shall come, when every transgression shall receive its just recompence from that God whose honours were despised in the comparison with those that come from men?

V. 45. Not one hair of his head shall fall to the ground—Not the least injury shall be done to him. Here it pleased God to vindicate and defend injured innocence, as at the last he will, so far as it can be done, in every creature; all that is good being from himself, the Divine honour is concerned to make that appear to be holy, just, and true, which was so in itself, whatever it was thought of by men. On this occasion, God makes use of the armies of Israel to defend his faithful servant against the king that commanded them. God's gracious Spirit raised from the people's heart one universal cry—Jonathan, our deliverer, shall live; he hath wrought with God this day: Like Israel of old he has had power with God, and has proved himself an heir of Abraham's faith; and our allegiance to God himself, now calls upon us neither to regard the oath nor the anger of the king, in declaring ourselves, under God, the protectors of innocence unjustly condemned.

V. 46. From following—By which it would appear that God had refused to answer him.

V. 47. He vexed them—He condemned them—he treated them like wicked people.

V. 48. He delivered Israel—Thus did God do his people good by Saul. Equally by Saul and Jonathan can he do his people good who ever waiteth to be gracious, and to save and defend all them that only hope for his favour as his free gift, for the sake of the Redeemer.

V. 52. He took him—Into his service; thus fulfilling what had been foretold to the people of the manner of the king they desired.

C H A P. XV.

V. 1. To be king—Consider how great an obligation thou art under to love, to fear, and obey God. And they that know God is no respecter of persons, but is willing to raise every soul of man to the possession of an incorruptible crown, and to a kingdom which shall not be moved, think themselves bound to love, and praise, and serve God for that which he has promised, much more than if he had already bestowed upon them the highest honours, with the greatest possessions, in a life which must so soon end.

V. 2. How he laid wait—Thus does God shew how he bears in mind the injuries that are done to those that fear him.

V. 3. Slay—This was the sentence of God. And who will presume to lift up his eyes to heaven and accuse the everlasting God of injustice, whether he destroys by the sword, or by famine? Sin has brought upon all men the sentence of death; and on all it must be executed: the time and manner is with the Almighty Judge. Death, whenever or in whatever manner it comes, is to the wicked the messenger of wrath; to those whose sins are taken away by the Lamb that was slain for the sins of the world, to them it

Before Christ cir. 1079.

depart, get you down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them: for [d] ye shewed kindness to all the children of Israel when they came up out of Egypt. So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites.

d Exod. 18. 10, 19. Num. 10. 29.

7 [e] And Saul smote the Amalekites from Havilah, until thou comest to [i] Shur, that is over against Egypt.

e Chap. 14. 48.

i Gen. 16. 7. and 25. 18.

8 And [g] he took Agag the king of the Amalekites alive, and [h] utterly destroyed all the people with the edge of the sword.

g See 1 Kings 20. 34, 35.

h See Chap. 30. 1.

9 But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheep, and of the oxen, and † of the fatlings, and the lambs, and all that was good, and would not utterly destroy them: but every thing that was vile and refuse, that they destroyed utterly.

† Or, of the second sort.

10 ¶ Then came the word of the Lord unto Samuel, saying,

11 [i] It repenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king: for he is turned back from following me, [k] and hath not performed my commandments. And it grieved Samuel; and he cried unto the Lord all night.

i 2 Sam. 24. 16.

k Chap. 13. 13.

Before Christ cir. 1079.

12 And when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, Saul came to [l] Carmel, and behold, he set him up a place, and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal.

l Josh. 15. 55.

13 And Samuel came to Saul; and Saul said unto him, Blessed be thou of the Lord: I have performed the commandment of the Lord.

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?

15 And Saul said, They have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God, and the rest we have utterly destroyed.

16 Then Samuel said unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the Lord hath said to me this night. And he said unto him, Say on.

17 And

it is better to depart, and to be with the Lord their Redeemer. And who shall number those multitudes of happy spirits, who, in the infancy of their days, have been taken away from the evil to come—even by means which their sinful parents might, in many cases, be the cause of. And O! what praises will those have for ever to render unto redeeming love, who, after forfeiting their own lives, and being the cause of their offspring being cut off by these public calamities; and who, in the moments of their sufferings, like the penitent thief on the cross (Luke xxiii.), cried for mercy, obtained it; and, by death, found themselves translated into the presence of God their Saviour, in his kingdom of glory, there to live for ever with their Lord, and the children he had given them.

V. 6. Ye shewed kindness—And therefore notice was given them, that they might separate themselves from those that were to be destroyed. Thus do they, who cast their bread upon the waters, find it after many days: charity, or love, being the end of the commandments of God, it has pleased him by this and numberless other instances to shew, that his own word shall receive its accomplishments, and that whatsoever a man soweth, the same shall he reap; and not only so, but that a blessing shall descend to the children and children's children of the just and merciful for ages to come; that all men might know, that the lovers of God and men not only possess for themselves, but lay up in store that which is of more value to their offspring, than all the property they can either obtain for themselves, or leave to their families.

V. 7. Smote—From one end of their country to the other all he met with; but doubtless many fled away.

V. 8. Saul took Agag alive—Spared him out of respect to his person, in which he acted contrary to the will of God; who, in dispensing justice, is no respecter of persons; but, in executing his judgments, the rich and the poor, the wise and the ignorant, the priests and the people, are alike before him; and whether it is a king, or the least of his subjects, that is guilty and impenitent, they stand without distinction exposed to the wrath of God, which is revealed from heaven against all unrighteousness of men.

V. 9. They would not destroy—So that they only executed the sentence of the sovereign Lawgiver, so far as was agreeable to themselves.

V. 11. It repenteth me—They give me cause to change my dealings with them. All night—Samuel spent in prayer to God for Saul, and for the people who had offended with him. How pleasing to the Father of Mercies must be the prayers of those that fear him, love him, and serve him, whether he sees it right or not to turn away his whole displeasure.

V. 12. He set him up a place—Erected a monument of his victory; and this he did to himself, and not to God, who had given him the power over the enemies of his country. And by this it appears he had departed from that humble state of mind in which he was, when he thought himself unworthy of the high station to which God was pleased to call him. Now he shews, that to exalt his own name, and to commemorate his own actions, was that which he had in view before the name and glory of God.

V. 13. I have performed—Not hitherto the Lord has helped me to do that which he commanded. So well did he think of his conduct, that he speaks the self-confident language of a person that thinks he has done all the commands of God. This is the natural breathings of a mind in which self reigns, and not the language of his Spirit, who said, when you have done all, you are unprofitable servants; and that it is of the Lord's mercy we are not consumed for our sins, when we have done all his grace enables us to do in obedience to his holy will.

V. 14. What meaneth—Thou art attended with evidence of thy own short-comings, in the very service which thy words declare thou hast performed. The great benefit of the Scriptures to us, is not from merely seeing what is said as to others, but in applying them to ourselves; judging of our own present state of mind, and trying our designs and actions by them; ever looking for that grace which alone can make the Scriptures themselves spiritual food to our souls. O! Lord, so incline our hearts to be blessed of thee, that we may not read thy word in vain, but, by it, daily become more and more wise unto salvation.

V. 15. They—The king laid the blame on his subjects for what was done under his own immediate authority.

V. 16. Stay—Do not proceed either in blaming the people, or in vindicating thyself: He who knows the thoughts and intents of the heart, hath acquainted me with what thou hast done. I will tell thee—What he says who is too wise to mistake, and too just to declare any thing more or less than the truth itself.

Before Christ cir. 1079.

17 And Samuel said, [m] When thou wast little in thine own sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel, and the Lord anointed thee king over Israel?

m Chap. 9. 21.

18 And the Lord sent thee on a journey, and said, Go, and utterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them until ‡ they be consumed.

‡ Heb. they consume them.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the Lord, but didst fly upon the spoil, and didst evil in the sight of the Lord?

20 And Saul said unto Samuel, Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the Lord, and have gone the way which the Lord sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites.

21 But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel said, [n] Hath the Lord as great delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the Lord? Behold, [c] to obey is better than sacrifice; and to hearken, than the fat of rams.

Before Christ cir. 1079.

n Psal. 50. 8, 9. Isai. 1. 11. o Eccles. 5. 1. Hos. 6. 6. Matth. 5. 24. and 9. 13. and 12. 7.

23 For rebellion is as the sin of § witchcraft, and stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry: because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being king.

§ Heb. divination.

24 ¶ [p] And Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned: for I have transgressed the commandment of the Lord, and thy words: because I feared the people, and obeyed their voice.

p See 2 Sam. 12. 13.

25 Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin, and turn again with me, that I may worship the Lord.

26 And Samuel said unto Saul, I will not return with thee: for thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, and the Lord hath rejected thee from being king over Israel.

27 And

V. 17. When thou wast—Lowly in heart, and devoted to the will of God, by yielding to that spirit which he poured out upon thee.

V. 18. The Lord sent thee—To execute his justice, and he gave thee commission, in express terms, what to do.

V. 19. Wherefore—Why hast thou not exactly observed the command of God? But didst fly—Actively interposed in saving that which was to have been destroyed. And didst evil—By substituting thy own will in the place of the will of God. In his sight—To whom all hearts are ever open, all desires known, even before they are conceived by us, and from whom no secrets are or can be hid. Great God! Give thy blessing to all the means used in obedience to thy will, for making thy nature so known to men, that thy rational creatures, from those that are placed in kings palaces, to such whose lot is cast to dwell in the poorest cottages, may all know that thou art present at every conversation, the witness of every action, and the strict observer of every motion of their wills and affections, and the final Judge of all men. (Rom. xiv. 12.)

V. 20. I have obeyed—I vindicate myself against thy charge of disobedience; and I either do not regard, or do not believe that the message which thou now deliverest to me is from the Lord, condemning me for not obeying his voice.

V. 21. Which should have been—If I have been wrong in sparing, I have not been so in the design, which was, that I might have of the spoil to offer sacrifice.

V. 22. Better—A faithful regard to the will of God is what he delights in; but any sacrifice, or offering, that can be made him by those who do not live in his spirit, and walk in his spirit, is not pleasing to him; and the Lord and Saviour of men is only in friendship with those that, by his grace, keep his commandments. (John xv. 14.)

V. 23. Rebellion—Disobedience to the will of God. Saul's crime was not doing what God required; so that all sins of omission, as well as commission, is the same crime against the supreme Judge and Governor, that treason is against the lawful authority in any country. This crime of rebellion against the Divine will is compared to witchcraft—which crime comprehends all kinds of influence produced by collusion with satan—a wilful entering into the spiritual service of satan, to know and do things by the aid of his knowledge and power. He that committeth sin is of the devil, and is guilty of rebellion against God; so that all sin is nearly allied to the sin of witchcraft, it being but another way of uniting with the great apostate against the Almighty. Stubbornness—Persevering in known wrong; refusing to acknowledge that which is right when convinced of it: This does equal violence to reason and religion as the crime of idolatry. Thou hast rejected—Hast had the word of God declared to thee, and yet acted contrary to it. He that despiseth the word shall be destroyed (Prov. xiii. 13.) Therefore thou art rejected by him whose word thou hast rejected. Hadst thou honoured God, thou shouldest have been honoured; but, because thou hast disobeyed him, thou shalt suffer dishonour in the sight of men, whose praise thou hast preferred to the favour of God.

V. 24. I have sinned, because I feared the people—He sinned because he did not fear God. They that truly fear God have no other just cause of fear. Reader, do you so fear God as neither to suffer yourself to be led or driven into any conduct contrary to a conscious sense of your duty to God, your fellow-creatures, or yourself? They that will be turned like a door upon its hinges, whoever takes hold of it are not his disciples, who did not turn his face away from those that smote him, but witnessed a good confession before Pilate, and was faithful till he had finished the glorious work which his Almighty Father had given him to do.

V. 25. Pardon my sin—I have offended against thee. Turn again with me—Shew me thy favour publicly. Samuel told him he had offended God, and forfeited his favour. Saul only desires pardon from Samuel, without taking notice of the necessity of his being first reconciled to God.

V. 26. I will not—Blessed are they who are so well acquainted with their duty, and so determined to do it, as to say I will not, to the request of a king, at the head of a powerful army, when that request is contrary to the known will of God. These words, as they are used by the prophet Samuel, are not the language of a mind insensible of the respect due to the king's station. When Saul was little in his own eyes—had an humble heart, then God gave him his grace; and, by the same spirit in the breast of the prophet, Samuel was led to attend Saul on his way, and to embrace him at their parting; but now the king had given way to pride, God resisted him; and the Spirit speaking the same language to Samuel, he answered I will not, in obedience to the will of God, which he had learned to do on earth as it is in heaven, whether it was to deliver messages of love, or of reproof.

V. 27. Rent

Before Christ cir. 1079.

27 And as Samuel turned about to go away, [q] he laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent.

[q] See 1 Kings 11. 30

28 And Samuel said unto him, [r] The Lord hath rent the kingdom of Israel from thee this day, and hath given it to a neighbour of thine, that is better than thou.

[r] Chap. 28. 17. 2 Kings 11. 31.

29 And also the ‖ strength of Israel [s] will not lie, nor repent: for he is not a man that he should repent.

‖ Or, eternity. or, victory.

[s] Num 23. 19. Ezek. 24. 14. 2 Tim. 2. 13. Tit. 1. 2.

30 Then he said, I have sinned; yet honour me now, I pray thee, before the elders of my people, and before Israel, and turn again with me, that I may worship the Lord thy God.

31 So Samuel turned again after Saul, and Saul worshipped the Lord.

32 ¶ Then said Samuel, Bring you hither to me Agag the king of the Amalekites: and Agag came unto him delicately. And Agag said, Surely the bitterness of death is past.

[t] Exod. 17. 11. Num 14. 45.

33 And Samuel said, [t] As thy sword hath made women childless, so shall thy mother be childless among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the Lord in Gilgal.

Before Christ cir. 1079.

34 ¶ Then Samuel went to Ramah, and Saul went up to his house to [u] Gibeah of Saul.

[u] Chap. 11. 4.

35 And [x] Samuel came no more to see Saul until the day of his death: nevertheless, Samuel mourned for Saul: and the Lord repented that he had made Saul king over Israel.

[x] See Chap. 19. 24.

CHAP. XVI.

cir. 1063.

AND the Lord said unto Samuel, [a] How long wilt thou mourn for Saul, seeing I have rejected him for reigning over Israel? fill thine horn with oil, and go, I will send thee to Jesse the Beth-lehemite: for I have provided me a king among his sons.

[a] Chap. 15. 35

2 And Samuel said, How can I go? If Saul hear it, he will kill me. And the Lord said, Take an heifer * with thee, and say, [b] I am come to sacrifice to the Lord.

* Heb. in thine hand.

[b] Chap. 9. 12. and 20. 29.

3 And call Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will shew

V. 27. Rent—Samuel makes use of this circumstance to confirm what he had said before.

V. 29. The strength of Israel—One of the titles of God, who is his Israel's strength, communicating, as from a living fountain, spiritual wisdom, resolution, purity, and peace, to every soul of man that looks unto God in Christ Jesus. (Heb. xii. 2.) Repent—God is not like men, that he should have occasion to change his conduct with regret, for any thing he ever did, or suffered to be done, less consistent with himself at one time than another.

V. 30. Honour me before my people—Self-esteem having now got the better, in Saul's breast, of the love of God, all things yield to the idol of the heart, and he vindicates himself, or confesses his sin, with the same view of retaining or recovering his honour in the people's sight.

V. 31. Samuel turned again—He refused to do it in compliance with the views with which Saul requested him, yet he did it to execute the express sentence of God, which was first given in charge to Saul. Saul worshipped—Unassisted by Samuel.

V. 32. Agag came delicately—With softness of appearance, concluding, from his having escaped death at the hand of the king, he had now nothing to fear.

V. 33. Samuel first declared the crime for which Agag was to suffer, and then executed the sentence upon him. God, in revealing his will to men, has shewn, by this and many other examples, that there is no way for the guilty to escape the justice of God, but by unfeigned repentance, and an humble application to himself for mercy; and even when God has justified the ungodly, and forgiven their sins, for the sake of the Saviour of men, still he shews us that his justice often takes the life of the body for the crimes that have been committed; and this, when men have thought themselves as secure as Agag did, under the protection of the king of Israel.

V. 34. Samuel appears to have stayed no longer with Saul than till he had executed the command of God.

V. 35. Saul having rejected the word of the Lord, and begun to live for himself, the prophet declines giving him that countenance which he gave him before; and, by this example, all that would live godly in Christ Jesus, are doubtless to understand, that no consideration of personal regard, or respect to any man's station, is to induce them so to carry themselves as to imply the least countenance given by such as fear God, those whose lives are contrary to his will. Nevertheless, Samuel mourned—In secret, that Saul's light had become darkness, and that he had lost sight of that end of living—the glory of God, which only can confer true honour and blessedness on men in any station, it being that end for which the holy angels, and all the redeemed of the Lord, continually live in heaven (Rev. vii. 9, &c.); and who that has any sense of living for God and eternity, can avoid mourning for immortal souls, who shew they are only living for the world and time; objects so much beneath the love and care of creatures made capable of loving the everlasting God, the lover of souls, the redeemer of men, and he, whose smiles fills all heaven with endless joy.

CHAP. XVI.

V. 1. The reproof given to Samuel appears to be for the long continuance of his sorrow on Saul's account. The Father of Mercies would not have his faithful servant mourn, after the Divine sentence became final; so that by this it may be understood, when the last judgment shall be pronounced on those that rejected the mercies of God, they will be banished from his glorious presence, unmourned for, or lamented by the redeemed of the Lord, whose wills are lost in the will of God. In the place of the king, desired by the people of Israel, God had provided himself a king. One full of faith was to be raised up in the room of him that had fallen from grace; and however those that know God may mourn that any fall away, yet it is still to be remembered that God has not put that confidence in his saints, as to divest himself, for a moment, of the care of his church on earth, or of the government of all things concerning her welfare. As the head is to the natural body, so is Christ Jesus to his church; and if a Saul ceases to live to God, a David is provided in his place.

V. 2. Say—Declare this and do it; but thou art not required to make known the design thou art entrusted to execute, to those that have ceased to live to God.

V. 3. I will shew thee—Do as thou art commanded, and thou shalt be shewn what to do as soon as it is necessary to be known.

V. 4. Samuel

Before Christ cir. 1063.

shew thee what thou shalt do: and thou shalt anoint unto me him whom I name unto thee.

4 And Samuel did that which the Lord spake, and came to Beth-lehem: and the elders of the town trembled at his † coming, and said, [c] Comest thou peaceably?

† Heb. meeting.
c 1 Kings 2. 13.

5 And he said, Peaceably: I am come to sacrifice unto the Lord: sanctify yourselves, and come with me to the sacrifice. And he sanctified Jesse and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

6 ¶ And it came to pass when they were come, that he looked on [d] Eliab, and said, Surely the Lord's anointed is before him.

d Chap. 17. 13. called Elihu.
1 Chro. 27. 18.

7 But the Lord said unto Samuel, Look not on his countenance, or on the height of his stature; because I have refused him: for the LORD seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the ‡ outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the [e] heart.

‡ Heb. eyes.
e 1 Chro. 28. 9. Psal. 7. 9. Jer. 11. 20. and 17. 10. and 20. 12. 1 Chap. 17. 13.

8 Then Jesse called [i] Abinadab, and made him pass before Samuel: and he said, Neither hath the Lord chosen this.

§ Shimeah, 2 Sam. 13. 3. Shimmah, 1 Chro. 2. 13.

9 Then Jesse made § Shammah to pass by: and he said, Neither hath the Lord chosen this.

10 Again, Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel: and Samuel said unto Jesse, The Lord hath not chosen these.

11 And Samuel said unto Jesse, Are here all thy children? And he said, There remaineth yet the youngest, and behold, he keepeth the sheep. And Samuel said unto Jesse, [g] Send and fetch him: for we will not sit ‖ down till he come hither.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

g 2 Sam. 7. 8. Psal. 78. 70.
‖ Heb. round.

12 And he sent, and brought him in: Now he was ruddy, and withal * of a beautiful countenance, and goodly to look to. And the Lord said, Arise, anoint him: for this is he.

* Heb. fair of eye.

13 Then Samuel took the horn of oil, and [h] anointed him in the midst of his brethren: and [i] the spirit of the Lord came upon David, from that day forward: so Samuel rose up and went to Ramah.

h Psal. 89. 20.
i See Num. 27. 18. Judg. 13. 25. and 14. 6. Chap. 10. 6, 10.

14 ¶ [k] But the spirit of the Lord departed from Saul, and [l] an evil spirit from the Lord † troubled him.

Before Christ cir. 1065.

k Chap. 11. 6.
l Judg. 9. 23. Chap. 18. 10. and 19. 9.
† Or, terrified.

15 And Saul's servants said unto him, Behold now, an evil spirit from God troubleth thee.

16 Let our lord now command thy servants which are before thee, to seek out a man who is a cunning player on an harp: and it shall come to pass when the evil spirit from God is upon thee, that he shall play with his hand, and thou shalt be well.

17 And Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that can play well, and bring him to me.

18 Then

V. 4. Samuel feared Saul before; but now, encouraged by the word of the Lord, he has nothing more to object. God ever speaks by the Scriptures and by the voice of his holy spirit, applying the words thereof, or truths agreeing therewith; and they that would go in the strength of the Lord, to the discharge of the duties he gives them to do, must look to his word, remember his holy promises, and listen to his voice.

V. 5. Come with me to the sacrifice—How shall they come? By sanctifying themselves. And may not every minister, and every parent say, to those God has committed to their care—Come to the great sacrifice—Christ Jesus the Lord? and shall any one come to the Holy Jesus without sincere desires of being delivered from evil, and to be made like unto him, who gave himself to die for our sins?

V. 6. Surely—This is the person I am sent to anoint. If a prophet of God was thus prone to err, how cautious are all required to be, that they speak not till they have well considered what they ought to say, as well as their design in speaking. The tongue is an unruly member, and blessed is he that governs it in the fear of the Lord, watching unto prayer.

V. 7. The rich, the wise, the great, the beautiful, the prosperous attract the attention of men; the eye of God is within, upon his dwelling-place, the humble believing heart, though covered with the poorest appearance, whilst he resists the proud and self-confident, whatever are the external advantages with which they are attended.

V. 10. Jesse made seven of his sons to pass before Samuel—But of these that were called, none were chosen. And when all shall appear before the Lord, shall it be found that out of the many that were called to knowledge of the necessity of repentance and faith in the mercies of God through a Mediator, that but few comply with the calls of God, and come unto him for life and salvation?

V. 11. He keepeth the sheep—And consequently the most unfit for that high employment. God so ordered it by his Providence, that the choice of David might plainly appear to be God's work, and not Samuel's or Jesse's design.

V. 12. Goodly—Of a comely and majestic aspect.

V. 13. The spirit of the Lord came upon David—By which he was immediately endowed with extraordinary gifts, as strength, courage, wisdom, and magnanimity, and other excellent qualities which fitted him for, and put him upon noble attempts; for which he presently grew famous, even whilst he lived a private life.

V. 14. The holy spirit had been poured out upon Saul, then he lived in an humble dependance on God. But Saul having grieved and frustrated the grace of God, the offers of the spirit were withdrawn from him. The prophet had been before reproved for his sorrow for him, and from which it seems just to conclude, that the ministering angels, no longer unseen, attended him with kind concern. And being thus forsaken, he stood exposed to the evil he had chosen, and the spiritual executioners of his Almighty displeasure, whose word and favour Saul had rejected, now with rage seized upon him, whom before they had tempted to imitate their example in falling from God.

V. 15, 16. The songs of Israel were doubtless such as ascribed salvation to God and the Lamb; and it would be inconsistent with David's present character, for faith in the Holy One of Israel, to suppose him famed for his skill in any other music; and wherever this was devoutly sung or played, surely fallen angels would shun the place, to avoid being stung with the sad remembrance of what once they were, before they by transgression fell from those blessed abodes, where songs of sacred praise increased the joys of heaven.

V. 18. The

Before Christ cir. 1063.

18 Then answered one of the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in ‡ matters, and a comely person, and the Lord is with him.

‡ Or, speech.

19 ¶ Wherefore Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send me David thy son, [m] which is with the sheep.

m Chap. 17. 15.

20 And Jesse took an ass laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and sent them by David his son unto Saul.

21 And David came to Saul, and stood before him; and he loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer.

22 And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, Let David, I pray thee, stand before me: for he hath found favour in my sight.

n Verse 14.

23 And it came to pass, when [n] the evil spirit from God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him.

CHAP. XVII.

cir. 1063.

NOW the Philistines gathered together their armies to battle, and were gathered together at [a] Shochoh, which belongeth to Judah, and pitched between Shochoh and Azekah, in * Ephes-dammim.

a Josh. 15. 35.

* Or, the coast of Dammim, called Pas-dammim, 1 Chro. 11. 13.

2 And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and pitched by the valley of Elah, and † set the battle in array against the Philistines.

† Heb. ranged the battle.

3 And the Philistines stood on a mountain on the one side, and Israel stood on a mountain on the other side: and there was a valley between them.

4 ¶ And there went out a champion out of the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

5 And he had an helmet of brass upon his head, and he was ‡ armed with a coat of mail: and the weight of the coat was five thousand shekels of brass.

‡ Heb. clothed.

6 And he had greaves of brass upon his legs, and a § target of brass between his shoulders.

§ Or, gorget.

7 And the staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam, and his spear's head weighed six hundred shekels of iron: and one bearing a shield went before him.

8 And he stood and cried unto the armies of Israel, and said unto them, Why are ye come out to set your battle in array? am not I a Philistine, and you servants to Saul? choose you a man for you, and let him come down to me.

9 If he be able to fight with me, and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and serve us.

10 And the Philistine said, I defy the armies of Israel this day; give me a man, that we may fight together.

11 When Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid.

12 ¶ Now David was [b] the son of that [c] Ephrathite of Bethlehem-judah, whose name was Jesse, and he had [d] eight sons: and the man went among men for an old man in the days of Saul.

b Chap. 16. 1.
c Gen. 35. 19.
d Chap. 16. 10, 11.
See 1 Chron. 2. 13, 14, 15.

13 And the three eldest sons of Jesse went, and followed Saul to the battle: and the names of his three sons that went to the battle, were Eliab the first-born, and next unto him, Abinadab, and the third, Shammah. 14 And

V. 18. The Lord is with him—The last and indeed only perfection of any character.

V. 19. Send me David—Thus was the evil that came upon Saul, made the occasion of calling David to the seat of government, to prepare him for the duties of the high station to which he was called and intended soon to be advanced; and thus are all things made to work together for their good that live in the spirit and walk in the spirit.

V. 21. Stood—Ministered unto him. Armour-bearer—He had that place conferred upon him, though we do not read that he ever exercised it; for it seems he was gone back to his father upon some occasion not related, and had abode with him some considerable time before the war (described chap. xvii.) happened.

V. 23. The evil spirit departed from him—For a season.

CHAP. XVII.

V. 1. To battle—To revenge their former defeat, (chap. xiv.)

V. 3. Side— Where they had disposed their camps, that, if the one should assault the other, the assailant should have the disadvantage, and be obliged to fight from a lower place.

V. 5. Five thousand shekels—Seventy-eight pounds.

V. 7. Beam—For thickness.

V. 8. Come down to me—That the battle may be decided by us two. Such offers were frequent in those times. And possibly he thought the valiant Jonathan, who had assaulted an whole army, would never have refused this challenge. But God so ordered this, that none should accept it, because he would reserve this honour for David, as a step to his kingdom.

V. 11. They were afraid—Which may seem strange, considering the glorious promises, and their late experiences of divine assistance. But all men so entirely depend upon God in all things, that when he withdraws his help, the most valiant and resolute persons are no less without wisdom what to do, than without courage and strength to do that which is best.

V. 15. From Saul—From Saul's court: where, having been entertained by Saul, to relieve him, he was permitted to go to his father's house, till he should be sent for again.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

14 And David was the youngeſt: and the three eldeſt followed Saul.

15 But David went, and returned from Saul, [e] to feed his father's ſheep at Beth-lehem.

[e] Chap. 16. 19.

16 And the Philiſtine drew near, morning and evening, and preſented himſelf forty days.

17 And Jeſſe ſaid unto David his ſon, Take now for thy brethren an ephah of this parched corn, and theſe ten loaves, and run to the camp to thy brethren.

‖ Heb. cheeſes of milk.

18 And carry theſe ten ‖ cheeſes unto the * captain of their thouſand, and look how thy brethren fare, and take their pledge.

* Heb. captain of a thouſand.

19 Now Saul, and they, and all the men of Iſrael were in the valley of Elah, fighting with the Philiſtines.

20 ¶ And David roſe up early in the morning, and left the ſheep with a keeper, and took, and went, as Jeſſe had commanded him; and he came to the ‡ trench, as the hoſt was going forth to the ‡ fight, and ſhouted for the battle.

‡ Or, place of the carriage. ‡ Or, battle-array, or, place of fight.

21 For Iſrael and the Philiſtines had put the battle in array, army againſt army.

§ Heb. the veſſels from upon him.

22 And David left § his carriage in the hand of the keeper of the carriage, and ran into the army, and came and ‖ ſaluted his brethren.

‖ Heb. aſked his brethren of peace.

23 And as he talked with them, behold, there came up the champion (the Philiſtine of Gath, Goliath by name) out of the armies of the Philiſtines, and ſpake according to the ſame words: and David heard them.

24 And all the men of Iſrael, when they ſaw the man, fled * from him, and were ſore afraid.

* Heb. from his face.

25 And the men of Iſrael ſaid, Have ye ſeen this man that is come up? ſurely to defy Iſrael is he come up: and it ſhall be that the man who killeth him, the king will enrich him with great riches, and [l] will give him his daughter, and make his father's houſe free in Iſrael.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

[l] Joſh. 15. 16.

26 And David ſpake to the men that ſtood by him, ſaying, What ſhall be done to the man that killeth this Philiſtine, and taketh away the reproach from Iſrael? for who is this uncircumciſed Philiſtine, that he ſhould defy the armies of the living God?

27 And the people anſwered him after this manner, ſaying, So ſhall it be done to the man that killeth him.

28 ¶ And Eliab his eldeſt brother heard what he ſpake unto the men; and Eliab's anger was kindled againſt David, and he ſaid, Why cameſt thou down hither? and with whom haſt thou left thoſe few ſheep in the wilderneſs? I know thy pride, and the naughtineſs of thine heart; for thou art come down, that thou mighteſt ſee the battle.

29 And David ſaid, What have I now done? Is there not a cauſe?

30 ¶ And he turned from him towards another, and ſpake after the ſame † manner: and the people anſwered him again after the former manner.

† Heb. word.

31 And when the words were heard which David ſpake, they rehearſed them before Saul: and he ‡ ſent for him.

‡ Heb. took him.

32 ¶ And David ſaid to Saul, Let no man's heart fail becauſe of him: thy ſervant will go and fight with this Philiſtine.

33 And

V. 18. Take their pledge—Bring me ſome token of their affection and of their welfare.

V. 19. Fighting—In readineſs to fight.

V. 20. Trench—The camp was there intrenched. Shouted—As the manner was, both to animate themſelves, and to terrify their enemies.

V. 22. Carriage—The proviſions which he had brought to his brethren.

V. 25. Enrich him—It is obſervable that Saul, in his diſtreſs, doth not encourage himſelf in God, nor ſeek his counſel, or favour, by prayers and ſacrifices, but expects relief from men only. This was one effect of the departure of God's Spirit from him. Free—From all thoſe tributes and charges which either the court or the camp required.

V. 26. Who is this—Why ſhould ye all be thus diſmayed at him? He is but a man, a ſtranger and enemy to God, and no way able to ſtand before them who have the living and Almighty God for their ſtrength.

V. 28. Againſt David—Becauſe he thought him guilty of intolerable pride and preſumption, in pretending to ſuch an attempt; or becauſe he envied him the glory of ſo great an undertaking, and took this as a reproach to himſelf, and to all the reſt, that, having the great God on their ſide, had not the faith or courage to fight with the Philiſtine. With whom haſt thou left thoſe few ſheep—Thou art much fitter to tend ſheep than to appear in an army, or to fight with a giant. I know the naughtineſs of thine heart—Thy ſelf-confidence and vain-glory. Whoever will go, in the ſtrength of faith, to fight the battles of the Lord againſt ſatan's kingdom, muſt humbly ſubmit to be thought and ſpoke of as David was, without being diſcouraged either by the greatneſs of the work, or by the thoughts or words of their brethren; but, encouraging themſelves in the Lord, go forward in his ſtrength, and leave the event to him.

V. 29. What have I done—Am I to be condemned for propoſing that which the holy One of Iſrael has promiſed to enable his people to perform, if they are but obedient to him? Cauſe—Is there not an occaſion, when the very power of God to deliver his people is defied, to act by faith in God, and attempt thoſe things by his help, which are for his glory and his people's good?

V. 30. He ſpake—Being ſecretly moved by God's Spirit to undertake the combat, he ſpeaks with ſeveral perſons about it, that it might come to the king's ear.

V. 33. Thou art not able—When Saul had ſinned away the grace of God, he forgot his gracious promiſes that one of Iſrael ſhould

Before Christ cir. 1063.

33 And Saul said to David, Thou art not able to go against this Philistine, to fight with him: for thou art but a youth, and he a man of war from his youth.

34 And David said unto Saul, Thy servant kept his father's sheep, and there came a lion, and a bear, and took a § lamb out of the flock;

§ Or, kid.

35 And I went out after him, and smote him, and delivered it out of his mouth: and when he arose against me, I caught him by his beard, and smote him, and slew him.

36 Thy servant slew both the lion and the bear: and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, seeing he hath defied the armies of the living God.

37 David said moreover, The Lord that delivered me out of the paw of the lion, and out of the paw of the bear, he will deliver me out of the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said unto David, Go, and the Lord be with thee.

‖ Heb. clothed David with his clothes.

38 ¶ And Saul ‖ armed David with his armour, and he put an helmet of brass upon his head, also he armed him with a coat of mail.

39 And David girded his sword upon his armour, and he assayed to go, for he had not proved it: and David said unto Saul, I cannot go with these: for I have not proved them. And David put them off him.

40 And he took his staff in his hand, and chose him five smooth stones out of the * brook, and put them in a shepherd's † bag which he had, even in a scrip, and his sling was in his hand, and he drew near to the Philistine.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

* Or, valley. † Heb. vessel.

41 And the Philistine came on and drew near unto David, and the man that bare the shield went before him.

42 And when the Philistine looked about and saw David, he disdained him: for he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance.

43 And the Philistine said unto David, ‖ Am I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves? and the Philistine cursed David by his gods.

‖ 1 Chap. 24. 14. 2 Sam. 3. 8. and 9. 8. and 16. 9. 2 Kings 8. 13.

44 And the Philistine said to David, Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the field.

45 Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield; but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou hast defied.

46 This day will the Lord ‡ deliver thee into mine hand, and I will smite thee, and take thine head from thee, and I will give the carcases of the host of the Philistines this day unto the fowls of the air, and to the wild beasts should chase a thousand; he remembered not the more than literal performance of God's faithfulness in the person of his own son, when God, by him and his armour-bearer, put a whole army to flight. A youth—David is supposed to have been about twenty years old at this time.

‡ Heb. shut thee up.

V. 37. The Lord will deliver me—His good-will is the same to me that it then was, and his power is not diminished. Saul said, Go—It is not strange that Saul consents to the combat, considering David's pious and convincing discourse, grounded upon experience, and the dangerous condition of the Israelitish affairs, and the absolute refusal of all other persons. The Lord be with thee—Though those that have lost the Spirit may use such expressions as these Saul did, only from custom, it is no cause why those, that are living by faith, should refrain from such words as discover their sense of God, whenever a just occasion calls upon them to do so.

V. 39. I have not proved them—I have no skill, nor experience, in the management of this kind of arms.

V. 40. His staff—Saul was desirous that David should carry with him this military appearance. And may it not be generally, as it was with Saul, that such as have the least inward confidence in God, as the only Saviour, lay the greatest stress on mere outward forms and appearances? David, in compliance with the king's desire, put the armour on, but his past experience being brought to his mind, he knew he was not assisted by any such weapons; and he durst not make use of them, lest it should diminish the glory to be given to God, in whose strength he went, relying on his blessing on the weapons he had been used to.

V. 42. Of a fair countenance—Not having so much as the countenance of a martial person.

V. 43. By his gods—He prayed that his gods Dagon and Ashtaroth would destroy David.

V. 44. I will—How do all such examples shew, that all boasting, or even thoughts of what men will or can do, is unbecoming. Not I will, but if the Lord will, ought only to be the thoughts and language of creatures who hold their lives, from one moment to another, dependant on his pleasure who gave, and must ever give, to all the power to live.

V. 45. With a shield—Thy trust is in thy own strength, and in thy arms. Saul's confidence and the Philistines were in the same weapons; and when there is a want of faith in God, there ceases to be any distinction, but in name, between those that are called Israel, and those that are not. I come—By a commission from God, with confidence in him, and assurance of his help, and for the vindication of his honour. Whom thou hast defied—In defying that army and people, whereof he has promised to be the Lord and protector.

V. 46. This day will the Lord—The speedy accomplishment of what David foretold on this remarkable occasion, would shew to all the believers in Israel, that God was raising up a prophet to them, as well as a captain and a leader. That all the earth may know—That there is an Almighty Being that can take the weak to destroy the mighty, and who will ever do that which is best for all them that put their trust in him, and who give to him all the glory; and which is as much required to be done for the blessings of prosperity in common life, as in the affairs of a nation. The Philistine's boasting and cursing calls for David's reply in the name of the Lord; and he delivers his prophetical declaration of the event before he goes far from the camp of Israel, that all their beasts of the earth; that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

47 And all this assembly shall know, that the Lord saveth not with sword and spear: for the battle is the Lord's, and he will give you into our hands.

48 And it came to pass when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the army to meet the Philistine.

49 And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his forehead, that the stone sunk into his forehead; and he fell upon his face to the earth.

50 So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and smote the Philistine and slew him; but there was no sword in the hand of David.

51 Therefore David ran and stood upon the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of the sheath thereof, and slew him, and cut off his head therewith. And when the Philistines saw their champion was dead, they fled.

52 And the men of Israel, and of Judah arose, and shouted, and pursued the Philistines, until thou come to the valley, and to the gates of Ekron: and the wounded of the Philistines fell down by the way to Shaaraim, even unto Gath, and unto Ekron.

53 And the children of Israel returned from chasing after the Philistines, and they spoiled their tents.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

54 And David took the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem; but he put his armour in his tent.

55 ¶ And when Saul saw David go forth against the Philistine, he said unto Abner the captain of the host, Abner, whose son is this youth? And Abner said, As thy soul liveth, O king, I cannot tell.

56 And the king said, Inquire thou whose son the stripling is.

57 And as David returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner took him and brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in his hand.

58 And Saul said to him, Whose son art thou, thou young man? And David answered, I am the son of thy servant Jesse the Bethlehemite.

CHAP. XVIII.

AND it came to pass when he had made an end of speaking unto Saul, that [a] the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, [b] and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. [a] a Gen. 44. 30. [b] Chap. 20. 17.

2 And Saul took him that day, [c] and would let him go no more home to his father's house. [c] Chap. 17. 15.

3 Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, because he loved him as his own soul.

4 And Jonathan stript himself of the robe that their assembly might be witness that it was by faith in the God of Israel that David went.

V. 47. This assembly shall know—That he can save without these arms, and with the most contemptible weapons, such as mine seem to thee. The battle is the Lord's—The events of war are wholly in his power, to give success to whom, and by what means he pleaseth. He will give you into our hands—David speaks thus confidently, because he was assured of it from God.

V. 48. The Philistine arose and drew nigh—Towards the camp of Israel, as he had done before for many days together. David ran—To meet the armed giant, whose appearance had filled Saul, and all the warriors of Israel, with terror; and the eyes of the opposite armies are now fixed on Goliath and Jesse's son. Goliath raises the helmet on his lofty brow, and, with fierce scorn, brandishes his monstrous weapon in the air, impatient to give the flesh of the fair Israelite to the fowls of heaven; whilst David, with nimble foot, expressive of his faith in the God he knew and loved, took from his scrip the pebble of the brook, and slung it as he ran to set his feet upon the boasting giant.

V. 50. There was no sword in the hand of David—His weapons were not carnal.

V. 51. The Philistines saw their champion dead—And their confidence being only in human strength, they fled, convinced that the God of Israel was now against them.

V. 52. Israel pursued—Believing that the God of their fathers, who had now begun to appear in their behalf, would give them the victory over all their enemies.

V. 54. David—After the battle took up the head of Goliath, that they might not forget to give glory to the great Giver of their victory. He put his armour in his tent—To be preserved as a monument of the help the Lord had given him, and to Israel by his means.

V. 55. Saul—Had forgot David, though he had been so much benefited by his means, in driving away his spiritual enemies. Those that are advanced to high stations, may soon be led to think they have such a title to the blessings of God, and the services of men, as to lose the sweet pleasures of gratitude, and to forget the hand that made them great, as well as those that have been used to do them good.

CHAP. XVIII.

V. 1. Jonathan loved him as his own soul—A kindred spirit to his own breathed through all that he had seen David do, and heard him say; and love was the consequence of the agreement and likeness of their souls. And of all earthly blessings surely it is the first, to meet and live with kindred souls. To be united with those that are animated by the same spirit, living to the same God, having the same ends in view, more willing to serve than to be served, to suffer pain than give it.

V. 3. A covenant—An agreement; perpetual friendship between them.

V. 4. To his girdle—As a pledge of his great respect and affection to him, and to relieve David from that contempt which might be shewn him for his pastoral habit and condition, and to put him into an habit suitable to his present greatness.

V. 5. David

Before Christ cir. 1063. that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his ſword, and to his bow, and to his girdle.

5 ¶ And David went out whitherſoever Saul ſent him, and * behaved himſelf wiſely: and Saul ſet him over the men of war, and he was accepted in the ſight of all the people, and alſo in the ſight of Saul's ſervants.

* Or, proſpered.

6 And it came to paſs as they came when David was returned from the ſlaughter of the † Philiſtine, that [d] the women came out of all cities of Iſrael, ſinging and dancing, to meet king Saul, with tabrets, with joy, and with ‡ inſtruments of muſick.

† Or, Philiſtines.
d Exod. 15. 20.
‡ Heb. three-ſtringed inſtruments.

7 And the women anſwered one another as they played, and ſaid, [e] Saul hath ſlain his thouſands, and David his ten thouſands.

e Chap. 21. 11. and 29. 5.

8 And Saul was very wroth, and the ſaying § diſpleaſed him; and he ſaid, They have aſcribed unto David ten thouſands, and to me they have aſcribed but thouſands: and what can he have more but the kingdom?

§ Heb. was evil in his eyes.

9 And Saul eyed David from that day and forward.

10 ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that [i] the evil ſpirit from God came upon Saul, [g] and he propheſied in the midſt of the houſe: and David played with his hand, as at other times: [h] and there was a javelin in Saul's hand.

Before Christ cir. 1063.
i Chap. 16. 14.
g Chap. 19. 24.
h Chap. 19. 9.

11 And Saul caſt the javelin; for he ſaid, I will ſmite David even to the wall with it: and David avoided out of his preſence twice.

12 ¶ And Saul was afraid of David, becauſe the Lord was with him, and was departed from Saul.

13 Therefore Saul removed him from him, and made him his captain over a thouſand; and [i] he went out and came in before the people.

i Verſe 16. 2 Sam. 5. 2.

14 And David ‖ behaved himſelf wiſely in all his ways; and the Lord was with him.

‖ Or, proſpered.

15 Wherefore when Saul ſaw that he behaved himſelf very wiſely, he was afraid of him.

16 But all Iſrael and Judah loved David, becauſe he went out and came in before them.

17 ¶ And

V. 5. David went out—Upon military expeditions, of which that word is often uſed. Saul ſet him—Gave him ſome conſiderable command in his army, though not the chief.

V. 6. Of the Philiſtine—Of Goliath, and the other Philiſtines. Singing—This ſong, though placed afterwards, ſeems to have been ſung before David's advancement; and that this did not hinder his preferment, muſt be aſcribed partly to Saul's policy, who, though he had a deſign to cruſh David upon a fit occaſion, yet he ſaw it neceſſary, for his own reputation, and the encouragement of other men's valour, and for the ſatisfaction of Jonathan, and the juſt and general expectation of the whole army and people, to give him ſome conſiderable preferment for the preſent; and principally to God's providence over-ruling Saul againſt his own inclination, and his miſtaken intereſt.

V. 7. David his ten thouſands—Becauſe he killed Goliath, which was the principal cauſe of the ſlaughter of the Philiſtines.

V. 8. But the kingdom—What greater honour can they give him, but that of the kingdom: I now perceive that this is the favourite of God, and of the people: This is that man after God's own heart, to whom Samuel told me that God would tranſfer my kingdom.

V. 9. Saul eyed David—Narrowly obſerved all his actions, that he might underſtand whether he had any deſign upon the kingdom or no; and that he might find ſome colourable pretence of putting him to death.

V. 10. Saul—Gave way to envy, and the evil ſpirit came upon him. He that gives way wilfully to any wrong temper, by ſo doing grieves the holy Spirit, and opens a paſſage for the tempter and deceiver of ſouls, into the heart and mind. Saul propheſied—Imitated the manner of the prophets, by the ſuggeſtion of the evil ſpirit, that he might lead David from all ſuſpicion of Saul's deſign to kill him, by which ſatan would have deſtroyed a ſervant of the Moſt High, and increaſed the bitterneſs of grief in the mind of Saul.

V. 11. Saul ſaid—Reſolved on this. David avoided twice—Once at this time, and another time upon a like occaſion. (Chap. xix. 10.)

V. 12. Saul was afraid of David—Leſt, as he had gotten the favour of God and of all the people, he ſhould alſo have taken away his kingdom.

V. 13. Saul removed him—From his preſence and court; which he did, that he might expoſe him to the greateſt hazards. What will not envy do, or any other of the tempers of fallen ſpirits? By this inſtance we ſee, that one paſſion prevailing in the mind, will lead thoſe that are influenced by it, to hazard their own deſtruction to ruin the object of their reſentment? What muſt be the miſeries of that world, where ſuch ſpirits are bound, as in chains, to dwell together for ever, tormented and tormenting one another, with increaſing ſkill, in all the arts of that deviliſh nature, which, in this life of trial, they rather choſe to obey, than yield to that bleſſed Spirit which would have led them, from grace to grace, to all the mind that was in Jeſus.

V. 14. The Lord was with him—The effect of which were wiſdom in the diſcharge of his duty with power to do it, and ſucceſs in all he undertook. In the Old Teſtament times, proſperity was the general conſequence of the favour of God reſting upon any perſon, that it might be undeniably proved to the world, that when the riches of the kingdom of grace were finally made known, all men might have the full aſſurance, that ſpiritual proſperity would ever be the conſequence of faith in Jeſus Chriſt.

V. 15. Saul was afraid of him—God gives his grace to the humble; he is with them by his Spirit; and where God is preſent, fear reſts upon thoſe that are about them, who do not poſſeſs the ſame ſpirit; that thoſe that fear the righteous are often led to perſecute them, that they may free themſelves from the pain which that fear occaſions.

V. 16. All Iſrael and Judah loved David—Religious and irreligious; they ſaw he continued in the ſame ſpirit in which he was when he hazarded his life, with ſo much ſucceſs, for their deliverance.

V. 17. Her will I give thee to wife—This was no more than Saul was obliged to do by his former promiſe, (chap. xvii. 25.) which here he renews and pretends to perform, though he intended it not, as the ſequel ſhews; and by which he makes himſelf

Before Christ cir. 1063.

17 ¶ And Saul said to David, Behold my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife: only be thou * valiant for me, and fight the Lord's battles: for Saul said, Let not mine hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philistines be upon him.

* Heb. a son of valour.

18 And David said unto Saul, Who am I? and what is my life, or my father's family in Israel, that I should be son in law to the king?

19 But it came to pass at the time when Merab Saul's daughter should have been given to David, that she was given unto [k] Adriel the Meholathite to wife.

k 2 Sam. 21. 8.

20 And Michal Saul's daughter loved David: and they told Saul, and the thing † pleased him.

† Heb. was right in his eyes.

21 And Saul said, I will give him her, that she may be a snare to him, and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him. Wherefore Saul said to David, Thou shalt [l] this day be my son in law, in the one of the twain.

l See Ver. 26.

22 ¶ And Saul commanded his servants, saying, Commune with David secretly, and say, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his servants love thee: now therefore be the king's son in law.

23 And Saul's servants spake those words in the ears of David: and David said, Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a king's son in law, seeing that I am a poor man, and lightly esteemed?

24 And the servants of Saul told him, saying, ‡ On this manner spake David.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

‡ Heb. according to these words.

25 And Saul said, Thus shall ye say to David, The king desireth not any dowry; but an hundred foreskins of the Philistines, to be avenged of the king's enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philistines.

26 And when his servants told David these words, it pleased David well to be the king's son in law: and the days were not § expired.

§ Heb. fulfilled.

27 Wherefore David arose and went, he and his men, and slew of the Philistines two hundred men; and [m] David brought their foreskins, and they gave them in full tale to the king, that he might be the king's son in law: and Saul gave him Michal his daughter to wife.

m 2 Sam. 3. 14.

28 ¶ And Saul saw and knew that the Lord was with David, and that Michal Saul's daughter loved him.

29 And Saul was yet the more afraid of David; and Saul became David's enemy continually.

30 Then the princes of the Philistines went forth: and it came to pass after they went forth, that David behaved himself more wisely than all the servants of Saul, so that his name was much ‖ set by.

‖ Heb. precious.

CHAP.

guilty of ingratitude, injustice, and breach of trust, and also of gross hypocrisy. Saul said—He thought so great an offer would oblige David to expose himself to the most dangerous enterprises.

V. 18. What is my life—How little is my life worth, that by the exposing of that to some hazard, (which Saul required of him) I should purchase a king's daughter: In these expressions David sheweth not only his humility, but also his wisdom, in discovering so deep a sense of his own meanness, that Saul might see how far he was from aspiring at the kingdom.

V. 19. At the time—When the marriage was ready to be solemnized. She was given to—The son of Barzillai, as he is called, (2 Sam. xxi. 8.) This was an act of great injustice and perfidiousness; and the children of this marriage were cut off. (2 Sam. xxi.)

V. 20. Pleased him—The unhappy state of Saul's mind appears, by his being pleased with the prospect of destroying David, at the expence of doing the last injury he could do to his own child, next to that of taking away her life.

V. 21. In one of the twain—Thou wast disappointed in thy expectation of one of my daughters, thou shalt certainly have the other.

V. 22. Saul commanded his servants—Having so lately deceived David, he found him backward to embrace his second offer, and therefore sets others to persuade him.

V. 23. I am a poor man, and lightly esteemed—And therefore neither have estate nor credit to give (according to the custom) a dowry suitable to her quality.

V. 26. The days were not expired—The time allowed by Saul.

V. 28. Saul saw and knew—That David was highly favoured of the Lord; but because all the people loved David, and he looked upon him as his rival in their esteem, and of his power, he was bent upon his death, though he saw and knew the Lord himself was with David; so that the desires of Saul's mind, for dominion and praise, were such as to lead him to contend with God; and no less than this is the case with every soul of man that sets itself to act in opposition to the known will of God. And if these words meet the eye of any one in this state, may they be the means of leading to this important inquiry—Am I rushing on against that which I see and know to be the will of God; and where must the headstrong passions of my soul leave me? Suppose my present purposes accomplished, on what grounds of reason do I build my hopes of final success against His known will that made me, and whose power to bless and curse is infinite, and known to the uttermost only by himself? But may such a sinner escape the wrath which is the natural consequence of a mind at enmity with God? Do not go on with Saul, but stand still with Moses and Israel; and though your sins, as seas, seem to bar your way to God and heaven, ye shall see the salvation of God.

V. 29. Saul was more afraid of David—Because he both lost his design against David's life, and had now paved a way for him to the throne. To be spiritually-minded is life; to comply with the grace of God, is as certainly the way to increase in the knowledge and love of God, (true blessedness) as that God is true: And on the other hand, to go on under the influence of any sinful temper, passion, or desire, is with no less certainty to be, with Saul, more and more miserable.

V. 30. Went forth—To war against the Israelites.

CHAP.

CHAP. XIX.

Before Christ cir. 1063.

AND Saul spake to Jonathan his son, and to all his servants, that they should kill David.

2 But Jonathan Saul's son delighted much in David: and Jonathan told David, saying, Saul my father seeketh to kill thee: now therefore, I pray thee, take heed to thyself until the morning, and abide in a secret place, and hide thyself:

3 And I will go out and stand beside my father in the field where thou art, and I will commune with my father of thee; and what I see, that I will tell thee.

4 ¶ And Jonathan spake good of David unto Saul his father, and said unto him, Let not the king sin against his servant, against David: because he hath not sinned against thee, and because his works have been to thee-ward very good.

a Judg. 9. 17. and 12. 3. Chap. 28. 21. Psal. 119. 109.

5 For he did put his [a] life in his hand, and slew the Philistine, and the Lord wrought a great salvation for all Israel: thou sawest it, and didst rejoice: [b] wherefore then wilt thou sin against innocent blood, to slay David without a cause?

b Chap. 20. 32.

6 And Saul hearkened unto the voice of Jonathan: and Saul sware, As the Lord liveth, he shall not be slain.

7 And Jonathan called David, and Jonathan shewed him all those things: And Jonathan brought David to Saul, and he was in his presence, as * in times past.

* Heb. yesterday third day.

8 And there was war again: and David went out, and fought with the Philistines, and slew them with a great slaughter; and they fled from † him.

Before Christ cir. 1062.

† Heb. his face.

9 And [c] the evil spirit from the Lord was upon Saul, as he sat in his house with his javelin in his hand: and David played with his hand.

c Chap. 16. 14. and 18. 10.

10 And Saul sought to smite David even to the wall with the javelin; but he slipt away out of Saul's presence, and he smote the javelin into the wall: and David fled, and escaped that night.

11 [d] Saul also sent messengers unto David's house, to watch him, and to slay him in the morning: and Michal David's wife told him, saying, If thou save not thy life to night, to morrow thou shalt be slain.

d Psa. 59. title.

12 ¶ So Michal let David down through a window: and he went and fled, and escaped.

13 And Michal took an image, and laid it in the bed, and put a pillow of goats hair for his bolster, and covered it with a cloth.

14 And when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said, He is sick.

15 And Saul sent the messengers again to see David, saying, Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may slay him.

16 And when the messengers were come in, behold, there was an image in the bed, with a pillar of goats hair for his bolster.

17 And Saul said unto Michal, Why hast thou deceived me so, and sent away mine enemy, that he is escaped? And Michal answered Saul, He said unto me, Let me go; why should I kill thee?

18 ¶ So

CHAP. XIX.

V. 1. All his servants—What Saul before secretly designed, now he openly avows. They that begin to do evil, enter upon that way which continually leads to greater and greater degrees of guilt and misery, and every step is taken at the risk of final ruin.

V. 2. Until the morning—Hide thyself this night, lest my father kill thee before I have been able to speak with him, and, if possible, reconcile him to thee.

V. 3. Where thou art—That I may know where to find thee, to acquaint thee with the success of my endeavours, that thou mayest either return to court, or speedily depart.

V. 4. Jonathan spake unto his father—Which he could not do without hazard to himself; therefore he performed the duty of a true friend.

V. 5. He put his life in his hand—He exposed his life to imminent hazard.

V. 6. Saul sware—Because, convinced by Jonathan's discourse, that he could not kill David without great shame to himself.

V. 9. No change having taken place in Saul's mind, but still entertaining the same enmity in his heart, the messenger of the Divine justice seized upon the soul that had turned from God, to act in rebellion to the gracious power that had made him great.

V. 11. In the morning—Why not in the night? Ans. Partly, because it would have been barbarous, and most dishonourable to Saul, to break into David's house by night, and kill him in his own house and bed; and it seemed more expedient to kill him as he came out of his house in the morning: partly, because the night might give David some opportunity of escaping, which the day-light would prevent; and principally, by God's singular providence, infatuating Saul's mind to take the worst course, that David might be delivered from him. To morrow thou shalt be slain—Which she might learn from some that were privy to the design.

V. 12. By this it would appear, that they lay in wait for him at the doors of the house.

V. 13. An image—In human shape. This art was used, that David being supposed, by persons sent to inquire, to be in bed, Saul might be hindered from pursuing and overtaking him before he had got into some secure place.

V. 15. To see David—Which they did not before, but went away satisfied with Michal's report of his sickness.

V. 17. He said—It is most likely this was a fiction of her own, to prevent her suffering at her father's hands; and thus does sin in one person become the occasion of sin in another.

V. 18. David and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth—For safety; supposing that Saul would be ashamed to execute his bloody designs in the presence of so venerable a person as Samuel, who had

Before Christ cir. 1062.

18 ¶ So David fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, and told him all that Saul had done to him: and he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth.

19 And it was told Saul, saying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah.

e See John 7. 32, 45, &c. i 1 Cor. 14. 3, 24, 25. Chap. 10. 5.

20 And e Saul sent messengers to take David: i and when they saw the company of the prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing as appointed over them, the spirit of God was upon the messengers of Saul, and they also g prophesied.

g Num. 11. 25.

21 And when it was told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they prophesied likewise: and Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also.

22 Then went he also to Ramah, and came to a great well, that is in Sechu: and he asked and said, Where are Samuel and David? And one said, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah.

23 And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah: and the spirit of God was upon him also, and he went on and prophesied, until he came to Naioth in Ramah:

h Isai. 20. 2.

24 h And he stript off his clothes also, and prophesied before Samuel in like manner, and ‡ lay down i naked all that day, and all that night. Wherefore they say, k Is Saul also among the prophets?

Before Christ cir. 1062.

‡ Heb. fell, Num. 24. 3. i Mic. 1. 8. k Chap. 10. 11.

CHAP. XX.

AND David fled from Naioth in Ramah, and came and said before Jonathan, What have I done? what is mine iniquity? and what is my sin before thy father, that he seeketh my life?

2 And he said unto him, God forbid; thou shalt not die: behold, my father will do nothing either great or small, but that he will * shew it me: and why should my father hide this thing from me? it is not so.

* Heb. uncover mine ear.

3 And David sware moreover, and said, Thy father certainly knoweth that I have found grace in thine eyes; and he saith, Let not Jonathan know this, lest he be grieved: but truly as the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death.

4 Then said Jonathan unto David, † Whatsoever thy soul ‡ desireth, I will even do it for thee.

† Or, Say what is thy mind, and I will do, &c. ‡ Heb. speaketh, or, thinketh.

5 And David said unto Jonathan, Behold, to morrow is the new-moon, and I should not fail had laid so great obligations upon Saul, and had such great and just reputation with the people.

V. 20. Saul sent to take David—Thus Saul's wickedness and fury increased; and he that at first used only secret practices against David, now breaks forth into open hostilities; plainly declaring, that he neither feared God nor reverenced man. Prophesying—Speaking of God, or of the things of God, praising God, or instructing men. Samuel standing as appointed over them—To instruct, moderate, and direct them in those holy exercises; and to encourage them, and stir up others, to the coveting of those gifts, and the performance of such religious duties. The messengers also prophesied—The power of God falling upon them, that they and others might be convinced how good it was to be with those that feared, knew, and loved the God of all grace.

V. 21. All that were sent by Saul appear to have been brought so far to the knowledge of God, as to prefer his favour to that of the king's, to whom they do not return, but remain with Samuel, David, and the sons of the prophets, engaged in the consideration of those great and blessed subjects of mercy, grace, providence, and future glory, which were opened to their view: And shall any of these be ever heard to express their regret for the loss of the rewards and honours which the king of Israel could bestow upon them? Reward and honours, however great they then might have been, soon perished in the using; and now, for ages, have been of no more value to their possessors, than ship-wrecked treasures for ever buried in unknown sands; whilst the knowledge and love of God has been, for all the ages between then and now, going on with increasing blessedness, and will increase for ever. O! Who that weighs time and eternity in Scripture-scales, would not, with the faithful in ages past, prefer caves and dens of the earth (when death, or a sinful compliance with the world's customs, are not to be shunned on other terms) with communion with God, to all the short-lived honours and rewards a world of dying mortals have to bestow.

V. 22. Where are Samuel and David—For, his messengers not returning, he knew not exactly where they were.

V. 23. The spirit was upon him also—Whereby God would convince Saul of the vanity of all his designs against David, and that in them he fought against God himself.

V. 24. He stript off his clothes—His military or royal garments; which he did, that he might suit himself and his habit to the rest of the company. Also—This implies that the messengers which he sent, who probably were military persons, had done so before him. Before Samuel—This does not contradict (1 Sam. xv. 35.) where it is said, that Samuel came no more to see Saul: Here Saul goes to Samuel. Lay down—Upon the earth; God so ordering it, that David might have an opportunity to escape. Naked—Stript of his upper garments. All that night—God thus kept him as it were in chains, till David was got out of his reach. Is Saul also among the prophets—The same proverb which was taken up, upon a like occasion, (1 Sam. x. 12.) is here remembered and revived upon this new occasion.

CHAP. XX.

V. 1. David fled—Whilst Saul lay in an extacy. In Ramah—To Gibeah, where Jonathan was taking the opportunity of Saul's absence. What have I done—What is it which thus incenseth thy father against me? What crime doth he charge me with? That he seeketh my life—To destroy it.

V. 2. Thou shalt not die—Jonathan gave credit to his father's oath; and the worthiest minds are least suspicious in their opinions of others.

V. 3. David sware—The matter being of great moment, and Jonathan doubting the truth of it, he confirms his word with an oath, which follows in the end of the verse. Only he interposeth a reason why Saul concealed it from Jonathan.

V. 4. Whatsoever thy soul desireth—For the discovery of the truth, and for the preservation of thy life.

V. 5. The new moon—Which was a solemn festival.

V. 6. If

Before Christ cir. 1062.

fail to sit with the king at meat: but let me go, that I may hide myself in the field unto the third day at even.

6 If thy father at all miss me, then say, David earnestly asked leave of me, that he might run [a] to Beth-lehem his city: for there is a yearly § sacrifice there for all the family.

7 [b] If he say thus, It is well; thy servant shall have peace: but if he be very wroth, then be sure that evil is determined by him.

8 Therefore thou shalt deal kindly with thy servant; for [c] thou hast brought thy servant into a covenant of the Lord with thee: notwithstanding, if there be in me iniquity, slay me thyself; for why shouldest thou bring me to thy father?

9 And Jonathan said, Far be it from thee: for if I knew certainly, that evil were determined by my father to come upon thee, then would not I tell it thee?

10 Then said David to Jonathan, Who shall tell me? or what if thy father answer thee roughly?

11 ¶ And Jonathan said unto David, Come, and let us go out into the field. And they went out both of them into the field.

12 And Jonathan said unto David, O Lord God of Israel, when I have ‖ sounded my father, about to morrow any time, or the third day, and behold, if there be good toward David, and I then send not unto thee, and * shew it thee;

13 [d] The Lord do so and much more to Jonathan: but if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will shew it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace: and the Lord be with thee, as he hath been with my father.

14 And thou shalt not only while yet I live, shew me the kindness of the Lord, that I die not:

15 But also [e] thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever: no not when the Lord hath cut off the enemies of David, every one from the face of the earth.

16 So Jonathan † made a covenant with the house of David, saying, [i] Let the Lord even

a Chap. 16. 4.
§ Or, feast.
b See Gen. 24. 13.
c Chap. 18. 3. and 23. 18.
‖ Heb. searched.
* Heb. uncover thine ear.
d Ruth 1. 17.
e 2 Sam. 9. 3. and 21. 7.
† Heb. cut.
i See Chap. 31. 2. 2 Sam. 4. 7. and 21. 8.

V. 6. If thy father miss me—How could David imagine that Saul would expect his company, whom he had once and again endeavoured to kill? He might suppose that David would ascribe all that to his madness, which being over, he would promise himself safety in the king's presence. David might not think that Saul would indeed expect him, considering his late and great danger from Saul, but that Saul would make use of this pretence, and require his presence, that he might lay hold upon him; and therefore he desired to try the experiment.

V. 7. Then be sure—David takes this course for Jonathan's satisfaction, and for his own vindication, if he wholly withdrew himself.

V. 8. Deal kindly—In giving me a true account of Saul's intention towards me. A covenant of the Lord—A solemn covenant, seriously entered into in the name and fear of God. Slay me thyself—I am contented thou shouldest kill me, if thou art convinced I am guilty of any crime deserving of death: This was the strongest appeal David could make to Jonathan that he was innocent, and that he was so to his knowledge.

V. 9. Far be it from thee—I abhor the thoughts of either killing thee myself, or giving thee up to my father to slay thee; and far be from thee such thoughts of me.

V. 10. Who shall tell me—By what means shall I understand this; for it may not be in thy power to come unto me, unknown to thy father?

V. 11. Into the field—Lest we be overheard.

V. 12. O Lord God of Israel—Do thou hear and judge between us! It is an abrupt speech, which is usual in great passions.

V. 13. As he hath been with my father—The Lord give thee that honour and success in all thy affairs, which he hath given to my father. Jonathan undoubtedly knew of Samuel's final and irrevocable sentence of Saul's rejection from the kingdom, and of the substitution of some other person, after God's own heart, in his stead; and that David was this person he might suspect, both from his eminent piety, wisdom, valour, and worth; and from the great things which God had done both by him and for him, in preserving and advancing him by such unusual methods: And it is most likely that Jonathan would ask David about it, and that David did faithfully inform him of the whole truth, the knowledge of which did not raise jealousy, envy, and rage in him who was the next heir of the crown, as it did in his father. Jonathan's piety led him to submit himself to God's all-wise and gracious disposal; and his sincere friendship for David made him wish him all he could desire for himself. If any of his heavenly father's children were honoured, he knew it to be his duty not only to submit, but his privilege to rejoice. The heir to the throne of Israel has nothing to lose on earth, when the will of God had become his will, and the Redeemer of men his everlasting portion, and exceeding great reward.

V. 14. The kindness of the Lord—Which knows no abatement under any change of circumstances, but is unalterable, and sure to all that love him. That I die not—That thou do not kill me or mine, as princes often do those of another line from whom the kingdom was translated to them. And what sad proofs does the history of mankind give of what is in man, by the conduct of such as have possessed power enough to shew the natural sentiments of their souls: All the advantages of education and refinement have proved but slender restraints to that devilish self-love which reigns in every human heart, till grace gives men new principles, and writes on the very soul, love God—love thy fellow creature—do as thou wouldest be done by.

V. 15. My house—Jonathan lays this additional obligation upon David, That he would extend this kindness to all his progeny. Enemies—By this word he implies the reasonableness of his request, because Jonathan was none of that number, and therefore not to be treated as such.

V. 16. With the house of David—The covenant, which before was personal, he now extends to the whole house of David, expecting a reciprocal enlargement of it on David's side; which doubtless he obtained. Require it—If either I, or any of my house, shall break this covenant, and shall prove enemies to David, or to his house, let the Lord, the witness of this covenant, severely punish the violators of it, whoever they are.

Before Christ cir. 1062.

even require it at the hand of David's enemies.

17 And Jonathan caused David to swear again, † because he loved him: ‖ for he loved him as he loved his own soul.

† Or, by his love towards him.
‖ Chap. 18. 1.

18 Then Jonathan said to David, [h] To morrow is the new-moon: and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be § empty.

h Verse 5.
§ Heb. missed.

19 And when thou hast stayed three days, then thou shalt go down ‖ * quickly, and come to [i] the place where thou didst hide thyself, † when the business was in hand, and shalt remain by the stone ‡ Ezel.

‖ Or, diligently.
* Heb. greatly.
i Chap. 19. 2.
† Heb. in the day of the business.
‡ Or, that sheweth the way.

20 And I will shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I shot at a mark.

21 And behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the arrows. If I expressly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them; then come thou: for there is peace to thee, and ‡ no hurt; as the Lord liveth.

‡ Heb. not any thing.

22 But if I say thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee: go thy way, for the Lord hath sent thee away.

23 And as touching [k] the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the Lord be between thee and me for ever.

k Ver. 12. 15. See Verse 42.

24 ¶ So David hid himself in the field: and when the new-moon was come, the king sat him down to eat meat.

25 And the king sat upon his seat, as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall: and Jonathan arose, and Abner sat by Saul's side, and David's place was empty. Before Christ cir. 1062.

26 Nevertheless, Saul spake not any thing that day: for he thought, Something hath befallen him, he is not clean; surely he is not clean.

27 And it came to pass on the morrow, which was the second day of the month, that David's place was empty: and Saul said unto Jonathan his son, Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse to meat, neither yesterday, nor to day?

28 And Jonathan answered Saul, David earnestly asked leave of me, to go to Beth-lehem:

29 And he said, Let me go, I pray thee, for our family hath a sacrifice in the city, and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there; and now if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and see my brethren: Therefore he cometh not unto the king's table.

30 Then Saul's anger was kindled against Jonathan, and he said unto him, § ‖ Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman, do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness?

§ Or, Thou perverse rebel.
‖ Heb. Son of perverse rebellion.

31 For

V. 17. Jonathan caused—He here requires David's oath to him. Because he loved him—Because he had a true friendship for David, he desired that the covenant might be inviolably observed through all their generations; and he made and desired this confirmation not out of distrust, but as a testimony of his sincere regard.

V. 18. Thy seat—The place where David used to sit at meals with Saul.

V. 19. The stone Ezel—By that stone which directs travellers in the way; in some cave or convenient place, which was near that stone.

V. 20. As though—He chose this way to prevent Saul's suspicion; and he knew not that he should have any opportunity to converse with David, though the event proved better than he expected.

V. 21. Jonathan settles those particulars with great exactness and true regard, being studious to take care of the beloved object's interest in small circumstances.

V. 22. If I say thus—Take this for an intimation, that thou shouldest keep away from the court.

V. 24. David hid himself—At the time appointed.

V. 25. Jonathan arose—And stood up, at Abner's coming, to do honour to him, who was his father's cousin, and the general of the army.

V. 26. Surely he is not clean—And therefore cannot partake of the remainder of the peace-offerings according to the law. How little does Saul appear to have thought of his own uncleanness in the sight of God; and of his unfitness to sit down at the great supper of the Lord, (Matth. xxii.) possessed as he was then of the spirit of a murderer? And thus may our consideration of the state of others divert us from our own state, and that which concerns us for ever.

V. 27. Saul said to Jonathan—Who was David's friend, and best knew if any thing had befallen him. The son of Jesse—So he calls him in scorn, to note the meanness of his original, and as not deigning to call him by his proper name. Though it be a king that despiseth another man, he that despiseth, despiseth not the man—but God, in whose image man was made.

V. 29. My brother commanded me—In the right of the first-born; one branch of which was authority over his brethren in all the concerns of the family.

V. 30. Thou perverse—Thou most perverse rebel. In this also the tree produces its fruits, and Saul's ill language and unworthy conduct were equally the productions of a mind at enmity with God, and under the power of sinful passions. Bad words and bad actions, whatever is pretended as the cause for either, are but different ways of discovering to others the evil that dwells within; as thinking evil in our hearts is a discovery of the spirit we are of to ourselves. And what answer shall any one give to God, for neglecting the means which God has appointed to be used for the recovery of that heavenly-mindedness, without which none can enter and dwell in God's presence, when they themselves have the knowledge that the thoughts of their hearts are evil? Have we not need of the utmost caution against being led to forget ourselves, by the cares, pleasures, and possessions of this world, and by the language of those that are such strangers to themselves, and to the only nature of true and real religion, as to say of the drunkard, or the glutton, he has his failings, but he has a good heart; or of the covetous man, because he regards the indispensable duties of moral honesty, he is a just man and has nothing to fear; in opposition to what God hath said, that no drunkard, glutton, covetous man, or any soul in which sin reigns, shall, in that

Before Christ cir. 1062.

31 For as long as the ſon of Jeſſe liveth upon the ground, thou ſhalt not be eſtabliſhed, nor thy kingdom: wherefore now ſend and fetch him unto me, for he * ſhall ſurely die.

* Heb. is the ſon of death.

32 And Jonathan anſwered Saul his father, and ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſhall he be ſlain? what hath he done?

33 And Saul caſt a javelin at him to ſmite him: whereby Jonathan knew that it was determined of his father to ſlay David.

34 So Jonathan aroſe from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the ſecond day of the month: for he was grieved for David, becauſe his father had done him ſhame.

35 ¶ And it came to paſs in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field, at the time appointed with David, and a little lad with him.

36 And he ſaid unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I ſhoot. And as the lad ran, he ſhot an arrow † beyond him.

† Heb. to paſs over him.

37 And when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had ſhot, Jonathan cried after the lad, and ſaid, Is not the arrow beyond thee?

38 And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make ſpeed, haſte, ſtay not. And Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his maſter.

Before Christ cir. 1062.

39 But the lad knew not any thing: only Jonathan and David knew the matter.

40 And Jonathan gave his ‡ artillery unto ‖ his lad, and ſaid unto him, Go, carry them to the city.

‡ Heb. inſtruments.
‖ Heb. that was his.

41 ¶ And as ſoon as the lad was gone, David aroſe out of a place toward the ſouth, and fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf three times: and they kiſſed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded.

42 And Jonathan ſaid to David, Go in peace, * foraſmuch as we have ſworn both of us in the name of the Lord, ſaying, The Lord be between me and thee, and between my ſeed and thy ſeed for ever. And he aroſe and departed: and Jonathan went into the city.

* Or, the LORD be witneſs of that which, &c. See Verſe 23.

C H A P. XXI.

THEN came David to Nob, to [a] Ahimelech the prieſt: and Ahimelech was afraid at the meeting of David, and ſaid unto that ſtate, have everlaſting life? The right uſe of every diſcovery of evil in another, is to lead us to examine ourſelves; and to be unconcerned under the knowledge of the evil of our own hearts, and careleſs as to the conſequences of its remaining there, can be no leſs crime than contempt of all that God the Father and the Son have done, ſuffered, offered, and promiſed to do, for the reſtoration of our fallen ſinful nature.

[a] Called alſo Abiathar, Mark 2. 26.

V. 31. Thou ſhalt not be eſtabliſhed—Saul miſtakes the cauſe of Jonathan's loſs of the kingdom, which was not David's art, but Saul's ſin, and endeavours to prevent God's irrevocable ſentence.

V. 33. To ſmite him—To wound him; though not to ſmite him to the wall, as he deſigned to do to David.

V. 34. Jonathan aroſe in fierce anger—This anger, in loving Jonathan, may have been of the ſame nature with that which He felt, who is love itſelf, when he was grieved for the hardneſs of their hearts. (Mark iii. 5.) The affections and the paſſions of the ſoul are not ſo much deſtroyed, as they are all turned to their proper objects, by the ſoul's being renewed by grace. What hatred muſt the Divine mind feel at ſin, when nothing leſs than the death of Jeſus could make an atonement for it; and what love muſt the ſame mind feel for ſinners, to make that coſtly ſacrifice! ſo that the ſoul that is born again of the Spirit, and become a child of God, partaking of his nature, muſt hate or be angry at all ſin, whenever it evidently appears.

V. 35. At the time appointed—Jonathan was not of a ſpirit to vary his ſtedfaſt regard to David, becauſe the king, his father, was bent upon his deſtruction. That friendſhip which flows from right principles, and is ſealed by mutual pledges, will ſtand againſt the winter blaſts of adverſity, as well as under the ſummer's ſunſhine of proſperity.

V. 38. Stay not—So he bids him; becauſe finding none appear to prevent it, he made haſte to take the opportunity to ſpeak with his much-loved David.

V. 40. His artillery—His bow, arrows, and quiver.

V. 41. David exceeded—Till now the expreſſions of friendſhip ſeem to have been leſs on David's ſide than Jonathan's; but when they came to part, the affectionate regard of David's mind, inflamed with gratitude to his faithful friend, gave him the ſad ſuperiority to Jonathan in diſtreſs.

V. 42. Between my ſeed and thy ſeed for ever—Therefore doubt not but I will ever love thee, and faithfully ſerve thee; and the like I aſſure myſelf of from thee; and this muſt be our comfort in our ſtate of ſeparation. David then aroſe and departed—Leaving all he loved and honoured in the court of Saul; and, caſting his care upon God, he ſought his ſafety by flight. Before this, his cautious mind ſeems to have been in doubt as to the way it was his duty to take—whether to ſtay at court and truſt to his preſervation there, or ſeek it at a diſtance. Saul had now given him thoſe proofs of his final purpoſe to kill him, that his only alternatives were flight, or forming a party to reſiſt his unjuſt deſigns by force; and what David knew of the deſign of God to make him king, might have made a mind, impatient of worldly greatneſs, to have embraced this occaſion to have raiſed himſelf to the crown by the aſſiſtance of his numerous friends. But though David knew the kingdom was intended for him, yet the time when he ſhould enter upon the government of it was not known to him. But this he knew, that Saul was rejected for his diſregarding the will of God, and that the favour of God depended on his obedience to him; and this obliged him not to think of taking any ſtep in oppoſition to the eſtabliſhed authority, or invade the apparent right of another, or attempt to take poſſeſſion of what God deſigned, till his providence was pleaſed to make his way to it; flight therefore was the only courſe he could take in the fear of the Lord. And remembering his care not to offend God on this occaſion, he might afterwards look back and ſay—Thou, Lord, wilt bleſs the righteous, with favour wilt thou compaſs him as with a ſhield. (Pſal. v. 12.)

C H A P. XXI.

V. 1. Nob—A city inhabited by the prieſts, for the ſervice of the

Before Christ cir. 1062.

to him, Why art thou alone, and no man with thee?

2 And David said unto Ahimelech the priest, The king hath commanded me a business, and hath said unto me, Let no man know any thing of the business, whereabout I send thee, and what I have commanded thee: and I have appointed my servants to such and such a place.

3 Now therefore what is under thine hand? give me five loaves of bread in mine hand, or

* Heb. found. what there is * present.

4 And the priest answered David, and said, There is no common bread under mine

b Exod. 25. 30. Lev. 24. 5. Matth. 12. 4. hand, but there is [b] hallowed bread; [c] if the c Exod. 19. 15. Zech. 7. 3. young men have kept themselves at least from women.

5 And David answered the priest, and said unto him, Of a truth, women have been kept from us about these three days, since I came out, and the vessels of the young men are holy, and the bread is in a manner com-

† Or, seeing this day when this day there is other sanctified in the vessel. mon, † yea, though it were sanctified this d Lev. 8. 26. day [d] in the vessel.

e Mark 2. 25. Luke 6. 3. 6 So the priest [e] gave him hallowed bread; for there was no bread there, but the shew-

i Lev. 24. 8, 9. bread [i] that was taken from before the Lord, to put hot bread in the day when it was taken away.

7 Now a certain man of the servants of Saul was there that day, detained before the Lord; and his name was [g] Doeg an Edomite, the chiefest of the herd-men that belonged to Saul.

Before Christ cir. 1062.

g Psa. 52, title.

8 ¶ And David said unto Ahimelech, And is there not here under thine hand spear or sword? for I have neither brought my sword, nor my weapons with me, because the king's business required haste.

9 And the priest said, The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou slewest in h h Chap. 17. 2, 50.

i Chap. 31. 10. the valley of Elah, [i] behold, it is here wrapt in a cloth behind the ephod: if thou wilt take that, take it: for there is no other save that here. And David said, There is none like that, give it me.

10 ¶ And David arose, and fled that day for fear of Saul, and went to ‡ Achish the king of Gath.

‡ Or, Ahimelech, Psal. 34, title.

k Psa. 56, title.

11 And [k] the servants of Achish said unto him, Is not this David the king of the land? did they not sing one to another of him in dances, saying, [l] Saul hath slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

l Chap. 18. 7.* and 29. 5.

12 And David laid up these words in his heart, and was sore afraid of Achish the king of Gath.

13 And

the tabernacle, which now was here. The priest—The chief priest. Was afraid—Suspecting some extraordinary cause of his coming in such a manner, and fearing the worst. Why art thou alone—David had some servants and companions, (v. 4, 5. and from Matth. xii. 3, 4.) yet they were left at another place, (v. 2.) and David was now alone.

V. 2. The king hath commanded me a business—This seems to be a plain lie extorted from him by fear of the consequences, if he either refused to answer, or told the truth as it was; but no evil being to be done that good may come of it, David is afterwards found repenting of the sin of lying, and praying God would remove the way, the spirit of it from him. (Psal. cxix. 29.) If a man of David's courage was betrayed into a sin against God from fear, with what sobriety should ordinary believers watch unto prayer, that they answer not contrary to the truth: What natural strength could not give David sufficient firmness to do, women and children have been enabled to do, by grace supporting them under severe persecutions, which they might have avoided with a few words speaking, had they not preferred the pain of racks and flames to that of sinning against God, and grieving the Holy Spirit of Him that died for them.

V. 3. Under thine hand—In thy power, and ready for thee to give, and for me to take, and eat.

V. 4. No common bread—In the tabernacle; though doubtless he had of that, and of other provisions in his house; but David was in haste, and in fear of Doeg whom he saw, and knew there, (chap. xxii. 22.) and therefore would not stay till any thing could be fetched from thence.

V. 5. Common—Considering our necessity; this may be asked in a manner like common bread. Yea—If it were but newly put into the vessel, it must give place to the great law of necessity and charity; because God will have mercy preferred before sacrifice.

V. 6. Taken away—Which was done upon the Sabbath-day: For though they might not then kindle a fire to heat the bread in, yet they might and did keep it hot in an oven, that had been heated before the Sabbath.

V. 7. What fatal consequences arose to many persons, from this circumstance of Doeg's being present when David came? How easy is it with God to save, or suffer to be destroyed, by means the most unlikely, and which all human wisdom can neither foresee nor prevent.

V. 8. Required haste—The message came to me when I was unarmed, and the business required so great expedition that I could not go home to fetch my weapons. And well may this sentence—The king's business requires haste, be applied to all the business of life; every moment of our time being measured out to us, and in the great day to be accounted for, how far they have been used to please him who seeth in secret, and who gives life and time to prepare for eternity.

V. 9. Behind the ephod—Here it was laid up as a sacred monument of God's power and goodness, and that famous victory. None like that—Because a pledge of God's favour, and a great encouragement to his faith.

V. 10. David went to Gath—To the Philistines. But why did he go to these, and not rather to some other neighbouring nation? Because they were all at peace with Saul; and therefore would have delivered him up, upon Saul's demand.

V. 11. King of the land—Of the land of Canaan. David his ten thousands—For, by this time, the fame of Saul's rejection, and David's destination to the kingdom, was got abroad among the Israelites, and from them probably to the Philistines; therefore consider what to do, now thine and our great enemy is in thy hand, be sure thou never let him go alive.

V. 12. David was sore afraid—Lest either their revenge or policy should prompt them to kill him.

V. 13. He

Before Christ cir. 1062.

13 And [m] he changed his behaviour before them, and feigned himself mad in their hands, and § scrabbled on the doors of the gate, and let his spittle fall down upon his beard.

14 Then said Achish unto his servants, Lo, you see the man ‖ is mad: wherefore then have ye brought him to me?

15 Have I need of mad-men, that ye have brought this fellow to play the mad-man in my presence? shall this fellow come into my house?

m Psa. 34. title.
§ Or, made marks.
‖ Or, playeth the mad-man.

CHAP. XXII.

DAvid therefore departed thence, and [a] escaped [b] to the cave Adullam: and when his brethren, and all his father's house heard it, they went down thither to him.

2 [c] And every one that was in distress, and every one that * was in debt, and every one that was † discontented, gathered themselves unto him, and he became a captain over them: and there were with him about four hundred men.

a Psa. 57. title. and 142. title.
b 2 Sam. 23. 13.
c Judg. 11. 3.
* Heb. had a creditor.
† Heb. bitter of soul.

3 ¶ And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab: and he said unto the king of Moab, Let my father and my mother, I pray thee, come forth, and be with you, till I know what God will do for me.

Before Christ cir. 1062.

4 And he brought them before the king of Moab: and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the hold.

5 ¶ And the prophet [d] Gad said unto David, Abide not in the hold, depart, and get thee into the land of Judah. Then David departed, and came into the forest of Hareth.

d 2 Sam. 24. 11. 1 Chro. 21. 9. 2 Chro. 29. 25.

6 ¶ When Saul heard that David was discovered, and the men that were with him (now Saul abode in Gibeah under a ‡ tree in Ramah, having his spear in his hand, and all his servants were standing about him)

‡ Or, grove in a high place.

7 Then Saul said unto his servants that stood about him, Hear now, ye Benjamites, Will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields, and vineyards, and make you all captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds:

8 That

V. 13. He changed his behaviour—His speech and manner. Feigned himself mad—Which they might the more easily believe; because of the disappointment of his hopes, and his extreme danger and trouble from Saul; and because he had put himself into their hands whom he had so often provoked, which, they supposed, none but a mad-man would have done.

V. 14. Wherefore—What service can I expect from him? Or, What cause have I to fear him?

V. 15. House—I will not have my court disgraced with detaining such a person, either as a prisoner or a servant.

CHAP. XXII.

V. 1. Adullam—A place of strength in the land of Judah; which being his own tribe, and the tribe to which God had first promised the kingdom, he hoped for some protection and assistance there. To him—To comfort and assist him; to secure themselves from Saul's rage; and that they might share with David in his honour and advancement; which they now concluded certain, though it was interrupted with difficulties.

V. 2. In distress—Through want, or oppression. In debt—Poor debtors, who, having nothing wherewith to satisfy the demands of their creditors, fled to secure their personal freedom. Discontented—In an afflicted condition. He did not justify nor maintain any injustice or wickedness which they might have been guilty of; but, on the contrary, he instructed and obliged them to the practice of all justice and honesty. And as these repaired to David, so do poor, self-condemned men repair to the merciful Saviour of men, of whom David was a type, and who receiveth sinners to mercy, and, by his grace, enables them to spend their future lives in all godliness and honesty.

V. 3. David went to the king of Moab—Who was also Saul's enemy, and therefore more likely to be David's friend. Be with you—By this, David shews his tender care to his aged parents. Do for me—To whose gracious dispossals I entirely submit myself.

V. 4. He brought them—David presented his parents to the king, that they might have all the advantage and protection from him that David could recommend them to.

V. 5. This message from the Lord to David was, as all his dealings are to them that fear him, seasonable, and full of mercy. The directions by the prophet removed David's doubts as to the course he should take; and however full of difficulties it might be to him, and unacquainted as he was with what might be the consequences of his going into Judah, God, from whom that direction came, knowing all things, and intending that which is ever best for his servants, David departed in obedience to the will of the Lord. Next to knowing the way of salvation through a Redeemer, the great inquiry to be made on all occasions, is the same as that which the Apostle to the Gentiles made—Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? (Acts ix. 6.) When this is known, then David's example is to be followed; departing, without doubt or fear, to do what He directs who cannot err. And when it is remembered that the will of God is the way to glory, how happy may those think themselves that now live under the full discovery of the designs of God, his judgments and directions, made known to men by all the prophets, by himself and by the apostles, mixed and illustrated with almost numberless examples, both of what is pleasing and displeasing to God, and applicable to all conditions, and to all the circumstances of human life; and with all these the continual influence of his holy spirit, to inform and guide every meek and humble mind, in judging both where to go and what to do to please God, whose will is all that happiness to his creatures in this life, which is consistent with their endless happiness in the world to come.

V. 6. Saul's being described with his spear in his hand, seems to be an indication of his fear of the people that were about him: But he that will be great, or desire to obtain or hold any thing, whether God will or no, every creature is an object of fear to him, and the very elements are at war with him, who would be independant of the Almighty Governor of heaven and earth.

V. 7, 8. This speech of Saul's shews at once his distrust of all his servants, and the high opinion he had of himself—that David could never prove, to his subjects and servants, so munificent a king and master as himself. And with this discovery of his pride and distrust, out of his extreme desire to reign, he would move them to compassionate his sufferings, and continue to serve and support him out of pity, alledging also that which was not indeed

Before Christ cir. 1062.

8 That all of you have conſpired againſt me, and there is none that § ſheweth me that my ſon hath made a league with the ſon of Jeſſe, and there is none of you that is ſorry for me, or ſheweth unto me that my ſon hath ſtirred up my ſervant againſt me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

§ Heb. uncovereth mine ear.

9 ¶ Then anſwered [e] Doeg the Edomite (which was ſet over the ſervants of Saul) and ſaid, I ſaw the ſon of Jeſſe coming to Nob, to Ahimelech the ſon of [i] Ahitub.

[e] Chap. 21. 7. Pſa. 52, title.

[i] Chap. 14. 3.

10 [g] And he inquired of the Lord for him: and [h] gave him victuals, and gave him the ſword of Goliath the Philiſtine.

[g] Num. 27. 21.

[h] Chap. 21. 6, 9.

11 Then the king ſent to call Ahimelech the prieſt the ſon of Ahitub, and all his father's houſe, the prieſts that were in Nob: and they came all of them to the king.

12 And Saul ſaid, Hear now, thou ſon of Ahitub: And he anſwered, ‖ Here I am, my lord.

‖ Heb. Behold me.

13 And Saul ſaid unto him, Why have ye conſpired againſt me, thou and the ſon of Jeſſe, in that thou haſt given him bread, and a ſword, and haſt inquired of God for him, that he ſhould riſe againſt me, to lie in wait, as at this day?

14 Then Ahimelech anſwered the king, and ſaid, And who is ſo faithful among all thy ſervants, as David, which is the king's ſon in law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine houſe?

Before Christ cir. 1062.

15 Did I then begin to inquire of God for him? be it far from me: let not the king impute any thing unto his ſervant, nor to all the houſe of my father: for thy ſervant knew nothing of all this, * leſs or more.

* Heb. little or great.

16 And the king ſaid, Thou ſhalt ſurely die, Ahimelech, thou, and all thy father's houſe.

17 ¶ And the king ſaid unto the † ‡ footmen that ſtood about him, Turn and ſlay the prieſts of the Lord; becauſe their hand alſo is with David, and becauſe they knew when he fled, and did not ſhew it to me. But the ſervants of the king would not put forth their hand to fall upon the prieſts of the Lord.

† Or, guard. ‡ Heb. runners.

18 And the king ſaid to Doeg, Turn thou and fall upon the prieſts. And Doeg the Edomite turned, and he fell upon the prieſts, and [i] ſlew on that day fourſcore and five perſons that did wear a linen ephod.

[i] See Chap. 2. 31.

19 [k] And Nob, the city of the prieſts, ſmote he with the edge of the ſword, both men and women, children and ſucklings, and oxen, and aſſes, and ſheep, with the edge of the ſword.

[k] Ver. 9, 11.

20 ¶ And

true, that David was laying in wait to take his life, and poſſeſs himſelf of the crown by force. What a vaſt difference between Saul's miſerable ſtate of mind, under the apprehenſion of David's ſupplanting him in the government, and that which Samuel diſcovered on the actual appointment of Saul. A difference which, with the cauſes of it, concerns every one to conſider, who may ever have to diſcharge the duties of parent, maſter, or the governor of others. Samuel, as judge, ruled over the people only with a view to pleaſe God, without either deſiring or taking any thing for himſelf; and when they deſired to have a king, if they had not offended God in ſo doing, nothing appears in Samuel like a wiſh to conſtrain them to ſubmit to any government of his. All he aimed at was the general good, and thoſe that thought they could better their condition by changing their judge and governor, appear to have had his conſent to do ſo: He had too much work to do for eternity for himſelf, and in the buſineſs of it with others, to be going a warfare at his own coſt, in the low-thoughted cares of mere earthly concerns. With peace and eaſe to himſelf, he leaves the multitude to their own deſires of living like the world about them, that their future experience might teach them what they would not learn from him, though ſpeaking under the immediate guidance of the Spirit of God. Thus freely did Samuel put off the world, with all its cares, to go amongſt the ſons of the prophets, to aſſiſt them in their inquiries in the knowledge of the true God, and of that Redeemer he had promiſed to ſend, that they might become miniſters which ſhould not be aſhamed, when they ſhould publiſh the Lord merciful and gracious to returning ſinners. Thus Samuel, with a mind bent on eternity, enjoyed the liberty of a ſervant and ſon of the Moſt High; whilſt Saul, full of ſelf-eſteem and impatient for power, is ſeen laden as with a world of ſorrow, care, fear, and perplexity, even to madneſs: And thus, in this momentary life of trial, do ſouls take the broad or narrow way, which, in every ſtep, tends to peace or wo, till time's laſt grain of ſand is run; and the ſoul, as it is prepared, ſinks into miſery which knows no after-change, or is received into glory, by the God it loved and lived for.

V. 9, 10. Doeg here informs the king of more than is related at the time David was at Nob. Ahimelech only gave David what he requeſted. Doeg ſays he inquired of the Lord for him.

V. 11. God had threatened that he would cut off the houſe of Eli, for the diſhonour which they had done to God and religion; and now the Divine ſentence is about to be executed.

V. 13. Saul charges Ahimelech with aſſiſting David, for the very purpoſe of depoſing him.

V. 14, 15. The anſwer Ahimelech makes to the king's charge, agrees with the truth of the whole hiſtory.

V. 17. God, who is the fountain of juſtice, cannot do unjuſtly; and in that day, when the thoughts of all hearts ſhall be made known, his judgments muſt all appear righteous. But this will not render ſuch men as Saul leſs guilty, for having wilfully cauſed any man to be put to death, contrary to eſtabliſhed laws and the rules of juſtice: And whatever might be the deſigns of Ahimelech, there appears to be nothing in his conduct, in this inſtance, to juſtify Saul's ſentence, who made himſelf guilty of ſhedding his blood, and that of the reſt of his family, who were, as to him, innocent perſons; and being in the immediate ſervice of God, this was a ſtrong proof of his enmity againſt God himſelf.

V. 18. Doeg, who had made himſelf the accuſer, now was made the executioner of Saul's unjuſt ſentence.

V. 19. Saul, by all theſe monſtrous acts, ſhews, that his ſelf-willed and preſumptuous ſoul, and the ſpirit he obeyed, would, if they could, have overthrown the very throne of God, rather than

Before Christ cir. 1062.

20 ¶ [1] And one of the sons of Ahimelech the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar, escaped and fled after David.

[1] Chap. 23. 6.

21 And Abiathar shewed David, that Saul had slain the Lord's priests.

22 And David said unto Abiathar, I knew it that day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul: I have occasioned the death of all the persons of thy father's house.

23 Abide thou with me, fear not: for he that seeketh my life, seeketh thy life: but with me thou shalt be in safe-guard.

C H A P. XXIII.

[a] Josh. 15. 44.

THEN they told David, saying, Behold, the Philistines fight against [a] Keilah, and they rob the threshing-floors.

2 Therefore David inquired of the Lord, saying, Shall I go and smite these Philistines? And the Lord said unto David, Go, and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah.

3 And David's men said unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah: how much more then if we come to Keilah against the armies of the Philistines?

[b] Ver. 6, 9.

4 [b] Then David inquired of the Lord yet again. And the Lord answered him, and said, Arise, go down to Keilah; for I will deliver the Philistines into thine hand.

5 So David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and brought away their cattle, and smote them with a great slaughter: so David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

Before Christ cir. 1062.

6 And it came to pass when Abiathar the son of Ahimelech [c] fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod in his hand.

cir. 1061. [c] Chap. 22. 20.

7 ¶ And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah: and Saul said, God hath delivered him into mine hand; for he is shut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars.

8 And Saul called all the people together to war, to go down to Keilah, to besiege David and his men.

9 ¶ And David knew that Saul secretly practised mischief against him; and [d] he said to Abiathar the priest, Bring hither the ephod.

[d] Num. 27. 21. Chap. 30. 7.

10 Then said David, O Lord God of Israel, thy servant hath certainly heard that Saul seeketh to come to Keilah, to destroy the city for my sake.

11 Will the men of Keilah deliver me up into his hand? will Saul come down as thy servant hath heard? O Lord God of Israel, I beseech thee, tell thy servant. And the Lord said, He will come down.

12 Then said David, Will the men of Keilah * deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul? And the Lord said, They will deliver thee up.

* Heb. shut up.

13 ¶ Then

than submit to what the prophet had told him was determined against him, and in favour of David.

V. 20, 21. Abiathar fled from Saul, under whose government none could be safe or happy, to David, with whom all that were oppressed found refuge and protection. Saul, as another Pharaoh, became an evident example of him who would be like the Most High, and who, by enmity, did bruise the heel of the eternal Son. (Gen. iii. 15.)

V. 22. Saul's rage against David being the occasion of all these persons suffering, David takes it to himself. And thus does Jesus take to himself all that is suffered by every one who appear on his side.

V. 23. David desires Abiathar to abide with him, that, by his power, he might be protected against their common foe. And the Lord Jesus has spoke in the same sense to his disciples that David did to Abiathar; telling them, that such as were their enemies were his enemies. They that abide by faith in Jesus, walking in his steps, he will be their safeguard, and charge himself with all that concerns them.

C H A P. XXIII.

V. 1, 2. The information David receives he lays before the Lord, who directs him what to do.

V. 3, 4. David's men reasoning from appearances, concluded that they, who were in continual fear of not being able to save themselves, were not in a condition to go against others: David's faith and experience did not lead him to disregard any reasonable objection, but he again lays what is said to him before the Lord, who graciously answers him with an assurance of success.

V. 5. All that the Lord had said came to pass; and David spoiled and destroyed the Philistines, and saved the people of Israel.

V. 6. With an ephod—In which was the Urim and Thummim, by which inquiry was made of God, and by the believing use of which, light and perfection were communicated. Thus was Saul deprived of that which was the means of knowing the will of God, as they who do wickedly are thereby deprived both of spiritual wisdom, comfort, and support. And as the Urim and Thummim were transferred into David's possession, so do the upright possess light and knowledge in the ways of their duty.

V. 7. Satan deceives those most over whom he has most power; and thus is Saul made to believe that God was on his side, when he was in a state of rejection: Under this strong delusion he believes satan's suggestions, or trusts to the self-flattering thoughts of his heart, against what he had much more cause to believe—that God would never deliver David into his power.

V. 8, 9. How different the conduct of Saul and David. Saul calls the people together, that he may be enabled to execute his purpose; David inquires of the Lord what he should do.

V. 10, 11, 12. By the use of the means, David waited upon God to know his will. As a child would a parent, David informs his Lord what he had heard; and then, with humble plainness and simplicity, asks him, to whom all things are known, what the people would do to him. The Lord leaves him in no uncertainty. And if any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, who can now, as well as then, give, unto all that call upon him, the answer to their prayers. (James i. 5.)

V. 13. David had delivered the people from the hand of their enemies, and they shewed him how he might come to be rewarded

Before Christ cir. 1061.

13 ¶ Then David and his men, [e] which were about six hundred, arose, and departed out of Keilah, and went whithersoever they could go: and it was told Saul that David was escaped from Keilah, and he forbare to go forth.

[e] Chap. 22. 2. and 25. 13.

14 And David abode in the wilderness in strong holds, and remained in a mountain, in the wilderness of [i] Ziph: and Saul sought him every day, but God delivered him not into his hand.

[i] Josh. 15. 55.

15 And David saw that Saul was come out to seek his life: and David was in the wilderness of Ziph in a wood.

16 And Jonathan Saul's son arose, and went to David into the wood, and strengthened his hand in God.

17 And he said unto him, Fear not: for the hand of Saul my father shall not find thee, and thou shalt be king over Israel, and I shall be next unto thee; and [g] that also Saul my father knoweth.

Before Christ cir. 1061.

[g] Chap. 24. 20.

18 And they two made a covenant before the Lord: and David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his house.

19 ¶ Then [h] came up the Ziphites to Saul to Gibeah, saying, Doth not David hide himself with us in strong holds in the wood, in the hill of Hachilah, which is † on the south of ‡ Jeshimon?

[h] See Chap. 26. 1. Psa. 54, title.

† Heb. on the right hand.
‡ Or, the wilderness.

20 Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the desire of thy soul to come down, and our part shall be to deliver him into the king's hand.

21 And Saul said, Blessed be ye of the Lord; for ye have compassion on me.

22 Go, I pray you, prepare yet, and know and see his place where his § haunt is, and who hath seen him there: for it is told me that he dealeth very subtilly. 23 See § Heb. foot shall be.

ed when he came to govern, if he had no higher end in view than the favour of men. The inhabitants of this city would have delivered him to Saul to be put to death. If David's intended greatness was known to them, he was not yet in possession of the government; and these people thought human policy, and making Saul their friend, though it was accompanied with the infamy of ingratitude, was to be preferred to trusting in the promises of God made to David.

V. 14. David sought that safety in a wilderness, which was to have been denied him in the city he had saved. God delivered him not—David could tell the Lord he was his servant: The Lord proved himself faithful to him, as he does to all that put their trust in him.

V. 16. Jonathan went and found out David, and strengthened his hands—Encouraged him to confide in the faithfulness of God against all appearances; reminding him that promising and performing were the same with God. And what grounds did David's own experience afford for this encouragement? Great as his difficulties and dangers appeared to be before him, what had not the Lord brought him through already? A word in season, how good it is to those that are in trouble, in danger, under oppression? The words, the letters, the sight of a person that is living by faith, stirs up the mind, and strengthens its confidence in the Lord—the strength of Israel, and the Saviour of his people. Only to be reminded that He is looking on, whose providence calls his children to their trials, gives new life to the whole soul, and calls upon it to quit itself as becomes a disciple of the blessed Jesus, whose meek and patient courage as far exceeds all that have ever been renowned for bravery, as the sun in light exceeds the stars; and who, in the fire and in the water, will be with every one that is looking to him; that by their use of his grace as their strength, and faithfully doing and enduring all his wisdom calls them to pass through, they may be perfected through sufferings, and so be prepared for glory, honour, and immortality in their Redeemer's presence; when bright crowns of blessedness are as certainly prepared for every son of faithful Abraham, and promised to all that are faithful unto death, (Rev. ii. 10.) as that the crown of Israel was promised to the man after God's own heart. What praises are due to the Father of mercies, for continually influencing the minds of men to act loving Jonathan's part to one another; and blessed are they that obey that influence, and speak, write, or, with Jonathan, arise and go, though it be into a wilderness, a house of sorrow, or a prison, and pour the consolations which every hand may draw from that full fountain the everlasting gospel has opened, to relieve or support every sufferer, and destroy the poison of every sting arising from all the complicated troubles to which man is born. (1 Cor. xv. 56, 57.)

V. 17. Jonathan went to David at the hazard of his father's rage; and they that will not act Jonathan's loving part to the sons and daughters of affliction, will certainly incur Satan's rage against them. God is love, and every spiritual expression of love flows from God, and is that which alone is pleasing to him: Satan, and all that obey his influence, are the enemies and opposers of God, and of all that proceeds from him. Jonathan shews David how confidently he believes the promises of God. To believe in God ourselves, is the great requisite to make us the means of strengthening the hands of others in the Lord. Words and actions, discovering the principles of the mind, whether they are right or wrong ones, are the means of producing and fixing the same principles in the minds of others. To be persuaded of God's faithfulness ourselves, must doubtless have more weight in persuading others, though our words may be weak and contemptible, than all the advantages of education and good speaking. Whatsoever is not of faith is sin; (Rom. xiv. 23.) and all that can be said by such as are living under the power of sinful unbelief themselves, though they may feel for the sufferings of others, and humanely wish their words to afford them comfort, yet the labours of mere humanity to alleviate or remove the heart-felt distresses of others, are only like him that carries another's load for a little space, and then leaves him to himself, under the weight he had before they met. But he who, with Jonathan, speaks from the heart-felt faith in God his Saviour, in which he lives, assists the distressed to cast the burden of his sorrows, cares, and fears upon the Lord, who is every where present to give the weary and heavy-laden rest. (Matth. xi. 28.)

V. 18. Jonathan and David renewed their covenant before the Lord—placing the final Judge of all their actions before them. And happy must it be for such as imitate the example of these two great men, and place the all-seeing judge before them wherever they are, and whatever they are doing: for the whole earth is before the Lord, and much more the heart—the designs of all the children of men.

V. 19. The Ziphites were of David's own tribe, and they, his brethren, conspire together to betray him. Thus was David a type of him who was betrayed by those that were near to him.

V. 21. Saul judges those that are for him must be blessed in their

Before Christ cir. 1061.

23 See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking-places where he hideth himself, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it shall come to pass, if he be in the land, that I will search him out throughout all the thousands of Judah.

24 And they arose, and went to Ziph before Saul: but David and his men were in the wilderness [i] of Maon, in the plain on the south of Jeshimon.

i Josh. 15. 55. Chap. 25. 2.

25 Saul also and his men went to seek him; and they told David: wherefore he came down ‖ into a rock, and abode in the wilderness of Maon: and when Saul heard that, he pursued after David in the wilderness of Maon.

‖ Or, from the rock.

26 And Saul went on this side of the mountain, and David and his men on that side of the mountain: [k] and David made haste to get away for fear of Saul; for Saul and his men compassed David and his men round about to take them.

k Psa. 31. 22.

27 ¶ [l] But there came a messenger unto Saul, saying, Haste thee, and come; for the Philistines have * invaded the land.

Before Christ cir. 1061.

l See 2 Kings 19. 9.

* Heb. spread themselves upon, &c.

28 Wherefore Saul returned from pursuing after David, and went against the Philistines: therefore they called that place † Sela-hammahlekoth.

† That is, The rock of divisions.

29 ¶ And David went up from thence, and dwelt in strong holds at En-gedi.

C H A P. XXIV.

AND it came to pass [a] when Saul was returned from * following the Philistines, that it was told him, saying, Behold, David is in the wilderness of En-gedi.

a Chap. 23. 28.

* Heb. after.

2 Then Saul took three thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seek David and his men upon the rocks of the wild goats.

3 And he came to the sheep-cotes by the way, where was a cave, and [b] Saul went in to cover his feet: and [c] David and his men remained in the sides of the cave.

b Psal. 141. 6.

c Psa. 57. title. and 142. title.

4 And their deeds, guilty as they were of treachery. So deceitful is the human heart, that its pride and selfishness will persuade it to believe that such as fall in with its wishes, merit, by so doing, the greatest benefits.

V. 22, 23. Through the conduct and mind of Saul, the conduct and mind of satan are made known; and thus does a wicked being give his commissions to those ministers of evil, that unite in his designs, and obey his will, that they may go and search out, that they may destroy such as are, with David, living by faith in the God of Israel.

V. 25. David, when sought for by Saul, and such as were in league with him, retired to a rock; and they that are tempted by satan must imitate his example, and find their safety in flight to the rock of ages, Jesus Christ the righteous, who can protect from the rage of all the powers of darkness.

V. 26. Though David and his men were compassed about by Saul and his men, yet there was a mountain between David and all that were with them, and their danger: Such a mountain of safety will faith raise for all that put their trust in God.

V. 27. Saul's rage against David must now, for a season, burn like a flame within, his kingdom being in danger from quarters he did not then expect; and thus is it seen there is one higher than the highest on earth, who can put a bridle into the mouth of those that rage against his servants, and oblige them, by their selfishness and fear of danger, greater than that they are wanting to avoid, to turn back another way; and thus does God, more by his wisdom and his love in governing, save and protect his servants and his children, than by his almighty power, which could in a moment confound and destroy the mortal adversaries of his church and people, and confine all the powers of darkness to that hell into which they have fallen by their presumption, their self-confidence, and disobedience to God.

V. 28. The rock of divisions is the meaning of the name of this place. The envy of Saul's mind urged him to continue to pursue after David; but his fear for the safety of his kingdom drew him back: And thus was Saul's mind divided and torn as with contending storms; and a name was given to the place he then was in, to perpetuate the remembrance of what appeared of the sore conflict of his soul. And thus, whilst satan is raging against the Saviour of men, from envy of his greatness and his worth, Almighty wisdom overpowers the apostate spirit, by letting loose upon him the sense of some greater evil to himself, and to the empire he wants to maintain in opposition to God himself.

V. 29. En-gedi—Here David is supposed to have made this Psalm, "O God, thou art my God, early will I seek thee: my soul thirsteth for thee, my flesh longeth for thee in a dry and thirstly land, where no water is. To see thy power and thy glory so as I have seen thee in the sanctuary. Because thy loving kindness is better than life, my lips shall praise thee. Thus will I bless thee, while I live: I will lift up my hands in thy name. My soul shall be satisfied as with marrow and fatness; and my mouth shall praise thee with joyful lips: When I remember thee upon my bed, and meditate on thee in the night watches. Because thou hast been my help, therefore in the shadow of thy wings will I rejoice. My soul followeth hard after thee: thy right hand upholdeth me. But those that seek my soul to destroy it, shall go into the lower parts of the earth. They shall fall by the sword, they shall be a portion for foxes. But the king shall rejoice in God: every one that sweareth by him shall glory: but the mouth of them that speak lies shall be stopped." (Ps. lxiii.) If the state of Saul's mind, at this time, was put into words, and addressed to the Almighty, how impious would it appear? It would tell the parent of all good, that he had heard it was his will to reject him and his family from reigning over Israel; but that instead of yielding an humble submission to his will, he was determined to oppose it, and, if possible, destroy the very person that he understood was the object of God's favour, and his intended successor: That instead of looking upon God's loving-kindness as better than life, he rejected his favour on any other terms than that of his being continued king of Israel; or, in other words, having the liberty of doing as he would. The spirit of satan, as it is described in the Scriptures, speaks in the language of Saul's conduct.

C H A P. XXIV.

V. 1, 2. Saul delivered for the present from the Philistines, fear now gives place to rage and envy; and, inflamed with these, he returns to the pursuit of David.

Before Christ cir. 1061.

4 And the men of David said unto him, Behold, the day of which the Lord said unto thee, Behold, I will deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayest do to him as it shall seem good unto thee. Then David arose, and cut off the skirt of † Saul's robe privily.

† Heb. the robe which was Saul's.

d 2 Sam. 24. 10.

5 And it come to pass afterward, that [d] David's heart smote him, because he had cut off Saul's skirt.

e Chap. 26. 11.

6 And he said unto his men, [e] The Lord forbid that I should do this thing unto my master the Lord's anointed, to stretch forth mine hand against him, seeing he is the anointed of the Lord.

‡ Heb. cut off.

7 So David ‡ stayed his servants with these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul: but Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way.

8 David also arose afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after Saul, saying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and bowed himself.

§ Psal. 141. 6.

9 And David said to Saul, [i] Wherefore hearest thou men's words, saying, Behold, David seeketh thy hurt?

10 Behold, this day thine eyes have seen, how that the Lord had delivered thee to day into mine hand in the cave: and some bad me kill thee, but mine eye spared thee, and I said, I will not put forth mine hand against my lord; for he is the Lord's anointed.

Before Christ cir. 1061.

11 Moreover, my father, see, yea, see the skirt of thy robe in my hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed thee not; know thou and see, that there is neither evil nor transgression in mine hand, and I have not sinned against thee; yet thou huntest my soul to take it.

12 [g] The Lord judge between me and thee, and the Lord avenge me of thee: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

g Chap. 26. 10.

13 As saith the proverb of the ancients, Wickedness proceedeth from the wicked: but mine hand shall not be upon thee.

14 After whom is the king of Israel come out? after whom dost thou pursue? [h] after a dead dog, after [i] a flea.

h Chap. 17. 43. 2 Sam. 9. 8.
i Chap. 26. 20.

15 The Lord therefore be judge, and judge between me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and § deliver me out of thine hand.

§ Heb. judge.

16 ¶ And it came to pass when David had made

V. 3. Wearied out with his miserable toil, Saul lays him down to sleep in a cave, in the sides of which David and his men were.

V. 4. David's men understood the promises God had made to him to give him the kingdom, and they believed this promise included the liberty of destroying Saul; but David was a type of him who was to come, not to destroy men's lives but to save them. And the disciples of Jesus fell into no less mistake than the servants of David—they wanted to call for fire from heaven, and to use the sword; in both which their compassionate master gave them to understand, they had a zeal which was far from the right knowledge of his will, or proceeding from his Spirit. They that rule over men, many or few, may see, on the Divine authority, in these examples, that which is to be imitated by those that are possessed of power over others. David shewed Saul that it was in his power to have destroyed him, but that he, who stood highest in the favour of God, was the greatest in shewing mercy; as those that were most like satan, were chief in cruelty and injustice.

V. 5. David's heart smote him—Only for offering this act of disrespect to the person of Saul. In this David's tender conscience found a reproof from his spirit who prayed for his murderers.

V. 6. The anointed of the Lord—He was appointed by the Lord of all to his high station, and by the Lord only must he be deposed, or his life taken: God has pronounced his sentence, because he has exalted himself against his creator, and rejected his authority; but the time for executing that sentence must be left to God.

V. 7. David stayed—Prevented his men from killing Saul, by shewing them that the subject that raised his hand against the life of the king, rebelled against God himself.

V. 8. David went out—Of the same cave, having been in some other part of it than that which appeared to Saul when he went into it. David bowed himself—Expressing his submission to him, so long as it should please God to continue him king of Israel.

V. 9. Men's words—David attributes Saul's ill conduct to the evil suggestions of others. Every man is answerable for the evil he is guilty of, the same as if there was no such being as the prince of the power of the air to suggest and tempt them to evil; but as it is satan's spirit that reigns in and influences all that do wickedly, this excuse is to be made for all men—they are in one sense deceived, and think they ought to do the very things they are guilty of; and none so much deceived as those that think they are not deceived at all: Tempted to fear evil, men are prepared for the temptation to do evil to prevent that which they fear; thus securing to themselves present and future misery, by doing evil that good may come of it.

V. 10—15. David's upright dealings were here proved to Saul. And this is a part of the gracious government of God over those that fear him—To vindicate their characters, and to make that appear right to men which was so in his sight. David's men thought he would surely embrace the occasion of killing Saul, and many might, with Saul, suspect David of evil designs against the king; but time, that servant of God in making truth appear, now did justice to David's innocence.—In this short address of David's, nothing seems to be omitted that could have weight with the king. He shews him that, so far from intending to take his life, he was proof against both the opportunity and the advice to do it. He calls him the Lord's anointed and his father, declares his innocence, and then charges him with the wrong he was guilty of in hunting after his life. He commits his cause to God, out of whose hand he declares he would not attempt to take it; because to do so, would be to prove himself guilty of that of which he was accused; and, by applying the ancient proverb to himself, he uses the means of convincing the king of his injustice in the least offensive manner: by telling him, that wickedness proceedeth from the wicked, or in the words of the Lord—By their fruits ye shall know them; and then he concludes with appealing to God to judge between them; discovering, through the whole, the firmest

Before Christ cir. 1061. made an end of speaking these words unto Saul, that Saul said, Is this thy voice, my son David? And Saul lift up his voice and wept.

k Chap.26.21. 17 k And he said to David, Thou art more righteous than I: for thou hast rewarded me good, whereas I have rewarded thee evil.

18 And thou hast shewed this day how that thou hast dealt well with me: forasmuch ‖ Heb. shut up. as when the Lord had ‖ delivered me into thine hand, thou killedst me not.

19 For if a man find his enemy, will he let him go well away? wherefore the Lord reward thee good, for that thou hast done unto me this day.

l Chap. 23.17. 20 And now, behold, l I know well that thou shalt surely be king, and that the kingdom of Israel shall be established in thine hand.

21 Swear now therefore unto me by the Lord, that thou wilt not cut off my seed after me, and that thou wilt not destroy my name out of my father's house.

22 And David sware unto Saul: and Saul went home; but David and his men gat them m Chap.23.29. up unto m the hold.

CHAP. XXV.

cir. 1060. AND a Samuel died, and all the Israelites a Chap. 28. 3. were gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. And David arose and went down b to the wil-b Gen. 21. 21. Psal. 120. 5. derness of Paran.

c Chap. 23.24. 2 And there was a man c in Maon, whose

* Or, business. d Josh. 15 55 * possessions were in d Carmel, and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats: and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel. Before Christ cir. 1060.

3 Now the name of the man was Nabal, and the name of his wife, Abigail: and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance; but the man was churlish and evil in his doings, and he was of the house of Caleb.

4 ¶ And David heard in the wilderness, that Nabal did shear his sheep.

5 And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, and † greet him in my name.

† Heb. ask him in my name of peace.

6 And thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity, Peace be both to thee, and peace be to thine house, and peace be unto all that thou hast.

7 And now I have heard that thou hast shearers: now thy shepherds which were with us, we ‡ hurt them not, neither was there ought missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel.

‡ Heb. shamed.

8 Ask thy young men, and they will shew thee: wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes: (for we come in a good day) give, I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand, unto thy servants, and to thy son David.

9 And when David's young men came, they firmest regard to his duty, mixed with the humblest thoughts of himself, together with the fearlessness of a man that lived to God.

V. 16. Saul wept—With the conflict of all the opposite passions which David's speech had raised in his breast:

V. 17—21. By Saul's confession of his guilt, it appears that grace had broke in upon him, and made his heart relent; but whilst he speaks, self again seems to rise in his esteem; and the idol of his heart—a name among men, is that which he wants David to preserve to him, when he should come to be king of Israel.

V. 22. David sware—By which it can only be understood, that he bound himself not to resent the injuries he had received at the hand of Saul; but this was no security against that sentence of rejection which God had pronounced against Saul and his family. David and his men retired to their rock, for that safety which they had been taught not to trust to from Saul. When temptation ceases, and apparent danger is over, they that are not ignorant of satan's devices, and how little the human heart is to be trusted to, know that they have constant need to be upon their guard, with serious minds watching unto prayer.

CHAP. XXV.

V. 1. Samuel died—Ended a life in the service of his God and Saviour, which had been dedicated to him from the beginning of it; in the whole course of which how few, if any, are the defects in his conduct, which the Spirit of truth has had to record. Saved by preventing grace in the years of his youth, and blessed with an early acquaintance with God, his heart appears to have been established by grace, long before the weight of the public business of the church and state laid upon him; and assisted by the continual influence of the Holy Spirit, and yielding an heart-felt obedience to its dictates, he was preserved blameless, and free from those inequalities of conduct, which has sent many of the highly-favoured servants of God in sorrow through many of the years of their lives, for the dishonour they had done to the holy name by which they were called. The whole nation of Israel, that could, assembled together, and lamented of the just magistrate and the man of God. He that lived for heaven had, according to the promise, all other things added: God made him just, good, great and useful; and, with the smiles of his gracious countenance, gave him the hearts of all Israel, at the close of his course, as the heart of one man; and he that spent a short life to God on earth, has now, for many ages, had his conduct published by God himself for the imitation of mankind, and will be published to the end of the world; and then the honour he only sought of God, for his disinterested integrity and devotion on earth, will be as but in its beginning, in that glory which will endure and increase for ever.

V. 2—9. In this courteous and religious message of David's to Nabal, it appears with what moderation and justice David required his servants to conduct themselves; being able to appeal to those whose flocks were about them, if any thing was taken from them by fraud or force. But have we at this day any thing to do with this transaction between the intended king of Israel and Nabal? Your flocks, your corn, your substance, you have received from Him of whom David was but a type; he has protected you and all you have: But for the laws he gave his servants, nothing would

Before Christ cir. 1060.

they ſpake to Nabal according to all thoſe words in the name of David, and § ceaſed.

§ Heb. reſted.

10 ¶ And Nabal anſwered David's ſervants, and ſaid, Who is David? and who is the ſon of Jeſſe? there be many ſervants now a days that break away every man from his maſter.

e Judg. 8. 6.

11 e Shall I then take my bread and my water, and my ‖ fleſh that I have killed for my ſhearers, and give it unto men, whom I know not whence they be?

‖ Heb. ſlaughter.

12 So David's young men turned their way, and went again, and came and told him all thoſe ſayings.

13 And David ſaid unto his men, Gird you on every man his ſword. And they girded on every man his ſword, and David alſo girded on his ſword: and there went up after David about four hundred men, and two hundred abode by the ſtuff.

14 ¶ But one of the young men told Abigail Nabal's wife, ſaying, Behold, David ſent meſſengers out of the wilderneſs to ſalute our maſter; and he * railed on them.

* Heb. flew upon them.

15 But the men were very good unto us, and we were not † hurt, neither miſſed we any thing as long as we were converſant with them, when we were in the fields.

† Heb. ſhamed.

16 They were a wall unto us both by night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the ſheep.

17 Now therefore know and conſider what thou wilt do: for evil is determined againſt our maſter, and againſt all his houſhold: for he is ſuch a ſon of Belial, that a man cannot ſpeak to him.

Before Christ cir. 1060.

18 ¶ Then Abigail made haſte, and took two hundred loaves, and two bottles of wine, and five ſheep ready dreſſed, and five meaſures of parched corn, and an hundred ‡ cluſters of raiſins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on aſſes.

‡ Or, lumps.

19 And ſhe ſaid unto her ſervants, Go on before me, behold, I come after you: but ſhe told not her huſband Nabal.

20 And it was ſo, as ſhe rode on the aſs, that ſhe came down by the covert of the hill, and behold, David and his men came down againſt her, and ſhe met them.

21 (Now David had ſaid, Surely in vain have I kept all that this fellow hath in the wilderneſs, ſo that nothing was miſſed of all that pertained unto him: and he hath requited me evil for good.

22 i So and more alſo do God unto the enemies of David, if I g leave of all that pertain to him by the morning light, h any that piſſeth againſt the wall.)

i Ruth 1. 17. Chap. 3. 17.
g Verſe 34.
h 1 Kings 14. 10 and 21. 21. 2 Kings 9. 8.

23 And when Abigail ſaw David, ſhe haſted, and i lighted off the aſs, and fell before David on her face, and bowed herſelf to the ground, i Joſh. 15. 18. Judg. 1. 14.

24 And would have been ſecure to you. And now, when plenty ſmiles about you, he who has been your protector, ſubmits himſelf to aſk your aid by thoſe that belong to him.

V. 10, 11. Reproach, ſcorn, contempt, breathe through the anſwer of Nabal to the ſervants of David.

V. 12. That anſwer, as it was given, is reported back to David; as the anſwer of every heart appears to him who ſees it, when he, in the perſon of the poor and needy, aſks but a little out of the plenty he has given and preſerved. He that ſends, ſees when he is deſpiſed in the perſons of thoſe that are ſent.

V. 13. And will the Saviour of men ever prepare to do any thing like that which David is now preparing to do? Will the Judge of all the earth do right? Will the Lord of all make his rational creatures ſtewards of the bleſſings he beſtows, firſt to ſupply their own wants, and then for the good of all; and ſhall he require but a little to be paid him before the day of accounting for the whole, and ſhall he be unmindful of the careleſs or unkind treatment his poor meſſengers receive?

V. 14—17. How does a gracious providence provide for the ſafety of the righteous in his ſight, when he is ſending to take vengeance againſt the unjuſt!

V. 18—20. The neceſſity of the caſe juſtified Abigail's conduct. The protection her huſband's property had received from David and his men, made what he had ſent for a debt which gratitude was bound to pay. It could not be with-held without guilt; and the report ſhe heard of David's juſtice gave her ſufficient cauſe to expect the effects of it, which, with equal reſolution and prudence, ſhe endeavours to prevent their ſuffering; and in which ſhe ſaw the utmoſt diligence was neceſſary.

V. 21. He hath requited me evil for good—What is the good which I have received at the hand of God? Let me note each article, let me caſt up the great account: The days, the hours of my life, number not my mercies: Every moment has brought me good from God—good, real ſubſtantial benefits, which as mortal I could not have lived without; but as immortal, what are my obligations? the good done and deſigned me takes in eternity paſt, and extends into all eternity to come. In his image made, unchangeably he loved the human race; for all, for me he died; he lives, and wiſhes me to live for ever; and to produce this God-like purpoſe, all nature, providence, and grace are in endleſs motion; mortals in ages paſt and preſent write and ſpeak, and labour for my good; angels miniſter; all ſet on work by infinite love, guided by infinite wiſdom. What requital have I made? Great God! If the hand-writing, in which my returns to THEE have been recorded, is not blotted out by thy blood, the mountains to cover me with eternal darkneſs muſt be more to be deſired, than the ſight of thy glory charged with the debt of all thy goodneſs, and that charge compared with the requital I have made.

V. 22. This verſe contains an oath or vow of David's, to deſtroy all the males of Nabal's family.

V. 23—31. They that will conſider the behaviour of Abigail, together with the different branches of her addreſs to David for mercy, will think that ſhe poſſeſſed no ſmall degree of piety and wiſdom. She goes, provided with an offering, to ſatisfy the demands which had been made by David, and as ſoon as ſhe ſees him, ſhe does not wait at a diſtance, or approach like a perſon doubting of his mercy when his juſt reſentment was appeaſed: She runs and caſts herſelf down at his feet; and, inſtead of advancing

Before Christ cir. 1060.

24 And fell at his feet, and said, Upon me, my lord, upon me let this iniquity be, and let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak in thine § audience, and hear the words of thine handmaid.

§ Heb. ears.

25 Let not my lord, I pray thee, ‖ regard this man of Belial, even Nabal: for as his name is, so is he; Nabal is his name, and folly is with him: but I thine handmaid saw not the young men of my lord, whom thou didst send.

‖ Heb. lay it to his heart.

26 Now therefore, my lord, as the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, seeing the Lord hath with-holden thee from coming to shed blood, and from † avenging thyself with thine own hand: now let thine enemies, and they that seek evil to my lord, be as Nabal.

† Heb. saving thyself.

27 And now [k] this † blessing which thine handmaid hath brought unto my lord, let it even be given unto the young men that ‡ follow my lord.

k Gen. 33. 11.
† Or, present.
‡ Heb. walk at the feet of, &c.

28 I pray thee forgive the trespass of thine handmaid: for the Lord will certainly make my lord a sure house: because my lord fighteth the battles of the Lord, and evil hath not been found in thee all thy days.

29 Yet a man is risen to pursue thee, and to seek thy soul: but the soul of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of life with the Lord thy God; and the souls of thine enemies, them shall he [l] sling out, § as out of the middle of a sling.

Before Christ cir. 1060.

30 And it shall come to pass when the Lord shall have done to my lord according to all the good that he hath spoken concerning thee, and shall have appointed thee ruler over Israel;

l Jer. 10. 18.
§ Heb. in the midst of the bow of a sling.

31 That this shall be ‖ no grief unto thee, nor offence of heart unto my lord, either that thou hast shed blood causeless, or that my lord hath avenged himself: but when the Lord shall have dealt well with my lord, then remember thine handmaid.

‖ Heb. no staggering, or, stumbling.

32 ¶ And David said to Abigail, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, which sent thee this day to meet me:

33 And blessed be thy advice, and blessed be thou, which hast kept me this day from coming to shed blood, and from avenging myself with mine own hand.

34 For in very deed, as the Lord God of Israel liveth, which hath kept me back from hurting thee, except thou hadst hasted and come to meet me, surely there had [m] not been left unto Nabal, by the morning light, any that pisseth against the wall.

m Verse 22.

35 So David received of her hand that which she had brought him, and said unto her, Go up in peace to thine house; see, I have hearkened vancing any thing in favour of the offender, she confesses how justly he might proceed in his resentment; but she, from the near relation in which she stood to the offender, and all that must be involved with him in his ruin, offers herself as a victim to atone for the offence, in which she, though so nearly related, had no part. An offering being thus made to satisfy the demands of justice, and to atone for the offence, she supplicates that mercy which the guilty neither sought for, nor would have been heard in asking; and then turning the attention of David to himself, she leads him to compare the glory that would arise from shewing mercy, above that of sacrificing the offender to his resentment, however just; confidently telling him that he should never feel grief for forgiving and granting her request; and then she concludes with desiring to be remembered by him, when his kingdom should be established against all the opposition that was made to him by his enemies. Salvation to men being the top-stone of all the works of God, it is the subject of his revealed will; and being so, it is represented to us in every way which can make it to be understood. Place but sinful men in the situation of Nabal, and look upon a justly-incensed God in the person of his servant David; and then consider this wise and excellent person as representing the Mediator, satisfying the demands of justice and atoning for the offenders, and in this, as by a small figure which may be taken into our view at once, the great work of salvation is plainly represented. In the comparison there may be found enough for minds still under the influence of high conceits to object to, or even be offended with, as many did, and were, to the Redeemer of men, when he came in the person of JESUS; but they that are laying their hands upon their guilty breasts, and looking up to a pure, a holy, and an offended God, will find in these Old Testament representations, that which will make their hearts beat with joy, if they will but fix their thoughts upon them. Is God just? He must bring the guilty to judgment. Can they escape? Can they justify themselves? Where shall they fly? What shall they say for their forgetfulness, their ingratitude, their sinfulness in their Creator's sight? Bring near the great assize, and at the door see the righteous Judge coming to require that which justice, conscience, reason, all confess to be his due. Is God that Being to whom alone we can owe nothing? See the prison open, prepared for his debtors and criminals; and then weigh the worth of every thought of ONE offering to pay the debt, to suffer the severe punishment justly due and ready to be inflicted.

V. 32—34. David begins with ascribing to the fountain of goodness this new mercy in inclining him to shew mercy; and then from blessing God, he descends to the instrument and means he was pleased to use in bestowing this kindness upon him. But the other parts of his answer calls back our thoughts to the mighty obligation due to the Deliverer of men from the wrath of God, which, but for HIM, would have fallen with greater certainty upon every sinful child of fallen Adam, than that David's vengeance would have taken place against Nabal and his family, had not his wrath been thus appeased and turned away by Abigail.

V. 35. David received her offering and accepted her person, and then bade her go up in peace to those she had saved. Answered and blessed by him to whom she had offered herself as a sacrifice, and sent back to receive the love and gratitude of those she had preserved, what pleasing emotions must now fill her compassionate, wise, and pious mind?

Before Christ cir. 1060. hearkened to thy voice, and have accepted thy perſon.

36 ¶ And Abigail came to Nabal; and behold, [n] he held a feaſt in his houſe, like the feaſt of a king; and Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he was very drunken: wherefore ſhe told him nothing, leſs or more, until the morning light.

n 2 Sam. 13. 23.

37 But it came to paſs in the morning, when the wine was gone out of Nabal, and his wife had told him theſe things, that his heart died within him, and he became as a ſtone.

38 And it came to paſs about ten days after, that the Lord ſmote Nabal, that he died.

39 ¶ And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he ſaid, Bleſſed be the Lord that hath pleaded the cauſe of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his ſervant from evil: for the Lord hath returned the wickedneſs of Nabal upon his own head. And David ſent and communed with Abigail, to take her to him to wife.

40 And when the ſervants of David were come to Abigail to Carmel, they ſpake unto her, ſaying, David ſent us unto thee, to take thee to him to wife.

41 And ſhe aroſe, and bowed herſelf on her face to the earth, and ſaid, Behold, let thine handmaid be a ſervant to waſh the feet of the ſervants of my lord.

Before Christ cir. 1060.

42 And Abigail haſted, and aroſe, and rode upon an aſs, with five damſels of hers that went * after her; and ſhe went after the meſſengers of David, and became his wife.

* Heb. at her feet.

43 David alſo took Ahinoam [o] of Jezreel, [p] and they were alſo both of them his wives.

o Joſh. 15. 56.
p Chap. 27 3. and 30 5.

44 ¶ But Saul had given [q] Michal his daughter, David's wife, to † Phalti the ſon of Laiſh, which was of Gallim.

q 2 Sam. 3. 14.
† Phaltiel, 2 Sam. 3. 15.

CHAP. XXVI.

AND the Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, ſaying, [a] Doth not David hide himſelf in the hill of Hachilah which is before Jeſhimon?

a Chap. 23. 19. Pſa. 54. title.

2 Then Saul aroſe, and went down to the wilderneſs of Ziph, having three thouſand choſen men of Iſrael with him, to ſeek David in the wilderneſs of Ziph.

3 And Saul pitched in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeſhimon by the way: but David abode in the wilderneſs, and he ſaw that Saul came after him into the wilderneſs.

4 David

V. 36. Feaſting, merry, drunken, was the ſituation in which ſhe found the guilty, who, but for her ſake, had in this very night been deſtroyed. Who can tell how many times the meſſengers of Divine juſtice have been turned away by the Mediator between God and men? Reader, here, as out of ſeaſon, ſuffer the word of exhortation, and if that Mediator is not yet precious to you, to yourſelf turn preacher, and cry to the ſoul yet in its ſins and in its blood, Awake to a ſenſe of danger, and ſee HIM to whom you already owe your preſervation, ten thouſand times repeated, from eternal death.

V. 37. Became as a ſtone—Confounded with a ſenſe of his brutal luxury, which would laviſh much where his own pride and ſenſuality were to be gratified, rather than give a little where much was due, in return for the kindneſs which had been done him by David and his men; and then, ſeeing the danger he had at once deſerved and eſcaped, inſtead of any expreſſions of gratitude for his deliverance, either to the perſon that obtained or granted it, hard and heavy as a ſtone his ſenſual ſelfiſh ſoul became.

V. 38. About ten days after—Important days! The laſt remains of life's trial for eternity. The LORD who knew his ſtate, and what it would be if a longer ſpace had been allowed him, ſmote him that he died.

V. 39. David by the Spirit ſays, The Lord had returned the wickedneſs of Nabal on his own head. The Lord's ways are equal; and whoever does wickedly, entails upon himſelf an inheritance of miſery, and which nothing can prevent his ſuffering, but his obtaining part in that inheritance which is given by the faithful promiſe of God, to all that truly repent and believe the goſpel. (Gal. iii. 18.)

V. 40. Abigail—Who had offered herſelf as a ſacrifice to ſave guilty Nabal and his family, was now to be exalted to the ſame equality with the king of Iſrael in ſtation, as ſhe had ſhewn herſelf to be in piety and greatneſs of mind.

V. 41, 42. And with the ſame ſelf-abaſement of mind that this humble perſon received the meſſage of David, does the truly penitent mind receive the offers of mercy and grace, and of future glory from God, for the ſake of the God-man Chriſt Jeſus. When the ſoul has, by the light of the Holy Spirit, a ſight of itſelf—its nature and the fruits of it, the effects of that diſcovery is the being humbled, with a painful ſenſe of ſelf-abhorrence; but to be made ſenſible of the love and goodneſs of GOD, produces a far deeper degree of humility, but mixed with grateful joy, which makes the ſoul ariſe with Abigail, and haſte to HIM, who has ſtopped ſo low to claim it for his own. And in doing this the ſincere faith of the ſoul is as clearly proved, as was that of Abigail's. She knew the riſk ſhe run in being expoſed with David to all the hardſhips and dangers through which he muſt come to the crown: And they that venture their All with Jeſus, almighty as he is, yet to unite with him, and live as his own, is not immediately to be taken out of the world, but rather to ſuffer in it, as Abigail could only expect to do with David; deſcending into the poverty of a cave, climbing over the mountains of ſelf-denial; day and night guarding againſt dangers from powerful enemies, and often obliged to change their ſtations to ſecure their ſafety; but with all theſe, and every ſuffering that can be felt from the world without, nature within, or tempting ſpirits, the promiſed crown is before them, and the ſtrength of Iſrael never a moment from their ſide.

V. 43. They were both his wives—The Scriptures are written to make known the Almighty's nature and will; not to vindicate the character of any man or number of men, but to ſhew the ſinfulneſs of all men, the entire need all have of mercy and of grace, to reſtore them to that purity and innocence of life in which the firſt parents of mankind lived together; and from which original deſign of the Creator's it is a deviation, and therefore it muſt be ſinful for any one man to live as the huſband of more than one woman: From the beginning it was not ſo. (Matth. xix. 4, &c.)

V. 44. Saul—Had given David's wife to another, that he might cut off all pretence of David's to the crown, on account of his relation to his family.

CHAP.

Before Christ cir. 1060.

4 David therefore sent out spies, and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

5 ¶ And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had pitched: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and [b] Abner the son of Ner, the captain of his host: and Saul lay in the * trench, and the people pitched round about him.

b Chap. 14. 50. and 17. 55.

* Or, midst or his carriages.

6 Then answered David and said to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai [c] the son of Zeruiah brother to Joab, saying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? And Abishai said, I will go down with thee.

c 1 Chro. 2. 16.

7 So David and Abishai came to the people by night, and behold, Saul lay sleeping within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him.

8 Then said Abishai to David, God hath † delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear, even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time.

† Heb. shut up.

9 And David said to Abishai, Destroy him not: [d] for who can stretch forth his hand against the Lord's anointed, and be guiltless?

d 2 Sam. 1. 16.

10 David said furthermore, As the Lord liveth, the Lord shall smite him, or his day shall come to die, or he shall descend into battle, and perish.

11 [e] The Lord forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the Lord's anointed: but I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster, and the cruse of water, and let us go.

e Chap. 24. 6, 12.

12 So David took the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's bolster, and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep, because a deep sleep from the Lord was fallen upon them.

13 ¶ Then David went over to the other side, and stood on the top of an hill afar off, (a great space being between them)

14 And David cried to the people, and to Abner the son of Ner, saying, Answerest thou not, Abner? Then Abner answered and said, Who art thou that criest to the king?

15 And David said to Abner, Art not thou a valiant man? and who is like to thee in Israel? wherefore then hast thou not kept thy lord the king? for there came one of the people in to destroy the king thy lord.

Before Christ cir. 1060.

16 This thing is not good that thou hast done: as the Lord liveth, ye are ‡ worthy to die, because ye have not kept your master the Lord's anointed: and now see where the king's spear is, and the cruse of water, that was at his bolster.

‡ Heb. the sons of death.

17 And Saul knew David's voice, and said, Is this thy voice, my son David? And David said, It is my voice, my lord, O king.

18 And he said, Wherefore doth my lord thus pursue after his servant? [i] for what have I done? or what evil is in mine hand?

i Chap. 24. 9.

19 Now therefore, I pray thee, let my lord the king hear the words of his servant: If the Lord have stirred thee up against me, let him § accept an offering: but if they be the children of men, cursed be they before the Lord; [g] for they have driven me out this day from ‖ abiding in the inheritance of the Lord, saying, Go serve other gods.

§ Heb. smell.

g Deut. 4. 28.

‖ Heb. cleaving.

20 Now therefore, let not my blood fall to the earth before the face of the Lord: for the king of Israel is come out to seek [h] a flea, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountains.

h Chap. 24. 13.

21 ¶ Then said Saul, I have sinned: return, my son David, for I will no more do thee harm, because my soul was precious in thine eyes this day: behold, I have played the fool, and have erred exceedingly.

22 And David answered and said, Behold the king's spear, and let one of the young men come over, and fetch it.

23 The Lord render to every man his righteousness, and his faithfulness: for the Lord delivered thee into my hand to day, but I would not stretch forth mine hand against the Lord's anointed.

24 And behold, as thy life was much set by this day in mine eyes; so let my life be much set by in the eyes of the Lord, and let him deliver me out of all tribulation.

25 Then Saul said to David, Blessed be thou, my son David: thou shalt both do great things, and also shalt still prevail. So David went on his way, and Saul returned to his place.

C H A P.

C H A P. XXVI.

V. 6. Zeruiah—Was David's sister. (1 Chron. ii. 16.)

V. 25. By this further account of Saul's conduct it appears his hatred to David was such, that though his former attempts against him had been attended with equal disgrace to himself and honour to David, yet he could not decline any opportunity that was offered to him, to destroy the object of his envy; Saul's conduct is here made the means of a further discovery of the unchangeable enmity of satan against the Son of David, the holy One of Israel; as, on the other hand, David's sparing Saul is of the

C H A P. XXVII.

Before Christ cir. 1058.

AND David said in his heart, I shall now * perish one day by the hand of Saul: there is nothing better for me, than that I should speedily escape into the land of the Philistines; and Saul shall despair of me, to seek me any more in any coast of Israel: so shall I escape out of his hand.

* Heb. be consumed.

a Chap. 25. 13. 2 And David arose, [a] and he passed over with the six hundred men that were with him, unto Achish the son of Maoch king of Gath.

3 And David dwelt with Achish at Gath, he and his men, every man with his household, b Chap. 25. 43. even David [b] with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the Carmelitess, Nabal's wife.

4 And it was told Saul that David was fled to Gath: and he sought no more again for him.

5 ¶ And David said unto Achish, If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in some town in the country, that I may dwell there: for why should thy servant dwell in the royal city with thee?

6 Then Achish gave him Ziklag that day: c See Josh. 15. 31. and 19. 5. wherefore [c] Ziklag pertaineth unto the kings of Judah unto this day.

‡ Heb. the number of days. ‡ Heb. a year of days: See Chap. 29. 3, till 1056. 7 And ‡ the time that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines, was ‡ a full year and four months.

d Josh. 13. 2. e Josh. 16. 10. § Or, Gerzites. i Gen. 25. 18. 8 ¶ And David and his men went up and invaded [d] the Geshurites, [e] and the § Gezrites, and the Amalekites: for those nations were of old the inhabitants of the land, [i] as thou goest to Shur, even unto the land of Egypt.

9 And David smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alive, and took away the sheep, and the oxen, and the asses, and the camels, and the apparel, and returned, and came to Achish. Before Christ cir. 1060.

‖ Or, Did you not make a rode, &c. 10 And Achish said, ‖ Whither have ye made a rode to day? And David said, Against the south of Judah, and against the south of g See 1 Chron. 2. 9, 25. [g] the Jerahmeelites, and against the south of h Judg. 1. 16. [h] the Kenites.

11 And David saved neither man nor woman alive, to bring tidings to Gath, saying, Lest they should tell on us, saying, So did David, and so will be his manner, all the while he dwelleth in the country of the Philistines.

* Heb. to stink. 12 And Achish believed David, saying, He hath made his people Israel * utterly to abhor him; therefore he shall be my servant for ever.

C H A P. XXVIII.

a Chap. 29. 1. AND [a] it came to pass in those days, that the Philistines gathered their armies together for warfare, to fight with Israel: and Achish said unto David, Know thou assuredly, that thou shalt go out with me to battle, thou and thy men. cir. 1056.

2 And David said to Achish, Surely thou shalt know what thy servant can do. And Achish said to David, Therefore will I make thee keeper of mine head for ever.

b Chap. 25. 1. 3 ¶ Now [b] Samuel was dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buried him in Ramah, even in his own city: and Saul had put away [c] those that had familiar spirits, and the wizards, out of the land.

c Lev. 19. 31. and 20. 27. Deut. 18. 10, 11. 4 ¶ And the mind of the Lord Jesus, of whom he was so eminent a type. David, with a word, might have had Saul pierced to the ground; and Jesus, by his Almighty power, might at his pleasure fix and confine all the fallen angels to their own place. But, as man, that he might be an example of submission to the will of the Father, he is willing to allow those to live, who are invariably bent upon his death; and this long-suffering nature of God was made known to men by David's conduct to Saul. David might have taken Saul's life, and with it possession of the crown; but he was to be an example, that the self-will and impatience of the natural mind cannot obtain the promised spiritual kingdom of God, and that the hand of his providence alone can lead us into the happy possession of what it is his will to bestow upon men for their Redeemer's sake.

C H A P. XXVII.

V. 1. In his heart—David, after all God had enabled him to do—after all the mercies he had experienced from him, secretly distrusts his future care: Giving place to the natural unbelief of the mind, or tempted by satan to reason from appearances, he concludes against the promises of God, that instead of ever arriving at what he had been given to expect, he should fall by the hand of Saul. David now concludes that there was nothing better for him than to escape among the Philistines. He does not now ask the LORD what he shall do, distrusting his faithfulness and goodness; that sin of the heart had grieved the Holy Spirit, and David, with Saul, is now left to himself, that all may be admonished to cry, Lord, increase our faith.

V. 4. David's being fled out of Saul's dominions, seems to be the reason why he sought no more for him, and not any change of heart.

V. 5, 6. Was it right for David to owe an obligation to those to whom he could not, if he came to be king of Israel, make any return consistent with his duty to God?

V. 7—12. David's distrust in the goodness of God was now followed with its fruits to men, telling Achish a wilful untruth, with a view to mislead him.

C H A P. XXVIII.

V. 1, 2. David's mind appears still to be under the influence of that spirit which God hates. David was bound to take the part of Israel; he gives the king to understand the contrary would be the part he would act.

V. 3. Saul put away—All such as wilfully gave themselves up to the service of satan, though Saul himself was acting under satan's influence. And by this it appears, that though wicked spirits may unite for a season to accomplish any purpose on which they are equally bent, yet, on other occasions, when they have any other end to answer, in which they severally think themselves more concerned, they will make war against one another.

V. 5. Saul

Before Christ cir. 1056.

4 ¶ And the Philiſtines gathered themſelves together, and came and pitched in Shunem: and Saul gathered all Iſrael together, and they pitched in Gilboa.

5 And when Saul ſaw the hoſt of the Philiſtines, he was afraid, and his heart greatly trembled.

d Chap. 14. 37. Lam. 2. 9.

6 And when Saul inquired of the Lord, [d] the Lord anſwered him not, neither by dreams, nor [e] by Urim, nor by prophets.

e Exod. 28. 33.

7 ¶ Then ſaid Saul unto his ſervants, Seek me a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, that I may go to her, and inquire of her. And his ſervants ſaid to him, Behold, there is a woman that hath a familiar ſpirit at Endor.

i 1 Chron. 10. 13.

8 And [i] Saul diſguiſed himſelf, and put on other raiment, and he went, and two men with him, and they came to the woman by night; and he ſaid, I pray thee divine unto me by the familiar ſpirit, and bring me him up whom I ſhall name unto thee.

9 And the woman ſaid unto him, Behold, thou knoweſt what Saul hath done, how he hath cut off thoſe that have familiar ſpirits, and the wizards, out of the land: wherefore then layeſt thou a ſnare for my life, to cauſe me to die?

10 And Saul ſware to her by the Lord, ſaying, As the Lord liveth, there ſhall no puniſhment happen to thee for this thing.

11 Then ſaid the woman, Whom ſhall I bring up unto thee? and he ſaid, Bring me up Samuel.

12 And when the woman ſaw Samuel, ſhe cried with a loud voice: and the woman ſpake to Saul, ſaying, Why haſt thou deceived me? for thou art Saul.

13 And the king ſaid unto her, Be not afraid: for what ſaweſt thou? And the woman ſaid unto Saul, I ſaw gods aſcending out of the earth.

Before Christ cir. 1056.

14 And he ſaid unto her, * What form is he of? And ſhe ſaid, An old man cometh up; and he is covered with a mantle. And Saul perceived that it was Samuel, and he ſtooped with his face to the ground, and bowed himſelf.

* Heb. What is his form?

15 ¶ And Samuel ſaid to Saul, Why haſt thou diſquieted me, to bring me up? And Saul anſwered, I am ſore diſtreſſed; for the Philiſtines make war againſt me, and God is departed from me, and anſwereth me no more, neither † by prophets, nor by dreams: therefore I have called thee, that thou mayeſt make known unto me what I ſhall do.

† Heb. by the hand of prophets.

16 Then ſaid Samuel, Wherefore then doſt thou aſk of me, ſeeing the Lord is departed from thee, and is become thine enemy?

17 And the Lord hath done ‡ to him, [g] as he ſpake by § me: for the Lord hath rent the kingdom out of thine hand, and given it to thy neighbour, even to David:

‡ Or, for himſelf.
g Chap. 15. 28.
§ Heb. mine hand.

18 [k] Becauſe thou obeyedſt not the voice of the Lord, nor executedſt his fierce wrath upon Amalek, therefore hath the Lord done this thing unto thee this day.

k Chap. 15. 9.

19 [l] Moreover, the Lord will alſo deliver Iſrael with thee, into the hand of the Philiſtines: and to morrow ſhalt thou and thy ſons be with me: the Lord alſo ſhall deliver the hoſt of Iſrael into the hand of the Philiſtines.

l 1 Chron. 10. 13.

20 Then Saul ‖ fell ſtraightway all along on the earth, and was ſore afraid, becauſe of the words of Samuel, and there was no ſtrength in him: for he had eaten no bread all the day, nor all the night.

‖ Heb. made haſte and fell with the fulneſs of his ſtature.

21 ¶ And

V. 5. Saul was afraid—Of the danger that now appeared. His heart trembled—What hiſtory like this can let us into the ſtate of the very hearts of thoſe whoſe actions are treated of?

V. 6. The Lord anſwered him not—No light, no ſupport, no comfort appeared to him either from the ſpirit of the Lord within, or by his providence without.

V. 7. Saul—Set upon living for himſelf, would uſe any means to forward his ends; and he now appears to have had neareſt to his perſon thoſe that were as void of right principles as himſelf; and who had neither enough of the fear of God, or of regard for their king, to offer him any advice againſt looking for aid from ſuch as were profeſſedly in league with ſatan.

V. 8—20. Saul prayed the woman to divine to him by the familiar ſpirit. The Scriptures inform us that ſatan is transformed into an angel of light; (2 Cor. xi. 14.) no wonder, therefore, that ſatan ſhould perſonate Samuel both to the woman and Saul; and that the father of lies ſhould mix reproof of ſin with what he ſays, the better to carry on the deceit as to its being Samuel, that by the belief of his being poſſeſſed of power to call back the ſervants of God from glory, he might lead others to apply to thoſe that were familiar with him; and, agreeable to this deſign, no blame is caſt on Saul for the wicked courſe he had taken; blame which Saul would not have failed to have received, had it been as really Samuel as it was pretended. The evil ſpirit, in Samuel's appearance, foretels what ſhould befal Saul; but that he might be hardened againſt all fear of dying in his preſent ſtate of enmity againſt God, he gives him to underſtand, he ſhould be with the prophet of the Lord after death: And it is this language of ſatan's which is moſt dangerous to all whoſe hearts, with Saul, are ſet upon this world—falſe hopes of being found among the bleſſed after death; as, on the other hand, deſpair of the mercies of God are his ſuggeſtions to thoſe to whom the things of this life are imbittered by a ſenſe of ſin. As the light of the Goſpel has ſhone in the world, mankind have been more and more convinced of the wickedneſs of divining, and of the folly and ſinfulneſs of applying to thoſe that either pretended, or in reality make known things which only can be known by having intercourſe with evil ſpirits. It is certain many practiſed theſe wicked arts ſince the

Before Christ cir. 1056.

21 ¶ And the woman came unto Saul, and saw that he was sore troubled, and said unto him, Behold, thine handmaid hath obeyed thy voice, and I have [k] put my life in my hand, and have hearkened unto thy words which thou spakest unto me.

[k] Job 13. 14.

22 Now therefore, I pray thee, hearken thou also unto the voice of thine handmaid, and let me set a morsel of bread before thee; and eat, that thou mayest have strength, when thou goest on thy way.

23 But he refused, and said, I will not eat: but his servants, together with the woman, compelled him, and he hearkened unto their voice: so he arose from the earth, and sat upon the bed.

24 And the woman had a fat calf in the house, and she hasted, and killed it, and took flour, and kneaded it, and did bake unleavened bread thereof.

25 And she brought it before Saul, and before his servants, and they did eat: then they rose up, and went away that night.

CHAP. XXIX.

[a] Chap. 28. 1.

[b] Chap. 4. 1.

NOW [a] the Philistines gathered together all their armies [b] to Aphek: and the Israelites pitched by a fountain which is in Jezreel.

2 And the lords of the Philistines passed on by hundreds, and by thousands: but David and his men passed on in the rere-ward with Achish.

3 Then said the princes of the Philistines, What do these Hebrews here? And Achish said unto the princes of the Philistines, Is not this David the servant of Saul the king of Israel, which hath been with me [c] these days or these years, and I have found no fault in him since he fell unto me, unto this day?

[c] See Chap. 27. 7.

4 And the princes of the Philistines were wroth with him, and the princes of the Philistines said unto him, [d] Make this fellow return, that he may go again to his place which thou hast appointed him, and let him not go down with us to battle, lest [e] in the battle he be an adversary to us: for wherewith should he reconcile himself unto his master? should it not be with the heads of these men?

Before Christ cir. 1056.

[d] 1 Chron. 12. 19.

[e] As Chap. 24. 21.

5 Is not this David, of whom they sang one to another in dances, saying, [i] Saul slew his thousands, and David his ten thousands?

[i] Chap. 18. 7. and 21. 11.

6 ¶ Then Achish called David, and said unto him, Surely, as the Lord liveth, thou hast been upright, and thy going out and thy coming in with me in the host, is good in my sight: for I have not found evil in thee, since the day of thy coming unto me unto this day: nevertheless, * the lords favour thee not.

* Heb. thou art not good in the eyes of the lords.

7 Wherefore now return, and go in peace, that thou † displease not the lords of the Philistines.

† Heb do not evil in the eyes of the lords.

8 ¶ And David said unto Achish, But what have I done? and what hast thou found in thy servant, so long as I have been ‡ with thee unto this day, that I may not go fight against the enemies of my lord the king?

‡ Heb. before thee.

9 And Achish answered and said to David, I know that thou art good in my sight, as an angel of God: notwithstanding, the princes of the Philistines have said, He shall not go up with us to the battle.

10 Wherefore now rise up early in the morning, with thy master's servants that are come with thee: and as soon as ye be up early in the morning, and have light, depart.

11 So David and his men rose up early to depart in the morning, to return into the land of the Philistines; [g] and the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

[g] 2 Sam. 4. 4.

CHAP.

time of our blessed Saviour's being upon earth, as, in the history of the Acts of the Apostles, we read of many of them being overcome by the Spirit of truth, and converted to God. (Acts xvi. 16. and xix. 19.) And, since that time, when the spirit of antichrist, which appeared in Cain, Pharaoh, Saul, Judas, &c. shewed itself, by its bloody persecuting zeal in later ages, the advocates of that power availed themselves of the aid of spiritual wickedness to assist them with lying wonders. (Eph. vi. 12. 2 Thes. ii. 11. Rev. xiii. 14.) And in this many protestants have also more inexcusably (because with the word of God in their possession) acknowledged their unbelief of God's governing the world, and have discovered, whether they knew it or not, that they were in a state of subjection to satan, by regarding omens of good and bad luck; the using charms for healing or preventing distempers; consulting fortune-tellers, or pretenders to skill in discovering things lost or stolen; or using impious means (though it may have been from mere ignorance) to prevent that very witchcraft which thereby is acknowledged; such as nailing an horse-shoe on the door-post, or on the main-mast of a ship; as if any power, less than that of God's, would prevent satan, who tempted an apostle to betray the Lord of Life, from doing all the human race every possible injury in this life, and use every deceit to betray men into the love of the world, forgetfulness of God, and final unbelief, that he might blaspheme the name of Him who died for them for ever. Much, much does it concern us to know in whom we believe, who we fear, and who it is we obey.

V. 21—23. A regard to her own safety might dictate all this seeming kindness.

V. 24, 25. It was night when Saul came, and in the night he returned from this business of darkness and impiety.

CHAP. XXIX.

V. 1—11. The princes of the Philistines—Were displeased with Achish for bringing David and his men with him into the field. By this unfavourable opinion of the princes, David was delivered from

CHAP. XXX.

Before Christ cir. 1056.

AND it came to pass when David and his men were come to Ziklag on the third day, that the Amalekites had invaded the south and Ziklag, and smitten Ziklag, and burnt it with fire:

2 And had taken the women captives, that were therein; they slew not any, either great or small, but carried them away, and went on their way.

3 ¶ So David and his men came to the city, and behold, it was burnt with fire, and their wives, and their sons, and their daughters were taken captives.

4 Then David and the people that were with him, lift up their voice and wept, until they had no more power to weep. Before Christ cir. 1056.

5 And David's [a] two wives were taken captives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite. [a] Chap. 25. 42, 43.

6 And David was greatly distressed; for the people spake of stoning him, because the soul of all the people was * grieved, every man for his sons, and for his daughters: but David encouraged himself in the Lord his God. * Heb. bitter.

7 [b] And David said to Abiathar the priest, Ahimelech's [b] Chap. 23. 6, 9.

from the difficulty of either taking a part against Israel, or betraying the side he went with; and, by being sent back to his own city, he was in time to recover his family and his property out of the hands of those that had invaded the country in his absence. Thus was the unkindness of the Philistine princes the means of preserving David from the public loss of his character, and from being deprived of all that he had. David, by his answer to Achish, (v. 8.) thinks himself injured in being suspected, though nothing could be more just than that he should be treated as he was by the princes, and not as he was thought of by Achish, who it has pleased God to shew he deceived, and was not in his heart the upright man at that time, which he endeavoured to make himself appear to be. From this passage of sacred history arises some considerations of great concern to every man. 1. That sooner or later God will make known, as he has revealed, the very thoughts of men's hearts, and that without respect of persons; that whether it be David's deceit or Saul's envy, the Spirit of truth will make all things appear as they are. (Luke ii. 35. Acts x. 36.) 2. That so desirous is God to save us from ourselves—our natural and actual guilt, and the evil consequences thereof, that he, by his grace and providence, prevents the misery we were bringing upon ourselves; and doing of us good, by every possible means, that we may be led to a sense of his rich mercy, and so be won to love, fear, and obey him, with singleness and uprightness of heart; but that if men will persevere to the last moment of their life of trial, in resisting his Spirit and disobeying his will, his goodness and mercy may be justified, when it shall appear to men and angels that he followed all men with his blessed designs, and offers of goodness and mercy, till his grace and government were finally rejected, and they would not have him to reign over them. 3. That God, in his government of the world, and in the common concerns of men, can make use even of the wrath of man, and turns it to his glory, and the good of them that submit themselves to him. (Ps. lxxvi. 10.) This is proved by God's using the displeasure of the Philistine princes, as the means of sending David away from the great strait into which he had brought himself, and that just in time to overtake and recover all that he possessed, and those that were dearest to him, out of the hand of a foreign enemy. Doing of him this great kindness, by means which he himself was displeased with, and would have rejected, had his reasons been allowed. Surely such discoveries of the nature of the divine government ought not to be made to us in vain, and without our fixing of it as a principle that it is no less our happiness than it is our duty to submit ourselves and thankfully receive, as from God, all the treatment we receive at the hands of all men; for, though God is the author of no man's unkindness, deceit, or wrong conduct, yet such is his wisdom in governing, that he can make all things work together for good; and such is his love, that he is never wanting to do this to all the human race, withdrawing his designs of mercy from none, but such as resist, reject, and turn them away.

CHAP. XXX.

V. 1. As these people broke in upon what belonged to David, when he was where he ought not to have been, so do the spiritual enemies of men break in upon them, whenever they are where they ought not.

V. 2. The Amalekites were prevented from killing the people they found defenceless. Other motives took place of immediate revenge. God did not suffer what belonged to David to be destroyed, but he suffered them to be taken away captive; thus did he in mercy chasten him for his unbelief, which led him to take the course that brought him to this place, and into the wrong steps he had taken.

V. 3. David and his men found ruin and desolation where they had left their wives and children in peace.

V. 4. Brave men as they were, they wept till they became stupid with grief at the sad sight the flames had left, and for the unknown sufferings of those they tenderly loved.

V. 5. And how would David condemn himself for leaving his family unprotected, to go where he was not called by any duty to God.

V. 6. Over and above those painful stings, which a sense of his mistaken guilty conduct inflicted upon him, David was distressed with immediate fears of losing his life, by the resentment of his people, for having led them where they had no business, and unnecessarily exposing them to this great calamity. What was now David's situation?—An outcast from his own country; the king of it bent upon his death; rejected and sent away by the Philistines; the city in which he and his people had settled, burnt; all that belonged to him and them taken away; his men ready to stone him, and guilty of having wandered from God, and in that course doing despite to his grace. In this situation David encouraged himself in the LORD his God. His heart overwhelmed with sorrow, vexation, guilt, and fear, by grace he is restrained from rushing into despair, and grace begun continued to shine, till, by its light, he saw salvation to men, through the Lamb that was slain; he felt himself the man that needed mercy from God, and thus prepared, the Spirit breathed the promises into his soul—I will pardon thy iniquities, I will heal thy backslidings; I am the Lord, merciful and gracious to men for the sake of the God-man; look unto him and be thou saved; thy God can do every thing. His grace can heal thy guilty mind, and renew a right spirit within thee; and his providence can put thee in possession of thy people's hearts, and of more than all thou hast lost. Grace shining in his heart, faith, quicker than lightning, realized to him the faithfulness of God, in covenant with men to do them every possible good, for the sake of his Son their Saviour, and on that mercy which endureth for ever David ventured; and guilty, helpless, and distressed as he was, he cast his care upon the LORD his God, assured that he cared for him. (Jer. xxxiii. 8. Luke i. 77. Hos. xiv. 4. Job xlii. 2. 1 Pet. v. 7. Heb. xiii. 5.)

V. 7. David

Before Christ cir. 1056. Ahimelech's son, I pray thee, bring me hither the ephod: and Abiathar brought thither the ephod to David,

8 And David inquired at the Lord, saying, Shall I pursue after this troop? shall I overtake them? And he answered him, Pursue; for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all.

9 So David went, he and the six hundred men that were with him, and came to the brook Besor, where those that were left behind, stayed.

10 But David pursued, he and four hundred men: (for two hundred abode behind, which were so faint, that they could not go over the brook Besor.)

11 ¶ And they found an Egyptian in the field, and brought him to David, and gave him bread, and he did eat, and they made him drink water.

12 And they gave him a piece of a cake [c] of figs, and two clusters of raisins: and when he had eaten, his spirit came again to him: for he had eaten no bread, nor drunk any water, three days and three nights.

[c] So Judg. 15. 18. Chap. 14. 27.

13 And David said unto him, To whom belongest thou? and whence art thou? And he said, I am a young man of Egypt, servant to an Amalekite, and my master left me, because three days agone I fell sick. Before Christ cir. 1056.

14 We made an invasion upon the south [d] of the Cherethites, and upon the coast which belongeth to Judah, and upon the south of [e] Caleb, and we burnt Ziklag with fire.

[d] 2 Sam. 8. 18. Ezek. 25. 16. Zech. 2. 5.
[e] Josh. 14. 13. and 15. 13.

15 And David said to him, Canst thou bring me down to this company? And he said, Swear unto me by God, that thou wilt neither kill me, nor deliver me into the hands of my master, and I will bring thee down to this company.

16 ¶ And when he had brought him down, behold, they were spread abroad upon all the earth, eating and drinking, and dancing, because of all the great spoil that they had taken out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Judah.

17 And David smote them from the twilight even unto the evening of † the next day: and there escaped not a man of them, save four hundred † Heb. their morrow.

V. 7. David—Convinced of his error in having taken his late steps without consulting what was the will of God, he had now learnt wisdom by the things he had suffered, he therefore calls for the ephod. And as God answered the inquiries of those that believed in him by means of the ephod, and gave them light and direction in what they ought to do, so does he now make his word the means by which all that would do his will may know it: As a lamp in the night, as a light in darkness, so are the Scriptures to those that use them: By the Scriptures the very night—the darkest seasons shall be light, the clouds of doubts and fears shall vanish, and light as the day shall their path become, who will not be wise above that which is written, but who, by the sure word of God, as David by the ephod, will humbly look for his Holy Spirit to guide them into all truth. (Ps. cxix. 105. and cxxxix. 11.)

V. 8. Shall I pursue—The Lord answers, Pursue. David asks—Shall I overtake—He is answered, Thou shalt. And the Lord knowing the anxiety and distress of David's mind for what he had lost, he over and above gives him the assurance that he should neither pursue nor overtake in vain, but that he should recover all. And thus plainly and graciously does God assure all of success who will take hold of his strength, make peace with him, set out, and with all their might pursue the prize of their high calling. They shall recover all—All that the first Adam lost; all that the second Adam died to obtain, and lives to bestow—pardon, grace, holiness, everlasting life. (1 Cor. xv. 22. Luke xii. 32. John xvi. 33.)

V. 9. David went—Set out in pursuit, without delay, of all that God had promised. Whose example shall those imitate that would wish to dwell for ever with the spirits of just men made perfect? Surely the prophets, children, and servants of God. The way they all went, is plain for all that will follow them. Inquire after God. He is fully shewn in the person of the God-man, Christ Jesus. Look to him, and grace, as light and heat from the sun, will give heavenly life and power to the soul. Self denied, ceasing to do evil, taking up the cross of learning to do well, lively faith, loving obedience, and stedfast courage and patience in suffering for well-doing, will be the effects of looking unto Jesus: This is the way they went who recovered all, and are now inheriting the promises.

V. 10. David pursued—Though a third part of his number grew faint, were left behind, and stayed.

V. 11—12. David, and many that were with him, knew by experience what distress meant, and that they ought not to pass by any occasion of shewing kindness to the afflicted; and they had also learnt not to overlook little things, knowing that God could, and often did, use the weak things of this world as the very means of overcoming the great and mighty.

V. 13. My master left me—When I could do him no further service: Sick and weak as I was, he left me to perish. The end of God's commandments is charity—love. All things, small and great, that are done in that spirit, proceeds from himself, and he is sure to bless them. Whatever is unjust, unkind, inhuman, proceeds not from the Father of Mercies, but is that sowing to the flesh—to self, from which, they who continue in that spirit, will reap corruption, misery, ruin: And of the certainty of this, it hath pleased God to give mankind almost numberless proofs, and among them this instance of the Amalekite master leaving his poor sick servant to perish; which, it is plain, was done carelessly or wilfully; for by the situation in which David found the Amalekites, they did not think themselves under any necessity to abandon the sick. He that leaves any living creature to unnecessary sufferings, has cause for repentance in His sight whose mercy is over all his works; but blessed is he that considereth the poor, the helpless, the afflicted, the Lord will deliver him in the time of trouble; he shall be blessed upon the earth. (Ps. xli. 1, 2.)

V. 16, 17. Eating, drinking, dancing—They had taken the spoil; they abounded; and their full souls expressed, by their levity, their self-confidence and fearlessness of danger, when swift destruction was overtaking them. In the history given us of the enemies of Israel, we have the true state of those that are strangers to God, and living out of the way of salvation; as in the accounts God has given us of the people of Israel, we have the various states of those that enter into the way that leads to life eternal, hundred young men which rode upon camels, and fled.

Before Christ 1056.

18 And David recovered all that the Amalekites had carried away: and David rescued his two wives.

19 And there was nothing lacking to them, neither small nor great, neither sons nor daughters, neither spoil, nor any thing that they had taken to them: David recovered all.

20 And David took all the flocks, and the herds: which they drave before those other cattle, and said, This is David's spoil.

21 ¶ And David came to the two hundred men, which were so faint that they could not follow David, whom they had made also to abide at the brook Besor: and they went forth to meet David, and to meet the people that were with him; and when David came near to the people, he ‡ saluted them.

‡ Heb. asked them how they did.

22 Then answered all the wicked men, and men of Belial, of § those that went with David, and said, Because they went not with us, we will not give them ought of the spoil that we have recovered, save to every man his wife and his children, that they may lead them away, and depart.

§ Heb. men.

23 Then said David, Ye shall not do so, my brethren, with that which the Lord hath given us, who hath preserved us, and delivered the company that came against us, into our hand.

24 For who will hearken unto you in this matter? but [i] as his part is that goeth down to the battle, so shall his part be that tarrieth by the stuff: they shall part alike.

Before Christ 1056.

i See Num. 31. 27. Josh. 22. 8.

25 And it was so from that day ‖ forward, that he made it a statute and an ordinance for Israel unto this day.

‖ Heb. and forward.

26 ¶ And when David came to Ziklag, he sent of the spoil unto the elders of Judah, even to his friends, (saying, Behold a * present for you, of the spoil of the enemies of the Lord.)

* Heb. blessing.

27 To them which were in Beth-el, and to them which were in [g] South-Ramoth, and to them which were in [h] Jattir, g Josh. 10. 8.

h Josh. 15. 48.

28 And to them which were in [i] Aroer, and to them which were in Siphmoth, and to them which were in [k] Eshtemoa,

i Josh. 13. 16.
k Josh. 15. 50.

29 And to them which were in Rachal, and to them which were in the cities of [l] the Jerahmeelites, and to them which were in the cities of the Kenites,

l Chap. 27. 10.

30 And to them which were in Hormah, and to them which were in Chor-ashan, and to them which were in Athach, 31 And to them which were in Hebron, and to all the places where David himself and his men were wont to haunt.

CHAP.

eternal, and who either go on in it to the end, or turn back from it. And at the same time that the Scriptures give an account of events, as an history perfectly true, through these events, and by means of the conduct of men like ourselves, is discovered to us, on the Divine authority, both the states and ways of danger and of safety to all men, as they are every moment tending to unchangeable misery or blessedness, when each soul has spent the whole time of its trial. And as David gave food and water to the poor fainting dying Egyptian, and revived him before he did him any service, so does God, the Saviour of men, give the bread and water of life—His holy Spirit to all them that believe in him, ever supporting and protecting such as continue to trust in him; and as David destroyed the Amalekites, full, merry, and fearless of danger, so does the Judge of all the earth cut off those that are found in their sins, after the last offers of his infinite goodness have been made known to them in vain. And as there were many that escaped death from among those who here unexpectedly perished, so among the people of every nation there are those that escape from amongst the careless, the worldly-minded, and the wicked, and fly from the threatened wrath, and embrace those offers of pardon, and of grace, which have been proclaimed from God, through the Redeemer of men, ever since the first promise made to Adam after his fall.

V. 18, 19. David recovered all—Thus was the promise fulfilled: The words are twice repeated, and doubtless that they may be the more notice taken of—by all that are beginning to count the cost that may attend their setting out to obtain, in the ways of the Gospel, the possession of all that God has promised.

V. 20. The flocks—Seem to have been such as were taken over and above all which they themselves had lost. This is David's spoil—His people giving him the praise of his victory, as the saints and servants of the Son of David give him the praise for ever, who overcame the world, and who giveth victory to all that obey him. (John xvii. 33. 1 Cor. xv. 57.)

V. 21. David saluted them—That were left behind; he spake kindly to them, because he knew they were willing, but unable, to follow him and their stronger brethren any further.

V. 22. Wicked men—All were not of David's Spirit who appeared on his side: The tares were amongst the wheat, and they shewed the mind they were of, by their want of compassion to the weak; saying, We will not give them ought—We will keep all that we have got. Shall they be requited with us, who have borne the burden and heat of the day?

V. 23. David said not so—He interposed his judgment and his authority on the side of the weak; calling those his brethren who were of the contrary judgment, that they might rather be won than forced to allow an equal division of what, he reminds them, the LORD had given to them all.

V. 24. So shall his part be—The same, who is upon the same service; and who is only prevented, by what he could not help, from being amongst the foremost in the work that was to be done.

V. 26—31. The presents sent by David, to the elders of the several places where he had been during Saul's persecution, seem to be a grateful acknowledgment of the kindness they had shewn him, out of his first success. And thus will the Lord of all, of whom David was a type, remember, even to a cup of water, all the kindness shewn to him, or any that belonged to him, when they were, like David and his men, esteemed the outcasts of the earth. The history of the war between the Philistines and Saul is now resumed.

CHAP. XXXI.

Before Christ 1056.

NOW [a] the Philiſtines fought againſt Iſrael: and the men of Iſrael fled from before the Philiſtines, and fell down * ſlain in mount Gilboa.

a 1 Chron. 10. 1.
* Or, wounded.

2 And the Philiſtines followed hard upon Saul, and upon his ſons; and the Philiſtines ſlew [b] Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchiſhua, Saul's ſons.

b Chap. 14. 49. 1 Chron. 8. 33.

3 And [c] the battle went ſore againſt Saul, and the † archers ‡ hit him, and he was ſore wounded of the archers.

c See 2 Sam. 1. 7, &c.
† Heb. ſhooters, men with bows.
‡ Heb. found him.

4 [d] Then ſaid Saul unto his armour-bearer, Draw thy ſword and thruſt me through therewith; leſt theſe uncircumciſed come and thruſt me through, and § abuſe me. But his armour-bearer would not; [e] for he was ſore afraid: therefore Saul took a ſword, and fell upon it.

d So Judg. 9. 54.
§ Or, mock me.
e 2 Sam. 1. 14.

5 And when his armour-bearer ſaw that Saul was dead, he fell likewiſe upon his ſword, and died with him.

6 So Saul died, and his three ſons, and his armour-bearer, and all his men that ſame day together.

7 ¶ And when the men of Iſrael that were on the other ſide of the valley, and they that were on the other ſide Jordan, ſaw that the men of Iſrael fled, and that Saul and his ſons were dead, they forſook the cities, and fled; and the Philiſtines came and dwelt in them.

Before Christ 1056.

8 And it came to paſs on the morrow, when the Philiſtines came to ſtrip the ſlain, that they found Saul and his three ſons fallen in mount Gilboa.

9 And they cut off his head, and ſtripped off his armour, and ſent into the land of the Philiſtines round about, to publiſh it in the houſe of their idols, and among the people.

10 [i] And they put his armour in the houſe of [g] Aſhtaroth: and [h] they faſtened his body to the wall of [i] Beth-ſhan.

i Chap. 21. 9.
g Judg. 2. 13.
h 2 Sam. 21. 12.
i Joſh. 17. 11. Judg. 1. 27.

11 ¶ [k] And when the inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead heard ‖ of that which the Philiſtines had done to Saul:

k Chap. 11. 3, 9, 11.
‖ Or, concerning him.

12 [l] All the valiant men aroſe, and went all night, and took the body of Saul, and the bodies of his ſons from the wall of Beth-ſhan, and came to Jabeſh, and [m] burnt them there.

l See Chap. 11. 1---11.
2 Sam. 2. 4---7.
m Jer. 34. 5. Amos 6. 10.

13 And they took their bones, and [n] buried them under a tree at Jabeſh, [o] and faſted ſeven days.

n 2 Sam. 2. 4. 5. and 21. 12, 13.
o Gen. 50. 10.

CHAP. XXXI.

V. 2. Jonathan—Died fighting under his father, againſt the people the Almighty had given command to be deſtroyed; but, on this and ſeveral other occaſions, God gave them power over the people of Iſrael, to chaſten them for their public impiety and diſobedience to his laws; and in now doing ſo, loving Jonathan was relieved from his long-continued conflict, between duty to his father and affection to the friend he loved as his own ſoul.

V. 3. God, who directs the arrows of death in battles as well as in the dwellings of peace, now ſuffers the archers to hit him, who had long exalted himſelf againſt his Creator, and ſet himſelf to oppoſe his will.

V. 4. Still fearful of being diſhonoured, to that fear Saul ſacrifices the ſhort remains of life. Heathen and Hebrew are by nature alike; and when their laſt trials find them without faith in God, they will caſt themſelves away upon the rocks of preſumption, or ruſh into the ſeas of deſpair.

V. 5. Such influence has the example of thoſe, who are by name or ſtation great, that they will have imitators, though it be at the unknown expence of obtruding themſelves into the Almighty's preſence, and conclude the laſt moments of their only ſtate of trial, by declaring how little they know or regard the will of God in oppoſition to their own.

V. 6. Saul died—And was there time to record the ſelf-murder of his armour-bearer, between the time Saul fell upon a ſword and his death, and was there not time to ſay he confeſſed his guilt, and cried—Lord, remember me?

V. 8. The morrow—So Saul's fears of being found alive by the Philiſtines appear not to have been ſuggeſted to him by the Spirit of truth, by which it is recorded that it was the day after the battle before he was found among the ſlain.

V. 9. To publiſh—The victory they had obtained to the praiſe of the idols they worſhipped.

V. 11—13. The inhabitants of Jabeſh-gilead—Were delivered, by Saul's means, (chap. xi.) and by them this reſpect is paid to his perſon and memory.

SAUL's life affords inſtruction of the laſt moment to be rightly underſtood. How to receive, retain, and, when required, to reſign any or all the bleſſings God beſtows upon us in this life, is what all men have occaſion to be taught of God himſelf; and, as the means of doing it, he has been pleaſed to place before us examples both of the right and wrong temper and conduct, that the plain precepts he has given us might be illuſtrated in ſuch a manner as to leave the moſt lively and laſting impreſſion: To ſave us from, and to guard us againſt making ourſelves miſerable, and to lead us to preſent and endleſs peace, is the deſign of all God ſends or ſuffers to befal us in this life of trial. No man comes into life with any better title to the mercies of God than Saul had: Life, with all the advantages we may or can have in it, are as much the free unmerited gift of God to all men as they were to Saul. He received the favours God beſtowed upon him as unworthy of them; he found himſelf prepared for the ſtation God deſigned him by his grace; he was ſenſible of his goodneſs; himſelf, and all with which he ſaw himſelf ſurrounded, reminded him of the gratitude he owed to God his Saviour; he held the bleſſings beſtowed upon him with an humble dependance on God, who gave him life from one day to another to uſe them to his glory: God was now with him; his prophet loved and honoured him. Saul, after this, ceaſed to be little in his own eyes; he began to hold what God had given and done for him by a different title—in a different temper of mind; and the ſoul within, carrying itſelf as independant of God, ſoon ſhewed the deſire it had to continue to hold the bleſſings of honour and proſperity, whether God would or no; and this ſtate of mind it was that reſiſted the grace, and with that forfeited the favour of God. The laſt part of Saul's example ſhews a mind in wilful oppoſition to the known deſigns and will of God: His bleſſings were then turned into curſes; and the fear of being degraded in the eyes of his fellow-creatures, or his unwillingneſs to give up to God all he had received from him, became a continual torment; and when the arrows of the archers hit him, the ſlaviſh fear of his own diſhonour would not allow him to wait or ſuffer the will of God, for the ſhort ſpace of time it only required, for the body to bleed to death at mortal wounds already given. The dealings of God are equal, they proceed on the ſame principles, and the hearts of all men are alike. As bleſſings were beſtowed on Saul when he was little in his own eyes, ſo does God give grace to the humble (1 Pet. v. 5.); and to that ſtate of mind to which God alone gives grace, does he continue to communicate his favour; ſo that an humble dependance on God for mercy, grace, and all that can make our beings a bleſſing to us, is no leſs neceſſary to retain the mercies of God, than it was to have them beſtowed upon us. The next part of Saul's example ſhews, the diſpoſition of the human mind to be lifted up by the very mercies of God into a ſpirit of independance, or of thinking that we have a right to hold what God has given, even when we have forfeited his bleſſings by our preſumption, ingratitude, or the abuſe of his gifts; and not only ſo, but to harden ourſelves againſt God, and act in oppoſition to the knowledge of his will. The laſt part of the example given us in the hiſtory of Saul's life is, that ſtate of mind which is the conſequence of holding ourſelves, or any thing we poſſeſs, independant of God—Final diſtruſt. Whenever we ceaſe to hold all the mercies of God in a ſpirit of humble dependance upon him, we are preparing ourſelves to refuſe ſubmiſſion to the will of God; and every time we do this, we declare in effect that we believe it is not beſt for us to do or ſubmit to that which God requires; and ſelf-confidence increaſing as we ceaſe to depend on the wiſdom and goodneſs of God, a ſecret inward oppoſition to his will, leads to that which is open and declared; the conſiderations of juſtice, gratitude, and of natural affection loſe their force; from leſs to greater crimes the ſoul advances, till at length no crime is too great to be committed to obtain or defend the idols of ſelf-love, and this inward and outward oppoſition to God continued in, till the laſt offer of his grace is rejected, the ſoul is then left to itſelf, and to that wicked ſelf-exalting ſpirit to which it turned from God, and the pains of death itſelf are looked upon as a refuge from the fury of its fears. But when ſhall that ſpirit fly from danger, which, by refuſing to ſubmit to the known will of God, has loſt all truſt and confidence in his love? Equal then as God's dealings are, alike as the minds of men are by nature, and equally expoſed as all are to the ſame temptations and dangers, how does it concern every one for himſelf to inquire, Whether I am now ſenſible that it is of the Lord's mercies that I am not conſumed—that after all I may have done or ſuffered, I am in God's ſight an unprofitable ſervant, and that I have not acquired of myſelf any better title to the mercies of God now, than I had when they were firſt beſtowed upon me. Whether having received good at the hand of God, I am willing to receive evil alſo, thankfully ſubmitting myſelf to whatever he is pleaſed to ſuffer to befal me; and when he takes away that which his unmerited bounty had beſtowed, whether it is the language of my heart to ſay, The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away, and bleſſed be the name of the Lord; or, in a word, What is it that I would not do, refuſe to ſuffer, or ſubmit to part with, whenever he requires, to ſhew the love and obedience I owe him who made and died for me, and by whoſe ſtripes I am healed.

II. SAMUEL.

CHAP. I. THE Amalekite, who brought tidings of the overthrow, and accuſed himſelf of Saul's death, is ſlain. David lamenteth Saul and Jonathan with a ſong.—CHAP. II. David, by God's direction, with his company goeth up to Hebron, where he is made king of Judah: He commendeth them of Jabeſh-gilead for their kindneſs to Saul. Abner maketh Iſh-boſheth king of Iſrael. A mortal ſkirmiſh between twelve of Abner's and twelve of Joab's men. Aſahel is ſlain. At Abner's motion Joab ſoundeth a retreat: Aſahel's burial.—CHAP. III. During the war David ſtill waxeth ſtronger. Six ſons were born to him in Hebron. Abner diſpleaſed with Iſh-boſheth, revolteth to David. David requireth a condition to bring him his wife Michal. Abner having communed with the Iſraelites is feaſted by David, and diſmiſſed. Joab returning from battle, is diſpleaſed with the king, and killeth Abner. David curſeth Joab, and mourneth for Abner.—CHAP. IV. The Iſraelites being troubled at the death of Abner, Baanah and Rechab ſlay Iſh-boſheth, and bring his head to Hebron: David cauſeth them to be ſlain, and Iſh-botheth's head to be buried.—CHAP. V. The tribes come to Hebron to anoint David over Iſrael: David's age, he taketh Zion from the Jebuſites, and dwelleth in it. Hiram ſendeth to David. Eleven ſons are born to him in Jeruſalem. David directed by God ſmiteth the Philiſtines at Baal-perazim, and again at the mulberry trees.—CHAP. VI. David fetcheth the ark from Kirjath-jearim on a new cart. Uzzah is ſmitten at Perez-uzzah. God bleſſeth Obed-edom for the ark. David bringeth the ark into Zion with ſacrifices; danceth before it, for which Michal deſpiſeth him; he placeth it in a tabernacle with great joy and feaſting. Michal reproving David for his religious joy; is childleſs to her death.—CHAP. VII. Nathan firſt approving the purpoſe of David to build God an houſe: After, by the word of God, forbiddeth him: He promiſeth him benefits and bleſſings in his ſeed. David's prayer and thankſgiving.—CHAP. VIII. David ſubdueth the Philiſtines and the Moabites: He ſmiteth Hadadezer, and the Syrians. Toi ſendeth Joram with preſents to bleſs him. The preſents and the ſpoil David dedicateth to God; he putteth garriſons in Edom. David's officers.—CHAP. IX. David by Ziba ſendeth for Mephi boſheth. For Jonathan's ſake he entertaineth him at his table, and reſtoreth him all that was Saul's: He maketh Ziba his farmer.—CHAP. X. David's meſſengers ſent to comfort Hanun, the ſon of Nahaſh, are villanouſly intreated. The Ammonites ſtrengthened by the Syrians at Helam, are overcome by Joab and Abiſhai. Shobach making a new ſupply of the Syrians at Helam; is ſlain by David.—CHAP. XI. While Joab beſieged Rabbah, David committeth adultery with Bath-ſheba. Uriah ſent for by David to cover the adultery; would not go home neither ſober nor drunken: He carryeth to Joab the letter of his death. Joab ſendeth the news thereof to David. David taketh Bath-ſheba to wife.—CHAP. XII. Nathan's parable of the ewe-lamb; cauſeth David to be his own judge David reproved by Nathan confeſſeth his ſin, and is pardoned. David mourneth and prayeth for the child, while it lived. Solomon is born, and named Jedidiah. David taketh Rabbah, and tortureth the people thereof.—CHAP. XIII. Amnon loving Tamar, by Jonadab's counſel, feigning himſelf ſick, raviſheth her; he hateth her, and ſhamefully turneth her away. Abſalom entertaineth her, and concealeth his purpoſe. At a ſheep-ſhearing, among all the kings ſons, he killeth Amnon. David grieving at the news, is comforted by Jonadab. Abſalom fleeth to Talmai at Geſhur.—CHAP XIV. Joab, ſuborning a widow of Tekoah, by a parable, to incline the king's heart to fetch home Abſalom; bringeth him to Jeruſalem: Abſalom's beauty, hair, and children. After two years, Abſalom by Joab is brought into the king's preſence.—CHAP. XV. Abſalom, by fair ſpeeches and courteſies, ſtealeth the hearts of Iſrael. Under pretence of a vow he obtaineth leave to go to Hebron: He maketh there a great conſpiracy. David, upon the news, fleeth from Jeruſalem. Ittai would not leave him: Zadok and Abiathar are ſent back with the ark. David and his company go up mount Olivet weeping: He curſeth Ahithophel's counſel. Huſhai is ſent back with inſtructions.—CHAP. XVI. Ziba, by preſents and falſe ſuggeſtions, obtaineth his maſter's inheritance. At Bahurim, Shimei curſeth David. David, with patience, abſtaineth and reſtraineth others from revenge. Huſhai inſinuateth himſelf into Abſalom's counſel. Ahithophel counſel.—CHAP. XVII. Ahithophel's counſel is overthrown by Huſhai's, according to God's appointment. Secret intelligence is ſent unto David. Ahithophel hangeth himſelf. Amaza is made captain. David at Mahanaim is furniſhed with proviſion.—CHAP. XVIII. David viewing the armies in their march, giveth them charge of Abſalom. The Iſraelites are ſore ſmitten in the wood of Ephraim. Abſalom, hanging in an oak, is ſlain by Joab and caſt into a pit. Abſalom's place: Ahimoaz and Cuſhi bring tidings to David. David mourneth for Abſalom.—CHAP. XIX. Joab cauſeth the king to ceaſe his mourning. The Iſraelites are earneſt to bring the king back. David ſendeth to the prieſts to incite them of Judah. Shimei is pardoned. Mephiboſheth accuſed. Barzillai diſmiſſed; Chimham his ſon is taken into the king's family. The Iſraelites expoſtulate with Judah for bringing home the king without them.—CHAP. XX. By occaſion of the quarrel, Sheba maketh a party in Iſrael. David's ten concubines are ſhut up in perpetual priſon. Amaza made captain over Judah, is ſlain by Joab. Joab purſueth Sheba unto Abel. A wiſe woman ſaveth the city by Sheba's head. David's officers.—CHAP. XXI. The three years famine for the Gibeonites; ceaſe by having ſeven of Saul's ſons. Riſpah's kindneſs unto the dead. David burieth the bones of Saul and Jonathan in his father's ſepulchre. Four battles againſt the Philiſtines, wherein four valiants of David ſlay four giants.—CHAP. XXII. A Pſalm of thankſgiving for God's powerful deliverance, and manifold bleſſings.—CHAP. XXIII. David, in his laſt words, profeſſeth his faith in God's promiſes to be beyond ſenſe or experience. The different ſtate of the wicked. A catalogue of David's mighty men.—CHAP. XXIV. David, tempted by ſatan, forceth Joab to number the people. The captains, in nine months and twenty days, bring the muſter of thirteen hundred thouſand fighting men. David having three plagues propounded by Gad, repenteth, and chooſeth the three days peſtilence. After the death of threeſcore and ten thouſand, David, by repentance, preventeth the deſtruction of Jeruſalem. David, by Gad's direction, purchaſeth Araunah's threſhing floor, where having ſacrificed, the plague ſtayeth.

ſendeth

CHAP. I.

Before Chriſt 1056.

NOW it came to paſs after the death of Saul, when David was returned from [a] the ſlaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag:

[a] 1 Sam. 30. 17, 26.

2 It came even to paſs on the third day, that behold, [b] a man came out of the camp from Saul, [c] with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head: and ſo it was, when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and did obeiſance.

[b] Chap. 4. 10.
[c] 1 Sam. 4. 12.

3 And David ſaid unto him, From whence comeſt thou? And he ſaid unto him, Out of the camp of Iſrael am I eſcaped.

4 And David ſaid unto him, * How went the matter? I pray thee, tell me. And he anſwered, That the people are fled from the battle, and many of the people alſo are fallen and dead, and Saul and Jonathan his ſon are dead alſo.

* Heb. What was, &c.

Before Chriſt 1056.

5 And David ſaid unto the young man that told him, How knoweſt thou that Saul and Jonathan his ſon be dead?

6 And the young man that told him, ſaid, As I happened by chance upon mount Gilboa, behold, [d] Saul leaned upon his ſpear: and lo, the chariots and horſemen followed hard after him.

[d] See 1 Sam. 31. 3, 4.

7 And when he looked behind him, he ſaw me, and called unto me: and I anſwered, † Here am I.

† Heb. Behold me.

8 And he ſaid unto me, Who art thou? And I anſwered him, I am an Amalekite.

9 He ſaid unto me again, Stand, I pray thee,

CHAP. I.

V. 1. Ziklag—Was not ſo entirely conſumed but David and his people could lodge in it.

V. 2. A man came from Saul—To inform David of his death; and in this perſon we have an example of that diſpoſition of the natural mind of man, which feels ſecret pleaſure in being the meſſenger of the fall of any that have been great in Iſrael; or who expects to recommend himſelf to riſing greatneſs, or ſuch as are ſuppoſed to be in a ſtate of rivalſhip to the fallen.

V. 3. The willing meſſenger of civil tidings expreſſes his great reſpect to David, by waiting with ſubmiſſion till David ſpoke to him; and that temper of mind which wants to make its way to favour by another's fall, will ever feign great reſpect to thoſe by whoſe power they hoped to be preferred.

V. 4. He only names the king's death and that of his eldeſt ſon, the perſons who ſtood moſt immediately between David and the crown.

V. 5. David had before aſked where he had been to obtain this knowledge; and then how he came by it. Every inquirer after truth, but particularly ſuch as have power over others, have, in David's conduct, that which is to be imitated—not taking what is told them for granted, till they have all the information the preſent circumſtances can afford them.

V. 6—10. He that ſets off with pleaſure to tell of the evil that thee, upon me, and slay me: for ‡ anguish is come upon me, because my life is yet whole in me.

Before Christ 1056.

‡ Or, my coat of mail, or, my embroidered coat hindereth me, that my, &c.

10 So I stood upon him, and slew him, because I was sure that he could not live after that he was fallen: and I took the crown that was upon his head, and the bracelet that was on his arm, and have brought them hither unto my lord.

11 Then David took hold on his clothes,

e Chap. 3. 31. and 13. 31.

and [e] rent them, and likewise all the men that were with him.

12 And they mourned and wept, and fasted until even, for Saul and for Jonathan his son, and for the people of the Lord, and for the house of Israel; because they were fallen by the sword.

13 ¶ And David said unto the young man that told him, Whence art thou? And he answered, I am the son of a stranger, an Amalekite.

i 1 Sam. 24. 6. and 31. 4. Psa. 105. 15.

14 And David said unto him, [i] How wast thou not afraid to stretch forth thine hand, to destroy the Lord's anointed?

g Chap. 4. 10.

15 And [g] David called one of the young men, and said, Go near, and fall upon him. And he smote him that he died.

h 1 Sam. 26. 9.

16 And David said unto him, [h] Thy blood be upon thy head: for thy mouth hath testified against thee, saying, I have slain the Lord's anointed.

Before Christ 1056.

17 ¶ And David lamented with this lamentation over Saul, and over Jonathan his son, 18 (i Also he bade them teach the children of Judah the use of the bow: behold, it is written [k] in the book § of Jasher)

i 1 Sam. 31. 3.

k Josh. 10. 13.

§ Or, of the upright.

19 The beauty of Israel is slain upon thy high places: how are the mighty fallen;

20 [m] Tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askelon: lest [n] the daughters of the Philistines rejoice, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph.

m Mic. 1. 10.

n See Judg. 16. 23.

n See 1 Sam. 18. 6.

21 Ye mountains of Gilboa, let there be no dew, neither let there be rain upon you, nor fields of offerings: for there the shield of the mighty is vilely cast away, the shield of Saul, as though he had not been anointed with oil.

22 From the blood of the slain, from the fat of the mighty, [o] the bow of Jonathan turned not back, and the sword of Saul returned not empty.

o 1 Sam. 18. 4.

23 Saul and Jonathan were lovely and ‖ pleasant in their lives, and in their death they were not divided: they were swifter than eagles, they were stronger than lions.

‖ Or, sweet.

24 Ye

that had befallen Saul, does not fail to add falsehood to the ill news of which he made himself the glad bearer: Saul's armour-bearer saw the king dead, and then killed himself: Saul received his death's wound at his own hand, and was not killed by this person, as he relates.

V. 11, 12. Instead of joy, David, and all that were with him, expressed their sorrow that so many of their nation had fallen by the sword, which God had sent and given power against them. And would it not be thus with HIM who made David king, and with all that were on his side in heaven, when the prince of the fallen angels fell, was rejected, and cast out of heaven, for exalting himself against his Maker, and desiring to govern dependant on none, but to be like the Most High? Would not the Prince of Peace, whose loving Spirit now lived in David's breast, like him express his holy concern, that one of his power had raised from nothing, and by his goodness had been made so great and able to stand, should fall self-destroyed.

V. 13. David now enters upon that office in which he was to be an eminent type of the Judge of all the earth. The person he first judges had before given an account of his conduct, and so will all give an account of themselves unto God (Rom. xiv. 12.) at the final judgment. This person thought what he had done would recommend him to the favour of David; and they who do not see their sinfulness, and the necessity they are under of having the mercy of God, also think what they have done was so meritorious that they approach the Judge, self-confident of their acceptance. David asks him, Whence art thou? And will not the Judge of all ask every soul of man, Whether they know from whence they derive their origin—Whether they do not know that they are descended from parents, who, after being made in the image of God, lost it by sinning against their Creator—Whether for themselves they do not know that in sin they were conceived and born; that out of their hearts have proceeded evil thoughts of every kind. (Mark vii. 21.) This person answers, I am the son of a stranger—And, reader, placing yourself before JESUS, who shall come to judge the world, would you now be obliged to confess yourself a stranger to the very nature of your soul, or so slightly affected with all the acquaintance you have made with yourself, your inbred enmity to God, that it never occasioned you so much serious concern as to lead you to inquire, What you should do to be saved? (Acts xvi. 30.) And that, instead of being acquainted with God, through Jesus Christ, whom he hath sent to save mankind, (John xvii. 3. Luke i. 77.) that you are spiritually an Amalekite—an alien from the commonwealth of Israel, a stranger to the holy One of Israel, the God of the whole earth—That you had not yet found time to acquaint yourself with God, though it was the sole purpose of your coming into life?

V. 14. Wast thou not afraid—Of a righteous judgment to come, instead of expecting to recommend thyself by doing any injury to another; especially the LORD's anointed—against whose holy and compassionate nature every sin is an act of violence—a lifting up of the hand against God? To this inquiry he was speechless. (Matth. xxii. 12.)

V. 15, 16. This sentence of death contains in it the substance of that final sentence which will be pronounced against those that die in their sins, and strangers to HIM, who with wicked hands—by their sins they have crucified and slain. (Acts ii. 23.) Their blood will be upon their own head—they will testify against themselves. Their want of that charity—that love of God, without which all other gifts are vain, (1 Cor. xiii. 2.) will appear in the account they give of themselves. For them who are without charity, Christ died in vain.

V. 17—27. David lamented—But, in his sorrow for those that had fallen, he does not neglect to attend immediately to the safety of Israel, by commanding all about him, who had been already taught to fight his battles, that they should teach their children,

Before Christ 1056.

24 Ye daughters of Israel, weep over Saul, who clothed you in scarlet, with other delights, who put on ornaments of gold upon your apparel.

25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of the battle! O Jonathan, thou wast slain in thine high places.

26 I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: very pleasant hast thou been unto me: thy love to me was wonderful, passing the love of women.

27 How are the mighty fallen, and the weapons of war perished:

C H A P. II.

AND it came to pass after this, that David [a] inquired of the Lord, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah? And the Lord said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto Hebron.

[a] Judg. 1. 1. 1 Sam. 23. 2, 4, 9, and 30. 7, 8.

2 So David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabal's wife the Carmelite.

3 And his men that were with him, did David bring up every man with his household: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron.

Before Christ 1055.

4 And the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Juda: and they told David, saying, That [b] the men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul.

[b] 1 Sam. 31. 13.

5 ¶ And David sent messengers unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, and said unto them, [c] Blessed be ye of the Lord, that ye have shewed this kindness unto your lord, even unto Saul, and have buried him.

[c] Ruth 2. 20. and 3. 10.

6 And now the Lord shew kindness and truth unto you: and I also will requite you this kindness, because ye have done this thing.

7 Therefore now let your hands be strengthened, and * be ye valiant: for your master Saul is dead, and also the house of Judah have anointed me king over them.

* Heb. be ye the sons of valour.

8 ¶ But Abner the son of Ner, captain of † Saul's host, took ‡ Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim.

† Heb. the host which was Saul's.
‡ Or, Esh-baal, 1 Chron. 8. 33. and 9. 39.

9 And he made him king over Gilead, and over the Ashurites, and over Jezreel, and over Ephraim, and over Benjamin, and over all Israel.

10 Ish-bosheth that they might be brought up in the use of those weapons by which they were to defend themselves, and prevail over their enemies. In this song David laments the dishonour Israel had received in her champions flying before their enemies, casting away their arms, and then being destroyed by them. And they that love the cause of Israel, must lament when any are overcome by their spiritual enemies, who have ever appeared on her side. David says, Saul and Jonathan were lovely in their lives—Saul doubtless had many qualities which made him popular with the people; and David, after his death, gives him all the praise which he could give him with truth; but when he comes to speak of the sole requisite—Love, he mentions that of Jonathan, but is silent on that of Saul's: By this, and from the whole history, it is certain Saul did not love David—the man after God's own heart. They that possess the spirit of love possess it universally—they are merciful as their Father which is in heaven is merciful; and that degree of love which is ascribed to Jonathan, is that which all the redeemed of the Lord feel for HIM, who is represented to us by all that is great and good in David.

C H A P. II.

V. 1. David, by asking wisdom of God, gives now an example to all that would live to please him.

V. 2, 3. David took all with him that God had given him when he went up to take possession of the promised kingdom; and so will JESUS leave none behind that are joined in one spirit with himself, when he shall finally ascend to take possession of his kingdom, that where he is, there they may be also.

V. 4. The children of Judah only make David king over themselves; they pretend to no power to force others to submit to a king of their making: And though David was anointed of God to be king over all Israel, he is only king over those who choose him to reign over them. And though JESUS is God over all blessed for ever, those only are the happy subjects of his gracious government, who choose him to reign over them. Reader, have you made JESUS your king, as the children of Judah made David their king? Hath his laws, requiring you to live to God, become your laws? Do you forgive, love, and serve all mankind, as far as you are enabled, because he requires it who died for you, and to whom every soul is no less dear than your own?

V. 5—7. David blesses those that had shewn kindness to Saul, though he had acted as the declared enemy of David. Thus was the mind of the Spirit, which was afterwards fully published to the world by the God-man, made known by those that were types of him in the ages before JESUS came. Such was his love and good-will to men, that, whilst the blood was running from the wounds his murderers gave him, he prayed that they might be forgiven the crime of crucifying him, against every principle of humanity and justice. By him it is thought but an ordinary thing for his followers to be kind to those that love them, and do them good: The example he hath given us, by his types and by himself, is to bless the benefactors of our declared enemies; to bless them that curse us, to do good to them that hate us, to pray for them which despitefully use us and persecute us, to pray for our murderers, a power of all-conquering grace which he gave to the first of his disciples, who was put to death for his sake; (Acts vii. 60.) and which Spirit he has promised to give to all them that ask him. (Luke xi. 13.)

V. 8, 9. Another king was raised up to oppose the appointed king of Judah. And thus there will never cease to be on earth those that shall oppose the Spirit of Him who made David king: Satan, like another Abner, will ever raise up some who will oppose the Prince of Peace, and especially in the very seat of his government; whether he is known by the name of Saul or Ish-bosheth among men, his nature is the same, and will ever shew itself, in opposition to the Spirit of God our Saviour, in every heart, in every house, village, town, city, nation; but will rage most wherever salvation from God to men is evidently set forth through a Mediator, whether he is known by the name of the promised SEED of the woman to the first parents of all mankind, by that of MESSIAH to the Jews, or by the name of JESUS to the Christians.

V. 10—17. The

Before Christ 1055.

10 Ish-bosheth Saul's son was forty years old when he began to reign over Israel, and reigned two years: but the house of Judah followed David.

e Chap. 5. 5. 1 Kings 2. 11. § Heb. number of days.

11 (And [e] the § time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah, was seven years, and six months.)

12 ¶ And Abner the son of Ner, and the servants of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim, to Gibeon.

cir. 1053. ‖ Heb. them together. i Jer. 41. 12.

13 And Joab the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David went out, and met ‖ together by [i] the pool of Gibeon: and they sat down, the one on the one side of the pool, and the other on the other side of the pool.

14 And Abner said to Joab, Let the young men now arise, and play before us. And Joab said, Let them arise.

15 Then there arose and went over by number twelve of Benjamin, which pertained to Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, and twelve of the servants of David.

16 And they caught every one his fellow by the head, and thrust his sword in his fellow's side; so they fell down together: wherefore that place was called ‖ Helkath-hazzurim, which is in Gibeon.

‖ That is, the field of strong men.

17 And there was a very sore battle that day: and Abner was beaten, and the men of Israel, before the servants of David.

g 1Chro. 2 16.

18 ¶ And there were [g] three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel: and Asahel was [h] as light * of foot † [i] as a wild roe.

h 1Chro. 12.8. * Heb. of his feet. † Heb. as one of the roes that is in the field. i Pia. 18. 33.

19 And Asahel pursued after Abner, and in going he turned not to the right hand nor to the left, ‡ from following Abner.

‡ Heb from after Abner.

20 Then Abner looked behind him, and said, Art thou Asahel? And he answered, I am.

21 And Abner said to him, Turn thee aside to thy right hand, or to thy left, and lay thee hold on one of the young men, and take thee his § armour. But Asahel would not turn aside from following of him.

§ Or, spoil.

22 And Abner said again to Asahel, Turn thee aside from following me: wherefore should I smite thee to the ground? how then should I hold up my face to Joab thy brother?

Before Christ cir. 1053.

23 Howbeit he refused to turn aside: wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him [k] under the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him; and he fell down there, and died in the same place: and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place where Asahel fell down and died, stood still.

k Chap. 3. 27. and 4. 6. and 20. 10.

24 Joab also and Abishai, pursued after Abner: and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

25 ¶ And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one troop, and stood on the top of an hill.

26 Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour for ever? knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end? how long shall it be then ere thou bid the people return from following their brethren?

27 And Joab said, As God liveth, unless [l] thou hadst spoken, surely then ‖ in the morning the people had * gone up every one from following his brother.

l Verse 14. ‖ Heb. from the morning. * Or, gone away.

28 So Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stood still, and pursued after Israel no more, neither fought they any more.

29 And Abner and his men walked all that night through the plain, and passed over Jordan, and went through all Bithron, and they came to Mahanaim.

30 And Joab returned from following Abner: and when he had gathered all the people together, there lacked of David's servants nineteen men, and Asahel.

31 But the servants of David had smitten of

V. 10—17. The enmity within now shewed itself by this battle, which began on Abner's side.

V. 21—23. Asahel, because a swift runner, like one confiding in his own strength, and impatient of victory, pursues beyond the protection of the captain of the tribe of Judah, and is slain by Abner; who having already defied Joab in open battle, seems, though overcome, to express himself as he does to Asahel, out of contempt, he being an inferior warrior.

V. 25. All that assembled under Abner became one troop; enraged by the defeat they had met with, and disappointed in their self-confident expectations which had led them to begin the war, they formed themselves into one band, under one leader, against the king God had appointed to reign over them, and by whose forces they had been put to flight.

V. 26. Shall the sword devour for ever—Shall we, who have descended from the same parents, and once had the same interests, continue to destroy each other. It will be bitterness in the latter end—Dearly will the victory be bought when equals contend. Abner accuses Joab of being the cause of the contest's being continued.

V. 27. Joab's answer implies, that but for Abner it would not have been begun.

V. 28. When peace was but asked for, the servants of David withdrew from following their brethren.

CHAP.

Before Christ cir. 1053. of Benjamin and of Abner's men, so that three hundred and threescore men died.

32 ¶ And they took up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lehem: and Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

CHAP. III.

NOW there was long war between the house of Saul, and the house of David: but David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

a 1 Chro. 3. 1. 2 ¶ And [a] unto David were sons born in b 1 Sam. 25. 43. Hebron: and his first-born was Amnon, [b] of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess.

* Or, Daniel, 1 Chro. 3. 1, 2. 3 And his second, * Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite: and the third, Absalom the son of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai king c 1 Sam. 27. 8. [c] of Geshur:

4 And the fourth, Adonijah the son of Haggith: and the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital:

5 And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah David's wife: these were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to pass while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner made himself strong for the house of Saul.

7 And Saul had a concubine, whose name d Chap. 21. 10. was [d] Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone in unto my father's concubine?

e Deut. 23. 18. 1 Sam. 24. 14. Chap. 9. 8. and 16. 9. 8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Ish-bosheth, and said, Am I [e] a dog's head, which against Judah do shew kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargest me to day with a fault concerning this woman?

Before Christ cir. 1053.

9 [i] So do God to Abner, and more also, except as the Lord hath sworn to David, even so I do to him:

i Ruth 1. 17. 1 Kings 19. 2.

10 To translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel, and over Judah, [g] from Dan even to Beer-sheba.

g Judg. 20. 1. 1 Kings 4. 25.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him.

12 ¶ And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, Whose is the land? saying also, Make thy league with me, and behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee. 1048.

13 ¶ And he said, Well, I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee, † that is, Thou shalt not see my face, except thou first bring Michal Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

† Heb. saying.

14 And David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth Saul's son, saying, Deliver me my wife Michal, which I espoused to me [h] for an hundred foreskins of the Philistines.

h 1 Sam. 18. 25, 27.

15 And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her husband, even from [i] Phaltiel the son of Laish.

i 1 Sam. 25. 44, Psalm.

16 And her husband went with her ‡ along weeping behind her to Bahurim: then said Abner ‡ Heb. going, and weeping.

CHAP. III.

V. 1. As David's kingdom increased, so shall the kingdom of God increase till the number of the elect are completed; and all that will come unto him, that they may have life, are saved with an everlasting salvation. And as Saul's house became weaker and weaker, so will satan's kingdom on earth decay, till at length all are brought into subjection to the holy One of Israel, who will of mercy and grace accept, and then the conquered powers of hell be left to rage and burn within itself, with unavailing enmity for ever.

V. 3. The mother of Absalom was the daughter of the king of one of those tribes or nations with whom the Israelites were forbid to marry. How dearly did David pay for the addition he made to the number of his wives, and for taking one from among a people with whom he ought not to have married. He that departs from the will of God, in whatever way it is, or whatever purpose it is to answer, besides sinning against the Author of his life, and the God of his salvation, he lays up for himself sorrow and painful repentance, or impenitence, and sufferings; and whether it is David or Abner that opposes the will of God, they secure to themselves one or other of these alternatives with no less certainty, than that he secures to himself pain, who either wilfully or wantonly wounds himself.

V. 6. Abner used all his wisdom to strengthen his king against David.

V. 8. Abner could not endure to be told of his fault.

V. 9. Abner knew God had sworn to make David king, and yet he fought against him.

V. 11. The king of Israel feared his wicked minister. How miserable must that man be who is at once dependant on the wicked and afraid of them? The wicked are like a troubled sea, and they that are supported by them can never be at rest. Many, it is true, are the afflictions of them that fear God and work righteousness; but are the wicked without their woes? Yea, have they not rather many more in number, and are they not far greater in degree? Men are born to trouble because born in sin; but under the unavoidable troubles of a dying life, how vast the difference between having justice and goodness itself for the sole object of our fear, and of our trust and hope, and having our dependance on such as are under the influence of that spirit which is selfishness, deceit, and wickedness itself.

V. 12. In Abner's offer to establish David, we have one of the many instances which there are of the wicked being made the very means of promoting the gracious designs of God.

V. 16. Michal was now returning to David her husband, and he with whom she had lived was forced from her. And may not this separation remind us of that which one day will take place between those that know not God, and such as they had lived with, and who were the dear objects of their natural affection?

The

Before Christ 1048. Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 ¶ And Abner had communication with the elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David § in times past to be king over you.

§ Heb. both yesterday, and the third day.

18 Now then do it; for the Lord hath spoken of David, saying, By the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin: and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron, all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed good to the whole house of Benjamin.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him: and David made Abner, and the men that were with him, a feast.

21 And Abner said unto David, I will arise, and go, and will gather all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thine heart desireth. And David sent Abner away; and he went in peace.

22 ¶ And behold, the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop, and brought in a great spoil with them: (but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace)

23 When Joab and all the host that was with him, were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee, why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone? Before Christ 1048.

25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out, and thy coming in, and to know all that thou doest.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah; but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab [k] took him aside in the gate to speak with him ‖ quietly: and smote him there [l] under the fifth rib, that he died, for the blood of [m] Asahel his brother.

k 1 Kings 2. 5.
‖ Or, peaceably.
l Chap. 4. 6.
m Chap. 2. 23.

28 ¶ And afterward when David heard it, he said, I and my kingdom are guiltless before the Lord for ever, from the * blood of Abner the son of Ner:

* Heb. bloods.

29 Let it rest on the head of Joab, and on all his father's house, and let there not † fail from the house of Joab one that hath an issue, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a staff, or that falleth on the sword, or that lacketh bread.

† Heb. be cut off.

30 So Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner, because he had slain their brother [n] Asahel at Gibeon in the battle.

n Chap. 2. 23.

31 ¶ And David said to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, [o] Rend your clothes, and [p] gird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner. And king David himself followed the ‡ bier.

o Josh. 7. 6.
p Gen. 37. 34.
‡ Heb. bed.

32 And

The one united in one spirit with their Redeemer, to go and reign with him; whilst those that know him not are sent away to lament their endless separation.

V. 17. A desire had discovered itself among the people of Israel, to have David for their king, in times past; and now Abner, out of his resentment, wanted it to be so, he uses their former wishes as an argument to obtain their consent.

V. 18. Abner quotes a known promise of God in favour of David, and what he would do for Israel by his means.

V. 21. Thus far does Abner obtain the success he wished for; but in his person we have an example that they who act from wrong principles, whatever side they are on, are in equal danger of being themselves destroyed; and in the same day in which a wicked man accomplishes his wishes, he may have completed his ruin.

V. 27. Though Abner used his endeavours to induce the Israelites to choose David for their king, yet God would not have it, that such a purpose of his goodness should be carried into execution by one who had never appeared as a penitent, for the opposition he had made to David against his own knowledge of the will of God concerning David. It pleases God to make use of those that are weak and little in the esteem of men, to perform many of his great designs, that pride may be hid from men, and all boasting be excluded; and had the work of David's establishment been completed by Abner's means, it might not have so plainly appeared, That all the good that is done in the earth, the Lord doth it himself; a truth which God sees ever necessary to be kept in view by all men, that all may look to him and trust in him alone, from whom every good and perfect gift cometh. (James i. 17.)

V. 28, 29. David declares how guiltless he was of Abner's death, who came to him in confidence; and Joab's action having in it resentment, treachery, and disobedience to the designs of the king, David pronounces a prophetical judgment against this complicated guilt.

V. 30. Joab only killed Abner; but Abishai being equally desirous of his death, they are both charged with it. He that commits a crime, and he that does not, but is desirous of doing it, are both guilty in His sight who requires truth, justice, mercy in the heart as well as in the conduct. (Matth. v. 21, &c.)

V. 31—33. David, in thus expressing his sorrow for the death of Abner, shews the just and compassionate spirit which now breathed within his breast; and in his public character, so far as he was under the influence of this Spirit, he is the type of JESUS, who, for what he felt for men and from men, is called a man of sorrows. To feel compassion for the present sufferings and future danger of such as appear to us to be living out of the ways of salvation, is an heartfelt testimony that such a mind is a partaker

Before Christ cir. 1053. of Benjamin and of Abner's men, so that three hundred and threescore men died.

32 ¶ And they took up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lehem: and Joab and his men went all night, and they came to Hebron at break of day.

C H A P. III.

NOW there was long war between the house of Saul, and the house of David: but David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

a 1 Chro. 3. 1. 2 ¶ And [a] unto David were sons born in b 1 Sam. 25. 43. Hebron: and his first-born was Amnon, [b] of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess.

* Or, Daniel, 1 Chro. 3. 1, 2. 3 And his second, * Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite: and the third, Absalom the son of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai king c 1 Sam. 27. 8. [c] of Geshur:

4 And the fourth, Adonijah the son of Haggith: and the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital:

5 And the sixth, Ithream, by Eglah David's wife: these were born to David in Hebron.

6 ¶ And it came to pass while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, that Abner made himself strong for the house of Saul.

d Chap. 21. 10. 7 And Saul had a concubine, whose name was [d] Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone in unto my father's concubine?

e Deut. 23. 18. 1 Sam. 24. 14. Chap. 9. 8. and 16. 9. 8 Then was Abner very wroth for the words of Ish-bosheth, and said, Am I [e] a dog's head, which against Judah do shew kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargest me to day with a fault concerning this woman?

Before Christ cir. 1053.

9 [i] So do God to Abner, and more also, except as the Lord hath sworn to David, even so I do to him:

i Ruth 1. 17. 1 Kings 19. 2.

10 To translate the kingdom from the house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel, and over Judah, [g] from Dan even to Beer-sheba.

g Judg. 20. 1. 1 Kings 4. 25.

11 And he could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him.

12 ¶ And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, Whose is the land? saying also, Make thy league with me, and behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee. 1048.

13 ¶ And he said, Well, I will make a league with thee: but one thing I require of thee, † that is, Thou shalt not see my face, except thou first bring Michal Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face.

† Heb. saying.

14 And David sent messengers to Ish-bosheth Saul's son, saying, Deliver me my wife Michal, which I espoused to me [h] for an hundred foreskins of the Philistines.

h 1 Sam. 18. 25, 27.

15 And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her husband, even from [i] Phaltiel the son of Laish.

i 1 Sam. 25. 44, Phalti.

16 And her husband went with her ‡ along weeping behind her to Bahurim: then said Abner

‡ Heb. going, and weeping.

C H A P. III.

V. 1. As David's kingdom increased, so shall the kingdom of God increase till the number of the elect are completed; and all that will come unto him, that they may have life, are saved with an everlasting salvation. And as Saul's house became weaker and weaker, so will satan's kingdom on earth decay, till at length all are brought into subjection to the holy One of Israel, who will of mercy and grace accept, and then the conquered powers of hell be left to rage and burn within itself, with unavailing enmity for ever.

V. 3. The mother of Absalom was the daughter of the king of one of those tribes or nations with whom the Israelites were forbid to marry. How dearly did David pay for the addition he made to the number of his wives, and for taking one from among a people with whom he ought not to have married. He that departs from the will of God, in whatever way it is, or whatever purpose it is to answer, besides sinning against the Author of his life, and the God of his salvation, he lays up for himself sorrow and painful repentance, or impenitence, and sufferings; and whether it is David or Abner that opposes the will of God, they secure to themselves one or other of these alternatives with no less certainty, than that he secures to himself pain, who either wilfully or wantonly wounds himself.

V. 6. Abner used all his wisdom to strengthen his king against David.

V. 8. Abner could not endure to be told of his fault.

V. 9. Abner knew God had sworn to make David king, and yet he fought against him.

V. 11. The king of Israel feared his wicked minister. How miserable must that man be who is at once dependant on the wicked and afraid of them? The wicked are like a troubled sea, and they that are supported by them can never be at rest. Many, it is true, are the afflictions of them that fear God and work righteousness; but are the wicked without their woes? Yea, have they not rather many more in number, and are they not far greater in degree? Men are born to trouble because born in sin; but under the unavoidable troubles of a dying life, how vast the difference between having justice and goodness itself for the sole object of our fear, and of our trust and hope, and having our dependance on such as are under the influence of that spirit which is selfishness, deceit, and wickedness itself.

V. 12. In Abner's offer to establish David, we have one of the many instances which there are of the wicked being made the very means of promoting the gracious designs of God.

V. 16. Michal was now returning to David her husband, and he with whom she had lived was forced from her. And may not this separation remind us of that which one day will take place between those that know not God, and such as they had lived with, and who were the dear objects of their natural affection?

The

Before Christ 1048.

Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

17 ¶ And Abner had communication with the elders of Israel, saying, Ye sought for David § in times past to be king over you.

§ Heb. both yesterday, and the third day.

18 Now then do it; for the Lord hath spoken of David, saying, By the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand of all their enemies.

19 And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin: and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron, all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed good to the whole house of Benjamin.

20 So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him: and David made Abner, and the men that were with him, a feast.

21 And Abner said unto David, I will arise, and go, and will gather all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thine heart desireth. And David sent Abner away; and he went in peace.

22 ¶ And behold, the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop, and brought in a great spoil with them: (but Abner was not with David in Hebron, for he had sent him away, and he was gone in peace)

23 When Joab and all the host that was with him, were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, and he is gone in peace.

24 Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee, why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone? Before Christ 1048.

25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out, and thy coming in, and to know all that thou doest.

26 And when Joab was come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him again from the well of Sirah; but David knew it not.

27 And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab [k] took him aside in the gate to speak with him ‖ quietly: and smote him there [l] under the fifth rib, that he died, for the blood of [m] Asahel his brother.

k 1 Kings 2. 5.
‖ Or, peaceably.
l Chap. 4. 6.
m Chap. 2. 23.

28 ¶ And afterward when David heard it, he said, I and my kingdom are guiltless before the Lord for ever, from the * blood of Abner the son of Ner:

* Heb. bloods.

29 Let it rest on the head of Joab, and on all his father's house, and let there not † fail from the house of Joab one that hath an issue, or that is a leper, or that leaneth on a staff, or that falleth on the sword, or that lacketh bread.

† Heb. be cut off.

30 So Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner, because he had slain their brother [n] Asahel at Gibeon in the battle.

n Chap. 2. 23.

31 ¶ And David said to Joab, and to all the people that were with him, [o] Rend your clothes, and [p] gird you with sackcloth, and mourn before Abner. And king David himself followed the ‡ bier.

o Josh. 7. 6.
p Gen. 37. 34.
‡ Heb. bed.

32 And

The one united in one spirit with their Redeemer, to go and reign with him; whilst those that know him not are sent away to lament their endless separation.

V. 17. A desire had discovered itself among the people of Israel, to have David for their king, in times past; and now Abner, out of his resentment, wanted it to be so, he uses their former wishes as an argument to obtain their consent.

V. 18. Abner quotes a known promise of God in favour of David, and what he would do for Israel by his means.

V. 21. Thus far does Abner obtain the success he wished for; but in his person we have an example that they who act from wrong principles, whatever side they are on, are in equal danger of being themselves destroyed; and in the same day in which a wicked man accomplishes his wishes, he may have completed his ruin.

V. 27. Though Abner used his endeavours to induce the Israelites to choose David for their king, yet God would not have it, that such a purpose of his goodness should be carried into execution by one who had never appeared as a penitent, for the opposition he had made to David against his own knowledge of the will of God concerning David. It pleases God to make use of those that are weak and little in the esteem of men, to perform many of his great designs, that pride may be hid from men, and all boasting be excluded; and had the work of David's establishment been completed by Abner's means, it might not have so plainly appeared, That all the good that is done in the earth, the Lord doth it himself; a truth which God sees ever necessary to be kept in view by all men, that all may look to him and trust in him alone, from whom every good and perfect gift cometh. (James i. 17.)

V. 28, 29. David declares how guiltless he was of Abner's death, who came to him in confidence; and Joab's action having in it resentment, treachery, and disobedience to the designs of the king, David pronounces a prophetical judgment against this complicated guilt.

V. 30. Joab only killed Abner; but Abishai being equally desirous of his death, they are both charged with it. He that commits a crime, and he that does not, but is desirous of doing it, are both guilty in His sight who requires truth, justice, mercy in the heart as well as in the conduct. (Matth. v. 21, &c.)

V. 31—33. David, in thus expressing his sorrow for the death of Abner, shews the just and compassionate spirit which now breathed within his breast; and in his public character, so far as he was under the influence of this Spirit, he is the type of JESUS, who, for what he felt for men and from men, is called a man of sorrows. To feel compassion for the present sufferings and future danger of such as appear to us to be living out of the ways of salvation, is an heartfelt testimony that such a mind is a partaker

Before Christ 1048.

32 And they buried Abner in Hebron: and the king lift up his voice, and wept at the grave of Abner; and all the people wept.

33 And the king lamented over Abner, and said, Died Abner as a fool dieth?

34 Thy hands were not bound, nor thy feet put into fetters: as a man falleth before § wicked men, so fellest thou. And all the people wept again over him.

§ Heb. children of iniquity.

35 And when all the people came to cause David to eat meat while it was yet day, David sware, saying, So do God to me, and more also, if I taste bread or ought else, till the sun be down.

36 And all the people took notice of it, and it ‖ pleased them: as whatsoever the king did, pleased all the people.

‖ Heb. was good in their eyes.

37 For all the people and all Israel understood that day, that it was not of the king to slay Abner the son of Ner.

38 And the king said unto his servants, Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?

* Heb. tender.

39 And I am this day * weak, though anointed king; and these men the sons of Zeruiah [q] be too hard for me: [r] the Lord shall reward the doer of evil according to his wickedness.

q Chap. 16. 7. r See Chap. 19. 13. 1 Kings 2. 5, 6, 33, 34. Psal. 62. 12.

CHAP. IV.

AND when Saul's son heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands were feeble, and all the Israelites were troubled.

2 And Saul's son had two men that were captains of bands: the name of the one was Baanah, and the name of the * other Rechab, the sons of Rimmon a Beerothite, of the children of Benjamin: (for [a] Beeroth also was reckoned to Benjamin;

Before Christ 1048.

* Heb. second.

a Josh. 18. 25.

3 And the Beerothites fled to [b] Gittaim, and were sojourners there until this day) b Neh. 11. 33.

4 And [c] Jonathan, Saul's son, had a son that was lame of his feet, and was five years old when the tidings came of Saul and Jonathan [d] out of Jezreel, and his nurse took him up, and fled: and it came to pass as she made haste to flee, that he fell, and became lame; and his name was † Mephibosheth.

c Chap. 9. 3.

d 1 Sam. 29. 1, 11.

† Or, Meribbaal. 1 Chron. 8. 34. and 9. 40.

5 And the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went, and came about the heat of the day to the house of Ish-bosheth, who lay on a bed at noon.

6 And they came thither into the midst of the house, as though they would have fetched wheat: and they smote him [e] under the fifth rib; and Rechab and Baanah his brother escaped.

e Chap. 2. 23.

7 For when they came into the house, he lay on his bed in his bed-chamber, and they smote him and slew him, and beheaded him, and took his head, and gat them away through the plain all night.

8 And they brought the head of Ish-bosheth unto David to Hebron, and said to the king, Behold the head of Ish-bosheth the son of Saul, thine enemy, which sought thy life; and the Lord hath avenged my lord the king this day of Saul, and of his seed.

9 ¶ And of some degree of him who wept, suffered, and died for sinful men.

V. 34—38. David, before Joab and before the people, declared his abhorrence of the crime that had been committed; but the crime was murder, and undoubtedly David did not do what the law of God required of him, as the chief magistrate, unless this part of his character is typical of God's long suffering, and slowness to anger, with all men, so long as their life of trial lasts.

V. 39. The sons of Zeruiah—Joab and Abishai, the sons of my sister Zeruiah. Too hard for me—Too powerful. They have so great a command over all the soldiers, and so great favour with the people, that I cannot punish them without apparent hazard to my person and kingdom. But this, though it might give some colour to the delay of their punishment for a season, yet this indulgence betrayed a distrust of God's power and faithfulness, as if God could not or would not make good his promise of the kingdom to him, without and against Joab and all his confederates; and this indulgence being contrary to God's law, which severely requires the punishment of wilful murderers, David had no authority to dispense with what God required; and he might have remembered how guilty Saul became for dispensing with God's command, and sparing those whom God commanded him to slay. (1 Sam. xv.) And David having neglected to punish this crime till near his death, he declared his sorrow for that neglect, by giving Solomon a charge to execute it after his death. (1 Kings ii. 5, 6—34.)

CHAP. IV.

V. 1. Feeble and troubled—Were Saul's son and all that adhered to him; their hopes were founded on the failure of the then well-known promises of God to David. And sooner or later must all become feeble and be troubled, whose designs and conduct are opposed to the will of God.

V. 4. Jonathan had a son that was lame of his feet, and his name was Mephibosheth—Saul's family was now reduced to a low ebb; and if Ish-bosheth was cut off, there would be none left but a lame child who was unfit to manage the kingdom, and therefore these wicked men might think the crown must necessarily come to David by their means, and, doubtless, for which they promised themselves no small recompense.

V. 5—7. Thus did this prince die in an unexpected hour. Though death may not come by the hand of a wicked man, yet in a moment, equally unexpected, may it come. Blessed are they who live this day, this hour, this moment, as they would wish to be found in their last moment—Looking unto HIM who will receive, as into his everlasting arms, all that are living by faith in him; and to whom the dying may, in the most sudden and violent death, commit their spirits as into the hands of a faithful Redeemer. (Acts vii. 59.) Thrice happy are they to whom he is precious, and who ever think it better to depart and to be with him, than to remain longer in this world of danger to their everlasting interests.

V. 8. Which

Before Christ 1048.

9 ¶ And David answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said unto them, As the Lord liveth, who hath redeemed my soul out of all adversity,

10 When [i] one told me, saying, Behold, Saul is dead, (‡ thinking to have brought good tidings) I took hold of him, and slew him in Ziklag, § who thought that I would have given him a reward for his tidings:

11 How much more, when wicked men have slain a righteous person in his own house, upon his bed? shall I not therefore now require his blood of your hand, and take you away from the earth?

12 And David commanded his young men, and they slew them, and cut off their hands and their feet, and hanged them up over the pool in Hebron: but they took the head of Ish-bosheth, and buried it in the [g] sepulchre of Abner, in Hebron.

[i] Chap. 1. 2, 4, 15.

‡ Heb. he was in his own eyes as a bringer, &c.

§ Or, which was the reward I gave him for his tidings.

[g] Chap. 3. 32.

CHAP. V.

THEN [a] came all the tribes of Israel to David unto Hebron, and spake, saying, Behold, [b] we are thy bone and thy flesh.

2 Also in time past, when Saul was king over us, [c] thou wast he that leddest out and broughtest in Israel: and the Lord said to thee, [d] Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captain over Israel.

3 [e] So all the elders of Israel came to the king to Hebron, [i] and king David made a league with them in Hebron [g] before the Lord: and they anointed David king over Israel.

4 ¶ David was thirty years old when he began to reign, [h] and he reigned forty years.

5 In Hebron he reigned over Judah [i] seven years and six months: and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years over all Israel and Judah.

Before Christ 1048.

[a] 1 Chro. 11. 1.
[b] Gen. 29. 14.
[c] 1 Sam. 18. 13.
[d] 1 Sam. 16. 1, 13. Psa. 78. 71.
See Chap. 7. 7.
[e] 1 Chro. 11. 3.
[i] 2 Kings 11. 17.
[g] Judg 11. 11. 1 Sam. 23. 18.
[h] 1 Chro 26. 31. & 29. 27.
[i] Chap. 2. 11. 1 Chro. 3. 4.

6 ¶ And

V. 8. Which sought thy life—To take it away as Saul had done. So that God executed the sentence of death upon him who had the design to kill David, the rival of his greatness.

V. 11. A righteous person—For so he was in respect of these men, having not deserved death at their hands.

V. 12. His young men—Those of his guard, who used to execute justice upon malefactors at the king's command. And hanged them up—As monuments of their villany, and of David's abhorrence of it. Thus were they requited who looked for a reward for wicked doing. When satan seduces those that open their hearts to his temptations to commit great crimes, he would then induce all mankind to believe how just it was that vengeance should overtake such, as are guilty of the most notorious crimes against the peace and safety of their fellow-creatures; and under these suggestions against eminent wickedness, the father of lies will whisper to the self-righteous souls of men, That they are in no danger of any judgment for the petty crimes of judging and condemning their fellow-creatures, of lying in common conversation, and in the concerns of their profession; or in gratifying their resentment only in words of anger, or indulging any sensual appetite that pleases them best: To souls in these sins, satan magnifies the offences of others, that they may be fearless of any danger to themselves; and such are most deceived who think, in judging of themselves, they are not deceived at all. Satan's voice is ever to be known by its opposition to the word of God, which pronounces the same sentence against the finally impenitent soul of one that fears man rather than God—that is guilty of not believing in him, as he by his word, works, and Spirit reveals himself to all—that is a drunkard, an adulterer, or a liar, as against the murderer—Equally offensive is their spirits in the pure eyes of God; one doom is declared against them all. (Rev. xxi. 8.) Who then shall be saved? He that repenteth, and believeth in the atonement made by the Mediator between God and men, and is born again of the Spirit, and is become a partaker of the divine nature. (2 Pet. i. 4.)

CHAP. V.

V. 1—3. Abner being dead, and the son of Saul cut off by these two treacherous and wicked men, the Israelites were left without a leader: They already knew that they were fighting against God, by refusing to come in and submit themselves to David, which now they do, when every other dependance fails them. David receives them without a word of reproach for their past rebellion; they acknowledge that they knew for what purpose he was sent of God—That, as a shepherd, he should feed and protect his people. The Israelites being thus left without hopes of carrying on a successful opposition against what they knew of the will of God—fearful of the danger of being left to David's displeasure, they cast themselves upon his clemency, and then they enter into a league with him: On his part was to be granted pardon—a remission of the punishment due to the crimes they had committed, against their own knowledge of what the LORD their God required of them; he also was to maintain them in the peaceable possession of all they became entitled to as his subjects, and to defend them from his and their enemies: And an unfeigned attachment to his person, and a submission to the laws of God by which he was to govern, were the terms of the league on the people's part; who being now reconciled to his person and government, they anoint him their king—they choose him, who had forgiven all their past offences, to reign over them, and he takes them under his protection. The gracious purposes of God, in making David king, were now brought to maturity. David had possession of the kingdom for which God had raised him up, and by the providence of God the people were overcome, against their will: Their enmity against David was destroyed by what they now saw of his clemency in forgiving, and of his wisdom and justice in governing. By this reconciliation, the people's fears of punishment, for opposing the known designs of God in the person of David, were banished away; and all the children of Israel became united under the same head, living by the same laws, and their all embarked in the same common cause of promoting the general good, and the glory of the LORD their God, who had done such great things for them. But in looking back from the time that David was first heard of, as their intended king and deliverer, to the present moment, both the people of Israel and Judah had sufficient cause to see that all boasting was excluded from them, as to any merit they could claim, in obtaining for themselves the blessings they were now brought into the possession of, under the mild and good government of David. The men of Judah (1 Sam. xxiii. 12.) were resolved on delivering David into the hands of Saul to destroy him; and the people of Israel carried on a war against him till they were left without any one to lead them; so that it could only be confessed by all, that they had been guilty of opposing the designs of God to do them good, to

Before Christ 1048.

6 ¶ And the king and his men went [k] to Jerusalem, unto [l] the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land; which spake unto David, saying, Except thou take away the blind and the lame, thou shalt not come in hither: * thinking David cannot come in hither.

7 Nevertheless, David took the strong hold of Zion: [m] the same is the city of David.

8 And David said on that day, Whosoever getteth up to the gutter, and smiteth the Jebusites, and the lame, and the blind, that are hated of David's soul, [n] he shall be chief and captain: † wherefore they said, The blind and the lame shall not come into the house.

9 So David dwelt in the fort, and called it, ° The city of David; and David built round about, from Millo and inward.

10 And David ‡ went on, and grew great, and the Lord God of hosts was with him.

11 ¶ And [p] Hiram king of Tyre, sent messengers to David, and cedar-trees, and carpenters, and § masons: and they built David an house.

12 And David perceived that the Lord had established him king over Israel, and that he had exalted his kingdom for his people Israel's sake.

13 ¶ And [q] David took him more concubines and wives out of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron: and there were yet sons and daughters born to David.

14 And [r] these be the names of those that were born unto him in Jerusalem; ‖ Shammuah, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon,

15 Ibhar also, and * Elishua, and Nepheg, and Japhia,

16 And

Before Christ cir. 1043.

k Judg. 1. 21. 1 Josh. 15. 63. Judg. 1. 8. & 19. 11, 12.

* Or, saying, David shall not, &c.

l Verse 6.

m Verse 6. 1 Kings 2. 10. and 8. 1.

n 1 Chron. 11. 6.

† Or, Because they had said, even the blind and the lame. He shall not come into the house.

° Ver. 17.

‡ Heb. went going and growing.

p 1 Kings 5. 2. 1 Chron. 14. 1.

§ Heb. hewers of the stone of the wall.

q 1 Chron. 3. 9. and 14. 3.

r 1 Chron. 3. 5.

‖ Or, Shimea.

* Or, Elishama.

save and deliver them by David his servant; they could only, from their own conduct, fall down and confess, That to them only belonged shame and confusion of face, and that to God, and God alone, belonged all the praise. In Israel's despised king all men may see a lively representation of Jesus, the everlasting king and Saviour of mankind; and, in the conduct of Judah and of Israel, the whole world may read the language of the human heart, its opposition to the gracious designs of God to bless them, by bringing them under his mild, just, and merciful government. And seeing the enmity with which their hearts have resisted his grace, blessed are they that imitate the example of the elders of Israel in their present conduct—Conscious of their presumptuous opposition to the known will of God their Saviour, to come in and cast themselves upon his mercy, who will, as David did the Israelites, receive them without one word of reproach for all that is past, and take under his own almighty and most merciful care, every reconciled soul of man. (Luke xv. 11, &c.) And who shall expose themselves to the last of all dangers, by thinking this day too soon, or any concerns of this life great enough to excuse them from casting themselves upon the mercy of God in Christ Jesus, and now choosing him to reign over them here and for ever.

V. 4, 5. At thirty years of age David began to reign over all Israel; at the same age Jesus began to appear publicly among the same people, performing those things that were foretold of the Messiah. Thirty and three years David continued to reign; thirty-three years and about six months was the time Jesus continued on earth.

V. 6. King David and his men went to Jerusalem, to conquer the inhabitants; Jesus and his apostles went to the same place, that satan's kingdom might be conquered in the hearts of the people. The Jebusites treat David with contempt, and tell him he should not come in amongst them, except he would take away the blind and the lame—work miracles. The Jews despised Jesus, and required him to work miracles, as proofs that he was what they charged him with only pretending to be, though he not only made the blind to see, and the lame to walk, but even the dead to live again.

V. 7. David took the strong hold of Zion—And against all opposition established his kingdom there; and in the same place did Jesus, by his death, establish that spiritual kingdom in the minds of men which shall never be moved.

V. 8. Hated of David's soul—Because in his person they ignorantly despised the power of God, and the certainty of his promises, so long made for giving the whole land, and the very place where this city stood, as the place where God would record his name; and Jesus looked with anger on the Jews, being grieved for the hardness of their hearts, and their slowness in believing all that the prophets had said, concerning his being the promised king and Saviour of his people Israel.

V. 9. David got himself a name by his victories, and he called the place by his name; Jesus got himself a name above every name in heaven and earth; and as David called the place by his name, so every soul of which Jesus obtains possession is called by his name, because possessed of his nature.

V. 10. David grew great in consequence of the Divine favour resting upon him. God made him great in wisdom, justice, and in shewing mercy.

V. 11. When David's kingdom was thus established, the king of Tyre sent presents to him, who was so highly favoured of the Lord: And when Jesus's kingdom was established, the kings of the earth emulated each other in doing honour to his sacred name, and raised the most costly buildings to perpetuate his word, and to prevent the names of his first disciples, who had spent their lives in his holy service, from ever dying in the memories of mankind, to whom they had been, under himself, the first and greatest benefactors.

V. 12. David—By calling to mind the promises God had made him, and comparing them with the things he now saw himself in possession of, perceived that the Lord had established him; and that he had exalted his kingdom on earth, for the sake of his people, that they might be partakers of the mercies that God promised to bestow on them.

V. 13. David took him more wives—This is the first account that is given of him after the Lord had established him; and by this it appears how prone the human mind is to backslide from God, after being established in his kingdom of grace; and this is doubtless written to admonish all that think they stand to take heed lest they fall. In the life of David, as well as in those of other good kings and prophets, is discovered the effects of the grace of God renewing the heart of man, and the power of his providence in governing all things, with a view to the prosperity of his spiritual kingdom; and then, by means of the conduct of the first characters which the world ever saw, the depth of the natural corruption and depravity of the heart of man is fully shewn, as it was and is in all men, both before the grace of God becomes the living principle of their souls, and when they grieve the Holy Spirit, and in heart backslide from God, and are again in a state of opposition to his grace.

V. 17. The

Before Christ cir. 1043.

16 And Elishama, and † Eliada, and Eliphalet.

† Or, Beeliada. s 1 Chron. 11. 16 and 14 8.

17 ¶ [s] But when the Philistines heard that they had anointed David king over Israel, all the Philistines came up to seek David; and David heard of it, [t] and went down to the hold.

1047.

t Chap. 23. 14.

18 The Philistines also came and spread themselves in [u] the valley of Rephaim.

u Josh. 15. 8.

19 And David [x] inquired of the Lord, saying, Shall I go up to the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into mine hand? And the Lord said unto David, Go up: for I will doubtless deliver the Philistines into thine hand.

x Chap. 2. 1.

20 And David came to [y] Baal-perazim, and David smote them there, and said, The Lord hath broken forth upon mine enemies before me, as the breach of waters. Therefore he called the name of that place, ‡ Baal-perazim.

y Isai. 28. 21.

‡ That is, The plain of breaches.

21 And there they left their images, and David and his men [z] § burnt them.

z 1 Chron. 14. 12.

§ Or, took them away.

22 ¶ And the Philistines came up yet again, and spread themselves in the valley of Rephaim.

a Verse 19.

23 And when [a] David inquired of the Lord, he said, Thou shalt not go up: but fetch a compass behind them, and come upon them over against the mulberry-trees.

24 And let it be when thou hearest the sound of a going in the tops of the mulberry-trees, that then thou shalt bestir thyself: for then [b] shall the Lord go out before thee, to smite the host of the Philistines.

b Judg. 4. 14.

25 And David did so, as the Lord had commanded him; and smote the Philistines from Geba, until thou come to Gazer.

Before Christ 1047.

CHAP. VI.

AGAIN, David gathered together all the chosen men of Israel, thirty thousand.

cir. 1042.

2 And [a] David arose, and went with all the people that were with him, from * Baale of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, † whose name is called by the name of the Lord of hosts, [b] that dwelleth between the cherubims.

a 1 Chron. 13. 5, 6.

* Or, Baalah, that is, Kirjath-jearim, Josh. 15. 9, 60.

† Or, at which the name even the name of the LORD of hosts was called upon.

b 1 Sam. 4. 4. Psal. 68. 4.

3 And they ‡ set the ark of God [c] upon a new cart, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was in § Gibeah: and Uzzah and Ahio the sons of Abinadab, drave the new cart.

‡ Heb. made to ride.

c See Num. 7. 9. 1 Sam. 6. 7.

§ Or, the hill.

4 And they brought it out of [d] the house of Abinadab, which was at Gibeah, ‖ accompanying the ark of God; and Ahio went before the ark.

d 1 Sam. 7. 1.

‖ Heb. with.

5 And David, and all the house of Israel played before the Lord on all manner of instruments made of fir-wood, even on harps, and on psalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals.

6 ¶ And when they came to [e] Nachon's threshing-floor, Uzzah [i] put forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it, for the oxen * shook it.

e 1 Chro. 13. 9, he is called Chidon.

i See Num. 4. 15.

* Or, stumbled.

7 And the anger of the Lord was kindled against Uzzah, and [g] God smote him there for his † error, and there he died by the ark of God.

g 1 Sam. 6. 19.

† Or, rashness.

8 And

V. 17. The Philistines came up to seek David—Their war had for its immediate object the person of David. Whatever calamities this war brought along with it, the date of it is speedily after David's taking to himself more wives, in which he certainly offended God, the multiplying of wives being expressly forbid. (Deut. xvii. 17.)

V. 19. David again seeks after God, who graciously answers him.

V. 21. David and his men—Destroyed the idols of the heathen. And when the spirit of David's LORD gets itself the victory by means of his servant, publishing salvation through his name, the idol-gods of all false confidence are seized upon and destroyed.

V. 23. Thou shalt not go up—Directly against them, it being as necessary to convince them, and all thy enemies, that thy Lord gives thee wisdom and skill equal to thy courage and strength.

V. 24. The Lord gave this sign to increase David's confidence, and to assure him, that he was on his side. Thus gracious is He to all who inquire of him for the knowledge of what they ought to do, and go trusting in him for support.

V. 25. David pursued to Gazer, the borders of their own country. David did as God commanded, and what God requires he accompanies with power to perform.

CHAP. VI.

V. 1—3. God having promised to manifest his presence with the ark, David assembled the people, that it might be brought to Jerusalem with the most public demonstrations of respect; but in this they forgot to consult the written word, which required the priests to bear the ark upon their shoulders: and in this we have an example of the assembled thousands of Israel running into error in the discharge of a religious duty, meerly by the neglect of the Scriptures then extant amongst them.

V. 6, 7. The tables on which the laws of God were written, were within the ark; and the ark was the place where God had promised to manifest himself. The people of Israel were now carrying the ark as a common thing, in a manner contrary to the command of God. The action of Uzzah appears to express, that he thought it would fall if he did not preserve it; the oxen shook it—He thought it in danger, and put forth his hand to save it. God smote him there for his error, and then he died—Upon the spot, as it would appear. The heart or mind of man is that on which God, by his spirit, writes his laws, as by his finger he wrote the commands upon the tables of stone. (Heb. viii. 10.) And as the place where the ark was, in which those tables were kept, was the place where God manifested himself, so is the mind or soul the

Before Christ 1042.

8 And David was displeased, because the Lord had ‡ made a breach upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place, § Perez-uzzah to this day.

‡ Heb. broken. § That is, The breach of Uzzah.

9 And [h] David was afraid of the Lord that day, and said, How shall the ark of the Lord come to me?

h See Luke 5. 8. 9.

10 So David would not remove the ark of the Lord unto him into the city of David: but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom [i] the Gittite.

i Josh. 10. 25.

11 [k] And the ark of the Lord continued in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite, three months: and the Lord blessed Obed-edom, and all his household.

k 1 Chron. 13. 14.

Before Christ 1042.

12 ¶ And it was told king David, saying, The Lord hath blessed the house of Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God. [l] So David went and brought up the ark of God from the house of Obed-edom, into the city of David, with gladness.

l 1 Chron. 15. 25.

13 And it was so, that when they that bare the ark of the Lord, had gone six paces, he sacrificed [m] oxen and fatlings.

m See Chron. 15. 26.

14 And

place in which God reveals himself, it is the object of his peculiar care; (Gal. i. 16. 2 Cor. xiii. 5.) and it is by his Divine power alone that it is preserved from every evil to which it is exposed, in the condition in which it is placed in this life by the fall of man: all the good that is done in it, or for it, is done by God alone; (Phil. ii. 13. John xv. 5.) and whatever public respect, like Israel, we may pay to the place of God's immediate presence, if we carry the ark—consider the soul as a common thing, all outward demonstrations of respect are but form and ceremony: and if to the want of regarding the ark, esteeming our immortal nature agreeable to the word of God, we presume to think we ourselves can save it, when it begins to be in danger, we are then guilty of uniting carelessness, as to the invaluable treasure committed to our care, with presumption, as to that which belongs to God. Carelessness, in not regarding the concerns of our immortal nature in all things agreeable to the will of God, made known to us in his word; and presumption, in thinking we can preserve ourselves from the dangers our own conduct have exposed us to. All Israel were guilty of not carrying the ark according to God's word, but Uzzah alone shews the presumption of thinking he could be the preserver of it; and this appears to be the crime for which he was made such an example. An example which God was pleased to give mankind, to fix more deeply in the minds of all men, those truths of his word, which require his creatures to live in a spirit of entire dependance on Himself alone for all their strength, all their sufficiency, for every good word and work; and not for a moment presume to think we can uphold the place of his presence, or become the Saviours of our immortal souls, either from the least or greatest danger. And it is surely ever to be remembered, that God, who sees the heart, must smile or frown—communicate his favour, or shew his severity, as his own mind and will are embraced or resisted by his rational creatures: And as it is the power of God that upholds all things, his wisdom that governs, and his goodness that bestows every blessing on all, and as none can be happy but in the same degree in which they are partakers of the grace which proceeds from God alone, every principle of self-confidence tends to exclude God from the world, and is in direct opposition to that trust in him, on which the present and eternal happiness of the whole human race depends: this action therefore of Uzzah's, however small, being a public discovery of presumptuous unbelief, it pleased God in his person to give mankind this example of its dangerous consequences to all that are found in it; and to shew whatever great and public concerns men may be engaged in, that they are under the last necessity of living in the spirit of that prayer of David's—"Keep back thy servant from presumptuous sins, that I may be innocent from the great transgression." (Psal. xix. 13.)

V. 8. David was displeased—Dissatisfied in his heart with God, that the public honour and respect which they intend to pay to him, should meet with this severe judgment to damp the general joy. But how unbecoming this displeasure; it being of His mere mercy that men are not consumed under His just indignation, which all have provoked; and which, after all the long-suffering and patience of God, will take place on such as do not turn from evil, by unfeigned repentance and faith in HIM that suffered in their stead.

V. 9. David was afraid of the Lord—With that fear which hath torment: Not seeing the fault that there was in themselves, and how justly the Lord might punish them for not doing as his word commanded, David thought the Lord was strict to mark their misconduct; and calling to remembrance his own and his people's many offences, he concluded that the Lord's presence with the ark would be as a consuming fire.

V. 10. David would not, therefore, remove the ark to the place where he himself dwelt: Thus did his guilty fear keep away from him the ark of the Lord's presence. And may it not often be thus with us, when we go up to perform our religious duties in a spirit of self-complacency, as if by our appearance we would confer honour upon the Most High, and finding our consciences judged and condemned, we are betrayed into those unbecoming thoughts of God, as if we had a right to be offended, and leave the place where he hath promised to manifest himself, because our assembling there was attended with condemnation instead of comfort; not seeing that the cause of it was, not in the performance of the service, which was our duty, but in doing of it in a manner contrary to the command of God—in a spirit and temper of mind altogether unbecoming, and presumptuous for us ever to entertain; as may well appear when it is but remembered how contrary to all self-exalting and self-confident thoughts, and with what humiliation and self-abasement the holy angels, the blessed martyrs, and all the glorious multitudes of heaven, fall down and worship before the throne of God, and of the Lamb that redeemed them, and made them meet to dwell in his presence. (Rev. vii. 9.) The ark—Was now no longer led in the spirit of a human triumph on its way to the city of David, but, fearing its presence, they carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom.

V. 11. The place of the LORD's presence was now the house of a man who was humble enough to be thought presumptuous by all Israel, for doing that which they did not think safe to attempt. Obed-edom must therefore have been a person that was willing to hazard his character, life, family, and all things, if he might but have the presence of the Holy One of Israel, his Redeemer. "The spirit of life in the new birth being awakened in him, and the love of God in him perfected, this new nature in which he was born from above, having rather quicker sensations than the animal nature itself, he had rather die a thousand natural deaths, than wound and pain that life and spirit into which he was regenerated," [XIV.]—by distrusting the love and goodness of God to him, and all that truly feared him, and only looked for his mercy through a Mediator. Three months the ark continued in the house of this devoted person, and, instead of the danger feared by David, he was blessed of the Lord with all his house, for the humble confidence with which he ventured to receive the ark.

V. 12, 13. The

Before Christ 1042.

14 And David [n] danced before the Lord with all his might, and David was girded with a linen ephod.

n See Exod. 15. 20.

15 So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the Lord with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet.

o 1 Chron. 15. 29.

16 And [o] as the ark of the Lord came into the city of David, Michal Saul's daughter looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the Lord; and she despised him in her heart.

p 1 Chron. 16. 1.
q 1 Chron. 15. 1.
‖ Heb. stretched.

17 ¶ And [p] they brought in the ark of the Lord, and set it in [q] his place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had ‖ pitched for it: and David offered burnt-offerings and peace-offerings before the Lord.

18 And as soon as David had made an end of offering burnt-offerings, and peace-offerings, [r] he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts.

r 2 Kings 8. 55. 1 Chron. 16. 2. s 1 Chron. 16. 3.

19 [s] And he dealt among all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine: so all the people departed every one to his house.

Before Christ 1042.

20 ¶ [t] Then David returned to bless his household: and Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel to day, who uncovered himself to day in the eyes of the handmaids of his servants, as one of the vain fellows * shamelessly uncovereth himself!

t Psa. 30, title.
* Or, openly.

21 And David said unto Michal, It was before the Lord, [u] which chose me before thy father, and before all his house, to appoint me ruler over the people of the Lord, over Israel: therefore will I play before the Lord.

u 1 Sam. 13. 14.

22 And I will yet be more vile than thus, and will be base in mine own sight: and † of the maid-servants which thou hast spoken of, of them shall I be had in honour.

† Or, of the hand-maids of my servants.

23 Therefore Michael the daughter of Saul had no child [x] until the day of her death.

x See 1 Sam. 15. 35. Hab. 22. 14. Matth. 1. 25.

CHAP.

V. 12, 13. The report of the evident blessings which God had bestowed on Obed-edom and all his house, was made to David; and with that it was shewn him that the danger was not in the ark, but in the spirit and temper of mind with which the place of the Divine presence was approached; and that instead of being hurt and destroyed, they who sought his favour after the due order, were sure to be blessed; and having come to the knowledge of their former mistake, (1 Chron. xv.) the Levites now take up the ark, to bear it according to the command of God; and when David and all that were with him saw that the Lord helped the Levites, that instead of being struck with death for touching the ark, they could declare the Lord was merciful and gracious to them; then the king and all the people gave this public testimony of the disposition of mind with which they now approached the place of the Lord's immediate presence: When they had gone but six paces, they stood and sacrificed unto the Lord, to shew that they only looked for the blessings attending the presence of the Lord, through the blood of the covenant: And in token of their faith in that blood, they offered their sacrifice; they beheld the streaming blood, and looked up to God with that faith which realized to them the benefits of the great sacrifice which was made by promise from the foundation of the world, and which was once for all offered on mount Calvary, when that blood, which was typified by all the sacrifices, run down the cross from JESUS's sacred side and stained the ground, to make an atonement for the sins of the world; and through which blood the worst man may, and the best only can, come unto God, whether they look for the knowledge of his mercy and grace before the ark or altar, or in reading his will written on tables of stone, or on leaves of paper. David, and all that were with him, now renouncing every other plea, and regarding "the blood and righteousness of the promised Seed and Saviour as the sole meritorious cause of their salvation," [1.] the ransomed of the LORD set forward with the ark to Zion, with songs and joy upon their heads; and, in full confidence of the mercy of God through a MEDIATOR, the grief and guilty fear, which before they felt as the consequence of their self-confident presumption, was now exchanged into joy and gladness, and all sorrow and sighing was fled away. (Is. xxxv. 10.)

V. 14. David danced—Leaped from the earth with joy, as if desirous, incumbered as he was with a mortal body, to have ascended up to heaven, and joined with the church triumphant in the everlasting song of Moses and the Lamb. (Rev. xv. 3.)

V. 16. Michal, Saul's daughter, saw David—Expressing his religious joy, at the discovery God had made to him and all his people of the way of everlasting life; and of the assurance which now, by his grace, he had given him of his being reconciled to him; (2 Cor. v. 19.) and she despised him in her heart, the thoughts of which are here made known. Thus is this history distinguished from all other writings ever extant among men; none but those, of which God is the author, can give with certainty the thoughts of the human heart. Great GOD! Forgive our past neglect in crying unto thee to "cleanse the thoughts of our hearts," which are thus ever open to thy view.

V. 18. David prayed that all the people might be blessed of the Lord—be made and preserved happy in the knowledge and love of God.

V. 19. God having given David the ability, he proves to his people the sincerity of his desire that they should be blessed of the Lord, by following his prayers with his own benevolence, that they might feed upon the benefits which God that day bestowed upon them by his means with thanksgiving; receiving these blessings also as flowing from the same CAUSE which made the presence of the ark the subject of their general joy.

V. 20. David returned to bless his household—Not led to neglect those duties which were required of him as a man in private life, by having his mind too much engaged in things of a more splendid and popular nature.

V. 21, 22. David answers Michal—As one that never expected to be on good terms with the spirit she was then of; and he concludes his answer with declaring his resolution to continue to shew his gratitude to the God of his salvation, whose goodness had made him great; knowing that he was not for a moment to give place to any spirit that would have him to be ashamed of worshipping God, and offering him the praises due unto his name, even in the open air of heaven, and among the multitude; not one of which was less dear to the common Parent and Redeemer of them all, than the king himself. (Acts x. 34.)

V. 23. Thus did God shew that Michal's spirit was not pleasing

in

CHAP. VII.

Before Christ 1042.

AND it came to pass, [a] when the king sat in his house, and the Lord had given him rest round about from all his enemies;

a 1 Chron. 17. 1.

2 That the king said unto Nathan the prophet, See now, I dwell in [b] an house of cedar, [c] but the ark of God dwelleth within curtains.

b Chap. 5. 11.
c See Acts 7. 46

3 And Nathan said to the king, Go, do all that is in thine heart: for the Lord is with thee.

4 ¶ And it came to pass that night, that the word of the Lord came unto Nathan, saying,

5 Go and tell * my servant David, Thus saith the Lord, [d] Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in?

* Heb. to my servant to David.
d See 1 Kings 5. 3. 1 Chron. 22. 8. and 28. 3

6 Whereas I have not dwelt in any house, [e] since the time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent and in a tabernacle.

e 1 Kings 8. 16.

7 In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of Israel, spake I a word with † any of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded [i] to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar?

† 1 Chron. 17. 6. any of the judges
i Chap. 5. 2.

8 Now therefore, so shalt thou say unto my servant David, Thus saith the Lord of hosts, [g] I took thee from the sheep-cote, ‡ from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel.

Before Christ 1042.

g 1 Sam. 16. 11, 12. Psal. 78. 70.
‡ Heb. from after.

9 And [h] I was with thee whithersoever thou wentest, [i] and have cut off all thine enemies § out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth.

h Chap. 8. 6, 14.
i Psa. 89. 23.
§ Heb. from thy face.

10 (Moreover, I will appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more: [k] neither shall the children of wickedness afflict them any more, as beforetime, k Psal. 89. 22.

11 And as since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel, and have caused thee to rest from all thine enemies.) Also the Lord telleth thee, [l] that he will make thee an house.

l Exod. 1. 21.

12 ¶ And [m] when thy days be fulfilled, and thou [n] shalt sleep with thy fathers, I will set up thy seed after thee, which shall proceed out of thy bowels, and I will establish his kingdom.

m 1 Kings 8. 20.
n Deut. 31. 16. Acts 13. 36.

13 [o] He shall build an house for my name, and I will establish the throne of his kingdom for ever.

o 1 Kings 5. 5. and 6. 12. 1 Chron. 22. 10. and 28. 6.

14 I

in his sight; and the punishment he inflicted was that which was then thought the greatest a married woman could suffer, next to death.

CHAP. VII.

V. 1, 2, 3. When the king had leisure from the wars in which he had been engaged, and was favoured with a little quietness, the first use he appears to make of it was to consider, What he could do for the glory of God. The king makes his intention known to Nathan the prophet, who appears to have answered from what he thought was right, without asking wisdom of God, who did approve of David's design, but not, as Nathan had done, of his carrying of it into execution. By Nathan's mistake it appears how much all men are required to look to the Lord, that they do not mislead by their answers such as apply to them for direction. The first thoughts of the prophet were not found to be in agreement with the will of God; and however agreeable it may be to act with the approbation of fathers in Israel, yet this instance is a standing caution against any person's neglecting, humbly and diligently, to ask wisdom and direction of God for themselves; God having reserved to himself the supreme powers of king, governor, and judge of all the earth; and none ever having appeared among men, the God-man excepted, whom God has required to be heard on all occasions, it is doubtless to rob God of that which he has reserved to himself, when we place such a dependance on the advice of men, as to lead us practically and in truth to neglect to make our own requests known by prayer and supplication.

V. 4, 5. Nathan was now sent to David, to deliver him a message to the contrary of his own answer to the king. Thus gently was the prophet reproved for giving his judgment, without first laying the matter before the Lord. The design being for the glory of God, David was not allowed to remain long uninformed of the Divine will. And this consolation all may hope for, whose eye—whose intention is singly fixed on living to please God, that they shall not be left in darkness as to the knowledge of his will, either in what they ought to do or decline. (John vii. 17. Matth. vi. 22.)

V. 6. Have walked in a tent—The place of my presence has been suited to the circumstances under which my church and people were living. And thus it ever is: The God of all consolation is always ready to manifest himself wherever his dependant creatures call upon him, and need his assistance most. In ships, prisons, or churches, God is equally present, when equally longed for and desired; and when those that fear him, and hope in his mercy, have to travel through the wilderness, then in tents he dwells with them that are of an humble spirit. (Isa. lvii. 15.)

V. 7. A word—Did I ever give such a command as that of raising a costly building wherein to worship me?

V. 8. My servant David—By which gracious appellation God shewed David was still in his favour, that he might not be cast down, and think himself rejected, because God would not have him carry the design of building him a house into execution.

V. 9. I was with thee—From the time of thy low condition, and in all thy difficulties, and it is not necessary that thou shouldst raise any stately building to procure thee more of my presence.

V. 10. I will appoint a place—But I will perform my promise of settling and establishing my people; and the children of wickedness shall not afflict them any more—Which promise is made to David, who was of a spirit to rejoice in the prosperity of the people of the Lord.

V. 11, 12. An house—He will establish thy posterity.

V. 13. For ever—One descended from thee shall build me an house; and one also descended from thee shall have his throne—his spiritual kingdom in the hearts of his people established for ever. (Luke i. 32, 33.)

Before Christ 1042.

14 [p] I will be his father, and he shall be my son; [q] if he commit iniquity, I will chasten him with the rod of men, and with the stripes of the children of men:

p Heb. 1. 5.
q Psa. 89. 26, 27, 30, 31, 32.

15 But my mercy shall not depart away from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I put away before thee.

16 And [r] thine house, and thy kingdom shall be established for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever.

r Psa. 89. 26, 37. John 12. 34.

17 According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

18 ¶ Then went king David in, and sat before the Lord, and he said, Who am I, O Lord God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

19 And this was yet a small thing in thy sight, O Lord God; but thou hast spoken also of thy servant's house for a great while to come; [s] and is this the ‖ manner of man, O Lord God?

s Isai. 55. 8.
‖ Heb. law.

20 And what can David say more unto thee? for thou, Lord God, knowest thy servant.

21 For thy word's sake, and according to thine own heart hast thou done all these great things, to make thy servant know them.

Before Christ 1042.

22 Wherefore thou art great, O Lord God: for [t] there is none like thee, neither is there any God besides thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears.

t Deut. 3. 24. and 4. 35. and 32. 39. 1 Sam. 2. 2. Psal. 86. 8. and 89. 6, 8. Isai. 45. 5, 18, 22.

23 And [u] what one nation in the earth is like thy people, even like Israel, whom God went to redeem for a people to himself, and to make him a name, and to do for you great things, and terrible, for thy land, before thy people, which thou redeemedst to thee from Egypt, from the nations and their gods?

u Deut. 4. 7, 32. & 33. 29. Psal. 147. 20.

24 For thou hast confirmed to thyself thy people Israel to be a people unto thee for ever: [x] and thou, Lord, art become their God.

x Psal. 48. 14.

25 And now, O Lord God, the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant, and concerning his house, establish it for ever, and do as thou hast said.

26 And let thy name be magnified for ever, saying, The Lord of hosts is the God over Israel: and let the house of thy servant David be established before thee.

27 For

V. 14. I will be a father to thy son, and the heir of thy temporal kingdom; and, if he offend against me, I will chasten him for his profit, as a father chasteneth his son, that he may be a partaker of that holiness, without which no man can see my glory. But to him, whose kingdom shall never end, he is my BELOVED SON, in whom I am ever well pleased.

V. 15. Not depart—I will shew in his person how much my promise is to be depended on, and that if he, or other men, despise their own mercies, and will prefer perishable to spiritual comforts, and believe not to the salvation of their souls, still it shall appear that I remain faithful to all the promises I have made.

V. 16. Before thee—Thou shalt see the promise take place thyself, as David did in the person of Solomon.

V. 17. Nathan declared the truth of God's message, though it convicted himself of rashness in his answer to David.

V. 18. David sat—Meditating on all that was past; and then filled with a sense of God's unmerited goodness to him, and his gracious designs to his family, he expresses himself as one wondering that God should thus condescend to regard him.

V. 19. Is this the manner of man—To deal thus graciously with their inferiors? Where shall I find any thing in the behaviour of men, to give me thoughts of any such goodness as this, which thou, O LORD God, art now pleased to shew me, and declare to mine for years to come?

V. 20. What can David say—To express the gratitude which is due to thee, my God, for blessings already bestowed; and for thy faithful promises of mercy and goodness which shall never end? Thy bounty has left me nothing to ask. Thou knowest thy servant, and all the necessities that he is under; and, convinced of thy great compassion, I can only pray thee to fulfil thine own gracious will, which is ever the holiest, wisest, best; and always to be desired and thankfully embraced, in all conditions, by all thy creatures, before whatever they can ask, or even think of for themselves.

V. 21. But for this, above all thy mercies, I would particularly praise thee—That, by thy grace, I am made sensible in any degree how good and gracious thy dealings are to all, and to me, who am so unworthy of such favour.

V. 22. There is none like thee—For wisdom, power, justice, and love; whether we consider all that we have heard of thy dealings from the beginning of the world, or collect our knowledge of the same from what we have seen, known, and experienced ourselves.

V. 23. God went to redeem—Our fathers from miserable bondage, where they were suffering all kinds of oppression and cruelty, to that of taking their first-born and putting them to death: In this lost and helpless condition didst thou, O LORD our God, become thyself the Redeemer of our nation; and now, what great things hast thou done for us this day? O! that thy ransomed people may fear, love, praise, and serve thee, as becometh them, under the sense of obligations like those which we all owe to thy goodness.

V. 24. Thou hast confirmed—Thy faithfulness, by thus establishing thy people beyond all human expectation, and against all opposition from without, and difficulties amongst ourselves. And thou, who art the LORD of glory, art thyself become our God, and the immediate governor and protector of all thy people whom thou hast thyself redeemed.

V. 25. And now—I humbly embrace for myself, for my offspring, and for thy people, all that thy word and free grace gives me alone to hope for; being destitute of all merit to induce thy goodness to grant us the favour thou hast shewn, I can only, as a poor mortal worm, dependant upon thy mercy, intreat thee not to withdraw it from us, but to continue and establish it for ever.

V. 26. Let thy name—Thy unmerited goodness, be magnified and praised as the blessed fountain from which thy people receive all that they can enjoy in this life, and all that they can hope for hereafter. And let—grant that those thou hast redeemed and established, may ever acknowledge thee as their LORD and God, by a stedfast confidence in thy unchangeable goodness, and by a cheerful resignation of themselves to thy will, under all the sufferings through which they must pass to thy kingdom of glory.

 V. 27. Therefore

Before Christ 1042.

27 For thou, O Lord of hosts, God of Israel, hast * revealed to thy servant, saying, I will build thee an house: therefore hath thy servant found in his heart to pray this prayer unto thee.

* Heb. opened the ear, Ruth 4. 4. 1 Sam. 9. 15.

28 And now, O Lord God, thou art that God, and [y] thy words be true, and thou hast promised this goodness unto thy servant.

y John 17. 17.

29 Therefore now † let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may continue for ever before thee: for thou, O Lord God, hast spoken it, and with thy blessing let the house of thy servant be blessed for ever.

† Heb. be thou pleased and bless.

CHAP. VIII.

cir. 1040. [a] AND after this it came to pass, that David smote the Philistines, and subdued them: and David took * Metheg-ammah out of the hand of the Philistines.

a 1 Chron. 18. 1, &c.

* Or, the bridle of Ammah.

[b] 2 And he smote Moab, and measured them with a line, casting them down to the ground: even with two lines measured he, to put to death: and with one full line to keep alive: and so the Moabites [c] became David's servants, and brought gifts.

b Num. 24. 17.

c Ver. 6, 14.

† Or, Hadarezer. 1 Chron. 18. 3.

[d] 3 ¶ David smote also † Hadadezer the son of Rehob, king of [e] Zobah, as he went to recover [f] his border at the river Euphrates.

d Psa. 60 title.

e See Gen. 15. 18.

‡ Or, of his.

4 And David took ‡ from him a thousand § chariots, and seven hundred horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen: and David [i] houghed all the chariot-horses, but reserved of them for an hundred chariots.

§ As 1 Chron. 18. 4.

i Josh. 11. 6.

Before Christ cir. 1040.

[g] 5 And when the Syrians of Damascus came to succour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians two and twenty thousand men.

g 1 Kings 11. 23, 24, 25.

6 Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus: and the Syrians [h] became servants to David, and brought gifts: [i] and the Lord preserved David whithersoever he went.

h Verse 2.

i Verse 14.

7 And David took [k] the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem.

k See 1 Kings 10. 16.

8 And from ‖ Betah, and from * Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much brass.

‖ Or, Tibhath.

* Or, Chun.

1 Chron. 18. 8.

9 ¶ When † Toi king of Hamath heard that David had smitten all the host of Hadadezer, † Or. Tou. 1 Chron. 18. 9.

10 Then Toi sent [l] Joram his son unto king David to ‡ salute him, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer, and smitten him: (for Hadadezer § had wars with Toi) and Joram ‖ brought with him vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of brass:

l 1 Chro. 18. 10. Hadoram.

‡ Heb. ask him of peace.

§ Heb. was a man of wars with.

‖ Heb. in his hand were.

11 Which also king David [m] did dedicate unto the Lord, with the silver and gold that he had dedicated of all nations which he subdued:

m 1 Chron. 18. 11. & 26. 26.

12 Of

V. 27. Therefore—Because of the discoveries, which thou hast brought to my knowledge, of thy gracious dealings in ages past, and, from my own experience, of thy great power and willingness to bless all them that call upon thee, my heart is led to make these requests to thee.

V. 28. Thy words be true—Unchangeable, and not one of all thy promises will ever be left unfulfilled, for want of faithfulness on thy part.

V. 29. Let the house of thy servant be blessed—Grant that they may not resist thy holy Spirit, oppose thy sacred will, and be themselves the occasion of thy mercies being withdrawn from them, but that they may ever be willing to receive whatever thy rich mercy waits to give.

CHAP. VIII.

V. 1, 2. It had been foretold that a Sceptre should arise out of Israel, that should smite the corners of Moab; (Numb. xxiv. 17.) that prophecy was now fulfilled. And that Sceptre—that Governor which also was to arise out of Israel, will no less subdue all the enemies of his spiritual kingdom, in the hearts of all them that live by faith in him.

V. 6. The Lord preserved David—Supported and defended him; and of which David had now no less need than he had when, with his naked hands, he fought with the lion and the bear: and surrounded as he was by thousands of armed men, his dangers were still such as gave him as much occasion as ever for the care of an Almighty, and every where present, providence to preserve him. Surely they are blessed who see themselves equally dependant on God, to preserve them in the last battles of their spiritual warfare, as in the very first; as much so when surrounded with worshipping thousands, as if they were in a wilderness alone, or were left the last survivor in a ship, tossed by the ocean and driven with the winds.

V. 7. Gold—Was now beginning to increase with David, along with safety and power; and unless the general voice of experience is itself deceitful, we are now to look for a season of greater danger to David, as a candidate for the favour of God and future glory, than when he was hunted like a partridge on the mountains. But who will believe the report of any danger, as the consequence of gold and power encreasing? They will believe it who regard the Scriptures, and who have taken time to become acquainted a little with themselves. But even these will believe it no longer than they continue to think the presence of God the happiest possession, and future glory the best inheritance; with such, only let an unbelieving world's example cast a slight degree of contempt on these, and then with great acquaintance with Scripture, or the experience of the nature of the human mind, the bewildered soul will see its safety and happiness in gold, and not in God; and, when this is the case, sin and hell will soon be looked on with less dread, than any turn in human affairs which threatens the danger of becoming poor, low, or little known among men.

V. 11. David did dedicate—His increasing riches to God. And is not this the only safe use of riches? He actually set apart what he had got thus far, to be laid out to please God. Who does not intend to do the same, whose darkness is the least enlightened, to see that to keep or spend, with any other view than that of pleasing God, are but different ways of doing worse than losing all benefit from what God has given. Every talent kept or spent contrary to the will of God, is turned into a crime in His judgment, who will

Before Christ cir. 1040.

12 Of Syria, and of Moab, and of the children of Ammon, and of the Philistines, and of Amalek, and of the spoil of Hadadezer son of Rehob, king of Zobah

13 And David gat him a name when he returned from * smiting of the Syrians in [n] the valley of salt, [o] ‡ being eighteen thousand men.

* Heb. his smiting.
n 2 Kings 14. 7.
o See 1 Chron. 18. 12.
Psal. 60. title.
‡ Or, slaying.

14 ¶ And he put garrisons in Edom; throughout all Edom put he garrisons, and [p] all they of Edom became David's servants: [q] and the Lord preserved David whithersoever he went.

p Num. 24. 18. Gen. 27. 37, 40.
q Verse 6.

15 And David reigned over all Israel, and David executed judgment and justice unto all his people.

16 [r] And Joab the son of Zeruiah was [s] over the host; and [t] Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was ‡ recorder;

r 1 Chron. 18. 15.
s Chap. 5. 8. and 20. 23.
t 1 Kings 4. 3.
‡ Or, remembrancer, or, writer of chronicles.

17 And [u] Zadok the son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests; and Seraiah was the § scribe;

u 1 Chron. 24. 3.
§ Or, secretary.

18 [x] And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada was over both the [y] Cherethites and the Pelethites; and David's sons were ‖ chief rulers.

x 1 Chron. 18. 17.
y 1 Sam. 30. 14.
‖ Or, princes.

CHAP. IX.

AND David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may shew him kindness for Jonathan's sake?

2 And there was of the house of Saul, a servant whose name was [a] Ziba: and when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he said, Thy servant is he.

a Chap. 16. 1. and 19. 17, 29.

3 And the king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul, that I may shew [b] the kindness of God unto him? And Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, which is [c] lame on his feet.

b 1 Sam. 20. 14.

Before Christ cir. 1040.

4 And the king said unto him, Where is he? and Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of [d] Machir, the son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

c Chap. 4. 4.
d Chap 17. 27.

5 ¶ Then king David sent, and fetched him out of the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar.

6 Now when Mephibosheth the son of Jonathan the son of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence. And David said, Mephibosheth. And he answered, Behold thy servant.

7 And David said unto him, Fear not; for I will surely shew thee kindness, for Jonathan thy father's sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father, and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually.

8 And he bowed himself, and said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldest look upon such a dead [e] dog as I am?

e 1 Sam. 24. 14.

9 ¶ Then the king called to Ziba Saul's servant, and said unto him, [f] I have given unto thy master's son all that pertained to Saul, and to all his house.

f See Chap. 19. 29.

10 Thou therefore and thy sons and thy servants shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy master's son may have food to eat: but Mephibosheth thy master's son shall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen sons, and twenty servants.

11 Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do.

As

will give to the action of every hour its just recompense. And let him that intends feeding the hungry, clothing the naked, instructing the ignorant, and promoting the knowledge of God to-morrow, fear lest this is not such a dedication as David made of his silver and gold: This night may come that night wherein no man can work any more for ever.

V. 13. David gat him a name—For wisdom, courage, justice, and humble devotion to God, whom he spiritually worshipped, by imitating.

V. 14. The Lord still preserved David—Who continued to live in a spirit of gratitude for all God's goodness to him the time that was past, and a stedfast trust in him for all that was to come.

V. 15. David reigned—Governed with equity, and all his determinations were just.

V. 16. Recorder—He took an account of such things as had been done, or which might be proper to be considered, or done, in future.

V. 17. Ahimelech—Had fled to David in the days of his adversity, and now he is a partaker with him in his prosperity. And thus it is with all that fly to Jesus, and suffer with him here, they shall reign with him hereafter. (Rom. viii. 17.)

V. 18. David's sons were chief rulers—Above any of his servants; next to himself.

CHAP. IX.

V. 1. David having first acknowledged his gratitude to God, and dedicated his increasing wealth to his service; as one part of the will of God, he now begins to inquire after the family of the first friend that God gave him, after he called David into public notice, that he might, to those that were nearest of kin to Jonathan, shew them kindness. What a just, pious, grateful mind breathes through all this part of David's life?

V. 3. The kindness of God—That kindness which I owe him for God's sake, who graciously inclined Jonathan's heart to shew me kindness, at a time when my very brethren treated me with contempt.

V. 7. Fear not—I do not call thee to me to resent any injury I have received from any of thy family, but to assure thee of my kindness, and to shew it to thee for thy father's sake. Who would not shew kindness, and, like Jonathan, be the friend of the friendless, when God himself thus shews us, that he takes care that it shall be thus returned?

V. 8. A dead dog—This seems to have been a saying, in use to express at once a mean and worthless person.

V. 9—13. David restored all the estate that had come into his hands from Saul and his family; but this was not enough, he would

Before Christ cir. 1040. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons.

g 1 Chro. 8. 34. 12 And Mephibosheth had a young son, [g] whose name was Micha: and all that dwelt in the house of Ziba, were servants unto Mephibosheth.

13 So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the king's table: and [h] was lame on both his feet.

h Verse 3.

CHAP. X.

cir. 1037. AND it came to pass after this, that the [a] king of the children of Ammon died, and Hanun his son reigned in his stead.

a 1 Chro. 19. 1.

2 Then said David, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, as his father shewed kindness unto me. And David sent to comfort him by the hand of his servants, for his father. And David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

cir. 1037. 3 And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, [*] Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee, to search the city, and to spy it out, and to overthrow it?

* Heb. in thine eyes doth David?

4 Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, [b] even to their buttocks, and sent them away.

b Isai. 20. 4. and 47. 2.

5 When they told it unto David, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed: and the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.

6 ¶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired [c] the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah a thousand men, and of Ish-tob, twelve thousand men.

Before Christ cir. 1037. c Chap. 8. 3, 5.

7 And when David heard of it, he sent Joab, and all the host of the mighty men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array at the entering in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba, and of Rehob, and Ish-tob, and Maacah were by themselves in the field.

9 When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them in array against the Syrians.

10 And the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai, his brother, that he might put them in array against the children of Ammon.

11 And he said, If the Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will come and help thee.

12 Be of good courage, and let us play the men for our people, and for the cities of our God: and the Lord do that which seemeth him good.

13 And Joab drew nigh, and the people that were with him, unto the battle against the Syrians: and they fled before him.

14 And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, then fled they also before Abishai, and entered into the city: so Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem.

15 ¶ And would maintain Jonathan's son as his own, and at his own expence.

CHAP. X.

V. 1, 2. His father shewed kindness unto me—When I was in distress. David would not leave an obligation unreturned.

V. 3. Thus do these ministers of state endeavour to recommend themselves to the esteem of their new prince, by leading him to look upon one that was his friend, as an enemy to him and all his subjects.

V. 4. Hanun—Appears to have been in the mind to receive the worst advice upon the least grounds; and taking falsehood, without proof or further inquiry, for truth, he sets to work to return contempt for kindness sincerely intended.

V. 5. David sent to meet them—With kindness, who had been ill treated in his service: He considerately provides for preventing their being put to shame, whom he had thought fit to receive into his service.

V. 6. All these people seem to have readily united with Hanun in beginning a war with David.

V. 7. David sent—His army at once against the people, who were preparing to come against him, that the contest might be in their country and not among his own subjects.

V. 9—14. When Joab saw—That the principals in the war had separated themselves from their allies, he does not presume so much on his own strength as to go against the whole at once, which would have obliged the allies to have considered themselves as much embarked for their common safety as the principals in the war: Joab saw the snare they had laid for themselves by the division of their army; he prepares to find employment for the Ammonites, whilst he intended to shew the Syrians, that as they had made themselves parties in an unjust war, they were to receive the first share in the contest: After all things were ready, Joab bids his army be of good courage, to acquit themselves as became them for their nation, which, he reminds them, belonged to God; in whose hands Joab concludes with saying he, for his part, left the event. He, and that division of the army, advanced against the Syrians, who seeing themselves in greater danger than those in whose cause they came into the field, fled from before the Israelites; and the Ammonites being left to themselves, they also fled for refuge to their city. And may not many be unsuccessful in their spiritual warfare by not imitating Joab's conduct, in observing first the state of their enemies; and though they are fully bent on conquering the whole, to do it by dividing their task, and take that part first which is most likely to prove successful, that

so

Before Christ cir. 1036.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselves together.

16 And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the river: and they came to Helam; and † Shobach the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them.

† Or, Shophach, 1 Chro. 19.16.

17 And when it was told David, he gathered all Israel together, and passed over Jordan, and came to Helam: and the Syrians set themselves in array against David, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel, and David slew the men of seven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thousand [d] horsemen, and smote Shobach the captain of their host, who died there.

d 1 Chro. 19. 18, footmen.

19 And when all the kings that were servants to Hadarezer saw that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them. So the Syrians feared to help the children of Ammon any more.

CHAP. XI.

cir. 1035.

AND it came to pass, that * after the year was expired, at the time when kings go forth to battle, that [a] David sent Joab and his servants with him, and all Israel; and they destroyed the children of Ammon, and besieged Rabbah: but David tarried still at Jerusalem.

* Heb. at the return of the year: 1 Kings 20. 22, 26. 2 Chro. 36.10.

a 1 Chro.20.1.

2 ¶ And it came to pass in an eveningtide, that David arose from off his bed, [b] and walked upon the roof of the king's house: And from the roof he saw a woman washing herself, and the woman was very beautiful to look upon.

b Deut. 22. 8.

Before Christ cir. 1035.

3 And David sent and inquired after the woman: and one said, Is not this † Bath-sheba the daughter of ‡ Eliam, the wife [c] of Uriah the Hittite?

† Or, Bathshua, 1 Chro. 3. 5.
‡ Or, Ammiel.
c Chap. 23 39.

4 And David sent messengers, and took her; and she came in unto him, and [d] he lay with her, (§ for she was [e] purified from her uncleanness) and she returned unto her house.

d Psa. 51, title.
§ Or, and when she had purified herself, &c. she returned.
e Lev. 15. 19. and 18. 19.

5 And the woman conceived, and sent and told David, and said, I am with child.

6 ¶ And David sent to Joab, saying, Send me Uriah the Hittite. And Joab sent Uriah to David.

7 And when Uriah was come unto him, David demanded of him ‖ how Joab did, and how the people did, and how the war prospered.

‖ Heb. of the peace of, &c.

8 And David said to Uriah, Go down to thy house, and wash thy feet. And Uriah departed out of the king's house, and there * followed him a mess of meat from the king.

* Heb. went out after him.

9 But Uriah slept at the door of the king's house, with all the servants of his lord, and went not down to his house.

10 And when they had told David, saying, Uriah went not down unto his house, David said unto Uriah, Camest thou not from thy journey? why then didst thou not go down unto thine house?

11 And Uriah said unto David, The ark, and Israel, and Judah abide in tents, and [i] my

i 1 Chap. 20. 6.

so they may be encouraged to complete the victory; which all will surely do, who, trusting in God alone, put forth all their own strength, and then humbly leave it to God to do that which seemeth him good.

V. 14. Joab returned to Jerusalem—Not lifted up with the first success, and led to pursue when he was not attacked. He returned to his prince to obey his future commands.

V. 15, 16. The Syrians, thinking themselves disgraced by their defeat, now prepare to vindicate their military character, by entering themselves into a war with Israel.

V. 17. David—Now goes in person, with all the fighting men he had, against this powerful enemy.

V. 18, 19. All that had opposed the king of Israel either submitted themselves to him, or were too much afraid of his power to appear openly against him for the present.

CHAP. XI.

V. 1. When kings go forth—In the spring.

V. 2. Off his bed—This seems to be the first time any notice is taken of David's allowing himself this indulgence. Satan betrayed Saul into another way of beginning to live to himself; the tempter in all, addressing himself to that disposition of mind, which to him appears the most likely to lead the person tempted to sin; and is not the time any person spends in idly looking about them, the very season of temptation? God's command being to redeem the time, he that will do the contrary must not wonder if he finds himself betrayed into crimes, which shall one day cover him with shame. The end of all things is approaching with every breath; and of what hour is it to be said—This is so much time in which I have nothing to do with any of the duties which belong immediately to God, and to him through my fellow-creatures, or myself? Which are the moments between the commencement of our reason and our death, of which God, or our own conscience, says, This is time in which I am not required to be sober, or to watch unto prayer. Grains of time may be the means of securing or increasing the blessedness of eternity; and could grains of time be purchased with as many globes of gold, were they but spent in doing the will of God on earth as it is done in heaven, how soon and how greatly would the purchaser be the gainer? And who shall estimate his loss who should part with time for gold, or all that earth and sense have to offer? Had David now been conscious how swift the moments were carrying up their report to God, of the use to which they were applied by all to whom he lends them to prepare to meet him, his bed would only have felt his weight when the feeble powers of the human frame called for restoring sleep; the roof of his house would only have been trod, when sleep was with-held for purposes still more kind—Communion with God; or, under the awful solemnity of the night, in silent adoration, beholding the wonders of his skill who formed the stars, and, in all their complicated courses, preserves them from the least confusion.

Before Christ cir. 1035. my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord are encamped in the open fields; shall I then go into mine house, to eat, and to drink, and to lie with my wife? as thou livest, and as thy soul liveth, I will not do this thing.

12 And David said to Uriah, Tarry here to day also, and to morrow I will let thee depart. So Uriah abode in Jerusalem that day and the morrow.

13 And when David had called him, he did eat and drink before him, and he made him drunk: and at even he went out to lie on his bed with the servants of his lord, but went not down to his house.

14 ¶ And it came to pass in the morning, that David wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hand of Uriah.

15 And he wrote in the letter, saying, Set ye Uriah in the forefront of the † hottest battle, and retire ye ‡ from him, that he may be smitten, and die.

† Heb. strong.
‡ Heb. from after him.

16 And it came to pass when Joab observed the city, that he assigned Uriah unto a place where he knew that valiant men were.

17 And the men of the city went out, and fought with Joab: and there fell some of the people of the servants of David, and Uriah the Hittite died also.

18 ¶ Then Joab sent, and told David all the things concerning the war:

19 And charged the messenger, saying, When thou hast made an end of telling the matters of the war unto the king,

20 And if so be that the king's wrath arise, and he say unto thee, Wherefore approached ye so nigh unto the city when ye did fight? knew ye not that they would shoot from the wall?

21 Who smote [g] Abimelech the son of Jerubbesheth? did not a woman cast a piece of a millstone upon him from the wall that he died in Thebez? why went ye nigh the wall? then say thou, Thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

Before Christ cir. 1035.

g Judg. 9. 53.

22 ¶ So the messenger went, and came and shewed David all that Joab had sent him for.

23 And the messenger said unto David, Surely the men prevailed against us, and came out unto us into the field, and we were upon them even unto the entering of the gate.

24 And the shooters shot from off the wall upon thy servants, and some of the king's servants be dead, and thy servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.

25 Then David said unto the messenger, Thus shalt thou say unto Joab, Let not this thing § displease thee: for the sword devoureth ‖ one as well as another: make thy battle more strong against the city, and overthrow it; and encourage thou him.

§ Heb. be evil in thine eyes.
‖ Heb. so and such.

26 ¶ And when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she mourned for her husband.

27 And when the mourning was past, David sent, and fetched her to his house, and she became his wife, and bare him a son: but the thing that David had done, * displeased the Lord.

* Heb. was evil in the eyes of.

CHAP. XII.

1034. AND the Lord sent Nathan unto David: and [a] he came unto him, and [b] said unto him, There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor.

a Psa. 51. title.
b See Chap. 14. 5. &c. 1 Kings 20. 35---41.

2 The

V. 16. Joab assigned Uriah a place—That he might lose his life. When men possessed of power give way to wickedness, the accursed powers of darkness enjoy a momentary triumph in the sight of that pure and holy Being, against whom they have offended beyond all reconciliation. In every wilful sin, the ordinary sinner takes satan's side against the LORD Almighty; but when human greatness and wickedness meet in the same person, the sinner rules at satan's will, and as a viceroy spreads his damning influence by examples of adultery, drunkenness, treachery, and murder, or whatever else shall please or suit him best.

V. 25. The sword devoureth one as well as another—Do not distress thyself for the death of Uriah, it could not be prevented by any care of thine; God is the disposer of life and death, and when he pleases to give commission to the sword, or any other means to destroy, death makes no distinction. Thus did David attribute the execution of his design to an act of providence.

V. 27. Displeased the Lord—Offended the Divine Majesty; and, to shew how much God was offended, he has caused the world to become witnesses of the wickedness of the man he had chosen, and had so highly favoured; and to this publication of David's guilt, God added great and severe punishment, that none might ever presume to think, that they could continue in sin and remain in his favour; but that whoever sinned wilfully might know that, by doing so, they forfeited that which was better than life.

CHAP. XII.

V. 1. The Lord sent Nathan—To set David's conduct in such a view before him, as should be the means of convicting him of the evil he had been guilty of; and thus is the nature of God's gracious dealings with men made manifest: He does not will the death of a sinner, but that he should turn from his evil in thought and deed, that he may live. God, who only knows the greatness of his wrath against the finally impenitent, in mercy leaves no means untried, no grace unoffered, to bring the rebellious souls of men back to himself, that they may not fall short of that blessedness for which he brought them into life, and died to obtain for them. David is now to be made, to all mankind, an eminent witness of the great benefits to men, of that covenant which was sealed with the blood of the Son of God; then by promise, and now by the actual sacrifice of JESUS, for the sins of the world; and which foundation standeth sure to all who will accept the grace to come to,

Before Christ 1034.

2 The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds:

3 But the poor man had nothing save one little ew-lamb, which he had bought and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his * Heb. morsel. own * meat, and drank of his own cup, and and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter.

4 And there came a traveller unto the rich man, and he spared to take of his own flock, and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him, but took the poor man's lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him.

5 And David's anger was greatly kindled against the man, and he said to Nathan, As the Lord liveth, the man that hath done this † Or, is worthy to die. thing, † shall surely die.

6 And he shall restore the lamb [c] four-fold, c Exod. 22. 1. because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

7 ¶ And Nathan said to David, Thou art the man. Thus saith the Lord God of Israel, d 1 Sam. 16. 13. I [d] anointed thee king over Israel, and I delivered thee out of the hand of Saul:

8 And I gave thee thy master's house, and thy master's wives into thy bosom, and gave thee the house of Israel and of Judah; and Before Christ 1034. if that had been too little, I would moreover have given unto thee such and such things.

9 Wherefore hast thou despised the commandment of the Lord, to do evil in his sight? thou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon.

10 Now therefore the sword shall never depart from thine house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife.

11 Thus saith the Lord, Behold, I will raise up evil against thee out of thine own house, and I will [e] take thy wives before thine e Deut. 28. 30. Chap. 16. 22. eyes, and give them unto thy neighbour, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of this sun.

12 For thou didst it secretly: [i] but I will i Chap. 16. 22. do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun.

13 [g] And David said unto Nathan, [h] I have g See 1 Sam. 15. 24. sinned against the Lord. And Nathan said h Psal. 32. 5. and 51. 4. unto David, The Lord also hath put away thy sin; thou shalt not die.

14 Howbeit,

to, remain dependant on, or return to God through the Son of his love. All flesh—all men, by the fall of man, became guilty in the sight of God, sinful in themselves, and exposed to all the misery due to all their different ways and degrees of wickedness: What then so honourable to God, as to provide a way by which all might return to him, and escape the wrath revealed from heaven against all unrighteousness in men? And what other plea can human wisdom put into the sinner's mouth, to urge to a pure, holy, and just Almighty Being, as the reason for any of the crimes being forgiven which David had now been guilty of? Any one of these crimes, or any other sin whatever, committed in the sight of God, the life of the criminal is forfeited; and what has the sinner from himself to offer, to atone for an offence against a Law-giver, infinite in justice? With the sin, the life of the sinner is no longer his own, was he willing from that moment to devote himself to live, for the future, by the laws of God. A subject convicted of treason, what would avail his protestations of due regard to the laws for the rest of his life, to prevent the execution of his sentence. God, and God alone, has discovered a way by which he can at once shew mercy to the sinner, and at the same time express his infinite abhorrence of sin. God so loved the human kind, that he gave his Equal Son, who was with himself from all eternity, to take upon him the person of a man, and in that person to make an atonement to the justice of God, that every sinner might have a Mediator able to save to the uttermost—to save from the sentence due to the most complicated guilt. By this atonement once made for all men by the Son of God, it is become possible for any child of man to return unto him, and find mercy; and through HIM, and for His sake alone, is pardon, grace, present and eternal salvation, offered to all. From Himself the Father sent the Son, the Son, with equal love, undertook to suffer in the sinner's stead; and GOD, thus moved from himself, sends HIS SPIRIT to convince, convert, and save all who will receive him. (John i. 12.) And thus sent, the prophet comes to convince the king of his sin, and of God's displeasure.

V. 2—4. The prophet, by what has already appeared, was in great credit with the king; and though David was now dead in sin, yet his respect to the prophet, and his regard to the duties of his station, as first magistrate, made him receive with attention the parable of the prophet.

V. 5, 6. David, regardless of his own guilt in the sight of God, appears to see nothing yet of the application which the parable had to himself; but, being led by the prophet's natural and animated relation of another's wrong, his mind unbiassed by any suspicion that he himself stood in the place of the person accused, the still small voice of the Spirit of truth could be heard within his breast; conscience again caught its sacred flame, and he felt the abhorrence of a just mind of selfishness and wickedness; but his own heart not being yet right with God, passion mixes with the flame which grace had quickened, the carnal mind gets the ascendency, and he dooms the man to death, who, against justice, had but taken the life of the lamb.

V. 7—12. David's heart now open to conviction, the prophet of God, without fearing the displeasure of the king, does the will of him that sent him; and as the parable shews how much he was without passion, and under the guidance of the Spirit of wisdom, his accusing David of his crime to his face, shews also how much he possessed, from the same Spirit, of that courage which does not fear those who only can kill the body, and after that have nothing more that they can do. After declaring his crime, the prophet pronounces the sentence of God against David, who had already answered for himself, and was condemned out of his own mouth.

Before Christ 1034.

14 Howbeit, becauſe by this deed thou haſt given great occaſion to the enemies of the Lord [i] to blaſpheme, the child alſo that is born unto thee, ſhall ſurely die.

i Iſai. 52. 5. Ezek. 36. 20, 23. Rom. 2. 24.

15 ¶ And Nathan departed unto his houſe: and the Lord ſtruck the child that Uriah's wife bare unto David, and it was very ſick.

16 David therefore beſought God for the child, and David ‡ faſted, and went in, and [k] lay all night upon the earth.

‡ Heb. faſted a faſt. k Chap. 13. 31.

17 And the elders of his houſe aroſe, and went to him, to raiſe him up from the earth: but he would not, neither did he eat bread with them.

18 And it came to paſs on the ſeventh day, that the child died: and the ſervants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead: for they ſaid, Behold, while the child was yet alive, we ſpake unto him, and he would not hearken unto our voice: how will he then § vex himſelf, if we tell him that the child is dead?

Before Christ 1034.

§ Heb. do hurt.

19 But when David ſaw that his ſervants whiſpered, David perceived that the child was dead: therefore David ſaid unto his ſervants, Is the child dead? And they ſaid, He is dead.

20 Then David aroſe from the earth, and waſhed, and anointed himſelf, and changed his apparel, and came into the houſe of the Lord, and worſhipped: then he came to his own houſe, and when he required, they ſet bread before him, and he did eat.

21 Then ſaid his ſervants unto him, What thing is this that thou haſt done? thou didſt faſt and weep for the child while it was alive, but when the child was dead, thou didſt riſe and eat bread.

22 And he ſaid, While the child was yet alive, I faſted and wept: [m] for I ſaid, Who can m See Iſai. 38. 1. Jonah 3. 9.

V. 13. I have ſinned—The king ſunk ſelf-condemned. I have ſinned againſt the LORD—That gave me life, that took me out of my mother's womb, that raiſed me up and made me great, and beſtowed all my bleſſings upon me. I have ſinned againſt thee, my Lord and Saviour, who muſt feel, in thy own perſon, the wrath of God for my every crime.—"Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving-kindneſs: according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my tranſgreſſions. Waſh me throughly from mine iniquity, and cleanſe me from my ſin. For I acknowledge my tranſgreſſions: and my ſin is ſet before me. Againſt thee, thee only have I ſinned, and done this evil in thy ſight. Caſt me not away from thy preſence. Reſtore me to the joy of thy ſalvation: and uphold me by thy free Spirit." (Pſ. li.)—But for thy mercy alone, I muſt be conſumed by thy juſt diſpleaſure; and when reſtored by thy loving-kindneſs, by thy grace only can I be upheld and live to thee. God ſeeing that David's heart had embraced his convincing grace, that he ſaw himſelf loſt, and that a cry for mercy was become the language of his ſoul, aſſiſted by his Spirit, infinite compaſſion then gave this proof, among many more, that God's dealings with men are not like the dealings of men with men: ſin confeſſed with heartfelt ſorrow, mercy intreated with unfeigned penitence, and God's love alone, according to his own way of ſaving ſinners, looked to as the ſole grounds of all his hope of pardon and future favour; the ſame prophet, who before had declared, Thou art the man who haſt ſinned, is commiſſioned to ſay, The LORD, whoſe juſtice in condemning thee thou haſt acknowledged, hath put away thy ſin from before his face, and in the great day of accounts thy ſoul ſhall not be condemned to ſecond death, for any thing thou haſt hitherto done. Thou ſhalt not die—According to thine own ſentence, but live; live a monument to mankind of the greatneſs of that mercy which God will beſtow, for the ſake of his Son, on all that aſk, ſeek, look for, hope for, or believe they ſhall receive through him.

V. 14. Howbeit—God muſt be juſtified in the ſight of men on earth, as well as in the ſight of angels and devils in the world of ſpirits. Thy ſincere ſorrow for thy ſin, and the cry of thy ſoul for mercy, is yet but known in heaven, and fully and freely forgiven as thou art for the Redeemer's ſake; and thy life ſpared, that none may hereafter deſpair of mercy from God, who turn unto him by true repentance and faith in a Mediator; yet that none may preſume to ſin after thy example, not ſeeing their danger in that dreadful blaſphemy which thy crimes have been the occaſion of, not only amongſt ſuch as ſin openly, but alſo among thoſe that call themſelves by the name of the LORD, holding his truth in unrighteouſneſs, ſaying by their lives, God is not ſo holy as to be offended at the ſight of ſin in thoſe who, with David, profeſs to be on his ſide; to all therefore that have known, or ſhall ever hear of thy ſin, they ſhall ſee or hear of the puniſhment which, from this moment, ſhall begin to be inflicted, and ſhall never ceaſe to be inflicted till thou ſhalt ceaſe to live among men; that thoſe may be covered with ſhame, who have opened their hearts to the ſpirit of the father of lies, and have blaſphemouſly thought or declared that men may commit ſin, and be at the ſame time the ſervants of God, nay the children of God, and in the way that leadeth unto everlaſting life; and this in oppoſition to the word and dealings with God, which declare to all men, that the wages of ſin is death, and that he that committeth ſin is of the devil. (1 John iii. 8.)

V. 15. Nathan departed—From the king's houſe, and went to his own. The prophet did not ſtay to give David the countenance of his preſence before the Divine diſpleaſure, and David's penitence became known to thoſe that were about him.

V. 16. David beſought God—Whoſe hand appeared in the ſickneſs of the child, that he would ſpare it, hoping that this part of his ſentence might be conditional.

V. 17. David could not be prevailed with to lift himſelf up from the earth, on which he had caſt himſelf in all the anguiſh of an awakened, compaſſionate mind, ſenſible that his ſin had been the cauſe of all the ſufferings, which the little innocent child was now ſo unequally ſtruggling with. How offenſive muſt ſin be in HIS ſight, who, to ſhew his diſpleaſure of it in the parents, permits the puniſhment to include ſuch as have never offended? but this was moſt eminently ſhewn in his laying upon the Son of his love the iniquities of us all.

V. 18. By what paſſes among the ſervants of David, it appears that they did not know that the great cauſe of his grief was, that his ſins againſt God had occaſioned the ſickneſs and ſufferings of his child.

V. 23. He

Before Christ 1034. can tell whether God will be gracious to me, that the child may live?

23 But now he is dead, wherefore ſhould I faſt? can I bring him back again? I ſhall go to him, but [n] he ſhall not return to me.

n Job 7. 8, 9, 10.

1033. 24 ¶ And David comforted Bath-ſheba his wife, and went in unto her, and lay with her: and [o] ſhe bare a ſon, and [p] he called his name Solomon; and the Lord loved him.

o Matt. 1. 6.
p 1 Chro. 22. 9.

25 And he ſent by the hand of Nathan the prophet; and he called his name ‖ Jedidiah, becauſe of the Lord.

‖ That is, Beloved of the Lord.

26 ¶ And [q] Joab fought againſt [r] Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and took the royal city.

q 1 Chro. 20. 1.
r Deut. 3. 11.

27 And Joab ſent meſſengers to David, and ſaid, I have fought againſt Rabbah, and have taken the city of waters.

28 Now therefore gather the reſt of the people together, and encamp againſt the city, and take it: leſt I take the city, and * it be called after my name.

* Heb. my name be called upon it.

29 And David gathered all the people together, and went to Rabbah, and fought againſt it, and took it. Before Christ 1033.

30 [s] And he took their king's crown from off his head, (the weight whereof was a talent of gold, with the precious ſtones) and it was ſet on David's head: and he brought forth the ſpoil of the city † in great abundance.

s 1 Chro. 20. 2.
† Heb. very great.

31 And he brought forth the people that were therein, and put them under ſaws, and under harrows of iron, and under axes of iron, and made them paſs through the brick-kiln: and thus did he unto all the cities of the children of Ammon. So David and all the people returned unto Jeruſalem.

C H A P. XIII.

AND it came to paſs after this, [a] that Abſalom the ſon of David had a fair ſiſter, whoſe name was Tamar, and Amnon the ſon of David loved her. cir. 1032.
a Chap. 3. 2, 3.

2 And

V. 23. He ſhall not return to me—God hath taken my child to himſelf; and if I would have God reconciled to me, I muſt ſhew my humble, patient, cheerful reſignation to whatever his wiſdom and goodneſs is pleaſed to ſend or ſuffer to befal me. For was I to complain at the diſpoſals of his providence in my heart, it would be no other than to contend with God; and whilſt I was thus oppoſed to his will, I could not be thankfully falling down before him, and adoring him as the God of my ſalvation; which is now my conſolation and all my deſire.

V. 24, 25. The Lord loved him—The Lord made it known to David, that this ſon ſhould not be cut off as their former child had been, but that by him it ſhould be ſhewn, how fully and graciouſly God forgives and bleſſes them that truly turn to him for mercy; and that, as the other child was taken away by an early death, as a puniſhment to his parents, this ſon, born when his father was in a ſtate of reconciliation, God would have it ſhewn that he loved him from his infancy: The prophet goes with a meſſage from the king, to give this ſon a name which ſhould ſignify to all that heard it, that he was beloved of the Lord; thus giving to all parents a further motive for not reſting ſhort of the knowledge of the pardoning love of God, that the children born to them in this ſtate, though equally partakers of the nature of the firſt Adam, and only bleſſed for the ſake of the SECOND, yet, to all the other bleſſings promiſed to believing minds, this of bleſſing their very children was to be included in God's gracious deſigns. Were we only to apply ſhort-ſighted human reaſon to the word of God, and extending our views no farther than this life, we might be ready to charge the Father of mercies with injuſtice, for ſtriking an innocent child with death, on account of crimes committed by its parents; but when faith looks through the Scriptures on this life as a ſtate of preparation for endleſs bleſſedneſs with God, then whatever ſinful parents may ſuffer at the death of a child, we ſhall not think it inconſiſtent with the Divine goodneſs to have taken away one, that had never offended againſt his holy laws, from a world of trouble and danger, to be placed amongſt thoſe bleſſed multitudes, who are the firſt fruits unto God and the Lamb; (Rev. xiv. 4.) neither ſhall we think it unlike the reſt of God's gracious dealings with the children of men, to declare another child—beloved of the Lord from his birth, when, by this, the parents received the ſtrongeſt aſſurance of their being accepted of God through a Mediator, to whom they had fled for mercy. But, in the infant Jedidiah, we are to look for a type of the promiſed Seed and Saviour of men; and, on this account, it is to be conſidered, that Solomon was called by a name expreſſive of the love of God.

V. 26—28. Joab—Having received all his power from David, ſhews his deſire that the king ſhould have all the honour of his ſervants ſucceſs. Reader, from whom have you received all your ſufficiency? You anſwer, from God, the giver of every good and perfect gift. Conſider then this Scripture as not being of private interpretation, but that Joab's example is to be inſtituted; and when you have done the work which he has enabled you to do, your care is even to prevent its being called by your name, that all the glory may be given to God alone.

V. 29—31. If we only conſider David as a man lately eſcaped, by the mercy of God, from the juſtly deſerved puniſhment of death himſelf, this want of compaſſion to others appears inconſiſtent with the character of being what all men are required to be—merciful, as the Father of mercies is merciful. But it is ever to be remembered that the Scriptures are not a mere hiſtory of the conduct of men—They are the revealed will of God, who, by them, is continually informing us what that wrath is, which is revealed from heaven againſt all unrighteouſneſs of men, and which, in the world to come, awaits thoſe that live regardleſs of God, and die without truly crying to him for the mercy offered to men through the Mediator between God and man; and this ſeverity of David's is doubtleſs to be looked upon as one of the many ways by which God declares to men the greatneſs of that indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguiſh, which will take place on every ſoul that doeth evil (Rom. ii. 8. 9.)—That departeth this life in a ſtate of ſpiritual enmity to the nature of God, and oppoſition to his holy will.

C H A P. XIII.

V. 1. The laſt chapter cloſes with an account of the ſevere puniſhments inflicted on the open enemies of the church of God; and with this begins an account of David's ſufferings from the conduct of his children, by which alſo the depraved ſinful nature of the human mind is further diſcovered to us.

Before Christ cir. 1032.

2 And Amnon was so vexed, that he fell sick for his sister Tamar; for she was a virgin: and * Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her.

* Heb. it was marvellous, or, hidden in the eyes of Amnon.

3 But Amnon had a friend, whose name was Jonadab, [b] the son of Shimeah, David's brother: and Jonadab was a very subtil man.

b 1 Sam. 16. 9.

4 And he said unto him, Why art thou, being the king's son, † lean ‡ from day to day? wilt thou not tell me? And Amnon said unto him, I love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister.

† Heb. thin. ‡ Heb. morning by morning.

5 And Jonadab said unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thyself sick: and when thy father cometh to see thee, say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister Tamar come, and give me meat, and dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand.

6 ¶ So Amnon lay down, and made himself sick: and when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand.

7 Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnon's house, and dress him meat.

8 So Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house, (and he was laid down) and she took § flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes.

§ Or, paste.

9 And she took a pan, and poured them out before him, but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, Have out all men from me: and they went out every man from him.

10 And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother.

11 And when she had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me, my sister.

Before Christ cir. 1032.

12 And she answered him, Nay, my brother, do not ‖ force me: for [c] * no such thing ought to be done in Israel; do not thou this folly.

‖ Heb. humble me.
c Lev. 18. 9.
* Heb. it ought not so to be done.

13 And I, whither shall I cause my shame to go? and as for thee, thou shalt be as one of the fools in Israel: now therefore, I pray thee, speak unto the king; for he will not withhold me from thee.

14 Howbeit, he would not hearken unto her voice: but being stronger than she, forced her, and lay with her.

15 ¶ Then Amnon hated her † exceedingly, so that the hatred wherewith he hated her, was greater than the love wherewith he had loved her: and Amnon said unto her, Arise, be gone.

† Heb. with great hatred greatly.

16 And she said unto him, there is no cause; this evil in sending me away, is greater than the other that thou didst unto me: but he would not hearken unto her.

17 Then he called his servant that ministered unto him, and said, Put now this woman out from me, and bolt the door after her.

18 [d] And she had a garment of divers colours upon her: for with such robes were the king's daughters that were virgins, apparelled. Then his servant brought her out, and bolted the door after her.

d Psal. 45. 14.

19 ¶ And Tamar put [e] ashes on her head, and rent her garment of divers colours that was on her, and [i] laid her hand on her head, and went on crying.

e Josh. 7. 6. Job 2. 12.
i Jer. 2. 33.

20 And Absalom her brother said unto her, Hath ‡ Amnon thy brother been with thee? but hold now thy peace, my sister: he is thy brother, § regard not this thing. So Tamar ‡ Heb. Aminon.

§ Heb. set not thine heart.

V. 3. A friend—Friendship is common to wicked men as well as to such as fear God. The friendship which here subsisted produced sin, and then, as its consequence, death to him that followed the wicked advice of his friend. The friendship of this world, with such as live not to God, ever tends to the same end—it worketh death.

V. 4. Why—Shouldst thou suffer thyself to be made so miserable, who, by thy rank, may command any thing thy heart desires. This wicked adviser took the common course of the tempter, who, through the pride of the mind, makes his way to the passions, and by giving the soul high conceits of itself, makes it believe it has a right to whatever it desires. All that tends to exalt man in his own esteem, and that flatters human pride, speaks that language which was spoken to the first parent of mankind, when she was told that, by doing that which God had forbid, they would become as gods. Pride goes before a fall.

V. 7. David, who had been guilty of deceit to hide his own wickedness, was now deceived by his son, and made to forward his wicked designs, by his too hasty compliance with what was requested of him.

V. 16. This evil is greater than the other—This she might truly say, because, though the other was in itself a greater sin, yet this was an act of greater cruelty.

V. 17. He could no longer endure the presence of the person who had been so ill-treated by him.

V. 18. Of divers colours—Of embroidered work.

V. 19. Rent her garment—To signify her grief for some calamity which had befallen her; And laid her hand on her head—In token of grief and shame; And went on crying—To manifest her abhorrency of the fact, and that it was not done by her consent.

V. 20. He is thy brother—Therefore thou must forgive the injury great as it is. She remained desolate—Neglected and forsaken by others, and through shame and dejection of mind giving herself up to solitude and retirement.

V. 21. David

Before Christ cir. 1032.

Tamar remained ‖ desolate in her brother Absalom's house.

‖ Heb. and desolate.

21 ¶ But when king David heard of all these things, he was very wroth.

22 And Absalom spake unto his brother Amnon neither good nor bad: for Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his sister Tamar.

1030.

23 ¶ And it came to pass after two full years, that Absalom [g] had sheep-shearers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim: and Absalom invited all the king's sons.

[g] See Gen. 38. 13. [x] Sam 25. 4, 36.

24 And Absalom came to the king, and said, Behold now, thy servant hath sheep-shearers, let the king, I beseech thee, and his servants, go with thy servant.

25 And the king said to Absalom, Nay, my son, let us not all now go, lest we be chargeable unto thee. And he pressed him: howbeit he would not go, but blessed him.

26 Then said Absalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Amnon go with us. And the king said unto him, Why should he go with thee?

27 But Absalom pressed him, that he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him.

28 ¶ Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I say unto you, Smite Amnon, then kill him, fear not: * have not I commanded you? be courageous, and be † valiant.

* Or, will you not since I have commanded you? † Heb. sons of valour.

29 And the servants of Absalom did unto Amnon, as Absalom had commanded: then all the king's sons arose, and every man ‡ gat him up upon his mule, and fled.

‡ Heb. rode.

30 ¶ And it came to pass while they were in the way, that tidings came to David, saying, Absalom hath slain all the king's sons, and there is not one of them left.

Before Christ 1030.

31 Then the king arose, and [h] tare his garments, and [i] lay on the earth: and all his servants stood by with their clothes rent.

[h] Chap. 1. 11. [i] Chap. 12. 16.

32 And Jonadab the son of Shimeah, David's brother, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the king's sons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the § appointment of Absalom this hath been ‖ determined, from the day that he forced his sister Tamar.

§ Heb. mouth. ‖ Or, settled.

33 Now therefore let not my lord the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the king's sons are dead: for Amnon only is dead.

34 But Absalom fled. And the young man that kept the watch, lift up his eyes, and looked, and behold, there came much people by the way of the hill-side behind him.

35 And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, the king's sons come: * as thy servant said, so it is.

* Heb. according to the word of thy servant.

36 And it came to pass as soon as he had made an end of speaking, that behold, the king's sons came, and lift up their voice and wept: and the king also and all his servants wept † very sore.

† Heb. with a great weeping greatly.

37 ¶ But Absalom fled, [k] and went to Talmai, the son of ‡ Ammihud king of Geshur: and David mourned for his son every day.

[k] Chap. 3. 3. ‡ Or, Ammihur.

1030.

38 So Absalom fled, and went to Geshur, and was there three years.

39 And the soul of king David § longed to go forth unto Absalom: for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

§ Or, was consumed.

CHAP.

V. 21. David was very wroth—With Amnon.

V. 22. Absalom hated Amnon—Though he expressed no dislike, yet he inwardly hated him.

V. 23. After two full years—This circumstance of time is noted, as an aggravation of Absalom's malice, and as an act of his policy; that both Amnon and David might more securely comply with his desires, as being now free from all suspicion of revenge.

V. 24. Go with thy servant—To the feast which was usual upon those occasions.

V. 25. He pressed him—Pretending great desire of his presence, to prevent any jealousies, which otherwise he thought would arise in the breast of a king so wise and experienced, and under the expectation of God's dreadful judgments to be inflicted upon his family. David blessed him—Dismissed him with thanks for his kindness, and with his fatherly blessing.

V. 27. He let Amnon go—It is strange that his urgent desire of Amnon's company raised no suspicion in so wise a king; but God would execute his judgments upon David, and bring upon Amnon the just punishment of his crime.

V. 28. With wine—When he least suspects, and will be most unable to prevent the evil. I command you—I, who am the king's son, and, when Amnon is gone, his heir; who therefore shall easily obtain pardon for you, and will liberally reward you. Thus did this person receive the reward of his deeds; and now David's heart had to bleed afresh, and his tears to flow again, for the example he himself had set, in the commission of both the crimes two of his sons had now been guilty of.

V. 30. All the king's sons—By this false report, David, who had formerly rejoiced in the tidings of Uriah's death, would now bewail himself at the report of the death of all his sons.

V. 31. Jonadab—The same who gave Amnon the wicked advice. (v. 5.) By this man's behaviour, the natural baseness of the human mind appears. Jonadab would give wicked counsel to Amnon, or administer consolation to David: They were great men, and to promote what was pleasing to them, he took to be the way to favour.

V. 37. David mourned—Felt and shewed his sorrow every day.

V. 39. David longed—That Absalom should come home to him. By this, as well as by David's sorrow for his deceased son, the affectionate tenderness of his mind appears.

CHAP.

CHAP. XIV.

Before Christ 1027.

NOW Joab the son of Zeruiah perceived that the king's heart was toward Absalom.

2 And Joab sent to Tekoah, and fetcht thence a wise woman, and said unto her, I a Ruth 3. 3. pray thee, feign thyself to be a mourner, [a] and put on now mourning-apparel, and anoint not thyself with oil, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead:

3 And come to the king, and speak on this manner unto him: so Joab put the words in her mouth.

4 ¶ And when the woman of Tekoah spake to the king, she fell on her face to the
* Heb. Save. ground, and did obeisance, and said, * Help, O king.

5 And the king said unto her, What aileth
b See Chap. 12. 1. thee? And she answered, [b] I am indeed a widow woman, and mine husband is dead.

6 And thy handmaid had two sons, and they two strove together in the field, and there
† Heb. no deliverer between them. was † none to part them, but the one smote the other, and slew him.

7 And behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmaid, and they said, Deliver him that smote his brother, that we may kill him, for the life of his brother whom he slew, and we will destroy the heir also: and so they shall quench my coal which is left, and shall not leave to my husband neither name ‡ Heb. upon the face of the earth. nor remainder ‡ upon the earth.

8 And the king said unto the woman, Go to thine house, and I will give charge concerning thee. Before Christ 1027.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said unto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquity be on me, and on my father's house: and the king and his throne be guiltless.

10 And the king said, Whosoever saith ought unto thee, bring him to me, and he shall not touch thee any more.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the Lord thy God, § that thou wouldest not suffer the revengers of blood to destroy any more, lest they destroy my son. And he said, [c] As the Lord liveth, there shall not one hair of thy son fall to the earth.

§ Heb. that the revenger of blood do not multiply to destroy.

c 1 Sam. 14. 45. Acts 27. 34.

12 Then the woman said, Let thine handmaid, I pray thee, speak one word unto my lord the king. And he said, Say on.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God? for the king doth speak this thing, as one which is faulty, in that the king doth not fetch home again his banished.

14 For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again: ‖ neither doth God respect ‖ Or, because God hath not taken away his life, he hath also devised means, &c. any person, yet doth he devise means, that his banished be not expelled from him.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speak of this thing unto my lord the king, it is because

CHAP. XIV.

V. 2. A wise woman—This woman seems to have been of great eminency for her wisdom.

V. 5. A widow woman—One of them who most need thy compassion and assistance, and whom thou art by God's law obliged, in a singular manner, to protect and relieve.

V. 7. Which is left—The poor remainder of my comfort, by whom alone my hopes may be revived and repaired.

V. 8. I will give charge—That thy cause may be justly and truly examined, and thy son preserved from their malicious proceedings.

V. 9. The king be guiltless—If, through thy forgetfulness or neglect of this my cause, my adversaries prevail and destroy my son, my desire is, that God would not lay it to the king's charge, but rather to me and mine, so the king may be exempted: By this she insinuates her great affection for the king, and withal implies, that such an omission of the king's will bring guilt upon him. This seems to agree with David's answer, which shews that she desired some further assurance of the king's care and justice.

V. 10. Not touch thee—So as to hurt or molest thee, by pursuing thy son.

V. 11. Let the king remember—What a gracious protector the helpless have in the LORD thy God—that thou mayest imitate him, by making strict justice yield to mercy, when thereby a guilty son may be restored to a disconsolate parent. There shall not one hair of thy son fall—He shall not suffer the least damage.

V. 12. The woman said—Having obliged the king by his oath in her supposed case, she now throws off the veil, and begins to apply this parable to the king's own case.

V. 13. Wherefore—If thou wouldst not permit the avengers of blood to molest me, or to destroy my son, who are but two persons, how unreasonable is it that thou shouldst proceed in thy endeavours to avenge Amnon's blood upon Absalom, whose death would be highly injurious and grievous to the whole commonwealth of Israel, all whose eyes are upon him as the heir of the crown, and a wise, valiant, and amiable person, unhappy only in this one act of killing Amnon, which was done upon an high provocation, and thou thyself didst give the occasion, by permitting Amnon to go unpunished?

V. 14. We must needs die—Therefore be not implacable towards Absalom, but restore him to us before he die in a strange land. Ought we not to keep this short sentence—We must needs die, as a constant memorial before us? First, to quicken our diligence in preparing to meet God, and then, when by the knowledge of the pardoning love of God, the sting of death is taken away, (Rom. xv. 56.) to increase our zeal in living our few remaining days, or hours, to his glory who made and died for us. Neither doth God respect any person—And he would not have spared Absalom thus long, because he is thy son, had there not been some cause, worthy of God, in thus allowing him to live; and as God has spared him, surely it is not his will that thou shouldst either keep him in banishment, or put him to death. Yet doth he devise means—As God has shewn his merciful designs towards thy son, yet his providence makes use of means to accomplish his gracious purposes, that those that are now far from him may not be expelled—driven away beyond all possibility of return; but that they may be restored to their promised inheritance.

V. 15. The

Before Christ 1027.

cause the people have made me afraid; and thy handmaid said, I will now speak unto the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.

16 For the king will hear, to deliver his handmaid out of the hand of the man that would destroy me and my son together out of the inheritance of God:

17 Then thine handmaid said, The word of my lord the king shall now be * comfortable: [d] for as an angel of God, so is my lord the king † to discern good and bad: therefore the Lord thy God will be with thee.

* Heb. for rest.
d Verse 20. Chap. 19. 27.
† Heb. to hear.

18 Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak.

19 Then the king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid:

Before Christ 1027.

20 To fetch about this form of speech hath thy servant Joab done this thing: and my lord is wise, [e] according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

e Verse 17. Chap. 19. 27.

21 ¶ And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have done this thing: go therefore, bring the young man Absalom again.

22 And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, and ‡ thanked the king: and Joab said, To day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of § his servant.

‡ Heb. blessed.
§ Or, thy.

23 So Joab arose [i] and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem.

i Chap. 13. 37.

24 And

V. 15. The people have made me afraid—I was even forced to this bold address to thee, by the disposition of thy people, who are discontented at Absalom's banishment, and think he is very hardly used, and may think of taking up arms for him; or, lest he, who is thy heir and successor, should, by his intercourse with heathens, be insnared with their errors, or alienated from the true religion, and from God's worship, from which he is now excluded.

V. 16. The king will hear—For I know the king is so wise and just, that I assure myself of audience and acceptation. Which expectation of hers insinuated here, that the king might conceive himself obliged to answer it, and not to disappoint her hope, nor to forfeit that good opinion which his subjects now had of him.

V. 17. As an angel of God—In wisdom, and justice, and goodness. To discern good and bad—She intimates her confidence in the justice of her cause, and thereby confirms the king in his purpose and promise to grant her request, and withal arms the king against the suggestions of them who should advise him to a rigorous execution of God's law against Absalom, and be ready to censure him for restoring Absalom, and this for want of that angelical wisdom which the king had, who wisely considered many things far above their reach. Therefore—Because thou art so merciful to those, who in strict justice deserve punishment, God will own and stand by thee, and shew thee mercy. The Scriptures being the word of God, it is surely to be inquired in every part of them—What is there in this that is worthy of God, to have caused it to be recorded, that it might be read to the end of the world? David, the king and parent of guilty Absalom, is himself inclined to shew him mercy: As soon as he made this known, a mediator and an advocate is found, that mercy might be shewn, and yet no countenance or encouragement be given to injustice or wickedness. The consequence proves the benefits to the guilty, arising from the king's desire of shewing mercy, and the means by which that merciful design was carried into execution by the mediation which was made. Whosoever hateth his brother is, with Absalom, a murderer (1 John iii. 5.) in the sight of God. He, that hath failed in one point of God's holy will in his whole conduct, is guilty, (James ii. 10.) and hath forfeited his life to God's justice. He who, by the grace of God, is convinced and brought into a serious regard of this, will see himself as much an outcast from the kingdom of God as Absalom was from the commonwealth of Israel; and seeing this, and considering the benefits he received, by means of this design of mercy and consequent mediation, with what delight will the self-condemned sinner turn from the resemblance to the blessed reality, and look up to heaven, where all have an advocate with the Father, in the person of Jesus Christ the righteous. (1 John ii. 1.)

V. 19—20. The king judged none but Joab, the next to himself in power and greatness, capable of forming this design of restoring Absalom. And none but Jesus, the Father's equal Son, could propose the means of reconciling God and Man, who, by his fall, had, with Absalom, lost the privileges of his high relation and forfeited his life.

V. 21. The king said, I have done this thing—I have determined that the design of mercy which thou didst observe in me, and which thou hast discovered means of bringing about, shall take place, my guilty son shall find mercy. And thou who hast, without any request of mine, made thyself his mediator, shall now by me be made the messenger of our united desire to shew him mercy. Go—Find him where he is, far gone from us, and make known to him unlooked-for mercy and favour. He will know thy power with me to obtain his pardon, and when he trusts himself with thee, he will be assured that my faithfulness and thine are pledged to him, and to the whole kingdom, for his safety. Bring him again—That he may be restored to all that he has lost by his crime.

V. 22. Joab fell to the ground—Unable by words to express his reverence and grateful joy at the assurance the king had given him of his acceptance of his proposal, and in making him the messenger of their united design.

V. 23. Joab arose—From the humble posture in which he had cast himself at the king's feet. And went—He who commanded all the armies of Israel, became the messenger to bring back a criminal and an outcast. What is it that God hath not done to make known to men that mystery which angels desired to look into, but were not able to comprehend for greatness and goodness in God the Father, and God the Son, to guilty man? The first of the human race, who was made in the image of God, lost his glorious and eternal inheritance by wilful disobedience, and, like Absalom, forfeited his life; and all men being descended from one thus fallen, they, with their parents, lost all power of returning to God; the very nature and principles of the soul of man became polluted and rebellious, and every man may see his own

Before Christ 1027.

24 And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and let him not see my face. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the king's face.

‖ Heb. And as Absalom there was not a beautiful man in all Israel to praise greatly 25 ¶ ‖ But in all Israel there was none to be so much praised as Absalom, for his beauty: from the sole of his foot, even to the crown of his head, there was no blemish in him.

26 And when he polled his head (for it was at every year's end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels after the king's weight.

§ See Chap. iii. 2.

27 And § unto Absalom there were born three sons and one daughter, whose name was Tamar: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

28 ¶ So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and saw not the king's face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have sent him to the king, but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come.

Before Christ 1027.

30 Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joab's field is * near mine, and he hath barley there; go and set it on fire: and Absalom's servants set the field on fire.

* Heb. near my place.

31 Then Joab arose and came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire?

32 And Absalom answered Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it had been good for me to have been there still: now therefore let me see the king's face; and if there be any iniquity in me, let him kill me.

33 So Joab came to the king, and told him: and when he had called for Absalom, he came to the king, and bowed himself on his face to the ground before the king: and the king kissed Absalom. 1025.

CHAP.

situation in that of Absalom's; without a mediator, cut off from God's kingdom of grace here, and from his kingdom of glory hereafter: guilty by the holy laws of God, and exposed to the sentence of those laws. In this situation did God the Father discover his desire of shewing mercy to man, as the king of Israel did towards his son; and as Joab proposed the means of bringing about the restoration of Absalom, so did Jesus become the Mediator in behalf of all mankind; God the Father accepted the gracious offer of his Son, and he by whom the world's were made, and to whom all things were subject, undertook our cause; then it was determined that man should find mercy, and mercy had found the means of making an atonement even to infinite justice. But how are our thoughts lost in this great transaction—that from all eternity, as now present, God the Father should see the sufferings of his Son, and the Son live as a sacrifice consciously doomed to death in man's place and stead, to bear all the weight of the Divine justice against the sins of the world? And when the fulness of time came for the Son himself, in our nature, to descend on earth, to give knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins, through the tender mercy of God; (Luke i. 77, 78.) and then by his sufferings and death pay the price of our redemption—and with his own blood, and by his infinite merit, purchase for the whole human kind both pardon of sin, and grace to save from sin. Our hearts may be affected with considering the conduct of the king of Israel and Joab, as they are represented in bringing about Absalom's restoration; but what wonder must fill our minds in contemplating that great and blessed transaction, on which the possibility of our being reconciled to God depends: Wonder might fill the minds of all that beheld, in the court of Israel, Joab's casting himself down at the king's feet, and then, without a word, leaving all his high honours for a season, and going to seek, and to bring back to the mercy and future favour of a king and father, a fugitive whose life was forfeited to the laws. But what wonder must fill all the hosts of heaven at beholding their everlasting Lord bow before the throne of glory, and with humblest adoration, as a servant, silently take leave of the eternal Father, and in a nature lower than the angels, who, from the first of their existence, had been accustomed to honour the Son as they honoured the Father. Whoever places himself in the condition of a criminal, who has forfeited all right to future glory by offences against the holy laws of God, and considers that One has become his Mediator and Redeemer, who ever was and is the brightness of his Father's glory, and the express image of his person, and that by Him he is now placed in a condition of being restored to all that Adam lost, and which his own offences have forfeited; how great will the crime then appear of paying any thing less than entire love to the Lord Jesus Christ, who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us from evil, and become the author of eternal salvation to all them that obey him. (Gal. i. 3, 4. Heb. i. 3. and v. 9.)

V. 24. Absalom was not admitted into the immediate presence of the king his father, on his being first brought back by Joab; but being placed in a condition to recover all he had lost, he was sent to his own house, as to the place of trial for the king's future favour. And thus it is with all that arrive to an age to exercise those powers which God has given to be used to his glory, in whatever situation God hath appointed them by his providence, which determines every man's lot in life, and to which all are sent, like Absalom to his house, to a state of trial for God's everlasting favour, through and for the alone sake of their Redeemer.

V. 25—28. Nothing blameable is related of Absalom in this period; but neither the personal excellencies for which he was esteemed, nor his regular life, procured him admittance to the king's presence. And thus it is with all men; no natural advantages, or the most regular and blameless life, is the procuring cause of sinful men being admitted into the favour of God.

V. 29. Absalom sent for Joab—Convinced that nothing but the same mediation, by which he was placed in a condition to have the king's pardon made known to him, could procure him the assurance of his forgiveness and acceptance.

V. 30. By this it appears that Absalom—Became desperate, and determined to have the benefit of Joab's mediation with the king.

V. 31. Joab came to Absalom—Though the very manner in which his mediation was sought for was injurious to himself. And thus does Jesus, the Mediator between God and man, come to all who find they cannot obtain the knowledge of the mercy and favour of God by any other means; and this he does in whatever way they ask for that mediation, that none may be able to say, They desired to have his aid, in the way which to them appeared most likely to procure it, but that it was finally refused them.

V. 32. Absalom could not be satisfied with having been brought within the kingdom of his father, if he was to remain ignorant that

CHAP. XV.

Before Christ 1024.

1 AND it came to pass after this, that Absalom [a] prepared him chariots, and horses, and fifty men to run before him.

[a] 1 Kings i. 5.

2 And Absalom rose up early, and stood beside the way of the gate: and it was so, that when any man that had a controversy * came to the king for judgment, then Absalom called unto him, and said, Of what city art thou? And he said, Thy servant is of one of the tribes of Israel.

* Heb. to come.

3 And Absalom said unto him, See, thy matters are good and right, but † there is no man deputed of the king to hear thee.

† Or, none will hear thee from the king downward.

4 Absalom said moreover, Oh that I were made judge in the land, that every man which hath any suit or cause, might come unto me, and I would do him justice.

5 And it was so, that when any man came nigh to him to do him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and took him and kissed him.

6 And on this manner did Absalom to all Israel that came to the king for judgment: so Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel. Before Christ 1024.

7 ¶ And it came to pass after forty years, that Absalom said unto the king, I pray thee let me go and pay my vow, which I have vowed unto the Lord, in Hebron. 1023. [1] Sam. 10. 13.

8 [b] For thy servant vowed a vow [c] while I abode at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the Lord shall bring me again indeed to Jerusalem, then I will serve the Lord. [b] 1 Sam. 16. 2. [c] Chap. 13. 37.

9 And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose and went to Hebron.

10 ¶ But Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, As soon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet, then ye shall say, Absalom reigneth in Hebron.

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were [d] called, and they went in their simplicity, and they knew not any thing. [d] 1 Sam. 9. 13. & 16. 3, 5.

12 And

that he was forgiven and restored to his favour. And when the Holy Spirit convinces the soul of sin, it cannot be satisfied till the same Mediator procures it the knowledge of forgiveness, and restoration to the favour of God. Absalom was willing to venture his life with the king—And he that will save his soul must, in like manner, be willing to lose it, by casting himself down upon the mercy of God through a Mediator. The moment will come when every soul must, with Absalom, venture itself on the compassion of God, or lose the dear-bought benefits intended to all, by the sufferings and death of his Son.

V. 33. Joab shewed the king that Absalom was willing to hazard his life on his mercy. The king could not deny himself, it was his own design to bring back Absalom. Joab was the kind mean by which that design was thus far executed, and the king could not refuse him any thing he required. Joab called Absalom, who bowed himself to the ground—Thus acknowledging the sense he had of the king's goodness in suffering him to see his face; and this he does without attempting to excuse or justify himself. The king kissed Absalom—And by doing so, assured him that he had not in vain applied to Joab, as his mediator, to bring him into his presence; but that now he was pardoned, and accepted into the favour of his father, and into friendship with Joab his mediator. Thus, when sinners see themselves shut out and excluded from God, as Absalom was from David, and also see that none but the Redeemer of men can procure them mercy and grace; and when they will not rest without the aid of their mediator, then JESUS, like Joab, comes to all that confess their entire need of him. And as Joab called Absalom, so does JESUS, who alone can do it, call lost mankind to the knowledge of the mercy and love of God; and as David received his son, when he cast himself upon his goodness, so does God receive, as a gracious king and compassionate father, all that come unto him by Jesus Christ, whom he hath sent: And the change in Absalom's situation, from that of a conscious criminal flying with fear from justice, to that of being pardoned and restored to all the privileges of the king's son, is but a resemblance of that change which those experience, who are enabled to call Jesus their Lord and their God (John xx. 28.) by the Holy Ghost. (1 Cor xii. 3.) Who can say he has no need of mercy from God? And acknowledging that we have, What can be conceived more worthy of God, than that, in the abundance of his goodness, he should devise means that his banished creatures should not be expelled from him for ever. (verse 14.)

And when it is considered what it cost to atone to the Divine justice for the sins of the world, and for every man's offences against God, well may it be said, How shall we escape that wrath which is revealed from heaven, if we neglect so great a salvation? (Heb. ii. 3.)

CHAP. XV.

V. 1—6. By the preparations which Absalom now made, of chariots, horses, and running footmen, his first desire to be great, independant of the king, is discovered: He began to forget that he owed his life to the mercy of the king through the mediation of Joab; and giving way to the pride of his own heart, he addresses himself to the same principle in the minds of the people; and, instead of continuing in a just and humble submission to the government of his father, he assumes a servile carriage to his subjects, that, by the appearance of his great condescension, he might be thought entirely devoted to the interest of the people; and thus he paid his court at once to their pride and their self-love. But though the grace of humility, or of love, as well as every other fruit of the Spirit, has its counterfeits, it would be to err not knowing the Scriptures, were men to be afraid of esteeming others better than themselves, and of shewing it by a courteous carriage, lest they should be suspected of assuming, as Absalom did, virtues which the event proves he did not then possess from the good Spirit of God. (James i. 17.)

